This number, the largest in the history of the industry, was arrived at by Hulda McGinn, manager of the California Theatre Ass'n., following a capitulation of each of the 3,448 bills, a job she and her staff has worked on since her return from Sacramento.

Among the 177 bills, 131 are Assembly measures, and 46 Senate. At least 98 of the 177 are taxation measures, of one form or another, some of

TOCC-ITOA Merger Moves Stir Again

Renewal of discussions of a merger of T. O. C. C. and I. T. O. A. are expected soon after Harry Brandt's return to the city from Florida today, it was learned Saturday.

Preliminary discussions were begun some time ago by Charles L. O'Reilly and Brandt with the object of establishing the merged local organization as a nucleus for a new national exhibitor body. O'Reilly and Brandt were to make extended tours to survey the exhibition field for likely regional affiliates to become a part of the national organization.

Questioned Saturday on the likelihood of new action being taken, O'Reilly intimated there might be but added, "We are interested only in a good sound working organization, not a debating society."

Announcement

Harry E. Nichols of the Quigley organization, at the request of the New Orleans arrangement committee, has set up a bureau in New Orleans to arrange accommodations in private homes for exhibitors who will attend the M. P. T. O. A. convention Feb. 25-28.

Because of the Mardi Gras, hotel and housing facilities in New Orleans will be severely taxed. If Mr. Nichols can help you, wire or write him at 1418 Cleveland Ave., New Orleans, La.

Report Ascap Suit Will Be Speeded Along

Justice Department Said To Have Assured This

Washington, Feb. 10.—That the Department of Justice will make every possible effort to speed prosecution of the monopoly suit filed in Federal court at New York against the American Society of Composers, Authors & Publishers is understood to have been the gist of a report given to Ed Kuykendall, M.P.T.O.A. president, in response to inquiries made here recently as to the status of the government's action.

Kuykendall, while here, sought information of the Attorney General's office as to the likelihood of an early trial of the issues, it is reported, in order to advise his organization's national convention at New Orleans late this month on the progress of the action, which was brought by the government last September. The action bulletin issued Saturday for Campi's action in approving the Los Angeles clearance and zoning schedule, stating it was alone in its insistence for action on pending schedules. The basic principles of clearance and zoning, the bulletin says, again become of immediate importance and will be discussed at the convention and in the committee on trade practices.

The bulletin urges that convention visitors arrange immediately for New Orleans hotel accommodations, as reservations at the Roosevelt, convention headquarters, are nearly exhausted and arrangements are being made to care for the late ones at three nearby hotels. A feature of the annual banquet, Feb. 28, will be the elimination of speeches, with professional entertainment being substituted.

No Date Is Set for Schaines-Roxy Case

No date has been set for the trial of Samuel L. Rothafel (Roxy), who is being sued in the Supreme Court in Brooklyn for $4,700 by Joseph A. Schaines, a lawyer.

Schaines claims the defendant owes him that amount for legal services in his unsuccessful suit to restrain the Roxy Theatre Corp. from using the name "Roxy." The defendant contends that the RKO circuit was obligated by contract to pay the expenses of that litigation.

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

WESTBROOK PEGLER, in his column in the New York World-Telegram the other night, told 'em—meaning newspapers and radio and counsel—where they get off on the Hauptmann trial. What he had to say is one of the strongest defenses of the newsreels that has hit this disorderly desk. Waxing satirical, Pegler highlights are these:

"It is too bad that certain moving picture concerns, animated by sordid commercial motives, had to introduce the single, greedy, undignified note into the ethical symphony . . . at Flemington. . . .

"It is quite discouraging, after the fine example of decorum and altruism provided by the newspapers, the radio companies and counsel in the trial, that members of the moving picture industry alone should refuse to play cricket. . . . However, there is comfort in the fact that the conduct of the other industries and persons involved in the case has been uniformly too fine for exception. . . .

"Confining their accounts strictly to plain, wholesome coverage they (the newspapers) have resolutely refrained from exploiting the case for profit. Under these self-imposed restrictions they have avoided sensational heads and used photographs sparingly. And, greatest credit of all to the profession, they have refused to make extra circulation out of the trial lest this be converted into a talking point by the advertising department and thus a source of disagreeable profit. . . .

"If, at the conclusion of the trial, any newspaper should find that, despite its conscientious efforts, it has come through the period with a lift in circulation and a profit above the normal, the management will feel very unhappy about the extra circulation and will donate the surplus money to a school of ethics for the movie industry."

Here is what the editors of two nationally known dailies think about Flemington, the comment resulting from an inquiry leveled in their direction by MOTION PICTURE DAILY:

Colonel Robert R. McCormick of the Chicago Tribune:

"It is only in exceptional cases that judges have allowed cameras in their courtrooms. I think this attitude is mistaken, but it has the precedents which make it law. Cameras can only obtain a right to the courtroom by the enactment of statutes which, in turn, the judges might find unconstitutional or by the consent of the court for such a length of time as to make it a custom. My own views are that courts should permit pictures to be taken either still or moving pictures if the cameramen comport themselves quietly and do not disturb the proceedings."

Paul R. Kelty, editor of the Oregonian of Portland:

"Judge Trenchard's prohibition against newsreel activity at the Hauptmann trial is a violation of the principle of a free press, just as much as though he had ordered reporters for newspapers and correspondents for news services to cease their activities there. If any newsreel photographer was making himself guilty of improper or unethical activities, he should have been disciplined just as any reporter should be for a similar cause. But a blanket order proscribing all newsreel activity cannot be justified. It is a precedent that ought to be combatted by newspapers as well as by the newsreel people."

The ethics in the incident may be questionable, but no question is there about the enterprise displayed over how the New York Daily News, king of tabloidia, nabbed shots of Hauptmann on the stand. Three of that sheet's ace photographers were ordered to the Embassy. As paying patrons, but minus flashlights or bulbs, they calmly proceeded to snap away as the sequences they were after hit the screen. House attaches at the Embassy caught on, upbraided the marauders and put them out. Not soon enough, however. Enough of their objective had been attained. . . .

For months the tussle raged. Distributors raised their right arms high into the stratosphere and insisted there could be no clearance based on admissions alone; that clearance, politer name now for protection, had to be sold like rentals. Then with nary a warning developed approval of the Los Angeles schedule, pointing up the way for others in those zones where exhibitors have expressed a desire to have them. Why the sudden change of front makes an interesting query. Far more interesting is the satisfaction to be noted in this altered attitude which reduces clearance from its position as one of the industry's most complex problems to something considerably less. Regardless of the reason. Or reasons. . . .

How goes the Mike Meehan-RKO situation these days? It goes like the man and wife living under the same roof, but constantly fighting yet remaining together, despite the difficulties, for the sake of the children. . . .

If you listen to reports and aren't fussy about confirmation, lend ear to this one: That offers have been made to buy Radio as it stands, bankruptcy and all. . . .

The stories, held closely but around anyway, about William Randolph Hearst's new newsreel idea are verra interesting. . . .

The contract issue has been up on two previous occasions when Charles Skouras has been in town. The last meetings were cut short by trips to the coast on reorganization of Fox West Coast. Practically all details are set. Remaining problems are expected to be cleared sometime next week. Charles will leave for Los Angeles as soon as the pact has been signed.

Fox Midland's New Deal Due in April

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 10.—With Fox West Coast out of bankruptcy, the Fox Midland circuit will be reorganized here some time in April or May, Spyros Skouras stated while en route to New York. He was accompanied by his brother, Charles; H. J. Fitzgerald, operating Wisconsin Amusement Enterprises, Inc., and Elmer C. Rhoden, in charge of Fox Midland.

Fitzgerald left for Milwaukee from here while Charles accompanied Spyros east. Rhoden stays here, but may go to New York later.

"Producer calls a supervisor into his office and raises hell because the story department fails to bring in filmable material.

"'Look,' said the producer, 'last night I picked up a book and read 18 pages. It was marvelous, it was terrific.'

"'What was it?' asked the supervisor.

"'The Life of Abraham Lincoln' and is it good,' said the producer.

"'I agree, but wait 'till you reach the part where he dies,' said the supervisor.

"'Don't tell, don't tell,' came the reply."

GENE RAYMOND and LILA LEE played the two leading roles in the Radio Theatre's presentation of "The First Year" over WJZ yesterday afternoon.

ED KUYKENDALL is due in town Wednesday for a Campi meeting and final conferences on that M.P.T.O.A. New Orleans convention.

SIDNEY SAMUELSON and JULIUS CHARNOW leave for Washington and the Allied board of directors meeting tomorrow.

the additional run will be made today.

"The Good Fairy" at the Music Hall garnered around $70,000, which is much better than the last few attractions. "Lives of a Bengal Lancer" tallied $24,000 at the Rialto in its first week at the house after three at the Paramount. "The Secret Bride" at the Roxy last week pulled $32,500 and "Wings in the Dark" at the Paramount wound up with $27,500. Second week of "Bordertown" at the Strand corralled $17,455, while "Clive of India" tallied $23,850 for the third week at the Rivoli. "Romance in Manhattan" was fairly good at the Palace with a take of $9,000.

breach of lease charges brought against RKO by Meyer & Schneider, lessors of the Hollywood and Apollo. The RKO lease specifies that the Apollo's advertising shall be on a par with that of other major RKO houses and that its film rentals shall be approximately the same.

The hearing will be continued tomorrow with David Loew probably being recalled by Max D. them nearly duplicates. Of the 98 taxing measures, 71 originated in the Assembly and 27 in the Senate.

Never has there been a time, in all the history of the industry, it is said here by those close to the situation, when the onslaught on the industry has been so heavy. The legislators didn't forget a thing. Everything that could possibly squeeze pennies from salaries, from production, distribution and exhibition and from purchase of supplies is included.

None of these has yet passed, but the outlook is uncertain.

N. H. Independents Like New Schedule

New Haven independents are understood to be in favor of the revised clearance and zoning schedule for the territory, provided Loew's increases the admission at the College from 30 to 35 cents. The plan comes before Campi Thursday for discussion and possible adoption.

J. B. Fishman of the Dixwell recently brought a complaint against the College for buying exclusive second run protection over all other runs in New Haven. At a meeting before an appeal committee in New York, Fishman declared that the Dixwell was in a different zone from the College, four miles away, and for the past 10 years has enjoyed a day-and-date run. This year, Loew's bought seven days ahead of the Dixwell. The College charges 30 cents and the Dixwell 25 cents.

However, the independents feel that if Loew's would boost the tariff to 35 cents, the extra seven days would not affect the 19 houses involved.

Fox Meet Discusses Chicago Trust Suits

CHICAGO, Feb. 10.—Action under the Sherman anti-trust and Clayton Acts started last week by two local exhibitors against major distributors and circuits was discussed at the Fox district managers' meeting which closed today at the Congress Hotel, it was revealed tonight by John D. Clark, general sales manager.

The plaintiffs, Jack Rubin of Public Theatres and James Roden, owner of the Astor, charged they were being prevented from playing 10-cent duals.

Other subjects discussed were this season's product, exploitation and advertising of coming pictures.

In most instances the board man linked up with one of the contestants votes for the affiliated company, which indicates that the opposition has lost at least one vote before a ballot is taken. This is regarded as unfair and a change is sought whereby parties affiliated with one of the litigants should be excluded from acting as an official member of the board during the hearing. The code at present says this is permissible.

Amendments sought would require houses with 1,500 seats or over and admissions with 50 cents top or over to pay at least $10 per day to principals and at least $50 net per week to specialty artists; theatres under 1,500 seats and under 40 cents top admission would pay $7.50 net per day to principals and $40 net per week to specialty artists. The A.F.A. also wants rehearsal periods limited to two consecutive weeks of employment, with the contract price for talent prevailing after that time, in addition to a guarantee of two weeks' work. Another amendment would specifically bar an employer from insisting upon gratis appearances at benefits. Cost of transportation is insisted upon for players receiving less than $10 per day and also wardrobe. Employers having been found guilty of failing to pay talent would be required to furnish bond for guarantee of future payments, and where Sunday shows are barred six days would constitute a week's work.

Delay Until March 15 Is Granted for Latter

Indications that Fox Theatres Corp. may succeed in establishing its claim to a right to participate in the reorganization of Fox Metropolitan Playhouses as the owner of all of the common stock of the latter were given yesterday following a hearing before Federal Judge Julian W. Mack at which the time for filing the Fox Met reorganization plan was extended to March 15.

Fox Theatres, which filed a claim of approximately $5,000,000 against Fox Met based on its stock interest in the latter, is ignored completely in the plan of reorganization sponsored by the Fox Met bondholders' committee. This plan, completed several months ago but never sent out for creditor approval, asserts that

Sunday Sports Looming As New Competition

BOSTON, Feb. 11.—With the printing of bills filed in the Legislature running far behind, local representatives of the industry continue in the dark as to the details of much proposed legislation, the future of which will have a potent effect. The strengthening of Sunday programs will be a reality if the petition of Hyman Manevitch, House Bill 1202, is passed to permit stage dancing on the Sabbath. Although churches in the state have been allowed to put on exhibition dancing on Sundays, theatrical acts are entirely cut in this respect except in a few instances when the movements can be interpreted as an acrobatic performance.

Gross Decline Forcing Cuts, Says Schenck

Save Through Shortened Schedules, He States

ALBUQUERQUE, Feb. 11.—"Smaller national grosses are teaching producers to economize," said Joseph M. Schenck, president of United Artists, as he passed through here on his way to Hollywood. "The picture that would bring in $3,000,000 in America several years ago," he continued, "today grosses $1,000,000. and if it is really an exceptional picture it may do $1,800,000 top."

Long that the choices must be made here.

Several years ago western editors picked large numbers of stills at the studios and sent them along to the New York offices for selections, but the practice was found wasteful. All studios agreed to have the selections made here. Recently, however, Long has been commuting back and forth to the coast and some studios have been allowing him to make his choice there. Protests developed immediately from other magazines.

Requests for stills to illustrate special articles will still be honored on the coast, it is said.

"Society Doctor" Fair

"Society Doctor" at the Mayfair was fair at $9,100, while "Under Pressure" was average at the Astor with $9,300. "The Winning Ticket," now at the Astor, and "Maybe It's Love" are drawing very small audiences and indications are that both houses will wind up with grosses around $6,000 each.

last session a special sub-committee was appointed to study the treaty. That sub-committee was expected to work during the summer but failed to.

Reports that the committee would hold further hearings on the treaty were today denied. It was pointed out that full hearings were held last spring, and members of the committee feel that they acquired all the information necessary. If the matter is brought up at this session, however, a new decision as to hearings may be made, depending upon whether the sub-committee believes them necessary.

Critics to Feature M. P. Club's Forum

The Motion Picture Club will hold its second weekly Forum tomorrow at 12:30 o'clock. Several of the town's leading dramatic critics will be guests of honor and Harry Hershfield will be the principal speaker.

John W. Alicoate, publisher of The Film Daily will act as chairman and Louis Nizer will introduce:

Among the dramatic critics scheduled to appear are: Bernard Sobel, Bide Dudley, John Mason Brown, Bugs Baer, Robert Coleman, Leo Marsh, Julius Cohen, John Anderson, John Chapman, George Ross, Marsh Barron, Whitney Bolton, Arthur Pollock, Rowland Fields, Edgar Price, Percy Hammond, Robert Garland, Gilbert Gabriel, Kelcey Allen and Martin Weyrauch, managing editor of the Brooklyn Eagle.

Joseph P. Kennedy, SEC chairman; Clarence Dillon of Dillon, Read & Co. and Richard Whitney, head of the Stock Exchange, who, it was announced last week, would be among tomorrow's speakers, will not be able to attend.

More Awards Prospects

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 11.—Winners for the Academy technical awards will be chosen from the following:

Art direction—"Affairs of Cellini."
Cinematography—"Affairs of Cellini," "Cleopatra," "Operator Thirteen."
Film editing—"Cleopatra," "Eskimo," "One Night of Love."
Recording—"Affairs of Cellini," "Cleopatra," "Flirtation Walk," "Gay Divorcee," "Imitation of Life," "One Night of Love," "Viva Villa," "White Parade."

Nat Saland Returns

Nat Saland of Mercury Laboratory returned from the coast yesterday by plane and may go back again later in the week to attend the code hearing on the C. C. Burr-Larry Darmour dispute over the services of Ken Maynard. Campi last Thursday appointed a production committee to hear the case and John C. Flinn is now on the coast arranging the session. Saland has an interest in the Burr contract.

"Pimpernel" Held Over

"The Scarlet Pimpernel" will be held over a second week at the Radio City Music Hall and will be followed by Columbia's "The Whole Town's Talking" and "The Little Colonel." This will bring the bookings for the house up to the end of the first week in March and "Roberta" is tentatively set for then.

cents until 12:30. In the past, there has been a 25-cent tariff from opening right through until 6 o'clock.

With the Alvin revision, the Harris interests have likewise cut their scale in East Liberty at the Family. This is the first slash in the East Liberty sector and presages a war in that district as hot as the downtown battle. At the Family, 10 cents has been chopped from all tickets, making a 15-cent balcony and 25-cent downstairs scale in the afternoon and 25 cents for all seats at night.

Since both the Penn and Fulton reduced their prices a week ago, this leaves only the Warner, among the five downtown first runs with its old scale intact. That is 25 cents from opening until six, and 40 cents thereafter for double features.

New Olympia Setup Advanced by Order

few weeks as a result of the signing of an order yesterday by Federal Judge Alfred C. Coxe approving a plan for expediting the reorganization through purchase of Olympia stock not held by Paramount in order to avert possible opposition to the plan from owners of the stock.

The Olympia reorganization will make no provision for stockholders on the ground that the company is insolvent. For this reason opposition to the plan which, it was feared, might delay reorganization a year or more, was anticipated. The proposal approved by Judge Coxe averts this by permitting Paramount to acquire the outstanding stock for $50,000 and allowing a stockholders' committee claim of approximately $1,500,000 against Paramount Publix for breach of a stock purchasing agreement.

Judgment Denied in Suit Against Roxy

A motion for a summary judgment for $4,700 against S. L. (Roxy) Rothafel was denied yesterday by Justice James T. Hallinan in state supreme court at Brooklyn.

Roxy is being sued by Joseph A. Schaines, a lawyer who alleges the amount sought is due him as fees for services in the suit to restrain the Roxy Theatre Corp. from using the name "Roxy." Justice Hallinan directed that the judgment case should proceed to trial. Sam Spring is counsel for Roxy, who contends that RKO is liable for Schaines' fees.

Schenck said, is that second and third runs are playing the product too soon after the first runs and at too low admissions. Where the distribution income from first runs used to be 40 per cent of the total national gross, now it is only 20 per cent, he explained.

The companies are finding a solution to this problem in judiciously cutting production costs, Schenck continued, but not, however, in stars' salaries, as this cannot be touched because the supply of expert talent is inadequate and because of the competition for their services. "Producers are learning to save on the time element and instead of needing eight weeks we are now shooting a picture in six, and in reducing the normal six to four there is a substantial saving in stars' compensation and in the other factors that constitute a production budget," the United Artists head said.

Schenck also said that because the general public has the idea that pictures made in the spring and not released until fall are old, 20th Century will complete this year's production in March and the studio will close during April and May, resuming for next year's schedule in June.

Dennis O'Brien, United Artists attorney, is travelling with Schenck.

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 11.—Accompany-Joseph M. Schenck and Dennis F. O'Brien west, is Nathan Burkan. Jointly, the three will discuss the impending deal with the Music Hall whereby that theatre will play United Artists output first run in New York City. The stumbling block has been disposal of the Rivoli which U. A. is seeking to have the Music Hall annex.

Samuel Goldwyn, part owner in U. A., will get details first hand from Schenck.

Fox Asks Details of Douglas Invention

mount and Walt Disney demanding damages for alleged infringement of Douglas' patents for the making of colored pictures.

Attorneys for both sides have stipulated extensions for the answering of this action. Douglas will file an answer not later than the middle of March. He will object to some questions, and others he may answer, according to his attorneys.

Following are some of the principal queries propounded by Leonard S. Lyon, Alfred Sutro and Alfred Wright, attorneys for Fox:

Upon what date did Leon F. Douglas conceive the alleged invention? On what date and by whom was the drawing, or drawings, made?

Are said drawings still in existence? If so, produce and file them, or a photostatic copy of same. When, where and to whom was alleged invention first disclosed by Douglas? How, when, and where was invention first reduced to practice?

Have you ever constructed a camera embodying the alleged invention? Were any such cameras or devices ever used? Where, when and by whom?

Please state if any films made by the plaintiff were ever publicly shown. If so, state (a) title of picture (b) name of person or persons making same, (c) date and place when and where shown and by whom shown.

State the complete process employed, also, when, where and by whom. Please state the title or titles of at least one motion picture film which the plaintiff asserts was made, used or sold by the defendant, employing the process.

In the original answer Fox denied nearly all the allegations of Douglas and contended that the process for making colored pictures was common knowledge among movie technicians.

Fox Chain's Chances With Met Brighten

stockholders have no equity in Fox Met which, it is claimed, is insolvent.

The time last allotted by the court for filing of a plan of reorganization expired yesterday. The extension to March 15 was granted on the plea that counsel for the Fox Met bondholders' committee was still engaged in conferences with Milton Weisman, receiver of Fox Theatres, presumably on the latter's demands for participation in the Fox Met reorganization. Indications are that changes may be made in the existing plan, or a new one drafted with Weisman participating, which would make some provisions for the Fox Theatres' claim.

Barrymore in Baltimore

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 11.—Chandler Sprague is understood to have been named executive assistant to Ernst Lubitsch.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"All the King's Horses"

(Paramount)

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 11.—Another brilliant unit in the recent Paramount success parade, this sparkling concoction of mirth and melody is top-notch entertainment in any competition. Lavishly mounted and dressed, the production reveals a surprisingly accomplished Carl Brisson and a positive new box-office personality in Mary Ellis. Solo singing of both brought frequent bursts of applause from a preview audience.

The yarn, located in a mythical kingdom, has Brisson in the dual role of an American movie star on a vacation. He sits in for the real king and, while so doing, sets fire to Queen Ellis' heart while his royal other self is taking lessons in real life under the expert tutelage of Edward Everett Horton and Katherine DeMille.

Miss Ellis, full of intriguing fire and life, makes an impressive and promising screen debut. Brisson's songs, "Be Careful, Young Lady," "Play a Little" and "Dancing the Viennese," are tunefully popular rhythms. Miss Ellis' "White Gardenia" is marvellously sung. Leroy Prinz's dance spectacle featuring Brisson and Rosita in a duet and a boy and girl chorus is a gem of charm and grace.

Frank Tuttle's and Frederick Stephani's script combining the plays by Lawrence Clark and Max Giersberg and Frederick Herendeen and Edward Horan accentuates comedy and romance, plus refined lure. Tuttle's direction intelligently blends the players' talents with the good story and production material.

With definite appeal in all values for both sophisticates and masses together with music for dance lovers, the picture appears earmarked for heavy grosses. The entire cast, particularly Horton, Eugene Pallette, Miss DeMille, Rosita, Arnold Korff and Mariana Schubert, contributes class performances.

which Shirley Temple first appeared, are two of the principals in the Independent Producing and Distributing Corp., a new company which first will produce series of eight Nick Carter features for the state right market.

With Sam Wiesenthal, one time assistant to Carl Laemmle, Jr., as secretary and treasurer, the new company will concentrate production activity in Hollywood, according to Hayes who is in New York in connection with the new enterprise. A second series of eight features but dealing with different subject matter is in the offing as are acquisition of short subjects and perhaps an occasional British picture for domestic distribution, according to Hayes. He said the idea was to develop an affiliated exchange system nationally, similar to the Monogram plan.

Street and Smith, publisher of the Nick Carter books, now about 2,000 in number, will cooperate in exploitation beginning with the initial release, set for June 1 by Hayes. Nick Carter Clubs of which, he added, there are 473 throughout the United States, will be tied in as well.

A. J. Herman Promoted

BOSTON, Feb. 11.—A. J. Herman, for the past three years branch manager of the local Universal exchange, has been appointed district manager supervising the local, New Haven and Albany offices. He succeeds the late James F. Dermody, who died last week. Herman will make his headquarters here.

William P. Kelly, for the past 12 years a salesman in the local office, will succeed Herman.

Loew to Be Called For More Testimony charges filed against RKO as a result of film playing policies at the Hollywood and Apollo.

Loew, who has already spent three full days on the stand in the course of the hearings, probably will be questioned further on details of the September agreement by which Loew's made available Fox, Columbia and Universal product to RKO when the latter faced a film shortage for the new season in the metropolitan area. M. & S. contends that this product was not played at the Apollo and Hollywood on the same basis as in other RKO metropolitan houses and resulted in a breach of the leases.

Bernard Fleischnick, M. & S. attorney and stockholder, who testified on Saturday, will follow Loew on the stand for cross examination by Bruce Bromley, RKO counsel.

Fox Men Return as Chicago Meet Ends

CHICAGO, Feb. 11.—Fox's two-day district managers' meeting at the Congress Hotel here closed today, with current sales problems the primary topic of discussion. John Balaban of B. & K. briefly addressed the 25 district branch managers and executives present.

of State if House Bill 1133, advocated by John J. Quigley, is passed.

Bills to abolish pari-mutuel horse and dog racing, which was passed by popular referendum at the last elections, are included in the bills regarded as theatre competition. James Ross, through House Bill 411, would legalize Sunday bowling, while Joseph F. Cleary, through House Bill 457, would do the same for hockey. House Bills 1411 and 1413, sponsored by William A. Brown and by Frank B. Coughlin and Joseph H. Downey, are also concerned with Sunday sports and games. William E. Kirkpatrick, through House Bill 1412, would legalize basketball during certain hours on Sunday.

Although there are at least four applications for running horse tracks and 14 for dog tracks filed under provisions of the pari-mutuel laws passed by referendum at the last election, it is likely that theatremen will have to contend with competition from one horse and four or five dog rendezvous.

Gen. Charles H. Cole, chairman of the State Racing Commission, intimated as much while speaking before the New England Horsemen's Ass'n. at the Hotel Statler. The hearing last week on a local dog racing application stirred bitter opposition.

Midwest Circuits' Merger Completed

Kansas City, and the rest are scattered.

A new circuit, to be known as Commonwealth Amusement Corp., has been formed to take over operations of the two units. L. M. Miller is president; C. A. Schultz, president of the Commonwealth group, becomes vice-president of the new organization and O. K. Mason, president of Central States, is secretary-treasurer.

Under a planned expansion program, theatres are to be added from time to time. The first is a house under construction in Columbia, Mo., to be acquired when completed.

Formation of the company marks Miller's active re-entry into the theatre field. Starting in the business in Lincoln, Neb., 30 years ago, he later acquired theatres in Wichita and other Kansas cities which he sold to Fox West Coast in 1929. His associates at that time were E. C. Rhoden, now Fox Midwest division manager, and Stanley N. Chambers, now manager of the Fox Uptown, Kansas City. Since selling out to West Coast, Miller has been inactive, though he retained an interest in Mason's Central States theatres.

Offices of Commonwealth Theatres in Kansas City are to be turned over to the new corporation. The circuit recently disposed of its Mokan here to W. D. Fulton.

Seven Decisions on Bank Nights Upheld

Campi has affirmed decisions by local boards in seven bank night appeals. The local grievance boards in each instance held the practice a violation of the code.

The cases are: Appleton, Appleton, Wis., agains the Embassy, Neenah, Wis.; Bay, Green Bay, Wis., against the Orpheum, same city; Appleton, Appleton, Wis., against the Brin, Menasha, Wis.; Capitol, West Allis, Wis., agains the Allis, same city; Granada and Juneau, Milwaukee, against the Riveria, same city; Strand, Oshkosh, Wis., against Rex, same city; Bay, Green Bay, Wis., against the Strand, same city.

Campi January Cost Reached to $23,475

Total operating expense for Campi and its various agencies during January was $23,475.85, of which $9,342.61 was checked off against the home office, $3,054.93 for Hollywood and $11,078.31 for local boards.

Receipts from exhibitor sources last month amounted to $14,419; from distributors and producers, $11,350. Cash on hand is $43,006.25.

No Hearings on Tap

No appeal hearings are on the Campi calendar this week. The regular Code Authority session will be held Thursday and Tyree Dillard, Jr., will substitute for John C. Flinn, who is now on the coast.

Marion Talley to Coast

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 11.—Marion Talley, former Metropolitan Opera star, has left here for Hollywood to appear in a picture for Warners.

Purely Personal

ADELE VOGEL, sister of JOE VOGEL, who has been with the Loew circuit only 26 years, but who now feels reasonably certain his important theatre operating job there is safe, marries Thursday evening at her brother's apartment somewhere on Central Park West. MISS VOGEL is one of the few, perhaps the only, woman broker in Wall Street and, not so incidentally, the apple of Joe's eye. The groom is MAX LIEBOWITZ, a lawyer. Friday night when the Lafayette pulls out on a southern cruise, the couple will be among the honeymooners.

BUD GRAY, Columbia's radio editor, was visited by his sister at the home office yesterday. She brought her dog along and when GRAY took the animal, which stood about three feet high, on a tour of the office he went where the dog wanted to and had to like it.

Quip of the Day

Walter Reade has indefinitely pastponed his trip to Miami, ar, as he says it, until business at the Mayfair and Astor perks up.

Which caused a lacal wag ta remark:

"Next winter, maybe."

LOIS MORAN is now MRS. COLONEL CLARENCE M. YOUNG. They married in Baltimore Sunday. YOUNG was assistant secretary of commerce handling aeronautics under Presidents HOOVER and ROOSEVELT.

S. BARRET MCCORMICK is expected back from the coast today or tomorrow. It all depends on the flying conditions. NED DEPINET will probably arrive over the week-end, according to present plans.

RAY GOETZ is back from Nassau, but he intends to head back that way as soon as he can. He even plans to build a house there and is trying to get some of his friends to do likewise.

HAZEL FLYNN, of the Music Hall staff, is recovering nicely from an appendicitis operation last week. She is at the Roosevelt Hospital.

BOOTH TARKINGTON'S "Alice Adams" has been bought by Radio. KATHARINE HEPBURN will be starred in the picture version.

JULES LEVY completes a nightly journey when he returns from Washington this morning.

M. H. HOFFMAN, JR., leaves for the coast within the next few days.

FRANK WALTON, editor of Outlook, WILLIAM A. BRADY, HEYWOOD BROUN, and NOBLE SISSLE were Cheese Club speakers yesterday. WALTON talked on conservatism, BRADY reminded about the stage, BROUN discussed the Newspaper Guild and SISSLE the diminishing racial resistance for the colored artist, which he attributed to the radio.

NORMAN H. MORAY, Vitaphone sales manager, left yesterday for a tour of all the Warner branches in this country and Canada. It's an annual jaunt before setting in the new season's lineup.

SOPHIE PRIZEP, SI SEADLER'S secretary, had a birthday yesterday. TOM GEREFY has one tomorrow and BILL O'BRIEN on Friday.

BOB VIGNOLA, whose record as a director stands on its own, is in town from the coast looking over plays. At the N. Y. Athletic Club.

Attend N. H. Opening

NEW HAVEN, Feb. 11.—J. R. Vogel of Loew's attended the opening of the Chapel Street entrance to the College Theatre with Harry Shaw, New England manager; Erle Wright, advertising manager, and Ben Cohen, local manager. The opening was preceded by a two-band parade, and the tape was cut by the winners of the old-timers' contest, who attended the opening performance of the then Hyperion in 1880.

Another for Warners

Warner's gradual penetration into the stage field in New York will go a step further with decision to finance, partially at least, "Ceiling Zero," an aviation play by Frank Weald. Brock Pemberton will produce.

The Warners are financially behind "Fly Away Home" and "Three Men on a Horse." The latter is in the hit category.

O'Heron Leaves Radio

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 11. — Frank O'Heron, recently elevated to associate producer at Radio, resigned today because of ill health. He plans a long rest.

Flinn at Coast Meeting

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 11.—John C. Flinn will preside at a zoning board meeting tomorrow to clarify certain interpretations of the local clearance schedule adopted by Campi.

Abe Kramer to Sail

CLEVELAND, Feb. 11.—Abe Kramer, official of Associated Theatres, and Mrs. Kramer sail Wednesday on the Conti di Savaia for a six weeks' Mediterranean cruise.

Radio Warned About Using Film Records

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—All broadcasting stations have been warned by the radio Code Authority that the use of Paramount and Columbia transcription programs will be considered a violation of code provisions relating to rate cutting and free time.

The Paramount program is called "Paramount Pictures' Electrical Transcriptions," while the Columbia program is called "Hollywood News Flashes." It was stated by Columbia, according to Code Authority officials, that the program was designed for sponsorship by theatres, but requests for further information proved fruitless.

M-G-M Signs Ruben For Single Picture

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 11.—J. Walter Ruben, director, has been signed by M-G-M for one picture. Roy Del Ruth has been loaned by the same company from 20th Century for one film. Richard Thorpe also has been added to the directors' roster. Robert Light has been loaned from Warners for a role in "Reckless."

Ursula Parrott's story, "Love Goes Past," has been purchased from Art Cinema Corp. Charles Lederer and Melvin Levy, writers, have been signed. Betty Buck and Allan Jones, players, have been signed, and Robert Katscher, composer, has also been put on the payroll.

Cleveland Club Elects

CLEVELAND, Feb. 11.—The local Variety Club, over the week-end, elected Nat Holt president; I. J. Schmertz, first vice-president; Harry E. Long, second vice-president; M. B. Horwitz, secretary and Nat L. Lefton treasurer. Frank D. Drew and Jess Fishman were also elected trustees for a three year period and Jack Shulman was appointed trustee for one year.

"Receivership Racket" Stirs Schenck's Ire

Asserts Solvent Houses Are at Disadvantage

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 12.—Joseph M. Schenck, president of United Artists, arrived here today from the east vigorously denouncing what he termed "the receivership racket."

In Schenck's party were Dennis F. O'Brien, vice-president and general counsel for United Artists, and Nathan Burkan, attorney and a company director.

Schenck spoke about the hundreds of theatres throughout the nation that are in receivership. Because of their special legal advantages, he asserted, they are "able to compete with solvent theatres on an unfair basis."

"Theatres which are solvent have to battle like the dickens to keep from

Brandt in Deal for Audubon; Report Wm. Fox After Circuit

Harry Brandt has closed deals for the Audubon and Tuxedo, the former having been operated by George Skouras until about two weeks ago, and the latter independently operated.

In closing with Milton C. Weisman, receiver for Fox Theatres for the Audubon, Brandt yesterday was reported acting for William Fox, who, it was said, was negotiating for the purchase of the Brandt circuit. William Brandt and Fox are close friends, the association dating back many years when Fox was head of the film and theatre companies bearing his name. The Audubon will be reopened in two weeks.

Fox has been reported interested in the Audubon. Harry Brandt could not be reached for a statement yesterday.

Conferences on the pending 10-year joint operating contract Spyros and Charles Skouras are negotiating with National Theatres Corp. were started yesterday in S. R. Kent's office with Leo Spitz sitting in as attorney for Skouras brothers.

Talks are centering around terms and conditions, and, except for affixing signatures, are expected to wind up tomorrow when Kent leaves for a vacation in Florida.

Attending the sessions in addition to Kent, Spitz and the Skourases are Peter Sinclair, of Lybrand, Ross Bros. and Montgomery, accountants for Chase National. Julian Hagen of Mudge, Stern, Williams and Tucker, attorneys for Chase, and Herman Place, vice-president of Chase.

An informal session was held Monday at the University Club with all principals present.

Warners Give New Power to Zone Managers

No Decentralization Is Involved—Bernhard

Warners will keep its entire circuit and theatre personnel intact and, although district managers will be granted wider operating authority in the future, no decentralization policy is under way, Joseph M. Bernhard, general manager, told the company's quarterly meeting of zone managers in session here yesterday.

The possibility that several additional theatre acquisitions might be made was also advanced at the meeting, according to a company statement which cited this prospect for the company as being directly "contrary to any thought of divesting itself of property."

The statement apparently comes in reply to reports, current for some time past, that Warner attorneys and circuit executives were studying means by which a number of the company's

Mrs. Pearl S. Brown Dies; Was Long Ill

Mrs. Pearl Sayler Brown, wife of Colvin W. Brown, vice-president and general manager of the Quigley Publishing Co., died yesterday morning after an illness of many months but which had been serious only for a few weeks.

Mrs. Brown was born in McHenry, Ill., the daughter of D. E. and Mrs. Sayler and moved to Elgin with her parents while she was in her 'teens. She came to New York in 1912 where she married Brown in 1923, since which time they have lived in this city and at their country place, Mulberry Ledge, Stamford, Conn.

Mrs. Brown is survived by her mother, who lives in Elgin, Ill., and four sisters.

Private services will be held at the Stephen Merritt Chapel this morning at 11 o'clock. Burial will be in Elgin on Thursday.

Dempsey, Ampa Guest

Jack Dempsey will head the list of talent at the Ampa luncheon tomorrow at the M. P. Club. Others expected are Guy Roberts, Johnny Green, Victor Moore, Roy Atwell, Basil Rathbone, Lee Brody and Edmund Gwenn. Monroe Greenthal will preside in the absence of William Ferguson.

"Ruggles of Red Gap" will be previewed at the M. P. Club on Sunday night. "The Whole Town's Talking" will be screened on Feb. 24.

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

THE kind of two-fisted hemen who flourish in Texas and the Southwest is about to descend on the town. About the impending invasion from the open spaces there is a yarn to be told. It revolves around not the theory but the practice of circuit operation in that wind-swept region and the general dissatisfaction which is several distributors' over what—say they—this is doing to them. It's keeping them and a proper break apart and that means money. They don't like it, as who would? . . .

Fitting into the situation have been the closed town and the town where circuits are so strong and competition so weak that the battle is over before it even starts. Or so maintain the distributors who blame men like Sol Gordon and Joe Clemmons of the East Texas circuit, Robb and Rowley and the Griffith Bros. for attempting and very nearly dominating the territory in which they maneuver. If you want to be all-inclusive about it, you might throw in Karl Hoblitzelle of Interstate as well. . . .

The current eddies of excitement appear to swing around the impending arrival of the cohorts for the purpose of seeking franchises—long-term ones, mind you—from this and that distributor for the purpose of jobbing up the product that keeps the theatres going and, by such obvious tactics, make it increasingly tough for whatever competition there may be to combat. This is as good a time to inform these various gentlemen that their job of signing franchises will be no pushover, for distributors, or certainly several of them, are aware of the opposition which has sprung up in approximately 27 towns where competition meant little before. . . .

You may never have heard of the Inca Amusement Company. Let's tell you about it. This enterprise, young but lusty, has as its principal factors Claude Ezell, one time general sales manager for Warners; Bill Underwood, independent exchangeman in Dallas and partner for some time with Ezell; A. W. Lilley and Ruben Frels. The latter are theatremen, while Frels is the chap whose gumption has made it necessary for Gordon, Clemmons and their attorneys to visit New York more often than otherwise necessary to defend themselves on overbuying under the code. Other moves are reported under way, their results to be determined, of course. What appears to be reasonably certain at this time, however, is that distributors won't be burnt even if some of the circuits are. . . .

Dear Senior Laemmle:

Your Universal has a great and invaluable goodwill with the exhibitor. Your Jimmy Grainger has gone places, plenty of them, on sales this season. No need for us to tell what your own books show.

Your exhibitor well-wishers and your customers know about wrangling at the studio because the trade papers have told them so. This suggests to them that family squabbles, as is their wont, are apt to be swell in point of excitement but not so forty in point of making pictures.

No guesswork here. We've been told so and that's why we are telling you. We know you can take it. We hope you'll do something about it and, if you don't mind, remind you of what a man you regard highly has said on frequent occasions.

He is Nick Schenck who told practically all there was to tell about this business when he remarked many months ago:

"There is nothing in this business which good pictures cannot cure."

Many have been the stories bombarding Times Square about Warners and their theatre operations. Some of them have been discouraging. Indicating that their knowledge had reached West 44th Street where the Warner hatracks rest, came a three-paragraph statement from Joe Bernhard yesterday, his reason for talking tying in with a zone managers' session now two days old. Italicized by this column's own brand of whimsy, the uunderscored text is the significant text. Here goes:

"Joseph Bernhard, general manager, emphasized that this (transfer of certain duties from the home office to the field) does not imply a decentralizing policy in any respect as all the theatres and field personnel will remain intact, and contrary to any thought of divesting itself of property, several new acquisitions were mentioned."

Catch? . . .

Headaches, parcelled out equally, reach RKO and M. and S. today when the morning mail will deposit on their desks statements of arbitration charges rolling up in the Hollywood-Apollo theatre lease case. The statistics: Arbitrators, three. Rate for each: $30 per hour. Number of hearing days: seven. Average length of hearing: six hours. Total: 42 hours at $90 per hour, or $3,780. Add: salaries of court stenographers; rent for quarters in the New York County Lawyers' Ass'n Building. . . .

Scissors and paste columning, courtesy of the theatre notes department of The New York Times:

"Although the asking price for the screen rights of "As Thousands Cheer" was $75,000, an error in wire transmission quoted $25,000 to Rosalie Stewart, who represented M-G-M in the deal. The latter figure was immediately accepted by the film concern. Telegraph company officials admitted the error, according to Max Siegel, Mr. Harris's representative. Furthermore, Mr. Siegel declared, he had a copy of the original wire quoting $75,000. A suit for damages was threatened, but the telegraph company officials pointed out a clause on each blank protecting itself in such contingencies, Mr. Siegel said. The deal, however, was closed for $25,000, with the stipulation that any material not used by M-G-M was to revert to Sam H. Harris." . . .

Goes the legend that it was Compliance Director Sol A. Rosenblatt, in a telephone call starting in Washington and ending in Campi headquarters at Radio City who precipitated prompt adoption of a clearance schedule for the Los Angeles zone based on admissions. He is supposed to have urged, or maybe it was warned, that something had better be done or "there would be hell to pay." A closer scrutiny of that situation brings to light this: That the plan determined has to keep all hands happy. Else it goes into the scrap heap. And why not? What good any agreement unless it is agreeable? . . .

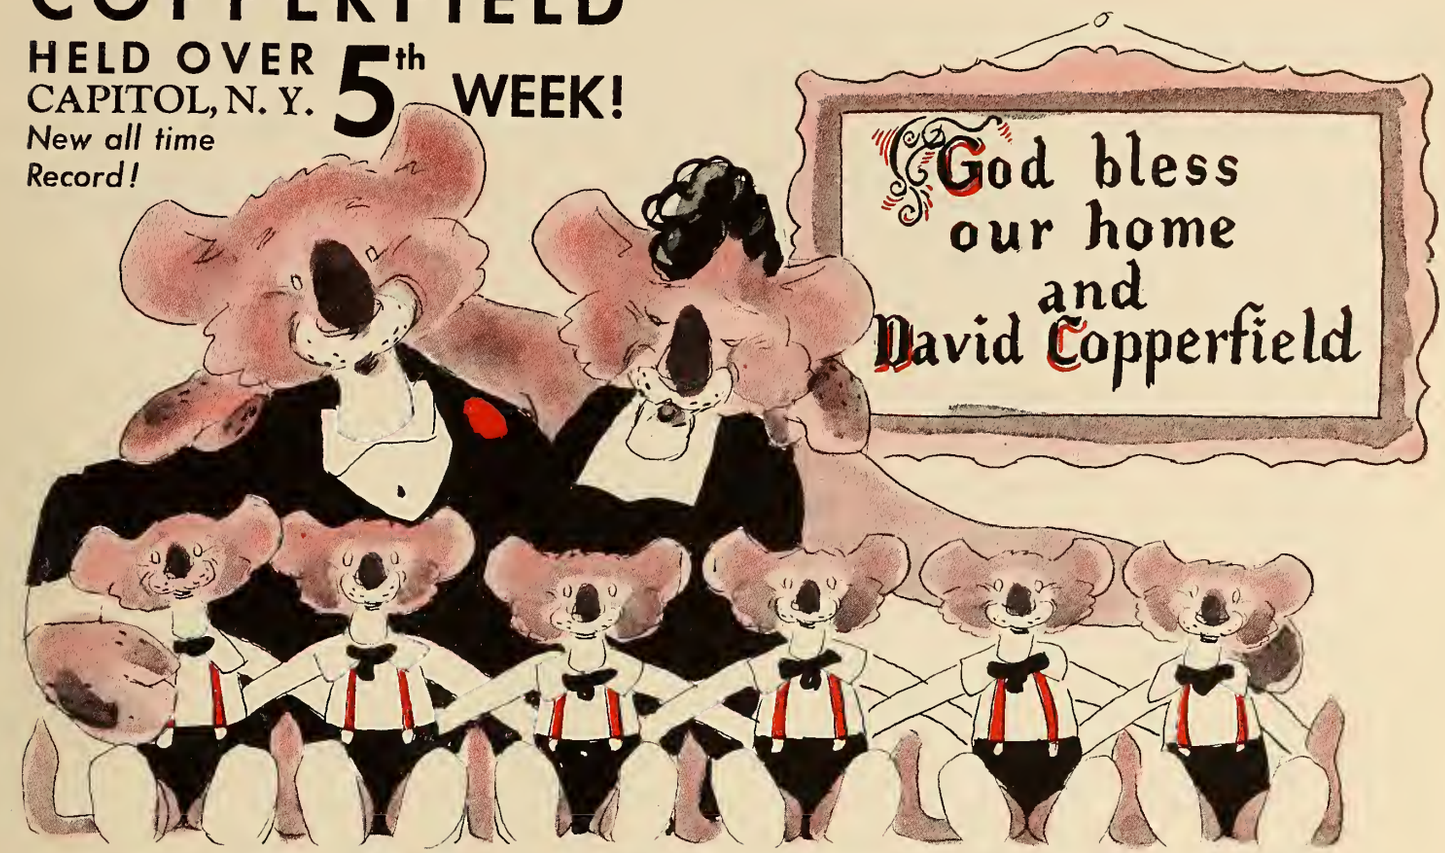
Hollywood on Manny Cohen: It is quite possible that a new First National may be started, with Cohen at the head of production.

New York on the same matter: It is probably Cohen will enter independent production, drop the worries of running a major studio and concentrate on from four to six pictures a year.

Your choice is of your own making. In the meantime, Cohen starts west shortly and will next talk from the Hollywood scene. . . .

Clemente Sets "U" Deal



Frank Z. Clemente, president of Latin Artists' Pictures Corp., is set to close a deal with Universal to produce a Spanish-language film in New York. It is called "Three-Cornered Hat" and will be started shortly at the Biograph studios or the Photocolor studios at Irvington-on-the-Hudson, N. Y.

Code Relief Given 76% of Cases-Nizer

Some measure of relief has been obtained in 76 per cent of grievance cases and 59 per cent of clearance and zoning complaints under the code, according to statistics gathered by Louis Nizer, which have been incorporated in his "New Courts of Industry: Self-Regulation Under the Motion Picture Code," soon to be brought out by the Longacre Press.

Other statistics show that only 20 per cent of grievance board decisions and but 27 per cent of clearance rulings have been appealed despite the right granted exhibitors and distributors under the code to bring appeals to Code Authority. The grievance boards were sustained in 85 per cent of all appeals, while the clearance boards were upheld by Campi 82 per cent of the time.

Nizer found that the most complaints, representing 52 per cent of the total filed, involve the rebate section of the code which prohibits giveaways, gifts and other like practices. Overbuying was complained of in 12 per cent of cases, while 19 per cent of complaints have had to do with premature advertising, four per cent with non-theatrical cases, two per cent with leases, one and one-half per cent with transfers and one per cent with cancellations.

Drop "Caprice Espagnol"

Hollywood, Feb. 12.—"The Devil Is a Woman" has been selected by Paramount as the final title for the new Marlene Dietrich picture. It was known before as "Caprice Espagnol."

To Build in Buffalo

Buffalo, Feb. 12.—Mike Morad and Joe Williams will start work next week on a $125,000 theatre to be called the Franklin. It will be a 1,400 seater and will be equipped for stage productions, although the policy at the start will be straight pictures.

Birmingham's 1934 Take Gains by 25%

Birmingham, Feb. 12.—Theatre receipts are up 25 per cent over last year. During 1934 theatres increased their advertising 18 per cent above 1933, two large downtown houses reopened and one house was remodeled into a specialty shop.

At present, 18 theatres are operating in Birmingham, with a combined seating capacity of 12,600. In addition the City Auditorium, with a seating capacity of 6,500, has been booked almost solidly throughout the year. Birmingham has seven night clubs.

It is not unusual again to stand in line for tickets.

Will List More Credits

Hollywood, Feb. 12.—The Academy beginning next month, will supplement the monthly Screen Writers' Achievement Bulletin with production credits of all unit art directors, first and second cameramen, film editors and sound production and dubbing mixers.

These credits will be listed under each production, as well as being classified alphabetically by each individual's name, to show his professional grouping and current production credits.

To Remodel Balto. House

Baltimore, Feb. 12.—Thomas D. Goldberg, proprietor of the Walbrook and Harford here, will remodel his former theatre property just across from the Walbrook into a modern playhouse with a cooling plant. The seating capacity will be about 450. The property has been used as a garage since the Walbrook was built.

Midwest Handles "Time"

Kansas City, Feb. 12.—Midwest Film Distributors is handling physical distribution of "The March of Time" in Kansas, western Missouri, Iowa and Nebraska. Sales are handled by First Division direct out of New York. First run for the reel in this territory will be at Loew's Midland here.

Wood Made Tax Agent

Columbus, Feb. 12.—P. J. Wood, secretary of the I.T.O. of Ohio, has been made an agent of the Tax Commission of Ohio to help in enforcing the admissions tax.

Californians Map Fight on Pending Laws

San Francisco, Feb. 12.—With Morgan A. Walsh, president, presiding, the Independent Theatre Owners of Northern California met today at the William Taylor Hotel to discuss the mass of menacing legislation before the legislature.

John J. Bryson of Glendale, member of the Will Hays organization, and Hulda McGinn, secretary-manager of the California Theatre Ass'n., who both attended the recent opening session of the legislature, were guest speakers and discussed in detail the 171 bills which will more or less affect the industry. About 100 exhibitors were present.

In summoning the meeting Walsh, in a bulletin, said:

"Do you want an admission tax? Do you want a film-footage tax, which the contract with the distributors provides you must pay? Do you want two operators in the booth under control of the state fire marshal? If the law is passed, you will have to have the two men or you cannot get fire insurance? Do you want censorship? Do you want a state law to tell you that you cannot buy more than one picture at a time? Do you want a 30-hour week, so that no one in your theatre could work longer than 30 hours?"

Some of Bills Pending

Some of the bills now pending are:

Assembly: Corporation tax, income tax, regulating scaffolding and staging, workmen's compensation, tax on bank deposits, labor of females, two-men-in-a-booth, licensing outdoor advertising, unemployment insurance, child labor, use of school houses, sales tax, censorship, employment of women and minors, lineal tax on film negatives, ad valorem tax, tax on gross receipts, tax on film, tax on business enterprises, regulation of theatrical agents, dog races, admission tax, property tax, franchise taxes, five-day week and six-hour day.

Senate: Income tax, sales tax, providing codes of fair trade practice, franchise tax, hours and wages of labor, outdoor advertising, child labor, industrial injury, tax on admissions, amusement tax.

The Assembly has developed the most vigorous opposition to the industry, with the Senate inclined to act as a sort of buffer.

Past experience, however, indicates that the great majority of bills seldom pass the gauntlet of the usual legislative obstacles.

Triple Features on View in Pawtucket

Pawtucket, R. I., Feb. 12.—Triple features have become a reality in Rhode Island. For 60 cents, anyone may sit in the best seat at any time in the Imperial here for three different times any week and see nine top features and innumerable short subjects. This grind house, managed by Jerome Parker Jerome, who opened it a few days ago, operates from 11 to 11 at admission prices culminating with a 20-cent high.

When replying please refer to subject and number mentioned above

REFERENCE FILE NUMBER

In view of the many urgent requests we have received for pre-release dates on "GOLD DIGGERS OF 1935," I agree with you that a general statement of our policy on this production will be helpful to all Warner accounts.

As you say, the original release date of this greatest Gold Diggers of all time must be withdrawn, for obviously a production of this magnitude cannot carry a general release date.

We should, however, entertain propositions for a few pre-release engagements.

Of course these houses will have to be chosen on the basis of proved ability to properly set up a show of this exceptional calibre.

becoming insolvent, but all the receivers have to do when their obligations fall due is issue more receiver's certificates," he said.

"Take our theatre, the Rivoli, on New York's Broadway," he continued. "The rent is $4,500 weekly. With its capacity of 1,900 seats, if it does three capacities a day, which is top, at its admission price, it still can't make as good a showing as the Roxy, with 6,000 seats and a lower admission scale. That's because the Roxy is in receivership and the Rivoli is not. The Roxy's rental probably would be five times the Rivoli's figure, if it paid any rent; but it doesn't have to pay rent because it is in receivership.

"In Tough Spot," He Says

"The solvent theatre today is in a tough spot as compared with those which have taken measures to reduce indebtedness and overhead. Rent is the main expense, and you can't get it reduced save through receivership. Operators don't want to take this step because it would wipe out their equity and only the bondholders would benefit. So they continue paying high rents, and 'take it,' at a time when others, through receivership, have had their rents reduced to half.

"This applies to large companies and circuits as well as individuals because they can't become insolvent in one spot without creditors levying on their assets elsewhere.

"It's a greatly unbalanced situation, but let us hope it will adjust itself."

Schenck also said that while grosses at major theatres have dropped because of unemployment, operating costs have risen, the NRA alone being responsible for "a 25 per cent higher payroll."

Schenck will hold a meeting of the board of directors of United Artists this week, outlining future plans. He will also confer with Darryl Zanuck on next season's production which will begin soon after three productions now in work are completed.

the Dominion government in what is regarded as the peak year of 1930.

The statement just released shows that aggregate receipts of the 924 theatres were $24,954,000, as compared with the 1930 total of $38,480,000. The decline is said to be due to generally lower admission prices as well as decreased attendance.

The report also contains a reference to the revenue from amusement taxes in the respective provinces, the latest total from this source being $2,738,000 for the whole country, as compared with the peak of $3,699,000 in 1930.

Even Maharajah's Wife Knows Film Business, Schenck Finds

Hollywood, Feb. 12.—Joseph M. Schenck, president of United Artists, knows about those sayings that "the motion picture business is everybody's business" and "everyone has two businesses—their own and the motion picture business." But never, he says, was the truth of those statements brought to his attention so impressively as when he had dinner with a maharajah and his wife in Paris last summer.

"She told me that in her home town in India she saw 170 features a year," Schenck related, "and she revealed so much knowledge of the industry I was amazed. I asked her where she got her information, and she told me by reading the fan magazines."

The public's tremendous curiosity about all things cinematic is a healthy sign, Schenck concludes, and it would be a sad day for the industry if it weren't so interested.

"But you can't fool 'em any more," he commented. "They know too much."

Film Officials in Security Listings

Included in the New York Stock Exchange's January listings of stock ownership and transfers are Eastman Kodak Co. and Loew's, Inc.

In the former concern I. L. Hanley, assistant controller, held 140 common shares on Jan. 31.

In Loew's, Arthur M. Loew, vice-president and director, held 2,118 common on Jan. 31. He bought 70 shares on Jan. 2 and 70 on Jan. 3. A notation in the report says "the nature of the beneficial ownership is indirect, being a shareholder in a corporation owning stock of Loew's, Inc." David L. Loew, vice-president and director, held 2,618 common on Jan. 31, following purchases of 70 shares on Jan. 2 and 70 shares on Jan. 3.

Radio Duo to Return

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 12.—M. H. Aylesworth and Ned E. Depinet plan to leave here Thursday by train for New York. They have been at the Radio studios attending production conferences for the past 10 days.

It is reported here that John Hay Whitney, who was scheduled to fly west tomorrow for conferences with Aylesworth, has cancelled his trip and will meet him in New York next week instead.

Jersey House Rebuilt

Plans for the rebuilding of the Bijou Dream, Jersey City, have been completed and work will be started immediately to convert the building into store space on the ground floor and offices above.

The theatre had been in operation for a number of years, but it was darkened with the opening of the Keith next door.

Norton, B. & D., on Talent Search Here

Richard Norton, British and Dominions executive, arrives here today on the Berengaria from London. He plans to remain in the east in search of talent to take back with him for work in London.

Norton is also bringing with him a print of "Brewster's Millions," which co-stars Jack Buchanan and Lili Damita. United Artists will release the picture in America.

Circuits Defer Move On Trailers of FHA

Circuits have deferred action on the petition of the Federal Housing Administration for exhibition of trailers exploiting FHA projects.

A meeting of circuit representatives at M. P. P. D. A. headquarters yesterday voted to make no commitment until the Federal agency had completed its trailers and submitted them for inspection.

Phila. Party Sunday

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 12.—The Variety Club will hold its big show of the season Sunday night at the Penn. A. C. There will be from 20 to 25 acts and from present indications the entire seating capacity of 2,500 will be sold out, according to Earle Sweigert, president.

Speak Follows Cooper

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 12.—John Speak, assistant to Merian C. Cooper, will join Pioneer Pictures, Inc., when the later assumes the position of vice-president in charge of production in the John Hay Whitney company upon the completion of "She" and "The Last Days of Pompeii" for Radio.

Para. Re-Signs Brisson

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 12.—Paramount has re-signed Carl Brisson to a one year contract under which he will make three pictures.

Announcement

Harry E. Nichols of the Quigley organization, at the request of the New Orleans arrangement committee, has set up a bureau in New Orleans to arrange accommodations in private homes for exhibitors who will attend the M. P. T. O. A. convention Feb. 25-28.

Because of the Mardi Gras, hotel and housing facilities in New Orleans will be severely taxed. If Mr. Nichols can help you, wire or write him at 1418 Cleveland Ave., New Orleans, La.

sumably included in the suggestion. A battle is predicted in spite of the fact that the proposal has administration backing. The House is strongly Democratic, but the Senate is still Republican.

The Governor presented his total budget for the general expenses of the state, approximating $400,000,000 for a period of two years, beginning June 1 next. Of this amount, it will be necessary to raise about $203,000,000 from new sources, including the proposed admission tax.

While in most instances the new tax measures would not become effective until June 1, the amusement tax would go into effect immediately following passage of the bill, as the Governor has specified that he desires revenue from this source as well as a proposed increase of two cents on gasoline, and a half cent on each nickel's worth of tobacco to wipe out a deficit of $49,000,000 for the present biennium, which ends June 1.

Wehrenberg Leading Missouri Tax Fight

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 12.—Fred Wehrenberg is trying to marshal members of the M. P. T. O. and all other exhibitors for a public hearing at Jefferson City Thursday on the two per cent sales tax bill now pending.

Wehrenberg and other exhibitor leaders contend that if the present one-half of one per cent sales tax were collected efficiently no increase would be necessary. They will have arrayed against them a large number of school teachers who favor the new bill as well as rural representatives who want their real estate tax burdens lightened.

Century-RKO Case Will Resume Today

Scene two in the hearings on complaint of Century Circuit against RKO takes place at the local clearance and zoning board today when the adjourned session of last week resumes. Leo Abrams of Universal will continue as chairman.

Because Harry Shiffman, independent exhibitor on the board, left on a Bermuda honeymoon last Friday, the adjourned hearing was set on the calendar for today. Completion of testimony and additional evidence by Louis Nizer for RKO and Mitchell Klupt for Century will in all probability take two more days.

The issue revolves around seven days' protection RKO is buying for the Strand and Columbia, Far Rockaway, and Alden, Jamaica, over Century's Fantasy, Rockville Center, RKO, which contends it holds the key to the clearance situation for Kings, Queens and Nassau counties for product over its circuit, has had a three-year pooling deal with several Century houses which afforded the Fantasy day-and-date playing time with the RKO situations in question. The deal was ended by mutual consent a little over a year ago and last season A. H. Schwartz and George Skouras entered into a pact whereby the latter's Lynbrook theatre would lift a seven-day protection over the Rockville Center house.

Century holds that the Far Rockaway and Jamaica theatres are not in competition to the Rockville Center Fantasy.

No Zoning Rulings Tomorrow by Campi interested parties. The plan differs from the one submitted by the coast board in that the original formula based runs on admission prices. Campi, by a vote of seven to three, modified it, stating that admissions determine the availability between downtown first runs and neighborhood first runs; also that prices shall be taken into consideration when clearance between runs in a particular zone is set. Additionally, Campi provided a safeguard on prints. It said no territory must increase the number of prints because of additional availabilities under the plan and that where a number of second runs exceeded the regular allotment of prints, distributors could select the houses which should be given first call.

Sidney Justin of Paramount will be chairman.

Vaudeville Change In Code About Set

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—Decision on the vaudeville amendments to the code and the budget submitted a week ago by Campi may be reached this week by the Recovery Administration. A report on the former was being prepared today by Deputy Administrator William P. Farnsworth for submission to the board and discussions are being held with officials of the administration on the question of the budget.

The report of the deadlocked producer-writer committee was received today by Compliance Director Sol A. Rosenblatt and referred to his advisers.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Roberta"

(Radio)

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 12.—In as fine and entertaining a musical show as has graced the screen in this or any other season, Fred Astaire, Ginger Rogers, Irene Dunne and Randolph Scott scintillate and gayly cavort, ringing the gong with high point box-office entertainment.

Handsomely mounted and expertly directed, this outstanding production attains rhythmic fluidity that takes songs, dances, comedy and plot in its graceful stride.

Translated from the stage, the screen play, in retaining all the personality and flavor of the former, adds the glamour and lustre of the camera's advantages to the latter. The story is of an American jazz band stranded in Paris. While the leader (Astaire) thinks, Scott remembers his Aunt Roberta (Helen Westley) is a famous dressmaker, calls and meets her assistant, Miss Dunne. When Roberta dies, Scott, the former football player, inherits the fashion shop with Miss Dunne. Astaire, at the shop, meets Miss Rogers, a former Pittsburgh flame incognito as a Polish princess. A misunderstanding inspired by Claire Dodd's gown separates Miss Dunne and Scott, but their reunion occurs in a combined fashion show entertainment and cocktail party.

Seldom have personalities attuned their roles for such harmonious effect as here achieved. Miss Dunne acquits herself most favorably in singing and acting. Astaire, who can say more with his feet than most people with their eyes and mouth, stops the show with his dancing and comedy. Miss Rogers, lissome, matches Astaire's agility with easy competence. Together they are what Vernon and Irene Castle were at their tops.

Scott turns in his finest performance, being both poised and confident and earning a new niche away from westerns. Miss Westley is choice. Victor Varconi and Miss Dodd support splendidly.

To William Seiter's direction a statuette, likewise Pandro Berman's production. The photography and sound are excellent, featuring Max Steiner's musical direction.

This entertainment leaves the screen richer and should do likewise for showmen. It's Radio's wow.

Production Code Seal No. 601. Running time, 85 minutes. "G."

"Transient Lady"

(Universal)

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 12.—Localed in a small country town and depicting June Clayworth in a skating act traveling from town to town conflicting with the forceful connivings of a one-man political machine to convict an innocent man of murder, this one measures up as average entertainment and should do best in neighborhood houses.

Henry Hull is an aristocratic southern gentleman who runs the town and endeavors to bring someone to justice for the murder of his brother, Douglas Fowley. Edward Ellis, who committed the murder in self defense is hiding out, letting Clark Williams take the rap, while Williams' girl friend, Frances Drake, works to get the accused free.

Gene Raymond is called in as attorney for the defense, periling his father's (Frederick Burton's) chance for a judgeship in the coming elections. Raymond and Miss Drake fall in love, but their romance is temporarily halted by Miss Clayworth, the childhood sweetheart of Williams and Raymond. The defense wins the case while a planned lynching is halted and Miss Drake and Raymond find happiness.

Edward Buzzell's direction is adequate. Harvey Thew, Arthur Caesar and Buzzell penned an interesting screen play from Octavus Roy Cohen's magazine story. The performances are all good.

Production Code Seal No. 572. Running time, 72 minutes. "G."

Variety Club Chatter

Cincinnati

CINCINNATI, Feb. 12.—Open house for ladies on Wednesday afternoons is becoming more popular.

W. H. TERRY, of the New York Giants, and JOHN T. SKIRBOLL, of Pittsburgh, were among names lamped on the club's register last week.

JOHN A. SCHWALM was in Columbus last week rubbing elbows with the higher uppers around the State Capitol.

MANNY SHURE and JIM GRADY are receiving praise for having promoted the erection of a 16-foot banner in front of the RKO Palace exploiting "Baboona," when a city ordinance is supposed to prohibit such display in the business sector. However, with aid of ABE LIPP, dough guy and attorney, a flaw in the ordinance was discovered, and the sign is there.

Kansas City

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 12.—New officers will be elected Friday, at a special business meeting in the ballroom of the Steuben Club.

After the dishes are cleared away, LEO MCCARTHY and his Fox Midwest "gang" will present "Tid Bits of 1935." Those who remember last year's edition will not want to miss this one. All the Fox theatre lads are pitching to make it a bang-up party.

The women are expected to show the barkers a few new angles, now that they have organized an auxiliary to Tent No. 8. MRS. MAX ROTH, wife of the Columbia district manager, is chairman. Its first affair, a bridge luncheon at the club, attracted 40.

Local officers may participate in the installation of new clubs at Omaha and Des Moines.

Barkers MCCARTHY and "DUTCH" SCHULTZ comprise the committee in quest of new quarters.

The canvassmen will shortly decide the date of the annual banquet, which will be in March or April.

ERNIE MEHL of The Star's sport desk put on a good show in promoting the appearance of "DUTCH" ZWILLING, manager of the Kaycee Blues; JOEY KUEHL and KID NICHOLS at the last meeting. The guests were presented as "the past, present and future of baseball."

Rhoden Turns Down Clearance on Prices

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 12.—At a conference with the I. T. O. today Elmer C. Rhoden of Fox Midwest rejected clearance based on admissions. At the same time he approved a proposal to penalize premiums. He insisted Midwest was entitled to protection over equally priced houses using premiums.

The I. T. O. may continue its efforts to iron out its clearance problems, but chances of agreement are considered slim.

Loew's May Give Up College, New Haven

New Haven, Feb. 12.—Loew's may lease the College to an independent operator, whose name is being kept secret. The interested exhibitor leaves for New York tomorrow to confer with Joe Vogel on a proposition he has in mind. Vogel indicated a willingness to dispose of the house recently when he offered Dr. J. B. Fishman a deal during the Campi hearing on the New Haven clearance and zoning schedule.

Loew's last week opened the Chapel St. entrance to the College when it failed to get together with the landlord on a lease for the old entrance. A new deal is now in work at a rental lower than the previous $11,000, which, if approved, may bring about the closing of the Chapel St. gangway.

Loew Again Witness In M. & S.-RKO Case

Arbitration hearings of the Meyer & Schneider breach of lease charges against RKO were adjourned to Friday after an all day session yesterday at the N. Y. County Lawyers' Ass'n. Bldg. David Loew was on the stand throughout the day for questioning by Max D. Steuer, counsel for M. & S., on a 1933 agreement by which Loew's released certain product to Manhattan Playhouses.

M. & S. charges that RKO breached lease agreements on the Hollywood and Apollo in failing to play at these houses product made available by Loew's in accordance with lease provisions.

Penalized for Crowding

Los Angeles, Feb. 12.—To George Lunberg, assistant manager of Loew's State, goes the dubious honor of drawing the first penalty to be imposed in the local fire department's present drive against overcrowding of theatres. He received a $50 fine and a 30-day suspended sentence, plus a severe lecturing from Municipal Judge Taplin. There is a city ordinance that prohibits standees. A warning has been issued that second offenders will draw stiff jail sentences as well as heavy fines.

E. M. Loew Men Shift

Boston, Feb. 12.—Harry Blackstone has succeeded Edward Myerson as assistant manager at the National, an E. M. Loew subsequent run. Myerson is now assistant at Loew's Hartford.

Lawson Daniels is back as manager of the Olympic, Worcester, following an operation.

Alden Smith, who recently left the Ware at Beverly to handle the E. M. Loew house at Fitchburg, is now manager of Loew's Watertown, a suburban house here.

Plans Baseball Teams

Plans to organize exhibitor-sponsored baseball teams in the spring are being formulated in the local offices of Hal Roach. Backed by the Collegeville Flag & Mfg. Co. and the M-G-M field staff, a national tieup is planned for the spring when the major league ball clubs start training.

An exploitation manual, detailing the promotion of the movement, is now on the press and will be issued shortly.

Purely Personal

John H. Harris, national barker of Variety Club, went into a bit of research the other day and discovered Pittsburgh tent members with February birthdays were:

Louis Rosenfield, Canadian exchange manager for Columbia in New York to look at new product, said to Jack Cohn the other day: "I'd like to go back to Montreal the worst way." "O. K.," replied Jack, "why not through the Canal and back through Vancouver?" Rosenfield is on his way.

Quip of the Day

Contributor says:
"With Lawyer Henry Herzbrun running the Paramount studio in the west, Lawyer Austin Keough running Paramount production detail in the east and Lawyer Ben Kahane head of the RKO studios, we're probably heading for a series of courtroom films."

Melville Cooper, English actor now appearing in "Laburnam Grove," is making arrangements to leave for Hollywood immediately after the play's run. He was recently signed by M-G-M but is no stranger to picture work, having recently been in "The Private Life of Don Juan."

Maury Silverstone, local representative of London Films, is beaming all over these days because "The Scarlet Pimpernel" was held over that second week at the Music Hall and he's collecting.

Kay Brown (Mrs. James Barrett) is the mother of a girl. When not concerned with maternity and attendant problems, she is head of the RKO story department in the east.

S. Barrett McCormick is the first of the Radio crowd to pull in from the coast. He flew in late Monday night and put in a short appearance at his office yesterday.

Rudy Vallee will be host at a cocktail party at the Hollywood Restaurant Monday afternoon. It's in honor of his first Warner picture, "Sweet Music."

Abe Montague and wife leave for Miami today for a three weeks' vacation.

Walter Abel, who was recently signed by Radio and who has been appearing in "Merrily We Roll Along" here, has put off his trip to the coast. He was supposed to leave when the show closed here, but has gone on the road with it instead.

Gloria Debevoise, young society girl who has been posing for commercial photographers, has been signed by Samuel Goldwyn to appear in his next Eddie Cantor picture. She leaves for the coast shortly.

Irene Bentley and Richard C. Hemingway have deserted Hollywood temporarily these days. The reason is simple, since they are the latest screen couple to elope and honeymoon at Lake Arrowhead.

Max Eastman is now in Hollywood to confer with Charlie Chaplin, Dorothy Parker, Mae West, and Donald Ogden Stewart on a book he is planning on American humor.

Helen Broderick is on her way to the coast on the S. S. Virginia. She will report to the Radio studios to work in "Top Hat." Lester Crawford, her husband, is accompanying her.

Anne Barrie has been signed by Vitaphone for a series of shorts to be made at the Brooklyn plant. She starts work on the first early next week.

George White is now in Chicago to supervise the opening of his "Scandals." From Chicago he hops to Detroit and then to Florida.

Stepin Fetchit leaves Hollywood soon on a tour of the south. He'll make personal appearances and brush up on his accent.

Richard Day, designer of settings for 20th Century, will arrive in New York from Hollywood on Friday for a vacation.

Louise Beavers, who appeared in "Imitation of Life," will make personal appearances at the Roxy starting Friday.

A. W. Kelly will not appoint a successor to Walter Gould as Latin American head for U. A. for some time.

William A. Brady leaves for the Fox studios on Feb. 25 to work as special adviser on "Way Down East."

Eddie Golden has a new dictaphone and he now has the pleasure of hearing himself talk for a change.

Helen Chandler, actress, and Bramwell Fletcher, actor, will marry on Valentine's Day.

J. Robert Rubin returns next week from Palm Beach where he is spending a three-week vacation.

Lou Goldberg is doing the "Dealers in Death" pressbook for First Division.

Tim Whelan, director of "The Camels Are Coming" for Gaumont British, left yesterday for the coast. He was accompanied by Miriam Seegar, (Mrs. Whelan). They expect an offspring there.

Ben Bernie will broadcast music from "Stolen Harmony" next Tuesday night and will have on the program George Raft, Grace Bradley, Iris Adrian, Goodes Montgomery, Paul Gerritz and Lloyd Nolan, all members of the picture cast.

Tallulah Bankhead bowed in as Sadie Thompson in "Rain" at the Music Box last night with plenty of the celluloid mighty scattered throughout the first night audience.

Wanda Perry, model under contract to Radio, has gone back to the coast after a month's vacation at her home in Brooklyn.

Sir Cedric Hardwicke will start east Thursday on his way to England. He has just finished work in "Becky Sharpe" for Radio.

Tito Guizar, who was recently signed by Fox, leaves for Hollywood Saturday to start work on "Argentina."

Percy Block and Earle Sweigert were in from Philadelphia yesterday. They are Paramounteers.

"Copperfield" Top 2nd Week In Cleveland

CLEVELAND, Feb. 12.—"David Copperfield" in its second week downtown continued to be the outstanding attraction of the week, doing $11,000 at Loew's Stillman at advanced prices, or $7,000 more than the average gross at regular prices. This was the only picture that held strong in a week of zero weather and heavy snows.

"The County Chairman" held second place with $7,500 in its second week at Warners' Hippodrome as against a $6,000 average gross. "March of Time" drew business to Loew's State where "Here Is My Heart" was only a fair box-office draw.

Total gross was $44,200. Average is $38,000.

Estimated takings for the week ending Feb. 8:

"THE RIGHT TO LIVE" (Warners)

"Copperfield" Is Indianapolis High

INDIANAPOLIS, Feb. 12.—Business hit the skids here last week everywhere except at the Palace where "David Copperfield" in its second week topped par by $500 for a gross of $5,000. General payment of the state gross income tax was given as the reason for the slump.

"Wings in the Dark" was hit hardest at the Indiana where the $4,000 gross was under normal by $3,000.

Total first run business was $20,500. Average is $25,000.

Estimated takings for the week ending Feb. 9:

An Island Problem

Hamilton, Feb. 12.—These Bermudians just can't take their films or leave them, according to a member of the Assembly. He says they are spending more on them than they can afford and something ought to be done about it.

One remedy he suggests is fewer pictures so the islanders will have more time to cultivate onions and Easter lilies.

"Iron Duke" Detroit High With $15,400

DETROIT, Feb. 12.—"The Iron Duke" and "Wings in the Dark" were the money-makers of the week here, the former having a shade the better of the contest with an overage of $1,400 on a $15,400 gross at the Fox. The Paramount feature took $21,300 at the Michigan, above the line by $1,300.

Business was in the doldrums elsewhere.

Total first run business was $59,800. Average is $65,000.

Akron Expects Wage Jump to Help Films

AKRON, Feb. 12.—Theatre men anticipate an increase in business through pay increases averaging five cents an hour which have been granted to approximately 40,000 employes at the Goodyear, Firestone and Goodrich rubber plants. Close to $2,000,000 will thus be distributed during the year, it is estimated.

Salaried office employes at the Goodyear and Goodrich plants, who have been earning incomes comparable to factory workers, received a five per cent raise Feb. 1.

Radin Gets Balto. House

BALTIMORE, Feb. 12.—Matty Radin who operates the Cameo and the Acme in New York, has taken over the Auditorium here. He will show foreign films. The house is opposite the Little Theatre, now showing foreign films.

Price War Is Blow to Takes In Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 12.—The whole town last week was in a state of turmoil due to the price war, with some houses reducing prices by a third and others trying to maintain their old scales. The Penn, first on the bandwagon with a 40-cent scale for pictures and stage shows, reaped the initial harvest, gathering around $24,000 with "Biography of a Bachelor Girl" and the "Casino De Paree" unit. At the same time, the Stanley, in an effort to hold up to 60 cents, hit a new stage-show low, getting only $11,000, or thereabouts, with "The Right to Live" and George Givot and Ina Ray Hutton's girls' band.

At the Alvin, the presence of Ed Lowry, who has always been popular here, kept that theatre from sinking below $8,000, which is fairly presentable in the face of present circumstances. The picture was "The Man Who Reclaimed His Head." The Warner did all right by itself, everything considered, with "West of Pecos" and "By Your Leave," collecting close to $5,000, while the Fulton, in the first week of its reduced scale, showed no marked improvement, doing only $3,250.

Total grosses in five first runs were $51,050. Average is $68,000.

Estimated takings for the week ending Feb. 7:

"MAN WHO RECLAIMED HIS HEAD" (Univ.
ALVIN—(2,000), 25c-40c, 6 days. Stage: Ed Lowry, Bobby Pincus and Helen Grant, Belle Tiffany, Condos and Allen, Bernie Armstrong, Jerry Mayhall's orchestra and Streamline Alvinettes. Gross: $8,000. (Average, $10,000)

"THE NIGHT IS YOUNG" (M-G-M)
FULTON—(1,750), 15c-25c, 6 days. Gross: $3,250. (Average, $4,000)

"BIOGRAPHY OF A BACHELOR GIRL" (M-G-M)
PENN—(3,300), 25c-40c, 6 days. Stage: "Casino De Paree Revue" with Milton Berle, Chilton and Thomas, Cardini, Barbara Jason, Ralph Sanford, Six Rosebuds and Nate Egles Little Gentlemen. Gross: $24,000. (Average, $20,000)

"RIGHT TO LIVE" (Warners)
STANLEY — (3,600), 25c-60c, 6 days. Stage: George Givot, Ina Ray Hutton and Her Melodears, Frazee Sisters and Dorothy Crooker. Gross: $11,000. (Average, $19,000)

"Richest Girl" Up In Oklahoma City

OKLAHOMA CITY, Feb. 12.—"The Richest Girl in the World" made the best comparative showing here last week by pulling $2,600, over normal by $600, at the Capitol.

High money honors went to "The Gilded Lady" at the Midwest where the take of $4,500, topped average by $500.

Stage shows continue to make the first four days of the week at the Liberty its best revenue-producer. "I Am a Thief" on the screen and "Hollywood Scandals" on the stage grabbed $2,500, a full week's average.

Total first run business was $14,000. Average is $13,500.

Estimated takings for the week ending Feb. 9:

"Lancer" Has Big 2nd Week In Washington

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—"The Lives of a Bengal Lancer" smashed through for a par $14,500 in the biggest second week at Loew's Palace in more than a year.

Loew's Fox, playing "Wings in the Dark" with the inaugural release of "The March of Time" as an added attraction and a stage show sans names, added further to the Loew domination of the main stem, taking a big $23,000, or $2,500 over par.

Third Loew house, the Columbia, topped par by $400, taking $3,500 for "Enter Madame."

On the Warner side, the Metropolitan was the ace house, where "The White Cockatoo" took $6,800, $2,700 over average. The Earle took it on the chin with "The Right to Live," slipping under par by $3,100 for a gross of $14,500.

Total gross was $65,300, or $5,900 under the average seven-day, first run week.

worthy because of a heavy advertising campaign put on by the Lafayette for a twin bill, "The Marines Are Coming" and "Girl of the Limberlost." This splurge brought in a gross of $14,700, over par by $8,200, and caused all the other first runs to take heavy space. Severe cold weather was followed by a thaw and lots of snow.

Total first run take was $60,200. Normal is $42,800.

Estimated takings for the week ending Feb. 8:

"Gilded Lily" Plus Boles At $50,000, Chicago Wow

CHICAGO, Feb. 12.—A combination of "The Gilded Lily" on the screen and John Boles on the stage proved a knockout at the Chicago. The gross ran $15,400 over average for a total of $50,000 and the whole program was held over.

"Babbitt" was good, too. With A. B. Marcus' "La Vie Paree" revue on the stage to help out, the Oriental grossed $20,000, over the line by $5,000. "Bordertown" held up at the Apollo and "Girl of the Limberlost" reached average at the State-Lake, but elsewhere grosses were weak.

Total first run business was $133,000. Average is $127,600.

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 12.—Gertrude Purcell, Columbia writer, has had an option taken up on her contract, and is set for another six months. Writing contracts were also given to Wilson Collison and Bruce Manning. Miss Purcell is currently working on "If You Could Only Cook," while Collison is doing the adaptation of "Lady Beware."

"Broadway," "Lancer" in Seattle Race

SEATTLE, Feb. 12.—"Broadway Bill" and "Lives of a Bengal Lancer" battled it out for top honors here last week, with the latter getting a shade the better of the contest. The take on the Columbia opus at the Liberty for seven days was $6,800, over par by $2,800. "Lancer" took $8,700 in eight days at the Fifth Avenue, but this was over the line by only $1,700.

Other downtown attractions couldn't stand the pace. Total first run business was $38,800. Average is $36,500.

theatre units which have been operated on an unprofitable basis for extended periods might be eliminated.

Under the plans for increasing operating authority in the field, zone managers in the future will be given direct charge of operating their units, purchasing their supplies and equipment, and individual zone auditing systems will be inaugurated. While these activities will be relinquished by the home office, Bernhard emphasized that the policy change did not imply a decentralization in any respect. Management will continue subject to home office supervision.

Bernhard will wind up the quarterly meeting today with further conferences with the company's 12 zone managers who are here for the sessions.

principal topics to be taken up during the session. Samuelson had not completed his annual report yesterday afternoon and worked into the night to finish his review of the past year's activities. In the report will be included recommendations for the ensuing year.

Abram F. Myers will be chairman of the session and elections will probably be held tomorrow. Littlefield, Branch, Saperstein and Cole may be named vice-presidents, Herman Blum is slated to be reelected treasurer.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Feb. 12.—Nathan Yamins today left for New York and Washington to attend the national Allied board of directors' meeting.

Watching Omaha Shows

OMAHA, Feb. 12.—The combination stage show-picture policy inaugurated at the Paramount here may have opposition if it proves successful. Mort Singer was here last weekend to observe the opening at the A. H. Blank house. He may put in stage shows at the Brandeis if the Paramount's policy clicks.

Flinn in Coast Confab

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 12.—John C. Flinn met today with members of the clearance board. He went over the minor revisions which will be included in the final draft of the approved clearance schedule to be presented at a Campi meeting next week. Flinn leaves Saturday for New York.

Charter Mayfair Prod.

ALBANY, Feb. 12.—Mayfair Prod., Inc., has been chartered by Harry A. Tifford, Minnie Horowitz and Mae Graff.

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 12.—Ruby Keeler goes to the Good Samaritan Hospital tomorrow for a minor foot operation.

Looking 'Em Over

"Ten Minute Alibi"

and the British facetiousness of two detectives seems out of place. There is only fair entertainment value.

The story is unusual in that it shows the perpetration of a murder and asks the sympathy of the audience for the efforts of the murderer to escape detection. The dead man is, of course, the villain of the piece; a blackmailer and woman trafficker who is better out of the way. The hero kills him to save a girl from his clutches and stages the crime cleverly, using gloves to hide his finger prints and faking the clock in order to make his alibi watertight. The thrill comes when the tecs reconstruct the crime and seem on the verge of discovering everything but miss the obvious clue that the clock, striking seven at six o'cloc' reveals that it has been tampered with.

Holmes is good in the long scene of his cross-examination, but neither Aileen Marson as the girl nor Theo Shall as the villain are up to modern standards. The story angle, with obvious exploitation possibilities, is the selling value.

Running time, 85 minutes. "A."

"The Triumph of Sherlock Holmes"

(Gaumont-British)

LONDON, Feb. 1.—One of a series of Real Art Prod. made by Julius Hagen at the Twickenham studios for G.-B. release and a typical example of that studio's workmanlike and unpretentious work. It offers good, though not outstanding, entertainment values.

The appeal will be strongest to those who know the Sherlock Holmes stories, for Leslie Hiscott, the director, has got right under the skin of the Conan Doyle character and has in Arthur Wontner a very good actor who is physically the double of the original.

Plot values are good and suspense is well maintained in a story with an unexpected finish turning upon the murder of an Anglo-American who is known to be in fear of the vengeance of a secret society in the States. In the end Holmes surprises everybody by revealing that the "dead" man is still alive and in hiding after killing and disfiguring his would-be assassin. Additional dramatic value comes from the fact that the case is presented as the last episode of the struggle between Holmes and the super-crook Moriarty, whose watery end is the climax of the film.

The characterization of Holmes, with a witless Dr. Watson for foil, is amusing and ingenious and will please Doyle fans. The episode in which the hero outwits the "Scourers," the secret society in a "Southern State," is good action stuff and seems passably American.

Running time, 87 minutes. "G."

"In Town Tonight"

(British Lion)

LONDON, Feb. 1.—Variety purveyed by radio stars, on a very thin story thread of two entrepreneurs who, meeting at an agent's, set out to find talent for "In Town Tonight." It stands or falls on the entertainment values of the separate turns. Some of these are good but some are very much the opposite.

Dave Apollon and his Band are the highspot. Hawaiian stuff is excellent and Dave is a personality as well as a musician. Wilson, Keppel and Betty's speciality act comes next, and Finlay Currie, Arthur Prince and the Seven Thunderbolts would all entertain American audiences.

This wants a good deal of cutting to make it an acceptable light booking on your side.

Running time, 75 minutes. "G." ALLAN.

"Home on the Range," this morning's opener at the Criterion, was reviewed by wire from Hollywood on Nov. 10.

Buffalo Men Shifted

BUFFALO, Feb. 12.—Several changes in the Hollywood Pictures exchange staff have been made by Manager George H. Moeser. Taking over the Albany territory is Eugene C. Markens, former Educational branch manager in that city. Charles Flarity gets the Rochester-Syracuse district and Edward Kempner will handle Buffalo sales.

C. M. Turley Reelected

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 12.—Clarence M. Turley, former associate of Skouras brothers in the operation of the Missouri, Ambassador and Grand Central theatres, has been reelected secretary of the St. Louis Real Estate Exchange. He served the exchange in that capacity in 1932, 1933 and 1934.

"Gentlemen," Ellington Top Draw for K.C.

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 12.—Honors went to the Mainstreet's combination bill, "Gentlemen Are Born" with a stage show headed by Duke Ellington and his band, which upped the take to $12,500. "Wings in the Dark," at $7,200, was a strong attraction at the Newman.

Both in a second week, "County Chairman" at the Uptown and "David Copperfield" at the Midland proved their drawing power, and the Will Rogers' opus was held for a third stanza.

Total first run business was $39,200. Average is $34,500.

Estimated takings:

Week Ending Feb. 7:

"GENTLEMEN ARE BORN" (F. N.)

Week Ending Feb. 8:

"THE COUNTY CHAIRMAN" (Fox)
UPTOWN—(2,000), 25c-40c, 7 days, 2nd week. Gross: $4,700. (Average, $3,500.)

Providence Gives "Lancer" 2nd Week

PROVIDENCE, Feb. 12.—"Bengal Lancer" did $500 over average in its second week at the independent Strand here, which is very neat business in this town just at present with the city trying to dig itself out of the snow. The take was $7,000.

Both Fay's and the RKO Albee, with vaudefilm programs, were over $8,000, but Loew's again was off, catching only $9,000 with "The Night Is Young" and "Behind the Evidence," $3,000 down.

First run business was $41,400. Average is $40,500.

Estimated takings for the week ending Feb. 7:

"LIVES OF A BENGAL LANCER" (Para.)
STRAND—(2,300), 15c-40c, 2nd week. Gross: $7,000. (Average, $6,500)

"GENTLEMEN ARE BORN" (Warners)

Monopoly Now Made Issue in Huffman Case

Federal Attorney Gives Code Case New Twist

DENVER, Feb. 13.—Charges that Harry Huffman's companies here seek a monopoly of exhibition and are violating the Sherman anti-trust law were contained in a brief filed by the Government in the film stoppage injunction suit carried to the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals by Huffman. He has 10 days in which to answer. The case will then go to the U. S. District Court for hearing on its merits, including the injunction angle.

Huffman sought the injunction in the U. S. District Court after the grievance board had ordered his film supply stopped because of his failure

Campi May Approve K. C. Zoning Soon

Despite the fact that Elmer C. Rhoden, operating head of Fox Midwest, has turned down the Kansas City clearance and zoning schedule based on admissions, Campi will discuss the plan and in all probability will adopt it at the Feb. 21 session.

In adopting the Los Angeles schedule, Code Authority, by a vote of seven to three, agreed that admissions in all plans will govern the

All the New York film critics and trade paper writers who have been longing for years to see how a Saracen helmet and broad sword are made are going to have their chance next Tuesday.

Kenneth Lynch, armorer, who runs an "armorery" in Long Island City and armors some of the best knights, will forge one of each. He's the man who has been broadswording and helmeting the cast for Cecil B. DeMille's "The Crusades."

Expect Court Will Approve Para. Setup

Approval of the Paramount plan of reorganization and its proposed board of directors of 16 by Federal Judge Alfred C. Coxe at a hearing scheduled for today looms as a certainty, in the opinion of reorganization factors interrogated yesterday.

Today's hearing may prove to be a routine formality in view of definite indications that the court may not permit the voicing of any objections to the proposed directorate at this time. It is generally anticipated that Judge Coxe will approve the plan today and consent to an order to show cause why it should not be placed in effect. Such an order would be returnable about March 15, at which time hearings of

Will Head Circuit If Offer Is Approved

Stepping into the picture as a completely surprising factor, Joseph M. Schenck, not as the head of United Artists but as an individual operator, is negotiating for the purchase of Fox Metropolitan Playhouses, Inc., through acquisition of the claims outstanding in the bankrupt company's estate, it was revealed last night.

It is understood that Schenck will head the reorganized circuit if the Fox Met bondholders' committee and reorganization factors approve his proposal, which has already been submitted for their consideration.

In answer to a query, Schenck told the Hollywood bureau of MOTION PICTURE DAILY last night that the deal was not being negotiated on behalf of his brother, Nicholas M. Schenck, president of Loew's, Inc., who but a few months ago made a competitive bid for the much-dis-

Freedom of Press, Also Screen, Stirs Up Forum

By J. M. JERAULD

Critics are great believers in the freedom of the press. They admitted as much yesterday at the M. P. Club Forum—some lightly, others seriously—and they discovered their hosts think there should also be freedom of films and freedom of radio.

It was the ousting of newsreel cameras from Flemington that drew a serious retort from Louis Nizer in what up to that time had been mostly an exchange of banter.

Martin Weyrauch, managing editor of the Brooklyn Eagle, was the first speaker to become serious.

"Newspapers before the Revolution were simply the extension of one man's ability to talk to his neighbors," he said. "It was a limited form of extension, just a leaflet, but the right was considered so sacred by the framers of our constitution that they introduced a guarantee of freedom of the press.

"I believe that, if radio and motion pictures had been in existence at the time, this guarantee would have been extended to these mediums of expression as well. I think it is time for them to cast off their inferiority complexes and fight for these rights."

Nizer, and Harry Hershfield, who was acting as master of ceremonies,

Services Held Here For Mrs. P. S. Brown

Private services were held at the Stephen Merritt Chapel yesterday morning for Mrs. Pearl Sayler Brown, wife of Colvin W. Brown, vice-president and general manager of the Quigley Publishing Co., who died at her New York apartment Tuesday morning after a long illness. Harry C. Brown, a Christian Science reader, conducted the services.

Those present included Frank C. and Mrs. Walker, Eddie Dowling and Ray Dooley, E. M. Fay, Paul C. Mooney, David Palfreyman, Glenn and Mrs. Griswold, Martin Quigley, Jr., Mrs. Mabel Burkhart, Mrs. Robert Goldman and virtually the entire personnel of the Quigley Publishing Co.

The funeral party left on the Commodore Vanderbilt yesterday afternoon for Elgin, via Chicago, where additional services will be held today and interment made at the Bluff City Cemetery in that city.

Delay Contest Opening

Paramount has switched the starting date of its cash prize contest for the most effective advertising, exploitation and publicity campaigns sent in by theatres on "Ruggles of Red Gap" from Feb. 15 to Feb. 22. The contest will close April 26. The change in the dates was made necessary by the change in the release date of the picture.

Purely Personal

MIMI LEVENSON, secretary to L. J. BARBANO of Columbia, was the guest of honor at a luncheon given yesterday at the Taft by the other Columbia executives' secretaries. The reason: announcement of MISS LEVENSON's engagement to ABE LEVENSOHN of Boston. No date for the nuptials has been set.

DAVE LOEW leaves for the coast tomorrow afternoon after he finishes his fifth day on the stand in the M. & S.-RKO arbitration hearing. He's earned his holiday. Until he leaves he is being bodyguarded by JUDGE ISADORE FREY and LEOPOLD FRIEDMAN.

JANE FROMAN has cancelled her trip to Hollywood for the present. She was to report to the M-G-M studio, but is making a tour of 21 cities first. She expects to hit the coast in the fall, however.

LYNN FARNOL had DICK WATTS in tow for luncheon at the Algonquin yesterday. JACK CONNOLLY and GEORGE WEEKS were others glimpsed on the same premises. Not together, however.

JO SWERLING, accompanied by the missus and the two children, left town yesterday for the coast. They are going by way of New Orleans, and may stop over there until the Mardi Gras next month.

L. H. FRANCIS, special representative for Heywood-Wakefield Co., is back in town after a two months' business trip on the coast. While on the trip he stopped at Portland to visit his family.

HORTENSE SCHORR is burning the midnight oil these days. She's busy reading Schopenhauer, Hume, Kant, Nietzsche and Spinoza. And avoiding old-fashioneds.

GERALD K. RUDULPH, former publicity man for Fox and RCA Photophone, now handles the broadcasting end of that work for a Buffalo brewer and gets a kick out of it.

CHARLES STERN is holding down the fort for MOE STREIMER while the latter is vacationing in Miami. STREIMER will be away for another two weeks.

HARRY DAVENPORT, who is reputed to be the oldest living actor, has been signed by BEN HECHT and CHARLES MACARTHUR for a part in the picture they are making in Astoria.

BOB GILLHAM, lucky feller, left last night for Florida and 10 days of fishing. It's all by way of preparing for the M.P.T.O.A. convention in New Orleans.

ALINE MACMAHON is on her way here from the coast. She recently completed "Wanderlust" for Warners and won't report back to the studio until May.

WILLIAM M. L. FISKE, 3rd, First Division vice-president, and REGINALD BAKER of Associated Talking Pictures, London, sailed yesterday on the Olympic from London, arriving here next Wednesday. Both plan to go to the coast after a short stay here.

HERBERT BAYARD SWOPE, sometimes described as the balance wheel between RKO and the Meehan interests in KAO, leaves for Hollywood in a couple of days.

WALDEMAR TORRES, publicity head for the M-G-M Brazil office, sails Saturday for South America after five weeks here and in Hollywood visiting the company's home office and studios.

BERNICE CLAIRE finishes work in a Vitaphone short at the Brooklyn plant today. She'll start work on another of the series she's doing in about three weeks.

Quip of the Day

Interviewed between planes in Kansas City, Stepin Fetchit, the colored actor, was asked by reporters what he thought of the race problem.

"The only race I care about," he quipped, "is a horse race."

AL FRIEDLANDER was in Dallas yesterday on First Division deals. AMOS HIATT returned yesterday from Philadelphia, where he arranged for larger quarters for the exchange.

HAROLD RODNER takes the air route to the coast either Sunday or Monday on N.V.A. and Warner Club business. He'll be gone for several weeks.

TOM CONNORS is back from his tour of southern M-G-M exchanges, but leaves next week for the M.P.T.O.A. convention in New Orleans.

ARTHUR BRUEHL, Vanity Fair shutter clicker, is bound for the coast to do a series of portraits of prominent satellites.

MICKEY BALCON, production head for Gaumont British, is due in next week from London. He's on the Olympic.

ARTHUR GREENBLATT has joined the local Gaumont British sales force, handling Brooklyn. He succeeds HAROLD CARLOCK, transferred to Buffalo.

ROBERT C. VIGNOLA sails today on the President Lincoln for the coast. BEN PIAZZA, his nephew, stays on for a few more days.

CLAUDE EZELL has returned to Dallas after five days here, during which time he saw "Anything Goes" and "Personal Appearance."

HERMAN RIFKIN of Boston and BERNARD MILLS of Albany, Monogram franchise-holders, were in town yesterday.

ED KUYKENDALL arrives today for the Campi session and final powwows on the New Orleans M.P.T.O.A. convention.

WILLIAM CADERET of Publix and JACK GOLDEN of RKO were in town from Rochester yesterday discussing bookings with home office officials of both circuits. Publix and RKO have pooled interests in Rochester under a joint operating-booking deal.

JACK SHEA has recovered from injuries sustained when hit by a taxi last week. His uncle, MORT SHEA, is now basking in Miami.

CHARLIE O'REILLY's crowded hours are more so these days, what with code hearings, T.O.C.C. affairs and conferences with JACOB SCHECHTER.

BOB HOPE is busy working at the Vitaphone plant in Brooklyn these days. He is set for four shorts there.

JAMES RORTY of the Nation staff, is hying himself to Hollywood to do an article on the film colony.

CHARLES GLETT has joined the staff of Audio Productions, Inc., and will work on production.

D. A. DORAN, JR., is back from Hollywood where he sought a lead for a new play.

DID YOU HEAR ABOUT MRS. LEO's QUINTUPLETS!

—we'll say it's a RECORD!

5 WEEKS for

DAVID COPPERFIELD

A NEW ALL-TIME RECORD

at the Capitol Theatre, N.Y.

For the first time in the 16 years' existence of the famed Capitol Theatre, a motion picture plays five weeks! The variation in gross business from week to week has been so slight as to make "Copperfield" an entertainment unique in all screen history. This building and sustaining power is evidenced likewise in extended runs from Coast to Coast in theatres and in cities of every classification. "Copperfield" is unquestionably the greatest hold-over picture the industry has ever known. We repeat to our exhibitor friends the urgent advice to arrange for ample additional playing time.

Congratulations to those who made it possible! To David O. Selznick, producer. To George Cukor, director. To the great cast of 65 stellar players. To Hugh Walpole, adaptor. To Howard Estabrook, author of screen play. And to the memory of beloved Charles Dickens!

Monopoly Now Made Issue in Huffman Case

to comply with an order to stop automobile giveaways. After he had lost an injunction appeal the grievance board defense was assigned to the assistant United States district attorney here and the case was carried to the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals. Briefs have been filed by order of the court.

In his brief Byron G. Rogers, the assistant district attorney, also contends that Huffman, because he controls 36 houses through three companies, can to a certain extent control the movement of films here and can slow up their availability for subsequent runs.

Three of Huffman's companies are involved in the suit—General Theatres, Inc., Aladdin Theatre Corp. and Centennial Theatres, Inc. It was against these companies that the grievance board directed its film stoppage order.

The present restraining order will continue until the case can be heard on its merits in the U. S. District Court. It is expected a hearing date will be set within a month.

Compliance Director Sol A. Rosenblatt will join the defense of the grievance board when the case is heard at Denver and will also be a government witness.

Campi May Approve K. C. Zoning Soon

availibilities of first run neighborhood spots following downtown first runs and also the amount of clearance to be set between runs in a particular zone. The decision of the board still gives the distributor the right to sell any run in any zone deemed advisable to the interests of the company.

Breaking this down means that where three theatres in a zone charge 25, 20 and 15 cents, distributors have a right to sell the lowest-priced theatre first run with seven days' clearance over either of the other two houses with higher admissions. In all instances contracts will have a clause for maintenance of admissions agreed upon at the time deals are closed.

In the Kansas City schedule before the board, the original draft has been modified. The first plan stated that runs would be determined by admissions, but this has been amended to read that prices determine the maximum clearance between runs.

Other schedules which will be put up for a vote at next Thursday's session will be New Haven and Milwaukee. The former is in good shape and various Campi members are agreed upon most of the clauses. The Milwaukee plan is new to many of the codists.

Three distributing companies are against the price-admission angle in schedules on the ground that it is in violation of the anti-trust laws to fix or peg prices.

Protection against print shortages has been, and will be, provided for in all plans. If exhibitors feel, after plans are adopted, they are aggrieved, they can take complaints to the local boards and appeal from decisions to Campi. If a plan is found unworkable, it will be thrown out.

At today's Code Authority session, the business will revolve around decisions on appeal hearings.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Great Hotel Murder"

(Fox)

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 13.—This film brings Victor McLaglen and Eddie Lowe together again, this time in a mystery story that is suspenseful and entertaining though not always plausible.

The story differs from others in which the team has appeared in that there is no woman whom the boys steal from each other. They fight this time over their respective detective abilities, with the arguments and comebacks as snappy and as amusing as ever.

Lowe is cast as a writer of detective novels and McLaglen as a hotel detective. A dead man is found in a hotel room and the pair set about solving the mystery. With surprises and comedy well-paced, the chase leads in and out of hotel rooms to an apartment across the street and ends in a mountain cabin with the boys in as the murderer runs his car over a cliff.

A minor love interest is carried by Mary Carlisle and William Janney, who hold sympathy though their parts have but little to do with the plot. Rosemary Ames, C. Henry Gordon, Henry O'Neil and John Wray have the main supporting parts and carry their roles well.

The story is by Vincent Starrett and the screen play by Arthur Kober. Sam Kaylin's music adds to the show's value. Director Eugene Forde has timed action and comedy well for good melodramatic entertainment. John Stone produced.

Production Code Seal No. 612. Running time, 74 minutes. "G."

Rule Exhibitor Not Responsible for Unit

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 13.—A theatre operator can not be held responsible for acts of a unit using the theatre, the regional labor board here has decided in a case involving W. G. McKinney of the Best, Topeka, and stagehands' Local 206 of that city.

The union complained against discharge of its members and employment of non-union hands, alleging discrimination in violation of Section 7-A of the NIRA. The board held McKinney blameless since he no longer operated stage shows, but had contracted with a stock company which brought in its own employes.

In line with reorganization of local units of the national labor relations setup, three-member committees will hold hearings on labor disputes arising from administration of NRA codes. Previously, cases have been heard by the 12-member board as a whole. Under the new plan, committees will consist of one representative each for industry, labor and the public. The local board has supervision over four states.

Ordered to End Coupons

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 13.—D. Leff, operating the Metropolitan here, has been ordered by the grievance board to stop selling coupons admitting patrons for less than the advertised admission prices on certain designated "bargain nights." The complainant was the Warner Bros. Circuit Management Corp., operating the local Plaza.

after deducting all charges, including interest, amortization and depreciation, but before deduction of Federal income taxes, was $16,248.69. For the same period in the previous year, on the same basis, the net operating profit was $124,252.86.

The net profit from operations for the quarter before amortization and depreciation of properties, and Federal income taxes, was $1,583,889.88.

During the period $740,811.60 was credited direct to deficit account, representing profit of $730,143.45 on the redemption of funded indebtedness retired during the period, and other items amounting to $10,668.15.

The consolidated balance sheet as of Nov. 24, 1934, shows total current assets of $17,030,622.58, including cash of $3,200,703.01.

Current liabilities totaled $11,909,-605.48.

The purchase agreement between Warners and Sudekum's Crescent Amusements, Inc., called for the conveyance of clear titles, a provision which, it was said here, Warners did not feel was being met to the company's satisfaction.

Century Case Delayed

The illness of Mitchell Klupt, attorney for Century, yesterday forced a delay in the adjourned hearing of the circuit's clearance complaint against RKO before the New York clearance board. The hearing will be resumed next Wednesday.

annual convention in Atlanta next May and a discussion of the administrative and legislative angles of the code situation.

A stand on the organization's attitude toward block booking bills and a pending copyright law is to be taken. On the copyright measure it will be urged that a general investigation be made before a bill is agreed upon and that the attitude of broadcasters, hotel men and others be learned.

The announced program for Thursday's session follows:

1. Statement relative to the legislative program
2. The code—from the legislative standpoint
   - (a) Attitude of President Roosevelt
   - (b) Attitude of N. I. R. B.
   - (c) King Resolution (S. 35)
   - (d) Legislative situation in general
   - (e) Momand pamphlet
3. Compulsory block-booking, blind selling, etc.
   - (a) Celler Bill
   - (b) Culkin Bill
   - (c) Motion Picture Research Council proposal
   - (d) Should the Brookhart Bill be reintroduced?

   Adoption of final policy
4. Copyright Law
   - (a) Suggestion that investigation precede drafting of bill
   - (b) Attitude of broadcasters, hotel men, etc.
   - (c) Status of Government suit against ASCAP
5. Resumption of unfinished business
6. Time permitting, reception of new proposals from directors

Friday

1. Resumption of unfinished business (if any)
2. Continued reception of new proposals from directors

(Note: It is desired that directors devote the most of the day visiting their Congressmen and Senators in the interest of the legislative program.)

Cassil Persistent, But Loses to Campi

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 13.—When it comes to persistency, Frank H. Cassil, exhibitor of St. Joseph, Mo., wins the grand prize.

Haled before the local grievance board on a bank night compliant, a decision was rendered against him. Cassil appealed, and Campi upheld the board. Then, after some wrangling, he was given a second hearing on his plea that his theatre was not in direct competition with the complainant, W. A. Leucht. Cassil lost again. He wanted to file another appeal, but here John C. Flinn, Campi secretary, called a halt, ruling the board's decision final.

Cassil now says he'll comply and cut out bank nights.

Joplin Bank Night Complaint Is Filed

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 13.—Harley Fryer, Fox manager at Joplin, Mo., has filed a bank night complaint against G. E. Shilkett, Rex, same city.

Ray McLain, Fox manager at Emporia, Kan., has withdrawn a similar complaint recently filed against E. O. Briles, Lyric, Emporia.

Frank H. Cassil, Rialto, St. Joseph, Mo., has lodged a premature advertising complaint against W. A. Leucht, Valley, same city.

"THANK YOU FOR A THRILLING EVENING" . . . . . .

"With a roll of drums and a crash of cymbals from the United States Marines, Warner Brothers' first Cosmopolitan Production arrived last night at the Strand Theatre. It's exciting as a big parade—entertainment through and through. Fun factions alternate with heart-stirring, breath-taking sequences in machine-gun rapidity. Most sensational sequences to reach the season's screens. The aerial stunting will make you gasp. No one should miss it. It tops all in thrills."— Regina Crewe in N. Y. American

THANK YOU, NEW YORK, FOR A THRILLING PREMIERE

A triumphant turnout of celebs and citizens that overflowed four premiere night shows . . . formed a 9:30 line next morning . . . and put the Strand hot on the trail of San Diego's astounding record of 76% over 'Here Comes the Navy' figures! . . . And the coast-to-coast parade of smashing premieres continues with biggest gross and attendance in past year at the Roosevelt, Chicago; 2-block lines at the Memphis Warner; new house record for opening matinee at the Hillstreet, Los Angeles!

Norton Says British Need American Help

"I don't think we can really make pictures in England without American technical help," said Richard Norton, British and Dominions producer, who arrived here yesterday on the Berengaria. He brought with him a print of his company's latest, "Brewster's Millions," which stars Jack Buchanan and Lili Damita, and as proof of the above statement pointed out that the film was directed by Thornton Freeland, who did "Flying Down to Rio," and was photographed by Bernard MacGill.

One of the purposes of his trip, Norton continued, is to take back an American film editor with him when he returns to London.

"Brewster's Millions," which was made as a musical, is the third of B. & D.'s four to be released by United Artists this year. The last will be the Elisabeth Bergner vehicle, "Escape Me Never," which is now in its final editing stages.

Norton's company normally has been producing between 10 and 12 pictures a year, but, in the future, will turn out eight. Of these, Herbert Wilcox will produce two. Negative costs will be raised on each individual picture, however, Norton said.

Only one picture is currently planned by British and Dominions, Norton continued. This will be based on the life of the English actor, David Garrick. It is tentatively titled "Peg Woffington" and Cedric Hardwicke, who is now in Hollywood, will have the lead. Herbert Wilcox will direct.

Norton's stay here is indefinite, but he hopes to clear up his business and return to England before the first of the month.

Needs "Punks"

Richard Norton, British and Dominions producer here from London, met the press yesterday in his hotel suite. One of the questions asked had to do with his taking back American talent to London.

"We really have no need for American stars for our musicals," Norton explained, "but when I do a musical next year I most certainly will insist that I come over here for some of what you Americans politely refer to as 'punks'."

Norton hastily explained he was referring to "beautiful chorus girls."

Monogram Busy Mon.

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 13.—Monogram resumes production Monday after several weeks of inactivity. The first picture will be "The Hoosier Schoolmaster." Final details on the script are now being worked out. Douglass Montgomery is slated for the leading role, but may have to drop out because of two other assignments from a major studio.

Mild Pennsylvania Tax Protests Seen

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 13.—That protest against the 10 per cent tax on admissions proposed yesterday by Governor George H. Earle in his budget message to the Legislature is liable to be no more than mild was the belief expressed in film and political circles today.

One reason the industry is not expected to make a vigorous attack on the Earle proposal is that it is said to feel grateful for the friendliness of the new administration, the first Democratic one to rule the state in some 40 years. Another reason advanced is that the film men hope the liberal views of the administration may lead to Sunday shows.

The industry is viewed as likely to take no strong action against the proposal even in face of the fact that such a heavy impost would probably prove drastic to small houses, regardless of whether exhibitors absorbed it or passed it on.

Eastman Dividend Up

The Eastman Kodak Company yesterday voted an increase in the annual dividend from $4 to $5 with a quarterly declaration of $1.25 a share.

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 13.—Radio has changed the title of "Murder Song," Wheeler and Woolsey's next, to "The Nitwits."

Ohio Senate Passes Contract Dating Ban

COLUMBUS, Feb. 13.—After receiving the sanction of the Committee of Commerce and Industry and of parent and teacher associations, the Senate has passed the bill introduced by Senator Edward N. Waldvogel making it unlawful for distributors to require exhibitors under contract to play any picture on a specific day. The announced purpose of the bill is to prevent forced dating of objectionable sex pictures on Sundays.

The committee made several amendments to prevent any handicap being placed on exhibitors that play only on Saturdays and Sundays, however. This was done by revising the wording of the bill to make the penalty applicable only to distributors.

P. J. Wood, secretary of the I.T.O. of Ohio, explained the bill to the committee and Senator Overton Jackson, during the hearing, said: "This is a fight for cleaner pictures on Sundays when a large percentage of audiences is composed of children."

Judge Faris Advanced

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 13.—Federal Judge C. B. Faris has been sworn in a member of the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals. He is the judge before whom the anti-trust indictments were returned against major distributors and executives recently. Some other judge probably will be assigned for the trials.

went into a huddle while the applause was still under way and Hershfield called upon Nizer for a second talk, a "rebuttal," he called it.

Nizer endorsed everything Weyrauch had said.

"We've just had an example of freedom of expression for films," he pointed out. "Down in Flemington, where the newspapers had fiction writers, sports writers—any kind of celebrity—writing impressions of the Hauptmann trial and forming the public's opinions in advance of a verdict a newsreel camera was barred when it gave the first and only authentic, perfect record of this great human drama.

"I think the newspapers of the country missed a great opportunity to prove their passion for freedom by not coming to the defense of the newsreels, instead of finding fault with them. I think newspapers, films and radio should stand shoulder to shoulder in this great cause."

Hershfield paused before introducing the next speaker.

"Instead of treating radio and films as competitors," he said, "newspapers could regard them as allies. Newspapers can perform a public service by printing more about radio, outside of the mere broadcasting of programs."

Bernard Sobel, John Anderson, Arthur Pollock of the Brooklyn Eagle; Julius Cohen and Robert Coleman spoke lightly, and then Jules E. Brulatour was called upon.

He protested at first, but moved over toward the microphones.

"I'm not going to attempt to dazzle you with any wit," he began. "I'm no performer. If I had been, I wouldn't have had to drag out a miserable existence as a plain working man in this industry. Whatever progress I may have made toward a luxurious existence has been gained simply by plodding along."

"Plodding along on a half million a year," drawled Hershfield before presenting the next speaker.

Phil Reisman gave some inside stuff on the vigorous language sales managers, advertising and publicity heads and their "25 assistants" use when they read "lousy" reviews the morning after an opening.

Herbert J. Yates confessed rather grimly that he had attended the lunch just to see "what some of these critics who tear down the finest pictures turned out look like." His manner conveyed the impression that he didn't like their looks any more than he liked their reviews.

Rowland Fields also spoke, as did Jack Cohn of Columbia.

"We in Columbia have found," Cohn said, "that some of our best writers are former critics. If some of these fellows would spend less time criticizing and more time writing stories, Columbia would buy some of them."

"There's one critic missing, your brother Harry," Hershfield interjected.

Bide Dudley arrived just before the breakup of the session and pulled a couple of stories that haven't been heard over WOR.

talks, Dent says he had had nothing to do with press stories suggesting they had taken definite shape.

Asked if the G.B. deal was definitely off, he replied: "It was never definitely on."

Copyright Treaty Study Decided On

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—Department of State officials next week will begin a series of conferences with representatives of the film, radio, publishing and other industries affected by copyright legislation in an effort to gain support for a bill designed to amend the copyright law to conform to the international treaty as a prelude to seeking approval of the Senate to our entry into the International Copyright Union.

The decision to have the Department of State do this was reached today by the Senate Foreign Affairs Committee when department officials laid before it a draft of the proposed legislation, which, it was admitted, had never been submitted to any of the interested industries for criticism.

The bill would bring the copyright law into conformity with treaty requirements by eliminating some of the formalities incident to copyright registration in this country.

When the committee completed its consideration of the matter last session it was understood that the Department of State would confer with the industries in an effort to secure an agreement, but it developed today that the department made no attempt to do this but went ahead and wrote its own bill, which, under the circumstances, the committee refused to accept.

It is generally understood that the conferences at the department will start next Tuesday but that the committee will probably hold hearings of its own before it takes any action on the department's legislative proposals.

J. M. Schenck Negotiating For Fox Met

puted circuit in conjunction with Warners, only to withdraw his offer later. He also told MOTION PICTURE DAILY that the Fox Met bondholders' committee had practically approved the plan already, adding that as an individual he would also operate the theatres in the circuit.

Schenck refused to comment when questioned as to whether United Artists or some company connected with it would later assume the obligations which would be incurred by him as an individual in his move to acquire the circuit.

Indicating renewed interest in the ultimate disposal of Fox Met, reports were also current yesterday that, following acquisition of the Audubon, former Skouras operated house, Harry Brandt was after the circuit. The reports also had it that Brandt would put in a bid for the bonds with William Fox backing the offer.

When finally reached yesterday after a series of telephone calls, Brandt stated: "I have nothing to say."

Reports linking Brandt with a deal for Fox Met. started some months ago when Milton C. Weisman, attorney for the I.T.O.A., of which Brandt is president, was appointed receiver for Fox Theatres, succeeding William E. Atkinson. Additional strength was given the rumors yesterday after a deal had been set with Weisman for the Audubon, which will be reopened in about two weeks. Minor alterations are being made at the house.

The office of Beekman, Bogue & Clark, counsel for the Fox Met. bondholders' committee, denied the reports, stating that they were awaiting a proposal from Milton C. Weisman, receiver of Fox Theatres, for taking care of that company's $5,000,000 claim against Fox Met. in the latter's reorganization plan. When this proposal is received, it was said, it will be given consideration by the committee and may be the basis for minor revisions in the present reorganization plan. It was stated, however, that the provisions in the plan specifying that the circuit may not be sold prior to May 1, 1936, will probably stand and that Skouras and Randforce will continue as operators in the meantime.

Weisman is in Florida and not expected back for another 10 days.

Expect Court Will Approve Para. Setup

final objections, including any involving members of the proposed board, would be held.

Although Charles E. Richardson has not yet formally indicated that he would serve on the board, his acceptance is being taken for granted in reorganization circles. Leading factions regard the proposed board of 16 as the one which will be elected, without change, following the reorganization. This view is, of course, subject to any action to the contrary which may be taken by the court in the meantime.

The important combination of creditor groups headed by the H. A. Fortington interests, have voiced dissatisfaction with the termination of Emanuel Cohen's services as production head, stating that they regarded Cohen's record with the company as a "good" one and felt they should have been consulted prior to the final action. They state that they were not advised of even the intent to dismiss Cohen. One representative of this group said yesterday that more might be said on the subject when the new board assumes control after reorganization, and pointed out that no contracts had been given Henry Herzbrun or Ernst Lubitsch as Cohen's successors.

THANKS...

FORMIDABLE and weird are the stories of the motion picture business that reach the outside. These tales of incredible tycoons, mysterious geniuses and fabulous sums caused the Editors of THE MARCH OF TIME to view their venture into this new field with trepidation.

The Editors knew that TIME and FORTUNE and THE MARCH OF TIME on the air had valuable and loyal followings. But before these people could see THE MARCH OF TIME on theatre screens nation-wide, they knew that "the trade" must approve and cooperate. THE MARCH OF TIME's Editors worked industriously at their picture, wondering if the men wise in the selling and exploiting of screen entertainment would catch THE MARCH OF TIME's enthusiasm for real life drama from the world's news.

A week has passed since the première of THE MARCH OF TIME. The first release has been well received by the public, critics and trade press. But even more encouraging than the praise has been the friendly, interested criticism.

To famed showmen—Dave Loew, Charles Moskowitz, Nick Schenck, Joe Vogel, Eugene Picker of Loew's; to Barney Balaban, Walter Immerman, Abe Kaufman of B. and K.; Jules Rubin of Publix Great States; Jack Sullivan and Charles Skouras of Fox West Coast—go THE MARCH OF TIME's sincere thanks for continued support and encouragement. Also to Ralph Branton, A. H. Blank of Tri-State Theatres; Al Boyd in Philadelphia; Chris Buckley of Albany; Dave Idzal in Detroit; Wm. Smalley, Smalley's Up-State Circuit; Bob O'Donnell of Inter-State in Texas; Al Steffes in Minnesota and N. L. Nathanson in Canada.

In the fields of exploitation and publicity, the Editors thank Oscar Doob, New York; Bill Hollander, Chicago; Carter Barron of Washington; William Saxton and Herb Morgan of Baltimore; Milt Harris, Cleveland; Reves Espey on the West Coast; Frederic Schrader, Detroit; Harry Freeman, Philadelphia; Everett Cumings, Omaha; Stanley Brown, Des Moines; for starting THE MARCH OF TIME onto the screen with one of the most successful campaigns ever given any picture.

THE MARCH OF TIME's Editors realize that they must be worthy of the industry's support, that their film is yet far from perfect. It is their determination to make each release a more complete, a more skillful issue.

Court Gives Sanction to Para. Setup

Deposits to Be Altered To Allow Withdrawal

A formal order giving preliminary court approval to the Paramount plan of reorganization was signed yesterday by Federal Judge Alfred C. Coxe following a hearing. Judge Coxe also stated from the bench that he would approve the form of deposit certificates used by the Paramount bondholders' and stockholders' committees, providing they were altered to permit depositors to withdraw without payment of an assessment.

The court ruled that the committees could not assess depositors, as proposed, declaring that proper fees for Philadelphia, Feb. 14.—The Mastbaum, which threw open its doors Christmas Eve under the direction of Roxy, is slated to close on or about Feb. 28. This will mark finis to the arrangement between Roxy and the Warners which control the theatre.

Reports were again current in New York last night that Roxy would return to the local theatre field as impresario of the Center under a policy calling for stage spectacles.

U. A., Music Hall, Rivoli Deal Reported on Verge

Agreement on terms of the much-discussed deal between the Music Hall and United Artists under which the former would become first run outlet for U. A. in New York and assume ownership and operation of the Rivoli was reported to have been reached yesterday, although the point apparently has not been reached where pens are poised for the signatures necessary to conclusion of the transaction.

Reports in circulation chalk up a victory for Joseph M. Schenck and his insistence that the Rockefeller interests had to acquire possession of the Rivoli, current first run showwindow for U. A. on Broadway, at a purchase price of $1,000,000. Credited yesterday was the story the deal on his basis had been struck with payments in cash to be made over a period of years.

The setup would call for operation of the theatre by the Music Hall. The latter house would have first call

View Schenck Bid Friendly To Loew Firm

Close Association of the Brothers Mentioned

Joseph M. Schenck's bid, tendered not as president of United Artists but as an individual operator, for acquisition of Fox Met through the purchase of the outstanding claims of the bankrupt estate was viewed by observers yesterday as a move conceived in friendliness toward the Loew circuit, its president, Nicholas M. Schenck, and its far-flung operations in the metropolitan area.

The close association between the brothers was cited as eliminating at the outset any plan on Joseph M.'s part to create formidable circuit opposition to the thoroughly-entrenched Loew chain with its 70 theatres in the Greater New York area.

It will be recalled that Nicholas M., in conjunction with Harry M. Warner, had entered a joint bid for Fox Met several months ago at

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

JOE SCHENCK, whose masterful victory over the intricacies of the rumba constantly surprises those who have seen him step, surprised the headlines out of their complacency Wednesday night when his interest in, and his bid for, Fox Met finally pieced themselves together into a yarn of very sizable import. Out of the welter of court hearings, charges and counter charges, proposals and whatnot which have characterized the attempts to reorganize that valuable New York circuit, nothing more dramatic or unexpected has come to light since Loew and Warner joined hands several months ago on an identical mission. . . .

And yet, a peek into the background and a sifting of the circumstances stamp the move with logic and plenty of it. Go back over the trail with us. Factor number one was a plan by Harry M. Warner to acquire Fox Met. In one move, this would have set up his company as a force in the theatre scales weighing off the richest territory in the United States. Factor number two, or easily number one, is and always has been an understandable strategy on Nick Schenck's part to protect the Loew theatres, representing as many millions as they do. There came the day, a surprising day then, when Fox Met bids were aired in Federal court to find Warner and Schenck, who haven't always hit it off on the best of terms, entering a joint offer for the coveted circuit. . . .

Much went on in high council chambers. A condition of the Warner participation was popularly supposed to have been a split of properties giving Loew the Warner theatres on Broadway and the Strand in Brooklyn and Warners the Loew theatres in Northern Jersey, already a stronghold of Warner enterprise. A condition of Loew participation tied in the Fox product in Fox Met houses and there brows knitted and midnight oil burned. A deal was well nigh struck when Sid Kent realized, or was caused to realize that behind Fox was Chase National with its Rockefeller influence as represented by Winthrop W. Aldrich; that behind RKO, or interested in RKO as the largest common stockholder, was the selfsame oil family. Kent, there is sufficient reason to believe, asked Nick Schenck if he wouldn't bow out of the deal set up for Fox film. And Schenck consented. With that major line of product continuing to go to the RKO circuit, Loew's interest in Fox Met became less and less keen to arrive finally at the point where the company's offer for Fox Met ultimately was withdrawn. . . .

Constantly recurring, however, was the necessity for trench-digging to ward off the creation of that third major circuit in the metropolitan area. It existed then. It exists now and that brings this bit of history to its Wednesday chapter: the discovery that Joe Schenck individually and per se, was actively in the ring for Fox Met by purchase of claims outstanding against the bankrupt estate. He doesn't have to go far afield. Over ninety per cent of the secured claims, represented as they are by $12,460,700 in bonds, are held by the bondholders' committee. The Loew-Warner, when made, bid ran to 42 cents on the dollar. Lightning calculation makes it apparent in a hurry that the circuit can go to Schenck for approximately $5,000,000 if the original valuation prevails and if his offer wins out. . . .

Joe and Nick are brothers. They are very close brothers. That's one factor. Long has been the understanding that they are partners in much, if not all, either undertakes. That's another factor which makes the conclusion to be drawn simple enough. This is it: If Joe becomes owner of Fox Met, his operation of its 86 theatres not only will be geared in friendly fashion insofar as Loew's is concerned, but will remove whatever fear of a third major New York City chain may be coursing through Nick's mind. As axiomatic as all that. . . .

Other angles. The Skouras-Randforce operating agreement will keep those circuit men in the picture until May 1, 1936. What is there to prevent the bondholders' committee from selling to Joe Schenck now, today or tomorrow? You're being told. Nothing. Mandatory upon him, however, would be his observance of the existing operating deal until arrival of its expiration date. While this dabble in futures is afoot, ponder over the possibility that a Joe Schenck purchase could become a sale to Loew's when the Skourases and Randforce find themselves out. It's only a trifle more than a year away anyway. . . .

If you've gone this far, a question leaping to the front might well have to do with RKO. That circuit has something like $25,000,000 invested in its Greater New York houses. Loew's 70, plus a friendly 86 of Fox Met's would equal a condition which Messrs. Meehan, Thompson and Blumberg couldn't dodge by turning the page. What would they do under the circumstances? Would they sit back, content to remain in second place? Would they? Would you? Who would? . . .

It was Columbia's day yesterday what with an Astor trade show of "The Whole Town's Talking" and the sort of reception which the picture properly earned. Already covered by preview service from the coast, this is merely to pass on another reaction. Here is the picture in which Eddie Robinson plays a combination Casper Milquetoast and Public Enemy No. 1 part and drains both widely divergent roles to their last rich dregs. He's immense. And so is the picture with its adroit seesawing of comedy and melodrama. . . .

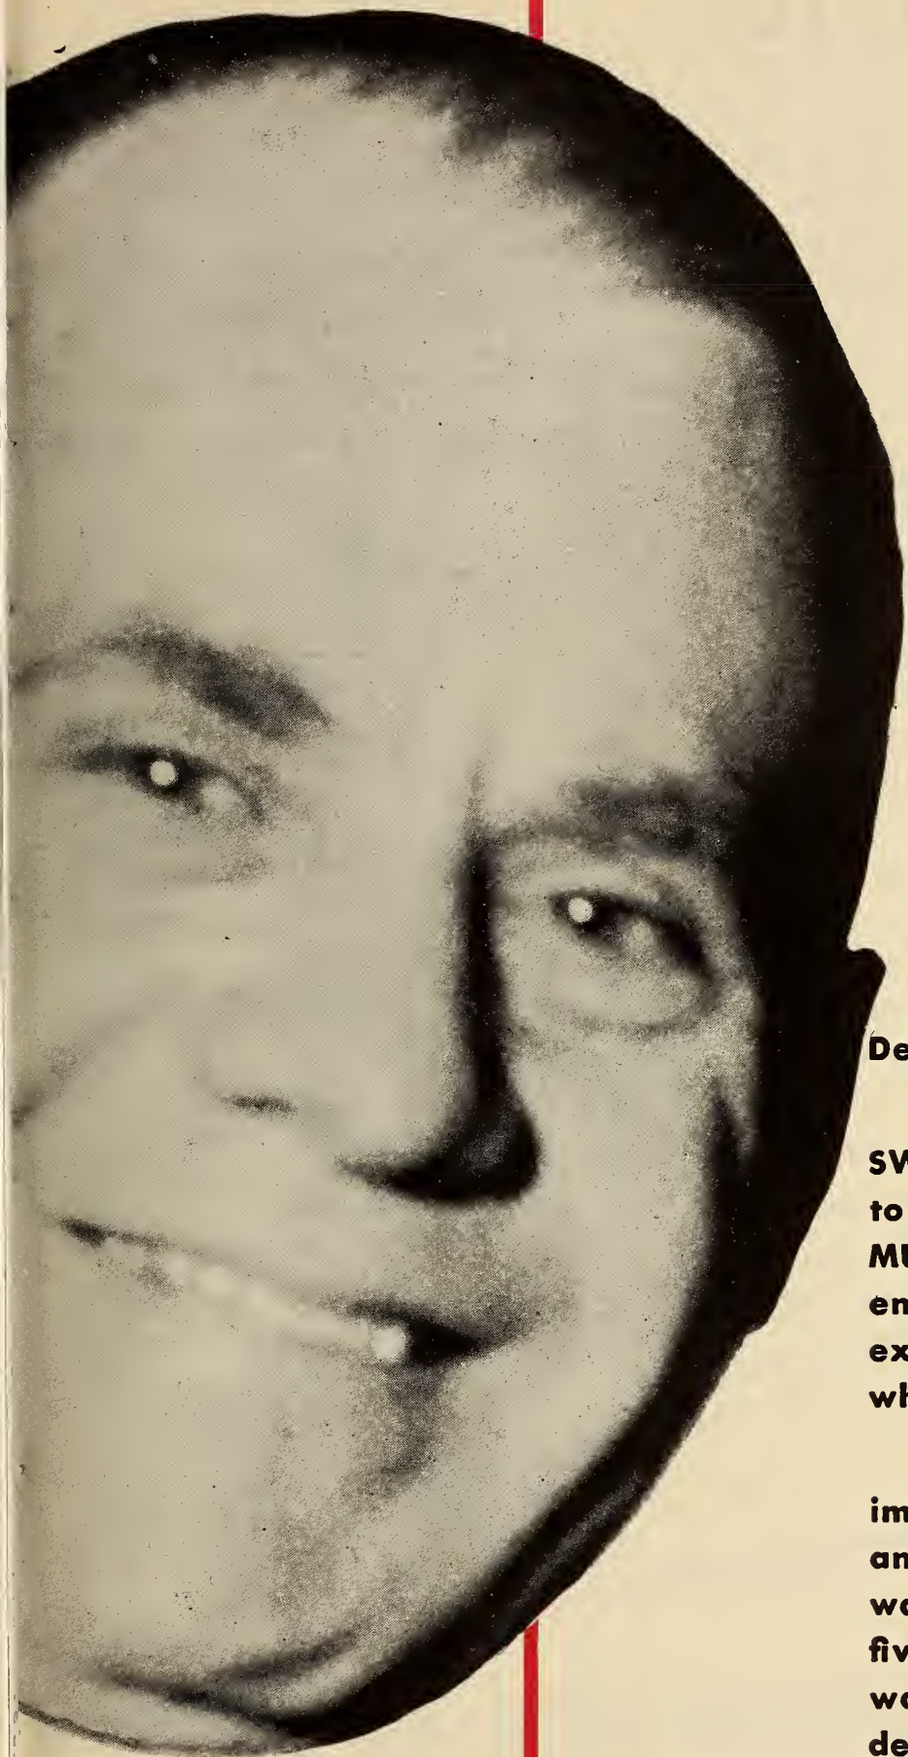
Aside from telling you forthwith that "The Whole Town's Talking" will do a rousing business, this is to stress now, because the time is fitting, the value of sinking hooks into a yarn before permitting the cameras to do their stuff. Implausible at times, yes; but the Robinson attraction is steeped and steeped well in story values cleverly concocted and thoroughly worked out. It sets out to tell what it has to say, never overlooks any bets as it pits Robinson, the innocuous against Robinson, the killer and, aided plentifully by the starring performance as well as by the script by Jo Swerling and Bob Riskin and the direction by Jack Ford, comes through as one of the season's best pictures. If anything else has been overlooked, throw that in as well. . . .



Only 12 Extras Won Living Wage in '34

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 14.—The Central Casting Office's annual report shows that only 12 extras earned a "living wage" during 1934. The report also showed that only six extras earned $2,500 or more. One of these was a woman. There were only five women who earned $2,000 or more. A further check of the report showed that all the top salaried extras were listed in the Class A, or well-dressed group.

The casting office revealed that 219,859 jobs were given out last year to approximately 4,000 extras and that the average pay check was $9.03.

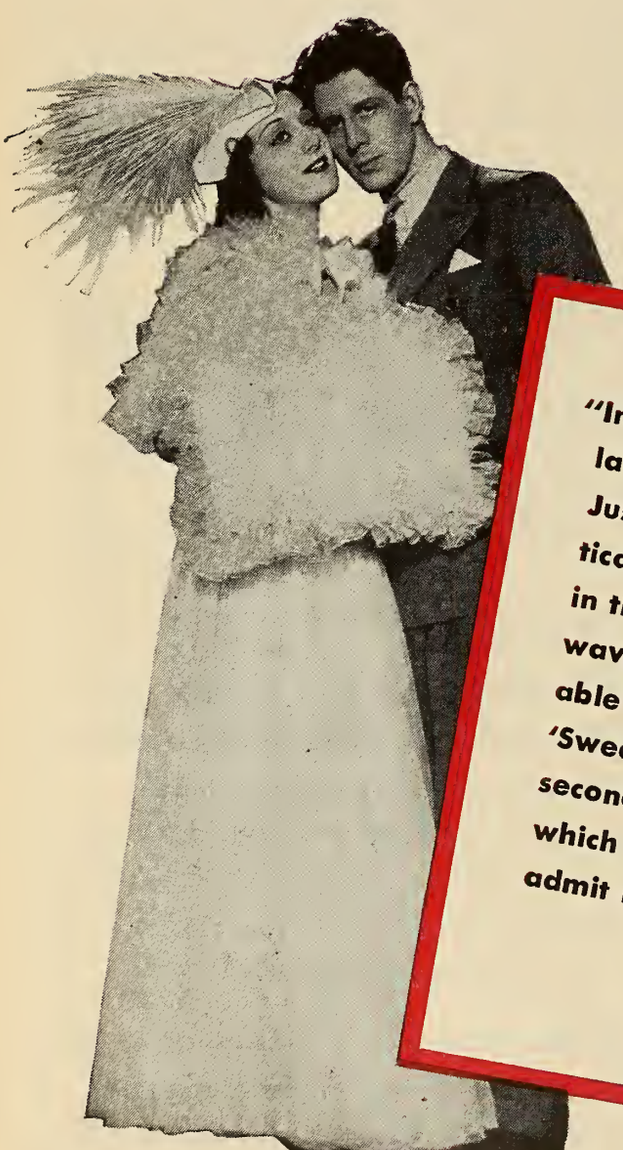
NOTED SEATTLE SHOWMAN REVEALS SIMPLE RECIPE FOR HAPPINESS

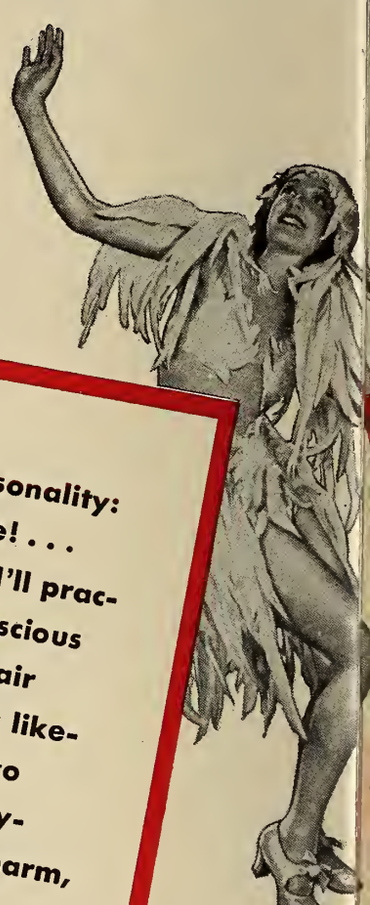
Dear Jack Warner:

The other night I sat in a preview on SWEET MUSIC, and if the audience reaction to this picture means anything, SWEET MUSIC is going to be one of the best audience pictures of the season, and I hasten to extend to you my praise for the manner in which you handled Rudy Vallee.

You made a regular trouper out of him immediately on entering his first scene, and you kept him a regular trouper all the way through. Before we were in the picture five minutes, everyone in the audience was convulsed with laughter. This picture deserves success because it is filled to overflowing with entertainment value.



With worlds of good wishes,



Sincerely,

J. C. Hamrick

which time several questions of product for the considered circuit proved sufficiently important to subsequently induce withdrawal of the bid. The understanding at the time was that Schenck of Loew's and M-G-M had persuaded himself to step into the picture to avoid the entry of a third circuit into this territory where Loew's and RKO had been dominant for years.

The 86 theatres currently comprising Fox Met in hands disposed to be unfriendly toward Loew's are regarded by those familiar with the territory as at once creating competition which, with additions, might prove to be formidable particularly in view of the fact that a number of the Fox Met houses are opposition to units in the Loew circuit.

Ultimate disposal, therefore, of Fox Met to interests associated or, at least, inclined to cooperate with Loew's is further viewed as a step much to be desired from Nicholas M. Schenck's point of view.

$4,500,000 Reported as Bid

Schenck's bid for the Fox Met bonds is understood to approximate $4,500,000. In addition to this, it is understood some agreement will be worked out with Milton C. Weisman, as receiver of Fox Theatres, on the settlement of the latter's $5,000,000 claim, based on its ownership of all of the Fox Met stock. The bondholders' committee contends that Fox Met is insolvent and that the stock, therefore, is valueless.

However, in its original plan of reorganization for Fox Met, the committee proposed to settle this claim for $100,000 cash and leases on several Fox Theatres' houses as an additional consideration. In the second plan of reorganization the stockholders' claim is ignored completely. One report has it that Schenck's offer contemplates a payment of $200,000, plus other considerations, to the stockholders of Fox Theatres.

While it is conceded in quarters close to Fox Met reorganization circles that Schenck is acting on his own, it is pointed out that he will head the new company if his offer is consummated and there would be nothing to prevent him from selling to Loew's after May 1, 1936, the date on which the operating agreement between Skouras, Randforce and the bondholders' committee expires.

Purely Personal

LILA LEE has deserted this wet and dreary town for the west coast. She planed out to Hollywood Wednesday after having been here for some time, during which she made "Blind Road" for Select and acquired a new husband.

GLORIA GRAFTON has arrived on the coast to begin work at Radio. She last appeared here on the stage in "Kill That Story," in which she sang "Two Cigarettes in the Dark." Present plans call for her doing the same part in the picture.

MRS. JAMES GLEASON and RUSSELL GLEASON were present at a screening of "Murder on a Honeymoon" at Radio the other day. JIMMY GLEASON, husband and father, respectively, is featured in the picture and was the attraction.

BARNEY BALABAN, GERALD BROOKS and DR. JULIUS KLEIN were among interested spectators at yesterday's Federal court hearing on the Paramount reorganization plan.

MILTON WEISS, of M-G-M, was very proud of that black and white top coat at the Ampa luncheon yesterday. That is, until someone asked if he got a baseball bat with the coat.

LILLIAN BROWN, ebony-haired beauty of the U. A. publicity department, was an easy winner in the Valentine Sweepstakes conducted in that office yesterday.

ARTHUR LOEW is slated to return from the coast tomorrow and after a stay here will go back to Hollywood to confer with M-G-M executives on foreign angles in new product.

ROSALIND RUSSELL of M-G-M is due from the coast today by plane. She will immediately entrain for Waterbury, Conn., to visit her family.

BARBARA STANWYCK and her husband, FRANK FAY, will arrive in town any day now. They are going to make a personal appearance tour of the eastern cities.

ALICE FLEMING of M-G-M is now MRS. PAUL ESHLEMAN. She returned yesterday from a honeymoon at Pinehurst, N. C.

Several contracts have already been signed for various lines of novelties through Hoerle-Marks, Inc., who have been appointed his exclusive representatives in the commercial field.

VICTOR MOORE is all set to play the role he has created in "Anything Goes" on the stage for Paramount. MOORE, under contract to Universal until 1940, is being loaned to Paramount, which originally planned to spot W. C. FIELDS in the role and later dropped the idea. BING CROSBY and ETHEL MERMAN are slated for the film.

ARTHUR LEVAL sang two songs for Ampa members at the M. P. Club yesterday. The Tic Toc Girls also rendered three vocal numbers. JOHNNY GREEN played "Body and Soul" on the piano while EDMUND GWENN, BASIL RATHBONE and VICTOR MOORE made short speeches. MONROE GREENTHAL presided.

Quip of the Day

"If the actors' strike really gets going in Hollywood" says Whitney Bolton, "can you imagine Shirley Temple marching up and down with a sandwich board reading: 'Junior Laemmle Is Unfair'?"

HELEN CHANDLER became the bride yesterday of BRAMWELL FLETCHER, British player of the cast of "Within the Gates." GLADYS SWARTHOUT was soloist at the ceremony, which was performed at Riverside Chapel.

JOE VOGEL seemed calm enough at luncheon yesterday and this despite what was a big event in his life: the marriage of his sister, ADELE, to MAX LIEBOWITZ last night.

BILL SCHORR has set back his stage production of "Sing Before Breaktast" to the fall. MRS. S. is FLORENCE ROSS of the U.A. publicity department.

ROBERT SAVINI will plane to Chicago Monday and from there will go to Kansas City, Oklahoma City and Dallas.

FRANK GILLMORE, the Actor's Equity man, plans a Mediterranean cruise. He shoves off March 9.

RUTH ETTING will be interviewed by NELLIE REVELL over the WJZ hookup next Tuesday afternoon.

Reels Release Advance Films Of Hauptmann

a third reel to be used in the event the jury found Hauptmann guilty with a recommendation of mercy.

These films consisted solely of old material, showing the highlights of the trial. The spot clips taken when the verdict was handed down will not be generally released to theatres until today. The advance prints had been shipped.

News of the verdict was flashed to the theatres and exchanges which had been provided with the advance reels as soon as it was announced. The Metrotone reel was screened in 107 theatres of the Loew circuit throughout the eastern section of the country five minutes after the verdict was announced. The advance prints had been shipped by plane to 15 eastern cities having Loew houses. The Pathe release was at the same time being shown at the Embassy and Palace here, as well as at other RKO houses.

In many instances theatre audiences learned of Hauptmann's doom long before the newspapers announced it.

Fox Movietone did not go to such lengths as rival newsreels. It was content to piece together some 150 feet of film of the highlights of the trial and of scenes about the courthouse when the verdict was given out. It was estimated yesterday by Laurence Stallings, editor of the reel, that but one-eighth of the current release was devoted to the Hauptmann trial.

When questioned yesterday, newsreel officials said they did not know what disposal they would make of the thousands of feet of film of the Hauptmann trial. Would a short feature be made from it? They weren't sure what would be done with it.

In the latest issue of the Metrotone reel the Macon disaster was dramatized with the cooperation of Columbia. Scenes from "Above the Clouds" which show a dirigible sinking in mid-ocean were incorporated, with Edwin C. Hill narrating the event. Columbia was given credit for the shots.

Heavy Cut Predicted In General Theatres

LONDON, Feb. 14.—It is understood here tonight that in the reconstruction scheme to be recommended for General Theatres Corp., Ltd., a two-thirds reduction will be urged in the value of preference shares from £1 to six shillings, eight pence. Abolition of cumulative rights also will be asked, it is said, with a smaller cut in the value of ordinary shares.

Interest on debentures will not be altered, according to reports, but the sinking fund will be modified.

Affairs of the circuit have been under investigation for some time by the Joint Committee on Iinvestment Trusts and Insurance Companies. During the progress of the probe it has been rumored that John Maxwell of Associated British Picture Corp., has made an offer for the circuit. Mark Ostrer is chairman and C. M. Woolf is deputy chairman. Any recapitalization will have to be approved by shareholders.

All Honor to All Those who Made "David Copperfield" the Miracle Motion Picture! Thanks to the Courageous Producer, the Brilliant Director, and the Distinguished Cast who Captured the True Spirit of Charles Dickens' Masterpiece!

IT IS easy for us, watching "David Copperfield" on the screen today, to admire and marvel at its perfection. But stop to think for just a moment of the terrific two years' work, energy and devotion that went into its production! First, the courage of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer in undertaking it. Second, the painstaking adaptation. Third, the flawless casting. And through it all the genius of director George Cukor, who has taken his fine material and woven it into an immortal motion picture. Cukor has contributed more than polished technique, more than clever craftsmanship; he has expressed a rare sensitiveness and understanding and humanity worthy of Dickens himself. Indeed, if D. W. Griffith may be called the first great director for giving the screen most of the dramatic devices still in use today: the close-up, the struggle, the chase—then surely George Cukor is the second great director—who, achieving technical perfection effortlessly, goes many steps further and re-creates the inner beauty that is always hiding in the hearts and souls of men, waiting for the great artists to reveal it. Hail Cukor!

Court Gives Sanction to Para. Setup

the services rendered would be fixed by the court. Approval of the deposit agreements, expected on the submission of the revised forms within the next few days, will permit the committees to vote their assents to the plan after depositors have had 30 days in which to withdraw. Those who do not withdraw automatically assent to the plan.

The plan given preliminary approval by the court yesterday contained the changes from the original plan which were recommended by Judge Coxe at the previous hearing. These included a reduction of the bank interest from six to five per cent on the so-called new money debt and changes in the management provisions stipulating that the first board of directors will have a tenure of three years and cumulative voting for board members will be permitted thereafter. The plan named the 16 directors previously announced. Judge Coxe issued an order, returnable April 4, to show cause why the plan should not be confirmed and placed in effect.

Although Szold and Brandwen, counsel for the Munger debenture committee, were prepared to present opposition to John D. Hertz and possibly other members of the board yesterday, Judge Coxe ruled that these and other objections to the plan would not be heard until April 4.

Wants Assurance on Setup

George Z. Medalie, counsel for a combined creditors' group with aggregate claims of $14,000,000, asked some assurance from the court that the 16 directors named would constitute the initial board, that the membership would not be raised at the outset to 18, as permitted in the by-laws, and that a definite guarantee of "good management" be given by specifying the tenure of individual members during the first three-year period. The court replied that these matters should be worked out among the reorganization groups themselves, but that if an agreement could not be reached he would join in the conferences himself before a final order approving the plan was signed.

It was brought out that for the purposes of voting on the plan the Paramount trustees are allowing $25,500,000 of debenture claims and $1,500,000 of other claims without question, and are making a provisional allowance of 50 or 60 other claims amounting to $23,000,000 so that their holders may vote with that amount of representation.

That the Allied Owners' claim of $23,000,000, which the plan proposes to settle for $5,000,000 and other considerations may again be thrown open was indicated yesterday by Monroe Goldwater, counsel for the company. Goldwater declared that the Allied trustees would not accept the settlement in its present form as it provides for a method of payment which would be subject to a $500,000 Federal tax. A revision in the method of payment can be validly effected to avoid the tax, Goldwater said, and until this was done Allied would not accept the settlement formally.

An application by Root, Clark, Buckner & Ballantine, counsel for the Paramount trustees, for the filing of affidavits by purchasers of Paramount securities from Feb. 11 until confirmation of the plan was dismissed by Judge Coxe with the remark that it called for "a lot of unnecessary work."

on all United Artists product, thus adding to its film availabilities product drawn from Radio, Columbia, Fox, Universal and sporadically from Paramount and Gaumont British. "Sluff" product not deemed big enough for the Music Hall would go to the Rivoli.

W. G. Van Schmus, managing director of the Music Hall, stated yesterday Broadway rumors were not to be credited and that a deal was no closer than it was several weeks ago when activity looking toward its consummation approached what was described by insiders as "the sizzling point."

He leaves for Hollywood today to remain until March 1 or thereabouts. Whether or not negotiaions will be continued on the ground there was not apparent. Present in Hollywood currently are Schenck, Nathan Burkan, Dennis F. O'Brien, Mary Pickford, Samuel Goldwyn and Charles Chaplin. The latter trio, with Schenck, are participating partners in United Artists.

At the same time, Ted Schlanger, former sales manager and latterly assistant to Clayton Bond, chief film buyer for the circuit, was upped to the post of assistant general manager with headquarters in Philadelphia as head of that Warner division.

The Philadelphia territory will continue to function as recently realigned. Herbert Copelan is zone manager handling the Atlantic City houses; David E. Weshner, zone manager of the Philadelphia first runs; Leonard Schlesinger, zone manager of key neighborhood houses and subsequent runs in that city; and A. J. Vanni, zone manager of theatres out of Philadelphia but managed from that point.

W. Stewart Macdonald, Bond and Mort Blumenstock are retained in the home office as personal assistants to Joseph Bernhard.

Asks Board Man Ousted

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 14.—The I. T. O. of Southern California has filed a protest with the local grievance board demanding the resignation of Harry Hicks, a member of the body. He is charged with being unfit to pass judgment on code violations when he himself is allegedly guilty of reducing the 25-cent admission scale at the Arlington and Gem by selling coupons at 10 for two dollars. A hearing is set for next Tuesday.

senators declared, before consideration is given any legislation to continue the Recovery Act.

The resolution carries an indictment of the codes on 21 charges, including oppression of small enterprises; ignoring the rights of labor "in the competitive battle of the strong to seize the markets of the weak"; domination of code authorities by "certain elements" of industry and the use of power for the oppression of other elements; "that in certain cases the administrators themselves have not hesitated openly to suspend or revoke the law for the benefit of favored individuals"; and misuse of confidential data.

"Notwithstanding the provisions of the constitution of the United States that all bills for raising revenue shall originate in the House of Representatives," it was alleged, "code authorities have assumed and are exercising the power to levy taxes on industries and are enforcing collection thereof by duress.

"Code authority administration in many cases has lost all semblance of a rule of law and has become a rule of men bent upon the oppression of their weaker competitors."

Campi Acts on About 20 Pending Appeals

About 20 appeals were disposed of yesterday by Campi at a special session, presided over by Sidney Justin of Paramount. Two of the cases involving bank nights and decisions of the lower boards were upheld. The other appeals included reduced admissions, clearance and zoning and overbuying.

Attending the session were Deputy Administrator William P. Farnsworth, I. Levinson, Charles L. O'Reilly, Ed Kuykendall, Felix Feist, Edward Golden, Gordon C. Youngman, E. T. Gormersall and Harold S. Bareford.

No action was taken on the Leonia, Leonia, N. J., clearance and zoning situation, which has been pending for some time. It is believed that more time is needed in trying to get Loew's, Skouras and Warners to settle the matter. The next session will be held Feb. 21 when Kansas City, Milwaukee and New Haven schedules will be discussed.

Cincy Clearance Set

CINCINNATI, Feb. 14.—Under a decision of the clearance and zoning board, the Nordland, suburban house, will get pictures 28 days after the Paramount second run, and where the Paramount does not play a picture the Nordland will be entitled to features 60 days after the downtown first run.

The overbuying decision by the grievance board which ordered M. A. Shea, Weller, Zanesville, to release 24 features of the 1934-35 schedule to Zanesville Theatres, Inc., has been appealed to Campi.

Both award winners flew here for the ceremonies, Rosenthal and Shaw as guests of the Sikorsky airplane company at Bridgeport.

Local theatre men and exchange executives feted the men at a special breakfast this morning, and A-Mike Vogel, chairman of the Managers' Round Table Club of Motion Picture Herald was their host in the afternoon.

Ontario Board Saw 2,161 Films in '34

Toronto, Feb. 14.—During the past year Ontario censors cast an official eye upon 2,161 films, of which 1,309 were approved as submitted, 816 were revised before acceptance and only 36 were rejected in their entirety. Of the 2,161 subjects examined, 150 were British and for the first time on record one British feature was turned down by the board, while 39 were approved after deletions.

With regard to British pictures, department statistics show that 108 were passed in 1933 as compared with 149 in 1934, or an increase of 41 for the year. The figures were released by the new censor chairman, J. B. Hardwicke.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Vanessa: Her Love Story"

(M-G-M)

Hollywood, Feb. 14.—Running the rainbow of romance, fringing on heartbreak and covering the emotional fields with a mantle of beauty, this production, as grown-up entertainment, jerks the heart strings while dramatizing psychologies in a mature manner.

Planting Miss Helen Hayes and Robert Montgomery deeply in love, but with Miss Hayes married to mentally deranged Otto Kruger and with the English law prohibiting divorce where either person in marriage goes insane, this central situation branches into absorbing values.

Opening on the reunion of the Herries family, one of England's finest, founded by an 18th Century buccaneer, the last daughter (May Robson) in a keynote speech reminds the assorted relatives that, while today they are smug and respectable, dull but useful, the rogue Herries who founded the family was daring, wilful and interesting, that in their blood flowed also the wild gypsy strain of the girl the rogue married. At the party Montgomery, a poet-adventurer, falls madly in love with Vanessa, played by Miss Hayes. Engaged, they separate before marriage. Drunk, he marries a barmaid. She marries dull Kruger, who goes berserk. The death of Kruger consummates the romance of Montgomery and Miss Hayes.

Miss Hayes, Montgomery, Miss Robson and Kruger give outstanding performances. The cast, including Lewis Stone, Violet Kemble Cooper, Henry Stephenson, Donald Crisp and others, is splendid. William K. Howard, in a rare mood, directed deftly, forcibly and for a maximum of drama.

David O. Selznick's production is rich with values and is stamped with quality. Hugh Walpole and Lenore Coffee did the screen play from Walpole's book. Ray June photographed well.

While the appeal to stolid British virtues is undeniable, the names and romance may assure box-office vogue domestically with adults and particularly women.

"The Woman in Red"

(Warners)

Hollywood, Feb. 14.—As a drama of social circles and their warring hypocritical factions this one is good entertainment with limited audience appeal. The picture is particularly interesting to the feminine contingent and sophisticated clientele.

Barbara Stanwyck is a professional fancy horseback rider in the hire of a society woman (Genevieve Tobin). Gene Raymond, polo-playing member of an ultra-social family, marries her and gets the family frown. Hypocritical whispers in society circles almost wreck the romance, but the couple, undaunted, start a business of their own keeping stables for horse fanciers.

The tri-cornered romantic threat is John Eldredge, who loans money to Miss Stanwyck in good faith unbeknown to Raymond. The woman returns the favor by boarding Eldredge's yacht to aid him in closing a big deal by use of the Raymond family name.

The climax features the accidental death of a drunken woman and the subsequent trial of Eldredge for murder. The hitch in the court case is: Who was the woman in red? Miss Stanwyck nearly wrecks the family name by testifying on the stand. Nevertheless, all ends well despite the family ire stirred by Miss Tobin's scandalous whispering.

Robert Florey's direction is intelligent, with good technical supervision by Marguerita Hellman. The performances are all good, including the portrayals of Phillip Reed, Dorothy Tree, Claude Gillingwater, Doris Lloyd and Forester Harvey.

This picture should average well in large cities.

National Ridicules Warner Trailer Suit

Warners' suit to stop the making of National Screen's trailers on its productions is described as "ridiculous" in a statement issued yesterday by National which has 20 days in which to reply in the N. Y. Supreme Court to the Warner charges. As the complaint was filed Feb 7, the time limit expires Feb. 27.

Warners claim National's trailers are "damaging their reputation and business."

Without waiting for the formality of a court response, National Screen issued a statement yesterday in which it said it "welcomed the opportunity of having the proper authorities determine whether or not it has the right to serve the requirements of its thousands of exhibitor customers throughout the country, as long as it does not infringe on any copyright protections."

The statement says further that "the contention that no one has the right to mention the name of their productions, or the players in any of these productions without their authorized permission is too ridiculous to require lengthy comment."

Coast Relief Cost $150,000 for 1934

Hollywood, Feb. 14.—A report covering operations of the M. P. Relief Fund for the year 1934 reveals $150,000 was collected and disbursed.

In round figures, 4,000 cases, representing over 10,000 individuals received aid. Two thousand weekly grocery orders, providing food for about 5,000 individuals were issued; 1,000 persons received treatment from physicians, dentists, opticians and laboratories; 200 individuals received medical treatment in hospitals and sanitariums. Private nursing was provided in 50 cases. Medical appliances were supplied to 50 people, and 1,000 received drugs. There were 43 deaths during the year, and through the courtesy of Pierce Bros., morticians, 29 funerals were handled without charge.

The executive committee of the fund believe it will be necessary to raise approximately a quarter million dollars to meet the needs for 1935 and to this end, plans are being formulated to obtain it through contributions from studio workers.

Lubitsch Denies He Has a Toeplitz Deal

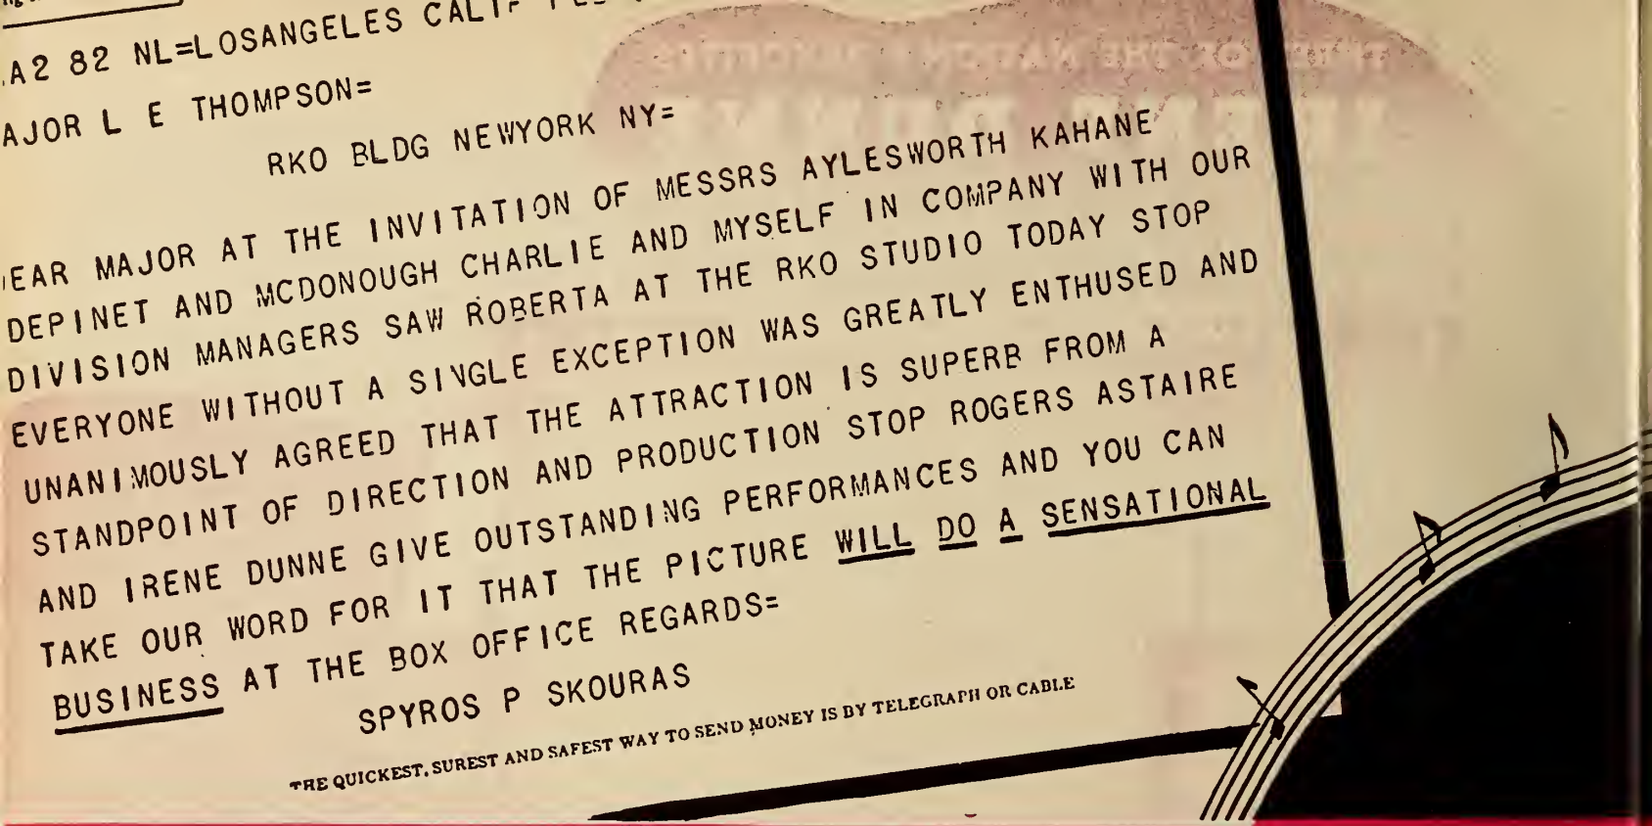
Toeplitz Prod., as reported. He said he had had indefinite preliminary conversations with Toeplitz but had never agreed on any proposition.



"I would never have undertaken the Paramount portfolio," he said, "if any prior contract existed."

Asked about his production plans, he said: "I would rather be judged by what I do rather than what I say."

Queried about changes in personnel, he said: "As Mr. Zukor said before, our organization remains intact, with the exception of Henry Herzbrun."

Lubitsch said Gary Cooper's contract has some time to run and the company has no intention of parting with him, he indicated.

Jack Moss, Cooper's manager, says Cooper's contract has 19 months more to go and calls for six pictures. In addition, the company has options for extensions.

Ohio Leaders Deny Rift in Their Ranks

Charge Hays Office Is Circulating Rumors

Martin G. Smith, president; M. B. Horwitz, treasurer, and P. J. In the same breath and assigning no known motivation, they laid the blame for circulation of such rumors at the door of the Hays organization.

Smith and Horwitz were hot under the collar. So was Wood, who did most of the talking.

Purely Personal

SIR CEDRIC HARDWICK sails tonight for England on the Berengaria. He recently finished work in "Becky Sharp" for Pioneer and will start shortly in "Peg Woffington" for British and Dominion.

WILLIAM SHAPIRO plans to leave for the coast in a few weeks. He's now working on an important deal which, when consummated, will require a trip to Hollywood.

LOUIS SOLOMON, head of Puritan Pictures, arrives today from the coast. He recently signed TIM MCCOY for a series of features for the independent market.

LESLIE HOWARD and EDDIE CANTOR are slated for appearance tomorrow night at the Catholic Actors' Guild benefit. The St. James is the theatre.

BOB GOLDSTEIN arrived back in town yesterday from Chicago. He plans no future trips until after JACK DEMPSEY's new restaurant opens.

LENORE COFFEE of the M-G-M writers' staff arrives from the coast Wednesday or Thursday en route to Europe for a vacation.

Quip of the Day

E. A. Briles, exhibitor of Stafford, Kan., and a member of the Kansas legislature, has been thinking about laws. Here is one of his deductions: "We Americans have a great weakness for passing laws, and the most serious weakness is that we pass right by them and pay no attention to them."

LOUIS FRISCH says SAM RINZLER is in Miami having a fine time, but is on call to return at a moment's notice.

M. H. AYLESWORTH, NED DEPINET and A. H. MCCAUSLAND leave the coast this week-end.

NORMAN ELSON, formerly with Columbia, is now in charge of the Broadway houses of Brandt Theatres.

MAURICE CHEVALIER aired a bit from "Folies Bergere" last night on the Hollywood Hotel program.

ALINE MACMAHON hits town tomorrow from the coast. It will be a three-month vacation for her.

WALLACE BEERY arrived in town yesterday and goes on the air tomorrow night on the Lux program.

HARRY BRANDT's Florida tan is a joy and a complete job. Even his bald pate is deeply hued.

DON HANCOCK is back in town after a flying, literally and figuratively, trip to Washington.

DAVE PALFREYMAN leaves for New Orleans tonight to be gone three weeks.

ANTHONY THORNE's "Delay in the Sun" has been acquired by Universal.

LAURENCE BOLOGNINO plans to get off to Miami late next week.

ED KUYKENDALL heads southward today.

FRANK CONKLIN, of the Hearst hotels, will be tendered a buffet luncheon and cocktail party next Wednesday at the Warwick Hotel. MARTIN STARR is chairman of the arrangements committee and the reason for the party is CONKLIN's promotion to the position of assistant general manager of the Hearst hostelries.

LOWELL THOMAS has been signed to supply the narrative for "Wings Over Mt. Everest," American edition of the film record of the Houston Mt. Everest flight being released by Educational as a three-reel special.

Two-Men Bill Would Darken 400—Walsh

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 15.—Approximately 400 of the 1,100 independent theatres in this state will be compelled to close if the two-men-in-a-booth bill is passed, insists Morgan Walsh, president of the Northern California I.T.O.A.

Walsh made the declaration at a session called to discuss pending legislation. He analyzed the probable effects of about 200 bills.

Also present at the meeting were John J. Bryson, Hays office representative, and Hulda McGinn, manager of the California Theatre Ass'n.

Walsh spread consternation when he pointed out that the proposed footage tax would be passed to exhibitors under the terms of their contracts.

Bryson said: "We are confronting the most serious situation in Sacramento in the history of our industry."

Expect to Clear Up Tax Upon Equipment

Clearing up of the question as to whether sound reproducing equipment used in theatres is subject to the five per cent tax levied against radios, radio and phonograph combinations and musical instruments is expected shortly by the Entertainment Apparatus Manufacturers' Ass'n.

In a bulletin just issued the association points out that Deputy Commissioner D. S. Bliss of the Internal Revenue Department has reversed local agents and has requested manufacturers to submit detailed copies of their specifications.

Warner Crowd Will Make Merry Tonight

The Warner Club will make merry tonight at its sixth annual banquet and ball at the Waldorf-Astoria. A crowd of more than 1,500 is expected. Paul Whiteman and his orchestra will deliver the dance music. Many stage, screen and radio personalities will have a hand in the entertainment.

Morros Arranging Show

Boris Morros is in charge of the talent for the M. P. Club show tomorrow night. He is lining up a program to surround the preview of "Ruggles of Red Gap."

Among the talent to appear will be three Metropolitan Opera stars, Frederick Schorr, Kathryn Newman and Henrietta Shuman. Emery Deutsch, violinist; Emile Boreo of "Folies Bergere," and Monroe Silvers, songwriter and radio artist, are also on the program.

Formed for Financing

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—A new film financing corporation, known as the Standard Capital Co. of Wilmington, Del., has been formed, it became known here when the company was accorded permission of the Standard Securities Commission to float an issue of 15,000 shares of six per cent preferred, par value $100, and 33,333 shares of $1 par common.

three-hour minimum call, because of the new six-hour day.

The changes become effective on March 4 and expire, together with the basic agreement, in March, 1936. Studio laborers and painters and several I. A. T. S. E. unions were denied inclusion in the basic agreement, but their applications will probably be considered when the new one is negotiated next year. A 20 per cent wage increase for the five unions now in the agreement was denied.

Sitting in at the sessions with Casey and individual representatives of producing companies were William Hutchinson, president of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners; Daniel Tracy, president of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers; Joseph N. Weber, president of the American Federation of Musicians, and Daniel J. Tobin, head of the truck drivers' union.

Nizer Statistics Annoy Campi Group

Authority are made public they must first be approved by the body.

In particular, the attack was directed against Louis Nizer's forthcoming book, "New Courts of Industry: Self Regulation Under the Motion Picture Code." Some of the members wanted to know where the information came from and why such data as is contained in the book had not been presented to Campi members prior to its publication. The contention of one of the codists was that such information is not official unless passed by the body. An article appearing in the New York Times and based on the forthcoming book was also criticized.

No official objections went on the record, it is said, because the session was declared to be a special meeting for the purpose of handing down decisions on appeals. When the full Campi body convenes next Thursday, it is understood that the matter will come up again for official action.

Tyree Dillard, Jr., who sat for John C. Flinn during the executive secretary's absence, would not discuss the situation, but was anxious to know how Campi's reaction to the Nizer book leaked out. Flinn is on the coast and is expected back Tuesday or Wednesday.

Pennsylvanians to Fight 10% Tax Plan

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 15.—Under the direction of Lewen Pizor, president, the M.P.T.O. of this territory has decided to wage a determined campaign against the proposed 10 per cent state tax on admissions. A legislative committee headed by Pizor and including M. E. Comerford, Michael Egnal. Herbert Coane, George P. Aarons and Herbert Effinger met today and proposed that every exhibitor in the state be asked to contact his representative.

Washington's Leaders Join In Quigley Award Ceremony

W. Byrns of the House, Representative William Citron of Connecticut, and Bishop Thomas F. Gailor of Memphis.

Industry representatives included A-Mike Vogel, chairman of the Managers' Round Table Club of Motion Picture Herald; John J. Payette, Washington zone manager for Warner Theatres; A. Julian Brylawski, president of the Washington M.P.T.O. unit; Carter T. Barron, Loew theatres eastern division chief; Frank LaFalce, Lew Brown and William Ewing.

In making the presentation, Garner said: "I am pleased to present to you the Martin Quigley grand award, which distinction is accorded you for the excellence of your advertising campaign on 'Six-Day Bike Rider' adjudged the best submitted during 1934. My congratulations." He referred to "The Mighty Barnum" campaign in making the presentation to Rosenthal.

In brief remarks Senators McKellar and Lonergan endorsed the purpose of the Quigley awards and congratulated the winners on the cooperation which they had enlisted among local merchants. They described this as a stimulant to business.

Speaker Byrns greeted Hendricks as a fellow Tennessean and said he took great pride in the honors bestowed upon his fellow citizen.

Hendricks arrived early this morning and was greeted by a delegation of local film and theatre men. With Rosenthal, he was guest of honor at a breakfast.

After the presentation there was an informal gathering. In the evening there was a reception with entertainment provided by LaFalce, Brown and Ewing, who headed the reception committee.

urged the national organization to do so on June 16 unless proposed extension of the NRA corrects what Allied terms its defects.

New York executives were severely criticized for permitting substitutes to sit for them at Campi sessions.

Some bills pending in Congress were condemned, but Culkin's bill which is designed not only to end block booking, but also to require synopses of stories in advance of release and to amend Section 2 of the Clayton Act to make it apply to license agreements as well as sales was approved.

The convention committee reported receipt of an invitation from Gov. Eugene O. Talmadge of Georgia. It was voted to enlarge the committee to include certain national officers situated in strategic points. The convention will be held the second week of May in Atlanta.

L. F. Martin Quits As Allied Manager

DES MOINES, Feb. 15.—Lester F. Martin, former secretary-treasurer, has resigned as business manager of Allied Theatre Owners of Iowa and Nebraska and will enter private business in Des Moines and Nevada. All activities of Allied are being carried on in the office of the president, Leo. F. Wolcott, at Eldora, Ia., until a new business manager is appointed by the board of directors.

Many are willing to make an exception in this particular case because the pastor, Dr. Burris A. Jenkins, for many years has been an avowed friend of the industry.

Wisconsin Circuit's Bank Nights Stopped

MILWAUKEE, Feb. 15.—In four cases, involving Wisconsin Amusement Enterprises, Inc., the grievance board has ordered the circuit to discontinue bank nights at its Oriental, Shorewood, State and Tower theatres. Complaints against the first two houses were issued by the Oakland Theatre, Inc., and against the latter by the Colonial Amusement Co. All the houses are neighborhoods.

Amateur, gift nights, double and triple features are getting a play in most of the outlying theatres with admissions in many cases dropped to 15 and 10 cents.

as is the story that Ohio exhibitors were sponsors of a measure seeking to increase the censorship fee per reel from $1 to $3.

"However, we are sponsoring a measure making it unlawful for distributors to designate days of the week when exhibitors must play their pictures. Widespread objection to this practice, current with all major distributors, has developed throughout the state. It encourages the exhibition of pictures not suitable for Sunday showings and the new measure is being supported by the Ohio Council of Churches and latterly by the Ohio Congress of Parents and Teachers.

"Furthermore, we are at a loss to know and we are anxious to ascertain why and who is spreading the propaganda that the exhibitor unit is now divided among itself. This is a falsehood, complete and unequivocal."

Smith and Horwitz reached New York yesterday from Washington where they attended the meeting of Allied's national directors. Wood came on from Ohio.

The trio was bitter over what it asserted to be the complete lack of cooperation, morally and financially, from affiliated circuits in waging the fight against adverse legislation. Late yesterday they conferred individually with Nate Blumberg of RKO, Joseph Bernhard of Warners and Joe Vogel of Loew's, in an effort to persuade those circuit executives to bear part of the expenses incurred to date.

Last night, Wood indicated the conversations had been satisfactory from the viewpoint of the I. T. O. of Ohio. The group remains over for further deliberations on this point and checks out for Ohio tonight.

State Dep't Seeks Advice on Copyright

have accrued under copyright legislation passed a generation ago and only slightly amended since then, as well as to bring our laws into conformity with the International Copyright Convention.

The treaty is considered of "large importance" in the department because its adoption would greatly strengthen the ability of the department to protect the interests of Americans in other countries.

The draft legislation submitted to the Senate committee this week appears to be a thorough revision of the copyright laws. It provides for flat protection for 56 years instead of for two terms of 28 years each, as at present. The penalty for infringement is reduced from a minimum of $250 to $100.

The bill establishes the right of the author to control his work even after transfer of the copyright, so that he may prevent modification or misuse, but allows him to sign away the right to modify, so that stories may be adapted for screen or stage use. It also protects literary works not heretofore covered, such as continuities.

The bill is considered by those who have seen it to be a conscientious effort on the part of the department not only to secure an agreement of the various interests but also to include a number of features to which objection will be raised by producers.

The International Copyright Convention, which dates from 1886 and was revised in 1928, was submitted to the Senate by President Roosevelt about a year ago. It had previously been submitted in 1931 by President Hoover.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"The Wedding Night"

(Goldwyn-United Artists)

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 15.—Samuel Goldwyn, with his usual canny showmanship spotting together Gary Cooper and Anna Sten, has fashioned an interesting love drama from down-to-earth materials.

Well produced and with artistic completeness, the film is a triumph for personality values, direction and well told story.

The original story by Edwin Knopf takes Novelist Cooper to his ancestral farm in Connecticut with his wife, Helen Vinson, returning to Manhattan gaiety, while he, searching, strikes on a story idea revealing the love life and customs of Polish immigrants on the American scene.

From Miss Sten, Polish farmer's daughter, Cooper gets an inspiration—she seeking music and poetry, he seeking reality and facts about the lives of immigrants. Miss Vinson, returning, finds the novel advanced and senses therefrom a Cooper-Sten relationship, but refuses to give him up.

On Miss Sten's wedding night, after Cooper has left, the bridegroom, Ralph Bellamy, accuses Miss Sten, and in a drunken rage rushes to Cooper's home. Miss Sten follows, and, in a pushing brawl on Cooper's stairway, Miss Sten is killed. Cooper and Miss Vinson dedicate the completed novel to Miss Sten.

Virile Gary, in appeal and performance, is impressive. Miss Sten, combining the earthy and spirituelle quality, has reserves untouched. Miss Vinson is a dramatic surprise. She arrives at maturity by outstanding trouping. Bellamy is good. Siegfried Rumann, Walter Brennan, Hilda Vaughn stand out in a well directed cast. King Vidor's direction from Edith Fitzgerald's screen play has simplicity and force. Gregg Toland's photography is excellent.

Assaying Cooper, Miss Sten and the title, showmen should cash in to their satisfaction.

Previewed without Production Code Seal. Running time, 83 minutes. "G."

What Hankin's policy will be is not known.

Joseph Bernhard, general manager of Warner Theatres, last night denied that the four Philadelphia houses had been turned over to Hankin. He did admit, however, that such a deal was pending.

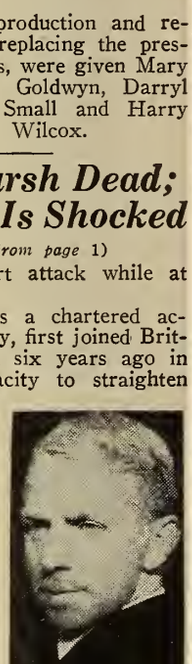
is committed to a minimum schedule of 22 releases, which represents an increase over other years.

The new season plans were made known by Joseph M. Schenck, president, following a directors' meeting last night. The program calls for 25 features from domestic producers and 10 from British producers. Of the 25 domestic pictures, 20th Century will deliver 12; Samuel Goldwyn, six; Reliance, four; Charles Chaplin, two; Mary Pickford, one. Alexander Korda of London Films, will produce four and Herbert Wilcox of British & Dominion, two. The remaining four to come from abroad are still undetermined.



New five-year production and releasing contracts, replacing the present short term ones, were given Mary Pickford, Chaplin, Goldwyn, Darryl Zanuck, Edward Small and Harry Goetz, Korda and Wilcox.

Independents Heartened By L. A. Schedule

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 17.—Rejection by Fox Midwest of I.T.O. proposals for a new clearance schedule for Kansas City is regarded here as an indication to Campi to proceed with consideration of the schedule it has before it and which it has been pondering for some time.

Moves of the local independents' organization to obtain adoption of a substitute plan were initiated independently of the local clearance and zoning board. The I.T.O. is opposing the schedule Campi is prepared to act upon as well as the arrangement in effect here this season. The organization has submitted its new proposals to Campi as an alternative to legal action, which is threatened.

The independents are heartened by Campi's approval of clearance based on admissions, as provided in the Los Angeles schedule, but oppose the Film Probes Here Sought By the ITOA

Protection Fight Stirs Move for State Action

Following many open discussions of local conditions by the membership, the I.T.O.A. board of directors at a secret meeting last week took the first step in a move for a state anti-trust investigation of major circuit activities in this territory, it was learned over the week-end. The action has been brewing for some time, but came to a head last week when the body passed a resolution seeking a probe of asserted practices by major circuits. It is understood such a probe would be conducted by the attorney general's office here.

A committee to present the facts to the Senate and Governor Lehman will be named Wednesday when the regular meeting will be held at the Astor.

While no mention has been made of the particular circuits involved, it is understood the action is directed against Loew's. Several efforts have

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

THE time to turn the page is now, if you've had enough on Paramount and what goes on there, for this is another chapter in that exciting serial.

Manny Cohen may yet have his day in court if the $14,000,000 Fortington creditor group has its say and its way. This is the crowd which quietly acquired a young carload of Paramount bonds and then insisted upon board representation before reorganization factors could spell Fortington. It later did some maneuvering, threw out some lines and hauled them in with enough company creditors dangling to earn for itself a minimum of four directors on the new board. Now it insists its members are genuinely concerned over the why and the wherefore of Cohen's abrupt departure and maintains explanations supplied to date are not at all satisfactory. . . .

Listen to a spokesman:

"We are not convinced that Cohen's dismissal was for the company's good. Out of his last 19 pictures, we find that 16 were money makers. To us, that is a good record. The only explanation of his dismissal that has been given us is that production costs increased alarmingly under Cohen in recent months. We have received no figures to support the statement.

"When the new board of directors takes office we intend to ask for a complete explanation and will demand that Cohen be given a hearing. Even a criminal is afforded that opportunity. Moreover, we are displeased with the manner of his dismissal. We were not informed of what was contemplated nor were we consulted in any way. It seems to us that the Paramount trustees, in taking an action of such great importance to the future of the company so shortly before the reorganization, might have first conferred with the people who own the company." . . .

Meanwhile, other matters tying in with this state of affairs are proceeding apace or something. Members of the Root, Clark, Buckner & Ballantine law staff in the service of the trustees, have been delegated to work with Alfred Cook, counsel for Paramount and for the stockholders' committee, in attempts to pacify the Fortington champions of Cohen. No success, to date. . . .

While such hustle and bustle continues, plans are being shaped for a special meeting of stockholders to elect the new board immediately upon confirmation of the reorganization plan by the court so that the board may take over direction of the company immediately. Little serious objection to any of the 16 directors agreed upon is anticipated. The weightiest of it undoubtedly will come from the Munger debenture committee, which would prefer to see R. C. Kremer, the Corticelli Silk man, in John D. Hertz's place on the board, or, if Charles E. Richardson, former trustee, goes on, then Charles D. Hilles, active trustee, should be there, too. The Munger committee is enthused over the Hilles' record as trustee. Regardless, informal functioning of the board is anticipated even in advance of any court confirmation of the plan. . . .

No discussions have been held yet on the underwriting of the new stock issue. No one in the center of reorganizing activities appears anxious to be the first to mention the subject, although all have it on their minds. The difficulty seems to be that everyone except Samuel Zirn has a banking connection of one sort or another. With this and that to contend with in the daily battle for place, the name of Eugene Leake, trustee, gains daily strength as a candidate for treasurer after reorganization, of course. His latest champion and in a position to have himself heard is Percy H. Johnston, member of the board as a representative of those creditor banks and chairman of the board of the Chemical bank. . . .

From downtown, if you listen, reports will inform you that Kuhn, Loeb and Lehman Brothers as well as one or two other financial houses identified with the reorganization through ownership of large blocks of securities, are ready and willing to divorce themselves from the picture completely in as brief a time as it may require to dispose of their present holdings or to liquidate the securities which will be issued by the new company in exchange for the old. Counter that with the impression afoot in Times Square where the knowledge of the almost feverish buying of Paramount securities by both houses in recent months is well known. Uptown doubts downtown proposes to step out so willingly. . . .

Merely to clear up one confusion, it may be enlightening to inform reorganization factors bothered about the heavyweight trading in securities by Newborg Co. and Belden Co. just who has been buying for whom. Newborg's initial trading was as nominee of Kuhn, Loeb & Co.—probably $200,000 of it. The remainder, in the neighborhood of another $150,000, has been speculative and on Newborg's own initiative. Belden, which traded to the extent of more than $500,000 in Paramount securities, has been acting for P. C. Mohrman, a firm of investment counsellors headed by four statisticians formerly associated with the late Colonel Pope of Eastman, Dillon. He leaped into prominence in financial circles when he amassed a fortune—much of it through trading in Fox Film stock—in the bear market of 1928. The Mohrman buying in Paramount securities, likewise, is solely speculative. . . .

K. L. may find some solace in this: The men who count there have been fearful the buying might be on behalf of Lehman Brothers. Those rallied around the Lehman standard were in reverse: They thought K. L. was manipulating the moves. One more angle and then to something else: What of these reports that Cook may figure prominently in the Paramount executive roster after reorganization is finally effected? Well, what about them? . . .

A host of names but with one objective: Ben Schulberg, Billy Goldman, Fanchon and Marco, Kidder, Peabody and Company, Harry M. Warner, Joe Schnitzer, Lou Berman. What a melee, but what a yarn when it is a yarn! Patience. . . .

Hollywood bulletin: Joe Schenck says he'll be back in New York in about ten days when he expects to close for the Fox Met circuit. . . .

Club's Second Show Draws Sunday Crowd

Approximately 150 attended the second preview showing held at the M. P. Club last night. Cocktails preceded dinner, which was held at 7 o'clock. "Ruggles of Red Gap" was screened at 9 o'clock and the screening was followed by entertainment and dancing.

Boris Morros was in charge of the entertainment which included numbers by Frederick Schorr, Kathryn Newman and Henrietta Shuman of the Metropolitan Opera; Emery Deutsch, violinist; Emil Boreo of "Folies Bergere," and Monroe Silvers, radio entertainer.

been made to get the circuit to relieve exhibitors from the cumulative protection strain, but nothing of consequence has developed.

Senator Nye is reported interested and is understood to have asked for certain facts relative to the independents' plight. Federal investigators are reported secretly working in Bergen and Hudson counties in New Jersey. Their summons into New Jersey is reported to have been at the instigation of two exhibitors and not through any exhibitor body.

Harry Brandt, president of the I.T.O.A., several months ago stated that as soon as the local operator basic agreement was set he would seek a clearance and zoning schedule for New York. Members of the local board were reported interested in the request and even held hopes that a meeting of all theatre owners would be called for the drafting of a schedule. This, however, never materialized.

Century Case Important

One of the most important clearance cases in this territory is now before the local board. One hearing was held about two weeks ago and the adjourned session is slated to resume on Wednesday morning. The issue involves the Century circuit against RKO in Long Island. RKO's Strand and Columbia, Far Rockaway, and the Alden, Jamaica, are presently buying seven days' protection over the Fantasy, Rockville Center, which for five years has been playing day and date. Century contends the Fantasy is not a competitor to the RKO houses.

Important in the national clearance picture is the decision handed down recently by Campi which, according to some code members, sets a precedent in determining how far apart two theatres must be for one to get clearance over the other. In the case of the Warners' Forum in Los Angeles against F.W.C.'s Uptown, the two houses are a mile apart and Code Authority declared them noncompetitive. Up to this season the F.W.C. house has been getting clearance over the Forum. The combined drawing population of both houses is 25,000.

Whether this decision will be a guiding factor in the Century-RKO dispute here is up to the board. If the precedent set in the Los Angeles case is accepted by the body, many local exhibitors with theatres separated a mile from their competitors will bring similar complaints, it is said.

Costian on the Coast

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 17. — Thomas Costian, eastern story editor for Fox, has arrived here for conferences with studio officials. He plans to remain here for several weeks.

Hamrick Drops First Run

PORTLAND, Feb. 17.—John Hamrick has dropped the Music Box as a first run. The house will revert to its 15-cent scale.

Boston Clearances Based on Old Plan

BOSTON, Feb. 17.—The clearance and zoning board has adopted individual decisions on theatres which were included in the original north and east of Boston schedules, with the exception of Reading, Stoneham and Wakefield.

Appeals have been received from the Egleston Amusement Co. for the Fairmount in the Mattapan zone; Middlesex Theatres, Inc., for the Capital, Arlington, in the Cambridge zone; Somerville Capitol Theatre Co., for the Capitol, Somerville, in the Cambridge zone; A. Bendsley, for the Community Playhouse, Wellesley Hills, in the Newton zone. These await New York decisions. An appeal has also been received from the Wakefield on the decision given on the Reading Theatre Corp. vs. the Wakefield.

Set Clearance for Utah Church Shows

SALT LAKE CITY, Feb. 17.—Establishing what is regarded as a precedent for the entire intermountain territory, an agreement on clearance has been reached here in connection with the L. D. S. ward amusement halls, which are church-operated and designated as non-theatrical accounts, presenting films one day a week.

The agreement reduces clearance to six months after release date in this territory, according to F. C. Loofborough, local code board secretary. All of the ward houses here and the one in Magna are involved.

Change N. O. Clearances

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 17.—The Peacock and Gentilly have been zoned together by the clearance and zoning board, with each house getting films 60 days after first run in the downtown area, depending upon contracts. This decision, arrived at after several postponements, was brought about on the plea of Tony Demharder, manager of the Peacock, who asserted that despite the fact he had contract giving him playing time 60 days after Canal St., he had to wait 60 more days until the Dreamland, three miles away, played pictures. E. J. Myrick, executive vice-president of United Theatres, owners of the Dreamland, asked for another postponement, but was overruled. Two postponements had already been granted.

Smalley Wins 2 Cases

ALBANY, Feb. 17.—Smalley Chain Theatres has won two cases against the Schine Theatrical Co. One charged the operation of a lottery in Norwich, N. Y. The other complaint, brought on behalf of the Cooperstown, Cooperstown, N. Y., accused the Palace and Oneonta, Oneonta, N. Y., of issuing student tickets. A third complaint, involving Schine's Colonial and Smalley's Norwich, Norwich, N. Y., and alleging confiscation of the latter's advertising, has been dismissed. Stop orders have been issued in the first two cases.

"Valley Forge" to Capra

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 17. — Frank Capra's next for Columbia will be "Valley Forge," the Maxwell Anderson play now in New York. As the title suggests, the story deals with portions of the life of Washington.

Braddock Man Loses Exemption on Labor

Compliance Director Sol A. Rosenblatt has denied J. A. Gallaher of the Braddock, Braddock, Pa., an exemption from the minimum wage scale set for that theatre on May 10, 1934. Gallaher made an application for exemption, but after an investigation by Robert A. Gaffner, assistant deputy administrator, Rosenblatt refused to set aside the labor provisions of the code.

On request of Herman J. Brown of the Inland Amusement Co., operating the New Majestic, Nampa, Ia., Rosenblatt confirmed an exemption asked for as a result of a decision handed down against the theatre. Brown asked that his case be turned over to the local recovery board. This was approved by the compliance head.

Finds He's Late on St. Joseph Appeal

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 17.—Dissatisfied with the clearance schedule set up for St. Joseph, Mo., Frank H. Cassil, subsequent exhibitor in that city, sought to file an appeal, but learned that the period in which he could take an appeal had expired.

Other subsequents are said to be satisfied with the new plan, which reduces Dubinsky's first run protection to some extent. Dubinsky has voluntarily agreed to reduce the Orpheum's first run protection to 74 days.

Decides 1st Bank Night

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—The local grievance board has just decided its first bank night case, having found L. M. Corcoran, operator of the Ponton, Crew, Va., guilty of violating the code by offering cash prizes. The complainant was Mrs. L. B. Bradshaw of the Crew, same town. The board ordered the defendant to refrain from any practice tending to reduce admissions.

To Push Foreign Films

Meropolis Pictures Corp. has been formed with headquarters in New York City to bring "outstanding" European product before American audiences. The company, the general manager of which is Martin J. Lewis, for the past six years with the 55th St. Playhouse and before that with Fox and European producing companies, has branches in the capitals of Europe.

The first release will be the French "La Maternelle" (to be known here as "Loving Hands"), which will be presented with English titles in association with John S. Tapernoux. It will open at a Broadway theatre in the near future.

Morgan Stays at M-G-M

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 17.—M-G-M has signed Frank Morgan to a new term contract. Morgan's first under the new ticket will be "No More Ladies," with Joan Crawford and Robert Montgomery.

King Signed for Three

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 17.—Henry King has signed a new contract with Fox to direct three pictures during the coming year. It was previously announced that King had signed a year's contract, but this was denied by the studio.

Hold Midwest Move Speeds K. C. Zoning

standard set by that plan whereby seven days' clearance may be granted over equally priced houses. They want identical clearance for identical admissions, as has prevailed here heretofore.

Objection is raised to distributors granting Fox Midwest seven days' protection over equally priced subsequent runs, even though the latter give premiums and adopt other practices termed unfair.

The I.T.O. also wants unrestricted double billing privileges, and points to the recent Federal court decision in Philadelphia as granting them that right. Most of the distributors here do not permit twin billing of product which receives a first run, and Columbia and Universal have a limited list of pictures which may be dualed.

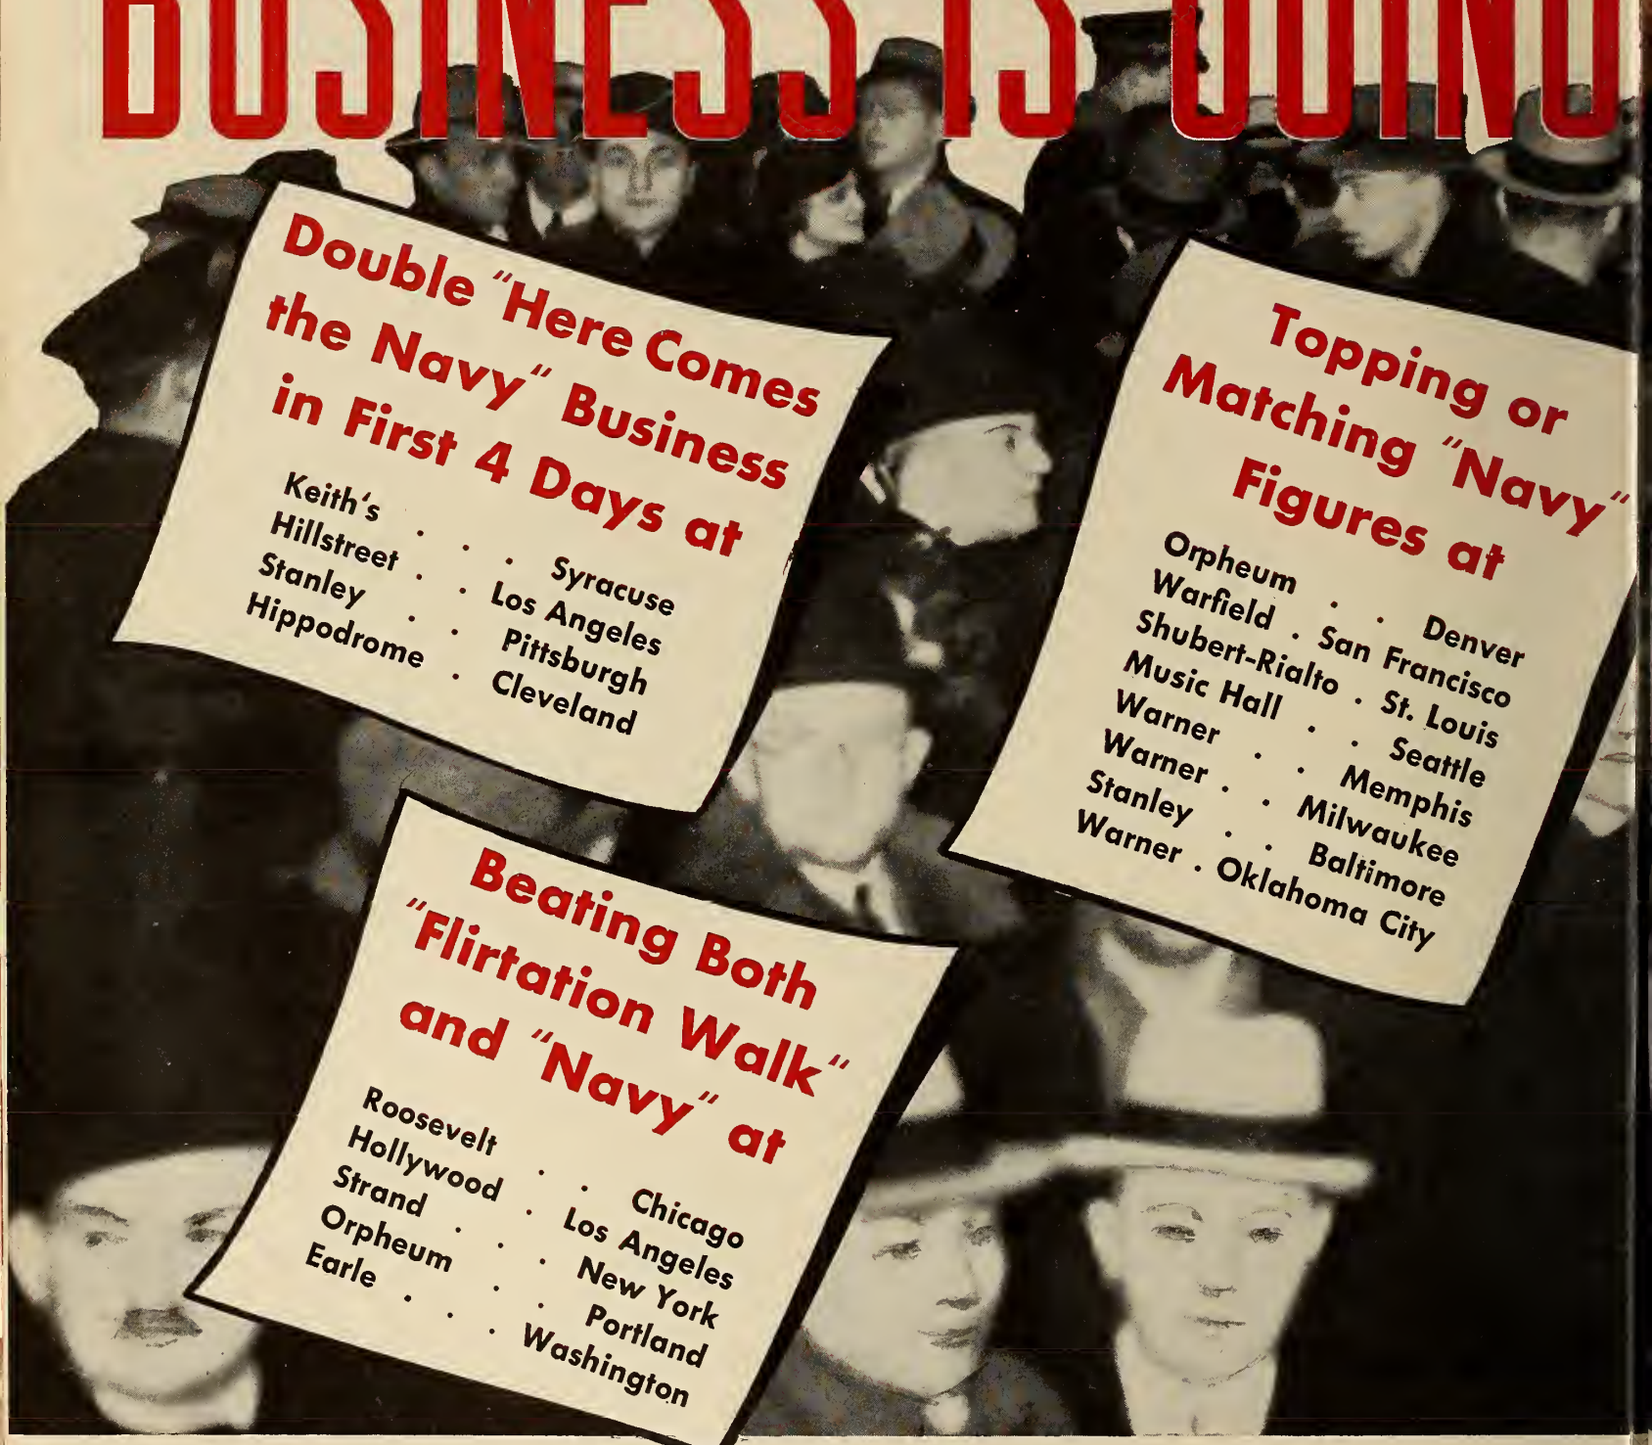
Would Set Penalties

Conceding, however, that some penalties should be imposed, the I.T.O. proposes to set back theatres 28 days after regular clearance when dualing or using premiums, and, when using both, to delay clearance 42 days beyond the normal spot.

Additionally, these clearances are included in the plan the organization wants Campi to adopt, but which E. C. Rhoden, Fox Midwest division manager, has rejected: 30-cent run (first subsequent run), 28 days from close of first run; second subsequent run, charging 25 cents, 14 days after 30-cent run; third subsequent run, or second 25-cent run, 14 days following second subsequent run; 20-cent run, 14 days later; 15-cent run, to follow 20 cents by 21 days; 10 cents, 42 days after 15 cents.

This should shorten the existing protection over houses charging 20 cents or less, but would also cut first runs' clearance from seven to 14 days. The latter proposal, it is said, is one of the main reasons Campi will not accept the I.T.O. suggestions. First runs will resist any curtailment of their protection. In fact, they demand longer clearance over subsequent runs.

Ask Legal Fight on Flint Factory Shows



DETROIT, Feb. 17.—Four exhibitors have been asked to join several exchanges here in a legal move to prevent film showings by the Industrial Mutual Ass'n. Collection of damages is also aimed at on the ground that the films were obtained in violation of exclusive distribution rights held by the exchanges.

The I.M.A. is made up of workers in the Flint automobile plants. Sunday shows have been given with nominal admissions. Allied of Michigan has long waged a fight against the showings.

IEM to Meet Feb. 19

BOSTON, Feb. 17.—The next meeting of the Independent Exhibitors of Massachusetts, affiliate of Allied, will be Feb. 19. National and local problems will be considered. Pending local legislation will be given particular attention.

made known to members. How long this will take and what the results will be are matters of conjecture, but the impression prevails that the union will be allowed to work out its reorganization in its own way so far as possible.

Pittsburgh was placed on probation because of internal dissension. Some of the elected officers refused to serve, and the probation order was instituted pending a new election. Meanwhile, Clyde Weston of Illinois, international representative, is in charge for the I. A. T. S. E.

New York Local 306 has been taken over entirely by the international.

The Cincinnati local, which has been on probation, has been reorganized and restored to self-government. An entirely new slate of officers has taken charge in Kansas City.

Harmony in Kansas City

The fact Kansas City has been free from intimidation of exhibitors and violence under the regime of Frank Dowd, business agent for 18 months, prompted the I. A. T. S. E. executive board to vote it self-government. The I. A. T. S. E. drafted Dowd to create harmony between exhibitors and the union and to compose internal dissension in union ranks largely caused by unemployment and other depression factors. Dowd, a former police officer, is considered to have held the members in check and to have cleaned up the mess.

The local was deprived of self-government on May 9, 1932, following a long-standing and bitter dispute with the theatres and a series of bombings and other outrages. During the period, the international office maintained close supervision of the local and appointed its officers.

Dowd retired as business agent in favor of Clyde A. Trantham, operator at Dubinsky's Liberty and a member of the local for 24 years, and returned to his former position in the booth at Loew's Midland. William McKinstrey, projectionist at the RKO Mainstreet, is the new president, succeeding H. H. Dunavan, the appointed officer. Frank H. Burkert, secretary for the last 24 years, has retired and has been replaced by E. F. Dougherty.

L. A. Zoning Details Will Be Cleared Up

Final approval of clauses pertaining to prints, geographical areas and starting date of the Los Angeles clearance and zoning schedule will be made at the Campi hearing on Thursday when John C. Flinn reports to the body on the action of the local board. Flinn met with the coast body last week when the print situation, geographical areas and other clauses in the schedule were discussed.

A preamble to the first schedule to get the official sanction of Campi is now being drawn and will also be included. Kansas City's plan is slated to be approved at the session and it is also likely the New Haven and Milwaukee schedules will be discussed.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Folies Bergere"

(20th Century-U. A.)

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 17.—The production opens with an intimate view of back stage life, affording Maurice Chevalier wide latitude for his characteristic whimsicalities befitting a typical song and dance man of Paris.

This setting is interpolated with brief music hall sketches climaxed by the ensemble rendering "Rhythm of the Rain" number, which is lavishly mounted with a large bevy of beautiful dancing girls and catchy music. This sets the audience in the right frame of mind until the offering takes a sudden turn outside the theatre and depicts the complications arising through Chevalier's playing the dual character of an actor impersonating the great Baron Cassini, thereby creating many amusing situations between Ann Sothern, his jealous fiancee, and Merle Oberon, the baroness.

Much liberty with logic is taken yet the manner with which it is handled is acceptable as farcical comedy somewhat draggy at times but tolerated and compensated by the grand finale when the story returns to the stage for the "Straw Hat" number executed in admirable fashion and perpetuating the well known Chevalier head gear.

The picture is dominated throughout by Chevalier and should be received well by his followers. The principals are ably supported by Eric Blore, Ferdinand Munier, Walter Byron, Lumsden Hare, Robert Grieg and many others.

Director Roy del Ruth did his best in directing the material at hand. The effects and photography are fair.

Reviewed without production code seal. Running time, 78 minutes. "G."

"Let's Live Tonight"

(Columbia)

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 17.—This one gets off to an excellent start but the story loses strength in development and leaves the picture slightly above average fare.

Tullio Carminati meets Lilian Harvey at the Monte Carlo Casino, wins money for her and then sails away on his private yacht as their romance begins. He decides after several months to return, arriving at the time when her mother is announcing Miss Harvey's engagement to his brother. Only then do they learn each other's identity. It has been established that Carminati is very fond of his brother, so from then on the story concerns his struggle between love for his brother and for Miss Harvey. The brother finally leaves for India and the lovers are reunited.

Director Victor Schertzinger attempts to develop the plot lightly against the background of the French Riviera and yachts and often succeeds, but the picture has its dragging moments because no strong motive for Carminati's leaving is established.

The production values throughout are excellent with splendid atmosphere of a Riviera carnival introduced in the scenes when Carminati returns. The supporting cast is dominated by Arthur Treacher and Janet Beecher with the others well balanced. Schertzinger contributes one number which is used as a theme song and played with consistent effect throughout.

Production Code Seal, No. 567. Running time, 73 minutes. "G."

Looking 'Em Over

"The Dictator"

(Gaumont British)

PARIS, Feb. 8.—This is obviously a strong effort on the part of the British industry. Settings are elaborate, crowds are large, it has a good musical score, excellent principals and pretty girls. History has been reproduced accurately, but as entertainment it falls short. It moves slowly and the treatment is cold.

It is the tale of a modest German doctor played by Clive Brook, who is taken in 1768 to the court of Christian VII of Denmark, portrayed splendidly by Emlyn Williams. Brook gradually gains influence over the King and becomes the real dictator of Denmark, but he falls in love

Justice Study Of NRA Given To the Senate

National Industrial Recovery Act or the activities of the Recovery Administration have encouraged or promoted monopolies and tended to nullify the anti-trust laws.

The Department of Justice for some time has been studying the operations of a number of industries, including films. Hardy was a feature of the hearings on the film code before the Darrow board, and has since made other investigations of the industry. He was also one of the chief actors in the recent grand jury proceedings in St. Louis which resuled in the indictment of several distributors.

With the Nye-McCarran resolution sent to the Senate Finance Committee, indications are that efforts will be made to stave off the comprehensive investigation of code administration sought by the North Dakota and Nevada senators. However, if unsuccessful in their attempt to get the investigation by resolution, they will make efforts to force the matter when the recovery legislation comes up for consideration.

Attack Based on Questionnaires

It was revealed by Nye that his attack will be based on 460 responses to 500 questionnaires sent by him to business men to determine the extent of the adverse effect of the operation of the Recovery Act.

President Roosevelt is expected to send his message asking for extension of the Recovery Act next week. He is understood now to be putting the finishing touches to his legislative proposals, which may call for an indefinite extension of the law by providing that it shall be continued for two years, unless Congress acts to the contrary.

One of the major problems, it is understood, has been whether to have the administration of the act handled by an individual or a board, with the latter believed now to be favored. It is probable that the legislation will provide some safeguards for the anti-trust laws.

NRA Drawing Basic Operator Wage Pact

contract which will be put into force as soon as the basic wage scale agreement is accepted. The new pact will replace the one that has been in existence for some time.

Another gathering of the fact-finding body will be called shortly after George Browne, president of the international union, arrives from Chicago where he is now reorganizing the local union. At this meeting it is expected that an agreement will be reached on the new basic scale.

MILWAUKEE, Feb. 17.—The Wisconsin I. T. P. A. voted yesterday to petition Campi to permit operation of the clearance schedule adopted here last July. The organization claims it is the best plan to correct local evils.

Promise Circuits' Aid in Ohio Fight

state exhibitor ranks, said that the circuits, however, should not be expected to pay dues into the treasury of an organization of which they were not members.

"When the I.T.O. of Ohio was organized about a year ago," the Hays office spokesman said, "it declared that its policy would be to have nothing to do with affiliated circuits outside of combating them. Since then, repeated requests were received from the organization for financial aid in combating unfavorable legislation in Ohio, some of which were complied with despite the fact that circuits, independently of the I.T.O. of Ohio, fought other legislation without asking the state organization to share the cost. Circuits are glad to see the I.T.O. on record now as asking their aid. While they will cooperate on general and special legislative matters with the state organization, they do not care to be placed in the position of paying money into the treasury of an organization which dedicated itself as their enemy."

General denials of the charges that the Hays office was spreading rumors of any alleged split in the ranks of the Ohio organization were made by the M.P.P.D.A. spokesman. The charges were made Friday by Martin G. Smith, president; M. B. Horwitz, treasurer, and P. J. Wood, secretary and business manager of the I.T.O. of Ohio.

COLUMBUS, Feb. 17.—The Waldvogel bill which would rule off any attempt of distributors to designate days of the week on which exhibitors must play their pictures, has been reported out by the Senate committee assigned to discuss it. The measure has not passed the Senate, as earlier reported.

four weeks at the Capitol. The Dickens film is in its fifth week.

First week of "Devil Dogs of the Air" at the Strand garnered $19,360. "Bordertown" at the Palace took in around $9,000 and the Rivoli for the last eight days of "Clive of India" grossed $15,200. The Paramount on the first week of "The Gilded Lily" had a good week at $32,000 and the picture was held. "Lives of a Bengal Lancer" got $17,000 in its second week at the Rialto after three weeks at the Paramount. Yesterday the film opened at the State to what promises to be a good week, making the sixth consecutive week on Broadway without missing a day.

The Roxy opened strong Friday with "Behold My Wife," getting $3,800 for the day, indicating a $35,000 week. Louise Beavers on the stage is partly responsible for the draw.

with the British born Queen (Madeleine Carroll), who loves him and helps add to his power.

Brook's enemies hatch a plot against him and the Queen and prove her infidelity to the King. Brook is arrested and condemned to die. The Queen wants to stay with him, but Brook asks her to leave for England. She agrees, but delays her departure until his hour has struck.

This is the first picture from Toeplitz Prod., Ltd. It has been splendidly directed by Victor Saville. Sets, lighting and photography by Franz Planer are exceptional. The dialogue is clever in spots and also amusing. Nothing has been neglected in an effort to make it an important production. Scenes of a cabaret in Hamburg are excellent, but afterwards the tempo slows and there is no more action. Instead, long philosophical talk by Brook, or sophisticated dialogue between him and Miss Carroll, predominates. She seems too cold for the part.

In spite of its attractive elements, it is doubtful whether the film will be a commercial hit. It is too intellectual, even though it is an artistic masterpiece.

It should be sold on its artistic merits and with the names of Brook and Williams. Running time, 95 minutes. "A."

Martin Suit Against Koplar Is Set Here and former treasurer of Skouras Enterprises, is scheduled for trial Monday in New York.

Martin's arrest for contempt of court is alleged to have followed Koplar's complaint that the former had ignored a court order directing him to turn over to the receivers of Skouras Enterprises securities with a face value of $1,000,000. The Missouri Supreme Court absolved Martin, ruling that he could not be committed for refusing to obey a court order of which he had no knowledge.

Depositions in advance of the New York trial were taken here from various witnesses, including Walter H. Wohl, former receiver of the Skouras company; Frances A. Rogers, a courtroom deputy; N. Ruth Wood, a court reporter, and Harry Barker, who was referee in the Skouras Enterprises receivership.

Joseph Bernhard, Warner theatres general manager, said Saturday that he knew nothing about the suit. Martin could not be reached for comment.

Skouras Saturday wound up conferences with his brother, Chase National officials and W. C. Michel on the joint 10-year operating contract with National Theatres Corp. Michel sat for S. R. Skouras plans to remain for about two to three weeks. It is probable Spyros will leave for the coast when his brother goes west.

Charles Buckley, F.W.C. attorney, arrived yesterday for home office conferences and also to attend the appeal hearing today on the L. L. Bard overbuying grievance in Pasadena against the circuit.

Pound ordinaries are reduced to one shilling in value, and in the future will take 50 per cent of the profits after payment of the preference dividend. The preference shares are reduced to six shillings, eight pence and made 15 per cent non-cumulative instead of seven and one-half per cent cumulative, and will be entitled to 50 per cent of the profits with the ordinaries.

Arrears of £187,500 are cancelled and the sinking fund of £1,951,071 on the debenture stock is suspended until 1939.

about $7,000, allegedly due on film rentals.

According to contracts, Fox contends that Sherman was personally liable in the event the circuit defaulted on payments. Several months ago Manhattan Playhouses went into bankruptcy and the houses reverted to Meyer & Schneider, owners.

Harry H. Buxbaum, local sales manager for Fox, was among the branch heads summoned at the early stages of the arbitration hearings. Auditors of the company have been checking the records of the Manhattan 1933-34 contracts and it is understood that as soon as the work is completed the suit will be filed.

Testimony to the effect that Manhattan Playhouses had repudiated its film contracts on going into bankruptcy was given during the course of the current arbitration hearings against RKO by Charles Steiner, formerly connected with the Apollo management. The arbitration hearings were resumed Saturday with Bernard Fleischnick, an M. & S. stockholder and former attorney for the circuit, being crossexamined by Bruce Bromley, RKO counsel. The hearings involve breach of lease charges brought against RKO as a result of film playing policies at the Hollywood and Apollo, which are leased from M. & S.

Jersey Sales Tax May Include Films

nated in the final draft of the bill approved by Gov. Harold G. Hoffman.

So strong is the opposition in the Legislature, however, that neither the sales nor corporate income tax measures could be passed at this time. The Democratic minority is solidly against the taxes measures and 15 Republicans are going along with them.

Assemblyman Joseph Altman of Atlantic City, one of the most influential House members, declared yesterday he would "not vote for any sales tax bill that taxes food, but eliminates movies and amusements." He based his stand on the assumption that a tax on food would hit the poor heavily for the necessities of life, while he considers any form of entertainment in the class of luxuries.

Other legislators are following Altman and a fight on the floor to amend the sales tax bill seems certain. This will be at least two weeks off, as no attempt will be made to bring the tax measures to a vote until various economy bills have been passed.

While the new move to include amusements in the tax bill may not obtain sufficient support for passage, it will have the effect of strengthening the opposition to the entire tax program and possibly resulting in its defeat.

Bernerd Bubbles Over

LONDON, Feb. 17.—Jeffrey Bernerd is in from New York with a one-word description of Gaumont British's activities in America. That word is "marvelous." There is nothing calling for stay in New York, he added, and so he will not return there for three months.

"Devil Dogs" Is Strong in Los Angeles

Los Angeles, Feb. 17.—Favorable weather and strong attractions boosted grosses here last week, but with three exceptions they still were below normal. Best comparative showing was made by "Devil Dogs of the Air" at the Hillstreet with a take of $12,300, which was over par by $4,300.

Playing day and date at Warners' Hollywood, however, the same film was under the line by $4,200 on a $9,800 gross.

"The Gilded Lily" took a strong $19,000 at the Paramount. A dual, "Under Pressure" and "The Night Is Young," was over par by $1,000 at $4,500 in United Artists.

Total first run business was $86,000. Average is $91,200.

La Hiff's Tavern

A chop house of exceptional merit

156-8 West 48th St., N. Y. C.

Purely Personal

Ben Piazza leaves for the coast tomorrow, stopping off a day in Chicago to see a local show and for interviews. On Saturday, Piazza stated he had lined up quite a number of stage people who will be recommended to Paramount studio heads on his return to Hollywood.

Joe Vogel returns today from Toronto where he attended the reopening Friday night of the Loew's Young St. The house was closed for a week during which it was remodeled.

Quip of the Day

Imaginary conversation, imagined by Joe Stein:
Film salesman (to exhibitor):
"If you bought Metramount's product at a $35 average, you'd be a sucker to pay more than $17.50 for ours."

Trem Carr is busy lining up a raft of new stories for Monogram's new program. He still hasn't decided when he'll return to the coast.

A. Mike Vogel anticipates a blessed event, as Winchell quaintly puts it.

William Shapiro was in Boston for the week-end.

Jack Warner hasn't been well.

Rudy Vallee will play host to his theatrical and newspaper friends at a cocktail party this afternoon at the Hollywood Restaurant. The pouring will be done in celebration of the crooner's appearance in his first Warner film, "Sweet Music." The doings will go on the air over WNEW at five o'clock.

Dave Loew postponed his trip to the coast to Saturday, believing he would be called to testify in the M. & S.-RKO arbitration proceedings. Loew wasn't called, declared it the first day of his vacation and spent the day with his family instead of going to the office.

Bebe Daniels, Ben Lyon and Skeets Gallagher opened their new show, "Hollywood Holiday," in Wilmington over the week-end. The trio moved to the Delaware metropolis last Wednesday to put the final touches on the play, which they plan to bring here in about a month.

Franchot Tone is busy writing a book on Hollywood. He expects to have it ready for his publishers in about three weeks. This will be his second novel since he left New York for the coast.

Ida Wilder, of the Moser & Terry outfit, left Saturday on the Columbia bound for a two-week trip. She will stop at Nassau, Havana and Miami.

Write-in Vote on Awards Sanctioned

Hollywood, Feb. 17.—Desiring to curb advance criticism of this year's nominees for awards, the Academy has thrown the final ballot wide open for members to pencil in their selections. This unprecedented change came as a result of an expression from nominees, including Frank Capra, Norman Krasna, Robert Riskin, Norma Shearer and William Powell, in which they approved the change.

Howard Estabrook, acting president, said criticisms of the nominations had been so uniform in contents that they raised a question as to whether they were based on genuine opinion or propaganda.

George Baker Made K. C. Variety Head

Kansas City, Feb. 17.—George Baker, manager of the Newman, has been elected president of the local Variety Club. Finton Jones was chosen first vice-president, Harry Taylor, second vice-president; Charles Jones, secretary, and John Muchmore, treasurer.

The elections were held here over the week-end and Frank C. Hensler, R. R. Biechele, J. C. Carrington, William Wagner, Robert Withers and R. C. Libeau were named directors for the coming year.

Club to Get Charter

Minneapolis, Feb. 17.—The local Variety Club will receive its charter from John Harris, founder of the Variety Clubs, at the Radisson Hotel Tuesday, when the entire membership will be officially inducted.

Stearn Out $12,000 Yearly by Decision

Columbus, Feb. 17.—Max Stearn, operating the Southern, hereafter will be $12,000 per year on the minus side through a court decision rendered yesterday.

Fifteen years ago Stearn obtained a lease on the present Neil Hotel site, subsequently assigning it to Archibald S. White, who agreed to erect a theatre thereon at a cost of $525,000 by Sept. 1, 1933, and lease it to Stearn for 20 years. The lease contained a forfeiture clause in case the house was not built.

Subsequently in a collateral agreement, it was stipulated that Stearn was to receive $12,000 annually in lieu of the erection of a theatre. These payments were maintained until July 1, 1933, when the hotel company filed suit to quiet its title. Judge Joseph Barnes, of the Franklin Couny Court of Appeals, ruled that the collateral agreement did not create an estate between the parties, and did not constitute a charge on the hotel organization.

Marsh Laid to Rest

London, Feb. 17.—Funeral services for Hubert T. Marsh, chairman of the board and managing director of British and Dominions, who died Friday, will be held today with burial at the Chislehurst Cemetery.

U. A. Studio Loss Light

Hollywood, Feb. 17.—United Artists studio officials breathed easier over the week-end when a check-up of the blaze which broke out on the back lot Friday night showed the loss was light.

"Devil Dogs" Chicago Hit; Gets $22,000

Chicago, Feb. 17.—"Devil Dogs of the Air" hit a hot pace at the Roosevelt in a week that was generally strong here. The gross ran $11,000 over normal for a total of $22,000.

At the Chicago "The Gilded Lily" was $2,400 up on a gross of $37,000, and "David Copperfield" at the United Artists piled up $25,000, over the normal mark by $8,000.

Total first run business was $143,000. Average is $127,600.

Stamps Found Clicking

The use of stamps with likenesses of the company's contract players as an exploitation medium is reported by Warners to be proving a success with exhibitors. The stickers are sold at Warner exchanges at 50 cents the thousand, come in sheets of 100 and are in five different colors. They are held especially advantageous in tieups with local merchants, who can slap them on packages.

Gold Decision Clears Status Of Film Bonds

Money Not Bullion, Is Court's Ruling

By BERTRAM F. LINZ

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—Film companies having outstanding bonds calling for payment in gold are relieved from any necessity of paying more than the face value of their obligations in legal tender under an opinion handed down today by the U. S. Supreme Court.

Although the court did not rule directly upon the constitutionality of the devaluation of the dollar and the outlawing of the use of gold for monetary purposes, it held in general that the gold clauses in the cases before it "were not contracts for payment in gold coin as a commodity, or in bullion, but were contracts for the payment of money."

The court argued that to require givers of gold bonds to take their income in currency at its present value

Warner Theatre Personnel Reported on Percentages

Rearrangement of the Warner theatre personnel by which I. J. Hoffman, former eastern district manager, will make his headquarters in New Haven, and Moe Silver, former western district head, will make his new quarters in Albany, was reported last night to be tied in with a company plan to operate the circuit under a percentage arrangement with benefits accruing from such a plan reflecting to the advantage of the circuit personnel.

Louis Lazar, former district head in Albany, is out. Jack Sansan, for the past four years manager of the Roger Sherman, New Haven, has been transferred to Hartford where he takes over the Colonial, one of eight Warner houses in that town. He will also act as assistant to Harry Needles, Hartford zone manager. Angelo Sette, formerly assistant to Sansan, assumes full charge of the theatre. George Bronson, manager of the Colonial, Hartford, has been transferred to a Pittsburgh house.

Joseph Bernhard could not be reached for a statement last night.

Industry Hit By Law Flood In Missouri

Highest Court Dismisses Fox Contract Case

Appeal on Arbitration Back to Minnesota

By CLARENCE LINZ

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—The U. S. Supreme Court today dismissed the appeal of Fox Film Corp. from a decision of the Minnesota Supreme Court holding that the agreement used in contracting to furnish product to A. B. Muller, Minnesota exhibitor, was illegal in its entirety because it contained an arbitration provision and the company therefore could not collect for pictures which had been refused by the showman.

The case was dismissed, the court announced, because "it appears that no final judgment has been entered" and the writ of certiorari was "improvidentially granted."

The contract involved called for the delivery of 46 pictures at an aggregate rental of $1,837. It was contended by Fox that Muller refused

Purely Personal

GENE RAYMOND opens at the Chicago Palace on Feb. 22 in the first of a series of personal appearances. "Transient Lady," in which he appears, will be shown at the RKO house that week. Following the Windy City date, RAYMOND is booked for the Fox, Detroit, and may be booked in Cleveland, Kansas City and St. Louis, depending on whether or not he is needed on the coast. DANNY WINKLER and MARK HANNA arranged the personals.

FELIX FEIST, JR., was in town over the weekend. He was up at Lake Placid working on a picture, but the snow melted so he came down to spend a few days with his family. The studio wired him and he grabbed the Sunday plane for Hollywood after one night here.

GINGER ROGERS and LEW AYRES will be in town soon. MISS ROGERS is working on "Star of Midnight" for Radio and as soon as that's completed she and her husband will head for New York on their belated honeymoon.

Quip of the Day

In trying to explain her booking plight before a Campi appeal committee yesterday, Mrs. Jenne H. Dodge of the Mission, Ventura, Cal., stated that for three years she was able to get pictures third run on a first run basis.

"How do you explain this?" queried Henry Sussman, one of the committee.

"The first runs were the klucks," was her snappy reply.

CARL LESSERMAN, assistant to GRAD SEARS, and CHARLIE EINFELD, publicity and advertising chief at Warners, leave for New Orleans tomorrow. They comprise a substantial portion of the M.P.T.O.A. advance guard.

BRADFORD ROPES, who has just finished his writing assignment on "Hooray for Love" at Radio, is due in town any day now from the coast. He's anxious to get started on his stage musical, "Hometown Boy."

PAUL WHITEMAN had JIMMY GRAINGER as a dinner guest last night. Later, GRAINGER took in "Three Men on a Horse."

JACK HATTEM of the Interboro circuit is back from the south. Tanned, of course.

"The Mystery Man"

DAILY VARIETY DAILY

The Mystery Man

Monogram production and release. Directed by Ray McCarey. Original story by Tate Finn. Screen play by John Krafft and Rollo Lloyd. Photographed by Harry Neumann. Cast: Robert Armstrong, Maxine Doyle, Henry Kolker, James Burke, Guy Usher, LeRoy Mason, Otto Fries, Norman Houston, Dell Henderson, Sam Lufkin, Monte Collins, Sam Lufkin, Monica. Previewed at the Wilshire, Santa Running time, 67 mins. Feb. 1.

A smart, amusing hour's entertainment for any bill.

Built around the melodramatic adventures of a swaggering temporarily discredited newspaper reporter gone haywire with too much ready cash, the story plays for laughs and suspense and goes to town with both.

Robert Armstrong is the gusty newsmugg who stages a heavy bust when he gets a nice shiny revolver and fifty bucks as a bonus for repertorial labors. Fired at the height of his celebration with three other cockeyed cavaliers of the press, the dubious hero wakes up in another city, promptly gets himself tangled up in a romance with Maxine Doyle, loses his identity just when he needs it most, and by the grace of a newspaper man's luck, finally gets himself out of the spot.

Armstrong does a swell piece of comedy characterization, never going overboard for the laughs or the more serious moments when he finds himself in tough predicament as a murder suspect. He handles the romance equally well, keeping it topmood in a light vein. Maxine Doyle also comes through with a telling performance. She puts just the right emphasis on the doubts and confidences of a girl out of a job who hesitantly accepts the reporter's bantering chivalry. Hotel sequences, incidentally, are handled without a blue innuendo.

Henry Kolker makes the most of his part as the exasperated editor, while James Burke is excellent as Armstrong's new boss. Guy Usher is believable as the district attorney.

James Burtis, Sam Lufkin and Monte Collins are a riot as the repertorial stooges who make an art of inebriety.

LeRoy Mason well handles the menace as the briefly seen but sinister criminal who t[aunts] the po[lice] and Otto Fries as [a] pawn[broker] s[ells] Hou[dini] a[n] R[ope] trick. Henderson does a good job of Roll[o] Lloyd and Finn's original for building[ment] and d[irec]ting a traveling mystery-comedy that builds effectively and punches its points crisply.

Ray McCarey's direction is sound, balanced and sure. Speed is maintained without sloughing on the delightful character interplay, and plot is not hampered with sideswipes. Smart job of cutting upholds the directorial merits by clipping for full effect without a wasted foot, probably to be credited to Carl Pierson, and Harry Neumann's photography is first class.

Story has a moral, too: Never give a newspaper man $50 at a crack or he's liable to go out and solve a crime, win a reward and find himself married to a nice girl like Maxine Doyle.

Pittsburgh Slashes Cause Film Holdup

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 18.—With the reduction of its scale from 40 to 25 cents, Mort Shea's Fulton is running into trouble with exchanges, some of which are refusing to honor contracts under existing prices. Fox this week pulled out "The Little Colonel," which was booked to open at the Fulton next week, and other commitments are expected to be abrogated.

The same thing happened to the Alvin, where an early-bird matinee price of 15 cents had been announced last week from opening until 12.30. When the distributors protested, the Alvin immediately returned to its 25 and 40-cent scale, eliminating the 15-cent seats after a single week.

ITPA of Wisconsin Joins in Tax Fight

MILWAUKEE, Feb. 18.—The Independent Theatres' Protective Ass'n. of Wisconsin and Upper Michigan is working with the newly formed Wisconsin Federation of Independent Ass'ns., which has been organized for the purpose of enacting a state fair trade act, modeled along the lines of the Junior Capper-Kelly bill in California.

The group will also back chain store tax legislation and seeks to oppose a sales tax. It includes in its membership associations representing all lines of independent retail businesses.

Ask Jersey Houses To Aid Safety Film

Cooperation of New Jersey theatre owners in connection with the highway safety drive being conducted by state officials will be sought on Feb. 21 when members of Allied of New Jersey will meet with Gov. Harold G. Hoffman. The session will be held at the State House assembly chamber in Trenton, during which a one-reel subject "Once Upon a Time," dealing with highway safety will be screened.

Exhibitors will be asked to show the subject on all screens and advance indications are that every theatre will exhibit the subject.

Neb. Sunday Vote Set

LINCOLN, Feb. 18.—Petitioners have gained a special election to be called soon in Beatrice, Neb., a nearby town of 10,000, to ballot on Sunday shows. Since Lincoln's passage out of the blue law classification last summer, Beatrice has been the sole remaining town of any size in the state on a six-day basis. Although voted down several times before, 700 more than the 900 necessary signers were obtained on the petition.

Nebraska Rental Tax Up

LINCOLN, Feb. 18.—One of the first measures dealing with the show business to come up for hearing in the Nebraska legislative session will probably be the bill calling for a 10 per cent tax on film rentals. The bill asks a monthly settlement.

Harry Rapf Recovering

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 18.—Harry Rapf, M-G-M executive, who has been in the hospital suffering from flu, has gone to Palm Springs, and will remain there until his recovery is complete.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Naughty Marietta"

(M-G-M)

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 18.—This is a highly entertaining interpretation of the well-known Victor Herbert operetta containing the bulk of the melodies written by the immortal composer and rendered to perfection by the rich, enchanting voices of Jeannette MacDonald and Nelson Eddy.

Eddy, submerged more or less on the M-G-M contract list in recent months, steps out into a top spot among the present day romantic leads in this offering blending his voice and acting personality with Miss MacDonald which provides a team the public will talk about. "Naughty Marietta" may compete with Grace Moore's picture, "One Night of Love," as the story has the same type material although different in locale and dominated by music.

The action and plot are well handled, holding interest throughout by the expert direction of W. S. Van Dyke, who makes his debut as a director of musicals with admirable effect. The screen treatment by John Lee Mahin, Albert Hackett and Frances Goodrich modernized the operetta with smooth tempo and simplicity for the appreciation of all classes. Beautiful settings and action harmonize with charming music.

The cast, well balanced and effective, includes Frank Morgan, Elsa Lanchester, Douglas Dumbrille, Joseph Cawthorn, Jane Barnes, Cecelia Parker, Walter Kingsford and others. William Daniels' photography enriches the production with consistent beauty both indoors and outdoors. Hunt Stromberg produced splendidly.

This picture should go big generally with names, the title and the music as magnets. No production code seal. Running time, 80 minutes. "G."

"Dog of Flanders"

(Radio)

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 18.—As a classic portrait of a boy and his dog, this picture is artistically fine entertainment but undoubtedly limited in mass appeal due to the lack of cast names and the lethargic tempo paralleling foreign film technique. The film's beauty is simplicity abetted by touching performances and noteworthy direction done with a fine sense of feeling and understanding.

The story revolves around Frankie Thomas, a youngster with an emotional depth of love for humanity and animals. Thomas and his grandfather (O. P. Heggie) adopt the police dog Lightning, who had suffered brutal treatment at the hands of his former master. A juvenile romance springs up between Thomas and Helen Parrish with the girl's father (DeWitt Jennings) intervening in favor of another youngster (Richard Quine). The plot is climaxed by a contest for the best art drawings with Thomas and Quine competing for top honors. Heggie dies and, while the authorities try to place Thomas in an orphanage, the child wins the contest, although not without certain sympathy producing hardships of which the dog Lightning is the central figure throughout. The performances of Heggie, Thomas, Miss Parrish, Jennings, Christian Rub and Quine are excellent throughout.

Edward Sloman's direction is of the first order. J. Roy Hunt photographed in keeping with the theme. Ainsworth Morgan penned the screen play from the novel. The picture should do best in neighborhood houses.

No production code seal. Running time, 76 minutes. "G."

Looking 'Em Over

"While the Patient Slept"

(First National)

Guy Kibbee and Aline MacMahon thread an element of humor all through the fabric of a swell mystery story that keeps the audience fluctuating between the jitters and chuckles. The yarn moves along at a fast pace.

The story begins with an aged uncle suffering a mild stroke in front of a fireplace as he reaches for a porcelain elephant on a mantel. Miss MacMahon, as a nurse, responds with a doctor, and most of what happens after that takes place in the room where the patient is unconscious. A man is shot on a stairway with the elephant in his hand. While Guy

"Copperfield" May Reach to $240,000

"David Copperfield" is heading for a $240,000 gross for its five-week stay at the Capitol. During the first month, the picture tallied $204,620 and over the week-end garnered about $20,000. M-G-M is anxious to get "Sequoia" started at the Capitol, having turned down a deal by Arthur Mayer for a Rialto booking.

"Little Men" at the Astor is aiming for an $8,000 week, while "A Notorious Gentleman" held up well at the Mayfair over the week-end with a possible $9,500 for the stanza ending Friday night.

"Copperfield" Sets Marks in Cleveland

CLEVELAND, Feb. 18.—"David Copperfield" is setting a unique record in this territory. In the first six weeks of its release, the picture won 119 extra playing days in excess of its contracts, in 67 engagements. This means that the picture played extended running time in every instance but three. Of those three exceptions, extended time was not available in two cases, and the third has already played a repeat engagement.

Vallee, Honor Guest

Rudy Vallee, whose Warner picture, "Sweet Music," opens at the Strand tomorrow night, was guest of honor at a cocktail party in the Green Room of the Edison yesterday with the Brothers Warner as host. Last minute arrangements had moved the party from the Hollywood Restaurant to the Green Room of the Edison while a Warner attache went on guard in front of the Hollywood to make certain the invited few finally found their way into the chosen quarters of the Edison.

Noah Beery was among the professionals who made an appearance. The trade press, newspaper and fan magazine contingent was on hand in impressive numbers.

Hits Jury Stage Deal

The American Federation of Actors is on record as being opposed to any person connected with the recent Hauptmann trial in Flemington, N. J., appearing on the stage. When it was learned that vaudeville engagements had been offered the Hauptmann jury and other persons connected with the trial the federation, through official channels, said:

"We believe that the stage should be kept clear of people whose names have gained public attention through association with criminal trials, as their stage appearances do the theatre more harm than good."

the House committee on criminal justice.

Two bills that would impose a 10 per cent tax on theatres admissions are pending, one specifically mentioning picture shows and to provide for old age pensions. Two separate bills are in for a "reel tax," levying one mill per foot of film shown in the state. There is a measure prohibiting standing room. A five per cent sales tax bill on luxuries presumably would include theatre admissions.

A chain store tax proposal, including theatres, has been reported favorably for passage. Sponsored by four representatives, it would levy a tax of $25 or $200 per unit, depending on the number in the chain.

Five sales tax bills are in the hopper, any one of which would hit theatres. All are opposed by retail merchants and commercial interests, as well as exhibitors. One would extend the life of the present one-half of one per cent levy, but on a broader taxing base. Others are for one, two and three per cent.

Plan Tax on Slot Devices

Theatres which have weighing, vending or other slot machines would pay a registration fee of from $3 to $15 per machine, under one proposal. Another would open the state to horse and dog racing, always stiff competition to theatres in St. Louis and Kansas City, and provide a heavy license fee for the tracks and a tax of 20 cents per admission ticket.

Rep. E. J. Keating of Kansas City introduced a bill writing into the Missouri laws provisions for state codes similar to the NRA. It is sponsored by national officials, said Keating.

There is a measure levying a tax of one per cent on gross incomes from all sources with $400 exemption. Another would double the corporation franchise tax, now 50 cents per $1,000 capital stock. Three representatives presented a measure to create an unemployment reserve act whereby employers would be required to set aside a small percentage of the payrolls for unemployment benefits, in line with the President's security program.

Billboards within 300 feet of a highway would be taxed $25 a year by the county, under another proposal.

Hicks Is Attacked As a Code Violator

Los Angeles, Feb. 18.—Since Harry Hicks, member of the local grievance board, violated the price code, it is alleged, by selling a $2.50 script at $2 for admission to his Arlington Theatre, the I. T. O. of Southern California has appealed to all exchange managers asking them to sell Hicks pictures on a 20-cent basis. Even though Hicks signified that he had withdrawn the script, those already sold were sufficient grounds to place him in the 20-cent zone, it was charged.

Hicks will come before the grievance board tomorrow to show cause why he should not be removed as a member of the board.

Looking 'Em Over

"While the Patient Slept"

Kibbee, as a police lieutenant, is trying to solve the crime with his sergeant, Allen Jenkins, another man is suffocated with a violin string.

Suspicion points to Patricia Ellis. Lyle Talbot tries to protect her and gets himself under a cloud. Kibbee runs into a lot of blind alleys trying to solve the case until Miss MacMahon gets busy and goes through some serio-comic antics. The comedy element is heightened by Kibbee's awkward efforts to convince Miss MacMahon that his romantic intentions are serious.

The production has been staged in luxurious background and has been well directed by Ray Enright. It's good, general entertainment.

Production Code Seal No. 576. Running time, 65 minutes. "G."

Rebate on Benefit Tickets Given O. K.

Washington, Feb. 18.—Benefit rebate on tickets sold outside a theatre by a charitable organization, when the price equals that of the theatre's top admission, is not an unfair practice, according to a grievance board decision here today.

Robert Levine, operating the Colony, Portsmouth, Va., brought the case against William S. Wilder, charging the Gates was violating the code by negotiating with the King's Daughters' Hospital Auxiliary to sell tickets outside the theatre. The Auxiliary received one-quarter of the moneys received.

The board dismissed the case on the ground that each patron paid the theatre's advertised top price of 30 cents. It was unofficially stated that there was no reason why Levine should not do likewise.

Wilder's reply to the charge was offered in writing.

Three of K. C. Code Cases Are Dropped

Kansas City, Feb. 18.—Three complaints have been withdrawn from the local grievance board. Two, involving bank nights, were Fox Granada, Emporia, Kan., against the Lyric, same city, and Fox Midwest Theatres, Joplin, Mo., against the Rex, same city.

The third, charging non-theatricals, was lodged against Fox Film by A. H. Shaffer, Strand, Kansas City, seeking to stop film shows at the Linwood Community Church. Shaffer brought the complaint on behalf of several suburban exhibitors, and when his action stirred resentment in film ranks he attempted to have the others sign as co-complainants. They refused, it is understood, and the withdrawal followed.

Miller Here for Appeal

Jack Miller arrived from Chicago yesterday in preparation for a Campi appeal hearing today in which he is a defendant. His Lido, Maywood, Ill., has been charged with excessive protection by the Yale, same city.

Miller plans to leave for New Orleans tonight, but may change his mind and return to Chicago and from there go south.

FWC Attorneys Hit Overbuying Charges

Colorado, Pasadena, the exhibitor stated that F.W.C. was trying to drive him out of business. The case was filed by Colcata Corp.

F.W.C. contended that Colbar Corp. had the theatre at the time F.W.C. made a deal to lease the Colorado. After a term of unsuccessful operation a settlement of the agreement was made for $2,500 and free title to the equipment, valued at $80,000, was transferred to Bard. Buckley held the circuit was in the town before Bard built the house, had been buying most of the major product it now plays and has the right to continue with the showing of the pictures. He also stated that Pasadena is overseated, F.W.C. having closed the Raymond some time ago. Charges that too frequent changes were depriving the complainant of film were challenged by Buckley, who introduced figures to show that pictures were pulled when they were drawing as low as $200 to $240 a day. F.W.C. operates the U. A., Strand and Pasadea in Pasadena.

Ventura Case Follows

Mrs. Jenne H. Dodge of the Mission, Ventura, was the second protestant. Buckley showed that the circuit had bought 343 pictures first and second run for the American and Ventura. Mrs. Dodge complained that Fox and Paramount would not consider selling a second run in the town and she objected to the Ventura moving some of its pictures to the American for second showing when she can get only Columbia and Universal first run. Mrs. Dodge said she was willing to play second run after the Venture, but not after the American, which doubles. Under the new Los Angeles clearance schedule, the Mission plays 84 days after the Ventura. She said that all she needed was 45 pictures to complete her bookings to October.

Protection of first runs by refusal to sell second runs in a town was the defense of M-G-M in the "or otherwise" complaints filed by the Rivoli, Salt Lake City, and the Gem, Logan, Utah. Both exhibitors complained of inability to get sufficient product to keep open. Sidney Braunberg represented M-G-M.

Senate Group Plans Probes Of NRA Work refused to discuss what Hardy told them.

It was said by Senator King that his group has received a large number of complaints against the film and other codes from all sections of the country.

While it has not yet been determined whether the sub-committee is to get the $5,000 sought for the investigation, Senator King today said the group is going ahead with plans for the probe, which would be conducted in the open with public hearings.

The sub-committee within the next few days will get in touch with Lowell Mason, who was counsel for the Darrow review board, and will have before it when it begins hearings all the reports of that group, which included a scathing attack on the film code.

May Retain Mason

Mason may be employed by the King sub-committee to serve in the same capacity as he did the Darrow board. Today he conferred at length with Senator King, and it is believed if the Senate grants the investigation fund sought, he will head the sub-committee's legal staff.

Officials of the Department of Commerce and Federal Trade Commission have been asked to supply the sub-committee with such statistical information as they may have bearing upon the complaints which have been received.

If the investigation is made, it is probable that Compliance Director Sol A. Rosenblatt, who participated in the drafting of the film code, will be among those called to the Capitol for questioning.

The inquiry, it was declared by Senator King, will not be confined to any particular code but will be a comprehensive investigation of all phases of code negotiation and administration, possibly with representatives of some of the code authorities called before the group to answer charges which have been made regarding their activities.

while their indebtedness on bonds must be met by an amount of currency determined by the former standard would be unreasonable.

Referring to the fact the bonds involved in these cases contained gold clauses, the court pointed out that "it is also common knowledge that a similar situation exists with respect to numerous industrial corporations that have issued their 'gold bonds' and must now receive payment for their products in existing currency."

"It requires no acute analysis or profound economic inquiry," adds the court, "to disclose the dislocation of the domestic economy which would be caused by such a disparity of conditions in which, it is insisted, those debtors under gold clauses should be required to pay $1.69 in currency while respectively receiving their taxes, rates, charges and prices on the basis of one dollar of that currency.

"We are not concerned with consequences, in the sense that consequences, however serious, may excuse an invasion of constitutional right. We are concerned with the constitutional power of the Congress over the monetary system of the country and its attempted frustration. Exercising that power, the Congress has undertaken to establish a uniform currency and parity between kinds of currency and to make that currency, dollar for dollar, legal tender for the payment of debts.

"We think it clearly shown that these clauses interfere with the exertion of the power granted to the Congress and certainly it is not established that the Congress arbitrarily or capriciously decided that such an interference existed."

Suit on G. T. Stock Stirs Up Interest

Chase National Bank, the Chase Securities Corp. and officials of the two companies in which a loss of $239,581 is charged in a syndicate operation involving 350,000 shares of General Theatre Equipment stock. The action was brought by the Plan Liquidating Corp.

The operations on which the suit is based are alleged to have been conducted by Pynchon & Co., defunct Stock Exchange firm. The defendants are accused of having disposed of the stock to favored groups with large profits accruing to themselves without advancing any funds of their own.

The plaintiff alleges that profits were taken from General Theatre Equipment as a result of the purchase by the defendants of 240,000 shares of Fox Film "A" stock at $30 per share at a time it was selling on the Stock Exchange at $48.

Newsreels Studying Use of Trial Shots

Washington, his trip to Mexico where he visited the Morrow family, Lindbergh's wedding, the kidnaping of the flier's baby and scenes of the Hauptmann trial, newsreel companies claim that they had the exclusive right to the Flemington trial scenes and have turned the matter over to Universal for possible action.

Willard McKay of Universal stated last night no legal action had been taken, but an investigation is being conducted.

Leo Justin, buyer and booker for the Mayfair, said he did not know of any reported "duping" of newsreel shots in the two-reel subject. He added he had closed a deal with Nat Saland of Mercury Film Laboratories for the showing "in good faith" and that if there were any legal action to be taken it would be against Saland and not the Mayair.

Highest Court Dismisses Fox Contract Case

to accept, play or pay the license fee for any of them.

Muller contended that the contract was formulated as the result of a combination and conspiracy among major producers and distributors in violation of the anti-trust laws, was in restraint of trade and interstate commerce and illegal and void.

It was agreed that the inclusion prior to the Thacher decree in the Paramount case of the compulsory arbitration provision so affected the contract that its entire contents were illegal after the elimination of the provision.

The Minnesota decision held that the illegality of the arbitration clause permeated the whole contract and voided it.

In its appeal Fox had asked the U. S. Supreme Court to pass on the effect of its decision in the Paramount case and render a new opinion on the legality of modified types of the standard license agreement adopted after Judge Thacher had declared the old form, including the arbitration clause, to be outlawed.

Under the ruling the matter cannot be considered on its merits unless a new appeal is filed by Fox after the Minnesota courts issue a final judgment. Indications are that Fox will again appeal to the nation's highest tribunal after such judgment has been rendered.

Benny Boosts Mastbaum to Big $40,000

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 18.—With Jack Benny as its first name attraction, the Roxy-Mastbaum took its biggest jump since the opening, scoring $40,000 on the week. Whether the house can carry on to other big grosses without names is problematical. Picture was "Woman in Red."

Probably the most profitable of the week's hits was "The Scarlet Pimpernel," which took $13,000 at the Aldine, best figure for the season at this house. Three weeks seem set. The low box-office scale still draws them at the Earle, with $15,500 for "Carnival" and a stage show.

Total first run business was $110,800. Average is $101,500.

Estimated takings for the week ending Feb. 14:

"THE SCARLET PIMPERNEL" (U. A.)

Allied Setup Is Advanced By the Court

Referee's Work on Para. Creditor Approved

The reorganization plan for Allied Owners, large Paramount Publix creditor, was given preliminary approval in a report submitted yesterday to the Federal court at Brooklyn by Special Master Oscar Lewis. The report filled 128 pages and had appended to it more than 1,000 pages of testimony. Only minor modifications in the plan were recommended by Lewis.

Major provisions of the plan call for a reduction in interest from six to four per cent on the $9,127,000 bond issue outstanding, and a reduction from six to three per cent interest

Two Weeks Allowed For Briefs on Katz

Special Master John E. Joyce gave Samuel Spring two weeks in which to file briefs in support of the $265,498 claim filed against Paramount Publix by Sam Katz for the unexpired portion of his contract, following a hearing on the claim yesterday. Spring is counsel for Katz.

Counsel for the Paramount trustees were given a week in which to answer Spring's brief when it is filed. The claim will then be taken under consideration by Joyce prior to the making of recommendations.

Predict Low K. C. Scales Will Remain

Neighborhoods Following Lead of First Runs

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 19.—Low admissions at Kansas City first runs are here to stay, at least for the remainder of this season. Increases may be attempted with the start of 1935-36 releases next fall, but this is only speculative as yet.

The first run situation is having repercussions in the neighborhoods. One of the latest to cut is the Plaza, Fox Midwest's ace suburban house, which has first call on product after the first run. There, the price has been shaved to 25 cents, after staying at 30 cents since last fall. It is said other neighborhoods are contemplating cuts.

Prices were hiked at Fox suburban theatres and some of the independents when first runs established

Coroner Ends Probe Into Maloy's Death

CHICAGO, Feb. 19.—The coroner's jury investigating the death of Thomas Maloy, local labor leader who was slain recently, today returned a verdict of murder by persons unknown. Mrs. Effie Maloy, widow of the dead leader, was among the witnesses called.

Maloy, who was business agent and dictator of the M. P. Operators' Union, was killed Feb. 4 by machine gun fire while riding in his automobile. At the time of his death he was accompanied by Emmet Quinn, who was also an officer of the union.

Lesser to Base Film On Industry Figures

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 19.—Sol Lesser plans to produce what he describes as the first serious and dignified screen treatment of the film business, visualizing the accomplishment of leaders like Marcus Loew, Jesse L. Lasky, S. R. Kent, Carl Laemmle and others.

Studios, Lesser says, have offered to cooperate in making the picture authentic. Rupert Hughes, aided by Walter Anthony and Edward F. Cline, will write the treatment from data already collected.

Bernerd Hints G. B. Expects Support Here

English Theatre Control Makes Talk Important

By BRUCE ALLAN

LONDON, Feb. 19.—Gaumont British, controlling as it does many of the finest and biggest theatres in England expects reciprocity from the American industry, it was hinted today in a statement made to the press by Jeffrey Bernerd, who returned from New York the other day.

Since American pictures get dates in Gaumont British theatres, G.B. expects the procedure to work in reverse, was the general tenor of his comment.

Independent exhibitors and several circuits out of New York have given G.B. a "marvelous" reception, he continued, and then he added:

"But British pictures did not get the support they should have from certain national organizations. The great friendship expressed by certain people of programs upon the completion of his contract with Warners as operator of the Mastbaum in Philadelphia. Rothafel's contract is understood to be up Feb. 28.

In his new position with the broadcasting company, Rothafel would have supervision over all programs of that network not of a musical nature, but would act in an advisory capacity in the direction of all other presentations.

The reports were termed "applesauce" by Rothafel in a wire to MOTION PICTURE DAILY last night from Philadelphia.

A Correction

Telegraphed reports from Hollywood that S. S. Krellberg had been made defendant in a Federal court action for underpayment of studio labor help are erroneous.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY regrets the inaccuracy.

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

WILLIAM RANDOLPH HEARST, who in months past and with the dubious merit of constancy more or less, has advocated Federal censorship, hewed close to the line, as film men would have it, the other night. Then his New York Evening Journal picked up the recent report on extras and what they earn and editorially in that newspaper of large circulation urged this:

Only a dozen men and women working as movie extras earned a "living wage" in 1934. Although 219,859 daily jobs were given to about 4,000 extras, only six men and six women earned as much as $2,000 during the year.

Girls who yearn to go to Hollywood should learn from these figures that they shouldn't start out unless they are in the position of men who go into the diplomatic service—that is, unless they have private incomes great enough to keep them going.

Girls—and boys too—take the tip! Forget dreams of movie grandeur unless your bread-and-butter problems are already solved. And if they are solved, you'd best eat your bread and butter where you are without digesting them to the tune of heartaches and disappointment.

That, we venture to suggest, is much closer to it. . . .

Headline of the day: Mickey Mouse's pappy, Walt Disney, gave the rodent his first opportunity to blossom forth in color yesterday with results terrific, colossal and stupendous. All of this has to do with "The Band Concert," the initial Mickey in Technicolor. Skillfully blending music and cartoonantics, the total effect is excuse sufficient to pick up encomiums from their dust pile and garland them around the Mouse's neck. He's Hollywood's best performer. . . .

SEC security data which makes it compulsory to file the dope on changes either way in stock holdings dubs one thing unmistakably clear: That Mike Meehan is the biggest single factor in KAO. That company, far and away the most important part of the RKO theatre structure, has 60,000 shares of preferred outstanding. Meehan's holdings now are 26,800. It's been common talk. This merely makes it smack of the official. . . .

It goes without saying, of course, that no theatre in any of the major circuits will give dates to the contemplated stage tour of the Hauptmann jury. If Hollywood has been kept clear of the unsavory by dodging pictures based on the Lindbergh kidnapping, aside from one transgression in "Miss Fane's Baby Is Stolen," the theatre end of the business, it is assumed without argument, will keep its escutcheon unsullied as well. . . .

Glorious indecision: Fox Midwest's loose policy which allows "Bank Nights" in some of its houses, while it fights the same idea, via code grievance boards, in others not under the Midwest banner. A sort of right hand, left hand idea, keeping the peregrinations of each secret from the other. . . .

Harry Brandt is so excited over "The Whole Town's Talking," he offered Columbia a three-month guarantee with a joint day-and-date run at the Globe and the Central with a one buck top admission. So the picture goes to the Music Hall. A matter of contracts. . . .

Bernerd pointed out his company now realized the importance of American stars and cited Michael Balcon's current visit for the purpose of signing some as evidence of this realization.

The "certain people" referred to by Jeffrey Bernerd in London yesterday are several of the major circuits. When he was here several weeks ago, the G.B. executive is understood to have spared no words in expressing his attitude toward failure of these unnamed circuits to give his product the break he felt it deserved.

Michael Balcon, production chief for G.B., is aboard the Olympic which is due in New York tomorrow.

Move to Seek Help For Amateur Nights

Indicating he planned to have passed an ordinance authorizing amateur shows in picture houses, License Commissioner Paul Moss yesterday conferred with a group of independent exhibitors on their reaction. Moss explained that while he thought such a plan would relieve the unemployment situation a bit he first wanted to get exhibitor opinion before going ahead. The theatre men present heartily approved the move.

Dismiss Ornstein Suit

Federal Judge Henry W. Goddard yesterday dismissed a suit against Paramount filed by Dr. George Ornstein asking for an injunction and accounting of "Blonde Venus," which the complainant alleged was plagiarized from his play "Woman." In dismissing the suit, Judge Goddard held that the picture did not infringe on the play.

FitzPatrick Returns

James A. FitzPatrick yesterday returned from Guatemala and Mexico where he made Technicolor Traveltalks, the last two of eight to be released by M-G-M this season. Within the next month, he will leave for Africa to film his first independent feature production, "Black Ivory."

FitzPatrick will make a series of eight to 12 color travel shorts for M-G-M next season, the first to be "Japan."

Schine and Smalley Again Before Campi

Meyer Schine and William Smalley had another inning at Campi yesterday when an appeal committee consisting of Roy L. Haines of Warners, Dan Michalove of Fox and William Yoost, independent exhibitor, heard an overbuying complaint filed by the latter exhibitor. H. T. Silberberg and Willard McKay represented Schine, and Norman Samuelson represented the plaintiff.

A. Stone of the Eagle, Albany, presented a clearance appeal against Harry Hellman of the Royal, same city. Both exhibitors were present.

In the third case before the committee, the Yale, Chicago, complained of the clearance maintained by Jack Miller's Lido, same city. Louis Nizer represented Miller.

A. F. Tarbell of Allied of New York, Moe Grassgreen, Albany Fox exchange manager, and Neil Hellman attended the session.

NRA Board to Hear Warner Newark Row

Washington, Feb. 19.—Final disposition of the controversy between the Broadwood Holding Co., operators of the Theelwood, Newark, Del., and Warners is expected within a short time by the Industrial Appeals Board of the NRA.

Tomorrow the board will receive representatives of both sides and listen to details of the argument, which came to it after the NRA had refused to review a decision of the clearance and zoning board on a complaint made for the Elwood against two Warner houses.

Rosenblatt Case Delayed

Leon Rosenblatt's overbuying case against Skouras in Westwood, N. J., was adjourned yesterday until next Tuesday. Former Judge Ralph Steers, substituting for George Thompson, impartial representative, was called out to another meeting by previous appointment and the hearing had to go over until next week.

Rosenblatt operates the Westwood, Westwood, in opposition to the Pascack, same town. He claims that up until 1932 before Skouras took the Pascack, he had a sufficient number of first runs, but now has only 49 Columbia pictures. Skouras has 313 major films tied up, Rosenblatt holds, using the buying power of Fox West Coast in closing local deals.

higher scales early last fall. Three of the five first runs, however, returned to lower scales after a trial of several weeks. Of the first runs, only the Publix Newman and the Fox Uptown have withstood the price-cutting wave.

The suburbans blame Loew's and RKO for disrupting a swing toward a healthier price situation. They assert the citywide problem would have ironed itself out if those circuits had maintained established scales. Ironically, though, those circuits blame each other and also the suburbans for the necessity of slashing in self defense.

While the first runs blame the neighborhoods' low prices, double billing and premiums for their own price revisions, the suburbans claim that if the first runs had not reverted to lower scales they would have been willing to restrict those practices and institute price boosts generally.

OMAHA, Feb. 19.—H. J. Chapman, Columbia exchange manager, and Mrs. Chapman celebrate their 15th wedding anniversary Friday.

Looking 'Em Over

"Sweet Music"

(Warners)

"Sweet Music" relies for business on Rudy Vallee's drawing power. He dominates the picture and its music, which is always tuneful and frequently memorable, particularly the "Farewell, Annabelle" number, which is featured in the closing sequence. Its story is a light, inconsequential item, picked up from time to time between the performances of Vallee and his orchestra.

Ann Dvorak, night club performer, shows her dislike for Vallee when the latter is featured in the same floor show for a one-night stand while en route to New York for a musical show. Vallee has her engaged for the show, which fails to open. Chance gets her on a radio program which features Vallee but she fails to click, and despite his efforts to keep her on, she is dropped. After another short-lived radio venture, Miss Dvorak is brought together with Vallee once more at a benefit performance. They are a success, appearing in the number they had rehearsed for the musical which never opened, and their misunderstanding is cleared away for a happy ending.

Vallee's performance is natural and pleasing. Comedy is contributed by Allen Jenkins as a publicity agent for Vallee; Ned Sparks as Miss Dvorak's manager; Robert Armstrong as a gangster with crooning ambitions; Alice White as his sister, a chorus girl, and Joe Cawthorn and Al Shean, as radio program sponsors. Helen Morgan appears in one sequence. Miss Dvorak is satisfactory in her role. Frank and Milt Britton's band have several comic sequences to bid for laughs.

The production is nicely staged and photographed. The direction, by Alfred E. Green, varies. While seeming to run a trifle longer than necessary, "Sweet Music," on the whole, stacks up as a good comic musical which offers all Vallee fans a generous helping of the radio star.

Production Code Seal No. 536. Running time, 95 minutes. "G."

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Times Square Lady"

(M-G-M)

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 19.—Without star cast names or unusual production values, this picture clicks nicely, holding the interest throughout. The story tells of Virginia Bruce, who inherits various properties from her father, who had ruled the sporting world with an iron hand. Managers of the various enterprises try to make them look like flops so she will sell out cheaply.

Robert Taylor, night club manager, is selected by a group to show the girl around. He takes her to the dog track, hockey games and other businesses she owns and lets her see that they are all losing. Finally, he convinces her that a woman cannot run the business. The girl then agrees to sell out, making the bill of sale in Taylor's favor.

Taylor arranges a re-sale to a syndicate at a tremendous profit, but gets in wrong with the other managers, who believe he is keeping the profit for himself. They take Taylor for a gang ride, but he escapes. Later developments show he has purchased a trust fund for Miss Bruce with the profits and the picture closes with the pair leaving on a honeymoon.

Pinkey Tomlin, as a hick entertainer, scores heavily in singing and comedy although the role has little story value. Henry Kolker, Nat Pendleton, Jack LaRue and Isabel Jewell are satisfactory in supporting roles. The screen play is by Albert Cohen and Robert Shannon. Lucien Hubbard produced and George Seitz directed. Average entertainment for neighborhoods.

No production code seal. Running time, 69 minutes. "G."

on the $1,747,000 of Allied debentures. The reductions continue to Jan., 1938, after which interest on the bonds is increased to five per cent and on the debentures to four per cent. The plan also proposes cancellation of Allied's $498,400 debt to New York Investors, Inc., the parent company. Additional miscellaneous debts aggregating $1,400,000 are provided for in the plan.

The proposed settlement of Allied's $23,000,000 claim against Paramount for $5,000,000, new leases on the Brooklyn Paramount and the Paramount theatres at Birmingham, Glens Falls, N. Y., and Fremont, O., is not included in the plan, having been reserved for special action by the Allied trustees. Negotiations are now under way between them and the Paramount trustees for an agreement on the method of issuing new Paramount securities to Allied which will avoid a $500,000 transfer tax. The method of payment prescribed in the proposed settlement would be subject to the tax and is not acceptable to the Allied trustees, it was said.

In addition to the Paramount theatres named, Allied is also owner of Loew's Kings, Pitkin and Valencia. Stephen Callaghan, one of the three Allied trustees, has been assured of a place on the new Paramount board of directors.

Lewis' report on the reorganization plan goes to Federal Judge Robert Inch for confirmation, after which the plan will be sent out to creditors for their approval.

The settlement figure is expected to be about $50,000.

Morris Kohn Passes Away Unexpectedly

Morris Kohn, affectionately regarded by those who knew him as one of "the grand old men" of the industry, died suddenly yesterday at Nanuet, N. Y., where he maintained his country place. He would have been 72 in June.

The end came unexpectedly. Kohn's health was excellent, but about noon yesterday he complained of not feeling well and retired. Shortly thereafter his heart action ceased.

Well known to the old guard, Kohn was the father of Ralph A. Kohn, for years one of the high executives at Paramount. Other children are Norman E., an executive in the Paramount foreign department, and Beulah Goetz, wife of Jack Goetz, of Du-

Newsreels Agree on Sound Volume Level

All the principal newsreels—Fox Movietone, Hearst Metrotone, Paramount, Pathe and Universal—have reached an agreement on uniform recording of sound. Hereafter sound will be recorded at about the same volume used in studios for features.

In the past sound volume has varied widely on the reels, with a general tendency to make it too loud, it is said.

Stronger Measures Are Demanded to Protect 'Small Fellows'

By BERTRAM F. LINZ

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—Extension of the National Recovery Act for a period of two years was today urged upon Congress by President Roosevelt.

Possibly influenced by the fact that Congressional investigation of the Recovery Administration, soon to be initiated, may develop information disclosing the need for drastic revision of the law, the President in his message made but few recommendations, and those largely of a general nature.

Briefly he suggested that the policy and standards for administration of the act should be further defined in the light of past experience; voluntary submission of codes should be encouraged by authority given for forcible imposition where an industry fails to agree; rights of employes to organize for the purpose of collective bargaining should be fully protected; the fundamental principles of the anti-trust laws should be more adequately applied; and effective means other than the imposition of jail sentences should be developed for enforcement.

"We must continue to recognize that incorrigible minorities within an industry, or in the whole field of trade industry, should not be allowed to write the rules of unfair play and compel all others to compete upon their low level," the President declared. "We must make certain that the privilege of cooperating to prevent unfair competition will not be transformed into a license to strangle fair competition under the apparent sanction of the law. Small enterprises especially should be given added protection against discrimination and oppression."

The message indicated the President's realization that reforms are needed in the administration of codes. These essential changes include the coordination of each code with all others, simplification of procedure, improvement in personnel, better definition of the responsibilities of all parties concerned and clarification of code provisions which are puzzling to those operating under them.

"But," the President asserted, "the fundamental purposes and principles of the act are sound. To abandon them is unthinkable."

Studio Extras' List Of 975 Is Proposed

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 20.—Following a long siege of work on the sifting of extras to be registered officially for work at the studios, the extras' committee has recommended a list of 975 names with the privilege of boosting this figure 50 per cent if the requirements warrant. This applies for the first year, limiting the number of extras to a total of 1,462. During the second year this number will be increased, the number to be set later.

The list was approved by the committee at a meeting held after John C. Flinn left for Dallas and New York and has been sent east for Campi's approval. Flinn met with the committee while he was here and commended it for the work it has done.

Returning from a 10-day trip to the coast, John C. Flinn expressed satisfaction with the way things had progressed at Campi quarters in Los Angeles and Hollywood. He said he sat with the Los Angeles clearance and zoning board and discussed the schedule and had left minor changes for the approval of the board. These clauses, with a preamble, will be passed on today by Campi. If there is time, Kansas City, Milwaukee and New Haven schedules may be gone over. Flinn said Code Authority had not received the extra list until a late hour last night, indicating a delay in approval.

"abuses" under the code, stated that unless the code is drastically revised "it will eventually strangle the small theatre man."

The senator's questionnaire makes no mention of the code specifically. He is assembling similar data from other businesses. His wire to Fulton was as follows:

"During the past year many have presented to me their discouraging experiences under the NRA and its codes. In view of the imminence of legislation to extend the NRA, I should like to learn from you and your associates whether the abuses in your industry under the NRA and code authorities have been corrected.

"If the businesses and industries of which you have personal knowledge are being benefited by the codes and the administration of codes by code authorities, I should like to be so advised. If this is not true, I would appreciate specific information concerning the abuses which may exist."

Sees "Drastic Revising" Needed

In his reply, Fulton told the senator:

"The motion picture code will need drastic revising to be of any benefit to the thousands of independent theatres. In fact, it is my opinion that as actually administered it is more detrimental than helpful and unless changed will eventually strangle the small theatre man. It is possible that a code could be drawn up to be greatly helpful to our business, but until the monopolistic grip of the large producer-exhibitors is broken, I will take my chances under the Sherman anti-trust laws in our courts.

"We have no clearance and zoning schedule here, but the chain (Fox Midwest) which completely dominates the suburban situation wrote just what it pleased in film contracts and we take it or close up. The independent theatres talk big but are not in a position to do anything unless they go to court—and in about five years may win."

"The makeup of the Code Authority is entirely producer-controlled. The makeup of our local boards is entirely producer-controlled," it was charged by Fulton, who said that the Kansas City grievance board had "only one real independent representative, Jay Means." Means is head of the local I. T. O.

"I think any alterations of the set-up should provide an equal representation between independent theatre owners on one side and the producers-distributors-exhibitors on the other. Likewise, the anti-trust laws should be reinstated. They are our only salvation," Fulton concluded.

Maynard Case Adjourned

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 20.—The code committee hearing on C. C. Burr's complaint against Larry Darmour and Agent Morris Small involving the services of Ken Maynard was adjourned to Monday night today after a long session extending into the early hours of the morning.

Senators Nye and McCarran listing 21 charges of oppression of small business under the codes. The inquiry was to be conducted by the commerce committee, but Harrison succeeded in having the measure referred to his group.

The committee's decision to make the investigation was seen as an effort to head off what might be a more dangerous inquiry by the judiciary sub-committee headed by Senator William H. King of Utah, whose group would include Senator Wayne D. Borah of Idaho, enemy of the Recovery Administration, with Lowell Mason, counsel for the Darrow Board, as attorney.

King, however, has indicated that he will go ahead with his probe, regardless of the finance committee's action.

pliance Director Sol A. Rosenblatt, Sidney Samuelson, head of Allied, and all local and New York distribution offices.

It is charged the exhibitor is utterly helpless against the practice complained of. Among the tactics allegedly used to force the exhibitor to pay for unused shorts are denial of further product and issuance of C.O.D. on so-called "delinquent" shorts and features sent to him.

The I. T. O. demands the situation be immediately remedied by making required adjustments retroactive with the 1934-35 season. "If this is not done immediately," says the organization, "we will be compelled to take necessary action in Federal court."

The I.T.O. is asking John C. Flinn to whom the exhibitor is to appeal, since Campi allegedly has taken no action in the matter.

Copies of all correspondence have been sent to the Department of Justice.

Heard on Sunday Bill

ALBANY, Feb. 20.—The Berg bill permitting Sunday theatricals was opposed at a public hearing today by President Frank Gillmore of Actors' Equity. Paul N. Turner of Equity said the bill would deprive New York City hospitals of $250,000 receipts from Sunday night benefits. Senator Berg said if the bill would hurt the hospitals he would drop it. Florence Reed, Madge Kennedy and Selena Royle also opposed the measure.

Dr. Henry Moskowitz of the League of New York Theatres favored the measure.

Delay Delaware Case

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—The Industrial Appeals Board of the NRA today postponed indefinitely the clearance complaint of the Broadwood Holding Co., operators of the Elwood, Newark, Del., against Warners. The postponement was made necessary by the inability of all interested parties to be on hand. A new date for the hearing is expected to be set within the next two weeks.

Objections to Point Where Count Is Lost

Charges that Louis Nizer was "tricky and unfair in his questioning of witnesses" and that Century circuit was "gypped" in the pooling arrangement between Century and RKO were made by Mitchell Klupt, attorney for Century, as the second round in the clearance dispute in Long Island gained ground yesterday before the local board. At one time during the session, Nizer asked the board to reprimand Klupt for his remarks. The arguments, mostly on technicalities, developed into a query by both sides as to who was running the board. Nizer accused Klupt and Klupt charged his adversary with assuming such powers.

During one of the heated controversies, Klupt said to Nizer: "Let's ask Ornstein how many objections you have made so far." Nizer responded: "Ornstein can't make you a good lawyer." Klupt shot back: "Neither can he make you a good one." The board laughed heartily at the remarks, but Leo Abrams, chairman, struck the asides from the record. MOTION PICTURE DAILY's tabulation for objections during the morning session was 14 for each counsel. Nizer was overruled on nine of them. The afternoon session was quite mild, the legal combatants settling down to a reserved procedure.

Hearing Lasts Four Hours

Yesterday's hearing lasted four hour, two in the morning and two in the afternoon. The first session took five hours and resulted in 176 pages of testimony.

F. Thomas Murray of Century occupied the stand the entire day with the exception of interruptions when Fred Schwartz and Julia M. Nelson were called upon to clarify advertising and mailing list statistics.

Most of the hearing was devoted to contracts made by Century with RKO for pooling certain Long Island houses, exhibition contracts with reference to clearance, advertising and mailing lists. Murray was discussing 1933-34 contracts Century made with major and independent companies when the meeting adjourned until 10:30 today.

Sitting on the board were Laurence Bolognino, former Judge Alfred E. Steers, Robert Wolff, Abrams, Edward Rugoff, Eugene Picker and Harry Shiffman. RKO brought most of its witnesses from the first hearing, while Century had about seven on hand. Pete Harrison, Roy H. Haines of Warners, Edward Schnitzer and Nat Cohn of Columbia were among the 25 spectators.

Sunday Bill Included in Kansas List satisfactory. The state administration is said to be disposed to let things ride as is.

On the other hand, a bill has been introduced prohibiting the sale of merchandise in Kansas on Sunday. This, it is believed, hits at the many subterfuges taken to do business on Sunday, and may affect theatres.

Representative E. A. Briles, who operates a theatre at Stafford, Kan., is sponsoring a measure to amend the censorship laws whereby pictures may be sold in Kansas before being censored by the state board. This is a corrective measure and will make it possible for distributors to write contracts as they have been doing. The law now provides that films cannot be sold before censoring. The bill is pending in the Senate for passage with amendments.

Two bills are in the Senate to prohibit discrimination in the selling price of commodities to merchants in different parts of the state with intention of destroying competition. While its purpose is general, observers construe the bill as affecting film rentals, as between separate towns and as between circuits and individuals.

"Sweet Music" Opens

Rudy Vallee fans crowded the Strand last night for the opening of "Sweet Music," his initial film for Warners. The crooner was there in person. The premiere attracted Paul Whiteman, Alice Faye, Richard Himber, Fred Waring, Abe Lyman, Edmund Gwenn, Blossom Seeley, Ben Fields, Arthur Tracy, Jean Lang, the Stuart Sisters, Smith & Dale, Jane Froman, Johnny Green, and others prominent in the amusement world. Albert, Harry M. and Jack Warner, S. Charles Einfeld and Gradwell Sears represented Warners.

Three hundred amateur radio critics will attend a performance of "Sweet Music" this afternoon. They will broadcast their impressions of the picture over WNEW as they leave the lobby, where a microphone will be rigged up. Einfeld, Warners' advertising and publicity chief, arranged the stunt.

Art Laboratories, Inc. Mrs. Adolph Zukor is a niece.

Kohn was born in Hungary and came to this country about 52 years ago. He settled in Chicago, later to become one of the pioneer homesteaders in the Dakotas. Returning to Chicago subsequently, he entered the fur business there in conjunction with Adolph Zukor and the amusement business in association with the president of Paramount and the late Marcus Loew.

Retirement from business came about 12 years ago. Prior to that, Kohn had been president of Realart, ownership of which was vested in Paramount. He was also a one-time president of Select Pictures and of Warner Pictures.

Curiously enough, his death occurred within two days of the fourth anniversary of his wife's passing on Feb. 22, 1931.

Final funeral arrangements were incomplete last night. Services will be held either tomorrow or Sunday afternoon, dependent upon word received from Ralph A. Kohn who is now in Hollywood. Definitely determined, however, is designation of the place which will be the Universal Funeral Chapel.

Radio to Deliver 46, Depinet Says

up to February, leaving 26 to complete the schedule. No appreciable increase is anticipated for next season, Depinet said, explaining that the Radio studios are best adapted to production of from 45 to 50 features per season. Any increase over this average, he said, would have to come from outside producers releasing through Radio.

The company's annual sales convention will be held in late June or early July at a city not yet decided, but with the choice probably resting with either New York or Chicago. There will be but one large meeting, Depinet said, the idea of regionals having been vetoed.

Depinet stated that Robert F. Sisk, assistant to J. R. McDonough, head of RKO Radio Pictures, was being groomed for a production berth. It is believed that Sisk, former RKO advertising and publicity head, may have a production unit on next season's schedule.

Depinet expressed enthusiasm over the balance of releases for the current season, which include two musicals, in addition to "Roberta"; two Hepburns and a Richard Dix western. None of the "star" pictures or real box-office attractions listed at the beginning of the season for the current schedule will be eliminated, Depinet said.

Elliott Will Take Radio to Mongolia

In a carefully condensed statement of something less than 1,000 words Ben H. Atwell lets it be known that when Clyde Elliott leaves the coast for China next month to film "China Roars" for Columbia he will have a short wave radio set and airplanes.

"The expedition," he says, "will constitute the most ambitious effort in the history of the industry to use a distant land and its people for the background of a film production." Then he modestly adds: "Employment of the communication plant is unprecedented and in some respects transcends similar achievements of the Byrd expedition."

Apparently he hasn't heard that Fox has not only kept in touch with South Sea locations by short wave, but has played the sound track back nightly to keep the boys in touch with their rushes.

the same length of time in which to withdraw their deposits if they do not approve. Thus, after March 21, the committees will be in a position to vote their holdings for adoption of the plan. It is anticipated that the deposits will be greatly increased during the next 30 days.

The stockholders' committee now has about 58 per cent of the outstanding Paramount stock on deposit. The bondholders' committees' holdings average about 68 per cent. Under the reorganization statutes, the plan must have the approval of a majority of the stockholders and two-thirds in amount of all classes of creditors, including security holders, before it can be made effective.

Counsel for the Paramount trustees yesterday filed objections to a breach of lease claim of $443,832 brought against Paramount by the Missouri, St. Louis, contending that the claim had been acquired for $1 by the present holders and that damages therefore should be fixed at that amount. It was also set forth that the theatre lease had been terminated with the landlord's re-entry, shortly after Paramount relinquished the property, and that the claim was subject, in any event, to a counter claim being brought against the landlord by Paramount for a $104,000 lease deposit which, it is alleged, was not applied against rent due on the theatre.

Referee John E. Joyce, before whom the hearing was held, gave both parties three weeks in which to file briefs.

E. M. Loew Award of $75,000 Agreed On

Settlement of the E. M. Loew anti-trust claim against Paramount will be for $75,000, it was learned yesterday. Papers asking court authorization to make the settlement are now being drawn and will be filed with Special Master John E. Joyce within the next few days.

The Loew claim against Paramount was filed for triple damages of $5,000,000, and was based on litigation begun by the Boston independent circuit prior to Paramount's bankruptcy. The litigation had proceeded as far as the taking of testimony before a special master in Boston who subsequently submitted a report recommending a judgment of approximately $300,000 in Loew's favor. Joyce recently ruled here that triple damages could not be collected in an anti-trust action against a bankrupt, indicating that the Loew claim might be subject to a reduction from $5,000,000 to about $1,650,000.

Expect More Than 500 at MPTOA Meet

With Wives and Others, Total May Be 1,000

A registration of more than 500 exhibitor delegates is expected at the M.P.T.O.A. annual convention which gets under way Monday at New Orleans, officers of the organization stated here Thursday. The full registration is expected to approximate 1,000, including wives of members, representatives of distribution and equipment companies and other non-members of M.P.T.O.A. who will be on hand.

Exhibitors from New England and the nearby eastern territory began gathering here yesterday to join the large New York contingent which will travel to New Orleans on the convention special which leaves here

Sabbath Show Bill Is Up in Tennessee

NASHVILLE, Feb. 22.—A bill permitting Sunday shows by local option has been introduced in the House by Representatives Charles Brown of Memphis and Robert Brown of Hickman County.

The measure provides for unrestricted Sunday theatrical performances where four-fifths of a city commission votes approval. A bare majority vote would only permit the holding of Sunday shows intended for charity.

Open Sundays Vote Asked in Delaware

WILMINGTON, Feb. 22.—Provisions for a referendum to decide whether or not films can be shown on Sundays in cities and towns is included in a bill introduced in the House at Dover yesterday.

If a majority vote favors Sunday shows, they could then be put on after the adoption of permissive ordinances by local governing bodies.

Ohio Bill Asks 10% Ticket Tax Return

CLEVELAND, Feb. 22.—A bill has been introduced in the House to restore the 10 per cent admission tax in effect prior to Jan. 1. The 10 per cent tax was temporarily set aside in favor of a three per cent gross receipt tax at the time of the passage of the sales tax.

English Seek New Deal for Film Buying

Want New Credit Terms, Standard Contract

By BRUCE ALLAN

LONDON, Feb. 12.—Drastic revisions in present trading methods were demanded by a deputation from the Cinematograph Exhibitors' Ass'n., which met members of the Kinematograph Renters' Society.

Councillor J. Pollard, exhibitors' president, submitted proposals asking:

Inquiry into the credit restriction scheme, under which certain exhibitors are required to pay bills at short dates, on penalty of receiving no film supply.

Extension of "small exhibitor" reduced rental terms to theatres taking up to £175 per week.

More Radio Tieups

Boston, Feb. 22.—Radio tie-ups continue to spread throughout New England. Audition nights not only draw crowds, but they are run with little expense. As for prizes, a chance to hit the airlanes is enough of an attraction in most instances. E. M. Loew is one of the operators using the idea with success. If amateur nights have been able in recent weeks to draw away from theatres, they are now being used favorably with reverse English.

Impartial Men Are Suggested For Chairmen

Impartial representatives of local boards will be made chairmen if a recommendation of Campi is approved by its legal committee and Compliance Director Sol A. Rosenblatt. The suggestion is now before the legal group, which will report back to Code Authority next Thursday. Under the provision, no outside men have the power to vote.

On Wednesday night MOTION PICTURE DAILY queried Code Authority headquarters on the matter and it was denied that such a move was planned. It was stated, however, that about a dozen scripts, for which he will cast the leads in Hollywood.

"Gaumont British knows it has a big market in England," he said upon his arrival, "and we are striving to increase our market in this country.

"It has been our plan right along to cast American players, but now we are going after them in a big way," Balcon stated.

While here, Balcon will discuss 1935-36 production with Arthur Lee and other executives, he said. The company plans a maximum of 24, 16 of which will be brought over for distribution here. In addition to the Gaumont British films, the American subsidiary will handle pictures made by outside producers.

Balcon will leave for the coast Thursday to look over Hollywood production in addition to signing talent. He said he is willing to make available Gaumont British talent for American companies. Arthur Lee may accompany him. Mark Ostrer is expected to arrive here some time in April.

Before Balcon returns abroad he is expected to be set on the complete new lineup of pictures and talent.

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 22.—George Arliss leaves March 2 for New York en route to England where he will make a second Gaumont British picture. Michael Balcon, production head, is due here late next week to confer with Arliss before he leaves.

M-G-M Buys 'Maskerade'

LONDON, Feb. 22.—It is reported here that "Maskerade," the German picture now in its 18th month here, has been bought by M-G-M for $100,000. It is planned to remake the film in Hollywood with Helen Hayes as the star.

Willy Forst, who directed the picture, has also been signed to make one picture for Universal and he sails for New York shortly.

M-G-M home office executives Thursday reported they knew nothing of the purchase of "Maskerade" in London, but advanced the opinion the deal may have been closed on the coast.

Baer Film Cancelled

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 22.—Max Baer will not do a picture for Paramount, it was reported here yesterday. The heavyweight champion came here from Florida recently to confer with studio officials on the production, which was tentatively titled "Kids on the Cuff," but the whole deal is said to be off. Baer is under contract for two more pictures, one with Columbia and one with M-G-M, according to statements he gave out last summer after winning the title.

Film Draws Attack

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—Protection of the President against exploitation for commercial purposes was sought yesterday by the Federal Trade Commission in the issuance of a formal complaint against Economic Films, Inc., New York, and Frank R. Wilson, president of the company.

Misleading and deceptive use of the likenesses of President Roosevelt in a film entitled "Forward America" and the accompanying oral comment is charged by the commission.

Frank R. Wilson, president of Economic Films, stated: "The President's likeness appears only for a brief flash at the end of the picture. The chain store lobby in Washington caused the Federal Trade Commission to issue the complaint order."

stated Thursday upon his arrival on the Olympic. William M. L. Fiske, 3rd, First Division vice-president, was with Baker.

The contract between the two companies was signed some time ago, but two details and arrangements for handling "The March of Time" will be settled here to make it "all embracing," according to Baker. A. B. F. D. is the distributing company handling British Talking Pictures in England.

Baker explained his trip as an annual visit to renew contracts. He said his company did not plan to produce in America, but that Basil Dean would come over in the fall to study American production angles. A. B. F. D. will make from 20 to 24 features for the 1934-35 season, Baker said. He will be in this country about four weeks and will go to the coast in about a week.

Fiske confirmed the reciprocal contract, adding that First Division may participate with B. T. P. in production abroad. This plan is being considered, he said. He has been away since Oct. 19. He visited London and Paris on business and St. Moritz for pleasure. Fiske stated that First Division has appointed Paul Graetz as Continental European head with headquarters in Paris. About 10 salesmen are handling the company's product in Europe. No other foreign offices are planned now, Fiske said. Distribution of "The March of Time" in Europe is being held in abeyance for the time being. He leaves for Hollywood in a week to confer on production.

First Div. Entertains

First Division entertained trade and daily press representatives at a cocktail party at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel Thursday for William M. L. Fiske, 3rd, of First Division and Reginald Baker of Associated Talking Pictures, London.

Services for Kohn

Funeral services were held at the Universal Funeral Chapel at 2 P. M. yesterday for Morris Kohn, pioneer film executive who died in Nanuet, N. Y., on Wednesday. Burial was at Mt. Hope Cemetery in Westchester.

Honorary pallbearers were Nicholas M. Schenck, David Bernstein, Adolph Zukor, Elek J. Ludvigh, Reuben Samuels, Frank Mayer, Eugene Zukor, Harry Goetz, Carl Kaufman, Mel Shauer, Al Kaufman, Harry Goetz and Leopold Friedman.

Douglas Z. Doty Buried

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 22.—Funeral services were held today for Douglas Z. Doty, screen writer, who died Wednesday following a heart attack. He collaborated on the screen play of "Laughter," which won the Academy award as the best picture of 1931. Doty was once editor of Century and Cosmopolitan.

A recommendation from the licensing committee of the London County Council was to have come before the full council yesterday asking it to permit the exhibition of films on Sundays from 5:30 P.M. instead of 6 P.M.

Immediately the half hour concession was announced, the Lord's Day Observance Society sent telegrams of protest to all members of the council. It was announced subsequently at the council meeting that the recommendation would not be submitted. An opportunity is to be given to the L.D.O.S. to state its case to the licensing committee.

Begin Restrictions On Quebec Showings

Beaulac, chairman of the Quebec censor board, has begun enforcement of regulations covering non-theatrical shows.

Non-fireproof films cannot be shown in buildings or halls without proper exits. No show can be given in a structure which has not been approved by the inspector of industrial establishments and public buildings who will determine the number of persons to be admitted.

No steps have been taken to prohibit admission of juveniles to film shows in places other than theatres and exhibitors are disappointed. Children under 16 years of age have been barred from theatres for the past six years.

Putnam First Cohen Appointee to Resign

George Palmer Putnam is one of the first of Emanuel Cohen's appointees to follow him out of the company. Putnam was eastern head of the editorial board. He had been with the company for three years.

Cohen and Putnam first became associated a number of years ago when the former was head of Pathe News and the latter was connected with the publishing house which bore his father's name. He headed an expedition for which Pathe had exclusive rights.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Mississippi"

(Paramount)

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 22.—Bing Crosby's crooning, W. C. Fields' comedy and Joan Bennett's beauty unite in name and talent array to make this production of showboat and plantation life colorful and interesting.

Booth Tarkington's basic story—twice before produced, once as "The Fighting Coward" and again as "Magnolia"—receives a new sight-and-sound treatment via Edward Sutherland's direction from Claude Binyon's and Herbert Fields' adaptation and Francis Martin's and Jack Cunningham's screen play.

The story opens with Bing, engaged to Gail Patrick, refusing to engage in a pistol duel with John Miljan over an imaginary slight to her honor. Miss Bennett, Gail's sister, approving Bing's ideals, falls for him as he departs to join Fields' showboat troupe. Publicized by Fields as the "singing killer," Bing in self-defense fights Fred Kohler, who accidentally shoots, killing himself. With an unearned reputation preceding him, Bing returns to his home, tells off Miljan and sweeps off with Joan.

Crosby in the best box-office manner sings the Rodgers-Hart songs, "Down by the River," "Soon," and "It's Easy to Remember, Hard to Forget," and his own applause-winning version of "Suwanee River."

Fields' comicalities kept a preview audience in stitches. Miss Bennett's charm radiates. Queenie Smith, Claude Gillingwater, Miss Patrick, Miljan and Kohler are cast in support, with colored cabin kids providing natural entertainment.

Arthur Hornblow produced for a maximum of eye and ear effects. Sutherland's direction registers.

Electric-light names, the title and the colorful locales give a fine exploitation foundation for showmen.

Production Code Seal No. 540. Running time, 80 minutes. "G."

"West Point of the Air"

(M-G-M)

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 22.—Crammed with flag-waving, father love and stunt flying, this one is good hokum with thrilling moments and exploitation angles and should be box-office.

Wallace Beery, cast as a flying instructor sergeant, is not as hard-boiled as he was when growing up with aviation pioneers, but instead is the tender father of Robert Young, flying cadet, West Point football hero and suitor of Maureen O'Sullivan, daughter of Lewis Stone, flying school commander.

Young's football prowess brings him to the attention of Rosalind Russell, who follows him to a Texas flying field, interrupting his romance with Miss O'Sullivan. Young and Miss Russell in a parked car interfere with a cadet landing in a plane. The plane crashes and Young is sent in the air to restore his nerve, but he damages his landing gear while aloft. Beery goes up, jumps onto Young's plane and lands it for him.

On the ground father and son have an argument and Beery strikes the youth. Beery is dishonorably discharged for hitting a superior officer, Young. Eventually Beery shames Young into continuing his flying, forcing him to take part in air maneuvers. Beery crashes and is saved by Young and restored to the service, while the youth and Miss O'Sullivan reunite.

The photography, especially the aviation scenes and shots of plane maneuvers, is exceptional. The direction of Richard Rosson is nicely timed and production by Monta Bell suitable.

The supporting cast, headed by Russell Hardie, Robert Taylor and Frank Conroy, is ably handled, with James Gleason brightening the offering with good comic relief.

No production code seal. Running time, 105 minutes. "G."

"It Happened in New York"

(Universal)

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 22.—This is one sure-fire laugh entertainment which only by a hair misses being a truly fine picture. The performances and direction are of high caliber, but the story, in spots, keeps the film from being in the knockout category.

The story revolves around taxi-driver Lyle Talbot and switchboard operator Heather Angel, who are engaged to be married. Things start happening when Gertrude Michael, a dynamic Hollywood star, reaches New York. Seeking new romance and freedom from her fans, Miss Michael ditches her manager, Hugh O'Connell, and through several pledged as security for the $12,460,700 of the company's bonds outstanding.

Under the new reorganization plan, reorganized Fox Met. would issue approximately $6,000,000 of secured debentures to the present bondholders for 50 per cent of their equity and approximately 250,000 shares of new stock for the other 50 per cent. The plan proposes that half of the new stock be sold by the bondholders to Schenck for approximately $600,000 cash and the other half to Fox Theatres for $300,000 cash and the release of Fox Met. from the $5,000,000 Fox Theatres' claim, which for the purposes of the plan is allowed in the amount of $300,000.

Thus, if the plan receives court and creditor approval, Fox Met. bondholders would receive immediate cash amounting to approximately 20 cents on the $1 and would retain an aggregate $6,000,000 equity in the new company. In addition, the bondholders will receive warrants for a pro rata share in the approximately $2,000,000 cash in the possession of the Fox Met. trustee, after deduction of administration and reorganization expenses.

Would Continue as Operators

Skouras and Randforce would continue as operators of the circuit under their present arrangements at least until May 1, 1936, the plan proposes.

It is expected that Weisman, as receiver for Fox Theatres, would also become an officer, probably a vice-president, of the new Fox Met. because of the stock interest Fox Theatres would hold in the new company. It is also considered probable that Fox Theatres eventually would liquidate its new Fox Met. stock holdings and proceed with its own liquidation or reorganization thereafter.

Weisman said Thursday that final conferences on the Fox Met. reorganization plan would probably be held today or immediately following Schenck's scheduled arrival from the coast yesterday. He said he planned to go to Judge Mack on Tuesday to complete arrangements for filing the plan with the court. He said that he had been asked whether A. C. Blumenthal or Loew's had any interest in the plan and had replied that they had not.

"I realized that a plan, to be acceptable to the court and to Fox Met. creditors, would have to provide for an experienced industry man to head the new company," Weisman said. "I believe that Joe Schenck's qualifications, together with his freedom from exhibition connections, make him an ideal choice."

tonight as a second section of the Crescent Limited. Indications are that approximately 200 convention-bound persons will be aboard this train. Additional groups will join this contingent at Washington, Charlotte and Atlanta.

Special trains will also leave Chicago and St. Louis today, for New Orleans, with arrangements for conventioneers from the Memphis territory joining either group having been made. Numerous others are expected from nearby southern cities and a representative contingent from the far west will be on hand.

Reservations at the Roosevelt, the New Orleans convention hotel, were exhausted several days ago, according to advices reaching here. Overflow crowds will be quartered in nearby hotels.

An impressive list of industry leaders will be in attendance at the convention and many of them will address the business sessions. Among the latter are Sidney R. Kent, president of Fox; Compliance Director Sol A. Rosenblatt; Frank C. Walker; M. E. Comerford, and Ed Kuykendall, M.P.T.O.A. president.

The convention sessions will not open officially until Tuesday, Monday being reserved for registration, social events and a closed meeting of the M.P.T.O.A. board of directors, at which the annual election of the organization's officers will be held. Business sessions will continue through Thursday with the annual banquet terminating the official program Thursday night. Social affairs of an impromptu nature are being arranged for Friday for the benefit of the many conventioneers who will remain over for New Orleans' Mardi Gras festival, which gets under way Friday night and continues throughout the following week.

Airport Fair Is Off

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 22.—The film fair at Shushan airport during the M.P.T.O.A. convention has been shelved permanently owing to the lack of interest both of local and national exchanges. Last year, the G.S.T.O.A. staged a film fair along Film Row which was the talk of all who attended. There was open house at all exchanges, free liquid refreshments, hot dogs and street dancing. According to those in the know, the fair at the airport would have cost approximately $3,600. Only $1,000 was raised.

Stars Attend Opening

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 22.—Jeanette MacDonald, Nelson Eddy and W. S. Van Dyke, who directed Miss MacDonald and Eddy in "Naughty Marietta," are en route here for a personal appearance with the opening of the picture during the M.P.T.O.A. convention.

McLeod Won't Run

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 22.—Harry S. McLeod, president of the G.S.T.O.A., declared he will not be a candidate for re-election when his unit meets here next week in conjunction with the national M.P.T.O.A. convention.

He also denied his association will affiliate with the Kuykendall group.

rib-tickling situations falls in with Talbot. O'Connell tries to keep Miss Michael happy by arranging for Talbot to escort her to the premiere of her picture because she thinks he's swell. Miss Angel tries to halt the affair and gets roped by O'Connell into attending the opening with a fake prince, Rafael Storm. The party gets hectic at the premiere and Talbot slaps the prince on the schnozzola with resulting turmoil. Miss Michael sails for Europe with a broken heart and Miss Angel and Talbot mend theirs.

Talbot, Miss Angel, Miss Michael and O'Connell give fine performances. Director Alan Crosland handles the situations deftly. The showmanship of producer Edmund Grainger is pronounced throughout the production. Seton I. Miller and Rian James penned the entertaining screen play from an original by Ward Morehouse and Jean Dalrymple. George Robinson's photography is better than average.

The picture, having mass entertainment appeal, should do good business in any locale.

worked out recently after a study by the directors.

Charles Gulliver presided and a committee was named to study both plans and report to a meeting of all preference shareholders Wednesday.

Circuit buying is under way at present. G.B. has acquired a large holding in Union Cinema Co., Ltd. Arthur Jarratt, booking head for G.B., has joined the board and will do the booking. Thirty new houses are planned.

Associated has bought Dawe Bros., Ltd., and Beard's four London halls and Astoria's Brighton and Margate, and is bidding for two other big circuits.

Gaumont British has also bought an interest in Hyams' eight H. & G. theatres. Jarratt has also been placed on the board of this circuit and will do the booking. Reports are that this circuit and Gaumont and H. & G. will jointly build the 4,700-seat Kilburn at a cost of £350,000.

St. Louis Operator Files a Para. Suit

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 22.—The Abraham Lincoln Amusement Co., operator of a negro theatre here, has filed an anti-trust suit against Paramount claiming $20,250 damages on the ground that it was denied first run pictures after entering into a contract for them on Oct. 1. Triple damages are sought.

The contract was never fulfilled, the concern alleges, and it was forced to close as a result.

U. S. Probe in Ohio Is Reported Begun

CLEVELAND, Feb. 22.—It is understood here that a Federal investigation is being conducted into the effects of block booking and the operation of affiliated circuits.

Impartial Men Are Suggested For Chairmen

impartial men responding to questionnaires sent out had recommended that they be made chairmen with the other members of boards. By appointment of outsiders as chairmen it is felt that the fear of partiality from the chair will be removed.

Unanimously approved at Thursday's session was a recommendation that members of clearance boards be prevented from sitting on individual appeals in which their companies are involved. This, however, does not apply to hearings on schedules. Grievance boards have been conducted along these lines since their inception.

The Los Angeles schedule was adopted in toto with modifications. This is the schedule approved at a meeting of the local board last week. With the exception of Pasadena and Long Beach, the plan must go into effect not later than March 31.

A communication received from the re-registration committee for extras arrived too late for Campi action. It provides for a registration of 1,004 extras with the privilege of increasing this number 50 per cent during the year. Action will be taken Thursday.

Harold S. Bareford was chairman. Others attending included Deputy Administrator William P. Farnsworth, Charles L. O'Reilly, Nathan Yamins, Gordon C. Youngman, Felix A. Jenkins, Sidney Justin, Felix Feist, E. T. Gomersall and Arthur H. Lockwood. Jenkins left by airplane for Chicago after the session.

The Century attorney had only 32 up to Wednesday night, but increased his score considerably Thursday morning.

Laurence Bolognino, a member of the board, had planned to leave for Florida over the week-end, but with the adjournment has canceled the trip and now hopes to sail for Europe in April for a vacation. Murray is spending the holiday week-end in Atlantic City recuperating from the strain of the two-day questioning.

Kuykendall's Regime Will Be Continued

He and Present Slate To Be Re-elected

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 24.—Re-election for another year of Ed Kuykendall as M.P.T.O.A. president, as well as the entire slate of incumbent officers of the organization, is regarded as a certainty at the annual meeting of the M.P.T.O.A. board Monday.

A new secretary will be reelected to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Fred S. Meyer, who became an assistant to Carl Laemmle during the past year. Morris Lowenstein of Oklahoma City and Charles W. Picquet of Pinehurst, N. C., are regarded as likely candidates for the post.

In addition to Kuykendall, officers slated for re-election include Walter Vincent, New York, treasurer; M. E. Comerford, Scranton; M. A. Lightman, Memphis; A. Julian Brylawski, Washington; B. N. Berinstein, Los Angeles, and W. S. Butterfield, Detroit, as vice-presidents; Edward G. Levy, New Haven, general counsel,

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 24.—The dual bill, composed of the M.P.T.O.A. convention and the Mardi Gras which trails it, is jamming the city.

H. R. Chase, general manager of the Association of Commerce, has issued an appeal to families with spare rooms to offer them to visitors to the Mardi Gras. "The hotels, large and small, will accommodate about 25,000 in a pinch," says Chase. "On inquiry we learned that all had been booked to the limit. We also learned that even the hospitals which rent extra rooms on such occasions have been booked to the limit. Only

ABOARD M.P.T.O.A. SPECIAL, ATLANTA, Feb. 24.—It looks like a party. A big party. A handful of hours after this special, running as a second section of the Crescent Limited into the New Orleans playground, left New York Saturday night clinched the argument, if there was any, which there was not.

Socially, it looks like a big handful of days. Business-like, the convention looks interesting with results entirely in futures.

Bulletins out of New Orleans indicate the stagecraft has gone into overtime. The code, good old code, will provide whatever fireworks develop. Once again, the ancient battle between those none too friendly enemies, the producer and the exhibitor, is about to be touched off, this time almost entirely through the code and what it does not provide.

Says the M.P.T.O.A. in effect even if not in this language:

"We know what the code has done. It's over a year since it became the law. What we are interested in now is in pointing up what the code has not done. We admit the document was

Cancellations Up, Designated Dates Out, Are Aims

By J. W. LEIGH

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 24.—The M.P.T.O.A. will strike for significant changes in the code at its 15th annual convention which gets under way Monday at the Roosevelt.

It will strike out for an uppage in the cancellation clause from its present 10 per cent to 20 per cent, but emerge satisfied from convention hurly-burly at the end of the week with a split at 15 per cent if it can get that.

It will strike out for elimination of designated playdates on the ground that the practice indulged in today by all major distributors is not only an encroachment on the freedom of theatre operation, but a means of keeping alive public exhibition of objectionable pictures through insistence on Sunday playdates when family patronage is strongest.

Objection will be registered to the present status of the copyright laws which impose a $250 fine upon violators, whether conscious or otherwise, and without benefit of hearing.

A formula will be sought to effect clearance on a broad scale throughout the country, but based on admissions only. Probable is the development of a plan to bring about this objective through proposals in code revision, although details tonight are being jealously guarded.

Much attention will be paid to ways and means of increasing grosses by squeezing to its maximum dryness that which exhibitors get in product rather than continue to waste time by ranting against producers for failure to deliver written without precedent. We also admit it was finally drawn and approved minus a lot of things we wanted and couldn't get. Now we want them."

What are those things? For one, there is the situation on cancellations. Plenty to do about, and with, that problem, insists the M.P.T.O.A. The 10 per cent provision, hamstrung with catches and tied up prettily in knots of various kinds isn't nearly enough of a concession. The M.P.T.O.A. argued for 20 per cent during those murderous code formulation days in Washington and walked off with something which it maintains simply will not do.

It wants:

(1) Clarification of the atmosphere on the 10 per cent arrangement. Simplification also to the end that exhibitors get what the code says they are to get without question, hindrance or sidetracking.

(2) A hike to 20 per cent, or, like all deals in the film business, a compromise at 15. The M.P.T.O.A. will be content with the half-way mark.

How It Hooks Up

All of this ties in with block booking. And block booking ties in with the activities of sundry individuals in that selfsame Washington this jaunty crowd passed through, but not out, in the small hours of Sunday morning. The exhibitor organization's attitude is that block booking will shrink to a considerably less vital issue if cancellations expand into a more sizeable one. It will argue, this observer is reporting in advance, that the way to stifle much of this anti-block booking threat is to give exhibitors more latitude in pencilling out product they either do not want or that which they consider unsuitable for their audiences.

The M.P.T.O.A. is apt, very apt, to go strategic and inform distributors at large that, unless something is done about cancellations, the organization will either get actively behind some of the legislative stumping in Washington or aid the death-to-block-booking contingent by remaining passive. That, it is insisted, will be bad stuff either way.

Open support against sales in blocks through the usual pressure on Congressmen is likely to sharpen the issue into something more tangible, their argument goes. Passive resistance aiding the protagonists, they continue, easily might hasten the same results. Therefore, New Orleans may see a political deal brewing with cancellations the spoils.

Oppose Blocks, But—

M.P.T.O.A. men make it clear that they have no desire to sponsor block booking legislation actively or otherwise. Chiefly, their reason for preferring to continue anti is their fear that any elimination or curtailment of the practice will revive the now famous, but gone, "right to buy" theory and result in a higher cost per picture because of the terrific competition such an open market condition would bring about. Whether they mean it or not, whether they are cluttering the trail with the well-known brand of red herrings is a question, open kind, but this is their story. If anyone is stuck with it, don't wire this byline.

If past history may be accepted as a criterion, distributors will fight the move. The same situation will hold true where the M.P.T.O.A. and its 1935 slant on designated playdates are concerned. The organization is primed for a tussle on that score as a sort of handmaiden to its war whoop on eliminations. Exhibitor leaders aboard, as well as those already on the convention scene, assert the designated playdate system is raising havoc with their business.

They maintain the practice hits at their individual liberty as theatre operators; that the distributor has no right to insist upon preferred playing time; that enforced dates on big halves of the week, including Sundays, are keeping alive objectionable pictures in that the exhibitor is deprived of selection of attractions to grace his house on Saturday and Sunday when papa, mama and the kids attend.

Eyes Look on Ohio

On this issue, much interest has been evidenced in the Waldvogel bill. This is the measure inspired by the Independent Theatre Owners of Ohio and already voted favorably in the upper house of that commonwealth. Prominent church organizations throughout Ohio are swinging their influence to bear on its ultimate enactment.

Of considerable potential interest is that portion of the impending convention which will spend the day discussing theatre problems, poising merchandising riddles, airing methods of approximating maximum from available raw material.

The theory behind this is simple, yet arresting. It takes into account what is described as the futility of raising hell with producers for quality pictures they fail to deliver, while, at the same time, little or nothing is done about delivered product. This is why speakers will include successful theatremen of the Balaban and Wilby type who, having once recognized what they are given to sell to the public, proceed to sell it even while they may silently rave over the failings of Hollywood.

Hold Star Value Slant

It works something like this:

The last so-and-so may not have been so good. Too bad, but inescapable is the point that, since the exhibitor has already bought it, he ought to do something about selling the film instead of gnashing his teeth.

Higher uppers in the M.P.T.O.A. ranks have computed—generously, this outpost thinks—that of the total picture output per annum the peak load in big attractions rests at 25. They also figure that in numbers of outstanding box-office stars, the total ends unsatisfactorily at six or eight. They continue:

"What happens? The average exhibitor makes gods and goddesses of them. The excitement naturally reflects itself in Hollywood and studio salaries continue to soar steadily toward the heavens. Ditto on rentals.

"But exhibitors have to show the other product as well. If they did something about it, if they operated as the showmen they are supposed to be would, and should, it is easily conceivable that other stars might be made, thereby increasing the number of drawing cards at the till and making the general exhibition problem easier. The trouble is too many operators of theatres sit down and wait for their grosses to pile up with no assistance drawn from the fount of their own experience."

Hollywood will go into ecstasies over this.

The argumcnt sounds, and is, interesting. There are many exhibitors, so called, who have been doing alright for years through sheer indifference which sometimes is another name for luck.

If the conventioneers can get away from Antoine's, Sazeracs and Ramos gin fizzes long enough to listen and, what's more, do something about it, this phase of the about-to-start parley easily may emerge as the highlight of the session.

Contagion Spreads; 'U' Holding One, Too

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 24.—James R. Grainger, general sales manager of Universal, is here from Atlanta and New York to look in on the exhibitor convention and to hold a sales parley of his own with several of the Universal district managers assembled for the purpose.

W. J. Heineman, western district; Henry Herbel, headquartering in Chicago; John Ezell, headquartering in Atlanta, and Harry Graham, headquartering in Kansas City, are here.

Grainger will return to New York in a few days and in about four weeks again go to the coast, this time to prepare "U's" line-up for 1935-36.

Looks Like S. R. O. This Week in N. O.

Saturday morning we received telegrams and telephone calls from travel agencies and persons in places as far away as Cincinnati asking for accommodations. Unless the people of New Orleans as a civic duty make available their rooms it will be impossible to accommodate the visitors."

Counting the number who will spend Mardi Gras Day in New Orleans, Chase believes the crowd will total at least 200,000.

Gillham to Sit In

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 24.—Robert M. Gillham, director of advertising and publicity of Paramount, is here for the convention, following 10 days of fishing in Florida.

Success Note

New Orleans, Feb. 24.—The M.P.T.O.A. convention combines with Mardi Gras to give the hotels here their heaviest registration in years. The Roosevelt has been sold out for several weeks past, according to Pat O'Shaugnessy, manager, who said every room in the hotel has been booked solid for Carnival Week.

Tommy Burns of the Jung says all the rooms there are filled and will remain so until after carnival time. John O'Leary of the St. Charles and Tony Spatofora of the Monteleone likewise report capacity.

and Fred Wehrenberg, St. Louis, chairman of the board.

A new board of trustees and executive committee is also slated for election at the directors' meeting. Sam Dembow, Jr., resigned as a trustee when he left Paramount to become associated with National Screen Service during the past year, leaving a vacancy to be filled. Other trustees include Kuykendall; Joseph Bernhard of Warners; Comerford; Picquet; E. A. Schiller of Loew's; L. E. Thompson of RKO, and Vincent. Several replacements for this board are anticipated.

Meyer was a member of the executive committee and it is believed that his successor as secretary will also be elected to the committee Monday. Several other changes in the executive committee are also anticipated. Members now include Kuykendall, O. C. Lam, Sidney Lust, J. H. Michael, Jack Miller and Thompson.

Members of the board of directors are elected regionally by the affiliated units. No election of directors is scheduled at this time.

Cancellation Shift Is Up to Campi

Convention's Action Needs Gov't Stamp

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 24.—Recommendations for doubling the present 10 per cent cancellation provision in the code, slated for the M.P.T.O.A. convention, will have to be made to Campi. If it approves, any amendment will have to go to Washington for Compliance Director Sol A. Rosenblatt's sanction.

Efforts by exhibitors for 15, 20 and 25 per cent elimination privileges in contracts date back to the early stages of the formation of the code when coordinating committees were named to pacify opposing elements. On Aug. 2, 1933, after members of the industry had worked on a tentative draft of the code for months, the first sign of concellations came to light. Exhibitors wanted a straight 15 per cent elimination. Distributors wanted to adhere to the uniform contract provision and sought to maintain that clause in the code. It provides for the first five per cent with full payment, the second five at half price and the third five without payment.

With exhibitors holding out for a flat 15 per cent and distributor group tenaciously insisting on the contract clause, the issue ultimately was left to Rosenblatt for decision. In the master exhibitor draft sent to Washington, the 5-5-5 arrangement, arrived at after 20 or more months of active and desultory conferring by committees representing M.P.T.O.A., Allied and distributors, was included, but in the list of 28 exceptions submitted with the draft by Charles L. O'Reilly, exhibitor coordinator, the elimination provision was included.

Has Ancient History

On Sept. 21, 1933, MOTION PICTURE DAILY stated that Allied was seeking a 20 per cent cancellation. S. R. Kent, distributor coordinator, in commenting on the subject, said at the time:

"If the exhibitor is given the right to cancel out pictures as he may elect how can the studios tell what pictures to make or not to make? Our negative costs, as a consequence, will maintain their present high level; we will be compelled to make all of the pictures we set out to make at the start of the season and stagger along on the chance some of them will be canceled, and by not being canceled, return what we have spent."

On Oct. 4, 1933, the first revised draft of the exhibitor code by Rosenblatt included the 15 per cent elimination without payment. Five days later this clause was changed by reducing the percentage by five. The reduction followed conferences between Rosenblatt, then administrator, and distributor heads.

The third revision of the exhibitor draft followed on Oct. 19 when the clause was changed to read that cancellations can only be made on groups of 10, or, in other words, one of every 10 pictures bought may be canceled without payment.

On Oct. 28, United Artists had not yet signed the code and, while it was stated at the time that its reason was because it opposed the anti-raiding clause in the production code draft, it was believed that the cancellation privilege also was an annoyance because of the company individual selling policy.

Two days later, distributors went on record as willing to abide by contracts already signed providing for 15 per cent cancellation. This again was under the original 5-5-5 arrangement, but on Dec. 4, MOTION PICTURE DAILY learned that the 10 per cent provision would be granted exhibitors who signed on the old cancellation basis. Allied directors, meeting secretly in New York on Jan. 24, 1934, discussed cancellations but would not comment on their stand. It is believed that they still maintained their 20 per cent demand made on Sept. 21, the year before.

Around Feb. 10, Campi members had an inning on the retroactive phases of cancellation. Rosenblatt held it was effective as of Dec. 7, when the code went into operation. Code Authority members thought differently and asked NRA legal department to decide the issue. On Feb. 16, John C. Flinn released the legal department order upholding the administrator. Not satisfied with the ruling by the NRA, M-G-M, Paramount, RKO, Fox and Warners on March 1 were reported ready to test the retroactive date in court. On March 10, the five companies changed their attitude and acquiesced. March 30 found Campi sending out letters to all local boards advising secretaries to list for hearings complaints on cancellations.

Apparently still dissatisfied with the number of requests for eliminations, distributors were holding out at the end of March when Rosenblatt, at a Campi session, insisted on a showdown. By a vote of eight to two, Warners and Paramount dissenting, the members accepted the cancellation privilege. To top this, the NRA on March 31 ruled that even non-assentors could benefit by the 10 per cent provision. On April 12, Code Authority instructed all branch managers to immediately abide by the elimination clause in the code.

At the M.P.T.O.A. convention last year, a move was made for hiking the elimination figure to 15 per cent. That was on April 14 in Los Angeles. When Campi was queried on April 17 on the M.P.T.O.A. resolution, no official request was on record other than that which was reported in trade papers. On May 10, the M.P.T.O. of Nebraska went on record for 15 per cent cancellations, but no further action was taken.

On May 28, Campi reported 215 non-assentors had taken advantage of the power to cancel without payment.

The first sign of difficulties with U. A. over the 10 per cent provision came to the attention of code members when, on May 29, William E. Troug, branch head for the company in Kansas City, notified Grace Gannon, local code secretary, that the company was not subject to the clause. Supporting this statement was Al Lichtman, who in Chicago on June 4 on a two-day company convention, stated "it was part of our understanding when we signed the code and also our agreement with Sol A. Rosenblatt we were not subject to the clause."

U. A. Was Storm Center

Fred Meyn of the Pershing, Kansas City, said he would file a test case against United Artists. This was the first of three against the company. The Egyptian, De Kalb, Ill., was the second. This theatre filed a complaint on June 11, a week after Meyn. The third instance developed without special significance when, on Aug. 9 last year, H. R. Evans of the Albion, Albion, Ind., was given a Campi verdict against U. A. Evans declared he had bought 26 pictures, or all offered by the company, and was turned down on a one-picture cancellation. Code authority held that the exhibitor was within his rights, having bought all the product offered. U. A. contended the contracts were on an individual basis and that Campi could not eliminate 10 per cent of one picture. During the month of August, U. A., through its attorneys, O'Brien, Driscoll & Raftery, threatened legal action. On Sept. 7, this plan was dropped, the company stating that it would abide by its provisions.

On Oct. 23 the question of substituting pictures for cancellations came up, distributors contending they had the right to take a picture from the lower bracket in any contract and charge an exhibitor the amount of the film canceled in the higher bracket. On Dec. 26, Ed Kuykendall, in a bulletin to M.P.T.O.A. members recommending an overhauling of the code, stated the code cancellation privilege was inadequate. He also said that the topic would be one for convention discussion in New Orleans.

No further complaints against U. A.'s refusal to grant eliminations have been registered with either local boards or Campi. Apparently disappointed in its efforts to get increased cancellations, Allied at its board of directors meeting in Washington recently did not dip into the subject, but slammed the code at large.

Cancellation Clause Facing Fire on Convention Floor

New Orleans, Feb. 24.—The cancellation clause against which the M.P.T.O.A. will lay down a heavy barrage appears in the code under Article V (Unfair Practices), Subdivision F, Part 6.

This is the text on which the exhibitor convention will seek amendment to increase the 10 per cent bracket to 20 per cent:

Part 6. If in any license agreement for the exhibition of feature motion pictures the Exhibitor has contracted to exhibit all of the motion pictures offered at one time by the Distributor to the Exhibitor and the license fees of all thereof average not more than $250.00, the Exhibitor shall have the privilege to exclude from such license agreement not to exceed ten percent (10%) of the total number of the motion pictures so licensed; provided the Exhibitor

(1) is not in default under such license agreement, and

(2) shall have complied with all of the provisions thereof, if any, for the exhibition of such motion pictures at specified intervals.

(b) Such privilege of exclusion may be exercised only upon the following terms and conditions:

(1) The Exhibitor shall give to the Distributor written notice of each motion picture to he excluded within fourteen (14) days after the general release date thereof in the exchange territory out of which the Exhibitor is served.

(2) The Exhibitor may exclude without payment therefor one (1) motion picture out of each group of ten (10) of the number of feature motion pictures specified in the license agreement provided he has paid for the other nine (9) of such group.

(3) If such privilege of exclusion is not exercised as provided in paragraph (h) (2) above, the Exhibitor may nevertheless exercise such privilege by paying the license fee of each motion picture excluded with the notice of its exclusion. In such case, such payment shall he credited against such tenth or succeeding tenth motion picture, as the case may he, which the Exhibitor would otherwise be privileged to exclude as provided in paragraph (h) (2) above.

If the only or last group licensed is less than ten (10) and more than five (5) motion pictures, the privilege to exclude shall apply provided the Exhibitor has paid for all motion pictures but one in such group.

(c) Upon the failure or refusal of the Exhibitor to comply with any term or condition of such license agreement, or to comply with any arbitration award in respect thereto, the privilege of exclusion forthwith shall be revoked and the Exhibitor shall be liable for and pay to the Distributor the license fees of all motion pictures theretofore excluded.

(d) If the license fee of any feature motion picture specified in the license agreement is to be computed in whole or in part upon a percentage of the receipts of the Exhibitor's theatre, such license fee (for the purpose of computing the average license fee of all the motion pictures licensed) shall be determined as follows:

(1) Average the license fees of all of the Distributor's feature motion pictures exhibited upon a percentage basis at the Exhibitor's theatre during the period of one year prior to the term of such license agreement.

(2) If none of the Distributor's feature motion pictures were exhibited upon a percentage hasis at such theatre during said period, average the license fees of all feature motion pictures exhibited upon a percentage hasis at such theatre during the said period.

(e) If the rental of any motion picture excluded is to be computed in whole or in part upon a percentage of the receipts of the Exhibitor's theatre, the sum to be paid by the Exhibitor as provided in paragraph (h) (3) hereof shall be determined as follows:

(1) Average the gross receipts of all the Distributor's feature motion pictures exhibited at the Exhibitor's theatre during the ninety (90) day period preceding the Exhibitor's notice of exclusion, and apply to such average the percentage terms specified in the license agreement for the picture excluded.

(2) If no feature motion pictures of the Distributor were exhibited at the Exhibitor's theatre during said ninety (90) day period, average the daily gross receipts of the Exhibitor's theatre for the period of thirty (30) operating days preceding the Exhibitor's notice of exclusion and apply to such average the percentage terms specified in the license agreement for the picture excluded.

(f) In computing the number of feature motion pictures which may be excluded hereunder, fractions of more than one half (½) shall be regarded as one (1).

(g) Upon the exclusion of each feature motion picture, the license therefor and all rights thereunder shall terminate and shall revert to the Distributor.

(h) The Optional Standard License Agreement referred to in Part 1 hereof shall be deemed amended by substituting in place of Article Fifteenth of such contract the provisions of this Part.

are localites who will attend the convention.

H. V. Manning of Etowah, Tenn., Mack Jackson of Alexander City, Ala., and L. J. Duncan of West Point, Ga., are out-of-towners who have made reservations to leave for the convention from this point.

Goldstein from Baltimore

BALTIMORE, Feb. 24. — Norman Goldstein, president of the Globe Poster Co. here, is the only person connected with the industry who will attend the convention, so far as can be learned. This section is a stronghold for Allied.

Giles from New England

BOSTON, Feb. 24.—George A. Giles, president of the Allied Theatres of Massachusetts, Inc., which is an M.P.T.O.A. affiliate, will represent his organization at New Orleans. He is the only one definitely slated to go.

Sam Pinansky of Olympia Theatres, however, is in Florida for his health and may take in the proceedings. There is a possibility, too, that John J. Ford of the same circuit and a member of the Giles' association, may sit in.

Michael Only One from Buffalo

BUFFALO, Feb. 24.—Jules H. Michael, zone chairman of the M.P.T.O., is the only one from the Buffalo area known to be figuring definitely on attending the New Orleans convention. He said he had no special sectional grievance in mind to present, but would wait first to see what was brought out on the floor of the convention.

25 from the Carolinas

CHARLOTTE, Feb. 24.—The North and South Carolina M.P.T.O. will have approximately 25 members and their wives at the convention. The problems to be brought up by exhibitors of this district are closely aligned with those of the national association and no local grievances or suggestions are slated for airing.

Those who will attend are: George and Mrs. Parr, Lancaster, S. C.; M. F. and Mrs. Schnibben, Florence, S. C.; J. E. and Mrs. Massey, Waynesville, N. C.; J. M. and Mrs. Gregg, Charlotte; L. C. Sipe, Charlotte; H. R. Berry, Hartsville, S. C.; Walter Gregg, Charlotte; J. E. Simpson, Gastonia; Roy Smart, Charlotte; H. F. and Mrs. Kincey, Charlotte; Walter and Mrs. Griffith, Charlotte; Ruth Hardin, Charlotte, secretary of the association; J. H. Vickers, Charlotte; Charles W. Picquet, Pinehurst, president of the association, and Albert Sottile, Charleston, S. C.

Miller, Balaban Going

CHICAGO, Feb. 24.—Jack Miller of the Chicago Exhibitors' Ass'n already is on the New Orleans convention scene, having gone on from New York where, earlier last week, he appeared before Campi in an appeal case involving the Yale, Maywood, against his Lido.

John Balaban of B. & K. will be on hand, as will Walter Immerman, general manager of the circuit. Mrs. Louis Rudolph of the Emmett will attend. The two daughters of John Remijas, who made the jaunt to the last conclave in Los Angeles, are scheduled. "Tippy" Harrison is also in the group.

Cincinnati Disinterested

CINCINNATI, Feb. 24.—Little interest is evidenced in this section over the impending New Orleans convention. So far as has been checked, the territory will have no representation. Those neighborhood exhibitors who belong to any state unit are members of the I.T.O. of Ohio, which is an Allied unit.

Draw Blank in Cleveland

CLEVELAND, Feb. 24.—No Clevelanders will attend the New Orleans convention. Practically all of the local theatremen, aside from affiliated circuits, are members of the Cleveland M. P. Exhibitors' Ass'n which fails to see problems eye to eye with the M.P.T.O.A.

None from Columbus

COLUMBUS, Feb. 24.—A check of exhibitors and exhibitor organizations throughout this territory fails to disclose any exhibitors who will attend the convention in New Orleans.

The reason is obvious. This is an Allied territory and the I.T.O. of Ohio is an affiliate of that organization.

"We Want Code Changes" Is Keynote of Convention

something better. This is the keynote behind the solid day's program to be devoted to addresses by advertising managers of major producers, by experts in equipment and by experts in theatre merchandising.

The "drones" in exhibition ranks are slated for a lashing for their dependence upon an active few in their territory to throttle adverse legislation. "Pep" talks designed to awaken theatremen from their lethargy in this direction will be spotted throughout the sessions.

The cancellation issue will be a hot one. It looks like fireworks on this point. M.P.T.O.A. men insist the 10 per cent bracket is not sufficiently generous. They maintain they cannot ward off outside, adverse criticism unless the bars are further let down. They maintain there are too many strings attached to the method by which the current eliminations are granted and they charge some distributors with bad faith in that they either are dodging cancellations or making them difficult to get, code notwithstanding.

Therefore, the convention will hit hard for two things. One is clarification of the cancellation privilege as it now stands with the elimination of all strings attached. Two, a hike in the bracket.

If they get this concession, which, no matter how the convention works out will have to be submitted to Code Authority in New York, it is argued the block booking question will become less acute. The greater the number of pictures cancellable, the less the cry about being forced to buy in groups. This is the idea in a nutshell.

Ed Kuykendall, national president, told MOTION PICTURE DAILY on the eve of the confabs that this will be no "smothered" convention.

"We have deliberately drawn up our program to include speakers who by on means are in complete sympathy with our objectives," he said. "We expect them and they will give it to the delegates straight from the shoulder, or the hip if you like, and tell the assembled theatremen where they get off."

While Kuykendall makes this promise, convention routine determined upon will follow essentially along the lines set up last year in Los Angeles. There will be little or no "beefing" or airing of individual complaints from the floor. M.P.T.O.A. attitude appears to be that no one is particularly interested in being wearied by long harangues of exhibitors complaining over a situation peculiar and local to his operation; that this will slow down an already crowded schedule and that the most efficacious manner of hearing grievances is to divert them to the private deliberations of committees delegated for this purpose. In the comparative quiet of committee rooms, individuals will have their say.

If what they say is viewed as important enough to reach the floor, the chairman of the committee will introduce it.

Contrary to Los Angeles and the 14th annual convention where studio parties were the order of each day, the deliberations this year will divide themselves into both morning and afternoon sessions. The plan is to sound each day's final gavel at about 4:30 or 5 o'clock, allow committees an hour or so thereafter for their own business and thereby permit a brief interlude to intervene between convention proper and each evening's social calendar.

Space at the Roosevelt tonight was at a premium. Convention overflow is reaching to the Jung and other hotels as well. This is reported to be the first time on record, or at least the first time in years, that the top-notch hotels in town have accepted conventions during the week of Mardi Gras.

Code Clauses Slated for A Featured Role

Dallas After '36 Convention

DALLAS, Feb. 24.—Among local showmen who will attend the M.P.T.O.A. convention will be Harold Robb and Ed Rowley of R. & R. Circuit, Claude Ezell and Bill Underwood of Independent Film Co., Buddy Harris of Alexander Film, R. J. Potter of Jefferson Amusement, Wallace Walthall of National Screen Service, J. I. Roberts of National Theatre Supply and Bert King of RCA.

Walthall and a group will ask the convention in 1936 for Dallas, at which time Texas will be holding the Centennial Celebration with Dallas as the principal centennial city. L. C. Griffith of Griffith Amusement Co. of Oklahoma City joined Walthall in Dallas today to entrain for New Orleans. Bonnie Long, secretary of the local code board, will attend.

A large delegation of Oklahomans is reported driving to Dallas to join forces with the local group, New Orleans bound.

Huffman Grooming Fight

DENVER, Feb. 24.—There is a strong possibility that the Rocky Mountain Theater Owners' Ass'n will be represented at the convention. The president, Harry E. Huffman, Earl P. (Bishop) Briggs and Frank Culp are planning on attending. All are members of the local organization.

Huffman is at present engaged in a fight in Federal court to prevent several exchanges from carrying out orders of the grievance board to stop service to his theatres. Ordered to stop auto giveaways, he persisted, and the stop order was the result. If Huffman attends he is expected to try to have the code modified to allow giveaways in theatres. He is firm in his conviction that they are needed until business conditions improve.

Draws Des Moines Blank

DES MOINES, Feb. 24.—A check made by MOTION PICTURE DAILY shows the local exhibitor fraternity is passing up the M.P.T.O.A. convention completely.

Detroit Sans Delegation

DETROIT, Feb. 24.—Checkup of exhibitors here indicates that Michigan, which has no M.P.T.O.A. unit, will not be represented at the convention in New Orleans.

Harold C. Robinson, of Film Truck Service, will, however, attend the sessions of the National Film Carriers, Inc., which will be held during the exhibitor convention. Robinson, who is a vice-president of the carriers' body, will go to Florida from New Orleans for a vacation of several weeks.

sociated Theatre Owners of Indiana hold sway. Therefore, there is no interest in this section in the New Orleans convention.

Kansas City Disinterested

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 24.—Neither national exhibitor organization has any affiliation in this territory and so it obviously follows local exhibitors have no particular interest in the New Orleans convention.

Elmer C. Rhoden, Fox Midwest division manager who was slated to address the parleys, will not attend. Pressure of business attendant upon emergence of his company from bankruptcy is the reason.

FALLS CITY, Neb., Feb. 24.—Oscar Johnson, local exhibitor, will attend the M.P.T.O.A. convention in New Orleans beginning tomorrow.

Berinstein Goes Solo

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 24.—Ben Berinstein, president of the Southern California association which is affiliated with the national M.P.T.O.A., will act as a one-man delegation to the New Orleans convention.

"Death to Walkathons"

MEMPHIS, Feb. 24.—Representatives of M.P.T.O. of Arkansas, Mississippi and Tennessee will go to the national M.P.T.O.A. convention with the proposal that all exhibitors unite in a move to bar walkathons from their communities.

M. A. Lightman, chairman of the tri-state board of directors, said tax problems will be uppermost in the minds of exhibitors from this territory who attend the convention, but that they will not have any definite recommendations other than the walkathon ban move, according to present indications.

Official representatives of this unit will be Lightman; W. L. Landers, of Batesville, Ark., president; and R. X. Williams, of Oxford, Miss., secretary.

Lightman is scheduled to speak on "Successful Ways of Putting Over the Family Night Idea," but plans to "cheat" a bit on his subject, expanding it to include the general theme of goodwill promotion within the community and state. He will contend that the proper handling of this problem by exhibitors will go a long way toward solving all their legislative difficulties.

As chairman of the legislative committee, Lightman went to the convention a day or so ahead.

Exhibitors in this territory are more and more coming to regard the walkathon as a form of competition to which they need not submit, according to the former national president. Sentiment has been developing for some time for a definite move to curb the spread and, in several instances, theatre owners have succeeded in keeping this type of amusement out of their cities.

"I think it is time all the facts regarding what goes on at a walkathon should be brought before the national body for action," Lightman said. "So far as I know, it is about the only thing upon which the tri-state group is determined to secure action."

Wisconsin Sending Observers

MILWAUKEE, Feb. 24.—With the dissolution of the M.P.T.O. of Wisconsin and Upper Michigan, Inc., now in process, this city which last year sent a strong delegation to the M.P.T.O.A. convention in California, will send no official delegation to New Orleans.

To date, those who have signified their intentions of giving a look-in without any particular axe to grind, include Mike Brumm of the Ritz and Al Bartelt of the Plaza, both of whom are members of the recently organized Independent Theatres Protective Ass'n of Wisconsin. It is possible that several others may find their way to the gathering.

Northwest Doesn't Figure

MINNEAPOLIS, Feb. 24.—The New Orleans convention appears to be of little interest in the Twin City area where those exhibitors who go in for exhibitor associations are, in the main, members of Allied.

Levy from New Haven

NEW HAVEN, Feb. 24.—Edward G. Levy, not as a member of the M.P.T.O. of Connecticut which, despite its name, is not affiliated with the national M.P.T.O.A., but as general counsel of the Kuykendall organization, will be in New Orleans.

Max Tabackman of Massachusetts Theatres, Inc., will also attend.

Crowd from New York

The New York delegation, made up almost entirely of distributor and accessory representatives, is traveling to the convention on a special which arrives in New Orleans this morning as a second section of the Crescent Limited.

The two local exhibitor organizations, the I.T.O.A. and the T.O.C.C., will not be represented unless Harry Brandt, president of the former, and Charles L. O'Reilly, president of the latter, make a last minute decision.

Carl Lesserman, assistant to Gradwell Sears; S. Charles Einfeld, director of advertising and publicity, and Fred Jacks, southern district manager, make up the Warner contingent on the train. Jules Levy, general sales manager of Radio, and J. H. McIntyre, southern district manager, are others.

The trainload also embraces E. W. Hammons, president of Educational, and Mrs. Hammons; Jack Skirball, sales manager of that company, and Harvey Day, special sales representative; Hal Horne, director of advertising and publicity of United Artists and Mrs. Horne; Herman Robbins, president, Sam Dembow, Jr. and Hal Young of National Screen Service; George W. Weeks, sales manager of Gaumont British; Harold Robb and Ed Rowley of the R. and R. circuit in the Southwest; Clint Weyer of National Film Carriers, Inc.; H. H. Pease of the York Ice Machinery Corp.; Edward G. Levy, general counsel M.P.T.O.A. with New Haven as his home town; Helen O'Toole, recording secretary of the exhibitor association; Sally Kelly; Jack Knight and Jack Diamond of Paramount; L. S. Tobias and Mrs. Tobias; John Holbrook, Edward Johnstone, Sidney Zucker, James P. Clarke and Fred Fischer.

Abe Sablosky and Charles Segall boarded the train at Philadelphia about midnight Saturday night.

Oklahoma Spreads Self

OKLAHOMA CITY, Feb. 24.—This territory will descend on New Orleans with a real-sized delegation. Headed by Morris Lowenstein, president of the Oklahoma M.P.T.O. and a director of the national M.P.T.O.A., the group will include:

Fred Pickrel, Ponca City; L. C. Griffith, Oklahoma City; "Speedy" and Mrs. Moulder, Sapulpa; Charles Zears, secretary of the local Film Board; Max F. Broch, Lawton; Mrs. C. P. Dooley, Purcell; Phil Isley, Tulsa, and W. P. Moran, Oklahoma City, both identified with Southwestern Theatres, Inc.; L. E. Brewer, Paul's Valley; O. E. Enloe, El Reno; Sol Davis, Monogram Pictures, Oklahome City; and Wallace Walthall, formerly of Oklahoma City and in Dallas.

Most of the delegates are on their way by auto and train. However, Enloe, who operates the Criterion at El Reno, is flying his own plane. The delegation is traveling via Dallas and Baton Rouge and carries to New Orleans no particular grievances for airing.

The majority of the conventioneers from this section will remain for the Mardi Gras.

Nebraska Seeks Changes

OMAHA, Feb. 24.—Charles E. Williams, president of the Nebraska-Western Iowa M.P.T.O. and a member of the national board of directors of the M.P.T.O.A. for more than 10 years, was in Chicago yesterday to join a group of northwest delegates and exhibitors enroute to the New Orleans convention.

Carl Johnson of Red Oak, Ia., and Oscar Johnson of Falls City, Neb., brother exhibitors, together with their wives, will motor to New Orleans for the convention.

Williams told MOTION PICTURE DAILY he would make the same recommendations to the national association as were discussed and informally agreed to at the M.P.T.O. meeting held here in January. The local unit had suggested that the code — if it is to continue — should undergo sufficient changes so as to

Robert, Treasury Dep't Official, Will Talk on Taxation Problems

Washington, Feb. 24. — Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Lawrence Wood Robert, Jr., will address the M.P.T.O.A. convention in New Orleans on the various forms of taxation confronting the exhibitor in the operation of his business.

Robert was born at Monticello, Ga., 45 years ago and was educated at Georgia Tech, where he was an All-American quarterback, a baseball player of sufficient promise to lead "Ty" Cobb to seek to enlist him professionally, a fast man on the track and an all-round athlete.

Graduating, he became a consulting engineer and was, prior to his coming to the Treasury as a member of the "Little Cabinet," president of Robert & Co., textile engineers, and largely responsible for initiating the migration of textile plants from New England to the South.

Bearing the family name, Lawrence Wood, borne by his father and grandfather before him, he is naturally known to his friends as "Chip." His official title is Assistant Secretary of the Treasury in Charge of Engraving and Printing and Mint Service.

Robert plans to leave Washington Feb. 25 or 26, stopping over at his home in Atlanta to visit his father, Capt. Lawrence Wood Robert, before going to New Orleans. On the way back he will stop at the Pass Christian home of Ben Hecht, president of the American Bankers Ass'n.

"give it teeth" and that Code Authority speed up action on appeals.

"As far as we are concerned, we are generally satisfied with the code," Williams said. "We would like to see some changes made in it, though. I think if the code was simplified and made more understandable for the small exhibitor it would be a popular document."

Wants Independents Supported

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 24.—The M. P. T. O. of Eastern Pennsylvania, Southern New Jersey and Delaware will carry to the convention this week a definite plea for the independent producer and exchangeman, backed by a practical program.

The local body's slogan of "1,000 New Dates for the Independents During the Year" will be brought before the national body and an attempt made to get general M.P.T.O. support for the plan.

The idea may be launched by Lewen Pizor, president of the local group which is the parent of the plan. It is Pizor's contention that the buildup of the independent producer will offer a form of insurance for the independent exhibitor, providing him with sufficient product to maintain his programs. Pizor also argues that the definite support will enable independent producers to better their product.

Pizor, now in Florida, and George P. Aarons, secretary of the local group, will officially represent the M.P.T.O. of this territory. Other local exhibitors will be in attendance, including George Kline, Jay Emanuel, Charles Segall, Al Fisher and Mike Egnel.

Aarons, accompanied by Kline who runs the Strand, Boyertown, Pa., and is head of the Kline Poster Co., left by automobile Thursday. Emanuel, vacationing in Miami, goes directly to the Mardi Gras city.

In addition to the plan for aiding independent production, the local group will be strongly in back of the movement for a 20 per cent cancellation, or at least a better deal than the present 10 per cent agreement.

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 24.—This is an Allied territory and that's sufficient reason to count this territory out where representation at the New Orleans convention is concerned.

None from Oregon

PORTLAND, ORE., Feb. 24. — M. Blumauer of the Capitol is an ardent M.P.T.O.A. man, but extreme age makes it impossible to attend New Orleans.

Fay from Rhode Island

PROVIDENCE, Feb. 24.—E. M. Fay, first run operator here, will be a one-man delegation to the convention. He will represent the M. P. T. O. of Rhode Island and is already here.

St. Louis for Code Changes

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 24.—Believing that they will have to continue to operate under the NRA code for at least another year, the delegation of 16 from the M. P. T. O. of St. Louis, Eastern Missouri and Southern Illinois is going to New Orleans with a number of proposed amendments to the code as it is now written.

The amendments to be proposed include:

An unconditional 20 per cent cancellation clause to cover each block of 10 pictures without regard to their national release date or availability to the exhibitor personally.

Home rule on the question of outlawing double feature programs.

Elimination of score charges, it being contended that the rental for sound pictures should cover the music tax.

Complete elimination of non-theatrical shows that compete with theatres.

Elimination of designated playdates.

The fixing of a definite date before which producers and distributors could not sell new product. This is to discourage the present tendency to sell the next year's pictures before the present season has been fully set in. It was contended that this method of advance selling is an unfair trade practice and should be stopped.

Fair and equitable method of clearance and zoning.

Define matinees as stopping at 6 P. M., when the maximum night prices must go into effect.

A provision that the decisions of local clearance and zoning and grievance board decisions must go into effect within 10 days.

The local delegation will be headed by Fred Wehrenberg of St. Louis, president of the organization, and Louis C. Hehl, secretary and treasurer; C. H. Weeks of Dexter, Mo., and Mrs. Weeks; Sam Komm, Collinsville, Ill., Mrs. Komm and two others; P. Mercier of Perryville, Mo., and daughter; S. Luken, Macklind, St. Louis, and son; Louis Ansell, of the Ritz and Midtown, St. Louis; Art Kalbfeld of Puline, St. Louis; Jimmy Zappalia, Columbia Theatre, St. Louis; Leo Hill, St. Louis Amusement Co., and Mrs. Hill; O. W. McCutcheon, Blytheville, Ark., and N. A. Sanowsky of St. Louis. A special car left over the Illinois Central at 1 P. M. today.

No. California Sending 20

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 24.—Approximately 20 from this region will attend the convention. Among those definitely in the delegation are H. V. Harvey, R. A. McNeil, Morgan A. Walsh, George and James Nasser, Joe Blumenfeld and John Di Stasio, the latter from Sacramento. Herman Cohen is also expected to be in the party.

The Independent Theatre Owners Association of Northern California is an affiliate. Morgan Walsh, president, has been appointed by Ed Kuykendall, the chairman of the committee on code trade practices, one of the most important committees which will function at the convention.

Northern California delegates will recommend to the convention, Walsh says, that the theatre code be amended to change the 10 per cent. elimination clause which has become a controversial subject within the industry and may become a social problem in that the theatre-going public appears to be leaning toward legislative bills opposing block booking and blind buying. Many legislatures have had anti-block-booking and anti-blind-buying bills introduced. Efforts will be made by the California delegation to make this clause more workable, equitable and fairer.

A special car carrying the Northern California delegation left here Thursday. Most of the delegates are expected to return home about March 7.

N. W. Won't Attend

SEATTLE, Feb. 24.—Allied Amusements of the Pacific Northwest, including exhibitors in Washington, Montana, Idaho and Alaska, will not be represented at the M.P.T.O.A. convention. A check just completed by Hugh W. Bruen, organization president, disclosed that none of this territory's exhibitors, affiliated or independent, plans to attend the meeting.

Committees and Chairmen Who Will Run Convention

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 24.—The convention is pretty much in the hands of these committees:

General Chairman, Convention Arrangements: Harry S. McLeod, St. Charles, New Orleans.

Reception: Rodney Toups, Loew's State, New Orleans.

Registration and Housing: Victor Meyer, Orpheum, New Orleans.

Entertainment: Frank Heiderick, Lyceum, New Orleans.

Banquet: Joe Alsino, Famous Theatres, New Orleans; Meyer and Toups.

Golf Tournament: Arthur Higginbotham, Baton Rouge.

Display Booth: H. S. McLeod.

Program: Edward G. Levy, New Haven.

Auditing: Philip Sliman, Laurel, New Orleans.

Credentials: M. E. Comerford, Scranton, Pa.

Resolutions: Edward G. Levy.

Music Tax: Lewen Pizor, Philadelphia.

NRA Code: Trade Practices: Morgan A. Walsh, San Francisco, Labor: Jack Miller, Chicago.

Non-Theatrical Competition: George A. Giles, Cambridge, Mass.

Legislation and Taxation: M. A. Lightman, Memphis.

Public Relations: Fred Wehrenberg, St. Louis.

East and West For a Hike in Cancellations

Want Cancellations Upped

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—The M. P. T. O. of the District of Columbia will be well represented when the annual convention of the M. P. T. O. A. gets under way in New Orleans on Monday. The local delegates are:

A. Julian Brylawski, president of the local group and head of Warner Brothers real estate department here.

Dr. William P. Herbst, operator of the Circle.

Nathan Stiefel, operator of the Howard.

Louis Bernheimer, operator of the Jesse and Sylvan.

Sidney B. Lust, operator of three houses in Washington and two in Maryland.

The delegation will lay before the national group a list of matters on which the consensus of opinion here is that there is need for action.

Chief among the matters is that germane to an adequate cancellation privilege entirely divorced from any ifs, ands or buts. Block booking—and the legislation now pending in Congress to abolish it—is not a particular major problem at present, it is felt here; but this cancellation question is.

Under the present code set-up, the M. P. T. O. local feels, there are too many provisos attendant on the allowed 10 per cent cancellation. All these provisions, the exhibitors feel, should be abolished. An exhibitor, they hold, should have the right to cancel any picture merely upon a request to the exchange without having previously had to comply with certain provisions and without being obliged to offer reasons for the action.

Other matters on which the local group feel strongly, and which it will lay before the convention, are the music tax, score charges, Western Electric charges for parts and service, preferred playing time, privilege of booking immediately upon availability, the present inadequate supply of prints on a given picture on hand at a given exchange, and producer-controlled theatres. Music tax and score charges, the group feels, should be radically revised downward. Charges levied by WE for parts and service are far too exorbitant, they claim.

Playing time entirely depends on the picture and the house, and the local group would make it possible that the exchange would not be able to dictate playing time contrary to the interests of the house. Booking on availability and adequacy of the number of prints are closely tied together, and would prove of advantage to exchange as well as exhibitor and his subsequent runs.

It is the feeling of the Washington organization that theatres should be divorced from production and distribution and that no exhibiting unit should have any connection with the other two, and vice versa.

FOR EXTENDED RUNS ON THESE FOX HITS!

GLANCE at the details and convince yourself that the exhibitor who doesn't date them in for extra playing time is cheating his bank account. And ...while you're at it... slap yourself on the back for being a FOX showman!

New Orleans Is Colorful Historic City

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 24.—This is a city of contrasts.

Natives like to call it "The City That Care Forgot."

"Odd" McIntyre dubs it "the most romantic city in America."

Will Rogers said of the city: "I always told you that there was just three towns in the whole of America that was different and distinct; New Orleans, 'Frisco and San Antonio."

Arthur Brisbane, famous editorialist, has described New Orleans as one of the two most interesting cities in the nation, the other being whatever your own home town happens to be.

Conventioneers will find plenty to do and see here. Whether their interest is in the days and things of yesteryear or the joys, if any, of this current existence, they'll find it and them not far from convention headquarters at the Roosevelt. They'll find their answer in the fabulous old streets of the Old Quarter, in the industrial life of the Mississippi Valley's great port and in sightseeing, in motoring, golfing, fishing and hunting if these are the objectives.

The mighty brown reach of Old Man River almost encircles his Crescent City and his majestic bosom is animated with every known type of craft. Through 10 miles of docks the aromatic products of the world's far corners are exchanged for the varied products in 37 States. Let your mind go around the world while you spend a day seing the sights of the Mississippi Valley's main entrance.

Gateway to Empire

New Orleans, only 100 miles from the river's mouth, has been the gateway to America's inland empire and a crossroads of America for two centuries. When the Spaniards owned the city, Americans of the Middle West planned to seize New Orleans, but just about that time Spain ceded Louisiana to the French. President Jefferson then changed the course of history by his purchase of Louisiana from France for $15,000,000.

Today New Orleans lives up to its promises and is one of the world's great ports. Along the miles of wharves are docked ships from the seven seas; fast luxurious steamers make New Orleans the starting point for many delightful cruises to the beautiful isles of the Caribbean. Here in New Orleans are the glamour of a great seaport.

Rue Royale Worth Seeing

For those who like to stroll down quaint streets, reminiscent of days gone by, the famous Rue Royale, known the world over for its shops, antique stores and sites of historical interest, is a fitting starting point. Royal Street was the first to be paved in the city, the cost amounting to less than $1 for each block due to the fact that ships returning from the continent with full cargoes of the New World riches sold their ballast, stone blocks from Belgium, to the city fathers at that figure.

Before we stroll very far through the famous old Vieux Carre, let's stop a moment and get that name right. Vieux Carre, literally translated, means "Old Square" and refers to an area bounded by Canal to Esplanade and from the river to N. Rampart Sts. The correct French pronunciation is Vee Yuh Care Ray. Got it? Let's go.

Our first stop is 121 Royal, the home and office of the famous Dr. Anotmarchi, maker of the Napoleon death mask now at the Cabildo.

Next we come to 127 Royal. Here tradition has it the plans were laid for the first carnival ball. Then down to the 400 block at 417 to the site of the old Louisiana Bank, established in 1804 through the influence of Thomas Jefferson, later becoming the home of the Paul Morphy, world-famous chess champion. This site is now a restaurant and visitors are welcome to stop and admire the beautiful courtyard.

Courthouse a Monument

Directly across the street at 416 Royal is the civil courthouse of the Parish of Orleans, erected at a cost of $2,000,000. At the corner of Royal and St. Louis is the site of the old St. Louis Hotel, once a famous slave mart, where the blacks were auctioned on a high block under the rotunda.

Down the street at 520, we come to the Reed Art Gallery, with its exhibition and a charming historical interior open to the public for inspection, and then into the next block at 613 where is the Courtyard of the Two Sisters, famous in stories of New Orleans.

At 627, we find the well-known residence and courtyard of the golden-voiced Adelina Patti. Beautiful antique furniture, jewels and crockery in the many little stories along both sides of the street mark the way to the Haunted House at 1140 Royal. This house was owned by Madame Lalaure, a French aristocrat, who was forced to flee to Europe when some of her slaves were discovered in a "horror chamber." Their wails of torture are still supposed to be heard on dreary winter nights.

The building is now known as the "Warrington House," a haven for destitute men. Visitors are welcome to see the magnificent mural and the charming interior of this celebrated old Creole mansion and even the attic where the horror chamber was supposed to be located.

Religious Spots Historic

Let's leave Royal St. for a time and walk one square toward the river until we reach Chartres St. There at 1126 is an old Italian church, St. Mary's, erected in 1780. Tradition avers that the heart of every archbishop of this diocese is buried under the altar. A few doors down, at 1114, the historic old Urusline Convent looms into view, the oldest building in the Mississippi Valley, erected in 1734. Across the street at 1101 is the home of General P. G. T. Beauregard, the noted Confederate general. Winding our way towards Canal St. at 930-40 Chartres is the site of the old Cafe des Refugees. Here gathered pirates, smugglers and European criminals during the French and Spanish occupation of the city and here the famous cordial LePetit Gouave was first concocted.

Down the street a way we find at 921 the old Hotel de La Marine, a meeting place of pirates, and in the rear of the building Vendetta Alley, so named because of the many "Mafia" or "blackhand" murders committed there.

The blacksmith shop of Jean and Pierre Lafitte, the famous pirates who were pardoned by the U. S. government after their invaluable assistance in the Battle of New Orleans, looms ahead at 900 Chartres.

As we saunter along glimpsing patios, courtyards and beautiful balconies, we approach the famous Cabildo at 711 Chartres. The Cabildo is considered one of the most noted museums of the United States. Its history is even more interesting than many of the relics that repose under its protecting walls. Built in 1795 as a meeting place for the Spanish legislature of the province, the first Protestant religious services were held in a room on the second floor. Here the formal transfer of Louisiana to the United States was consummated in 1803. Later it was used as a city hall and court building.

Recalls Famous Names

Many immortals, including Lafayette, Henry Clay, Zachary Taylor, Edwin Booth, Sarah Bernhardt, Audubon, Mark Twain, William McKinley, Theodore Roosevelt, and O. Henry are associated with this memory-haunted old building, which has silently watched New Orleans grow from a colonial outpost to the port of the Valley. The building became a state museum in 1910 and admission is free. The Cabildo should not be passed up.

Leaving the Cabildo, we are directly facing Jackson Square, originally called the Place d' Arms, or the Public Square of the city. Jackson Square was laid out in 1720 by Bienville, founder of New Orleans, and has been the scene of historical moment and a civic center for over 200 years. Events which have taken place in this famous square include the arrival of the "Cassette" (Casket) girls in 1727; the reception of the Acadians from Nova Scotia in 1769; the official transfer of Louisiana from France to Spain in 1769; the welcome to Jackson after the victory of Chalmette. The square was laid out and planted with flowers by the Baroness Pontabla in 1856 and the statue of General Andrew Jackson in the center of the Square is the work of Clark Mills.

Pontalla Famous Structure

Flanking the square to the left and right are the famous Pontalba Building, the oldest apartments in the United States and one of the best known sights of the French Quarter. These apartments were built by the Baroness Pontalba in 1849. Here in one of the buildings on St. Peter St., Jenny Lind, the famous singer, brought to New Orleans by P. T. Barnum, was entertained by the baroness. Here also in the same building, it is believed, Thackeray enjoyed the excellent "bouillabaisse" spoken of in his memoirs.

A stroll down St. Peter St. to 616 brings one to the "Le Petit Theatre due Vieux Carre," one of the most efficient Little Theatres in America.

THE MARCH OF TIME

The founder, Mrs. J. Oscar Nixon, has been decorated by the French Government for her services in preserving the best type of French drama. The "Little Theatre" is a private association, but visitors are welcome during the day to view the beautiful foyer and the courtyard. A few doors down, at 620, is the "Le Petit Salon." The founder of this organization was the well-known and popular New Orleans authoress, Grace King.

Back into Chartres we find ourselves at 502, the famous "Napoleon House," built by a wealthy New Orleans merchant, a Mr. Girod, who planned to rescue Napoleon from St. Helena and bring him here. Napoleon, however, died, but the grand house built for the use of the "little corporal" still stands, a monument to the dream of its sponsor.

At 505 Chartres is the site of the old Strangers Hotel, where Dr. Anotomarchi presented Bonaparte's death mask to the city. Lafayette was also entertained at this hotel. A few steps further and we reach 438 Chartres, Masepro' Exchange, where, according to tradition, Jackson planned the defense of New Orleans.

Back again to St. Peter St. to find at 718, the old site of the Tabary Theatre, located here in 1791-1807, the first theatre in the city and the first place in America where grand opera was sung. Four blocks out St. Peter St. to North Rampart, we reach Beauregard Square, the former famous "Congo Square," gathering place of negro slaves. It was here that the weird "voodoo" ceremonials and wild orgies took place. Immediately back of it is the Municipal Auditorium, with a seating capacity of 12,000 and home of the carnival balls. All visitors to the convention will have a chance to see it at the Junior League Ball.

By this time, food would seem important. Let's stop at Arnaud's at 817 Bienville for crawfish bisque or a nice juicy steak, cooked by famous Creole chefs. Or, if you are a connoisseur of connoisseurs, let's try Antoine's at 713 St. Louis St. You must have heard of Antoine, famous for many dishes, particularly oysters a la Rockefeller; crepe suzettes, shrimp a la remondade; pompano en papillotte, or trout a la Marguerite, cafe Brile. Of course, you will be served with the proper wines and liqueurs to make it not a luncheon, but an hour of gastronomic bliss that will linger in your memories.

Ach, That German Cooking!

Perhaps, you don't like French cooking? Then, let's walk a few blocks back to St. Charles, where at 125 we find Kolb's, famous for its German cuisine and fine Rhine wines and particularly noted for gaensenefer and wiener schnitzel.

Or maybe you like Italian food? Then to Turci's at 223 Bourbon for a spaghetti dinner with real "dago" red. If your taste runs to the not so lowly onion soup, Tujaques at 823 Decatur is the next stop.

A stroll through the Quarter after nightfall has a flavor and a charm distinctly and differently its own. Ceremony dictates, howeyer, a couple of Ramos gin fizzes at the unbelievably long Roosevelt bar before embarking on this adventure. There are sloe gin fizzes and sloe gin fizzes, but a Ramos is exactly that and simply refuses to brook competition.

And the Absinthe House

The nocturnal tour through this city of many moods might well start at the famous, old Absinthe House at 400 Bourbon St. Here, as at many New Orleans landmarks, there is ceremony. In this instance, the ritual calls for a sip or more of an absinthe frappe. To come and go at Absinthe House without so doing is considerably less than sacrilege and more than an affront to Pete Cazebonne, the patriarchal barkeep. You might browse through ancient registers here, but keep a weather eye peeled for the signatures of many names made famous over the span of the last 150 years. Napoleon's sword, or one of them, is there as is the famous marble drip fountain which has stood in silent watch over New Orleans' bon vivants.

In mellower mood, by this time, Le Cafe de Opera, or better known as the Nut Club, located at 805 St. Louis St., seems a logical contender for attention. Its music is brash and loud, but its liquor, whether at bar or table, is excellent. Excitement runs high in this spot. More of the same thing is the Vanity Club, 300 Bourbon St. This is one of the smaller cafes in the quarter, but perpetually lively and worthy of a visit if for no reason than to be able to say one's been there.

The Plantation at Conti and Delphine has a lure of its own, especially to those with pugilistic memories. For this is the spot run by Pete Herman, one-time champion boxer, who by being too game, lost his sight and then went broke. Spanish atmosphere, for those seeking it, is available at La Lune, 800 Bourbon St. in an effective patio setting backgrounded by stringed Mexican or Spanish music.

There is all this about New Orleans and much, much more. The visitor might well visit the spreading 500-year old monarchs of an ancient forest in Audubon Park, where once was the plantation on which Etienne de Bore first learned to granulate cane juice; visit the Zoo, the Popp Gardens; see the green man-made hills that hold a great river in check; see the duelling oaks; and motor in the nation's sixth largest park with its 1,300 acres of restful shade; visit ancient forts with moats and turrets of embattled brick; the 14 ancient forts in the surrounding countryside carry the memories of Orleanians and their visitors back through 218 years of hectic days when Indians prowled nearby swamps, when buccaneers roved, Civil War days when Admiral Farragut broke through the Mississippi chains.

He might tour Evangeline's land, just a few hours west. On the Old Spanish Trail, he would come to the Teche country, to the "forest primeval" where Longfellow with his gifted pen brought Evangeline and the exiled Acadians.

New Orleans In Gay Array For Visitors

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 24.—If they decide on a busman's holiday, delegates and visitors to the convention will find a varied assortment of celluloid entertainment at their beck and call. Here is what the local first runs will be showing:

Liberty—"Great Expectations."
Loew's State — "After Office Hours."
Orpheum—"Roberta."
Saenger—"The Little Colonel."
St. Charles—"Carnival."

Victor Meyers, manager of the Orpheum, will run a midnight show during the convention and plans to be on hand to welcome those who want to take it in. Other theatres are expected to do likewise.

Hotel grills and night clubs around town are lining up special programs. Destined to be popular is The Blue Room at the Hotel Roosevelt, in which hostelry convention headquarters are to be maintained. The Eagle Music Hall is continuing "Uncle Tom's Cabin" and vaudeville.

All of this has nothing at all to do with midnight and early morning forays which conventioneers may determine to rig up on their own.

Town Primed for Crowd

Many surprises are scheduled for the visitors, including golf tournaments at the Metairie golf course, a bridge tournament for women, a tour of the Vieux Carre with experienced guides, where, in the old quarter, a hundred historic squares, the living romances of two colorful centuries have been preserved in settings unchanged and unique. Beneath balconies embroidered with the iron handiwork of African slaves, under the waving leaves of banana trees in cool patios, as in the Napoleon House and the Absinthe House, visitors may commune with the spirits of Lafayette, Bienville, Lafitte, Jackson, Pere Antoine, heroes of the early days. With creole chefs they may revel in the culinary marvels created here for them by proud generations of Creole chefs. In secluded patios they may discover genuine gumbo and find out why Thackeray raved of New Orleans' boullabaisse; why gumbo is Irvin S. Cobb's favorite; and top a gala day with an absinthe frappe or a gin fizz among a people who know.

Then the Racetrack

While numerous night clubs have provided additional entertainers, showers and all that go with an athletic club can be had in the immense structure of the New Orleans Athletic Club just a few doors from Canal Street in the heart of the city. On Monday afternoon while warming up for the strenuous days of the convention proper, the entertainment committee has provided a corking good golf contest on the grounds of the Metairie Country Club, one of the finest greens in the south; the ladies will also be taken care of by a bridge party in the spacious club house.

Those who don't go in for golf have the privilege of visiting the race track watching the bang-tails go by and the bookmakers making funny noises when they pay off. At night the delegates are to be turned loose and wander where they will. They'll wander. Special guides may be hired to show 'em the sights. No curfew bells will ring out.

The committee on arrangements has made arrangements with the Yellow Cabs for side trips and the like to places of interest such as the antique shops, old world places of beauty, cafes and bars without limit.

On Tuesday night after the worries of business sessions and committee meetings, President Kuykendall will hold a reception in the Tip Top Inn in the Hotel Roosevelt.

Wednesday night, the steamer Capital has been engaged for a real old-time southern party with a cruise up and down the Mississippi with vaudeville stunts and dancing the order of the evening. Deck hands will be attired as the roustabouts of the days gone by, the steamer will be decorated with cotton bales as settees and side tables, while genuine (?) yellow girls and boys will carry refreshment trays.

For those that like to gamble—and what showman doesn't—the Louisiana Jockey Club at the fair grounds will make losing money a pleasure. The grounds and clubhouse are most beautiful and the pari-mutuel system prevails.

The Gulf States Theatre Owners will also meet during the M.P.T.O.A. convention.

But you don't get it when four-tenths of every carbon is discarded—too short to feed through the lamp jaws for another reel. This wasted six to ten inches might as well be made of cheese, for all the good it does.

THE PIC carbon saver presents a different picture. The handy caps, giving a broad mechano-electrical contact, are forced onto the stubs in a jiffy (less than six seconds per carbon). A twist, and the cap is clamped immovably in a steel extension, ready for the lamp. PIC is a perfect carbon saver—and a cinch to use!

British Union Seeks Law on Wages, Hours

By BRUCE ALLAN

LONDON, Feb. 14.—Failure of the Joint Conciliation Board of the industry to arrive at a satisfactory settlement of outstanding disputes about wages and hours in London and Manchester is the reason alleged for an appeal from the Trade Union Congress and the National Ass'n of Theatrical Employes to the Home Secretary, asking legislative settlement of employment problems.

The union's suggestion is that the Cinematograph Act shall be amended to impose minimum wage scales and statutory working conditions on all theatres. That the theatre staff shall bear a strict proportion to average patronage is another suggestion.

Since publication of the report of the official Television Committee, big rises have been reported in the shares of the Baird Television Co. and in those of Gaumont British, which has a predominating interest in the Baird company.

Baird Deferred is now at 10/- against 3/3d on Jan. 29; the preferred is 6/9d against 3/3 and the Preferred "A" 60/ against 35/3. Gaumont British ordinaries, priced at 10/ on Jan. 29 are now 12/3.

The Baird system is one of two selected by the committee for the daily three-hour television transmissions recommended in the report. The other is owned by Electrical Musical Industries, shares of which have also increased in value, from 32/4½ to 34/4½.

Carriers Preparing For Own N. O. Meet

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 24.—Legislative problems affecting the trucking industry will be discussed tomorrow and Tuesday by the executive committee of the National Film Carriers, Inc. James Clarke, president of the organization, is chairman of the committee which consists of George F. Callahan of Exhibitors Service, Pittsburgh; H. C. Robinson, Film Truck Service, Detroit; John Vickers, Carolina Delivery Service, Charlotte; G. M. Blackman, Smith Film Service, Syracuse. Several other members in addition to the executive committee are here for the M.P.T.O.A. session.

Clint Weyer, secretary, recently stated that there were pending in 44 states a total of 850 bills which, if passed, would work undue hardship on the film trucking men.

Clarke recently attended the policy committee meeting of the American Trucking Ass'n., when the various bills were discussed.

Fitzgerald Ends Nights

MILWAUKEE, Feb. 24.—Wisconsin Amusement Enterprises, Inc., will discontinue bank nights in all its houses, according to H. J. Fitzgerald.

Re-Team Francis-Brent

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 24.—Warners have again teamed Kay Francis and George Brent due to their success in "The Goose and the Gander."

They will be starred in "Lady with a Badge," an original by Ferdinand Reyher and Commander Frank Wead dealing with a Travelers' Aid Society worker.

Iola Theatres Pooled

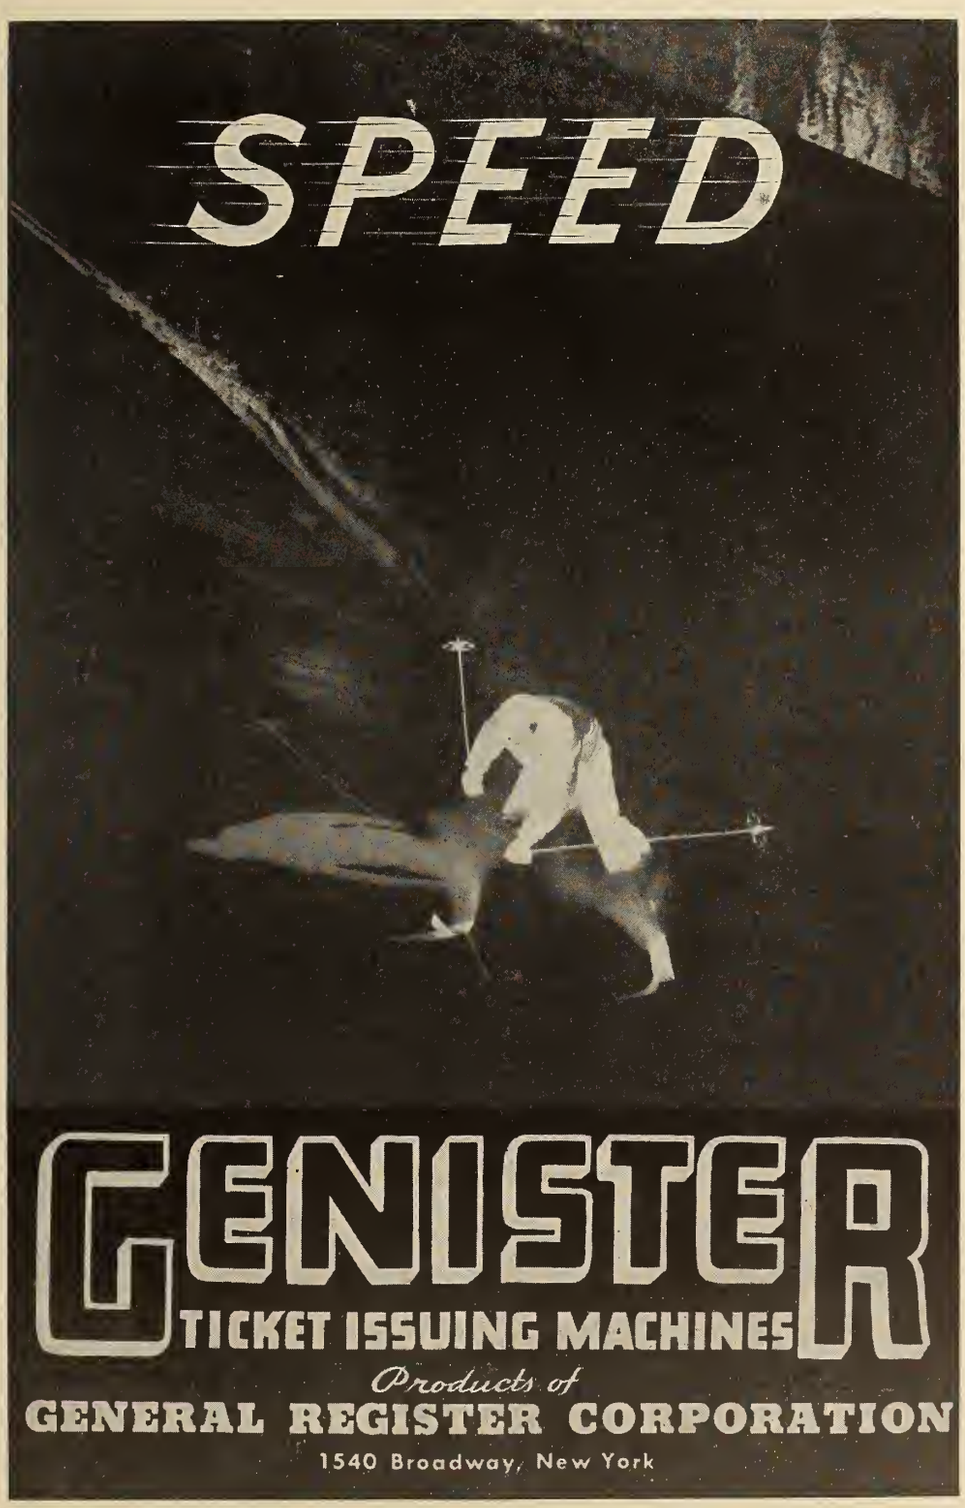
IOLA, Kan., Feb. 24.—A pooling arrangement has been effected here between Glen W. Dickinson Theatres and Ira Kelly. The Dickinson has been closed and Kelly will operate the Iola and Kelly. Another theatre in this town is operated by E. Van Hyning.

Canada War Film Ready

TORONTO, Feb. 24.—The world premiere of Canada's war feature, "Lest We Forget," will take place in Ottawa on March 7 under the patronage of the Governor-General and Countess of Bessborough, Prime Minister R. B. Bennett, members of the Canadian Cabinet and other dignitaries including Dominion officers of the Canadian Legion.

The film, largely comprising shots of the Canadian Expeditionary Force from the official archives, has been prepared by the Canadian Government M. P. Bureau and will be released to theatres after the first formal showing.

Liberty in Canada Deal



TORONTO, Feb. 24.—Product of Liberty goes to Excellent Films.

Ban Springfield Change

BOSTON, Feb. 24.—The grievance board has dismissed a petition of Nathan and Sam Goldstein, operators of theatres in the western part of the state, to give the Arcade Theatre in Springfield 14 days' clearance over the Phillips, 30 days over the Strand, five months over the Liberty, six months to a year over the Garden, four months over the Jefferson, and five months over the Fox Nelson. These are all houses operated by the Winchester Amusement Co.

Wilentz Will Take Warner Case to NRA

Having successfully prosecuted Bruno Hauptmann for the murder of the Lindbergh baby, David T. Wilentz, attorney general of New Jersey, will next concentrate his legal activities on the clearance dispute which an Allied of New Jersey member has pending against Warners.

Wilentz will return from a Miami vacation on March 15 and will appear before the Industrial Appeals Board of the NRA in Washington on behalf of Louis Levin, operator of the Elwood, Newark, who seeks to eliminate the 14-day clearance by Warners' Regent, Newark, and Capitol, Belleville, N. J. The original hearing date, Feb. 20, was set back because of Wilentz's absence.

Representing Allied and Levin when the matter was first heard by the New Jersey advisory committee, of which Joe Lee was chairman, on June 10, Wilentz confessed his lack of familiarity with film cases, stating this complaint was his first. In his opening statement, the attorney general minced no words, saying: "I have mainly been representing fellows hit by trucks and not those hit by Warners." The meeting, covered by

Dangle Block Booking Angle To Force Cancellations Up

Meet the President

Ed Kuykendall, current incumbent, but also slated for re-election in New Orleans today as president of the M.P.T.O.A.

By RED KANN

ABOARD M.P.T.O.A. SPECIAL, ATLANTA, Feb. 24.—It looks like a party. A big party. A handful of hours after this special, running as a second section of the Crescent Limited into the New Orleans playground, left New York Saturday night clinched the argument, if there was any, which there was not.

Socially, it looks like a big handful of days. Business-like, the convention looks interesting with results entirely in futures.

Bulletins out of New Orleans indicate the stagecraft has gone into overtime. The code, good old code, will provide whatever fireworks develop. Once again, the ancient battle between those none too friendly enemies, the producer and the exhibitor, is about to be touched off, this time almost entirely through the code and what it does not provide.

Says the M.P.T.O.A. in effect even if not in this language:

"We know what the code has done. It's over a year since it became the law. What we are interested in now is in pointing up what the code has not done. We admit the document was

They'll Be at New Orleans And Here's What They Seek

MOTION PICTURE DAILY wired its nation-wide corps of correspondents to find out who'll attend the M.P.T.O.A. convention in New Orleans and what grievances they've packed into their bags for airing on the floor. What follows are the results of that check-up:

Benton from Upstate

ALBANY, Feb. 24.—William Benton, operator of the Congress, Saratoga Springs, is expected to attend the M.P.T.O.A. convention. No others contemplate the trip so far as can be learned. The M.P.T.O.A. has no affiliated unit in this section.

Eight from Southeast

ATLANTA, Feb. 24.—R. B. Wilby of Valatenga Theatres, Lionel H. Keene of Loew's, Inc., W. K. Jenkins of the Lucas and Jenkins circuit, Sam Moscow, southern district manager for Columbia, and H. O. Duke

Cancellations Up, Designated Dates Out, Are Aims

By J. W. LEIGH

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 24.—The M.P.T.O.A. will strike for significant changes in the code at its 15th annual convention which gets under way Monday at the Roosevelt.

It will strike out for an uppage in the cancellation clause from its present 10 per cent to 20 per cent, but emerge satisfied from convention hurly-burly at the end of the week with a split at 15 per cent if it can get that.

It will strike out for elimination of designated playdates on the ground that the practice indulged in today by all major distributors is not only an encroachment on the freedom of theatre operation, but a means of keeping alive public exhibition of objectionable pictures through insistence on Sunday playdates when family patronage is strongest.

Turn to page 28 for the day-by-day program of the convention.

Objection will be registered to the present status of the copyright laws which impose a $250 fine upon violators, whether conscious or otherwise, and without benefit of hearing.

A formula will be sought to effect clearance on a broad scale throughout the country, but based on admissions only. Probable is the development of a plan to bring about this objective through proposals in code revision, although details tonight are being jealously guarded.

Much attention will be paid to ways and means of increasing grosses by squeezing to its maximum dryness that which exhibitors get in product rather than continue to waste time by ranting against producers for failure to deliver lines which circulated here following his return from New York were admitted by Schulberg to MOTION PICTURE DAILY. He said he had discussed such a deal with Fox, but nothing concrete had happened.

A second group, believed to be Philadelphia money, is also reported negotiating for Universal, a condition of a deal from its point of view being Schulberg's availability as studio head.

Contagion Spreads; 'U' Holding One, Too

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 24.—James R. Grainger, general sales manager of Universal, is here from Atlanta and New York to look in on the exhibitor convention and to hold a sales parley of his own with several of the Universal district managers assembled for the purpose.

W. J. Heineman, western district; Henry Herbel, headquartering in Chicago; John Ezell, headquartering in Atlanta, and Harry Graham, headquartering in Kansas City, are here.

Grainger will return to New York in a few days and in about four weeks again go to the coast, this time to prepare "U's" line-up for 1935-36.

Gillham to Sit In

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 24.—Robert M. Gillham, director of advertising and publicity of Paramount, is here for the convention, following 10 days of fishing in Florida.

written without precedent. We also admit it was finally drawn and approved minus a lot of things we wanted and couldn't get. Now we want them."

What are those things? For one, there is the situation on cancellations. Plenty to do about, and with, that problem, insists the M.P.T.O.A. The 10 per cent provision, hamstrung with catches and tied up prettily in knots of various kinds isn't nearly enough of a concession. The M.P.T.O.A. argued for 20 per cent during those murderous code formulation days in Washington and walked off with something which it maintains simply will not do.

It wants:

(1) Clarification of the atmosphere on the 10 per cent arrangement. Simplification also to the end that exhibitors get what the code says they are to get without question, hindrance or sidetracking.

(2) A hike to 20 per cent, or, like all deals in the film business, a compromise at 15. The M.P.T.O.A. will be content with the half-way mark.

How It Hooks Up

All of this ties in with block booking. And block booking ties in with the activities of sundry individuals in that selfsame Washington this jaunty crowd passed through, but not out, in the small hours of Sunday morning. The exhibitor organization's attitude is that block booking will shrink to a considerably less vital issue if cancellations expand into a more sizeable one. It will argue, this observer is reporting in advance, that the way to stifle much of this anti-block booking threat is to give exhibitors more latitude in pencilling out product they either do not want or that which they consider unsuitable for their audiences.

The M.P.T.O.A. is apt, very apt, to go strategic and inform distributors at large that, unless something is done about cancellations, the organization will either get actively behind some of the legislative stumping in Washington or aid the death-to-block-booking contingent by remaining passive. That, it is insisted, will be bad stuff either way.

Open support against sales in blocks through the usual pressure on Congressmen is likely to sharpen the issue into something more tangible, their argument goes. Passive resistance aiding the protagonists, they continue, easily might hasten the same results. Therefore, New Orleans may see a political deal brewing with cancellations the spoils.

Oppose Blocks, But—

M.P.T.O.A. men make it clear that they have no desire to sponsor block booking legislation actively or otherwise. Chiefly, their reason for preferring to continue anti is their fear that any elimination or curtailment of the practice will revive the now famous, but gone, "right to buy" theory and result in a higher cost per picture because of the terrific competition such an open market condition would bring about. Whether they mean it or not, whether they are cluttering the trail with the well-known brand of red herrings is a question, open kind, but this is their story. If anyone is stuck with it, don't wire this byline.

If past history may be accepted as a criterion, distributors will fight the move. The same situation will hold true where the M.P.T.O.A. and its 1935 slant on designated playdates are concerned. The organization is primed for a tussle on that score as a sort of handmaiden to its war whoop on eliminations. Exhibitor leaders aboard, as well as those already on the convention scene, assert the designated playdate system is raising havoc with their business.

They maintain the practice hits at their individual liberty as theatre operators; that the distributor has no right to insist upon preferred playing time; that enforced dates on big halves of the week, including Sundays, are keeping alive objectionable pictures in that the exhibitor is deprived of selection of attractions to grace his house on Saturday and Sunday when papa, mama and the kids attend.

Eyes Look on Ohio

On this issue, much interest has been evidenced in the Waldvogel bill. This is the measure inspired by the Independent Theatre Owners of Ohio and already voted favorably in the upper house of that commonwealth. Prominent church organizations throughout Ohio are swinging their influence to bear on its ultimate enactment.

Of considerable potential interest is that portion of the impending convention which will spend the day discussing theatre problems, poising merchandising riddles, airing methods of approximating maximum from available raw material.

The theory behind this is simple, yet arresting. It takes into account what is described as the futility of raising hell with producers for quality pictures they fail to deliver, while, at the same time, little or nothing is done about delivered product. This is why speakers will include successful theatremen of the Balaban and Wilby type who, having once recognized what they are given to sell to the public, proceed to sell it even while they may silently rave over the failings of Hollywood.

Hold Star Value Slant

It works something like this:

The last so-and-so may not have been so good. Too bad, but inescapable is the point that, since the exhibitor has already bought it, he ought to do something about selling the film instead of gnashing his teeth.

Higher uppers in the M.P.T.O.A. ranks have computed—generously, this outpost thinks—that of the total picture output per annum the peak load in big attractions rests at 25. They also figure that in numbers of outstanding box-office stars, the total ends unsatisfactorily at six or eight. They continue:

"What happens? The average exhibitor makes gods and goddesses of them. The excitement naturally reflects itself in Hollywood and studio salaries continue to soar steadily toward the heavens. Ditto on rentals.

"But exhibitors have to show the other product as well. If they did something about it, if they operated as the showmen they are supposed to be would, and should, it is easily conceivable that other stars might be made, thereby increasing the number of drawing cards at the till and making the general exhibition problem easier. The trouble is too many operators of theatres sit down and wait for their grosses to pile up with no assistance drawn from the fount of their own experience."

Hollywood will go into ecstasies over this.

The argument sounds, and is, interesting. There are many exhibitors, so called, who have been doing alright for years through sheer indifference which sometimes is another name for luck.

If the conventioneers can get away from Antoine's, Sazeracs and Ramos gin fizzes long enough to listen and, what's more, do something about it, this phase of the about-to-start parley easily may emerge as the highlight of the session.

Kuykendall's Regime Will Be Continued

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 24.—Re-election for another year of Ed Kuykendall as M.P.T.O.A. president, as well as the entire slate of incumbent officers of the organization, is regarded as a certainty at the annual meeting of the M.P.T.O.A. board Monday.

A new secretary will be reelected to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Fred S. Meyer, who became an assistant to Carl Laemmle during the past year. Morris Lowenstein of Oklahoma City and Charles W. Picquet of Pinehurst, N. C., are regarded as likely candidates for the post.

In addition to Kuykendall, officers slated for re-election include Walter Vincent, New York, treasurer; M. E. Comerford, Scranton; M. A. Lightman, Memphis; A. Julian Brylawski, Washington; B. N. Berinstein, Los Angeles, and W. S. Butterfield, Detroit, as vice-presidents; Edward G. Levy, New Haven, general counsel, and Fred Wehrenberg, St. Louis, chairman of the board.

A new board of trustees and executive committee is also slated for election at the directors' meeting. Sam Dembow, Jr., resigned as a trustee when he left Paramount to become associated with National Screen Service during the past year, leaving a vacancy to be filled. Other trustees include Kuykendall; Joseph Bernhard of Warners; Comerford; Picquet; E. A. Schiller of Loew's; L. E. Thompson of RKO, and Vincent. Several replacements for this board are anticipated.

Meyer was a member of the executive committee and it is believed that his successor as secretary will also be elected to the committee Monday. Several other changes in the executive committee are also anticipated. Members now include Kuykendall, O. C. Lam, Sidney Lust, J. H. Michael, Jack Miller and Thompson.

Members of the board of directors are elected regionally by the affiliated units. No election of directors is scheduled at this time.

Cancellation Shift Is Up to Campi

Convention's Action Needs Gov't Stamp

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 24.—Recommendations for doubling the present 10 per cent cancellation provision in the code, slated for the M.P.T.O.A. convention, will have to be made to Campi. If it approves, any amendment will have to go to Washington for Compliance Director Sol A. Rosenblatt's sanction.

Efforts by exhibitors for 15, 20 and 25 per cent elimination privileges in contracts date back to the early stages of the formation of the code when coordinating committees were named to pacify opposing elements. On Aug. 2, 1933, after members of the industry had worked on a tentative draft of the code for months, the first sign of concellations came to light. Exhibitors wanted a straight 15 per cent elimination. Distributors wanted to adhere to the uniform contract provision and sought to maintain that clause in the code. It provides for the first five per cent with full payment, the second five at half price and the third five without payment.

With exhibitors holding out for a flat 15 per cent and distributor group tenaciously insisting on the contract clause, the issue ultimately was left to Rosenblatt for decision. In the master exhibitor draft sent to Washington, the 5-5-5 arrangement, arrived at after 20 or more months of active and desultory conferring by committees representing M.P.T.O.A., Allied and distributors, was included, but in the list of 28 exceptions submitted with the draft by Charles L. O'Reilly, exhibitor coordinator, the elimination provision was included.

Has Ancient History

On Sept. 21, 1933, MOTION PICTURE DAILY stated that Allied was seeking a 20 per cent cancellation. S. R. Kent, distributor coordinator, in commenting on the subject, said at the time:

"If the exhibitor is given the right to cancel out pictures as he may elect how can the studios tell what pictures to make or not to make? Our negative costs, as a consequence, will maintain their present high level; we will be compelled to make all of the pictures we set out to make at the start of the season and stagger along on the chance some of them will be canceled, and by not being canceled, return what we have spent."

On Oct. 4, 1933, the first revised draft of the exhibitor code by Rosenblatt included the 15 per cent elimination without payment. Five days later this clause was changed by reducing the percentage by five. The reduction followed conferences between Rosenblatt, then administrator, and distributor heads.

The third revision of the exhibitor draft followed on Oct. 19 when the clause was changed to read that cancellations can only be made on groups of 10, or, in other words, one of every 10 pictures bought may be canceled without payment.

On Oct. 28, United Artists had not yet signed the code and, while it was stated at the time that its reason was because it opposed the anti-raiding clause in the production code draft, it was believed that the cancellation privilege also was an annoyance because of the company individual selling policy.

Two days later, distributors went on record as willing to abide by contracts already signed providing for 15 per cent cancellation. This again was under the original 5-5-5 arrangement, but on Dec. 4, MOTION PICTURE DAILY learned that the 10 per cent provision would be granted exhibitors who signed on the old cancellation basis. Allied directors, meeting secretly in New York on Jan. 24, 1934, discussed cancellations but would not comment on their stand. It is believed that they still maintained their 20 per cent demand made on Sept. 21, the year before.

Around Feb. 10, Campi members had an inning on the retroactive phases of cancellation. Rosenblatt held it was effective as of Dec. 7, when the code went into operation. Code Authority members thought differently and asked NRA legal department to decide the issue. On Feb. 16, John C. Flinn released the legal department order upholding the administrator. Not satisfied with the ruling by the NRA, M-G-M, Paramount, RKO, Fox and Warners on March 1 were reported ready to test the retroactive date in court. On March 10, the five companies changed their attitude and acquiesced. March 30 found Campi sending out letters to all local boards advising secretaries to list for hearings complaints on cancellations.

Apparently still dissatisfied with the number of requests for eliminations, distributors were holding out at the end of March when Rosenblatt, at a Campi session, insisted on a showdown. By a vote of eight to two, Warners and Paramount dissenting, the members accepted the cancellation privilege. To top this, the NRA on March 31 ruled that even non-assentors could benefit by the 10 per cent provision. On April 12, Code Authority instructed all branch managers to immediately abide by the elimination clause in the code.

At the M.P.T.O.A. convention last year, a move was made for hiking the elimination figure to 15 per cent. That was on April 14 in Los Angeles. When Campi was queried on April 17 on the M.P.T.O.A. resolution, no official request was on record other than that which was reported in trade papers. On May 10, the M.P.T.O. of Nebraska went on record for 15 per cent cancellations, but no further action was taken.

On May 28, Campi reported 215 non-assentors had taken advantage of the power to cancel without payment.

The first sign of difficulties with U. A. over the 10 per cent provision came to the attention of code members when, on May 29, William E. Troug, branch head for the company in Kansas City, notified Grace Gannon, local code secretary, that the company was not subject to the clause. Supporting this statement was Al Lichtman, who in Chicago on June 4 on a two-day company convention, stated "it was part of our understanding when we signed the code and also our agreement with Sol A. Rosenblatt we were not subject to the clause."

U. A. Was Storm Center

Fred Meyn of the Pershing, Kansas City, said he would file a test case against United Artists. This was the first of three against the company. The Egyptian, De Kalb, Ill., was the second. This theatre filed a complaint on June 11, a week after Meyn. The third instance developed without special significance when, on Aug. 9 last year, H. R. Evans of the Albion, Albion, Ind., was given a Campi verdict against U. A. Evans declared he had bought 26 pictures, or all offered by the company, and was turned down on a one-picture cancellation. Code authority held that the exhibitor was within his rights, having bought all the product offered. U. A. contended the contracts were on an individual basis and that Campi could not eliminate 10 per cent of one picture. During the month of August, U. A., through its attorneys, O'Brien, Driscoll & Raftery, threatened legal action. On Sept. 7, this plan was dropped, the company stating that it would abide by its provisions.

On Oct. 23 the question of substituting pictures for cancellations came up, distributors contending they had the right to take a picture from the lower bracket in any contract and charge an exhibitor the amount of the film canceled in the higher bracket. On Dec. 26, Ed Kuykendall, in a bulletin to M.P.T.O.A. members recommending an overhauling of the code, stated the code cancellation privilege was inadequate. He also said that the topic would be one for convention discussion in New Orleans.

No further complaints against U. A.'s refusal to grant eliminations have been registered with either local boards or Campi. Apparently disappointed in its efforts to get increased cancellations, Allied at its board of directors meeting in Washington recently did not dip into the subject, but slammed the code at large.

Cancellation Clause Facing Fire on Convention Floor

New Orleans, Feb. 24.—The cancellation clause against which the M.P.T.O.A. will lay down a heavy barrage appears in the code under Article V (Unfair Practices), Subdivision F, Part 6.

This is the text on which the exhibitor convention will seek amendment to increase the 10 per cent bracket to 20 per cent:

Part 6. If in any license agreement for the exhibition of feature motion pictures the Exhibitor has contracted to exhibit all of the motion pictures offered at one time by the Distributor to the Exhibitor and the license fees of all thereof average not more than $250.00, the Exhibitor shall have the privilege to exclude from such license agreement not to exceed ten percent (10%) of the total number of the motion pictures so licensed; provided the Exhibitor

(1) is not in default under such license agreement, and

(2) shall have complied with all of the provisions thereof, if any, for the exhibition of such motion pictures at specified intervals.

(b) Such privilege of exclusion may be exercised only upon the following terms and conditions:

(1) The Exhibitor shall give to the Distributor written notice of each motion picture to be excluded within fourteen (14) days after the general release date thereof in the exchange territory out of which the Exhibitor is served.

(2) The Exhibitor may exclude without payment therefor one (1) motion picture out of each group of ten (10) of the number of feature motion pictures specified in the license agreement provided he has paid for the other nine (9) of such group.

(3) If such privilege of exclusion is not exercised as provided in paragraph (b) (2) above, the Exhibitor may nevertheless exercise such privilege by paying the license fee of each motion picture excluded with the notice of its exclusion. In such case, such payment shall be credited against such tenth or succeeding tenth motion picture, as the case may be, which the Exhibitor would otherwise be privileged to exclude as provided in paragraph (b) (2) above.

If the only or last group licensed is less than ten (10) and more than five (5) motion pictures, the privilege to exclude shall apply provided the Exhibitor has paid for all motion pictures but one in such group.

(c) Upon the failure or refusal of the Exhibitor to comply with any term or condition of such license agreement, or to comply with any arbitration award in respect thereto, the privilege of exclusion forthwith shall be revoked and the Exhibitor shall be liable for and pay to the Distributor the license fees of all motion pictures theretofore excluded.

(d) If the license fee of any feature motion picture specified in the license agreement is to be computed in whole or in part upon a percentage of the receipts of the Exhibitor's theatre, such license fee (for the purpose of computing the average license fee of all the motion pictures licensed) shall be determined as follows:

(1) Average the license fees of all of the Distributor's feature motion pictures exhibited upon a percentage basis at the Exhibitor's theatre during the period of one year prior to the term of such license agreement.

(2) If none of the Distributor's feature motion pictures were exhibited upon a percentage basis at such theatre during said period, average the license fees of all feature motion pictures exhibited upon a percentage basis at such theatre during the said period.

(e) If the rental of any motion picture excluded is to be computed in whole or in part upon a percentage of the receipts of the Exhibitor's theatre, the sum to be paid by the Exhibitor as provided in paragraph (b) (3) hereof shall be determined as follows:

(1) Average the gross receipts of all the Distributor's feature motion pictures exhibited at the Exhibitor's theatre during the ninety (90) day period preceding the Exhibitor's notice of exclusion, and apply to such average the percentage terms specified in the license agreement for the picture excluded.

(2) If no feature motion pictures of the Distributor were exhibited at the Exhibitor's theatre during said ninety (90) day period, average the daily gross receipts of the Exhibitor's theatre for the period of thirty (30) operating days preceding the Exhibitor's notice of exclusion and apply to such average the percentage terms specified in the license agreement for the picture excluded.

(f) In computing the number of feature motion pictures which may be excluded hereunder, fractions of more than one half (½) shall be regarded as one (1).

(g) Upon the exclusion of each feature motion picture, the license therefor and all rights thereunder shall terminate and shall revert to the Distributor.

(h) The Optional Standard License Agreement referred to in Part 1 hereof shall be deemed amended by substituting in place of Article Fifteenth of such contract the provisions of this Part.

are localites who will attend the convention.

H. V. Manning of Etowah, Tenn., Mack Jackson of Alexander City, Ala., and L. J. Duncan of West Point, Ga., are out-of-towners who have made reservations to leave for the convention from this point.

Goldstein from Baltimore

BALTIMORE, Feb. 24. — Norman Goldstein, president of the Globe Poster Co. here, is the only person connected with the industry who will attend the convention, so far as can be learned. This section is a stronghold for Allied.

Giles from New England

BOSTON, Feb. 24.—George A. Giles, president of the Allied Theatres of Massachusetts, Inc., which is an M.P.T.O.A. affiliate, will represent his organization at New Orleans. He is the only one definitely slated to go.

Sam Pinansky of Olympia Theatres, however, is in Florida for his health and may take in the proceedings. There is a possibility, too, that John J. Ford of the same circuit and a member of the Giles' association, may sit in.

Michael Only One from Buffalo

BUFFALO, Feb. 24.—Jules H. Michael, zone chairman of the M.P.T.O., is the only one from the Buffalo area known to be figuring definitely on attending the New Orleans convention. He said he had no special sectional grievance in mind to present, but would wait first to see what was brought out on the floor of the convention.

25 from the Carolinas

CHARLOTTE, Feb. 24.—The North and South Carolina M.P.T.O. will have approximately 25 members and their wives at the convention. The problems to be brought up by exhibitors of this district are closely aligned with those of the national association and no local grievances or suggestions are slated for airing.

Those who will attend are: George and Mrs. Parr, Lancaster, S. C.; M. F. and Mrs. Schnibben, Florence, S. C.; J. E. and Mrs. Massey, Waynesville, N. C.; J. M. and Mrs. Gregg, Charlotte; L. C. Sipe, Charlotte; H. R. Berry, Hartsville, S. C.; Walter Gregg, Charlotte; J. E. Simpson, Gastonia; Roy Smart, Charlotte; H. F. and Mrs. Kincey, Charlotte; Walter and Mrs. Griffith, Charlotte; Ruth Hardin, Charlotte, secretary of the association; J. H. Vickers, Charlotte; Charles W. Picquet, Pinehurst, president of the association, and Albert Sottile, Charleston, S. C.

Miller, Balaban Going

CHICAGO, Feb. 24.—Jack Miller of the Chicago Exhibitors' Ass'n already is on the New Orleans convention scene, having gone on from New York where, earlier last week, he appeared before Campi in an appeal case involving the Yale, Maywood, against his Lido.

John Balaban of B. & K. will be on hand, as will Walter Immerman, general manager of the circuit. Mrs. Louis Rudolph of the Emmett will attend. The two daughters of John Remijas, who made the jaunt to the last conclave in Los Angeles, are scheduled. "Tippy" Harrison is also in the group.

Cincinnati Disinterested

CINCINNATI, Feb. 24.—Little interest is evidenced in this section over the impending New Orleans convention. So far as has been checked, the territory will have no representation. Those neighborhood exhibitors who belong to any state unit are members of the I.T.O. of Ohio, which is an Allied unit.

Draw Blank in Cleveland

CLEVELAND, Feb. 24.—No Clevelanders will attend the New Orleans convention. Practically all of the local theatremen, aside from affiliated circuits, are members of the Cleveland M. P. Exhibitors' Ass'n which fails to see problems eye to eye with the M.P.T.O.A.

None from Columbus

COLUMBUS, Feb. 24.—A check of exhibitors and exhibitor organizations throughout this territory fails to disclose any exhibitors who will attend the convention in New Orleans.

The reason is obvious. This is an Allied territory and the I.T.O. of Ohio is an affiliate of that organization.

"We Want Code Changes" Is Keynote of Convention

something better. This is the keynote behind the solid day's program to be devoted to addresses by advertising managers of major producers, by experts in equipment and by experts in theatre merchandising.

The "drones" in exhibition ranks are slated for a lashing for their dependence upon an active few in their territory to throttle adverse legislation. "Pep" talks designed to awaken theatremen from their lethargy in this direction will be spotted throughout the sessions.

The cancellation issue will be a hot one. It looks like fireworks on this point. M.P.T.O.A. men insist the 10 per cent bracket is not sufficiently generous. They maintain they cannot ward off outside, adverse criticism unless the bars are further let down. They maintain there are too many strings attached to the method by which the current eliminations are granted and they charge some distributors with bad faith in that they either are dodging cancellations or making them difficult to get, code notwithstanding.

Therefore, the convention will hit hard for two things. One is clarification of the cancellation privilege as it now stands with the elimination of all strings attached. Two, a hike in the bracket.

If they get this concession, which, no matter how the convention works out will have to be submitted to Code Authority in New York, it is argued the block booking question will become less acute. The greater the number of pictures cancellable, the less the cry about being forced to buy in groups. This is the idea in a nutshell.

Ed Kuykendall, national president, told MOTION PICTURE DAILY on the eve of the confabs that this will be no "smothered" convention.

"We have deliberately drawn up our program to include speakers who by on means are in complete sympathy with our objectives," he said. "We expect them and they will give it to the delegates straight from the shoulder, or the hip if you like, and tell the assembled theatremen where they get off."

While Kuykendall makes this promise, convention routine determined upon will follow essentially along the lines set up last year in Los Angeles. There will be little or no "beefing" or airing of individual complaints from the floor. M.P.T.O.A. attitude appears to be that no one is particularly interested in being wearied by long harangues of exhibitors complaining over a situation peculiar and local to his operation; that this will slow down an already crowded schedule and that the most efficacious manner of hearing grievances is to divert them to the private deliberations of committees delegated for this purpose. In the comparative quiet of committee rooms, individuals will have their say.

If what they say is viewed as important enough to reach the floor, the chairman of the committee will introduce it.

Contrary to Los Angeles and the 14th annual convention where studio parties were the order of each day, the deliberations this year will divide themselves into both morning and afternoon sessions. The plan is to sound each day's final gavel at about 4:30 or 5 o'clock, allow committees an hour or so thereafter for their own business and thereby permit a brief interlude to intervene between convention proper and each evening's social calendar.

Space at the Roosevelt tonight was at a premium. Convention overflow is reaching to the Jung and other hotels as well. This is reported to be the first time on record, or at least the first time in years, that the top-notch hotels in town have accepted conventions during the week of Mardi Gras.

Code Clauses Slated for A Featured Role

Dallas After '36 Convention

DALLAS, Feb. 24.—Among local showmen who will attend the M.P.T.O.A. convention will be Harold Robb and Ed Rowley of R. & R. Circuit, Claude Ezell and Bill Underwood of Independent Film Co., Buddy Harris of Alexander Film, R. J. Potter of Jefferson Amusement, Wallace Walthall of National Screen Service, J. I. Roberts of National Theatre Supply and Bert King of RCA.

Walthall and a group will ask the convention in 1936 for Dallas, at which time Texas will be holding the Centennial Celebration with Dallas as the principal centennial city. L. C. Griffith of Griffith Amusement Co. of Oklahoma City joined Walthall in Dallas today to entrain for New Orleans. Bonnie Long, secretary of the local code board, will attend.

A large delegation of Oklahomans is reported driving to Dallas to join forces with the local group, New Orleans bound.

Huffman Grooming Fight

DENVER, Feb. 24.—There is a strong possibility that the Rocky Mountain Theater Owners' Ass'n will be represented at the convention. The president, Harry E. Huffman, Earl P. (Bishop) Briggs and Frank Culp are planning on attending. All are members of the local organization.

Huffman is at present engaged in a fight in Federal court to prevent several exchanges from carrying out orders of the grievance board to stop service to his theatres. Ordered to stop auto giveaways, he persisted, and the stop order was the result. If Huffman attends he is expected to try to have the code modified to allow giveaways in theatres. He is firm in his conviction that they are needed until business conditions improve.

Draws Des Moines Blank

DES MOINES, Feb. 24.—A check made by MOTION PICTURE DAILY shows the local exhibitor fraternity is passing up the M.P.T.O.A. convention completely.

Detroit Sans Delegation

DETROIT, Feb. 24.—Checkup of exhibitors here indicates that Michigan, which has no M.P.T.O.A. unit, will not be represented at the convention in New Orleans.

Harold C. Robinson, of Film Truck Service, will, however, attend the sessions of the National Film Carriers, Inc., which will be held during the exhibitor convention. Robinson, who is a vice-president of the carriers' body, will go to Florida from New Orleans for a vacation of several weeks.

sociated Theatre Owners of Indiana hold sway. Therefore, there is no interest in this section in the New Orleans convention.

Kansas City Disinterested

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 24.—Neither national exhibitor organization has any affiliation in this territory and so it obviously follows local exhibitors have no particular interest in the New Orleans convention.

Elmer C. Rhoden, Fox Midwest division manager who was slated to address the parleys, will not attend. Pressure of business attendant upon emergence of his company from bankruptcy is the reason.

FALLS CITY, Neb., Feb. 24.—Oscar Johnson, local exhibitor, will attend the M.P.T.O.A. convention in New Orleans beginning tomorrow.

Berinstein Goes Solo

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 24.—Ben Berinstein, president of the Southern California association which is affiliated with the national M.P.T.O.A., will act as a one-man delegation to the New Orleans convention.

"Death to Walkathons"

MEMPHIS, Feb. 24.—Representatives of M.P.T.O. of Arkansas, Mississippi and Tennessee will go to the national M.P.T.O.A. convention with the proposal that all exhibitors unite in a move to bar walkathons from their communities.

M. A. Lightman, chairman of the tri-state board of directors, said tax problems will be uppermost in the minds of exhibitors from this territory who attend the convention, but that they will not have any definite recommendations other than the walkathon ban move, according to present indications.

Official representatives of this unit will be Lightman; W. L. Landers, of Batesville, Ark., president; and R. X. Williams, of Oxford, Miss., secretary.

Lightman is scheduled to speak on "Successful Ways of Putting Over the Family Night Idea," but plans to "cheat" a bit on his subject, expanding it to include the general theme of goodwill promotion within the community and state. He will contend that the proper handling of this problem by exhibitors will go a long way toward solving all their legislative difficulties.

As chairman of the legislative committee, Lightman went to the convention a day or so ahead.

Exhibitors in this territory are more and more coming to regard the walkathon as a form of competition to which they need not submit, according to the former national president. Sentiment has been developing for some time for a definite move to curb the spread and, in several instances, theatre owners have succeeded in keeping this type of amusement out of their cities.

"I think it is time all the facts regarding what goes on at a walkathon should be brought before the national body for action," Lightman said. "So far as I know, it is about the only thing upon which the tri-state group is determined to secure action."

Wisconsin Sending Observers

MILWAUKEE, Feb. 24.—With the dissolution of the M.P.T.O. of Wisconsin and Upper Michigan, Inc., now in process, this city which last year sent a strong delegation to the M.P.T.O.A. convention in California, will send no official delegation to New Orleans.

To date, those who have signified their intentions of giving a look-in without any particular axe to grind, include Mike Brumm of the Ritz and Al Bartelt of the Plaza, both of whom are members of the recently organized Independent Theatres Protective Ass'n of Wisconsin. It is possible that several others may find their way to the gathering.

Northwest Doesn't Figure

MINNEAPOLIS, Feb. 24.—The New Orleans convention appears to be of little interest in the Twin City area where those exhibitors who go in for exhibitor associations are, in the main, members of Allied.

Levy from New Haven

NEW HAVEN, Feb. 24.—Edward G. Levy, not as a member of the M.P.T.O. of Connecticut which, despite its name, is not affiliated with the national M.P.T.O.A., but as general counsel of the Kuykendall organization, will be in New Orleans.

Max Tabackman of Massachusetts Theatres, Inc., will also attend.

Crowd from New York

The New York delegation, made up almost entirely of distributor and accessory representatives, is traveling to the convention on a special which arrives in New Orleans this morning as a second section of the Crescent Limited.

The two local exhibitor organizations, the I.T.O.A. and the T.O.C.C., will not be represented unless Harry Brandt, president of the former, and Charles L. O'Reilly, president of the latter, make a last minute decision.

Carl Lesserman, assistant to Gradwell Sears; S. Charles Einfeld, director of advertising and publicity, and Fred Jacks, southern district manager, make up the Warner contingent on the train. Jules Levy, general sales manager of Radio, and J. H. McIntyre, southern district manager, are others.

The trainload also embraces E. W. Hammons, president of Educational, and Mrs. Hammons; Jack Skirball, sales manager of that company, and Harvey Day, special sales representative; Hal Horne, director of advertising and publicity of United Artists and Mrs. Horne; Herman Robbins, president, Sam Dembow, Jr. and Hal Young of National Screen Service; George W. Weeks, sales manager of Gaumont British; Harold Robb and Ed Rowley of the R. and R. circuit in the Southwest; Clint Weyer of National Film Carriers, Inc.; H. H. Pease of the York Ice Machinery Corp.; Edward G. Levy, general counsel M.P.T.O.A. with New Haven as his home town; Helen O'Toole, recording secretary of the exhibitor association; Sally Kelly; Jack Knight and Jack Diamond of Paramount; L. S. Tobias and Mrs. Tobias; John Holbrook, Edward Johnstone, Sidney Zucker, James P. Clarke and Fred Fischer.

Abe Sablosky and Charles Segall boarded the train at Philadelphia about midnight Saturday night.

Robert, Treasury Dep't Official, Will Talk on Taxation Problems

Washington, Feb. 24. — Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Lawrence Wood Robert, Jr., will address the M.P.T.O.A. convention in New Orleans on the various forms of taxation confronting the exhibitor in the operation of his business.

Robert was born at Monticello, Ga., 45 years ago and was educated at Georgia Tech, where he was an All-American quarterback, a baseball player of sufficient promise to lead "Ty" Cobb to seek to enlist him professionally, a fast man on the track and an all-round athlete.

Graduating, he became a consulting engineer and was, prior to his coming to the Treasury as a member of the "Little Cabinet," president of Robert & Co., textile engineers, and largely responsible for initiating the migration of textile plants from New England to the South.

Bearing the family name, Lawrence Wood, borne by his father and grandfather before him, he is naturally known to his friends as "Chip." His official title is Assistant Secretary of the Treasury in Charge of Engraving and Printing and Mint Service.

Robert plans to leave Washington Feb. 25 or 26, stopping over at his home in Atlanta to visit his father, Capt. Lawrence Wood Robert, before going to New Orleans. On the way back he will stop at the Pass Christian home of Ben Hecht, president of the American Bankers Ass'n.

Omaha After More "Teeth" In the Code

Oklahoma Spreads Self

OKLAHOMA CITY, Feb. 24.—This territory will descend on New Orleans with a real-sized delegation. Headed by Morris Lowenstein, president of the Oklahoma M.P.T.O. and a director of the national M.P.T.O.A., the group will include:

Fred Pickrel, Ponca City; L. C. Griffith, Oklahoma City; "Speedy" and Mrs. Moulder, Sapulpa; Charles Zears, secretary of the local Film Board; Max F. Broch, Lawton; Mrs. C. P. Dooley, Purcell; Phil Isley, Tulsa, and W. P. Moran, Oklahoma City, both identified with Southwestern Theatres, Inc.; L. E. Brewer, Paul's Valley; O. E. Enloe, El Reno; Sol Davis, Monogram Pictures, Oklahome City; and Wallace Walthall, formerly of Oklahoma City and in Dallas.

Most of the delegates are on their way by auto and train. However, Enloe, who operates the Criterion at El Reno, is flying his own plane. The delegation is traveling via Dallas and Baton Rouge and carries to New Orleans no particular grievances for airing.

The majority of the conventioneers from this section will remain for the Mardi Gras.

Nebraska Seeks Changes

OMAHA, Feb. 24.—Charles E. Williams, president of the Nebraska-Western Iowa M.P.T.O. and a member of the national board of directors of the M.P.T.O.A. for more than 10 years, was in Chicago yesterday to join a group of northwest delegates and exhibitors enroute to the New Orleans convention.

Carl Johnson of Red Oak, Ia., and Oscar Johnson of Falls City, Neb., brother exhibitors, together with their wives, will motor to New Orleans for the convention.

Williams told MOTION PICTURE DAILY he would make the same recommendations to the national association as were discussed and informally agreed to at the M.P.T.O. meeting held here in January. The local unit had suggested that the code — if it is to continue — should undergo sufficient changes so as to "give it teeth" and that Code Authority speed up action on appeals.

"As far as we are concerned, we are generally satisfied with the code," Williams said. "We would like to see some changes made in it, though. I think if the code was simplified and made more understandable for the small exhibitor it would be a popular document."

Wants Independents Supported

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 24.—The M. P. T. O. of Eastern Pennsylvania, Southern New Jersey and Delaware will carry to the convention this week a definite plea for the independent producer and exchangeman, backed by a practical program.

The local body's slogan of "1,000 New Dates for the Independents During the Year" will be brought before the national body and an attempt made to get general M.P.T.O. support for the plan.

The idea may be launched by Lewen Pizor, president of the local group which is the parent of the plan. It is Pizor's contention that the buildup of the independent producer will offer a form of insurance for the independent exhibitor, providing him with sufficient product to maintain his programs. Pizor also argues that the definite support will enable independent producers to better their product.

Pizor, now in Florida, and George P. Aarons, secretary of the local group, will officially represent the M.P.T.O. of this territory. Other local exhibitors will be in attendance, including George Kline, Jay Emanuel, Charles Segall, Al Fisher and Mike Egnel.

Aarons, accompanied by Kline who runs the Strand, Boyertown, Pa., and is head of the Kline Poster Co., left by automobile Thursday. Emanuel, vacationing in Miami, goes directly to the Mardi Gras city.

In addition to the plan for aiding independent production, the local group will be strongly in back of the movement for a 20 per cent cancellation, or at least a better deal than the present 10 per cent agreement.

Draw Pittsburgh Blank

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 24.—This is an Allied territory and that's sufficient reason to count this territory out where representation at the New Orleans convention is concerned.

None from Oregon

PORTLAND, ORE., Feb. 24. — M. Blumauer of the Capitol is an ardent M.P.T.O.A. man, but extreme age makes it impossible to attend New Orleans.

Fay from Rhode Island

PROVIDENCE, Feb. 24.—E. M. Fay, first run operator here, will be a one-man delegation to the convention. He will represent the M. P. T. O. of Rhode Island and is already here.

St. Louis for Code Changes

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 24.—Believing that they will have to continue to operate under the NRA code for at least another year, the delegation of 16 from the M. P. T. O. of St. Louis, Eastern Missouri and Southern Illinois is going to New Orleans with a number of proposed amendments to the code as it is now written.

The amendments to be proposed include:

An unconditional 20 per cent cancellation clause to cover each block of 10 pictures without regard to their national release date or availability to the exhibitor personally.

Home rule on the question of outlawing double feature programs.

Elimination of score charges, it being contended that the rental for sound pictures should cover the music tax.

Complete elimination of non-theatrical shows that compete with theatres.

Elimination of designated playdates.

The fixing of a definite date before which producers and distributors could not sell new product. This is to discourage the present tendency to sell the next year's pictures before the present season has been fully set in. It was contended that this method of advance selling is an unfair trade practice and should be stopped.

Fair and equitable method of clearance and zoning.

Define matinees as stopping at 6 P. M., when the maximum night prices must go into effect.

A provision that the decisions of local clearance and zoning and grievance board decisions must go into effect within 10 days.

The local delegation will be headed by Fred Wehrenberg of St. Louis, president of the organization, and Louis C. Hehl, secretary and treasurer; C. H. Weeks of Dexter, Mo., and Mrs. Weeks; Sam Komm, Collinsville, Ill., Mrs. Komm and two others; P. Mercier of Perryville, Mo., and daughter; S. Luken, Macklind, St. Louis, and son; Louis Ansell, of the Ritz and Midtown, St. Louis; Art Kalbfeld of Puline, St. Louis; Jimmy Zappalia, Columbia Theatre, St. Louis; Leo Hill, St. Louis Amusement Co., and Mrs. Hill; O. W. McCutcheon, Blytheville, Ark., and N. A. Sanowsky of St. Louis. A special car left over the Illinois Central at 1 P. M. today.

No. California Sending 20

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 24.—Approximately 20 from this region will attend the convention. Among those definitely in the delegation are H. V. Harvey, R. A. McNeil, Morgan A. Walsh, George and James Nasser, Joe Blumenfeld and John Di Stasio, the latter from Sacramento. Herman Cohen is also expected to be in the party.

The Independent Theatre Owners Association of Northern California is an affiliate. Morgan Walsh, president, has been appointed by Ed Kuykendall, the chairman of the committee on code trade practices, one of the most important committees which will function at the convention.

Northern California delegates will recommend to the convention, Walsh says, that the theatre code be amended to change the 10 per cent. elimination clause which has become a controversial subject within the industry and may become a social problem in that the theatre-going public appears to be leaning toward legislative bills opposing block booking and blind buying. Many legislatures have had anti-block-booking and anti-blind-buying bills introduced. Efforts will be made by the California delegation to make this clause more workable, equitable and fairer.

A special car carrying the Northern California delegation left here Thursday. Most of the delegates are expected to return home about March 7.

N. W. Won't Attend

SEATTLE, Feb. 24.—Allied Amusements of the Pacific Northwest, including exhibitors in Washington. Montana, Idaho and Alaska, will not be represented at the M.P.T.O.A. convention. A check just completed by Hugh W. Bruen, organization president, disclosed that none of this territory's exhibitors, affiliated or independent, plans to attend the meeting.

Committees and Chairmen Who Will Run Convention

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 24.—The convention is pretty much in the hands of these committees:

General Chairman, Convention Arrangements: Harry S. McLeod, St. Charles, New Orleans.

Reception: Rodney Toups, Loew's State, New Orleans.

Registration and Housing: Victor Meyer, Orpheum, New Orleans.

Entertainment: Frank Heiderick, Lyceum, New Orleans.

Public Relations: Fred Wehrenberg, St. Louis.

East and West For a Hike in Cancellations

Want Cancellations Upped

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—The M. P. T. O. of the District of Columbia will be well represented when the annual convention of the M. P. T. O. A. gets under way in New Orleans on Monday. The local delegates are:

A. Julian Brylawski, president of the local group and head of Warner Brothers real estate department here.

Dr. William P. Herbst, operator of the Circle.

Nathan Stiefel, operator of the Howard.

Louis Bernheimer, operator of the Jesse and Sylvan.

Sidney B. Lust, operator of three houses in Washington and two in Maryland.

The delegation will lay before the national group a list of matters on which the consensus of opinion here is that there is need for action.

Chief among the matters is that germane to an adequate cancellation privilege entirely divorced from any ifs, ands or buts. Block booking—and the legislation now pending in Congress to abolish it—is not a particular major problem at present, it is felt here; but this cancellation question is.

Under the present code set-up, the M. P. T. O. local feels, there are too many provisos attendant on the allowed 10 per cent cancellation. All these provisions, the exhibitors feel, should be abolished. An exhibitor, they hold, should have the right to cancel any picture merely upon a request to the exchange without having previously had to comply with certain provisions and without being obliged to offer reasons for the action.

Other matters on which the local group feel strongly, and which it will lay before the convention, are the music tax, score charges, Western Electric charges for parts and service, preferred playing time, privilege of booking immediately upon availability, the present inadequate supply of prints on a given picture on hand at a given exchange, and producer-controlled theatres. Music tax and score charges, the group feels, should be radically revised downward. Charges levied by WE for parts and service are far too exorbitant, they claim.

Playing time entirely depends on the picture and the house, and the local group would make it possible that the exchange would not be able to dictate playing time contrary to the interests of the house. Booking on availability and adequacy of the number of prints are closely tied together, and would prove of advantage to exchange as well as exhibitor and his subsequent runs.

It is the feeling of the Washington organization that theatres should be divorced from production and distribution and that no exhibiting unit should have any connection with the other two, and vice versa.

GLANCE at the details and convince yourself that the exhibitor who doesn't date them in for extra playing time is cheating his bank account. And ...while you're at it...slap yourself on the back for being a FOX showman!

The Mardi Gras

The features listed below, while not an official part of the convention are seasonable events of the New Orleans Mardi Gras season and are mentioned for general information only.

M.P.T.O.A. visitors are invited to stay over for the Carefree Carnival of the Mardi Gras, which reaches its climax on Mardi Gras Day, March 5, with the parade, masque, pageant and ball of the Krewe of Rex, King of the Carnival. Brilliant carnival affairs will be held daily, many of them public, others are private and available only by invitation. Saturday noon is the Parade of the Krewe of Nor (Children's Carnival Pageant).

Friday evening you are invited to attend the Junior League Mardi Gras Ball at the Civic Auditorium. Through the courtesy of the Junior League, those identified by the convention badge may purchase tickets and attend this affair, one of the largest and most brilliant of the Mardi Gras balls. Tickets are $2 per person, reserved tables $3 and $5 per person.

New Orleans In Gay Array For Visitors

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 24.—If they decide on a busman's holiday, delegates and visitors to the convention will find a varied assortment of celluloid entertainment at their beck and call. Here is what the local first runs will be showing:

Liberty—"Great Expectations."
Loew's State — "After Office Hours."
Orpheum—"Roberta."
Saenger—"The Little Colonel."
St. Charles—"Carnival."

Victor Meyers, manager of the Orpheum, will run a midnight show during the convention and plans to be on hand to welcome those who want to take it in. Other theatres are expected to do likewise.

Hotel grills and night clubs around town are lining up special programs. Destined to be popular is The Blue Room at the Hotel Roosevelt, in which hostelry convention headquarters are to be maintained. The Eagle Music Hall is continuing "Uncle Tom's Cabin" and vaudeville.

All of this has nothing at all to do with midnight and early morning forays which conventioneers may determine to rig up on their own.

Town Primed for Crowd

Many surprises are scheduled for the visitors, including golf tournaments at the Metairie golf course, a bridge tournament for women, a tour of the Vieux Carre with experienced guides, where, in the old quarter, a hundred historic squares, the living romances of two colorful centuries have been preserved in settings unchanged and unique. Beneath balconies embroidered with the iron handiwork of African slaves, under the waving leaves of banana trees in cool patios, as in the Napoleon House and the Absinthe House, visitors may commune with the spirits of Lafayette, Bienville, Lafitte, Jackson, Pere Antoine, heroes of the early days. With creole chefs they may revel in the culinary marvels created here for them by proud generations of Creole chefs. In secluded patios they may discover genuine gumbo and find out why Thackeray raved of New Orleans' boullabaisse; why gumbo is Irvin S. Cobb's favorite; and top a gala day with an absinthe frappe or a gin fizz among a people who know.

Then the Racetrack

While numerous night clubs have provided additional entertainers, showers and all that go with an athletic club can be had in the immense structure of the New Orleans Athletic Club just a few doors from Canal Street in the heart of the city. On Monday afternoon while warming up for the strenuous days of the convention proper, the entertainment committee has provided a corking good golf contest on the grounds of the Metairie Country Club, one of the finest greens in the south; the ladies will also be taken care of by a bridge party in the spacious club house.

Those who don't go in for golf have the privilege of visiting the race track watching the bang-tails go by and the bookmakers making funny noises when they pay off. At night the delegates are to be turned loose and wander where they will. They'll wander. Special guides may be hired to show 'em the sights. No curfew bells will ring out.

The committee on arrangements has made arrangements with the Yellow Cabs for side trips and the like to places of interest such as the antique shops, old world places of beauty, cafes and bars without limit.

On Tuesday night after the worries of business sessions and committee meetings, President Kuykendall will hold a reception in the Tip Top Inn in the Hotel Roosevelt.

Wednesday night, the steamer Capital has been engaged for a real old-time southern party with a cruise up and down the Mississippi with vaudeville stunts and dancing the order of the evening. Deck hands will be attired as the roustabouts of the days gone by, the steamer will be decorated with cotton bales as settees and side tables, while genuine (?) yellow girls and boys will carry refreshment trays.

For those that like to gamble—and what showman doesn't—the Louisiana Jockey Club at the fair grounds will make losing money a pleasure. The grounds and clubhouse are most beautiful and the pari-mutuel system prevails.

The Gulf States Theatre Owners will also meet during the M.P.T.O.A. convention.

Success Note

New Orleans, Feb. 24.—The M.P.T.O.A. convention combines with Mardi Gras to give the hotels here their heaviest registration in years. The Roosevelt has been sold out for several weeks past, according to Pat O'Shaugnessy, manager, who said every room in the hotel has been booked solid for Carnival Week.

Tommy Burns of the Jung says all the rooms there are filled and will remain so until after carnival time. John O'Leary of the St. Charles and Tony Spatofora of the Monteleone likewise report capacity.

Carriers Preparing For Own N. O. Meet

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 24.—Legislative problems affecting the trucking industry will be discussed tomorrow and Tuesday by the executive committee of the National Film Carriers, Inc. James Clarke, president of the organization, is chairman of the committee which consists of George F. Callahan of Exhibitors Service, Pittsburgh; H. C. Robinson, Film Truck Service, Detroit; John Vickers, Carolina Delivery Service, Charlotte; G. M. Blackman, Smith Film Service, Syracuse. Several other members in addition to the executive committee are here for the M.P.T.O.A. session.

Clint Weyer, secretary, recently stated that there were pending in 44 states a total of 850 bills which, if passed, would work undue hardship on the film trucking men.

Clarke recently attended the policy committee meeting of the American Trucking Ass'n., when the various bills were discussed.

Wilentz Will Take Warner Case to NRA

MOTION PICTURE DAILY, proceeded at a peaceful clip until Wilentz became incensed at some of the remarks made by I. Levinson, attorney for Warners. He rose from his seat and attacked Warners, declaring: "They will not get away with this!"

Two members of the advisory board voted that the three theatres were in competition and should have equal availability, two other members disregarded the competitive angle and declared the trio should have like availability notices while a fifth member held that the houses were in direct competition, but Warners' 14-day protection should be reduced to seven.

When the case was heard by the main clearance board on June 28, the lower ruling was upset, the board voting that the three houses were in competition and each theatre was entitled to 14 days' clearance over each other. Wilentz appealed to Campi and this body sustained the local board's ruling. The matter was then brought to the attention of Compliance Director Sol A. Rosenblatt, who turned it over to the Industrial Appeals Board.

Also in Leonia Case

The New Jersey attorney general will also play an important role in the Leonia, Leonia, clearance controversy, which was decided by the local board on June 4. Julius Charnow, operating the Leonia, is vice-president of Allied of New Jersey, which has pledged a fund to retain Wilentz for the final action.

Charnow appealed the ruling of the local board and the matter has been before Campi for more than six months with no action taken. A committee was appointed about two months ago to try and straighten out the matter, but reports from this body have not yet been made. Campi has had the case on its calendar for weeks, postponing it at the request of the committee, which is trying to break down the 60-day protection. Charnow several weeks ago asked for a hearing before Campi and was turned down. Since then several exchange heads have taken a personal interest in the matter, but cannot reconcile the major circuits.

Loew's is reported willing to compromise provided Warners will day-and-date the Lincoln, Union City, with the Embassy, North Bergen. George Skouras is said to be willing to abide by any decision, since his intervening houses will benefit along with Charnow's theatre, if Loew's and Warners get together.

Wilentz will confer with Rosenblatt on this case when he appears in Washington. Campi, at its last meeting, had the Leonia case scheduled, but put it over until this Thursday.

THE MARCH OF TIME

Gaumont Names 10 For 1935-'36 List

Titles to 10 of the Gaumont British 1935-36 lineup have been set. They are "39 Steps," by John Buchan; "Soldiers Three," from a story by Rudyard Kipling; "Pepys," from the biography of Samuel Pepys; "Clairvoyant," with Claude Rains and Fay Wray; "Barcarolle" and "Sam and Sallie," with Jessie Matthews; "The Tunnel" and "King of the Damned" with Conrad Veidt; "Redemption," to be directed by Berthold Viertel, and "The Passing of the Third Floor Back," with Nova Pilbeam.

The company plans to distribute in the United States 16 of the 24 to be produced next season. This number is exclusive of films to be made by outside producers and brought over.

Rubin-Roden Hearing Delayed to Feb. 27

CHICAGO, Feb. 24.—The hearing of the suit brought here by Jack Rubin of Public Theatres in the Federal court against James Roden, owner of the Astor, for alleged violation of anti-trust statutes, has been postponed to Feb. 27. Judge Woodward of the U. S. District Court has been sitting on another case.

Now Atlantic Pictures

World-Wide Pictures Corp. has changed the company name to Atlantic Pictures Corp. and has taken over the distribution of six Hughes productions. R. M. Savini, sales manager, leaves today on a tour of southern and mid-western exchanges.

Taxes Fall Off

Washington, Feb. 24.—Admission taxes collected by the government during January totaled $1,328,884 compared to $1,399,815 during the same month last year.

Report GSTOA May Merge with MPTOA

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 24.—Reports that the Gulf States Theatre Owners' Ass'n would decide to affiliate with the M.P.T.O.A. circulated anew when the resignation of H. S. McLeod was made public. McLeod's resignation may take effect May 28, at which date the G.S.T.O.A. holds its convention.

Since the G.S.T.O.A. will attend the M.P.T.O.A. business sessions and banquet, a friendly agreement is thought to exist between part of the G.S.T.O.A. and the M.P.T.O.A., though certain members of the Louisianian-Mississippi organization are known to look askance at any thought of a merger.

Joe Barcelona, Baton Rouge exhibitor and rumored next president of the G.S.T.O.A., has resigned from the clearance and zoning board.

Warner Club Has Party

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 24.—The Warner studio club's first annual formal dinner dance was held over the weekend at the Biltmore with more than 800 attending. The entertainment was under the direction of Benny Rubin, who acted as master of ceremonies. Warner stars and players attended.

offer to be outlined to Federal Judge Julian W. Mack tomorrow is expected to be made known at the court hearing, or within the next few days thereafter, it was learned on Saturday.

Identity of the new bidder is being closely held. Spokesmen for RKO denied they were interested in making a bid. Walter Reade and Joseph Plunkett were among those who sounded out the Fox Met bondholders' committee in advance of the joint Loew-Warner bid for the circuit last summer, but neither could be reached for comment Saturday on the current report of a new competitive bid.

M-G-M Revives Its Policy Conferences

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 24.—M-G-M is reviving the practice, more or less dormant for the past few years, of holding executive production conferences on major issues such as the hiring of important talent, buying stories and major production policies. The policy board includes Louis B. Mayer, Irving Thalberg, David O. Selznick, Eddie Mannix, Ben Thau and Sam Katz.

Marion Talley Signed

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 24.—Preview reaction to "Naughty Marietta" has caused M-G-M to sign Marion Talley to a long-term contract starting immediately. She will start a series of screen operas.

RKO Moves to Get Orpheum in Denver

DENVER, Feb. 24.—Court action is looked for over the efforts of RKO to redeem the Orpheum. RKO lost the house when the bondholders foreclosed. The Colorado Orpheum Co., controlled by RKO, presented a check for $428,000 to the sheriff and demanded possession of the property. Harry Huffman refused to move out.

Huffman claims the payment was made too late. The expiration date for redemption, according to him, was Feb. 10, but the sheriff accepted the check on advice of the city attorney, but not until attorneys for both sides had argued the case for more than two hours, during which William E. Guthner, manager of safety and excise, was called in to preside.

The sheriff issued a redemption certificate which empowered the Colorado Orpheum Co. to take possession of the Orpheum, but Frazer Arnold, attorney for Huffman and the Centennial Theatres, said his clients would resist efforts to take possession.

Issuance of the redemption certificate was also protested by Albert H. Jewell, trust officer for the U. S. National bank, the trustee which had the property sold on foreclosure.

The Orpheum was put under Huffman's management by RKO because Huffman controlled the first run pictures in Denver. Later Huffman managed when it was taken over by the bondholders, and at present he holds a contract to buy the theatre from the bondholders, subject, of course, to redemption action by RKO.

Cliff Work, manager of the Golden Gate, San Francisco, and a division manager for RKO-Radio, is in Denver awaiting developments. His job, he said, was to set up an operating personnel in any theatre to which RKO assigned him.

Report M-G-M Takes "Ziegfeld" from "U"

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 24.—Universal has reached an agreement with M-G-M to transfer the story and production rights on "The Great Ziegfeld" to the latter company, it is said. The price is said to exceed $250,000.

Although the agreement has not actually been signed, it is understood that when it is completed the entire production unit working on the story will transfer to M-G-M, with William Anthony Maguire, who has been both writer and producer on the unit, loaned to M-G-M. The picture was scheduled to have started March 1 after three postponements, due to the fact that William Powell, who was slated for the stellar role, has been unavailable.

While the unit has been waiting for Powell, work on costumes, dance routines and other details have been carried on, and Con Conrad, Walter Donaldson, Gus Kahn and others have delivered the musical numbers.

With the transfer, it is understood, will go options on the services of Fannie Brice, Harriett Hoctor, Catherine Hereford, Frankie Masters' band, Shaw & Lee, Marylin Knowlden and Seymour Felix.

Ann Harding Recalled

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 24.—Ann Harding, who was en route to the Orient on a vacation, has been recalled by M-G-M to report for work on Edmund Goulding's "The Flame Within."

Walmsley Has New Tax

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 24.—Not content with a two per cent gross tax on amusements, Mayor Walmsley has introduced an amendment to the amusement tax, which when passed provides that a two per cent tax shall be levied on every ticket purchased instead of a two per cent on the gross dollar.

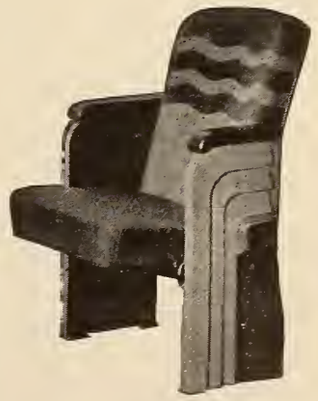
Pallos Moscow Bound

LONDON, Feb. 24.—Etienne Pallos, general sales manager of London Films, is now enroute to Moscow to negotiate a distribution deal with Soviet officials for his company's product. He is also scheduled to speak at the Moscow Cinema Festival now in session in commemoration of the 15th year of the Soviet industry.

Paramount Holds Three

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 24.—Paramount has given new contracts to one director and two assistant directors.

Arthur Jacobson, director of "Home on the Range," drew a new ticket. Jacobson is now collaborating on plans for "The Big Broadcast of 1935."



Russell Mathews and James Hogan were the assistants.

British Union Seeks Law on Wages, Hours

By BRUCE ALLAN

LONDON, Feb. 14.—Failure of the Joint Conciliation Board of the industry to arrive at a satisfactory settlement of outstanding disputes about wages and hours in London and Manchester is the reason alleged for an appeal from the Trade Union Congress and the National Ass'n of Theatrical Employes to the Home Secretary, asking legislative settlement of employment problems.

The union's suggestion is that the Cinematograph Act shall be amended to impose minimum wage scales and statutory working conditions on all theatres. That the theatre staff shall bear a strict proportion to average patronage is another suggestion.

Since publication of the report of the official Television Committee, big rises have been reported in the shares of the Baird Television Co. and in those of Gaumont British, which has a predominating interest in the Baird company.

Baird Deferred is now at 10/- against 3/3d on Jan. 29; the preferred is 6/9d against 3/3 and the Preferred "A" 60/ against 35/3. Gaumont British ordinaries, priced at 10/ on Jan. 29 are now 12/3.

The Baird system is one of two selected by the committee for the daily three-hour television transmissions recommended in the report. The other is owned by Electrical Musical Industries, shares of which have also increased in value, from 32/4½ to 34/4½.

Proposed N. C. Tax Stirs Up Charlotte

CHARLOTTE, Feb. 24.—Fear that North Carolina and Charlotte may lose its film exchanges unless the contemplated state franchise tax of $1,250 a year is reduced is being expressed.

While heads of local film exchanges declined to make statements on the tax, it was learned that it is considered excessive when license taxes paid by other manufacturing or distributing concerns of the state do not exceed $200.

"Good Fairy" Smash Hit, Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 24.—"The Good Fairy" romped away with the best gross of the week by more than doubling normal on a $7,800 take at Pantages.

Mayer Gets the New Rialto; Signs Lease

Arthur L. Mayer, as president of the Fairmay Theatres Corp., on Saturday signed a 20-year lease for the 800-seat theatre which is to be built on the site of the present Rialto at an approximate total rental of $1,000,000. Although the current lease on the existing theatre does not expire until November, 1935, it is probable that demolition of the structure will be undertaken prior to that time. Reports have indicated April 1 may be the starting date.

Exits from the various subway systems which pass through the Times Square district will lead into a rotunda below street level where it is planned to install a box-office, thereby allowing patrons to enter the new Rialto directly from the subway level if they so desire. Shops will be leased on this level, while the balcony and roof garden will be leased to a "nationally known" restaurant, name withheld on Saturday.

Sam Spring acted as Mayer's attorney. The lease was signed through White Louis Wanderstock and Co. as agents for the builders and brokers. Anthony Campaigna is president of the Rialto Square Corp., which will build.

Predict Defeat for California 10% Tax

San Francisco, Feb. 24.—Defeat of the proposed 10 per cent admission tax is foreseen here by political observers. It is reported that a block of 45 or 50 votes is opposed to a number of phases of the Governor's tax program.

W. B. Hornblower, chairman of the San Francisco delegation, is quoted as saying that he and his associates would fight for a tax program "based on ability to pay."

Jack Lewis Resigns

Hollywood, Feb. 24.—Jack Lewis, assistant to Joseph I. Breen in the local Hays office in charge of the bureau of information, resigned over the week-end. Lewis had been with the organization for the past three years. He plans a short vacation before returning to Hollywood.

Lewis' successor will probably be appointed by J. J. McCarthy, who arrives here tomorrow.

Samuel H. Herron Dies

New Philadelphia, O., Feb. 24.—Samuel Hemming Herron, 73, owner of the old Bijou here from 1911 to 1922, died at the home of a daughter in Dell Roy. He was a leading exhibitor in this section a decade ago. Two daughters and a son survive. Burial was in New Philadelphia.

Laskys Get Refunds

Washington, Feb. 24. — Allowances of $47,907 to Jesse L. Lasky and $34,242 to Bessie Lasky have been granted on their 1930 income returns, it is announced by the Treasury Department.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"The Devil Is a Woman"

(Paramount)

Hollywood, Feb. 24.—Aside from choice photography lensed by Josef Von Sternberg himself, plus a series of beautiful poses of the devastating Marlene Dietrich, little in the way of entertainment projects itself from this last of the Von Sternberg-Dietrich collaborations.

While Von Sternberg's screen paintings are much above the ordinary, the photographer-director has placed the focus on himself to the detriment of the star's value and has evolved a screen story minus heart, draggy in spots, symbolic in others and for so important a star hardly a vehicle for her superb talents.

Production values tumble over each other in shovelfuls, but stripped of its gorgeous carnival exteriors the film reveals a Spanish strumpet toying with men's affections and wreaking tragedy in her fickle wake. Miss Dietrich, as a cocotte, is as sympathetic as the icy heart of the lass she portrays.

Photographed plentifully, but only once revealing her shapely limbs, Miss Dietrich's beauty and genuine ability are lost on a yarn so turbid, so lacking in meritorious entertainment. Miss Dietrich sings two songs.

Lionel Atwill, Miss Dietrich's November lover, is made to appear foolish; seldom tragic, Cesar Romero, her May sweetie, is adequate, and Edward Everett Horton is swell in a small role.

Von Sternberg's photography stars in this story adapted by John dos Passos from Pierre Louys' "Woman and Puppet."

After the clanking of "The Scarlet Empress," banking on this latest scarlet harlot is questionable.

Production Code Seal No. 538. Running time, 85 minutes. "G."

"The Casino Murder Case"

(M-G-M)

Hollywood, Feb. 24.—As a dual murder mystery solved by the inimitable Philo Vance, this one is well timed for suspense and equally well spaced for laughs. The plot has the usual, methodical Vance solution aided by the well-known mystery build-up hokum which keeps the murder mystery patrons guessing. The film should prove satisfactory entertainment for murder fans.

Paul Lukas capably portrays Vance, making his deductions from a group consisting of Allison Skipworth; her son, Donald Cook; her secretary, Rosalind Russell; her brother, Arthur Byron; her daughter, Isabel Jewell; her butler, Eric Blore, and her doctor, Leslie Fenton. Miss Skipwoth, Cook and his wife, Louise Henry, and Miss Russell are poisoned. Miss Henry and Miss Skipworth die and the fun starts. As usual, the least suspected party is guilty with the climactic puzzle as unravelled by Lukas proving Cook killed his own mother and wife to benefit from his mother's will. A romantic tread entwines Lukas and Miss Russell at the fadeout.

The situations, well timed by director Edwin L. Marin, hold suspense throughout. Good performances are given by the whole cast. The musical score by Dimitri Tiomkin adds substantially to the film. Charles Clarke's photography is okay. Florence Ryerson and Edgar Allen Woolf penned the screenplay from S. S. Van Dine's book.

No production code seal. Running time, 88 minutes. "G."

"Hongkong Nights"

(Walter Futter)

Hollywood, Feb. 24.—"Hongkong Nights" is an action film about Chinese gun smugglers. Cornelius Keefe is the bad white man who smuggles guns to the bandits. Tom Keene, unofficially connected with the American consulate, is set to stop him.

Wera Engels, at first engaged to marry Keefe, leaves him when she learns his business and helps Keene. The pair chase each other up and down the Chinese coast, with Keene finally bringing Keefe to justice and winning the girl.

Warren Hymer, as Keene's assistant, ably contributes the comedy of the picture, and Tetsu Komai, as the bandit, gives a good performance. The picture is helped by good shots of Hongkong, obviously taken from a travelogue.

Looks suitable on dual bill program.

No code seal. Running time, 63 minutes. "G."

Al Kaufman Resigns His Paramount Post

Hollywood, Feb. 24.—Albert A. Kaufman, who has been associated with Paramount for the past decade and who was the founder and head of the Paramount studios abroad, has resigned from the company to become general manager of the Selznick-Joyce agency. Prior to his resignation, Kaufman had been acting as assistant to Emanuel Cohen, former Paramount production head, and as an associate producer.

Kaufman's resignation was accepted with expressions of regret from Adolph Zukor, Henry Herzbrun and Ernst Lubitsch. Zukor said: "Kaufman has been in Paramount with me since the founding of the company and while I sincerely regret his decision I readily can understand his new affiliation will prove more lucrative for him."

No successor to Kaufman has been selected.

Fabian in Deal for Brooklyn Paramount

Si Fabian, through Fabian Securities Corp., has reached a tentative agreement with the trustees of Allied Owners' Corp. for purchase of the Brooklyn Paramount Bldg. at a reported price of $1,500,000, it was learned Saturday. The deal may be closed today or tomorrow.

The Brooklyn Paramount theatre is not included in the agreement. The house is under lease to Paramount for 20 years at $100,000 per year, plus a percentage of the gross over fixed amounts. The lease is part of the settlement of Allied Owners' $5,000,000 claim against Paramount in the latter's reorganization proceedings. The theatre is sub-let from Paramount by Fabian.

Tennessee Gets Bill To Stop Walkathons

Memphis, Feb. 24.—M. A. Lightman's anti-walkathon M. P. T. O. A. move is expected to receive impetus through the introduction in the Tennessee Legislature over the week-end of an anti-marathon bill by Senator George H. Cate of Nashville. The bill would make it a misdemeanor subject to a fine to participate in any walk, dance or endurance marathon contest of more than eight consecutive hours and would also make it illegal to participate in more than one of such contests in 48 hours.

Bill Drafted To Cut Fines On Copyright

State Department Plan Is to Make It $100

By BERTRAM F. LINZ

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25.—Reduction from $250 to $100 of the penalty on exhibitors for "innocent" infringement is provided for in the bill proposed by the State Department for amendment of the copyright law preparatory to the entry of the United States into the international copyright convention. This nestles closer to the M.P.T.O.A. idea of how the copyright law should be amended.

In the case of infringement resulting from fraud or imposition upon the infringer by a third person, recovery is to be limited to the fair and reasable value of a license, but not less than $50 nor more than $2,500.

The State Department's measure is the result of efforts which have been made for a number of years to secure

Comerford Stricken

Washington, Feb. 25.—M. E. Comerford, head of the Pennsylvania circuit bearing his name, was reported resting easily today at Emergency Hospital here, where he was removed after suffering a collapse in a downtown hotel. Comerford, who is 65 years old, was planning to attend the M.P.T.O.A. convention at New Orleans when stricken. Although showing some improvement, hospital attendants described Comerford's condition as still serious.

Loew in Move to Build Eight or Ten at Chicago

Loew's is completing plans to invade Chicago neighborhoods with a theatre construction program of from eight to 10 houses. This will constitute M-G-M's answer to the alleged refusal of the Essaness and Schoenstadt circuits, as well as smaller theatres which buy through booking combines maintained by Aaron Saperstein, to purchase Loew's product except on a flat basis and with no preferred playing time designated.

Saperstein's buying combine activities are a separate endeavor from his office as president of Allied Theatres of Illinois. Approximately 100 theatres in greater Chicago today are not playing M-G-M product at a cost estimated from $6,000 to $7,000 weekly to the distributor.

Kansas City's ITO Discusses Federal Probe

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 25.—Coupled with the anti-trust suit the I. T. O. is preparing for filing in the U. S. District Court here, the organization may request a Government probe of local trade practices, MOTION PICTURE DAILY learns.

E. Rolsky, chairman of the independents' committee empowered to act, said the I. T. O. membership favors a Department of Justice investigation of an asserted conspiracy said to exist between Fox Midwest and the distributors.

Details of the impending moves are being worked out by Leland Hazard, I. T. O. counsel. Papers in the conspiracy suit will be in shape for filing in about two weeks, it was said. Whether a request for an investigation

TOCC-ITOA And Circuits Drop Contact

Lacking support from major circuits, the T.O.C.C. and I.T.O.A. have dropped the policy of friendly cooperation with Loew's and RKO, severing a working arrangement of long standing on both legislative and union problems.

The schism became marked when the board of directors of the I.T.O.A. group, presided over by Harry Brandt, on Feb. 13, passed a resolution seeking a State investigation of major circuit activities in this territory. The resolution was adopted after several attempts had been made to get Loew's to relieve independents from a cumulative protection strain. A committee was slated to be appointed last week to present the charges to Governor Lehman and to the Senate. The pro-

Lowenstein to Be Named Meyer's Successor; Others Renamed

By RED KANN

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 25.—Ed Kuykendall of Columbus, Miss., tonight was re-elected president of the M. P. T. O. A., as forecast by MOTION PICTURE DAILY today.

Morris Lowenstein, president of the M. P. T. O. of Oklahoma, is slated to succeed Fred S. Meyer, former president of the M. P. T. O. of Wisconsin, as national secretary and member of the M. P. T. O. A. executive committee. Meyer resigned both offices on becoming an assistant to Carl Laemmle some time ago.

In addition to Kuykendall and Lowenstein, all incumbent officers have been nominated for re-election. These include Walter Vincent, New York, treasurer; M. E. Comerford, Scranton; M. A. Lightman, Memphis; A. Julian Brylawski, Washington; B. N. Berinstein, Los Angeles, and W. S.

Managers Converge

New Orleans, Feb. 25.—The proximity of the new season and the desire to get widespread exhibitor reaction on product types are the twin reasons behind the presence at the M.P.T.O.A. convention here of John D. Clark, general sales manager of Fox; J. R. Grainger, general sales manager of Universal; Felix Feist, general sales manager of M-G-M, and Jules Levy, general sales manager of Radio.

This makes more sales managers than probably have attended any exhibitor convention in the latter day development of the industry.

Kuykendall Is Again Head of MPTOA Forces

Butterfield, Detroit, as vice-presidents; Edward G. Levy, New Haven, general counsel, and Fred Wehrenberg, St. Louis, chairman of the board.

These nominations were presented by the executive committee to the board of directors, meeting in closed session here tonight. The executive committee is composed of Kuykendall, O. C. Lam, Sidney Lust, J. H. Michael, Jack Miller and L. E. Thompson. The latter flew here from Miami, where he has been vacationing.

The nominations and election of officers comprised the only order of business today and tonight, with the convention proper not scheduled to get under way until 2 o'clock tomorrow. The convention arrangements committee wisely determined to start the first business session at that time, rather than risk a sparsely attended first morning session. Most convention visitors are making the rounds of the city tonight, celebrating their first evening in town.

Called to Order Today

The convention will be called to order tomorrow by H. S. McLeod, general chairman of the arrangements committee. The invocation will be given by Rev. Donald H. Wattley, rector of the Grace Episcopal Church of this city. The president's annual report will be read by Kuykendall and the secretary's annual report by Levy, general counsel and acting secretary. Reports of the committees on convention arrangements, on labor relations, public relations and entertainment values will also be made and special convention committees will be announced. Adjournment for committee meetings is scheduled for 4:45 P. M. The evening will be given over to the president's reception.

Approximately 500 conventioneers had checked into the Roosevelt and other hotels by early afternoon today. So great was the crush at the Roosevelt, convention headquarters, that the New York contingent, which arrived on time this morning, required fully an hour to clear the registration desks. All visitors, whether distributors or exhibitors, have been on their own throughout the day. Many went to the races, while others played golf.

More national sales managers are here for this 15th annual M.P.T.O.A. convention than probably have attended any other in the organization's history. The contingent includes Felix Feist of M-G-M, John D. Clark of Fox, Jules Levy of RKO Radio and James R. Grainger of Universal, each one flanked by one or more district or exchange managers.

Kuykendall almost missed the convention, due to illness. Leaving New York last week and heading straight for New Orleans, an attack of the flu forced him to leave the train at Atlanta where he remained for a few days battling his illness.

Rosenblatt Talk at Convention in Doubt

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25.—Division Administrator Sol A. Rosenblatt was undecided here today whether or not he would be able to attend the M.P.-T.O.A. Convention in New Orleans where he is scheduled to speak. If he speaks, it will be on Thursday.

It was explained that there are a number of matters claiming Rosenblatt's immediate attention here and if these are cleared up he will be free to take the southern trip.

Grainger returns to New York from here and goes on to Hollywood in about two weeks on next year's program.

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 25.—"If rumors can be believed Universal has been 'sold' not less than once a week for more than a quarter of a century past," Carl Laemmle remarked today in denying new reports of an impending sale of the company.

"I have been asked why I do not deny every fake rumor which is circulated by irresponsibles regarding Universal," Laemmle said. "The truth is that I haven't the time. If I took time to deny every one of the thousands of rumors I would not have an hour left for picture making and picture selling."

Halsey Raines of the M-G-M publicity department is vacationing in New Orleans and plans to drop in at the Roosevelt Hotel to see what an exhibitor convention is like.

Al Lichtman, vice-president and general sales manager of U. A., did not leave for the M.P.T.O.A. meet Saturday night as originally planned. Joseph M. Schenck returned from the coast Saturday and the two have been in conference since then on company matters.

will go forward depends on Hazard's conclusions.

Rolsky said the fact Campi is reported ready to adopt a clearance schedule for Kansas City will not deter the I. T. O. legal maneuvers, because, he said, the schedule in its present form would not be acceptable to the independents.

It is complained, primarily, that Fox Midwest is given prior right to product and that the circuit has set clearances for Kansas City detrimental to other suburbans which they are forced to accept. The independents are also wrought up over a statement E. C. Rhoden, the circuit's operating head, is said to have made at an I. T. O. meeting, to the effect he could lower prices at his theatres and still be able to obtain protection over unaffiliated houses charging a higher admission. The independents fear that is just what Fox Midwest may do, and the legal moves are designed to prevent it.

houses. The procedure is similar to the checkup made last year when Loew's and Warners made a joint bid for the circuit.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25.—Investigation of pending negotiations for the purchase of Fox Metropolitan in New York by Joseph M. Schenck today was characterized at the Department of Justice as one of the routine studies which are made of every important acquisition of industrial units.

Washington officials of the department said that there was nothing known about the matter here, as it was under the jurisdiction of the field office, each of which keeps a close eye upon industrial operations in its area.

It was indicated that the inquiry was routine in character and without any connection with Department of Justice investigations of other phases of the industry, such as brought about the St. Louis proceedings.

ITPA of Wisconsin Seeks Federal Help

MILWAUKEE, Feb. 25.—Directors of the Independent Theatres' Protective Ass'n. of Wisconsin and Upper Michigan have voted to petition the Department of Justice to continue the investigation made in the summer of 1931 by independent theatres of the state who were seeking relief from competition of producer affiliated circuits through the Wisconsin Department of Agriculture and Markets.

The action started by the State Department at that time was enjoined in U. S. District Court and the association is seeking to have the Federal Department take up the investigation where the state was forced to stop.

Milwaukee members have petitioned the Mayor and Common Council to regulate the construction of new theatres in Milwaukee. It is pointed out that Milwaukee now has 75 houses.

Bill Drafted To Cut Fines On Copyright

modernization of the copyright laws and the entry of this country into the international convention. The latter was sought by President Hoover in 1931 and last year by President Roosevelt, but the Senate failed to ratify the treaty.

The present copyright law was enacted in March, 1909. It was amended to protect motion pictures in August, 1912, and additional amendments were adopted in 1913, 1914, 1919, 1926 and 1928. The proposed measure was drafted by an interdepartmental committee on which the State and Commerce Departments and the Library of Congress were represented, and is designed to include "absolutely necessary reforms" but to leave substantially unaltered the general structure of the copyright legislation.

While the new draft makes an effort to cover the motion picture situation, it is believed to contain a number of provisions unsatisfactory to either producers or exhibitors, or both, which will possibly lead to changes before the bill is reported to the Senate for consideration.

Analysis of the department's bill shows the following changes to be made in the present law:

Amendments Proposed

Section 1 is amended to give the copyright owner the exclusive right to make a motion picture photoplay, with or without sound, from a literary work and to perform it, and also provides for radio broadcasting. Section 4 provides that copyright may be secured for all the works of an author, "whatever the mode or form of their expression."

Section 5 would add to the classes for which copyright may be claimed works prepared expressly for radio broadcasting. Section 8 provides that copyright shall extend without formality to the works of foreigners only in the case of countries which are parties to the international convention, and that in the case of citizens of other countries the present reciprocal requirements shall be met.

Section 11, relating to the copyrighting of unpublished works, is broadened to cover works prepared expressly for radio broadcasting.

Section 23 provides for a copyright term of 56 years, with no extension, in lieu of the present term of 28 years with renewal for a like period. The new period would automatically apply to works registered prior to the date the new act becomes effective.

The penalty provisions for infringement in Section 25 are amended to give the owner of the copyright the right to secure an injunction to restrain infringement; to collect such damages as he may have suffered through infringement, as well as all or such part of the profits which the infringer shall have made as the court may decree, or to collect, in lieu of actual damages and profits, such statutory damages as the court may hold just.

In proving profits in infringement cases the plaintiff is to be required to prove only sales, rentals, license fees or other revenue derived from any disposition of an infringing work, and the defendant shall be required to prove every element of cost which he claims.

It is also provided that in the setting of statutory damages, the limits for unauthorized motion picture exhibitions shall not be less than $100 nor more than $10,000 for all infringements of a copyright by any one infringer up to the date of suit.

The plaintiff is required to show that at the time of alleged infringement the work had either been registered or that notice of copyright had been affixed thereto, before he is entitled to any remedy other than an injunction or the fair and reasonable value of a license, in a sum not more than $2,500 as determined by the court.

If the defendant proves that he has been subjected to fraud or substantial imposition by any third person and had acted in good faith, the plaintiff may only recover for all infringements to the date of institution of suit, an amount equivalent to the fair and reasonable value of a license, but not less than $50 nor more than $2,500.

Section 41, differentiating between the transfer of copyright and the transfer of the material object copyrighted, is expanded to provide that independently of the copyright, and even after its assignment, the author retains the right to claim authorship as well as the right to object to every deformation, mutilation or other modification of the work which may be prejudicial to his honor or reputation, but this is not to limit full freedom of contract between the author or owner of a work and an assignee or licensee thereof.

A new section authorizes the President to take steps necessary to make the United States a member of the Union for the Protection of Literary and Artistic Works.

With the exception of this section, which would become effective upon passage of the bill, the measure would go into effect July 1, next.

and the project has now advanced to the point where sites are lined up and blueprints have been prepared by Architect Thomas Lamb, who has prepared plans for many Loew theatres throughout the country.

Sidney plans to leave for Chicago in a day or so. Joe Vogel of Loew's would not comment on the report, but it is understood that a number of the company's representatives are now in the Windy City negotiating for the sites and also a few theatres.

CHICAGO, Feb. 25.—Five representatives of Loew's theatre department are here investigating, according to reports, sites for Loew houses.

A canvass of prominent local architects reveals that the construction move is known in these offices, but none will admit outright he is in on any of the plans.

Another report has it that, if and when the houses are built, they will be managed by Jones, Linick & Schaefer, but at the offices of the circuit no comment would be made.

It is known that the late Marcus Loew had a gentleman's agreement never to compete with J., L. & S., which, it is pointed out, would make the Chicago circuit the logical partner in any Loew invasion here.

The exhibitors who would be affected are not sure the move is serious, but take this attitude: "Let them build if they want to; there is nothing we can do to stop them. But it's a pretty situation if distributors are going to set up competition every time they can't get what they want."

The sites for the proposed houses must be carefully chosen since B. & K. has an M-G-M agreement running several years which precludes Loew competition.

FWC to Protest on Los Angeles Zoning

Although Campi has approved the Los Angeles schedule in toto, Fox West Coast is planning to protest a number of its provisions as unworkable, MOTION PICTURE DAILY learns. Unless certain modifications are made, F.W.C. will ask Code Authority to delay putting the plan into effect on March 31, the date set last week by Campi. According to Code Authority's plan, the schedule is to be put on a test basis for 60 days, but F.W.C. contends this may prove disastrous to the circuit.

Charles Buckley, attorney, and Mike Rosenberg, a partner of F.W.C., are in New York discussing the schedule and it is believed they will request a hearing before Campi on Thursday to put before the body its stand on the issues involved. Edward Alperson, who returned from a survey of the coast houses late last week, may attend the meet.

The circuit's contention is that Los Angeles and southern California are two of the most important and competitive situations in the country and that distances mean nothing because there are two cars for every person in Los Angeles. The territory abounds in overlapping areas and the problem is a serious one with F.W.C.

Executives of the circuit believe it a mistake to test out the first schedule in such an important territory. They hold that a smaller area where the competitive situation is not so ticklish should be the first spot for giving a schedule a tryout.

cedure was put over for another session when a discussion of forcing of shorts on exhibitors developed into an all-afternoon affair.

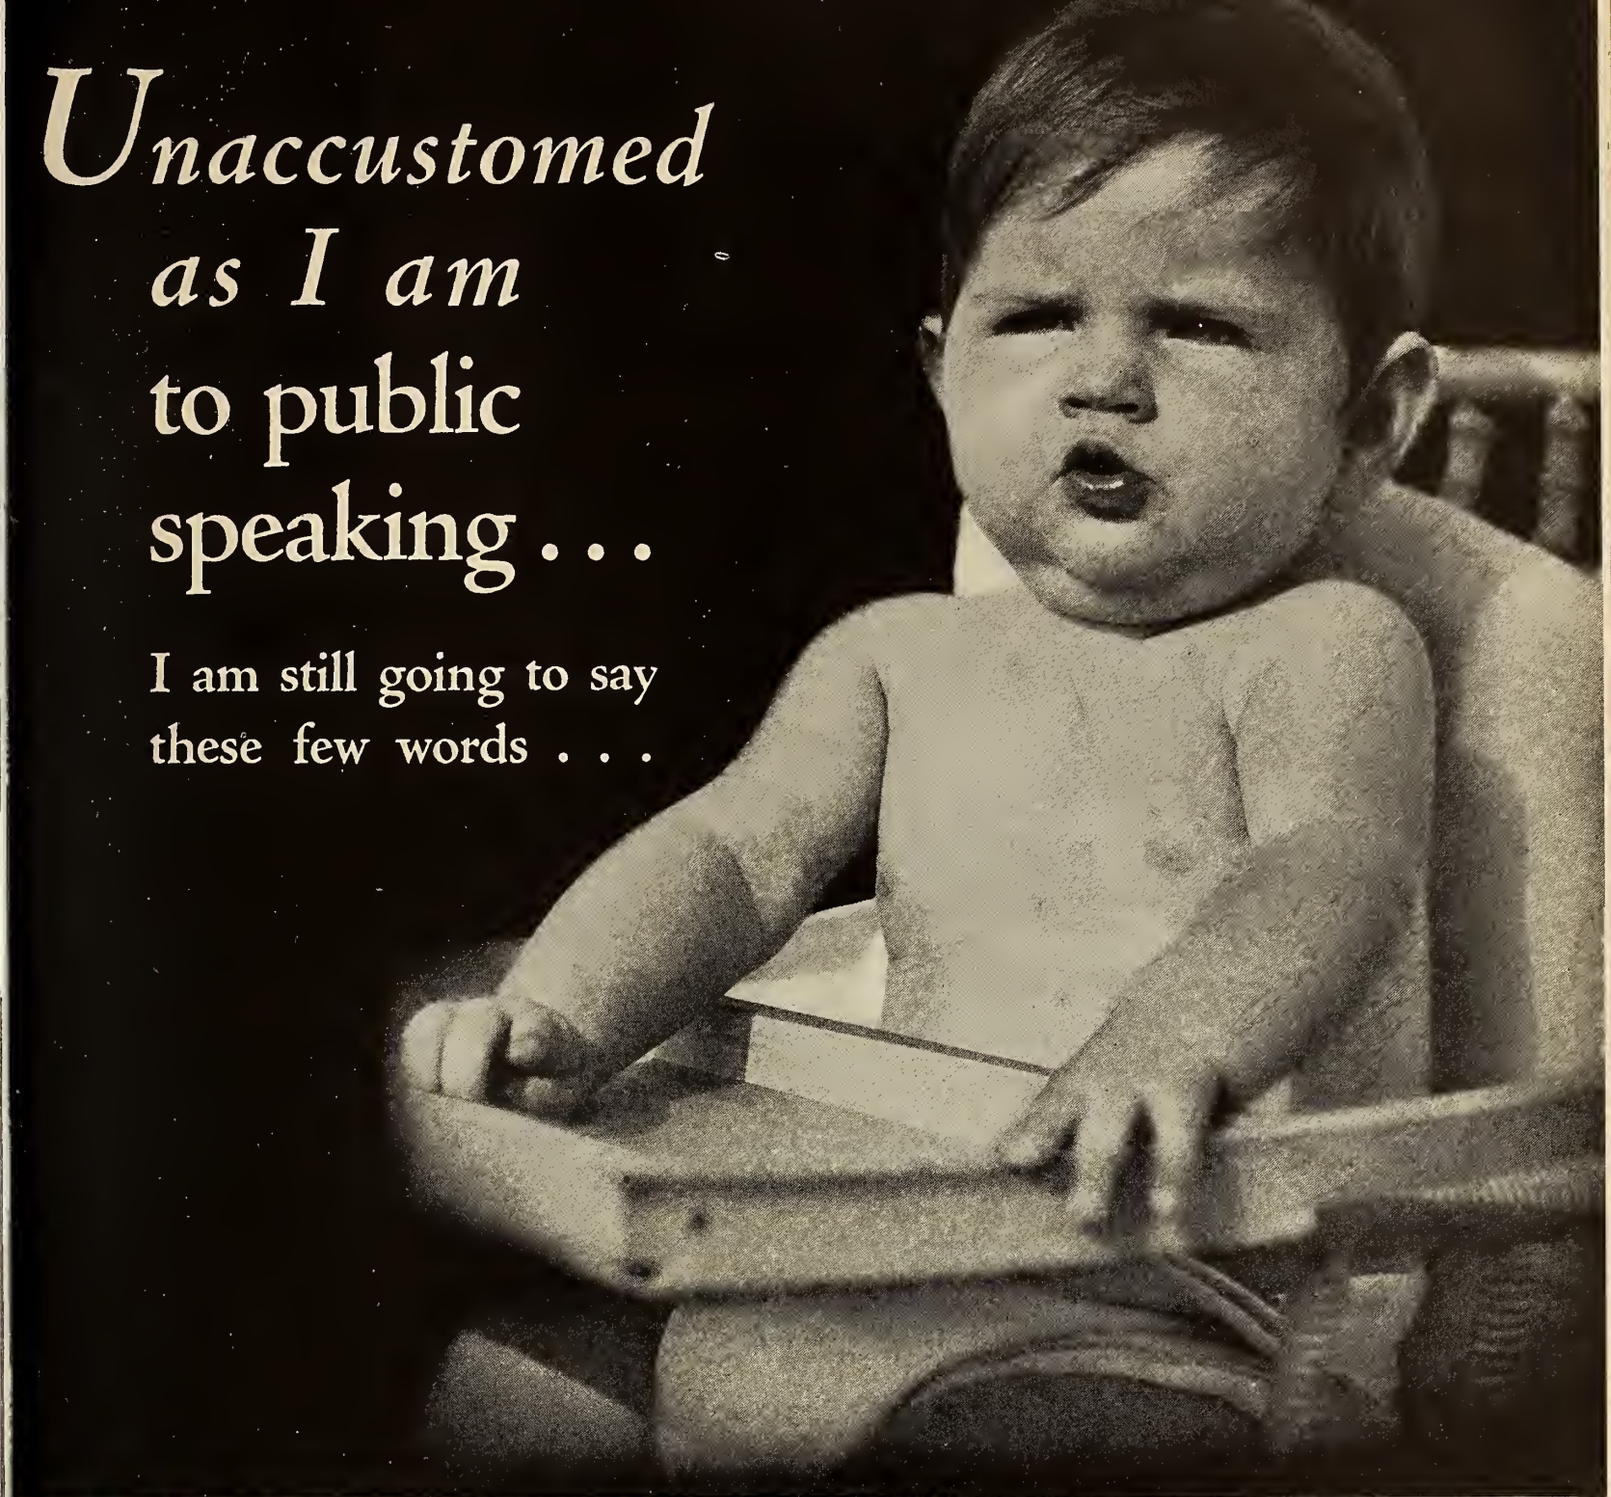
The next break followed when the T.O.C.C. refused an invitation sent out by former Senator Henry J. Walters to have a representative on hand at a meeting held Feb. 15 to discuss three pending bills in Albany. Charles L. O'Reilly forgot there was a meeting and the I.T.O.A. decided it was best to keep away.

As a result, the independents are marshalling their own forces and plan to act on legislative matters by themselves. O'Reilly and Brandt left last night for the Albany hearing this afternoon before the Senate committee on public education.

The McCall Bill is on tap and provides for the following:

1. To maintain a standard of morality and decency in the production of motion pictures.
2. To cooperate with civic and religious organizations in the prohibiting of exhibition of pictures that offend morality and decency.
3. To prescribe forms of contract between exhibitors and distributors.
4. To approve a synopsis of the story contained in each film to be exhibited which synopsis shall be furnished by the distributor to the exhibitor at the time the exhibitor enters into a contract with the distributor.
5. To classify films into three groups: (a) suitable for adults, (b) suitable for family trade, (c) suitable for juveniles.

Would Need Special License



Distributors would be required to get a special license, the fee being set at $5,000 a year. Exhibitors would be required to pay a fee of $1,000.

The breach between the independents and majors is expected to be extended to negotiations on the basic operators' scale. The unaffiliated men are planning to pull out of the NRA fact-finding committee and negotiate their own contracts with the I.A.T.S.E., leaving Loew's and RKO to shift for themselves.

The two major circuits have been members of the T.O.C.C. a number of years, but recently stopped paying dues. The move is said to have been taken because of O'Reilly's insistent stand in favor of independents at Campi sessions. The circuits were carried on the books for a time in the hope that they would be reconciled. With Loew's and RKO out, the independent outfit is willing to go along as it has been.

That the fact-finding committee is a thing of the past is seen in the conferences Louis Krouse, president of the I.A.T.S.E., has had with Brandt within the last few days. O'Reilly is understood to have had several conferences with George Browne, president of the international, on a pact for members he represents.

Efforts to merge the two independent exhibitor units are near the point of consummation. A minority group of the I.T.O.A. is reported ready to force Brandt out, but the majority wing is heavily in favor of his continuing at the helm.

Wilentz Will Take Warner Case to NRA

Having successfully prosecuted Bruno Hauptmann for the murder of the Lindbergh baby, David T. Wilentz, attorney general of New Jersey, will next concentrate his legal activities on the clearance dispute which an Allied of New Jersey member has pending against Warners.

Wilentz will return from a Miami vacation on March 15 and will appear before the Industrial Appeals Board of the NRA in Washington on behalf of Louis Levin, operator of the Elwood, Newark, who seeks to eliminate the 14-day clearance by Warners' Regent, Newark, and Capitol, Belleville, N. J. The original hearing date, Feb. 20, was set back because of Wilentz's absence.

Representing Allied and Levin when the matter was first heard by the New Jersey advisory committee, of which Joe Lee was chairman, on June 10, Wilentz confessed his lack of familiarity with film cases, stating this complaint was his first. In his opening statement, the attorney general minced no words, saying: "I have mainly been representing fellows hit by trucks and not those hit by Warners." The meeting, covered by Motion Picture Daily, proceeded at a peaceful clip until Wilentz became incensed at some of the remarks made by I. Levinson, attorney for Warners. He rose from his seat and attacked Warners, declaring: "They will not get away with this!"

Two members of the advisory board voted that the three theatres were in competition and should have equal availability, two other members disregarded the competitive angle and declared the trio should have like availability notices while a fifth member held that the houses were in direct competition, but Warners' 14-day protection should be reduced to seven.

When the case was heard by the main clearance board on June 28, the lower ruling was upset, the board voting that the three houses were in competition and each theatre was entitled to 14 days' clearance over each other. Wilentz appealed to Campi and this body sustained the local board's ruling. The matter was then brought to the attention of Compliance Director Sol A. Rosenblatt, who turned it over to the Industrial Appeals Board.

Also in Leonia Case

The New Jersey attorney general will also play an important role in the Leonia, Leonia, clearance controversy, which was decided by the local board on June 4. Julius Charnow, operating the Leonia, is vice-president of Allied of New Jersey, which has pledged a fund to retain Wilentz for the final action.

Charnow appealed the ruling of the local board and the matter has been before Campi for more than six months with no action taken. A committee was appointed about two months ago to try and straighten out the matter, but reports from this body have not yet been made. Campi has had the case on its calendar for weeks, postponing it at the request of the committee, which is trying to break down the 60-day protection. Charnow several weeks ago asked for a hearing before Campi and was turned down. Since then several exchange heads have taken a personal interest in the matter, but cannot reconcile the major circuits.

Loew's is reported willing to compromise provided Warners will day-and-date the Lincoln, Union City, with the Embassy, North Bergen. George Skouras is said to be willing to abide by any decision, since his intervening houses will benefit along with Charnow's theatre, if Loew's and Warners get together.

Wilentz will confer with Rosenblatt on this case when he appears in Washington. Campi, at its last meeting, had the Leonia case scheduled, but put it over until this Thursday.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"The Devil Is a Woman"

(Paramount)

Hollywood, Feb. 24.—Aside from choice photography lensed by Josef Von Sternberg himself, plus a series of beautiful poses of the devastating Marlene Dietrich, little in the way of entertainment projects itself from this last of the Von Sternberg-Dietrich collaborations.

While Von Sternberg's screen paintings are much above the ordinary, the photographer-director has placed the focus on himself to the detriment of the star's value and has evolved a screen story minus heart, draggy in spots, symbolic in others and for so important a star hardly a vehicle for her superb talents.

Production values tumble over each other in shovelfuls, but stripped of its gorgeous carnival exteriors the film reveals a Spanish strumpet toying with men's affections and wreaking tragedy in her fickle wake. Miss Dietrich, as a cocotte, is as sympathetic as the icy heart of the lass she portrays.

Photographed plentifully, but only once revealing her shapely limbs, Miss Dietrich's beauty and genuine ability are lost on a yarn so turbid, so lacking in meritorious entertainment. Miss Dietrich sings two songs.

Lionel Atwill, Miss Dietrich's November lover, is made to appear foolish; seldom tragic, Cesar Romero, her May sweetie, is adequate, and Edward Everett Horton is swell in a small role.

Von Sternberg's photography stars in this story adapted by John dos Passos from Pierre Louys' "Woman and Puppet."

After the clanking of "The Scarlet Empress," banking on this latest scarlet harlot is questionable.

Production Code Seal No. 538. Running time, 85 minutes. "G."

"The Casino Murder Case"

(M-G-M)

Hollywood, Feb. 24.—As a dual murder mystery solved by the inimitable Philo Vance, this one is well timed for suspense and equally well spaced for laughs. The plot has the usual, methodical Vance solution aided by the well-known mystery build-up hokum which keeps the murder mystery patrons guessing. The film should prove satisfactory entertainment for murder fans.

Paul Lukas capably portrays Vance, making his deductions from a group consisting of Allison Skipworth; her son, Donald Cook; her secretary, Rosalind Russell; her brother, Arthur Byron; her daughter, Isabel Jewell; her butler, Eric Blore, and her doctor, Leslie Fenton. Miss Skipwoth, Cook and his wife, Louise Henry, and Miss Russell are poisoned. Miss Henry and Miss Skipworth die and the fun starts. As usual, the least suspected party is guilty with the climactic puzzle as unravelled by Lukas proving Cook killed his own mother and wife to benefit from his mother's will. A romantic tread entwines Lukas and Miss Russell at the fadeout.

The situations, well timed by director Edwin L. Marin, hold suspense throughout. Good performances are given by the whole cast. The musical score by Dimitri Tiomkin adds substantially to the film. Charles Clarke's photography is okay. Florence Ryerson and Edgar Allen Woolf penned the screenplay from S. S. Van Dine's book.

No production code seal. Running time, 88 minutes. "G."

"Hongkong Nights"

(Walter Futter)

Hollywood, Feb. 24.—"Hongkong Nights" is an action film about Chinese gun smugglers. Cornelius Keefe is the bad white man who smuggles guns to the bandits. Tom Keene, unofficially connected with the American consulate, is set to stop him.

Wera Engels, at first engaged to marry Keefe, leaves him when she learns his business and helps Keene. The pair chase each other up and down the Chinese coast, with Keene finally bringing Keefe to justice and winning the girl.

Warren Hymer, as Keene's assistant, ably contributes the comedy of the picture, and Tetsu Komai, as the bandit, gives a good performance. The picture is helped by good shots of Hongkong, obviously taken from a travelogue.

Looks suitable on dual bill program.

No code seal. Running time, 63 minutes. "G."

Wm. Fox Reported In Dicker for "U"

Hollywood, Feb. 24. — William Fox's name enters the Universal situation as a bidder for its purchase and with B. P. Schulberg in charge of production. Reports along above lines which circulated here following his return from New York were admitted by Schulberg to Motion Picture Daily. He said he had discussed such a deal with Fox, but nothing concrete had happened.

A second group, believed to be Philadelphia money, is also reported negotiating for Universal, a condition of a deal from its point of view being Schulberg's availability as studio head.

Report Another Fox Met Bid in Offing

A second bid for Fox Metropolitan Playhouses in competition with the Joseph M. Schenck-Fox Theatres offer to be outlined to Federal Judge Julian W. Mack tomorrow is expected to be made known at the court hearing, or within the next few days thereafter, it was learned on Saturday.

Identity of the new bidder is being closely held. Spokesmen for RKO denied they were interested in making a bid. Walter Reade and Joseph Plunkett were among those who sounded out the Fox Met bondholders' committee in advance of the joint Loew-Warner bid for the circuit last summer, but neither could be reached for comment Saturday on the current report of a new competitive bid.

"Spring" Hits $18,500 High, Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 25.—"One More Spring," with $18,500 for seven days at the Fox, did the best business here last week, though it couldn't negotiate the anticipated second week.

One of the best comparative figures was the $9,500 scored by "The Scarlet Pimpernel" in its second week at the Aldine. The Earle topped the mark with $14,500 for "Winning Ticket" and its stage show, while "Devil Dogs of the Air" got a good $14,000 for eight days at the Stanley.

Total first run business was $103,000. Average is $106,700.

Estimated takings for the week ending Feb. 21:

"THE SCARLET PIMPERNEL" (U. A.)
ALDINE—(1,200), 35c-40c-55c, 6 days, 2nd week. Gross: $9,500. (Average, $7,000)

"Wings" Hits Big $5,500, Denver High

DENVER, Feb. 25.—"Wings in the Dark" was the big noise of the week. It started out with standees and held up in spite of the counter-attractions of outdoor spots with perfect weather. The $5,500 gross was over the line by $1,500.

All other houses were under par.

Total first run business was $18,700. Average is $20,500.

Estimated takings for the week ending Feb. 21:

"UNDER PRESSURE" (Fox)

Tupilan in Boston Job

BOSTON, Feb. 25.—Here from New York, Ira Tupilan has been installed as manager of the Majestic. Vincent Grater is assistant. The downtown house has been opened for foreign product by Levrad, Inc. The Majestic, recently bombed, is now a union house.

Baily Back on Coast

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 25.—Tom Baily, head of the Paramount publicity department, has returned to the studio after a trip in which he visited 15 key cities west of the Mississippi. He was away for two weeks.

Fox Signs June Knight

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 25.—June Knight has been definitely set by Fox for the lead in "Red Heads on Parade." She will have her hair dyed red for the role opposite John Boles.

"Copperfield" Holds Up for 2d Loop Week

CHICAGO, Feb. 25.—Taking $20,000 for its second week at the United Artists, "David Copperfield" was the best straight film draw on the Loop. This is $3,000 over normal for a first week.

Business was generally good. "Wings in the Dark" was up by $12,400 on a $47,000 gross at the Chicago. Earl Carroll's "Vanities" on the stage helped. "Charlie Chan in Paris" was strong at the Oriental with a gross of $17,000. "Devil Dogs of the Air" had a good second week at the Roosevelt with $12,000

Total first run business was $143,500. Average is $127,600.

Bill Drafted To Cut Fines On Copyright

State Department Plan Is to Make It $100

By BERTRAM F. LINZ

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25.—Reduction from $250 to $100 of the penalty on exhibitors for "innocent" infringement is provided for in the bill proposed by the State Department for amendment of the copyright law preparatory to the entry of the United States into the international copyright convention. This nestles closer to the M.P.T.O.A. idea of how the copyright law should be amended.

In the case of infringement resulting from fraud or imposition upon the infringer by a third person, recovery is to be limited to the fair and reasonable value of a license, but not less than $50 nor more than $2,500.

The State Department's measure is the result of efforts which have been made for a number of years to secure

Comerford Stricken

Washington, Feb. 25.—M. E. Comerford, head of the Pennsylvania circuit bearing his name, was reported resting easily today at Emergency Hospital here, where he was removed after suffering a collapse in a downtown hotel. Comerford, who is 65 years old, was planning to attend the M.P.T.O.A. convention at New Orleans when stricken. Although showing some improvement, hospital attendants described Comerford's condition as still serious.

Loew in Move to Build Eight or Ten at Chicago

Loew's is completing plans to invade Chicago neighborhoods with a theatre construction program of from eight to 10 houses. This will constitute M-G-M's answer to the alleged refusal of the Essaness and Schoenstadt circuits, as well as smaller theatres which buy through booking combines maintained by Aaron Saperstein, to purchase Loew's product except on a flat basis and with no preferred playing time designated.

Saperstein's buying combine activities are a separate endeavor from his office as president of Allied Theatres of Illinois. Approximately 100 theatres in greater Chicago today are not playing M-G-M product at a cost esti-

Rumor Code Attack

New Orleans, Feb. 25.—A certain group or groups in the M.P.T.O.A. tonight were reported discussing as an objective a violent attack on the code via a plan not divulged but looking to M.P.T.O.A. endorsement of its abolition. How this would work out and exactly what the convention could do beyond passing resolutions to this effect if this group or groups have their way, not only were not clear but were unanswered tonight.

Kansas City's ITO Discusses U. S. Quiz

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 25.—Coupled with the anti-trust suit the I. T. O. is preparing for filing in the U. S. District Court here, the organization may request a Government probe of local trade practices, MOTION PICTURE DAILY learns.

E. Rolsky, chairman of the independents' committee empowered to act, said the I. T. O. membership favors a Department of Justice investigation of an asserted conspiracy said to exist between Fox Midwest and the distributors.

Details of the impending moves are being worked out by Leland Hazard, I. T. O. counsel. Papers in the conspiracy suit will be in shape for filing in about two weeks, it was said. Whether a request for an investigation

TOCC-ITOA and Chains End Contact

Lacking support from major circuits, the T.O.C.C. and I.T.O.A. have dropped the policy of friendly cooperation with Loew's and RKO, severing a working arrangement of long standing on both legislative and union problems.

The schism became marked when the board of directors of the I.T.O.A. group, presided over by Harry Brandt, on Feb. 13, passed a resolution seeking a State investigation of major circuit activities in this territory. The resolution was adopted after several attempts had been made to get Loew's to relieve independents from a cumulative protection strain. A committee was slated to be appointed last week to present the charges to Governor Lehman and to the Senate. The pro-

Lowenstein Is Named as Meyer's Successor; Others Renamed

By RED KANN

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 25.—Ed Kuykendall of Columbus, Miss., tonight was re-elected president of the M. P. T. O. A., as forecast by MOTION PICTURE DAILY today.

Morris Lowenstein, president of the M. P. T. O. of Oklahoma, was named to succeed Fred S. Meyer, former president of the M. P. T. O. of Wisconsin, as national secretary and member of the M. P. T. O. A. executive committee. Meyer resigned both offices on becoming an assistant to Carl Laemmle some time ago.

In addition to Kuykendall and Lowenstein, all incumbent officers have been nominated for re-election. These include Walter Vincent, New York, treasurer; M. E. Comerford, Scranton; M. A. Lightman, Memphis; A. Julian Brylawski, Washington; B. N. Berinstein, Los Angeles, and W. S.

Managers Converge

New Orleans, Feb. 25.—The proximity of the new season and the desire to get widespread exhibitor reaction on product types are the twin reasons behind the presence at the M.P.T.O.A. convention here of John D. Clark, general sales manager of Fox; J. R. Grainger, general sales manager of Universal; Felix Feist, general sales manager of M-G-M, and Jules Levy, general sales manager of Radio.

This makes more sales managers than probably have attended any exhibitor convention in the latter day development of the industry.

Purely Personal

HORTENSE SCHORR has another peeve. Says ever since the "Purely Personal" column reported she was going in for Schopenhauer, Kant, Hume, Nietzsche and Damon Runyon, her social activities have slid into a decline. She's accused of being a highbrow.

CAPTAIN RICHARD NORTON, British and Dominions producer, here for a short visit, is busy around town these days trying to clear up his affairs as soon as possible. He says now he won't be able to return home for at least a fortnight.

HARRY SCHWALBE, FRED DURKEE, CHARLES NOLTE, SAM GALANTY, BEN FERTEL and J. FABIAN are in the "hot climate," writes JAY EMANUEL from Miami, proving thereby that he's there as well.

GENE TOWNE and GRAHAM BAKER have been signed by WALTER WANGER to do the screenplay for his forthcoming musical, "Every Night at Eight." FRANCES LANGFORD, former NBC singer, will be starred.

Quip of the Day

With Kansas City newspapers full of ads on clearance sales at department stores, K. C. exhibitors are asking:

"When will Campi ring up a 'clearance' sale for us?"

W. C. GEHRING, Chicago Fox branch head, has been named leader of the third S. R. KENT sales drive, starting date of which has not yet been set.

MURIEL KIRKLAND, of fond "The Greeks Had a Word for It" memory, will return to Broadway in "No Mind of Her Own." She's been in Hollywood.

PHIL REISMAN is stealing a march on the M. P. Club ping-pongers these days. He gets up to the club early and puts in a half hour of practice before lunch.

SAM MINTZ has been signed by Paramount to work on "The Plot Thickens," which will be the next for GEORGE BURNS and GRACIE ALLEN.

LOUIS K. SIDNEY returned from Chicago the other day and leaves again for the Windy City within the next few days.

GUSTAV BROCK is responsible for the color effects in the Ben Hecht-Charles MacArthur film starring JIMMY SAVO, "Once in a Blue Moon."

REGINALD DENNY is being talked about for the male lead in "Julie," play long planned by D. A. DORAN, JR. and ARTHUR HANNA.

HELEN GAHAGAN is on her way to the coast by train. She will report at the Radio studios to work in MERIAN C. COOPER'S "She."

MITCHELL KLUPT now calls LOUIS NIZER Attorney General NIZER. Heretofore, he's been calling him Colonel NIZER.

SADA COWAN has finished work on the screenplay of "Chocolate," which is a translation from the Russian. CECIL B. DEMILLE is scheduled to produce it after he finishes "The Crusades."

JAN AUGUSTOFF, pianist-xylophonist, has been engaged by the Warwick Hotel here. He will direct his own orchestra.

ADELAIDE HEILBRON'S play "Something Gay" is slated for fall appearance on Broadway. The SHUBERTS will do the presenting.

S. BARRET MCCORMICK is so enthused over "Roberta" that the word itself is being used as a password to get into his office these days.

MORT BLUMENSTOCK really ought to do something about his weight. You never saw such a picture of health in bloom.

MILTON FELD and DAVE CHATKIN have leased new executive offices for their Monarch Theatres on the 25th floor of the RKO Bldg.

ALAN DWAN'S original story, "Kiss and Wake Up," has been purchased by Fox, as a vehicle for EDMUND LOWE and CLAIRE TREVOR.

LOUIS PAUL, the winner of the 1934 O. Henry Memorial Award, has been signed to a long term contract by M-G-M and is awaiting an assignment.

M-G-M Signs Del Ruth

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 25.—Roy Del Ruth has been signed by M-G-M to direct "Broadway Melody."

Shapiro Plans for Three Films a Year

William Shapiro plans to produce three pictures a year for major release. Under Franklin Films, the name of the company he has had for 15 years, Shapiro will star Jackie Borene, a newcomer, in the trio planned for this season. A seven-year deal with a major company is now pending.

Borene has appeared at the Paramount here and at the B. & K. Chicago. He also has performed small parts in "Once in a Blue Moon" with Jimmie Savo and in Harry Richman's show "Say When." M-G-M is making tests of the seven-year old actor and singer. Shapiro leaves for the coast either the end of the week or the beginning of next week.

Kuykendall Is Reelected as MPTOA Head

Butterfield, Detroit, as vice-presidents; Edward G. Levy, New Haven, general counsel, and Fred Wehrenberg, St. Louis, chairman of the board.

These nominations were presented by the executive committee to the board of directors, meeting in closed session here tonight. The executive committee is composed of Kuykendall, O. C. Lam, Sidney Lust, J. H. Michael, Jack Miller and L. E. Thompson. The latter flew here from Miami, where he has been vacationing.

The nominations and election of officers comprised the only order of business today and tonight, with the convention proper not scheduled to get under way until 2 o'clock tomorrow. The convention arrangements committee wisely determined to start the first business session at that time, rather than risk a sparsely attended first morning session. Most convention visitors are making the rounds of the city tonight, celebrating their first evening in town.

Called to Order Today

The convention will be called to order tomorrow by H. S. McLeod, general chairman of the arrangements committee. The invocation will be given by Rev. Donald H. Wattley, rector of the Grace Episcopal Church of this city. The president's annual report will be read by Kuykendall and the secretary's annual report by Levy, general counsel and acting secretary. Reports of the committees on convention arrangements, on labor relations, public relations and entertainment values will also be made and special convention committees will be announced. Adjournment for committee meetings is scheduled for 4:45 P. M. The evening will be given over to the president's reception.

Approximately 500 conventioneers had checked into the Roosevelt and other hotels by early afternoon today. So great was the crush at the Roosevelt, convention headquarters, that the New York contingent, which arrived on time this morning, required fully an hour to clear the registration desks. All visitors, whether distributors or exhibitors, have been on their own throughout the day. Many went to the races, while others played golf.

More national sales managers are here for this 15th annual M.P.T.O.A. convention than probably have attended any other in the organization's history. The contingent includes Felix Feist of M-G-M, John D. Clark of Fox, Jules Levy of RKO Radio and James R. Grainger of Universal, each one flanked by one or more district or exchange managers.

Kuykendall almost missed the convention, due to illness. Leaving New York last week and heading straight for New Orleans, an attack of the flu forced him to leave the train at Atlanta where he remained for a few days battling his illness.

Rosenblatt Talk at Convention in Doubt

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25.—Division Administrator Sol A. Rosenblatt was undecided here today whether or not he would be able to attend the M.P.-T.O.A. Convention in New Orleans where he is scheduled to speak. If he speaks, it will be on Thursday.

It was explained that there are a number of matters claiming Rosenblatt's immediate attention here and if these are cleared up he will be free to take the southern trip.

Kent Won't Attend Meet

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 25.—Sidney R. Kent will not be at the M. P. T. O. A. Convention, not being able to tear himself away from Florida.

but were met only by a laugh from J. R. Grainger, general sales manager, who said: "A lot of applesauce. I am in daily touch with Carl Laemmle and certainly I would know about it."

Grainger returns to New York from here and goes on to Hollywood in about two weeks on next year's program.

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 25.—"If rumors can be believed Universal has been 'sold' not less than once a week for more than a quarter of a century past," Carl Laemmle remarked today in denying new reports of an impending sale of the company.

"I have been asked why I do not deny every fake rumor which is circulated by irresponsibles regarding Universal," Laemmle said. "The truth is that I haven't the time. If I took time to deny every one of the thousands of rumors I would not have an hour left for picture making and picture selling."

Laemmle returned to the studio today after being kept away four weeks by an eye ailment.

rumors concerning my planning or my forming an independent company with financial backing by John Hertz and using Paramount stars. I know, as well as everybody else, that Hertz has been nominated for the new Paramount board of directors and, naturally, he will be interested in protecting the company's assets. As for myself, I have no future plans and will make none until I have had a vacation."

Reade Takes in N. O.

Walter Reade, who left last week for a short vacation in Miami, is taking in the New Orleans convention. He plans to return the end of the week.

Halsey Raines of the M-G-M publicity department is vacationing in New Orleans and plans to drop in at the Roosevelt Hotel to see what an exhibitor convention is like.

Al Lichtman, vice-president and general sales manager of U. A., did not leave for the M.P.T.O.A. meet Saturday night as originally planned. Joseph M. Schenck returned from the coast Saturday and the two have been in conference since then on company matters.

will go forward depends on Hazard's conclusions.

Rolsky said the fact Campi is reported ready to adopt a clearance schedule for Kansas City will not deter the I. T. O. legal maneuvers, because, he said, the schedule in its present form would not be acceptable to the independents.

It is complained, primarily, that Fox Midwest is given prior right to product and that the circuit has set clearances for Kansas City detrimental to other suburbans which they are forced to accept. The independents are also wrought up over a statement E. C. Rhoden, the circuit's operating head, is said to have made at an I. T. O. meeting, to the effect he could lower prices at his theatres and still be able to obtain protection over unaffiliated houses charging a higher admission. The independents fear that is just what Fox Midwest may do, and the legal moves are designed to prevent it.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25.—Investigation of pending negotiations for the purchase of Fox Metropolitan in New York by Joseph M. Schenck today was characterized at the Department of Justice as one of the routine studies which are made of every important acquisition of industrial units.

Washington officials of the department said that there was nothing known about the matter here, as it was under the jurisdiction of the field office, each of which keeps a close eye upon industrial operations in its area.

ITPA of Wisconsin Seeks Federal Help

MILWAUKEE, Feb. 25.—Directors of the Independent Theatres' Protective Ass'n. of Wisconsin and Upper Michigan have voted to petition the Department of Justice to continue the investigation made in the summer of 1931 by independent theatres of the state who were seeking relief from competition of producer affiliated circuits through the Wisconsin Department of Agriculture and Markets.

The action started by the State Department at that time was enjoined in U. S. District Court and the association is seeking to have the Federal Department take up the investigation where the state was forced to stop.

Bill Drafted To Cut Fines On Copyright

modernization of the copyright laws and the entry of this country into the international convention. The latter was sought by President Hoover in 1931 and last year by President Roosevelt, but the Senate failed to ratify the treaty.

The present copyright law was enacted in March, 1909. It was amended to protect motion pictures in August, 1912, and additional amendments were adopted in 1913, 1914, 1919, 1926 and 1928. The proposed measure was drafted by an interdepartmental committee on which the State and Commerce Departments and the Library of Congress were represented, and is designed to include "absolutely necessary reforms" but to leave substantially unaltered the general structure of the copyright legislation.

While the new draft makes an effort to cover the motion picture situation, it is believed to contain a number of provisions unsatisfactory to either producers or exhibitors, or both, which will possibly lead to changes before the bill is reported to the Senate for consideration.

Analysis of the department's bill shows the following changes to be made in the present law:

Amendments Proposed

Section 1 is amended to give the copyright owner the exclusive right to make a motion picture photoplay, with or without sound, from a literary work and to perform it, and also provides for radio broadcasting. Section 4 provides that copyright may be secured for all the works of an author, "whatever the mode or form of their expression."

Section 5 would add to the classes for which copyright may be claimed works prepared expressly for radio broadcasting. Section 8 provides that copyright shall extend without formality to the works of foreigners only in the case of countries which are parties to the international convention, and that in the case of citizens of other countries the present reciprocal requirements shall be met.

Section 11, relating to the copyrighting of unpublished works, is broadened to cover works prepared expressly for radio broadcasting.

Section 23 provides for a copyright term of 56 years, with no extension, in lieu of the present term of 28 years with renewal for a like period. The new period would automatically apply to works registered prior to the date the new act becomes effective.

The penalty provisions for infringement in Section 25 are amended to give the owner of the copyright the right to secure an injunction to restrain infringement; to collect such damages as he may have suffered through infringement, as well as all or such part of the profits which the infringer shall have made as the court may decree, or to collect, in lieu of actual damages and profits, such statutory damages as the court may hold just.

In proving profits in infringement cases the plaintiff is to be required to prove only sales, rentals, license fees or other revenue derived from any disposition of an infringing work, and the defendant shall be required to prove every element of cost which he claims.

It is also provided that in the setting of statutory damages, the limits for unauthorized motion picture exhibitions shall not be less than $100 nor more than $10,000 for all infringements of a copyright by any one infringer up to the date of suit.

The plaintiff is required to show that at the time of alleged infringement the work had either been registered or that notice of copyright had been affixed thereto, before he is entitled to any remedy other than an injunction or the fair and reasonable value of a license, in a sum not more than $2,500 as determined by the court.

If the defendant proves that he has been subjected to fraud or substantial imposition by any third person and had acted in good faith, the plaintiff may only recover for all infringements to the date of institution of suit, an amount equivalent to the fair and reasonable value of a license, but not less than $50 nor more than $2,500.

Section 41, differentiating between the transfer of copyright and the transfer of the material object copyrighted, is expanded to provide that independently of the copyright, and even after its assignment, the author retains the right to claim authorship as well as the right to object to every deformation, mutilation or other modification of the work which may be prejudicial to his honor or reputation, but this is not to limit full freedom of contract between the author or owner of a work and an assignee or licensee thereof.

A new section authorizes the President to take steps necessary to make the United States a member of the Union for the Protection of Literary and Artistic Works.

With the exception of this section, which would become effective upon passage of the bill, the measure would go into effect July 1, next.

mated from $6,000 to $7,000 weekly to the distributor.

Louis K. Sidney has been shuttling back and forth between the Windy City and here on a site hunting job and the project has now advanced to the point where sites are lined up and blueprints have been prepared by Architect Thomas Lamb, who has prepared plans for many Loew theatres throughout the country.

Sidney plans to leave for Chicago in a day or so. Joe Vogel of Loew's would not comment on the report, but it is understood that a number of the company's representatives are now in the Windy City negotiating for the sites and also a few theatres.

CHICAGO, Feb. 25.—Five representatives of Loew's theatre department are here investigating, according to reports, sites for Loew houses.

A canvass of prominent local architects reveals that the construction move is known in these offices, but none will admit outright he is in on any of the plans.

Another report has it that, if and when the houses are built, they will be managed by Jones, Linick & Schaefer, but at the offices of the circuit no comment would be made.

It is known that the late Marcus Loew had a gentleman's agreement never to compete with J., L. & S., which, it is pointed out, would make the Chicago circuit the logical partner in any Loew invasion here.

The exhibitors who would be affected are not sure the move is serious, but take this attitude: "Let them build if they want to; there is nothing we can do to stop them. But it's a pretty situation if distributors are going to set up competition every time they can't get what they want."

The sites for the proposed houses must be carefully chosen since B. & K. has an M-G-M agreement running several years which precludes Loew competition.

FWC to Protest on Los Angeles Zoning

Although Campi has approved the Los Angeles schedule in toto, Fox West Coast is planning to protest a number of its provisions as unworkable, MOTION PICTURE DAILY learns. Unless certain modifications are made, F.W.C. will ask Code Authority to delay putting the plan into effect on March 31, the date set last week by Campi. According to Code Authority's plan, the schedule is to be put on a test basis for 60 days, but F.W.C. contends this may prove disastrous to the circuit.

Charles Buckley, attorney, and Mike Rosenberg, a partner of F.W.C., are in New York discussing the schedule and it is believed they will request a hearing before Campi on Thursday to put before the body its stand on the issues involved. Edward Alperson, who returned from a survey of the coast houses late last week, may attend the meet.

The circuit's contention is that Los Angeles and southern California are two of the most important and competitive situations in the country and that distances mean nothing because there are two cars for every person in Los Angeles. The territory abounds in overlapping areas and the problem is a serious one with F.W.C.

Executives of the circuit believe it a mistake to test out the first schedule in such an important territory. They hold that a smaller area where the competitive situation is not so ticklish should be the first spot for giving a schedule a tryout.

cedure was put over for another session when a discussion of forcing of shorts on exhibitors developed into an all-afternoon affair.

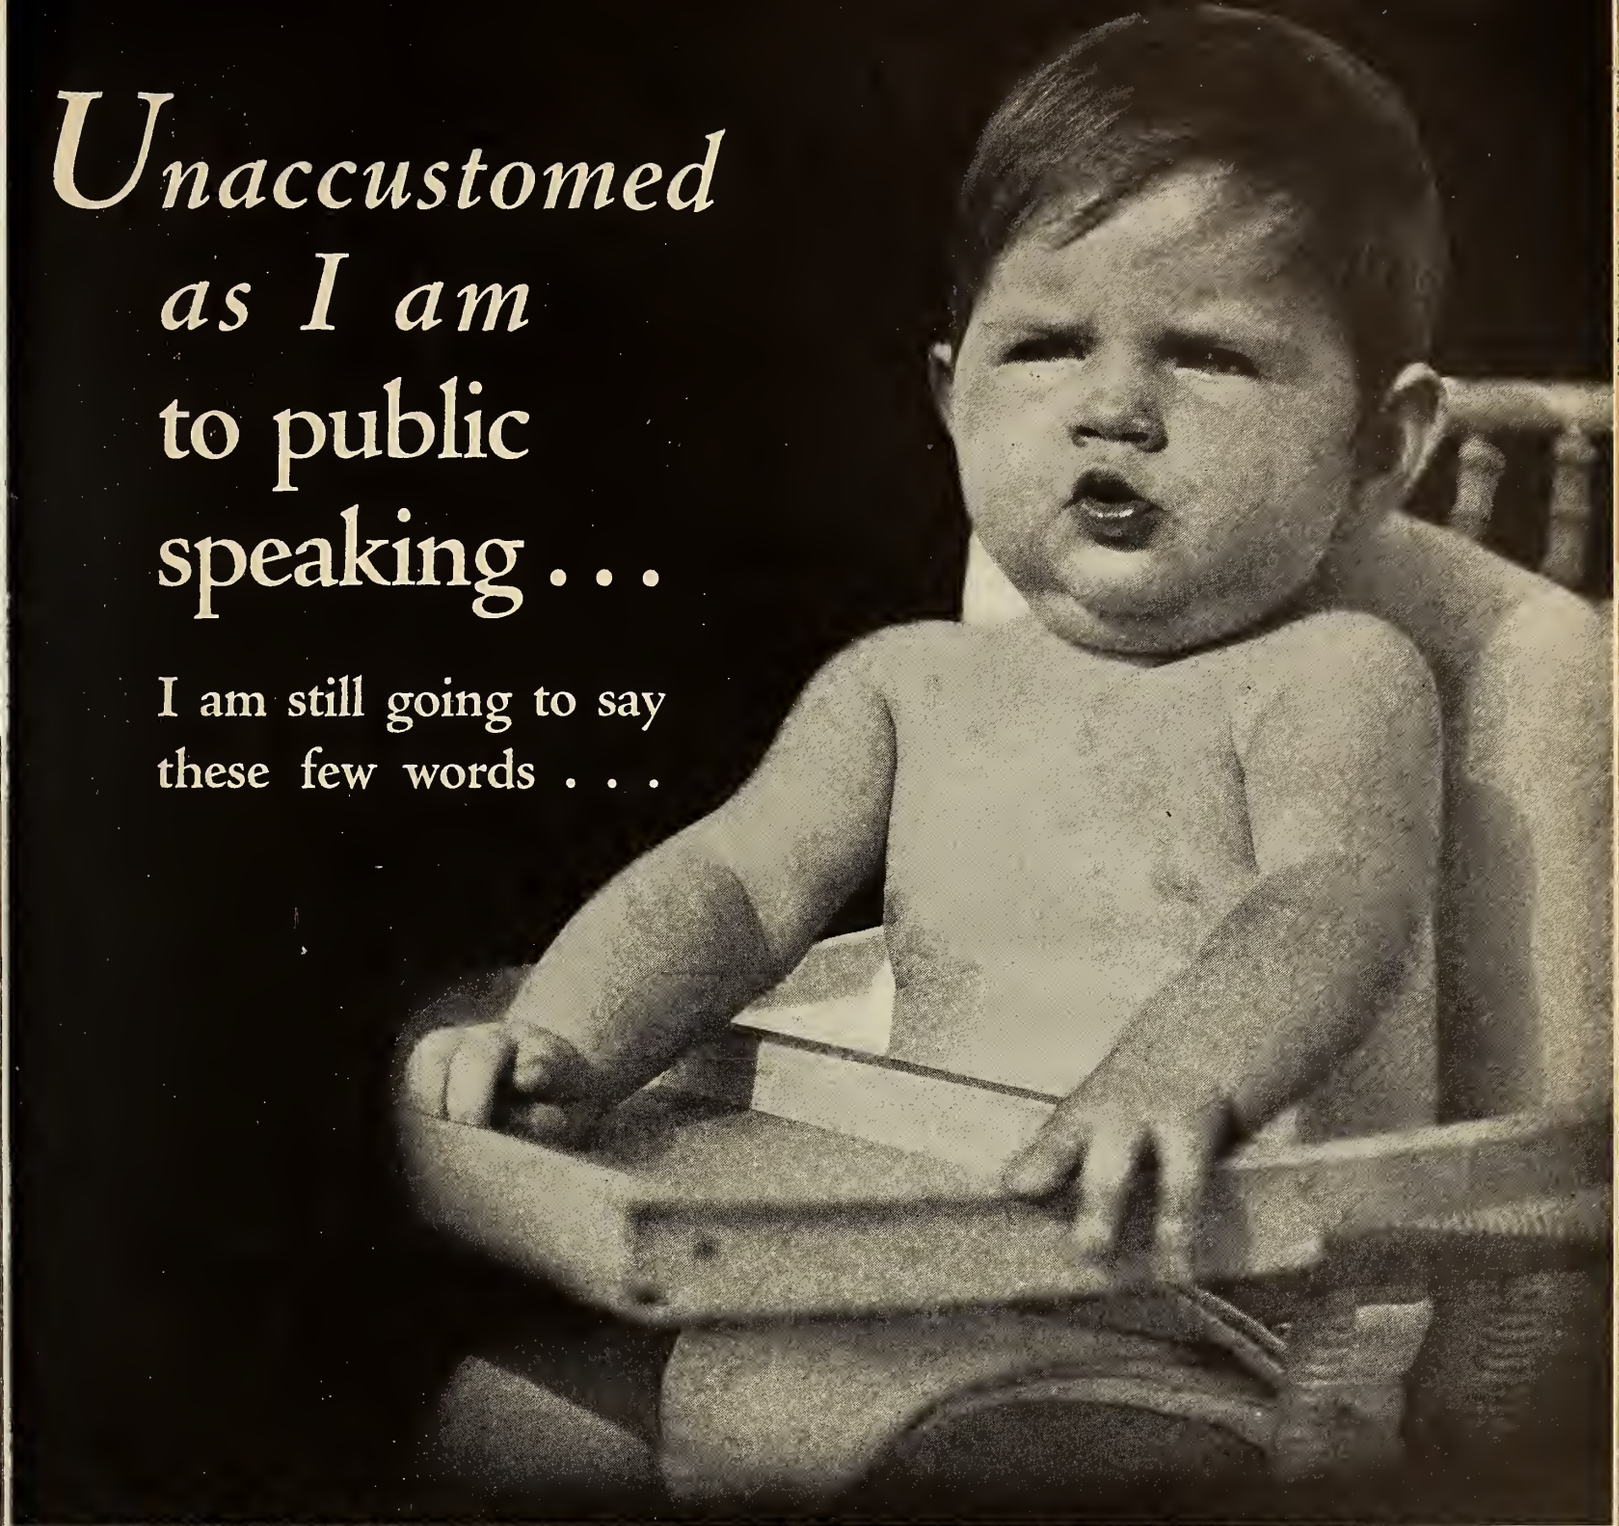
The next break followed when the T.O.C.C. refused an invitation sent out by former Senator Henry J. Walters to have a representative on hand at a meeting held Feb. 15 to discuss three pending bills in Albany. Charles L. O'Reilly forgot there was a meeting and the I.T.O.A. decided it was best to keep away.

As a result, the independents are marshalling their own forces and plan to act on legislative matters by themselves. O'Reilly and Brandt left last night for the Albany hearing this afternoon before the Senate committee on public education.

The McCall Bill is on tap and provides for the following:

1. To maintain a standard of morality and decency in the production of motion pictures.
2. To cooperate with civic and religious organizations in the prohibiting of exhibition of pictures that offend morality and decency.
3. To prescribe forms of contract between exhibitors and distributors.
4. To approve a synopsis of the story contained in each film to be exhibited which synopsis shall be furnished by the distributor to the exhibitor at the time the exhibitor enters into a contract with the distributor.
5. To classify films into three groups: (a) suitable for adults, (b) suitable for family trade, (c) suitable for juveniles.

Would Need Special License



Distributors would be required to get a special license, the fee being set at $5,000 a year. Exhibitors would be required to pay a fee of $1,000.

The breach between the independents and majors is expected to be extended to negotiations on the basic operators' scale. The unaffiliated men are planning to pull out of the NRA fact-finding committee and negotiate their own contracts with the I.A.T.S.E., leaving Loew's and RKO to shift for themselves.

The two major circuits have been members of the T.O.C.C. a number of years, but recently stopped paying dues. The move is said to have been taken because of O'Reilly's insistent stand in favor of independents at Campi sessions. The circuits were carried on the books for a time in the hope that they would be reconciled. With Loew's and RKO out, the independent outfit is willing to go along as it has been.

That the fact-finding committee is a thing of the past is seen in the conferences Louis Krouse, president of the I.A.T.S.E., has had with Brandt within the last few days. O'Reilly is understood to have had several conferences with George Browne, president of the international, on a pact for members he represents.

Efforts to merge the two independent exhibitor units are near the point of consummation. A minority group of the I.T.O.A. is reported ready to force Brandt out, but the majority wing is heavily in favor of his continuing at the helm.

Holiday Is a Help; 'Lily' Draws $28,000

Washington's Birthday helped theatre grosses along the main stem last week. On the second week of "The Gilded Lily" the Paramount garnered $28,000. For the current week, with "Rumba" on the screen and Margo, who appears in the film, on the stage, the intake is expected to hit $40,000.

"Devil Dogs of the Air" fared nicely during its second stanza at the Strand, tallying $22,000 for the week. "A Notorious Gentleman," at the Mayfair, hit around $8,000, while "Little Men," at the Astor, garnered about $6,000. "Carnival," at the Rialto, got $12,000, and this week's tally on "Car 99" looks to be headed for the same figure. The Rivoli, with "Right to Live," corralled $15,000, which is not good.

"Night Life of the Gods" is aiming for $35,000 or better at the Roxy, where the week-end gross was $25,000.

Sachs-Nelson Case Heard on an Appeal

Max Sachs, operator of the Lexington, Chicago, appeared before a Campi appeal committee yesterday complaining against Charles Nelson of the Lawndale, same city. Sachs stated that Nelson is getting a week's protection on the Lexington while the Lexington does not ask for protection on its competitor.

Nelson submitted his answer by letter. The committee consisted of F. Thomas Murray, Willard C. McKay and E. L. McEvoy.

Golden's Father Passes

Edward Golden is mourning the loss of his father, Abraham, who passed away in Boston last Friday at the age of 73. Burial was held Sunday at Malden, Mass. Golden was planning to attend the M.P.T.O.A. convention in New Orleans after he completed his trip to Philadelphia, Cleveland and Chicago, but has called off the southern trip.

Jack Jossey, Monogram franchise holder in Cleveland, is in town for a week's conference with W. Ray Johnston.

A. K. Sperdakos Buried

MONTREAL, Feb. 25.—Funeral services have been held here for Athanasis K. Sperdakos, pioneer Canadian exhibitor, who died last week from a heart attack at Quebec City.

Sperdakos first entered the film business here in 1908 when he opened the Fairyland Theatre. He also helped organize the Canadian division of the M.P.T.O.A.

James Coombs Services

Funeral services were held yesterday for James P. Coombs, former grand opera basso and stage and radio singer, who died last Friday at his home in Great Kills, S. I. He was 65 years old.

For the past few years Coombs has been a member of S. L. Rothafel's (Roxy) Gang.

Tubman Loses Mother

OTTAWA, Feb. 25.—Funeral services will be held here for Mrs. W. J. Tubman who died here over the week-end. She is the mother of Fay Tubman, manager of the Capitol theatre.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Laddie"

(Radio)

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 25.—Were Gene Stratton Porter alive today she would thrill to Radio's picturization of the famous novel in which her characters are recreated. Being a simple tale penetrating the sympathetic emotions, "Laddie" is wholesome, Grade A entertainment which should send box-office grosses zooming. The direction, performances and photography blend into a harmonizing whole, achieving the utmost in production responsiveness.

The story deals with simple country folk centralizing on the romance between Laddie, portrayed by John Beal, and Gloria Stuart. The lad is a heartwarming son of the soil and the girl is a tender lass of aristocratic English lineage. The dramatic conflict features the social clash of the two families and the harsh opposition of Miss Stuart's father (Donald Crisp) to her marriage with Beal. Playing a featured role in the lives of the two families is Virginia Weidler, the little sister, whose innocent, childish contrivings finally weld a bond of understanding between Miss Stuart's family and her own, and also resulting in Crisp's forgiving his disowned son (William Bakewell) involved in espionage trouble in England.

The picture uncovers little Miss Weidler as one of the finest child performers on the screen. The portrayals of Beal, Miss Stuart, Crisp, Dorothy Peterson and Willard Robertson are human and of the highest calibre. George Steven's direction is splendid from every angle. Ray Harris' and Dorothy Yost's screenplay is a finished piece, retaining all the Porter flavor. Harold Wenstrom's photography is superb.

Being mass entertainment, this should gross plenty in all spots. No Production Seal. Running time, 70 minutes. "G".

Sale of "Ziegfeld" Is Confirmed by "U"

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 25.—Universal has formally confirmed reports of the sale of "The Great Ziegfeld" to M-G-M. It was explained that disagreements over policy on the production and the cost, which was estimated at $1,250,000, plus the fact that three postponements had been necessary, had caused the sale. The postponements were due to the fact that M-G-M could not arrange for release of William Powell, who will be loaned to Universal for another film.

M-G-M agrees to take over William Anthony McGuire's staff, to pay for Universal's expenditures to date and to take care of the company's exhibitor contracts.

Fox Exchange Has Fire

A small fire broke out in the boiler room of the Fox exchange at 5 P. M. yesterday. Due to presence of mind of the telephone operator, who informed everyone in the two-story structure of the danger, no one was injured. Harry Buxbaum, sales manager, also aided in clearing the building of its employes and visiting exhibitors.

At 5.30 the firemen quit the building and employes were discharged for the day. The damage was slight.

Bernhard Denies Loss

A report published in New York Sunday newspapers that the closing of the Roxy-Mastbaum, Philadelphia, was motivated by a 10-week operating loss of $200,000 to $250,000 was characterized yesterday by Joseph Bernhard, general manager of Warner Theatres, as "absolutely incorrect" and "absurdly out of line with the facts."

Mayer Gets Rialto Without Paramount

When Arthur Mayer reopens the remodeled Rialto, which closes some time in April for demolition and reconstruction, Paramount will not have an interest in the operation. This will mark the first time in 17 years that the company has not had a hand in the management of the theatre. Under the new plans the house will seat from 600 to 800.

Paramount has operated the Rialto since 1918 when the Gerry Estate bought the structure from Kuhn, Loeb & Co., and leased it to the company. Oscar Hammerstein originally built the theatre in 1899, when it was known as the Victoria. In 1915 Crawford Livingston and Felix Kahn of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., purchased the property and installed Samuel L. (Roxy) Rothafel as operator.

Roberti Operated On

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 25.—Lyda Roberti has been operated on for acute appendicitis. She is resting comfortably at the California Lutheran Hospital. Miss Roberti was taken ill about a week ago.

Mary Astor is at another local hospital receiving ice pack treatments, but may be forced to undergo an appendicitis operation.

PORTLAND, Feb. 25.—Joseph Rosenfield, who has been in Seattle, today was named city manager for Evergreen Theatres in Spokane, replacing H. D. McBride, resigned.

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 25.—Harry M. Warner arrived here today for a two-week stay.

Trustees of Allied Approve Para. Deal

Allied Owners' trustees yesterday approved the deal by which Si Fabian will take over the Brooklyn Paramount Bldg., exclusive of the theatre, for a reported consideration of $1,500,000. The transaction removes objections of Allied to the form of settlement of its $5,000,000 claim against Paramount in the latter's reorganization plan by saving Allied a $500,000 Federal tax.

The settlement of Allied's claim against Paramount provides in part for a new 20-year lease on the Brooklyn Paramount between the two. Fabian is now operating the house under an arrangement with Paramount which terminates Sept. 1, at which time the temporary lease on the theatre which Paramount holds also expires and the new 20-year lease becomes effective. Fabian may negotiate a new operating agreement on the theatre with Paramount at that time.

Discuss Settlement Of Suit in Chicago

CHICAGO, Feb. 25.—Discussions of a settlement of the anti-trust suit brought here by Jack Rubin of Public Theatres and James Roden, owner of the Astor, against virtually all large distributors, are continuing with both sides having expressed a willingness to settle.

An agreement on terms, however, is not expected at once and may result in further postponement of the scheduled hearing before Federal Judge Woodward, Wednesday, unless the settlement discussions are abandoned by then.

"Spring" Hits $18,500 High, Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 25.—"One More Spring," with $18,500 for seven days at the Fox, did the best business here last week, though it couldn't negotiate the anticipated second week.

One of the best comparative figures was the $9,500 scored by "The Scarlet Pimpernel" in its second week at the Aldine. The Earle topped the mark with $14,500 for "Winning Ticket" and its stage show, while "Devil Dogs of the Air" got a good $14,000 for eight days at the Stanley.

Total first run business was $103,000. Average is $106,700.

Estimated takings for the week ending Feb. 21:

"THE SCARLET PIMPERNEL" (U. A.)

Tupilan in Boston Job

BOSTON, Feb. 25.—Here from New York, Ira Tupilan has been installed as manager of the Majestic. Vincent Grater is assistant. The downtown house has been opened for foreign product by Levrad, Inc. The Majestic, recently bombed, is now a union house.

Baily Back on Coast

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 25.—Tom Baily, head of the Paramount publicity department, has returned to the studio after a trip in which he visited 15 key cities west of the Mississippi. He was away for two weeks.

Fox Signs June Knight

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 25.—June Knight has been definitely set by Fox for the lead in "Red Heads on Parade." She will have her hair dyed red for the role opposite John Boles.

"Copperfield" Holds Up for 2d Loop Week

CHICAGO, Feb. 25.—Taking $20,000 for its second week at the United Artists, "David Copperfield" was the best straight film draw on the Loop. This is $3,000 over normal for a first week.

Business was generally good. "Wings in the Dark" was up by $12,400 on a $47,000 gross at the Chicago. Earl Carroll's "Vanities" on the stage helped. "Charlie Chan in Paris" was strong at the Oriental with a gross of $17,000. "Devil Dogs of the Air" had a good second week at the Roosevelt with $12,000

Total first run business was $143,500. Average is $127,600.

New Censoring Bill Attacked At a Hearing

Industry's Leaders and Others Join Forces

ALBANY, Feb. 26.—A censorship bill imposing license fees and revised censorship was assailed today at a public hearing. A message to the committee on education written by the National Council on Freedom from Censorship, a unit of the American Civil Liberties Union, termed the bill "an outrageous piece of legislation." Speaking for this national organization of writers, editors, publishers and critics the council said: "We urge the committee to report the bill unfavorably. The bill would give us censorship in its most aggravated form."

The measure provides for annual license fees on exhibitors and distributors, for advertising matter and

Local Independents Releasing 100 Films

Approximately 100 features are released this season by independent exchanges in this territory, it was computed yesterday by the local grievance board during the hearing of Leon Rosenblatt's complaint against Skouras Theatres, charging "unfair methods in obtaining film."

It was also stated that the numbers announced by the various exchanges average about 150, but every company fails to deliver the quotas promised.

Marcus to Seek New Extra Listing Plan

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 26.—Eugene Marcus, counsel for local actors, is now en route to Washington for conferences with Compliance Director Sol A. Rosenblatt on behalf of the extras. It is believed he will demand a new plan for determining eligibility to the proposed re-registration list that has eliminated more than 5,000 extras.

Problems of Operation Up To Sessions

By GEORGE SCHUTZ
Editor of Better Theatres

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 26.—The attention given the physical phases of theatre operation is probably the most distinguished features of the 1935 M. P. T. O. A. convention, principally because the theatre has been previously overwhelmed by those less tangible things called issues. The presence of the code among the current deliberations, the theatre, its appearance, its efficiency as a mechanism, has been at last remembered and is down on the schedule as important business.

The necessity of widespread remodelling, partly to overcome obsolescence and of a return to normal maintenance of theatres accounts for the notable position of the physical theatre at the convention agenda.

The morning meeting on Wednesday is entirely given over to the theatre building and its mechanical facilities and no previous M. P. T. O. A. convention has gone so far in acknowledging the essential participation of the engineer in the business of selling motion picture entertainment.

Praises Hays

New Orleans, Feb. 26.—In his annual report Ed Kuykendall came to the defense of Will H. Hays.

"At the risk of hearing the old worn out cry of subsidy," he said, "I want to pay my respects to Will H. Hays. There are a few exhibitors and others in this industry who think any exhibitor who is on speaking terms with the Hays office is damned.

"It has been my pleasure to meet with Hays on many occasions about problems confronting the entire industry. I have yet to find a single occasion wherein he has assumed anything but a fair attitude. His word is law; you can depend on that.

"Of course, I may have been out of accord with him on a few occasions, but I find him ready to go along with us on things that pertain to the best interests of the industry."

Big Booking Merger Stirs British Move

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 26.—Warning his hearers that the convention would be no "petting party" and that criticism would be welcomed, Ed Kuykendall, in his annual report as president, dove vigorously into a discussion of industry problems.

Ed Kuykendall

"Let's try to find ways and means of getting them to the box-office," he admonished; "it cannot be done by merely cussing the other fellow."

Without mentioning Allied by name, Kuykendall made a bitter attack on those in the industry who "are continually encouraging those at Washington to attack us." He made a plea for WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—General revision of the State Department's copyright measure is being worked out in the light of the conferences held last week with representatives of the film and other interested industries.

Aid from Outside Industry Is Reported by Wehrenberg

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 26.—That films have been found by community leaders to be "not in general filthy and vile and an offense to the community," was the statement made in the report of the committee on public relations and community affairs of the M. P. T. O. A., presented to the convention today by Fred Wehrenberg, chairman of the group. The report added:

"The community leaders who were familiar, through long close association, with the exhibitors' problems and with something of industry problems in general were inclined to be sympathetic, to defend us and to refuse to view the motion picture landscape with pessimism. Many of these groups had made actual surveys of product.

LOUIS PHILLIPS of Paramount is conferencing in St. Louis.

EDWARD H. PEPLE has sold his play, "The Littlest Rebel," to M-G-M.

MYRON SATTLER of Paramount has had a molar yanked. The rain yesterday didn't help any.

WILLARD McKAY returned from a week-end Miami vacation. He has a tan to show for his trek.

WILLIAM M. L. FISKE, 3rd, and REGINALD BAKER of A.T.P., London, leave for the coast Thursday for a two-week visit.

JOHN S. TAPERNOUX will be host at a private screening of a new French film, "Itto," on board the Ile de France tomorrow night.

PHILIP WYLIE and KATHRYN SCOLA have been signed by Paramount to work on the screenplay of "Guns," an original by E. E. PARAMORE, JR.

GEORGE SKOURAS is planning to vacation in Miami shortly, but not before he bests LOUIS WEBER, circuit attorney, in a game of handball. So far no luck.

wave of circuit buying was imminent when it was revealed that G. B. had acquired a large holding in Union Cinema Co., Ltd., and that Arthur Jarratt, booking head for G. B., had joined the board to do the booking. It was also reported that 30 new houses were planned. The same company was also said to have bought an interest in Hyams' eight H. & G. houses with Jarratt also placed on the board of this circuit to do the booking. In addition, reports had it that this circuit and Gaumont and H. & G. will jointly build the 4,700-seat Kilburn at a cost of £350,000.

It now seems, however, that the recent Gaumont theatre acquisitions are booking arrangements with little or no financial investment as the company is understood to have no money for investments available, but rather very large floating debts which would prevent any policy of expansion where investment capital is necessary.

Gaumont British production is practically at a standstill at present and it appears that Jarratt has the burden of attempting to make extra profits on theatres to balance production outlay. Obviously this can only be done by reducing film hire and for that purpose an attempt seems to be under way to get tremendous booking strength, without investing money, to force down rentals.

Gaumont British believes, it is generally understood, that this move will ultimately result in the acquisition of so much booking strength that certain American companies can be forced to hand over their distribution on the grounds that tremendous sums can be saved.

the conflicting views on the legislation have been largely reconciled.

Rather tough sledding for the measure is seen in the House of Representatives where Congressman William I. Sirovich of New York, chairman of the Patents Committee, today said he would want to "know more about it" before his group approved the legislation. Representative Sirovich was not among those with whom department officials conferred prior to submitting their original bill to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, apparently preferring to work in the upper House first because approval of the Senate is necessary for adherence of the United States to the International Convention.

joint legislative committee of both of the Tennessee houses on finance, ways and means, publicly announced: "We are putting under consideration a series of special taxes on chain stores, bank checks, soft drinks, cosmetics and the amusement public."

The hearings are due to start on Thursday morning and continue through Friday. The sub-committee delegated to investigate the new revenues is composed of Senator Davies of Nashville, chairman; Speaker Haynes, Senator Mosby of Somerville and Representatives Brown, Candler, Gilbert and Pope.

With many exhibitor leaders away at the convention and the need for immediate action here to avert the added tax burden, it is apparently imperative that much concern will be evident in show circles generally.

instances out of town, the deals hinging on contracts also made for the current season's output.

Where exhibitors find they need product, but not all of the company's releases, arrangements are made whereby films released earlier in the season are omitted, but include all of 1935-36 releases. The new contracts are signed without titles, stars or other identifications, but call for 65 pictures. This has already happened in a number of upstate situations.

Seek New Maryland Fees

BALTIMORE, Feb. 26.—Senator John G. Callan has introduced a bill in the Senate at Annapolis calling for the doubling of the present license fees for theatres. The new bill would also add an additional tax to circuits. All houses charging more than five cents admission will be affected by the new bill.

Balcon Delays Trip

Michael Balcon has postponed his trip to the coast until the early part of next week. Arthur Lee, who will accompany him, has to clear up certain business matters pending until he can get away. The duo were to leave tomorrow.

Jack Warner to Coast

Jack Warner, vice-president in charge of production for Warners, is en route to the coast by boat. He will arrive there on March 11. Albert Warner is in Miami vacationing, while Harry M. Warner has reached Hollywood.

At the present time, it is learned, three propositions have been made, the first having been an offer extended by a group headed by John Hay Whitney. It is understood that this represents the largest cash offer thus far advanced. David Selznick is associated with Whitney in the deal.

The second is one presently headed by Albert M. Greenfield of Philadelphia, with whom B. P. Schulberg is associated. The appearance of Greenfield in this negotiation lends credence to reports that William Fox is interested in the Universal deal because on many occasions and for many years Fox and Greenfield have been on intimate terms and have participated jointly in many deals.

The identity of the third group said to be interested in the purchase is not known at this time, however.

'OFFICE HOURS' BIG $28,000 IN WASH.

Washington, Feb. 19.

Phrase film fare really meant something last week to 2,000 patrons of downtown house who rolled out with the milkman to enjov 'coffee, donuts, toast and Gable.' Government typewriter-pounders, charwomen, wuxtry boys, and school kids showed up at 6 a.m. in dreary rain to see the Capital's first before-breakfast show. Ironically, film was 'After Office Hours.' But even government hours aren't that long.

Before feature went on, 100 gallons of coffee, 1,600 sinkers, 5,000 slabs of toast, and 15 gallons of cream had disappeared.

Everybody doing oke this week, with three Loew spots pulling in the shekels hand over fist. Top grosser is 'After Office Hours' at the Fox despite the fact that Everett Marshall had to cancel his stage appearance at the last minute because of laryingitis. 'David Copperfield' at the Palace will bust all records on its second week.

Fox turned the town upside down with a preview of 'After Office Hours,' preceded by coffee, doughnuts and toast, at 7:30 a. m. the day before opening. Stunt, ballyed as 'before office hours,' drew 2,300 customers and sent 'em all out as walking ads on the pic.

Estimates for This Week

Fox (Loew) (3,434; 25-35-60)—'After Office Hours' (MG) and vaude. Everett Marshall replaced at last minute on stage by Lita Grey Chaplin, which hurt. Sock campaign on pic, though is sending gross toward a beautiful $28,000.

Palace (Loew) (2,363; 25-35-60)—'David Copperfield' (MG). Busting high for repeat week with a probable $18,000. Last week same pic won a big $23,000.

Convention Settles Down to Business

Criticize, Is Kuykendall's Keynote Talk

a new deal on copyright fees; discussed block booking; came out for at least a 20 per cent cancellation privilege; made a plea for "fair clearance and zoning"; took up the problem of family nights; hit at fan magazines and their attitude toward the industry, and analyzed code problems.

"Taxes, legislation, unfair and discriminatory regulation are perhaps the biggest menace we have as an industry," he declared. "Those of you who have not been watching the activities of the various city, state and national law making bodies cannot in your wildest imagination appreciate what we are up against. Nearly every state has one or more bills aimed at our industry; many cities are contemplating additional levies upon us, and there are a large number of bills detrimental to us either already in committee or being held in abeyance by their sponsors at Washington. We must unite against the common enemy."

Turning to the need of organization activity, Kuykendall said: "There is no other industry that I can recall that has so completely muffed opportunities to efficiently defend itself by coordinated, cooperative effort—all working for the common good. And the one thing that disturbs me most is the attitude of those who live among us, derive a livelihood out of the industry, depend on it to protect their investments, yet are continually working with and aiding outsiders who dislike us for professional reasons and attack us at every possible excuse.

Invite Attack, He Says

"We have organizations in this industry that do this. They are continually encouraging those at Washington to attack us; they continue to aid and abet those professional reformers who for years have used the popularity of the motion picture as the one method of attack to get notoriety. They are today working in Washington to bring attacks upon us by members of Congress. They depend on their future by keeping dissension, hatred, and misunderstanding prevalent among us that they may be able to continue their demands upon misinformed theatre owners for funds to pay lawyers who are notoriously known for misinformation and have no actual interest in theatres. These lawyers are at this moment aiding and abetting in the drawing of various and sundry bills in Washington to beget government interference with our business. They are advising with well meaning, but misguided club leaders, men and women, trying to use their influence against us; they are deliberately misrepresenting the actual theatre owners they can speak for. Their so-called organization is pitifully small in actual theatre owner membership; yet they say they represent a large number of independent theatre owners.

"How this word independent has been abused! A theatre owner is not and cannot be independent of the producer, nor can the producer be independent of the theatre owner; we need each other. On both sides there have been violators of every rule of fair business and reason."

Kuykendall sharply criticized non-theatrical competition. He said it was "partly the fault of theatre management, because the theatre as an average is not properly encouraging friendly relations between the various organizations, particularly the aggressive ones like the American Legion." He advised members to "use discretion" in attacking some forms of non-theatrical competition.

In turning to block booking, Kuykendall described it as a method of "wholesale selling" and expressed the opinion that selling of individual pictures "would be of no help whatsoever to the exhibitor who is now complaining because of inability to get product, because the distributor would continue to sell the preferred customer, just as he now does.

"All of us who are informed also know that the pictures are now being sold on selective contracts in spots determined by buying power of the exhibitor, in many instances in groups of 10, 15 or 20. This is not through choice of the distributor, but through the strength of the exhibitor."

In expressing his views on cancellations Kuykendall said: "There are many who disagree with me on this, I know, but I am giving you my frank opinion, based on close contact with thousands of exhibitors along the line; and I am convinced that the real answer is a reasonable cancellation privilege in contracts. About 20 per cent cancellation is the real answer. It would relieve many exhibitors and give them a chance to operate at a profit, where as it now stands they are bound to take a loss on many objectionable pictures; and I warn you to remember what is objectionable in one community, may be acceptable in another. The present 10 per cent cancellation clause such as we now have has proven a dud. It would have been helpful had the distributor played fair, but he used every subterfuge to evade it."

After reviewing the recent Ascap agitation and the efforts to ward off increased fees, Kuykendall asked: "What is there to prevent their demanding a percentage of your daily receipts? How far will the present copyright laws permit them to go in charging us for the use of their music? When the copyright laws were written by Congress we had a silent screen. It was not a complete monopoly; now it is.

"What we are interested in now is having the proper authorities give us the legal right to say how much per seat they can charge us, similar to the so-much-per-record the graphophone people have; also an amendment to the copyright laws which will protect innocent infringers against the arbitrary $250 per performance penalty. This

They had been encouraged by exhibitors to express their judgment about pictures, and they had been taken into the family. These cooperating community leaders knew that even at the so-called worst period in pictures at least 75 per cent of all product was entirely unobjectionable from anybody's standpoint, and that much of the criticism of the remaining 25 per cent was a matter of opinion.

"On the other hand, they knew by actual contact with the exhibitor that he was as anxious as they to eliminate types of mistakes in pictures that were definitely offensive to reasonable and moderate-minded people."

The report declared that the efforts of the industry to avoid offending against good taste had created "a product which we can all agree is worthy of every one's support," adding that "it has great appeal to many in the community who have not previously been regular theatre-goers." The exhibitor was advised not to sit back now that the popularity of pictures has improved and expect patrons to flock to his theatre of their own accord, but to "take definite steps to see that the full appreciation of the quality of our product reaches and is understood by all elements in the community."

"It is a very short-sighted exhibitor indeed who merely says, 'Well, I hope that all the criticism has died down and that things will just rock along,'" the report continued. "What happened, starting with the criticism and continuing on through the present wide-spread praise of motion pictures, is that more Americans began to talk and think about motion pictures than had ever done so before. People, starting without any understanding of pictures at all and with no original idea except criticism, became theatre-conscious. We do not just want these people to let us alone. We want to cement and crystallize their aroused interest in motion pictures. The same energy and enthusiasm which thousands of people have used throwing brickbats at motion pictures can be utilized in friendship for our business if we can get those ex-critics to attend the theatre regularly and become deeply acquainted with the splendid service the motion picture today is rendering in the field of entertainment."

"More than ever before in the history of the motion picture, theatre public relations and community relations are vital and indispensable today," according to the report, which asserted that "the plain truth is that some of the best of the new pictures make money in those spots where real community relations exist and fail to make money where they are simply run through the projector with no support except routine advertising."

Levy Says All Groups Should Work Together

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 26.—Regional associations must work together to achieve national progress, declared Edward G. Levy, acting secretary, reporting in behalf of Fred S. Meyer, who resigned some time ago.

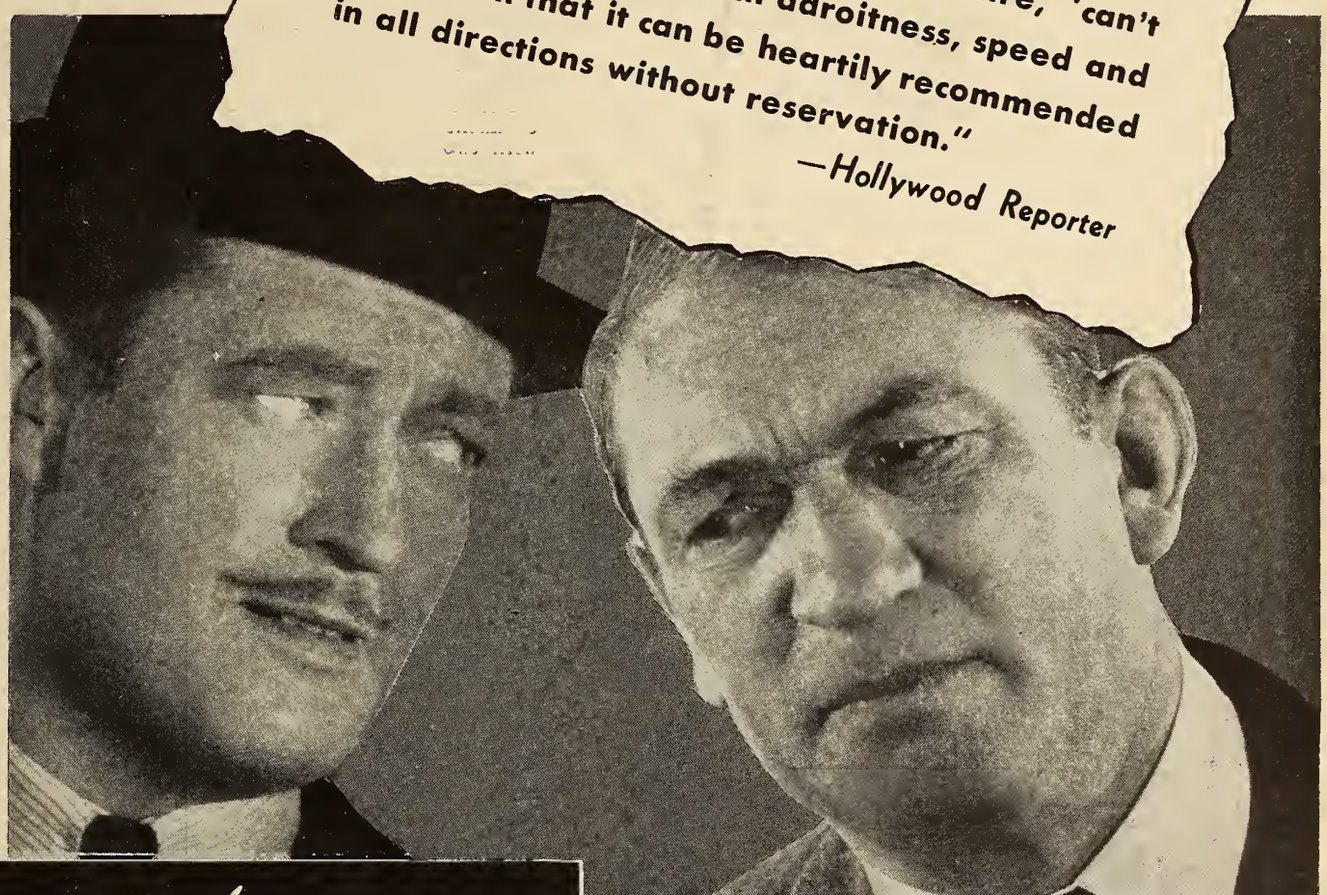
Edward G. Levy

"By all pulling in the same direction and by a reasonable willingness to work with others," he said, "genuine progress can be made toward curing the wrongs and abuses of the business, toward increasing attendance and toward erecting an impregnable defense against unjustified and malicious attacks on motion pictures by professional reformers and other outsiders who have no understanding of our problems.

"No organization can take the place of energetic and aggressive individual effort in the management of your theatre, in buying, booking and merchandising motion picture attractions. M.P.T.O.A. does not attempt to do those things for you. But M.P.T.O.A. has succeeded (where others have failed) in making substantial progress towards bringing about fair trade practices, fairer exhibition contracts, home rule for the determination of controversies by local boards and sensible self-control within the industry.

"We ask all of the honest, representative local associations to band together on national matters, with a representative of their own choosing as a qualified director of the M.P.T.O.A., particularly those with a willingness to work with others for the good of the exhibitor and of the motion picture industry. We believe that the reputable and responsible theatre owners, both large and small, throughout the country are entitled to such an association not dominated by self-seeking professional exhibitor organizers nor controlled by the chronically unsuccessful, irresponsible and unscrupulous exhibitors. There is much work to be done that can only be accomplished by the organized effort of really representative exhibitors."

Dinner for Kuykendall



NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 26.—Members of the council of the local Association of Commerce will give a luncheon Thursday for Ed Kuykendall, president of the M. P. T. O. A.; Julian Brylawski, vice-president of the organization; Fred Wehrenberg and Ed Levy, M. P. T. O. A. general counsel.

Leaves for Opening

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 26.—Jeanette McDonald leaves here tonight for New Orleans to attend the opening of "Naughty Marietta" there March 2.

"Top-notch direction—no, make it masterful—lifts this one easily and gracefully into the front rank of cash register clangers . . . every situation carrying a big label 'sure fire,' 'can't miss,' . . . done with such adroitness, speed and distinction that it can be heartily recommended in all directions without reservation."

should be a matter for the courts to decide and not arbitrarily set with no recourse in court.

"We are not particularly interested in dissolving Ascap as an organization, providing they can be controlled fairly. We are trying to with radio and the hotel owners' organization, not to cheat or take advantage, but merely to protect our future existence. There are many details concerning the copyright that you should know; get yourself acquainted with it."

Gives Clearance Views

Kuykendall outlined basic principles on clearance and zoning which, he said, the M.P.T.O.A. wants. They follow: "We believe in the following basic principles: proper and fair setting up of geographical zones, film rentals paid and admissions charged. We cannot possibly have clearance and zoning unless the admission price charged is considered. This has been one of the most controversial issues with which the Code Authority has had to treat. There is no such thing as a standard formula; each town and city is a problem unto itself. But if we are going to have any semblance of order in this business, we must all accept the theory of film rental paid and admission charged in working out clearance."

The M.P.T.O.A. still believes that premiums, giveaways, etc., are "harmful," Kuykendall declared. He also described duals as "destructive."

Family shows should not have a beautiful short with a sexy feature, and exhibitors should be careful in combining their features so that "condemnation" will not be brought down upon the industry by presenting the wrong attraction at a family show, he said.

He said he believed the code would continue to be "the law of the industry."

"It could be improved," he said, "and I think we should see to it that certain changes are made in it. Probably out of this convention will come a definite plan for the changes we should support as an organization."

Where the Sazeracs Flow

By RAMOS

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 26.—The gang out of New York tumbled out of its special train early yesterday morning largely peeved because the accommodations weren't more de luxe.

The commissary department of the Southern Railway would have done a sizable business Saturday night and thereafter if a club car had been attached. There was (1) little or no ice, (2) no food, (3) no White Rock, (4) no ginger ale until Sunday. The rest of the prerequisites—in perfect order.

Yeoman's service was contributed by HAL YOUNG, egged on without much egging necessary by HERMAN ROBBINS and SAM DEMBOW, JR. From some undetermined point between Manhattan Transfer and Wilmington, telephone calls were made. The results included White Rock and, later, ham and cheese sandwiches, plus coffee. JULES LEVY thought the service was pediculous; he wanted cocoa.

FELIX F. FEIST, whose decision to make the trek was last minute, brought his cold with him to make certain he wouldn't be lonesome. Someone said the real reason for his going was to see that "Roberta," which plays the Orpheum here during convention week, didn't run away with "Naughty Marietta."

LEVY, sales manager to the bitter end, needed no persuasion at all to go into "Smoke Gets In Your Eyes," hit number from "Roberta." JOHN D. CLARK, CHARLIE MCCARTHY, GEORGE WEEKS, FRED JACKS, REG WILSON, HARRY THOMAS, ROBBINS and DEMBOW went atmospheric and cluttered their own drawing room with smoke, in billows, all for the sake of putting JULES in the proper singing frame of mind. It turned so contagious later and that portion of the goings-on degenerated so completely to a point where it ended in a quartet: LEVY, basso; ROBBINS, mezzo soprano; DEMBOW, tenor, and RED KANN, plain lousy.

CLARK, incidentally, made the train with a bruise on his forehead and a cherub on his cranium. His story: "I was traveling home from Asbury Park Friday night when my man hit a bump in the road; I hit the top of the car and the results are what you see." MCCARTHY, solemnly and officially, confirmed the details. Earlier reports that CLARK had left New York for the south late last week chalked up one error against MOTION PICTURE DAILY reporting.

Premium

New Orleans, Feb. 26.—Unconfirmed report has it National Screen Service will give every account running a trailer on a Warner picture a suit.

Herman Robbins won't comment whether it's to be with two pairs of pants.

Latest social organization formulated at a Southern wayside point between Charlotte and Concord, N. C., was "The Non-Shavers' Club." Its only obligation was not to shave between New York on Saturday night and New Orleans this morning. Charter members included CLARK, FEIST, NIZER, LEVY, ROBBINS and DEMBOW. JOHN said he couldn't be bothered, he was that jubilant over the $19,000 garnered by "One More Spring" at the Music Hall on Washington's Birthday. Reasons for others to join were identical: To give their maps a 35-hour rest from Gillettes and straight razors.

BILL BENTON, only representative from Upper New York State, left Saratoga with a fresh foot of snow under foot. Added to the three that carried over from earlier storms, the total of four presaged anything but healthy grosses at his Congress Theatre.

Scandal note, heard along the line: That, while MOE SILVER may have been transferred to Albany as Warner theatre district manager there, MRS. MOE would not go along; ditto on MRS. SCHLANGER whose TED will now headquarter in Philadelphia for the same circuit. Not so with MRS. IKE HOFFMAN, however. Fact he's back in New Haven is a cinch. They have always maintained their home there, anyway.

Actual business:

EDDY to ALICOATE: "Any message for New York?"

ALICOATE to EDDY: "Just tell DON MERSEREAU to keep busy. That's the way I got my start."

Rosenblatt Leaves For MPTOA Session

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—Compliance Director Sol A. Rosenblatt tonight left for New Orleans, scheduled to arrive there Thursday morning in time to deliver an address before the M. P. T. O. A. convention.

Wilkinson to Visit L. A.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 26.—Lupton Wilkinson of the advertising advisory council of the Hays office, who is here, leaves for Los Angeles on Wednesday night following his address on "How to Sell the Finer Pictures" at a business session of the M. P. T. O. A. convention in the afternoon. He will spend several weeks there discussing the council's aims with studio publicity heads.

"Dictator" Seen in N. O.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 26.—Gaumont British screened "The Dictator" at the Orpheum here this morning with about 150 present. RKO-Radio will preview "Roberta" at 11:30 P. M. Wednesday at the same theatre.

"Copperfield" Big Holdover In Washington

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—"David Copperfield" continues to be the Capital's smash hit, taking in its second full week at Loew's Palace, $18,000—$3,500 above first week's par!

First in the week's new films was the premiere of "After Office Hours," which, at Loew's Fox, garnered a neat $26,500, or $6,000 above average. The week's total includes one special milkman's matinee at which some $700 was taken in at a 35-cent special admission.

Jack Benny proved to be the big attraction at the Earle with "Carnival" the screen fare, the combination taking $19,200.

Foreign films were started at the Belasco, under the management of Radin and Levine. Opening attraction was "Chapayev," which played to a special audience on Feb. 21 for one screening. The grind policy started Feb. 22.

"The Lives of a Bengal Lancer," playing a return engagement at Loew's Columbia, did a neat $6,000, or $2,900 over the average first run figure.

Total business for the period covered was $85,750, as against an average of $75,200.

Estimated takings, exclusive of tax, for the week ending Feb. 21:

"CHAPAYEV" (Amkino)
BELASCO—(720), 25c-65c, one performance. Gross: $350. (Tentative average, full week, $4,000)

"CARNIVAL" (Col.)
EARLE—(2,218), 25c-77c, 7 days. Stage: Jack Benny, Mary Livingston, Three Pickens Sisters, The Danwills; Bryant, Rains & Young. Gross: $19,200. (Average, $17,600)

"THE LIVES OF A BENGAL LANCER" (Para.)
LOEW'S COLUMBIA—(1,264), 25c-40c, 7 days (return engagement). Gross: $6,000.

"AFTER OFFICE HOURS" (M-G-M)
LOEW'S FOX—(3,434), 25c-66c, 7 days. Stage: Lita Grey Chaplin, Stuart & Lash, Bernice O'Neill, Francis Wills Revue, Charlie Davis and orchestra, Sally Gay. Gross: $26,500. (Average, $20,500)

"DAVID COPPERFIELD" (M-G-M)
LOEW'S PALACE—(2,370), 35c-77c, 7 days, 2nd week. Gross: $18,000. (Average, first week, $14,500)

"THE FIRST WORLD WAR" (Fox)
METROPOLITAN—(1,591), 25c-40c, 7 days. Gross: $4,700. (Average, $4,100)

"THE GOOD FAIRY" (Univ.)
RKO-KEITH'S—(1,836), 25c-55c, 9 days. Gross: $11,000. (Average, 7 days, $11,400)

Monogram Signs Foster

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 26.—Monogram was unable to borrow Richard Cromwell from Columbia for the lead in "The Hoosier Schoolmaster" and Norman Foster was signed up for the role. Charlotte Henry has the feminine lead, the balance of the cast consisting of Dorothy Libaire, Otis Harlan, Sarah Padden, Russell Simpson, William V. Mong, Wallace Reid, Jr., Fred Kohler, Jr., and Tommy Bupp.

Protest Russian Films

DES MOINES, Feb. 26.—Protests have been sent to producers and the local code board on the showing of Russian films at the First Unitarian Church here. No action has been taken, but the films are being shown regularly in evening programs at the church.

Takes for Mid-February Higher Than in January

During the second week of January grosses emerged slightly from the slump into which they fell early in January. The take for 136 theatres in 22 key cities for the week ending Feb. 14-15 was $1,381,960. This was $49,545 better than the previous week.

The low point of the recent slump was during the week ending Jan. 24-25 when the total take in 138 theatres reporting went down to $1,251,130.

Youngclaus Gets House

LINCOLN, Feb. 26.—William Youngclaus, who became famous as the Madison, Neb., theatre operator who outlawed protection through the courts, has picked up the Empress, Grand Island, Neb. Action came after his deal for the Rex, Albion, Neb., fell through and the house was grabbed off by Central States. This is one of A. H. Blank's key towns. Opening has been set for March 1.

Montreal Duals Spread

MONTREAL, Feb. 26.—Following the dropping of vaudeville at Loew's, Manager J. C. Adams has gone to double features. Only one single feature house, His Majesty's, is left. It was this city which started the double film idea in the Dominion back in the silent days.

Reopens, Closes Quickly

COLUMBUS, Feb. 26.—Neth's Hartman, which recently reopened with pictures, was relighted and reshuttered within a few days. Opening with "Evergreen," the picture was pulled when it failed to draw on the first day. "Power" was substituted, but this also was cancelled when it proved unsuccessful after a few days. Neth has no further plans for the house at present.

Sanders Goes to Lincoln

LINCOLN, Feb. 26.—Johnny Sanders, former manager of Westland's Pueblo in Pueblo, Col., has been moved here to run the Kiva for the same organization. He will be under City Manager Milton Overman.

"Carnival" Is Detroit High With $15,900

DETROIT, Feb. 26.—There was little to get excited about among the downtown first runs last week. "Carnival," helped by Mr. and Mrs. Dionne at the Fox, took $15,900, but this was only $900 over normal.

The only other bright spot was the United Artists where "David Copperfield" held up to $10,100 in its second week.

"Chan," Show Pull $16,000 In Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 26.—The price war continued to dip grosses here last week, with the best business going to the Alvin, where a radio revue with Molasses 'n' January and Mary Small, was responsible for a big $16,000, rather than the picture, "Charlie Chan in Paris." This was the biggest take the Alvin has had since the first of the year.

At the Penn, "The Gilded Lily" and Jimmy Durante in person proved a disappointing combination, gathering only around $15,000, while the second week of "Devil Dogs of the Air" was pretty weak at the Stanley, getting about $10,000. The aviation picture, however, had a new stage show headed by Phil Harris and Leah Ray.

Things were pretty brutal in the two straight picture houses, with the Warner doing only $3,900 with "Great Expectations" and "Red Hot Tires," and the Fulton running up a weak $3,200 with "Society Doctor."

Total grosses in five first runs were $48,100. Average is $56,000.

Estimated takings for the week ending Feb. 21:

CHARLIE CHAN IN PARIS" (Fox)

"Spring," $7,500, Indianapolis Wow

INDIANAPOLIS, Feb. 26.—"One More Spring" went into the smash hit class at the Apollo on a take of $7,500 at the Apollo. This is three times the average for the house.

"Devil Dogs of the Air" was the only other strong draw in town. The take at the Lyric, with the help of a stage show headed by Eddie Peabody, hit $10,000, over the line by $3,000.

Total first run business was $29,500. Average is $25,000.

Estimated takings for the week ending Feb. 23:

Production Drops; 38 Features Going

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 26.—Production receded to normal last week with a total of 38 features and five shorts before the cameras as compared to the previous week's 43 features and six shorts. During the three past weeks the total has been above normal for this time of the year. Twenty-one features and 12 shorts are in the final stages of preparation with 40 features and 20 shorts in the cutting rooms.

Warners have taken the lead away from Paramount with seven features before the cameras, two preparing and 10 editing; Radio has six, three and two; Fox, five, five and two; Paramount, four, one and six; M-G-M, three, four and nine; Century, three, zero and zero; Columbia, three, two and four; Universal, two, zero and two. The independent group shows five, four and six.

In the short subject division Roach reports one before the cameras, one preparing and three editing. Radio has one, zero and two; M-G-M, zero, five and six; Universal, zero, one and one; Columbia, zero, three and three; while the independents have three, two and five.

Mayer Gets Rialto Without Paramount

When Arthur Mayer reopens the remodeled Rialto, which closes some time in April for demolition and reconstruction, Paramount will not have an interest in the operation. This will mark the first time in 17 years that the company has not had a hand in the management of the theatre. Under the new plans the house will seat from 600 to 800.

Paramount has operated the Rialto since 1918 when the Gerry Estate bought the structure from Kuhn, Loeb & Co., and leased it to the company. Oscar Hammerstein originally built the theatre in 1899, when it was known as the Victoria. In 1915 Crawford Livingston and Felix Kahn of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., purchased the property and installed Samuel L. (Roxy) Rothafel as operator.

Chapel Lease Row Ended

NEW HAVEN, Feb. 26.—Harry Shaw, manager of the Chapel, has settled the controversy over the Colleve St. entrance to the house by signing a new 10-year lease with the owners of the property.

The College St. entrance was closed Feb. 9 following the opening of a Chapel St. promenade. For the present the Chapel St. side will again be used for exit.

Dentist Is Made Censor

BALTIMORE, Feb. 26.—Dr. Ben Paul Sandy, Republican dentist here, has been appointed to succeed Bernard Gough, Democrat, as chairman of the Maryland censor board by Gov. Harry Nice.

He will visit the censors' offices before he takes up his duties May 1.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

[From yesterday's late edition]

"Laddie"

(Radio)

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 25.—Were Gene Stratton Porter alive today she would thrill to Radio's picturization of the famous novel in which her characters are recreated. Being a simple tale penetrating the sympathetic emotions, "Laddie" is wholesome, Grade A entertainment which should send box-office grosses zooming. The direction, performances and photography blend into a harmonizing whole, achieving the utmost in production responsiveness.

The story deals with simple country folk centralizing on the romance between Laddie, portrayed by John Beal, and Gloria Stuart. The lad is a heartwarming son of the soil and the girl is a tender lass of aristocratic English lineage. The dramatic conflict features the social clash of the two families and the harsh opposition of Miss Stuart's father (Donald Crisp) to her marriage with Beal. Playing a featured role in the lives of the two families is Virginia Weidler, the little sister, whose innocent, childish contrivings finally weld a bond of understanding between Miss Stuart's family and her own, and also resulting in Crisp's forgiving his disowned son (William Bakewell) involved in espionage trouble in England.

The picture uncovers little Miss Weidler as one of the finest child performers on the screen. The portrayals of Beal, Miss Stuart, Crisp, Dorothy Peterson and Willard Robertson are human and of the highest calibre. George Steven's direction is splendid from every angle. Ray Harris' and Dorothy Yost's screenplay is a finished piece, retaining all the Porter flavor. Harold Wenstrom's photography is superb.

Being mass entertainment, this should gross plenty in all spots. No Production Seal. Running time, 70 minutes. "G".

"In-Yeah"

(Ace Attractions, Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 26.—"In-Yeah" is an imaginative tale of the Borneo jungle, filmed in the Sarawak region of North Western Borneo,

The fantastic story revolves around In-Yaah, a white woman and teresting shots of jungle reptiles and animals in action, plus intriguing native dances all containing a certain element of suspense, production and performances are hardly of highest grade.

The entire cast was selected at the locale of filming.

The fantastic story revolves around In-Yeah, a white woman and ruler of a tribe of Dyaaks. Through Gayne Whitman's narration, she tells her story to a couple of adventurers. Her mother was kidnapped by a drunken planter and his native boys and her father killed. Her mother finaly goes mad and flees to the jungle, where she enlists the aid of wild animals and reptiles to wreak vengeance on the planter, not content until her victims are all dead. This brings the mother and daughter to the Dyaak tribe, where In-Y0aah becomes the white queen. The subsequent romance of one of the adventurers and In-Yaah fails to be convincing.

The amount of business this one does will depend entirely on heavy exploitation. C. Sharpe Minor did the musical score and dialogue.

No code seal. Running time, 76 minutes. No code certificate. "G."

Sale of "Ziegfeld" Is Confirmed by "U"

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 25.—Universal has formally confirmed reports of the sale of "The Great Ziegfeld" to M-G-M. It was explained that disagreements over policy on the production and the cost, which was estimated at $1,250,000, plus the fact that three postponements had been necessary, had caused the sale. The postponements were due to the fact that M-G-M could not arrange for release of William Powell, who will be loaned to Universal for another film.

M-G-M agrees to take over William Anthony McGuire's staff, to pay for Universal's expenditures to date and to take care of the company's exhibitor contracts.

Stop Free Car Rides At Alton, Illinois

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 26.—The grievance board has ordered a stop to free transportation furnished by the Grand and Princess theatres at Alton, Ill., under an arrangement with the Illinois Terminal Transportation Co.

The complaint was made by Joe Presberger, operator of the Upper Fulton, on the ground that this was reduced admissions.

Advertising by S. E. Pertle of Jerseyville, Ill., in the Jerseyville newspapers on coming attractions has been ordered stopped by the clearance and zoning board. Bank Nights Help, Says FWC Official

Fox West Coast is in favor of bank nights, but has been forced by code decisions to stop the practice in about 25 of 30 houses along the west coast. In all instances where bank nights have prevailed, the houses have made money, F.W.C. officials say.

In defending an overbuying complaint against the American and Ventura, Ventura, Cal., Charles Buckley, attorney for F.W.C., stated recently:

"The bank night is the most constructive thing that has hit the industry in years. It has made a lot of money for us in individual houses and after a check it has been found to be a money maker for the circuit. A lot of houses which were in the red changed colors on the books after we adopted this policy.

"I regret very much its discontinuance," Buckley said. "There is a test suit in the Federal courts and we hope the court upsets the ruling that bank night is a lottery."

Mrs. Jenne Dodge of the Mission, Ventura, charged that because she had filed a bank night complaint and won a decision against the American and Ventura, F.W.C. was trying to deprive her of getting product. Mrs. Dodge declared that with the exception of one or two companies she could not buy second run product from major companies. F.W.C. having tied it up with all companies except Fox and Paramount, which flatly refuse to sell her, she said, because of prior run percentage contracts. Buckley denied F.W.C. had conspired with the exchanges to stop selling the Mission. He also laughed off the charge of retaliation, claiming that the pictures were bought before the bank night case had been filed.

The appeal committee, comprising F. Thomas Murray, A. W. Smith, Jr., and Henry Sussman, has met to recommend a decision to Campi, which meets tomorrow to hand down a number of appeal determinations.

Stars' Absence Irks Convention Leaders

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 26.—M. P. T. O. A. leaders here are disappointed over Paramount's and M-G-M's refusal to allow Bing Crosby and Wallace Beery to appear at their convention now in session here. Declaring they believe studios issued orders along the above lines, leaders say they know of no other reason for this move on the part of the studios.

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 26.—W. C. Fields and Bing Crosby, who were scheduled for personal appearances at the M. P. T. O. A. convention in New Orleans in connection with the preview of their Paramount picture "Mississippi," were recalled at the last minute due to the inability of Crosby to arrange for his broadcasting plus immediate preparation on his next film, according to studio officials. M-G-M officials stated that Beery never planned to attend the meet and is busy now working on "China Seas."

ITO Attacks Campi; Gives Code Approval

"Nothing Finer in 12 Years," Says Yamins

COLUMBUS, Feb. 26.—An attack on Code Authority mitigated by a defense of the code itself highlighted the first day's session of the second annual convention of the I.T.O. of Ohio, which opened here today with national officers of Allied States in attendance. The session was made an occasion by some of the latter for caustic comments on the M.P.T.O.A., concurrently in convention at New Orleans.

Comerford Condition Continues Unchanged

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—There has been no material change in the condition of M. E. Comerford, it was stated late today at the Emergency Hospital in a bulletin issued by Dr. Walter A. Bloedorn.

Comerford has shown some slight improvement since he was stricken Friday night.

Van Dyke Scores Hit

New Orleans, Feb. 26.—W. S. Van Dyke, ace M-G-M director, made a hit at the opening session of the M. P. T. O. A. convention today when he said Hollywood owed much to exhibitors.

"If it weren't for you," he said, "I would be back driving a truck. How you sell some of the tripe we give you, I don't know. I would have loved to have seen the faces of the men who had to sell 'Laughing Boy.'"

New Censoring Bill Attacked At a Hearing

ALBANY, Feb. 26.—A censorship bill imposing license fees and revised censorship was assailed today at a public hearing. A message to the committee on education written by the National Council on Freedom from Censorship, a unit of the American Civil Liberties Union, termed the bill "an outrageous piece of legislation." Speaking for this national organization of writers, editors, publishers and critics the council said: "We urge the committee to report the bill unfavorably. The bill would give us censorship in its most aggravated form."

The measure provides for annual license fees on exhibitors and distributors, for advertising matter and

Praises Hays

New Orleans, Feb. 26.—In his annual report Ed Kuykendall came to the defense of Will H. Hays.

"At the risk of hearing the old worn out cry of subsidy," he said, "I want to pay my respects to Will H. Hays. There are a few exhibitors and others in this industry who think any exhibitor who is on speaking terms with the Hays office is damned.

"It has been my pleasure to meet with Hays on many occasions about problems confronting the entire industry. I have yet to find a single occasion wherein he has assumed anything but a fair attitude. His word is law; you can depend on that.

"Of course, I may have been out of accord with him on a few occasions, but I find him ready to go along with us on things that pertain to the best interests of the industry."

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 26.—Despite the fact that it is not clear exactly what the M. P. T. O. Not that this was unexpected, for it was not. Developments came faster, however, than they were looked for. This attitude of insurgency was led principally by Jack Miller of Chicago, who had struck out for open floor discussion of problems as against the original plan to sidetrack wrangwave of circuit buying was imminent when it was revealed that G. B. had acquired a large holding in Union Cinema Co., Ltd., and that Arthur Jarratt, booking head for G. B., had joined the board to do the booking. It was also reported that 30 new houses were planned. The same company was also said to have bought an interest in Hyams' eight H. & G. houses with Jarratt also placed on the board of this circuit to do the booking. In addition, reports had it that this circuit and Gaumont and H. & G. will jointly build the 4,700-seat Kilburn at a cost of £350,000.

It now seems, however, that the recent Gaumont theatre acquisitions are booking arrangements with little or no financial investment as the company is understood to have no money for investments available, but rather very large floating debts which would prevent any policy of expansion where investment capital is necessary.

Gaumont British production is practically at a standstill at present and it appears that Jarratt has the burden of attempting to make extra profits on theatres to balance production outlay. Obviously this can only be done by reducing film hire and for that purpose an attempt seems to be under way to get tremendous booking strength, without investing money, to force down rentals.

Rather tough sledding for the measure is seen in the House of Representatives where Congressman William I. Representative Sirovich was not among those with whom department officials conferred prior to submitting their original bill to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, apparently preferring to work in the upper House first because approval of the Senate is necessary for adherence of the United States to the International Convention.

for reviewing the films. It also provides for stricter censorship of pictures and for state supervision of advertising and publicity material for all films which would be classified for adults, families or children.

Industry leaders were well represented at the hearing.

The industry's delegation opposing the bill was headed by Charles L. O'Reilly, president of the T. O. C. C. of N. A. and former Senator J. Henry Walters, now associated with RKO.

They were preceded on the stand by spokesmen for newspaper publishers, headed by Marlin E. Pew, editor of Editor and Publisher, and by representatives of labor unions allied with the publishing industry, all of whom opposed the measure as being detrimental to their interests. No one rose to defend the bill when Senator Feld, chairman of the Senate committee on education, asked to hear from its proponents.

Three Majors Sell 1935-'36 List Now

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 26.—Without fanfare, it is understood Warners, RKO and Fox are quietly selling 1935-1936 product. This looks like a new high in advance selling activity, since the new season will not get under way until late August.

Paramount has sold in a number of instances out of town, the deals hinging on contracts also made for the current season's output.

Where exhibitors find they need product, but not all of the company's releases, arrangements are made whereby films released earlier in the season are omitted, but include all of 1935-36 releases. The new contracts are signed without titles, stars or other identifications, but call for 65 pictures. This has already happened in a number of upstate situations.

VARIETY

'OFFICE HOURS' BIG $28,000 IN WASH.

Washington, Feb. 19.

Phrase film fare really meant something last week to 2,000 patrons of downtown house who rolled out with the milkman to enjoy 'coffee, donuts, toast and Gable.' Government typewriter-pounders, charwomen, wuxtry boys, and school kids showed up at 6 a.m. in dreary rain to see the Capital's first before-breakfast show. Ironically, film was 'After Office Hours.' But even government hours aren't that long.

Before feature went on, 100 gallons of coffee, 1,600 sinkers, 5,000 slabs of toast, and 15 gallons of cream had disappeared.

Everybody doing oke this week, with three Loew spots pulling in the shekels hand over fist. Top grosser is 'After Office Hours' at the Fox despite the fact that Everett Marshall had to cancel his stage appearance at the last minute because of laryingitis. 'David Copperfield' at the Palace will bust all records on its second week.

Fox turned the town upside down with a preview of 'After Office Hours,' preceded by coffee, doughnuts and toast, at 7:30 a. m. the day before opening. Stunt, ballyed as 'before office hours,' drew 2,300 customers and sent 'em all out as walking ads on the pic.

Estimates for This Week

Fox (Loew) (3,434; 25-35-60)—'After Office Hours' (MG) and vaude. Everett Marshall replaced at last minute on stage by Lita Grey Chaplin, which hurt. Sock campaign on pic, though is sending gross toward a beautiful $28,000.

Palace (Loew) (2,363; 25-35-60)—'David Copperfield' (MG). Busting high for repeat week with a probable $18,000. Last week same pic won a big $23,000.

Convention Settles Down to Business

a new deal on copyright fees; discussed block booking; came out for at least a 20 per cent cancellation privilege; made a plea for "fair clearance and zoning"; took up the problem of family nights; hit at fan magazines and their attitude toward the industry, and analyzed code problems.

"Taxes, legislation, unfair and discriminatory regulation are perhaps the biggest menace we have as an industry," he declared. "Those of you who have not been watching the activities of the various city, state and national law making bodies cannot in your wildest imagination appreciate what we are up against. Nearly every state has one or more bills aimed at our industry; many cities are contemplating additional levies upon us, and there are a large number of bills detrimental to us either already in committee or being held in abeyance by their sponsors at Washington. We must unite against the common enemy."

Turning to the need of organization activity, Kuykendall said: "There is no other industry that I can recall that has so completely muffed opportunities to efficiently defend itself by coordinated, cooperative effort—all working for the common good. And the one thing that disturbs me most is the attitude of those who live among us, derive a livelihood out of the industry, depend on it to protect their investments, yet are continually working with and aiding outsiders who dislike us for professional reasons and attack us at every possible excuse.

Invite Attack, He Says

"We have organizations in this industry that do this. They are continually encouraging those at Washington to attack us; they continue to aid and abet those professional reformers who for years have used the popularity of the motion picture as the one method of attack to get notoriety. They are today working in Washington to bring attacks upon us by members of Congress. They depend on their future by keeping dissension, hatred, and misunderstanding prevalent among us that they may be able to continue their demands upon misinformed theatre owners for funds to pay lawyers who are notoriously known for misinformation and have no actual interest in theatres. These lawyers are at this moment aiding and abetting in the drawing of various and sundry bills in Washington to beget government interference with our business. They are advising with well meaning, but misguided club leaders, men and women, trying to use their influence against us; they are deliberately misrepresenting the actual theatre owners they can speak for. Their so-called organization is pitifully small in actual theatre owner membership; yet they say they represent a large number of independent theatre owners.

"How this word independent has been abused! A theatre owner is not and cannot be independent of the producer, nor can the producer be independent of the theatre owner; we need each other. On both sides there have been violators of every rule of fair business and reason."

Kuykendall sharply criticized non-theatrical competition. He said it was "partly the fault of theatre management, because the theatre as an average is not properly encouraging friendly relations between the various organizations, particularly the aggressive ones like the American Legion." He advised members to "use discretion" in attacking some forms of non-theatrical competition.

In turning to block booking, Kuykendall described it as a method of "wholesale selling" and expressed the opinion that selling of individual pictures "would be of no help whatsoever to the exhibitor who is now complaining because of inability to get product, because the distributor would continue to sell the preferred customer, just as he now does.

"All of us who are informed also know that the pictures are now being sold on selective contracts in spots determined by buying power of the exhibitor, in many instances in groups of 10, 15 or 20. This is not through choice of the distributor, but through the strength of the exhibitor."

In expressing his views on cancellations Kuykendall said: "There are many who disagree with me on this, I know, but I am giving you my frank opinion, based on close contact with thousands of exhibitors along the line; and I am convinced that the real answer is a reasonable cancellation privilege in contracts. About 20 per cent cancellation is the real answer. It would relieve many exhibitors and give them a chance to operate at a profit, where as it now stands they are bound to take a loss on many objectionable pictures; and I warn you to remember what is objectionable in one community, may be acceptable in another. The present 10 per cent cancellation clause such as we now have has proven a dud. It would have been helpful had the distributor played fair, but he used every subterfuge to evade it."

After reviewing the recent Ascap agitation and the efforts to ward off increased fees, Kuykendall asked: "What is there to prevent their demanding a percentage of your daily receipts? How far will the present copyright laws permit them to go in charging us for the use of their music? When the copyright laws were written by Congress we had a silent screen. It was not a complete monopoly; now it is.

"What we are interested in now is having the proper authorities give us the legal right to say how much per seat they can charge us, similar to the so-much-per-record the graphophone people have; also an amendment to the copyright laws which will protect innocent infringers against the arbitrary $250 per performance penalty. This ling into committee rooms first and perhaps on the convention floor later. This made necessary a drastic change in convention routine for the first day, which was to have been confined to reports of various chairmen.

Miller, who is always a fire-eater, was in form.

"We have been resoluted to death at other conventions and we've had open discussions in the past when everybody was running for a train," he said. "I was interested in your speech," he said, turning to Kuykendall, "even though I can't agree with you on some points.

"What has the code done for us nationally? I thought when you wrote it we were going places, and now I've discovered if you go those places you'll do it so long you won't have time to run your theatres. We wrote the code with the most intelligent men in this business, if that means anything, and I don't know that it does. We were promised that if we took care of labor, we'd be allowed to run our own business. It hasn't happened.

"Let's call the code off. Let's not change it, but give it back to those Indians we worked with in Washington."

Others picked up the same topic, but before Miller had finished he took exception to Kuykendall's remarks made in his annual address to the effect that producers never set out to do anything but their best in production.

"I say they make pictures bad," he continued. "They might not turn them out like sausage, but they come through as a lot of bologney, anyway."

Ben Berinstein, Los Angeles, immediately came to Miller's support. He charged the code could not apply in blanket to all sections because each had its own problems. He viewed the code difficulty in the light of its local boards, which, he said, were not functioning in some instances, while in others "deals had been made." He came out for scrapping of the code in its entirety, with the exception of the labor clauses which, he asserted, had to be kept because they were part of a bargain made.

"Campi," he said, "has been dallying on clearance and on dual bills and the result of that is we now have 11 theatres in Los Angeles which are running triples. It won't take long before these spread to San Francisco and then the rest of the country."

Kuykendall at this point declared he had never said privately or publicly that he wanted the code.

"It was handed to us by the Government, which told us we had to have it. I say, therefore, let's abide by it or change it," he went on.

Levy Says All Groups Should Work Together

New Orleans, Feb. 26.—Regional associations must work together to achieve national progress, declared Edward G. Levy, acting secretary, reporting in behalf of Fred S. Meyer, who resigned some time ago.

Edward G. Levy

"By all pulling in the same direction and by a reasonable willingness to work with others," he said, "genuine progress can be made toward curing the wrongs and abuses of the business, toward increasing attendance and toward erecting an impregnable defense against unjustified and malicious attacks on motion pictures by professional reformers and other outsiders who have no understanding of our problems.

"No organization can take the place of energetic and aggressive individual effort in the management of your theatre, in buying, booking and merchandising motion picture attractions. M.P.T.O.A. does not attempt to do those things for you. But M.P.T.O.A. has succeeded (where others have failed) in making substantial progress towards bringing about fair trade practices, fairer exhibition contracts, home rule for the determination of controversies by local boards and sensible self-control within the industry.

"We ask all of the honest, representative local associations to band together on national matters, with a representative of their own choosing as a qualified director of the M.P.T.O.A., particularly those with a willingness to work with others for the good of the exhibitor and of the motion picture industry. We believe that the reputable and responsible theatre owners, both large and small, throughout the country are entitled to such an association not dominated by self-seeking professional exhibitor organizers nor controlled by the chronically unsuccessful, irresponsible and unscrupulous exhibitors. There is much work to be done that can only be accomplished by the organized effort of really representative exhibitors."

Gives Clearance Views

Kuykendall outlined basic principles on clearance and zoning which, he said, the M.P.T.O.A. wants. They follow: "We believe in the following basic principles: proper and fair setting up of geographical zones, film rentals paid and admissions charged. We cannot possibly have clearance and zoning unless the admission price charged is considered. This has been one of the most controversial issues with which the Code Authority has had to treat. There is no such thing as a standard formula; each town and city is a problem unto itself. But if we are going to have any semblance of order in this business, we must all accept the theory of film rental paid and admission charged in working out clearance."

The M.P.T.O.A. still believes that premiums, giveaways, etc., are "harmful," Kuykendall declared. He also described duals as "destructive."

Family shows should not have a beautiful short with a sexy feature, and exhibitors should be careful in combining their features so that "condemnation" will not be brought down upon the industry by presenting the wrong attraction at a family show, he said.

He said he believed the code would continue to be "the law of the industry."

"It could be improved," he said, "and I think we should see to it that certain changes are made in it. Probably out of this convention will come a definite plan for the changes we should support as an organization."

Rosenblatt Leaves For MPTOA Session

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—Compliance Director Sol A. Rosenblatt tonight left for New Orleans, scheduled to arrive there Thursday morning in time to deliver an address before the M. P. T. O. A. convention.

Wilkinson to Visit L. A.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 26.—Lupton Wilkinson of the advertising advisory council of the Hays office, who is here, leaves for Los Angeles on Wednesday night following his address on "How to Sell the Finer Pictures" at a business session of the M. P. T. O. A. convention in the afternoon.

He will succeed Jack Lewis as director of public relations for the Hays office on the coast.

MPTOA Will Brave Chill

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 26.—Despite a drastic drop in temperature, the M. P. T. O. A. will go through with a boat ride tomorrow night on the Mississippi.

Where the Sazeracs Flow

By RAMOS

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 26.—The gang out of New York tumbled out of its special train early yesterday morning largely peeved because the accommodations weren't more de luxe.

The commissary department of the Southern Railway would have done a sizable business Saturday night and thereafter if a club car had been attached. There was (1) little or no ice, (2) no food, (3) no White Rock, (4) no ginger ale until Sunday. The rest of the prerequisites—in perfect order.

Yeoman's service was contributed by HAL YOUNG, egged on without much egging necessary by HERMAN ROBBINS and SAM DEMBOW, JR. From some undetermined point between Manhattan Transfer and Wilmington, telephone calls were made. The results included White Rock and, later, ham and cheese sandwiches, plus coffee. JULES LEVY thought the service was pediculous; he wanted cocoa.

FELIX F. FEIST, whose decision to make the trek was last minute, brought his cold with him to make certain he wouldn't be lonesome. Someone said the real reason for his going was to see that "Roberta," which plays the Orpheum here during convention week, didn't run away with "Naughty Marietta."

LEVY, sales manager to the bitter end, needed no persuasion at all to go into "Smoke Gets In Your Eyes," hit number from "Roberta." JOHN D. CLARK, CHARLIE MCCARTHY, GEORGE WEEKS, FRED JACKS, REG WILSON, HARRY THOMAS, ROBBINS and DEMBOW went atmospheric and cluttered their own drawing room with smoke, in billows, all for the sake of putting JULES in the proper singing frame of mind. It turned so contagious later and that portion of the goings-on degenerated so completely to a point where it ended in a quartet: LEVY, basso; ROBBINS, mezzo soprano; DEMBOW, tenor, and RED KANN, plain lousy.

CLARK, incidentally, made the train with a bruise on his forehead and a cherub on his cranium. His story: "I was traveling home from Asbury Park Friday night when my man hit a bump in the road; I hit the top of the car and the results are what you see." MCCARTHY, solemnly and officially, confirmed the details. Earlier reports that CLARK had left New York for the south late last week chalked up one error against MOTION PICTURE DAILY reporting.

Premium

New Orleans, Feb. 26.—Unconfirmed report has it National Screen Service will give every account running a trailer on a Warner picture a suit.

Herman Robbins won't comment whether it's to be with two pairs of pants.

Latest social organization formulated at a Southern wayside point between Charlotte and Concord, N. C., was "The Non-Shavers' Club." Its only obligation was not to shave between New York on Saturday night and New Orleans this morning. Charter members included CLARK, FEIST, NIZER, LEVY, ROBBINS and DEMBOW. JOHN said he couldn't be bothered, he was that jubilant over the $19,000 garnered by "One More Spring" at the Music Hall on Washington's Birthday. Reasons for others to join were identical: To give their maps a 35-hour rest from Gillettes and straight razors.

BILL BENTON, only representative from Upper New York State, left Saratoga with a fresh foot of snow under foot. Added to the three that carried over from earlier storms, the total of four presaged anything but healthy grosses at his Congress Theatre.

Scandal note, heard along the line: That, while MOE SILVER may have been transferred to Albany as Warner theatre district manager there, MRS. MOE would not go along; ditto on MRS. SCHLANGER whose TED will now headquarter in Philadelphia for the same circuit. Not so with MRS. IKE HOFFMAN, however. Fact he's back in New Haven is a cinch. They have always maintained their home there, anyway.

Trade press contingent aboard the New York special included ROY CHARTIER of Variety and JACK ALICOATE, CHARLES of the same family name and ARTHUR EDDY of the Film Daily.

Actual business:

EDDY to ALICOATE: "Any message for New York?"

ALICOATE to EDDY: "Just tell DON MERSEREAU to keep busy. That's the way I got my start."

CHARLES SEGALL, Philadelphia exhibitor, may go over to Miami from here. ROBBINS and DEMBOW, already committed to join their families there, are busy trying to get three more. That'll give them a special plane on a direct route.

Set "Diggers" Dates

Following the setting of the world premiere of "Gold Diggers of 1935" for the Saenger, New Orleans, coincident with the M. P. T. O. A. convention there, Warners are following it with two other special engagements in the south; one at the Community, Miami, March 1, and the other at the Florida, St. Petersburg, March 2.

Discuss NRA Probe Merger in Capital

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—Possibilities of merging the two proposed NRA investigations were under consideration today in the Senate.

Expense funds of $5,000 each have been approved for inquiries by both the Finance Committee and the King sub-committee. Administration leaders in the Senate are anxious to block the King group, if possible, because one of its members is Senator Borah of Idaho, enemy of the NRA and its counsel is Lowell Mason, who conducted the interrogations for the Darrow Review Board.

Suggestions have been made that but one inquiry be conducted. If the Finance Committee makes the investigation it will be less productive of fireworks and more favorable to the Recovery Administration. However, tentative suggestions that the investigation be left to the Finance Committee were opposed by Senator McCarran of Nevada, co-author of the Nye-McCarran resolution. Later developments indicated that Senators Nye and McCarran had formed a coalition with Senator King of Utah with a view to having the investigation conducted by a selected committee of which, probably, either Nye or Borah would be a member.

led the criticism of that body, interspersed with praise of the code.

"The code is good in theory but not in practice," Yamins said. "Yet, despite the fact that it contains many things which are not justified and omits others which are, nothing finer than the code has come out of Washington in the past 12 years."

He denounced what he described as the presence of seven members of the Hays organization on Code Authority and an unnamed eighth who he charged was paid by Hays, and declared that, as a result, the independent exhibitor "hadn't a chance" against the affiliated one on any appeal to Code Authority. He scored the "injustice" of 10 per cent cancellation with distributors "switching product of a low allocation into the highest allocation."

Yamins, an Allied vice-president, said the organization was committed to changing the membership of Code Authority. Digressing, he said that he had received an indirect invitation to attend the M.P.T.O.A. New Orleans convention, but came here instead. He offered an apology to the meeting for having been a member of the board and of the executive committee of M.P.T.O.A. when it was organized here in 1927, and for again serving in 1928, when, he said, control of the rival organization passed from independents to affiliated theatres.

Samuelson a Speaker

Sidney Samuelson, Allied president, predicted that the rollcall at Allied's national convention at Atlanta in May would find exhibitor units in all 48 states organized and ready for an affiliation of an Allied character. He said that plans would be perfected within the next few weeks for the display of Allied insignia at boxoffices for the identification of independent operation, and that the move would have a practical value as the public was alert to the fact that independents "are the victims, not the cause, of the evils the public complains of."

Like Yamins, Samuelson digressed to toss a barb in the general direction of New Orleans.

"There are more exhibitors in number and ability at this convention than there are in New Orleans," he said. He quoted an article from MOTION PICTURE DAILY which stated that no one from this territory was attending the New Orleans meeting because this was recognized as Allied ground and remarked that the New York delegation to the south was composed of distributors and accessory representatives. He predicted that if the Ohio organization maintained its present aggressive policies state exhibitors would eventually be relieved of the admission tax in its entirety.

The meeting, at which 238 theatres were represented, voted to place Allied on the state organization's payroll for monthly compensation for past and future services. The annual banquet is being held tonight.

Attacks on Code Feature Opening Session of MPTOA

cisco charged the 10 per cent cancellation clause is a "producer trick pulled out of the bag" and asserted it had broken down to a point where 36 anti-block booking bills were under consideration in various state legislatures.

"This comes out of the 10 per cent cancellation clause," he said.

"Los Angeles convention banners called for clean pictures," he went on. "We met the producers on the matter and nothing came of it, yet one church later launched a Legion of Decency campaign and got results."

Setup Called "Phony"

The cancellation setup, he said, was "phony" because it was predicated on an exhibitor's right to eliminate when public protest had been launched in his town.

"An exhibitor would invite censorship in his own town," he said, "and distributors knew it."

Maintaining that just as the public took charge of the clean films situation, so it would again through the anti-block booking legislation unless something is done from within. He cited the growth of the M. P. Research Council throughout the nation as proof that this movement is a "revolt against Boss Tweed and Boise Penrose tactics."

"Therefore, I say," he continued, "that unless there is unconditional surrender by Campi in favor of real local autonomy we ought to throw out the code."

Western New York, as represented by Jules Michael of Buffalo, was another territory dissatisfied with the code regime. He declared his section has been working for seven years for reasonable cancellation privileges and reasonable clearances.

"We got behind the code and are paying our share with the idea that we would get relief, which we are not. I'm telling you now I propose introducing a resolution later asking President Roosevelt to permit us to return to our own business methods when the code runs out June 30," he concluded.

Michigan, as represented by the Butterfield circuit through Joe Denison of Monroe, continued in the same strain.

"We are much dissatisfied with the code," he began. "We want changes or we want it kicked out."

McLeod Next to Speak

Harry S. McLeod, president of Gulf States Theatre Owners' Ass'n with headquarters in New Orleans, followed. Expressing his dissatisfaction, he asserted the code had done nothing for him except to stop up his weekly payroll at the St. Charles Theatres.

Dubbing himself as "another of the suckers who sweated in Washington," Robert B. Wilby of Valatanga Theatres, one of the southeast's most powerful circuits, declared himself as not for an end of the code, because, he said, all should work for better operation. He said he was dubious as to whether a code of fair competition could be worked out for the industry.

His slant on dissatisfaction rampant in exhibitor ranks over the code traces back to the original conception of Code Authority, his point being that high executives now on Campi had never planned to attend more than the first couple of sessions, anyway.

Exhibitors, on appeal, he continued, now find themselves talking to an appeals committee, which in turn reports its findings to Campi, when the code, according to Wilby, provides it is Campi which is supposed to hear them.

"Distributors got out with the best trade they could make," he continued. "It's no secret that the 10 per cent cancellation clause came as a reward for exhibitors who had determined to walk out."

Distributors, he charged, had deliberately cluttered up the cancellation right by instructions to their exchange men and the purpose was to see that theatre men shouldn't get it.

Pizor Demands Code Policy

Efforts by A. Julian Brylawski, Washington, to bring other matters to the convention floor on the theory the impending talk by Compliance Director Sol A. Rosenblatt would tend to clarify the code atmosphere were challenged by Lewen Pizor, Philadelphia, who took the stand that the convention should formulate its code policy and give it to Rosenblatt, rather than listen to him on the code. Brylawski, who does considerable lobbying in Washington, told conventioneers seven anti-block booking bills had been introduced in Congress and more were expected. He said it was important to his work that the convention express its attitude on this type of legislation and at the same time be put on record in defense of current sales methods in blocks.

The day's festivities closed with the president's reception at the Tip Top Inn atop the Roosevelt and other social activities.

Late tonight Pizor, Miller, Emanuel, Wehrenberg and Kuykendall were in conference with Felix Feist in an effort to have him use his influence with Loew officials in New York to call off that circuit's contemplated theatre building program in Chicago as reported in yesterday's MOTION PICTURE DAILY.

Visitors Take Bows

New Orleans, Feb. 26.—Ed Kuykendall this afternoon at the opening session of the M. P. T. O. A., called on the following to take bows:

Jay Emanuel, Felix Feist, Louis Nizer, James Clarke, president of National Film Carriers, who, incidentally, postponed a scheduled meeting of his own today until tomorrow; Ben Schlyen, publisher and editor of Box-Office; Charles E. Lewis, editor of Showman's Trade Review; Arthur Eddy, Film Daily, who was jocularly described as "mostly inaccurate" in his reporting, and Red Kann, editor of Motion Picture Daily, who was "more or less favorably known, but mostly less."

Problems of Operation Up To Sessions

By GEORGE SCHUTZ
Editor of Better Theatres

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 26.—The attention given the physical phases of theatre operation is probably the most distinguished features of the 1935 M. P. T. O. A. convention, principally because the theatre has been previously overwhelmed by those less tangible things called issues. The presence of the code among the current deliberations, the theatre, its appearance, its efficiency as a mechanism, has been at last remembered and is down on the schedule as important business.

The morning meeting on Wednesday is entirely given over to the theatre building and its mechanical facilities and no previous M. P. T. O. A. convention has gone so far in acknowledging the essential participation of the engineer in the business of selling motion picture entertainment.

This session will bring the S. M. P. E. into the deliberations of an owners' convention for the first time through a paper by Homer G. Tasker, the new president of the industry's chief technical organization. Unable to be present himself, Tasker has arranged to have Herbert Griffin, sales manager for the International Projector Corp. and S. M. P. E. committeeman, read his paper on "Theatre Operation as Fundamentally an Engineering Function."

Architecture Discussed

Modern trends in theatre architecture will be discussed by Robert O. Boller of Kansas City, prominent theatre architect. J. T. Knight, Jr., of Paramount Theatres Service Corp., will talk on mechanical facilities, while W. C. Brown of the General Electric Research Department at Nela Park will describe late developments in theatre lighting.

Something of an innovation in theatre facilities by which the talking picture may recoup the loss of patrons with impaired hearing will be discussed by Mrs. F. J. Block of Laurel, Miss., of the American Federation of Organizations for the Hard of Hearing.

In addition, this convention has arranged for an exhibition of equipment adjoining the auditorium where the business sessions are being held. More than a dozen companies have displays. Some of them represent quite recent developmental work. The RCA Photophone exhibit includes a demonstration of a new speaker arrangement which provides for a special horn and baffle unitl for all frequencies less than 100 cycles. Nothing, however, is disclosed concerning this company's development of double track recording and reproduction.

Other equipment exhibits are by LeRoy Sound Equipment Co. of Rochester, Webster Electric Co. of Racine, Wis., and Operadio Mfg. Co. of St. Charles, Ill., makers of amplifiers; Projection Optics Co. of New York, lenses; American Seating Co., Erpi, International Projector Corp., National Carbon Co., National Screen Service, and Railway Express Agency.

"Honeymoon," Show $25,000 Boston Smash

BOSTON, Feb. 26.—Warm weather interrupted by occasional snow and rain, failed to interfere with grosses last week. They were good all along the line, with Keith's Memorial grabbing a big $25,000, over normal by $13,000, on "Murder on a Honeymoon" and a stage revue, "Casino de Paree."

"Biography of a Bachelor Girl" and "Mills of the Gods" ran $2,000 over par for a total of $12,000 at Loew's State. "Devil Dogs of the Air," helped by Polly Moran and a revue, was $6,000 up on a total of $28,000 at the Metropolitan.

Total first run business was $87,500. Average is $65,000.

Estimated takings for the week ending Feb. 22:

"THE WOMAN IN RED" (Warners)
"CHARLIE CHAN IN PARIS" (Fox)

"Bachelor" Pulls $10,000, Montreal

MONTREAL, Feb. 26.—Local first runs found themselves in an unsettled state last week. The Palace continued closed for overhauling and the Imperial was dark for the week, pending reopening with new policy and Loew's was inaugurating an exclusive film fare, vaudeville having been dropped.

The lead-off for the week was the Capitol with $10,000 for "Biography of a Bachelor Girl" and "Maybe It's Love," while, with a new scale of prices, Loew's made $8,500 with "Wings in the Dark" and "One Hour Late." The repeat of "Broadway Bill" brought $6,500 to the Princess. His Majesty's roadshowed "The Shepherd of the Seven Hills" for a take of $5,000.

Total first run business was $30,500 Average is $31,000.

Estimated takings for the week ending Feb. 23:

"Copperfield" Seattle High For 2nd Week

SEATTLE, Feb. 26.—"David Copperfield" was such a strong draw during its second week that it was held for a third at the Fifth Avenue. The $8,600 take topped a normal first week by $1,600.

"Broadway Bill" stood the strain in a big way for its third week at the Liberty, going to $6,800, and it was held for a fourth stanza. All others were below par.

Total first run business was $39,450. Average is $37,000.

Estimated takings for the week ending Feb. 22:

"DEVIL DOGS OF THE AIR" (Warners)

"Pressure," Show Top in Providence

PROVIDENCE, Feb. 26.—Best gross for the week was chalked up by Fay's which caught $9,000 with "Under Pressure" on the screen and a sepia revue, "Harlem Express," with the engaging radio star, Jimmie Lunceford. Both the RKO Albee and Majestic were well over their average quotas.

Loew's, despite the excellence of the bill, found "Sequoia" and "Society Doctor" good only for $9,300, under par by $3,000. The Strand went over by $500 with "Wings in the Dark" and "Evergreen."

Total first run business was $42,800. Average is $40,500.

Estimated takings for the week ending Feb. 21:

"SEQUOIA" (M-G-M)

Mickey in a Jam

London, Feb. 26.—Mickey Mouse has gotten himself into a jam—a sweet, sticky one. One of the biggest manufacturers of preserves and other sweets in England is now getting out a Mickey Mouse marmalade.

And at the same time Mickey is in highbrow company at the Leicester Galleries where an exhibition of how Disney makes his cartoons is on.

"Gambling" Is Draw, $5,600, In Cleveland

CLEVELAND, Feb. 26.—"Gambling" did the best comparative business of the week by topping normal $1,500 for a total of $5,600 at the Circle. Grosses took a tumble all along the line.

"Sweet Music" was $1,500 up on a take of $7,500 at Warners' Hippodrome. "Under Pressure" and "The Gilded Lily" was slightly better than par.

Total first run business was $39,000. Average is $36,000.

"Woman in Red" Is Oklahoma City Hit

OKLAHOMA CITY, Feb. 26.—"Woman in Red" was the big attraction of the week here. It ran $800 over par for a take of $2,800 at the Capitol.

"Red Hot Tires," helped by a stage show, grabbed $2,500 in four days at the Liberty. This is normal for a full week. The only other par attraction in town was "Clive of India" which reached a normal $4,000 at the Midwest.

Total first run business was $13,100. Average is $13,500.

Estimated takings for the week ending Feb. 23:

"Chan," Show Pull $16,000 In Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 26.—The price war continued to dip grosses here last week, with the best business going to the Alvin, where a radio revue with Molasses 'n' January and Mary Small, was responsible for a big $16,000, rather than the picture, "Charlie Chan in Paris." This was the biggest take the Alvin has had since the first of the year.

At the Penn, "The Gilded Lily" and Jimmy Durante in person proved a disappointing combination, gathering only around $15,000, while the second week of "Devil Dogs of the Air" was pretty weak at the Stanley, getting about $10,000. The aviation picture, however, had a new stage show headed by Phil Harris and Leah Ray.

Things were pretty brutal in the two straight picture houses, with the Warner doing only $3,900 with "Great Expectations" and "Red Hot Tires," and the Fulton running up a weak $3.200 with "Society Doctor."

Total grosses in five first runs were $48,100. Average is $56,000.

Estimated takings for the week ending Feb. 21:

CHARLIE CHAN IN PARIS" (Fox)
ALVIN—(2,000), 25c-40c, 6 days. Stage: Mary Small, Molasses 'n' January, Bobby Gilbert, Jumping Jack Miller, Jack Rubin, Streamline Alvinettes, Jerry Mayhall's orchestra. Gross: $16,000. (Average, $10,000)

"Spring," $7,500, Indianapolis Wow

INDIANAPOLIS, Feb. 26.—"One More Spring" went into the smash hit class at the Apollo on a take of $7,500 at the Apollo. This is three times the average for the house.

"Devil Dogs of the Air" was the only other strong draw in town. The take at the Lyric, with the help of a stage show headed by Eddie Peabody, hit $10,000, over the line by $3,000.

Total first run business was $29,500. Average is $25,000.

Estimated takings for the week ending Feb. 23:

"ONE MORE SPRING" (Fox

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 26.—Production receded to normal last week with a total of 38 features and five shorts before the cameras as compared to the previous week's 43 features and six shorts. During the three past weeks the total has been above normal for this time of the year. Twenty-one features and 12 shorts are in the final stages of preparation with 40 features and 20 shorts in the cutting rooms.

Warners have taken the lead away from Paramount with seven features before the cameras, two preparing and 10 editing; Radio has six, three and two; Fox, five, five and two; Paramount, four, one and six; M-G-M, three, four and nine; Century, three, zero and zero; Columbia, three, two and four; Universal, two, zero and two. The independent group shows five, four and six.

In the short subject division Roach reports one before the cameras, one preparing and three editing. Radio has one, zero and two; M-G-M, zero, five and six; Universal, zero, one and one; Columbia, zero, three and three; while the independents have three, two and five.

M. P. Club Listens To Hauptmann Tales

Legal and newspaper angles on the Bruno Hauptmann trial were narrated yesterday at the M. P. Club Forum by Sam Liebowitz, criminal lawyer; Alexander Kaminsky, assistant district attorney, and Jack Lait, writer and editor of King Features.

George Givot acted as master of ceremonies and the session was broadcast over WMCA with A. L. Alexander announcing.

Chapel Lease Row Ended

NEW HAVEN, Feb. 26.—Harry Shaw, manager of the Chapel, has settled the controversy over the Colleve St. entrance to the house by signing a new 10-year lease with the owners of the property.

The College St. entrance was closed Feb. 9 following the opening of a Chapel St. promenade. For the present the Chapel St. side will again be used for exit.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Love in Bloom"

(Paramount)

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 26.—Seemingly produced as average entertainment with the characters hardly believable and the situations outmoded, this seems slated for dual bills.

Dixie Lee, daughter of J. C. Nugent, a carnival owner, has left the show and gone to the city to earn an honest living. In a boarding house she meets Joe Morrison, a composer. Both are flat broke. After a struggle the pair land jobs in a music store at $10 per week for the two.

The carnival meanwhile goes bankrupt with Nugent in jail. So Burns and Allen set out for the city in a calliope to get Miss Lee back. Nugent also arrives as the girl is about to marry Morrison and the romance is broken by the drunken pater, who humiliates the daughter. Eventually everything is straightened out but not until the audience has been carried through much familiar territory.

Several musical sequences are effective, particularly one in the music store, where Morrison sings. Several comedy sequences by Burns and Allen score. Benny Baker plays a bit good for laughs. One particular number by Gordon and Revel is plugged throughout the picture. That also helps.

Miss Lee, giving real promise in personality and song, is retarded by the general situations. The supporting roles are carried well, with Lee Kohlmar, as the music store proprietor, and Jack Mulhall, as a beggar, outstanding.

Elliott Nugent directed. Benjamin Glazer produced.

"In-Yeah"

(Ace Attractions, Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 26.—"In-Yeah" is an imaginative tale of the Borneo jungle, filmed in the Sarawak region of North Western Borneo,

The fantastic story revolves around In-Yaah, a white woman and teresting shots of jungle reptiles and animals in action, plus intriguing native dances all containing a certain element of suspense, production and performances are hardly of highest grade.

The entire cast was selected at the locale of filming.

The fantastic story revolves around In-Yeah, a white woman and ruler of a tribe of Dyaaks. Through Gayne Whitman's narration, she tells her story to a couple of adventurers. Her mother was kidnapped by a drunken planter and his native boys and her father killed. Her mother finaly goes mad and flees to the jungle, where she enlists the aid of wild animals and reptiles to wreak vengeance on the planter, not content until her victims are all dead. This brings the mother and daughter to the Dyaak tribe, where In-Y0aah becomes the white queen. The subsequent romance of one of the adventurers and In-Yaah fails to be convincing.

The amount of business this one does will depend entirely on heavy exploitation. C. Sharpe Minor did the musical score and dialogue.

No code seal. Running time, 76 minutes. No code certificate. "G."

Government Amends RCA Trust Action

WILMINGTON, Feb. 26.—A new amendment to the government's anti-trust action against RCA which asks the court to set aside certain international radio communication contracts that had been made by RCA, or its subsidiary, RCA Communications, Inc., was filed here today.

The amended petition asks for a decision either that the contracting parties involved are not fully bound by the contracts or that the contracts are invalid. The trial will probably be held in June.

Capitol Sets Five Films

"Biography of a Bachelor Girl" goes into the Capitol Friday, following "Sequoia." "After Office Hours," "West Point of the Air," "Vanessa" and "The Casino Murder Case" follow in the order named.

To Examine Extra List

W. Ray Johnston, Harold S. Bareford and J. Robert Rubin, the Campi production committee, will meet this morning to examine the registration list recommended by the standing committee on extras in Hollywood before Code Authority acts on it tomorrow. The list contains 1,004 names. S. R. Kent, also a member of the committee, is in Florida on a vacation.

Leo, the Lion, Passes

After 15 years of service for M-G-M, Leo, the Lion, is dead. He passed away Monday at the Philadelphia Zoo at the age of 20, succumbing to heart disease.

Leo has toured the U. S., Canada and Mexico for M-G-M. Arrangements for disposition of the animal have not yet been completed. The company is now on the hunt for a successor.

Bank Nights Help, Says FWC Official

Fox West Coast is in favor of bank nights, but has been forced by code decisions to stop the practice in about 25 of 30 houses along the west coast. In all instances where bank nights have prevailed, the houses have made money, F.W.C. officials say.

In defending an overbuying complaint against the American and Ventura, Ventura, Cal., Charles Buckley, attorney for F.W.C., stated recently:

"The bank night is the most constructive thing that has hit the industry in years. It has made a lot of money for us in individual houses and after a check it has been found to be a money maker for the circuit. A lot of houses which were in the red changed colors on the books after we adopted this policy.

"I regret very much its discontinuance," Buckley said. "There is a test suit in the Federal courts and we hope the court upsets the ruling that bank night is a lottery."

Mrs. Jenne Dodge of the Mission, Ventura, charged that because she had filed a bank night complaint and won a decision against the American and Ventura, F.W.C. was trying to deprive her of getting product. Mrs. Dodge declared that with the exception of one or two companies she could not buy second run product from major companies. F.W.C. having tied it up with all companies except Fox and Paramount, which flatly refuse to sell her, she said, because of prior run percentage contracts. Buckley denied F.W.C. had conspired with the exchanges to stop selling the Mission. He also laughed off the charge of retaliation, claiming that the pictures were bought before the bank night case had been filed.

The appeal committee, comprising F. Thomas Murray, A. W. Smith, Jr., and Henry Sussman, has met to recommend a decision to Campi, which meets tomorrow to hand down a number of appeal determinations.

Stars' Absence Irks Convention Leaders

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 26.—M. P. T. O. A. leaders here are disappointed over Paramount's and M-G-M's refusal to allow Bing Crosby and Wallace Beery to appear at their convention now in session here. Declaring they believe studios issued orders along the above lines, leaders say they know of no other reason for this move on the part of the studios.

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 26.—W. C. Fields and Bing Crosby, who were scheduled for personal appearances at the M. P. T. O. A. convention in New Orleans in connection with the preview of their Paramount picture "Mississippi," were recalled at the last minute due to the inability of Crosby to arrange for his broadcasting plus immediate preparation on his next film, according to studio officials. M-G-M officials stated that Beery never planned to attend the meet and is busy now working on "China Seas."

Ohio Governor Assures Probe Into Industry

Promises Action on Any Complaints by ITO

COLUMBUS, Feb. 27.—Threats of a state investigation of the industry were made by Gov. Martin L. Davey last night at the banquet which marked the end of the first day's session of the Independent Theatre Owners of Ohio.

"If the present New York and Hollywood practices continues," he said, "and the I. T. O. brings them to my attention, I will personally appoint a Senatorial or a special legislative committee to make a thorough investigation of the situation in Ohio."

John W. Bricker, state attorney general, also one of the speakers, echoed the Governor's sentiments.

"Monopolistic practices are crushing the small business man," he declared, "and are destroying state and national liberty. This must cease. Small business contributes proportionately to the

It Happened Last Night for Columbia at Academy Show

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 27.—Columbia stole the Academy show tonight by taking five different honors in the annual awards with "It Happened One Night."

Claudette Colbert was declared the best actress of the year and Clark Gable the best actor, both taking the spotlight for their work in the Columbia picture, which, incidentally, was also voted the best film of the year.

Thought Intended to Get More Cancellations, Playdate Deal

By RED KANN

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 27.—M.-P.T.O.A. leaders know they cannot walk out on the code and are using speeches about scrapping the NRA document as a trading leverage to sweeten their own situation either through complete elimination of those code clauses found objectionable, or wholesale revision.

The strategy, such as it is, traces back to widespread disgruntlement with which the code and its operations are met on all sides here. Verbal excoriation of it developed Monday when Jack Miller, Robert B. Wilby, Morgan Walsh, Jules H. Michael and others said their pieces.

The mere fact that the M.P.T.O.A. may determine it wants to return to its own business methods without benefit of the NRA is seen as carrying no weight in Washington. Even if the association should vote for codeless operation, which is remote, the expected extension of the NRA for two additional years, as requested of Congress by the President, is regarded as stamping with complete improb-

A regular luncheon meeting of the A. M. P. A. will be held today at the M. P. Club, beginning at 12:45 P. M. Committees in charge of the Naked Truth Dinner, to be held April 27, will make reports on their work to date.

Loew Chicago Plan Seen as Serious Move

to have urged Feist to use his influence with Loew officials in New York to call off the contemplated theatre building program.

Feist is understood to have told the conferees that the matter was out of his hands and a decision to withdraw or proceed rests with the theatre department in New York.

Possibility that some kind of an agreement might be reached that would end the threat of Loew's building in Chicago disappeared this morning when a proposed meeting between Felix Feist for M-G-M and Jack Miller, Lewen Pizor and Jay Emanuel for exhibitors, was called off. It is understood that the next move will be in Chicago when Miller returns there shortly.

It was Louis Nizer who first approached Emanuel with a suggestion that the latter attempt to get Miller together with Feist.

Efforts to reach Joe Vogel yesterday were unavailing. He was in conferences the greater part of the morning with Loew officials from Cleveland. However, it was learned that Feist had not communicated with Vogel on the Chicago matter before noon.

Loew's plans to build from eight to 10 theatres in the Windy City are in answer to refusal by Essaness and Schoenadt circuits to accept M-G-M's percentage terms. These circuits buy through booking combines maintained by Aaron Saperstein.

Approximately 100 important Chicago theatres have turned down M-G-M because of the percentage and preferred playing time demands, it is stated, costing the distributor from $6,000 to $7,000 weekly.

Five representatives, including Louis K. Sidney, have been in the Windy City on the venture during the past few weeks. Harry Moskowitz, in charge of construction for the circuit, has been looking over the Chicago sites. He left for Atlanta last night on a swing of several cities in which Chicago is believed to be included. He shortly leaves for South America, where Loew's will continue its theatre expansion program.

New Saenger Units Formed in Delaware

DOVER, Del., Feb. 27.—Three theatre and amusement companies, Saenger Theatres Corp., Saenger Realty Corp. and J. E. Rose, Inc., have been incorporated here.

Saenger Theatres listed capital stock of 148,000 shares, no par value. Saenger Realty filed to conduct listed 2,000 shares, no par value. J. E. Rose, Inc., filed to operate theatres, playhouses, amusement parks and dancing pavilions, listing 500 shares, no par Chiago.

liberty and happiness of all and we must and will protect the small operator for the good of all concerned."

Abram F. Myers, general counsel for Allied, complimented the unit for its cohesion. In discussing the NRA, Myers said:

"I consider President Roosevelt's recommendations as to the NRA to be conflicting in many particulars. It may interest you to know there is now a draft in Washington, although rough, making it mandatory for Campi to conform to Allied recommendations. Allied will be called upon for recommendations as well as experience. There is a big battle ahead of us."

All incumbent officers were re-elected for another year at the closing session today of the organization's second annual convention.

The officers are: Martin G. Smith, Toledo, president; Sam E. Lind, Zanesville, and Elmer Shard, Cincinnati, vice-presidents; Moe Horwitz, Cleveland, treasurer, and P. J. Wood, secretary. Directors who were reelected are Henry Greenberger and John Kalafat, Cleveland; J. Real Neth and Max Stern, Columbus; F. Wesley Huss, Jr., Cincinnati; John A. Schwalm, Hamilton; R. Earl Myers, Chillicothe; L. F. Erick, Martins Ferry; Nat Charnas, Toledo, and Henry Bieberson, Delaware. New directors elected are John Perkas, Elyria, and Harold Bernstein, Cincinnati.

Allied Code Policy Awaits Convention

Allied will make no effort to advise its various groups as to whether they should at this time openly renounce the code and refuse to continue payment of assessments.

The bulletin says the board of directors is "unanimous" in demanding a new code setup as suggested in a resolution adopted by it at the New Orleans meeting in December, which called for "an evenly balanced Code Authority and evenly balanced local boards and a new code to be formulated by the new Code Authority." Allied will also ask for support of the board of directors' plans "to sponsor an investigation of the negotiation, writing and administration of the code."

In line with its demand for "a code which squares with American ideals of fair play," the board, according to the bulletin, is intent on getting the whole Allied membership to support legislation to put an end to compulsory block booking.

A proposal to increase this year's budget will also be laid before the convention.

Product deals and tieups as well will be before the convention for consideration, the attitude of the board here being that national and regional organizations stand to profit by greater use of these means of exploitation.

Control Corp. Files Chrysler Corp. Suit

Charging Chrysler Corp. with failure to supply it with air conditioning equipment in accordance with an asserted agreement as its distribution agent, Control Corp. of America has begun an action for $125,000 damages against Chrysler, F. B. Warren, president of Control Corp., reports.

The action alleges that Control Corp. expended $62,000 in the promotion of Chrysler equipment and, after contacting "a great number" of theatres, was unable to obtain equipment or the necessary data for installations. Warren stated that, as a result, he had been compelled to withdraw his company from active participation in theatre air conditioning. The suit was filed, he said, after weeks of unsuccessful negotiations with Chrysler officials in an effort to obtain reimbursement for damages said to be in excess of $125,000. Arthur S. Friend, attorney, is representing Control Corp.

Legion to Classify Short Subjects Soon

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 27.—Short subjects are to be classified by the Legion of Decency in a manner similar to the ratings now given to features, revealed the Rev. George McDonald, S. J., of St. Louis at a meeting of the Leavenworth Diocesan Council of the Kansas State Sodality Union.

Father McDonald is an associate of Father D. J. Lord, St. Louis priest, who is nationally active in the "decency campaign."

Production of objectionable films has declined from 15 per cent to four and a half per cent, according to a report by Emmet Blaes of Wichita, Kan., state chairman of the Knights of Columbus committee cooperating with the clergy in the film movement.

Campi Men Dismiss Burr-Maynard Case

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 27.—A special committee appointed by Campi to hear the case of C. C. Burr against Ken Maynard and the Small, Landau Agency charging violation of optional services Burr had with Maynard, was dismissed by the committee on the grounds that Burr did not furnish a contract and a bond before the last day that the option expired. Two days later Small sold Maynard to Darmour for a series of pictures he is now producing for Columbia.

The attorney for Burr will appeal the case to Rosenblatt.

Utah Gets Proposal For 10% Ticket Tax

SALT LAKE CITY, Feb. 27.—A proposal to increase the state amusement tax to 10 per cent from the present two per cent is contained in a bill calling for extending the scope of the sales tax, which was introduced in the House by Rep. Joseph W. Jensen.

In addition to the amusement tax increase, the sales tax of two per cent would be applied to additional items, with the revenue derived in excess of the $2,000,000 per year now allotted to emergency relief, being applied to a teachers' retirement and disability benefit fund.

Exhibitors Believe McCall Bill Doomed

Local exhibitors, returning yesterday from Albany where they opposed the McCall Bill before the Committee on Public Education on Tuesday, believe that the bill will be killed in committee.

Industry members attending included C. C. Pettijohn of the Hays office, former Senator Henry J. Walters of RKO, William T. Powers of the Skouras circuit, Charles L. O'Reilly and Sam Sonin of the T. O. C. C., and Bernard Barr and M. Nelson of the I. T. O. A.

The bill provides for censorship on all advertising and a license fee from distributors and exhibitors.

To Detroit on "Time"

Fred McConnell, Charles Stillman, Daniel Longwell and Amos Hiatt leave for Detroit over the week-end to meet Harry H. Thomas and Ralph Rolan, the latter vice-president in charge of advertising and promotion for "The March of Time" for informal sales discussions on "The March of Time."

Thomas and Rolan are in New Orleans attending the M. P. T. O. A. convention and from there they will go to the automobile city.

U. A. Circuit Will Get Fox Met–Goldwyn

Met would come under the Loew banner.

"It would not be to the best interests either of the industry or Loew's to have it so," commented Swope on the reported Loew angle of the deal.

Goldwyn denied that Music Hall interests in New York were to take over the New York Rivoli and operate it. He said the deal involving the two houses merely calls for U.A. product and a split between the Rivoli and the Music Hall, with final details as to product allocation yet to be worked out between the two, presumably in the east.

Goldwyn said that he had not yet decided whether he would go to Europe on this trip.

Hal Horne Going to Coast for 6 Weeks

Hal Horne next week will temporarily shift his activities to the coast where he will remain for about six weeks. Accompanied by his wife and Herbert Jaediker and his wife, Horne leaves tomorrow for the west to make his headquarters at the U. A. studio in Hollywood.

While on the coast Horne will map out advertising campaigns on a number of the current season's products, including "Les Miserables."

St. Louis Cases to Come Up on March 4

Code Discussion Seen Strategic Move

MPTOA Code Talk Is Seen As Strategy

ability the granting of exemptions merely to one branch of one industry.

What the M.P.T.O.A. leaders, led principally by Miller, are doing is to whip up the issue, back it by resolutions, and erect a foundation on which it will stand later in carrying out a plan to get increased cancellations and perhaps curtailment of distributor insistence on preferred playing time. Little doubt exists about the burn-up which prevails over the latter situation.

Exhibitors assert Saturday and Sunday are their bread and butter days and they see no reason why they should be compelled to play what distributors designate they must on percentage terms. The distributor attitude is, of course, the reverse, the stand being their better product should have an advantage of playing percentage on these days when it has the best chance of getting the biggest possible gross.

Robert Boller, Kansas City architect, aided by drawings, gave an interesting talk on trends in theatre architecture and cited the relative merits of various types of buildings as well as decorative and furnishing materials.

Another speaker was Mrs. F. J. Block, vice-president of the American Federation of Organizations for the Hard of Hearing, who spoke on "Special Facilities in Theatres for the Hard of Hearing."

Vincent Expresses Views

In the absence of Walter Vincent, national treasurer, Edward G. Levy, acting secretary, read a communication from him in which he complimented Kuykendall on his administration, again voiced his opposition to duals, sanctioned block booking and hit score charges. He also took a stand in favor of a 25 per cent cancellation privilige.

The morning session was followed by a luncheon tendered by the Young Men's Business Club with all conventioneers invited. The afternoon session got going with an address abetted by models and slides from W. C. Brown, chief illuminating engineer of General Electric, who made the trip especially from Nela Park, Cleveland, to address the delegates. He traced the growth of luminous fronts and said he did not view as remote the gradual adoption of luminous ticket booths for theatres. He warned exhibitors of pitfalls in air conditioning.

J. T. Knight, Jr., of the Paramount Theatre Service Corp. gave an interesting talk on how to fully utilize the mechanical facilities in existing theatres and finished with a plea for organization of a Motion Picture Institute of Engineering so that the industry would not be so completely dependent on outside technical skill to furnish its mechanical progress.

Charles E. McCarthy, S. Charles Einfeld and Robert Gillham, as representatives of the advertising departments of major companies, constituted the next group of speakers. McCarthy urged upon the delegates proper advertising protection for current stars and pointed out such protection was necessary since the industry combined had so few drawing cards. Einfeld scored exhibitors for failing to take advantage of advertising counsel available to them in New York and urged closer cooperation between theatremen and their local newspapers on the theory both were indispensable in the American economic and social scheme.

Gillham exhorted exhibitors to forward suggestions on advertising and tieups to New York and declared the men in the field could do a real job in providing guidance to advertising departments of all the major producers. Roy L. Smart, division manager of North Carolina Theatres, with headquarters in Charlotte, explained interestingly and at length how his company, though a seven-point program, had turned critics of films in his territory into friends and counselled exhibitors elsewhere to do likewise.

Covering a part of the same ground, M. A. Lightman, Memphis, explained how cooperative efforts with the Better Films group in his city had proven commercially profitable. He also declared that exhibitors must make up their minds to classify pictures so that the public will know what to expect, and added that while the industry could not go beyond that it must, at least, go that far.

Lupton A. Wilkinson of the Advertising Advisory Council of the Hays organization, stated that a cross section of national opinion proved that the public wanted clean pictures and different types of films. He asserted that exhibitors can sell them if they get behind the new product and inform patrons what it is about.

Tonight was "Ol' Man River Night" with practically the entire contingent parading down to the waterfront for a cruise on the Capitol. Red flannels and other temperature protectors were in order, but the conventioneers just had to see the river by moonlight, if any.

Following the Mississippi River junket many conventioneers repaired to the Orpheum for a midnight preview of "Roberta."

Where the Sazeracs Flow

By RAMOS

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 27.—New York executives will be interested in learning that the Yost Amusement Co. is in the throes of expansion and several new members are about to be added to the board.

* * *

This and that seen and noted aboard the special out of New York: How SAM DEMBOW kidded LOUIS NIZER on the latter's code book; how GEORGE AARONS of the Pennsylvania M.P.T.O., who drove down from Philadelphia, broke down at Opelika, Ala., of all places, and chatted with the gang while the conductor awaited train orders; how the vocalizers sang "Carry Me Back to Ol' Virginny" as the special sped through Virginia, "Under the Carolina Moon" through North and South C. and "Stars Fell on Alabama" through that state.

This choo-choo assumed real proportions as it dug deeper into the south. Washington saw one car added; Charlotte, a second, and Atlanta, a third. The D.C. contingent included W. P. and MRS. HERBST of the Circle, SIDNEY B. LUST, A. JULIAN and MRS. BRYLAWSKI, and LOU ZION, who is associated with NATHAN STIEFEL at the Palace. LOUIS BERNHEIMER set forth earlier and took in Miami first. By car went BEN LUST, who is in the supply business in that city; FRANK STORTY, associated with BERNHEIMER, and C. B. and MRS. TWYMANN, who operate the Jefferson at Charlottesville, Va.

The engineering service, Southern Railway style, left much to be desired. Occupants of the cab were torn by much indecision which reflected itself in agonizing starts and spurts.

Every time Messrs. DEMBOW, ROBBINS, CLARK, NIZER and others began to hum "Smoke Gets In Your Eyes," JULES ("ROBERTA") LEVY would pick up where they left off. "It's alright," said DEMBOW, "that's about all the plug the picture will get."

Follow Up

New Orleans, Feb. 27.—"National Screen's plan to give away a suit with every account running a Warner trailer will come in handy because Metro's selling plans for next season will leave exhibitors in short pants," remarked a convention wit today.

Observation while traveling through Georgia by LOUIS NIZER:

"Looks as if the Chic Sale circuit is the biggest in these parts."

Collaboration on a wire to OSCAR MORGAN and DAVE PRINCE at Atlanta failed to result in the delivery of bottled goods. They had already left for the convention by auto.

DAVE PALFREYMAN is now in the dead center of a rest period. Theatre contact for the Hays organization, he had a helluva time last week whipping final arrangements into shape. An unlucky break kept ED KUYKENDALL off the scene of action, what with the flu to combat. This added to PALFREYMAN's burdens, but makes his current sigh of relief all the more welcome.

SOL GORDON of the Jefferson Amusement Co., big East Texas chain, has his son here. JULIUS finished his college training a few months ago and is now actively in his father's business.

Forty-two make up the Northern California contingent. This is ahead of expectations by about 30.

The local Film Row turned out en masse to greet the arrivals. Little will be done by way of routine exchange business this week.

LOU NIZER was worried about accommodations. That is, until FELIX FEIST moved him into his suite.

HELEN O'TOOLE, recording secretary of the M.P.T.O.A., expects the usual rush, plus headaches, plus demands for advance copies of reports by trade paper men.

Increases in Cancellation Behind Talks

Smaller Lobbies Are Urged by Architect

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 27.—Reduction in area devoted to lobbies, more space for foyers and increasing stage openings by 25 per cent to allow a setback of screens for the purpose of avoiding distortion are modern architectural trends in theatres, as Robert Boller, noted Kansas City theatre architect, sees them.

In his address to the M. P. T. O. A. convention today he gave it as his opinion that smaller lobbies to allow larger foyers were wise, even at the sacrifice of space usually devoted to shops.

Reduction of balcony tilt was another piece of advice he offered in the belief that steepness current generally today has been responsible for many accidents through stumbling.

Lowered ceilings resulting in lowered projection booths he cited as important aids to projection. His address then took up the relative merits of stone, terra cotta and stucco for theatre exteriors, citing that each had its value.

It's Col. Kuykendall

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 27.—Ed Kuykendall is not only M.P.T.O.A. president now but a Kentucky Colonel as well. Jack Alicoate brought the appointment and parchment from New York for presentation.

Program to End Criticism Offered

Smart Tells How to Make New Friends

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 27.—Exhibitors must consider their obligation to further better films and can turn critics into friends if they get on the job, Roy L. Smart, division manager of North Carolina Theatres, Inc., stated before the M.P.T.O.A. convention this afternoon. He was one of the speakers in a day devoted to merchandising and discussion of methods of improving grosses.

Criticism in his circuit's towns is at a low ebb today, he said, as a result of the launching and successful culmination of a seven-point program, the highlights of which follow:

1. Sale of films on a basis of audience suitability and breakdown into types suitable for adults, families and children. Parrents' and teachers' associations were lined up for this.
2. Advertising pressure or increase of budgets on types of pictures like "Little Women" and extra space directed at special audiences with types like "Berkeley Square."
3. Elimination of nude cutouts and horizontal clinches in advertising.

Questionable Scenes Out

4. Self-imposed circuit editing of product to eliminate sequences held objectionable, but with no publicizing to the public.
5. Booking shorts to go with family type of pictures and editing trailers shown on such programs.
6. Cultivation of more friendly public opinion. The circuit managers conferred with local editors and garnered editorial support for worthwhile pictures. A publicity campaign based on material supplied by distributors on types of pictures and checkup with critics with advice sought through the mail on what improvements may have been overlooked.
7. Criticism gathered by theatre managers followed by remedial action where criticism made improvements feasible.

M. A. Lightman followed Smart and touched on more or less the same ground.

"Exhibitors hurl bombs at Hollywood, but how many worry about our own problems?" he asked. "I tell you the fellow least responsible for advancement in this industry is the exhibitor."

He told how he had turned over his Linden and Circle in Memphis to a Better Films group for Friday night family shows with a subsequent rise in the night's average gross from $60 to $148. Lightman took the stand for classification of product, pointing out that exhibitors must advise parents about types although a decision as to whether or not they should allow children to attend was for the head of the family to determine.

"Mass confusion at theatres is the result of much of our trouble," he remarked. He opposed any effort to narrow producers and argued that films should have the same right to reproduce life on the screen as newspapers.

Lupton A. Wilkinson of the Advertising Advisory Council of the Hays office was the last speaker. His interviews with 128 publishers and several hundred prominent figures throughout the country had convinced him that wholesome films and pictures removed from the routine were in demand from the public, he said.

Quoting a recent statement in MOTION PICTURE DAILY by Winfield Sheehan, production head of Fox, that a cycle of wholesome and human stories was next in line, Wilkinson asserted his travels had proved the point.

"Exhibitors first must believe in pictures they are getting, then go out and do something about it. 'With Byrd at the South Pole' recently played its eleventh return engagement in Memphis where there are no more highbrows than in any other city or country. Lightman, however, found the people to whom that type appealed and so cashed in."

Knight Favors Formation Of a Technical Institute

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 27.—Declaring that the history of the industry demonstrates that all technical improvements have come from outside engineering sources, J. T. Knight, Jr., of Paramount Theatres Service Corp., New York, offered for M. P. T. O. A. consideration the idea of fostering a Motion Picture Institute of Engineering, in his convention address here today.

"It would be a progressive step," Knight said.

This speaker's address was one of several at the second day's session which was devoid of fireworks, as conventions of other years have known them, but was part of a full day devoted to constructive talks on various angles and methods of improving theatre grosses with the available factors at hand. Knight spoke at length, and engrossingly, on theatre air conditioning, declaring that the subject was full of pitfalls because of the mechanical intricacies involved. He said that in this instance, as in other phases of equipment purchases, there were few circuit heads in the country sufficiently experienced to make a proper decision.

The air conditioning industry, he continued, was lined up for a "killing" and, as a result, the field is full of inexperienced groups endeavoring to palm off equipment on theatre men. Knight said the problem chiefly was an engineering one and added that instances of over-engineering, rather than under-engineering, were rife throughout the exhibition industry. His advice to the conventioneers was to proceed slowly and deal only with reputable concerns.

He predicted a possible setback for theatres through incompetent air conditioning in the restaurant and department store field. He said the public would be made wary through contracting colds in those establishments. Knight warned exhibitors against four types of conditioning equipment, namely, air washing, the unit system, high velocity systems which shoot air through like a gun, and inadequate re-circulation systems. He predicted a more general use of automatic heating controls, which would reduce engineering manpower, and pointed out that the use of filtered air results in less theatre dirt and so reduces costs for cleaners.

Duals Cut Quality, Vincent Tells Meet

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 27.—Widespread use of duals has resulted in several majors, which he did not name, making many pictures which they know will not hold up on single bills, but are salable on double programs, declared Walter Vincent, M.P.T.O.A. treasurer, in a letter to Ed Kuykendall which was read today by Edward G. Levy in Vincent's absence.

Vincent is on a Caribbean cruise for his health.

Duals, he wrote, lower the quality and up the quantity and therefore are deleterious to the best interest of the industry. Vincent also went on record for 25 per cent cancellation privileges, asserting in this connection that star values and film types varied in different sections of the nation. He expressed himself in favor of continued selling in blocks on the theory that neither the exhibitor nor the producer can exist without it.

Producers are making too many pictures, he continued, and this is why they do not make all good films. He chided the M.P.T.O.A. on its score charge inaction.

Asks Closer SMPE, Exhibitor Contacts

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 27.—A closer alliance between exhibitors and the Society of M. P. Engineers for the improvement of technical service in the theatre and the easier solution of its engineering problems was urged by Homer G. Tasker, S. M. P. E. president, in a paper read by Herbert Griffin of International Projector Corp. at today's session of the M. P. T. O. A. convention.

Describing the theatre as a factory, run by engineering equipment and turning out a product of engineering, Tasker stressed the relation to the box-office of properly functioning sound, projection, lighting and ventilating equipment. He urged more frequent meetings of exhibitors with engineers for the exchange of theatre engineering ideas.

Ad Men Urge Theatres to Use Service

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 27.—Advertising managers of two major companies today urged M. P. T. O. A. men to take more interest in theatre advertising while a third said exhibitors are in a position to help by sending recommendations to New York for future guidance.

Charles E. McCarthy of Fox and S. Charles Einfeld of Warner-First National viewed advertising as an individual theatre problem, but urged exhibitors to protect the too few real stars of the industry by according them proper advertising.

Einfeld made an interesting point in declaring that advertising men at large figured in every deal made no matter in what industry, stating it was part of an unwritten understanding that they had to contribute their efforts to make such a deal successful. He deplored exhibitors' attitude that product deals merely called for distributors to ship cans of film and accessories such as stills and paper, adding that theatremen fail to realize or take advantage of service awaiting them from distributors along advertising lines.

Few to New York for Aid

"Exhibitors who had come to New York for counsel or aid were rare," Einfeld declared, citing as exceptions Ed Fay of Providence and Walter Immerman, in charge of the B. & K. Loop theatres in Chicago. "These men didn't always take advice offered, but at least were alive enough to seek other ideas," he said.

"Call for such help. We'll be glad to furnish it," he added.

Einfeld also urged exhibitors to cultivate managing editors of local newspapers, arguing that the theatre and newspaper were integral industries and could do much for each other.

Robert H. Gillham of Paramount went into reverse, declaring that the assembled exhibitors could do considerable to counsel advertising men by criticizing pressbooks and tieups effected for them.

NSS Films Delegates

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 27.—National Screen Service is filming all comers at a studio set up off the M.P.T.O.A. convention hall here. Exhibitors and others are saying anything they like into the "mike," but many are giving addresses on subject matter which they can use on their own screens upon returning to their home towns.

U. S. Films Lead in Argentine Theatres

Washington, Feb. 27.—The dominant position held in Argentina by American films is revealed in a report to the U. S. Department of Commerce from its Buenos Aires office. Of the 477 films released in that country during 1934, 353 were of American origin. Of the American, 341 were produced by the major companies.

In point of number, German films ranked second with 32 features; France, third, 26; Spanish, 22; British, 14; and Italian, four.

Argentina ranks after the United Kingdom as the most important foreign outlet for American films, having taken approximately 15,000,000 feet in 1934. For the most part, American pictures are shown in Argentina with Spanish title superimposed.

Argentina has developed local production, with six companies in operation. During 1934, these companies produced six features and it is reported that eight are now in production.

Of the approximately 1,500 theatres in Argentina, 600 are wired. The better class houses in Buenos Aires, it is pointed out, are comparable in luxury and convenience to the best in the United States.

In the face of import restrictions and other difficulties, American films have been able to maintain their dominant position in Greece, according to a report from Commercial Attache K. L. Rankin, in Athens.

"Talking" Is Los Angeles' Top, $20,000

Los Angeles, Feb. 27.—In a week of grosses that held to about the same level as the previous week "The Whole Town's Talking" grabbed $20,000, over normal by $2,000, at the Paramount.

"Sweet Music" made an excellent showing at the RKO Hillstreet by hitting $8,500, but it was weak at Warners' Hollywood, where the $9,000 gross was $5,000 under par.

"The Good Fairy" was strong at $4,200 at Pantages.

Total first run business was $78,928. Average is $91,200.

Estimated takings for the week ending Feb. 27:

American Pictures Up in Switzerland

Washington, Feb. 27.—American pictures showed a gain in Switzerland over German pictures last year, according to a report here from the American consulate-general of Zurich. The number of German films imported has remained constant, but the receipts from American pictures were greater, it was pointed out in the report.

Although French pictures are well received in French Switzerland, their drawing power is negligible in other sections of the country, and exhibitors have shown a marked preference for either American or German product.

Loses Clearance Case

Pittsburgh, Feb. 27.—Peter M. Pegadiotes, operating the Colonial and Capitol, Farrell, Pa., has lost his fight to get a cut in the 28 days' clearance which Warners' Columbia, Sharon, Pa., has over his houses. Pegadiotes wanted a cut to 14 days, but the clearance and zoning board decided the present 28 days was equitable.

Evens Gets Ideas

St. Louis, Feb. 27.—Harold W. Evens, Loew's State manager, agreed to address the Junior Ad Club recently on advertising problems.

Then he returned to thinking up ideas for exploiting "Sequoia" and decided his audience ought to be able to help him. He screened the picture before his address and then called upon those present for suggestions.

The campaign is all laid out now.

Split Bills Draw Big in Lincoln

Lincoln, Feb. 27.—The Orpheum, splitting a week with "Gentlemen Are Born" and "Secret Bride," with stage shows both halves, was in the hard money class last week with $3,900, over par by $1,600. Gene La Verne's local girl dance contest the last four days gave considerable buildup to the weak part of the stretch.

"Clive of India" faltered at the Stuart and gave ground to a $2,700 take, which is $400 below average. At the Lincoln "Wings in the Dark" was a clipper and got $2,600. The Varsity was in the doldrums with "School for Girls" and got a bare $1,000.

Total for the four first runs was $10,200. Average is $9,100.

Estimated takings:

Week Ending Feb. 21:

"GENTLEMEN ARE BORN" (Warners)
"SECRET BRIDE" (Warners)
ORPHEUM — (1,200), 10c-15c-25c. Stage: 3 days with "Folies Begere" and four days with Gene La Verne. Gross: $3,900. (Average, $2,300)
"WINGS IN THE DARK" (Para.)
LINCOLN—(1,600), 10c-25c, 7 days. Gross: $2,600. (Average, $2,200)
"SCHOOL FOR GIRLS" (Liberty)
VARSITY—(1,100), 10c25c, 7 days. Gross: $1,000. (Average, $1,500)

Week Ending Feb. 22:

"CLIVE OF INDIA" (U. A.)
STUART — (2,000), 10c-25c-40c, 7 days. Gross: $2,700. (Average, $3,100)

"Aran" Runs 8 Weeks

Boston, Feb. 27.—Grossing about $25,000 during its eight-week run at the Fine Arts, "Man of Aran" has nearly doubled all long-run records in this city during the last six years. The Fine Arts seats only 583 and is located on a side street over a mile from the main business section. Tickets sell for 50 cents in the afternoon and 75 cents at night.

The average eight-week gross of the Fine Arts Theatre is approximately $12,000.

Patricia Ellis Resting

Hollywood, Feb. 27.—Patricia Ellis has left on a three-week vacation in Detroit and Washington. She has just finished work in Paramount's "Hold 'Em, Yale."

Ames in "Secret Lives"

Hollywood, Feb. 27. — Adrienne Ames has been handed one of the chief roles in "Secret Lives" at Fox. The film, which features Mona Barrie and Gilbert Roland, will start March 1. This will be Edward T. Lowe's first effort as a producer at Fox. Bruce Humberstone will direct.

"Good Fairy" $10,500 Top, Kansas City

Kansas City, Feb. 27.—"The Good Fairy" led the parade, combined with a stage show, soaring to $10,500 at the Tower where $8,000 is average.

A four-week teaser campaign aroused curiosity in "Evergreen" which reacted at the Uptown's box-office to the tune of $5,600, up by $2,100. This was the surprise of the week. "Evergreen" and "Good Fairy" were held.

"Sweet Music," the Newman's attraction, bettered average at $6,500. Elsewhere grosses were off.

Estimated takings:

Week Ending Feb. 14

"THE SCARLET PIMPERNEL" (U. A.)
MAINSTREET — (3,100), 15c-25c-40c, 7 days. Gross: $5,000. (Average, $6,000)
"SEQUOIA" (M-G-M)
MIDLAND—(4,000), 15c-25c-40c, 7 days. Gross: $6,900. (Average, $9,000)

"THE GOOD FAIRY" (Univ.)
TOWER — (2,200), 25c, 7 days. Stage: Britt Wood; Merna, Earle & Carrol; Dalton & Craig; White & Cole, others. Gross: $10,500. (Average, $8,000)

Week Ending Feb. 22:

"EVERGREEN" (G. B.)
UPTOWN—(2,000), 25c-40c, 7 days. Gross: $5,600. (Average, $3,500)

Censor Bill Proves Missouri Bombshell

Jefferson City, Mo., Feb. 27.—The legislative proposal for state censorship in Missouri was a bombshell in industry ranks, and exhibitors are rallying to defeat it. If it appears that the measure stands a chance of approval, the industry will demand a hearing.

Under the bill, introduced by Senator John P. Shea, Democrat, himself a theatre manager in St. Louis, a three-member board would be appointed by the governor. Each would receive an annual salary of $4,000.

Expenses of the board would be covered, it is estimated, by a film inspection fee of $5 a reel and a charge of 50 cents to inspect posters and other advertising.

Previous attempts have been made to establish state censorship, but this is the first time such a move has been initiated by an exhibitor. Kansas City is the only city in the state which maintains film censorship, and welfare boards in several smaller cities have supervision over films.

Ann Dvorak with Cagney

Hollywood, Feb. 27.—Ann Dvorak gets the feminine lead in "The Farrell Case," in which Warners will team James Cagney and Jack Holt.

Columbia Gets Bartlett

Hollywood, Feb. 27. — Michale Bartlett, formerly of the Philadelphia Opera Co., has been signed by Columbia for Grace Moore's "On Wings of Songs."

Buys Nebraska House

Crete, Neb., Feb. 27.—A. Burrus, operator of the Isis, has bought out his competitor, A. W. Persons, operator of the Lyric.

Day-after-Day
EXCELLENCE

EASTMAN Super-Sensitive "Pan" Negative has played a part in productions that marked veritable milestones in cinematic progress. Yet its success in these outstanding pictures is based upon the same dependability it offers cameramen and producers every day in the year. Unfailing, day-after-day excellence is the quality that makes this film the natural choice for the screen's greatest ventures. Eastman Kodak Company, Rochester, N. Y. (J. E. Brandt Renamed As Head of the ITOA

Although he was anxious to retire from the post, Harry Brandt was unanimously nominated for the presidency of the I. T. O. A. yesterday at the regular meeting of the unit at the Astor. Four other members had been proposed, but withdrew in favor of continuing Brandt. They were Dr. Leon Greenfield, John Benas, Bernard Barr and Morris Fleischman.

Fleischman and Barr were nominated for the vice-presidency, succeeding Leo Justin. Dr. Greenfield is nominee for second vice-president, Maurice Brown for secretary, Leon Rosenblatt and Hyman Rachmil for treasurer, Louis Schneider for sergeant-at-arms.

Elections will be held March 27. About 100 attended the session.

NIRA Defense Issue In Suit at Chicago

Theatres got under way today. The actions are against local circuits and distributors, the plaintiffs complaining of the inability to show double features and to charge dime admissions because of concerted action on part of the defendants.

The array of legal talent, headed by E. D. Adcock, representing Essaness circuit; Nathan Blumberg, for Fox, and David Levinson, for Paramount, asked for dismissal of the suits, basing their pleas on the ground that the complainants had not exhausted the sources of remedy provided for in the code.

Joe Rosenberg, attorney for Roden, contended that the anti-trust laws are in full force and effect. Judge Woodward, who is hearing the cases in the U. S. District Court, ordered further arguments on the applicability of the code tomorrow. About 50 exhibitors' and distributors' representatives were in court today. Based on the first day's developments, chances of a settlement seem remote.

Comerford Holding Own in Washington

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—Although his condition is reported still serious, M. E. Comerford continued to show some improvement today, according to Dr. Walter A. Bloedorn, who has been attending the circuit head at Emergency Hospital since he was stricken here last Friday.

Comerford's improvement during the past 24 hours makes his condition more hopeful, Dr. Bloedorn stated.

Dietrich Is Re-signed

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 27. — Marlene Dietrich today signed a new long term contract with Paramount, according to a statement direct from Adolph Zukor, who at the same time added that Ernst Lubitsch will hereafter devote his entire time to studio production. Lubitsch's assignment to direct the star's next film will be turned over to another director.

"Lost City" at $14,683

"The Lost City" has taken the Globe out of its lethargy, grossing $14,683 for the first week of an indefinite run. The second and last week of "Hei Tiki" garnered $2,200 at the house.

sixth when it took the prize for the best sound recording with "One Night of Love," which, additionally, came first with the best scoring in the music division.

Con Conrad and Herb Magigson, who wrote "The Continental," were named the best song writers.

In the short subject division "The Tortoise and the Hare," a Walt Disney color subject, was voted best in the cartoon division. "La Cucuracha," released by RKO-Radio, took signal honors in the comedy lineup, while "City of Wax," a Woodward-Educational-Fox release, rated aces in the novelty category.

Hundreds jammed the Hollywood Biltmore Bowl as the voting for the Academy's seventh annual awards got under way. Major Leonard Levinson, head of the technical research division of the Academy, presided. The counting of the ballots ended at 9:30. When the winners were announced it was learned that all the victors were unanimously chosen.

Exclusive of the short subjects division, Columbia scored high with seven honors, M-G-M took second with three and Paramount third with one award for the best cinematography with "Cleopatra," which, peculiarly enough, starred Miss Colbert.

U. A., Radio and Fox each took one award in the shorts selections. None of the nominees whose names were written on the ballots at the last minute had a chance in the voting.

Here are the winners:

KRS Asks Gaumont To Explain Moves

By BRUCE ALLAN

LONDON, Feb. 27.—The Kinema Renters' Society, influential association of British distributors, in a letter to members today revealed that it had challenged the theatre expansion plans here of Gaumont British under a K.R.S. resolution against the booking of houses in which the booker has no substantial financial interest.

K. R. S. has requested G. B. to furnish it with proof of its financial interest in the Hyams Circuit and Union Theatres, and, pending receipt of the information, has instructed its distributor members not to book those theatres through G. B. The K. R. S. letter says in part:

"Gaumont British Picture Corp. is being requested to furnish the Society with information concerning its financial and other arrangements in connection with various cinemas for which it has been announced G. B. proposes booking films. Pending the receipt of this information, which will enable the society to determine whether or not such arrangements conform with the policy of the society, no contracts for films should be negotiated for the cinemas in question with G. B. but only with the original proprietors in the same manner and with the same persons who have hitherto been negotiating those contracts."

The expansion of G. B.'s theatre interests has been interpreted here as a move to control bookings of American films in Britain in proportion with the American booking of G. B. films.

Ohio Ups Censor Fees

COLUMBUS, Feb. 27.—The House Judiciary Committee today reported out a bill to increase Ohio censorship fees to $3 for the first reel and $2 for each subsequent reel. The present fee is $1 per reel.

Ohio Governor Assures Probe Into Industry

Promises Action on Any Complaints by ITO

COLUMBUS, Feb. 27.—Threats of a state investigation of the industry were made by Gov. Martin L. Davey last night at the banquet which marked the end of the first day's session of the Independent Theatre Owners of Ohio.

"If the present New York and Hollywood practices continues," he said, "and the I. T. O. brings them to my attention, I will personally appoint a Senatorial or a special legislative committee to make a thorough investigation of the situation in Ohio."

John W. Bricker, state attorney general, also one of the speakers, echoed the Governor's sentiments.

"Monopolistic practices are crushing the small business man," he declared, "and are destroying state and national liberty. This must cease. Small business contributes proportionately to the

K.C. in Drive On Insurance Claim Racket

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 27.—With the expressed aim of smashing the fake damage claim racket which has been thriving in Kansas City and has forced up liability insurance rates, the local Chamber of Commerce is preparing to set up an independent bureau to correct the evil. Theatres figure prominently as victims of the racket.

The bureau, to be financed by business men most affected, will work towards carrying out 17 major recommendations presented in a report of a special insurance committee of the Chamber of Commerce. About 60 days ago the committee began a study of insurance charges in Kansas City, fol-

Thought Intended to Get More Cancellations, Playdate Deal

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 27.—M.-P.T.O.A. leaders know they cannot walk out on the code and are using speeches about scrapping the NRA document as a trading leverage to sweeten their own situation either through complete elimination of those code clauses found objectionable, or wholesale revision.

The strategy, such as it is, traces back to widespread disgruntlement with which the code and its operations are met on all sides here. Verbal excoriation of it developed Monday when Jack Miller, Robert B. Wilby, Morgan Walsh, Jules H. Michael and others said their pieces.

The mere fact that the M.P.T.O.A. may determine it wants to return to its own business methods without benefit of the NRA is seen as carrying no weight in Washington. Even if the association should vote for codeless operation, which is remote, the expected extension of the NRA for two additional years, as requested of Congress by the President, is regarded as stamping with complete improbability the granting of exemptions merely to one branch of one industry.

What the M.P.T.O.A. leaders, led

to have urged Feist to use his influence with Loew officials in New York to call off the contemplated theatre building program.

Feist is understood to have told the conferees that the matter was out of his hands and a decision to withdraw or proceed rests with the theatre department in New York.

Possibility that some kind of an agreement might be reached that would end the threat of Loew's building in Chicago disappeared this morning when a proposed meeting between Felix Feist for M-G-M and Jack Miller, Lewen Pizor and Jay Emanuel for exhibitors, was called off. It is understood that the next move will be in Chicago when Miller returns there shortly.

It was Louis Nizer who first approached Emanuel with a suggestion that the latter attempt to get Miller together with Feist.

Efforts to reach Joe Vogel yesterday were unavailing. He was in conferences the greater part of the morning with Loew officials from Cleveland. However, it was learned that Feist had not communicated with Vogel on the Chicago matter before noon.

Loew's plans to build from eight to 10 theatres in the Windy City are in answer to refusal by Essaness and Schoenadt circuits to accept M-G-M's percentage terms. These circuits buy through booking combines maintained by Aaron Saperstein.

Approximately 100 important Chicago theatres have turned down M-G-M because of the percentage and preferred playing time demands, it is stated, costing the distributor from $6,000 to $7,000 weekly.

Five representatives, including Louis K. Sidney, have been in the Windy City on the venture during the past few weeks. Harry Moskowitz, in charge of construction for the circuit, has been looking over the Chicago sites. He left for Atlanta last night on a swing of several cities in which Chicago is believed to be included. He shortly leaves for South America, where Loew's will continue its theatre expansion program.

liberty and happiness of all and we must and will protect the small operator for the good of all concerned."

Abram F. Myers, general counsel for Allied, complimented the unit for its cohesion. In discussing the NRA, Myers said:

"I consider President Roosevelt's recommendations as to the NRA to be conflicting in many particulars. It may interest you to know there is now a draft in Washington, although rough, making it mandatory for Campi to conform to Allied recommendations. Allied will be called upon for recommendations as well as experience. There is a big battle ahead of us."

Allied Code Policy Awaits Convention

Allied will make no effort to advise its various groups as to whether they should at this time openly renounce the code and refuse to continue payment of assessments.

The bulletin says the board of directors is "unanimous" in demanding a new code setup as suggested in a resolution adopted by it at the New Orleans meeting in December, which called for "an evenly balanced Code Authority and evenly balanced local boards and a new code to be formulated by the new Code Authority." Allied will also ask for support of the board of directors' plans "to sponsor an investigation of the negotiation, writing and administration of the code."

In line with its demand for "a code which squares with American ideals of fair play," the board, according to the bulletin, is intent on getting the whole Allied membership to support legislation to put an end to compulsory block booking.

The convention will also be given the A. S. C. A. P. situation to consider. The Allied board has taken a definite stand against music fees, it is revealed by the bulletin, which says that "a good friend of Allied on the Patents Committee of the House stands ready to sponsor a measure along the lines of the Allied amendments to the bill to revise the copyright laws reported by that committee a few years ago."

A proposal to increase this year's budget will also be laid before the convention.

Product deals and tieups as well will be before the convention for consideration, the attitude of the board here being that national and regional organizations stand to profit by greater use of these means of exploitation.

Control Corp. Files Chrysler Corp. Suit

Charging Chrysler Corp. with failure to supply it with air conditioning equipment in accordance with an asserted agreement as its distribution agent, Control Corp. of America has begun an action for $125,000 damages against Chrysler, F. B. Warren, president of Control Corp., reports.

The action alleges that Control Corp. expended $62,000 in the promotion of Chrysler equipment and, after contacting "a great number" of theatres, was unable to obtain equipment or the necessary data for installations. Warren stated that, as a result, he had been compelled to withdraw his company from active participation in theatre air conditioning. The suit was filed, he said, after weeks of unsuccessful negotiations with Chrysler officials in an effort to obtain reimbursement for damages said to be in excess of $125,000. Arthur S. Friend, attorney, is representing Control Corp.

Production of objectionable films has declined from 15 per cent to four and a half per cent, according to a report by Emmet Blaes of Wichita, Kan., state chairman of the Knights of Columbus committee cooperating with the clergy in the film movement.

Agency charging violation of optional services Burr had with Maynard, was dismissed by the committee on the grounds that Burr did not furnish a contract and a bond before the last day that the option expired. Two days later Small sold Maynard to Darmour for a series of pictures he is now producing for Columbia.

The attorney for Burr will appeal the case to Rosenblatt.

Utah Gets Proposal For 10% Ticket Tax

SALT LAKE CITY, Feb. 27.—A proposal to increase the state amusement tax to 10 per cent from the present two per cent is contained in a bill calling for extending the scope of the sales tax, which was introduced in the House by Rep. Joseph W. Jensen.

In addition to the amusement tax increase, the sales tax of two per cent would be applied to additional items, with the revenue derived in excess of the $2,000,000 per year now allotted to emergency relief, being applied to a teachers' retirement and disability benefit fund.

Unite in Battle on Delaware Dog Racing

WILMINGTON, Feb. 27.—Warners, Loew's and Delaware independent theatres are cooperating in a drive against Representative Henry C. White's bill in the House to permit dog racing. The measure, if it becomes a law, will permit pari-mutuel betting.

Warners, led by A. J. Vanni of the Philadelphia District which includes Wilmington; Loew's, headed by Carter Barron, of the Baltimore District, and the I.M.P.T.O.A., of Delaware and the Eastern Shore of Maryland, led by President A. Joseph DiFiore, are heading the opposition.

Charter Two Companies

ALBANY, Feb. 27.—International Booking Corp., New York City, has been chartered here with capital of $10,000 to engage in theatrical and musical booking. Felix W. Salmaggi, Joseph F. Viola and Norman Furman are directors and subscribers. A charter also has been issued to Promotional Films, Inc., with capital of 100 shares, no par value. Directors and subscribers are R. M. Savini, J. Michelson and Ceil Bernert, all of New York.

K.C. in Drive On Insurance Claim Racket

lowing an excessive increase in liability rates. A preliminary meeting was attended by George S. Baker, manager of the Newman, and Jay Means, head of the I. T. O.

The outright charge that a fake accident claim racket exists as a form of "legalized robbery" costing thousands of dollars annually was made in the report.

Theatres, large and small, have been large-scale prey. Injury claims increased so extensively over a year ago that the public liability rate for theatres was jumped from a minimum of 12 cents a seat to 40 cents. As a result, most of the independent suburban theatres have no liability coverage, either because they cannot afford it or because companies canceled policies at houses considered bad risks. Some companies will no longer write insurance even at the rates that have become prohibitive for many smaller theatres.

Through the efforts of the I. T. O. a fake accident "ring" was uncovered in which claimants, witnesses and lawyers were the same in a number of cases. The favorite trick was to rip up a carpet and then stumble over it. Other investigations revealed professional accident witnesses willing to testify for a fee, with lawyers and doctors working in collusion.

The 40-cent rate for theatres here is among the highest in the country. It is on a par with New York and Chicago, and exceeded only by Boston, where the charge is 65 cents per seat, believed the highest, according to insurance men.

The chamber's report held the insurance companies culpable to a large extent because of their practice of settling claims rather than go through with litigation. The Kansas City Bar Ass'n. and the Jackson County Medical Society have pledged support.

St. Louis Cases to Come Up on March 4

Sherman anti-trust law and Clayton Act.

The defendants are: Three Warner units—Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc., Vitaphone Corp. and Warner Bros. Circuit Management Corp.; General Theatrical Enterprises, Inc.; Paramount Pictures Distributing Co., Paramount Pictures Distributing Corp., and Harry M. Warner, Herman Starr, Abel Cary Thomas, Gradwell Sears, George J. Schaefer and Ned E. Depinet.

It is expected a trial date will be set, although there may be some delay due to the recent advancement of U. S. District Judge C. B. Faris to the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals bench. Unless another district judge is confirmed soon by the U. S. Senate, the calendar may be disturbed.

principally by Miller, are doing is to whip up the issue, back it by resolutions, and erect a foundation on which it will stand later in carrying out a plan to get increased cancellations and perhaps curtailment of distributor insistence on preferred playing time. Little doubt exists about the burn-up which prevails over the latter situation.

Exhibitors assert Saturday and Sunday are their bread and butter days and they see no reason why they should be compelled to play what distributors designate they must on percentage terms. The distributor attitude is, of course, the reverse, the stand being their better product should have an advantage of playing percentage on these days when it has the best chance of getting the biggest possible gross.

Robert Boller, Kansas City architect, aided by drawings, gave an interesting talk on trends in theatre architecture and cited the relative merits of various types of buildings as well as decorative and furnishing materials.

Another speaker was Mrs. F. J. Block, vice-president of the American Federation of Organizations for the Hard of Hearing, who spoke on "Special Facilities in Theatres for the Hard of Hearing."

Tonight was "Ol' Man River Night" with practically the entire contingent parading down to the waterfront for a cruise on the Capitol. Red flannels and other temperature protectors were in order, but the conventioneers just had to see the river by moonlight, if any.

Where the Sazeracs Flow

By RAMOS

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 27.—New York executives will be interested in learning that the Yost Amusement Co. is in the throes of expansion and several new members are about to be added to the board.

* * *

This and that seen and noted aboard the special out of New York: How SAM DEMBOW kidded LOUIS NIZER on the latter's code book; how GEORGE AARONS of the Pennsylvania M.P. T.O., who drove down from Philadelphia, broke down at Opelika, Ala., of all places, and chatted with the gang while the conductor awaited train orders; how the vocalizers sang "Carry Me Back to Ol' Virginny" as the special sped through Virginia, "Under the Carolina Moon" through North and South C. and "Stars Fell on Alabama" through that state.

This choo-choo assumed real proportions as it dug deeper into the south. Washington saw one car added; Charlotte, a second, and Atlanta, a third. The D.C. contingent included W. P. and MRS. HERBST of the Circle, SIDNEY B. LUST, A. JULIAN and MRS. BRYLAWSKI, and LOU ZION, who is associated with NATHAN STIEFEL at the Palace. LOUIS BERNHEIMER set forth earlier and took in Miami first. By car went BEN LUST, who is in the supply business in that city; FRANK STORTY, associated with BERNHEIMER, and C. B. and MRS. TWYMANN, who operate the Jefferson at Charlottesville, Va.

The engineering service, Southern Railway style, left much to be desired. Occupants of the cab were torn by much indecision which reflected itself in agonizing starts and spurts.

Every time Messrs. DEMBOW, ROBBINS, CLARK, NIZER and others began to hum "Smoke Gets In Your Eyes," JULES ("ROBERTA") LEVY would pick up where they left off. "It's alright," said DEMBOW, "that's about all the plug the picture will get."

Follow Up

New Orleans, Feb. 27.—"National Screen's plan to give away a suit with every account running a Warner trailer will come in handy because Metro's selling plans for next season will leave exhibitors in short pants," remarked a convention wit today.

Observation while traveling through Georgia by LOUIS NIZER:

"Looks as if the Chic Sale circuit is the biggest in these parts."

Collaboration on a wire to OSCAR MORGAN and DAVE PRINCE at Atlanta failed to result in the delivery of bottled goods. They had already left for the convention by auto.

DAVE PALFREYMAN is now in the dead center of a rest period. Theatre contact for the Hays organization, he had a helluva time last week whipping final arrangements into shape. An unlucky break kept ED KUYKENDALL off the scene of action, what with the flu to combat. This added to PALFREYMAN's burdens, but makes his current sigh of relief all the more welcome.

* * *

SOL GORDON of the Jefferson Amusement Co., big East Texas chain, has his son here. JULIUS finished his college training a few months ago and is now actively in his father's business.

* * *

Forty-two make up the Northern California contingent. This is ahead of expectations by about 30.

* * *

The local Film Row turned out en masse to greet the arrivals. Little will be done by way of routine exchange business this week.

* * *

LOU NIZER was worried about accommodations. That is, until FELIX FEIST moved him into his suite.

* * *

HELEN O'TOOLE, recording secretary of the M.P.T.O.A., expects the usual rush, plus headaches, plus demands for advance copies of reports by trade paper men.

Complies in Bank Nights

STORM LAKE, IA., Feb. 27.—With one day of grace remaining, G. R. Norman, manager of the Empire, has acquiesced with a grievance board ruling and has called off bank nights. The board had informed distributors to cease film delivery unless he complied.

Rosenblatt "Fair," Asserts Jack Miller

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 27.—Compliance Director Sol A. Rosenblatt was described as "fair" in his handling of exhibitor labor situations under the code by Jack Miller, chairman of the M.P.T.O.A. committee on labor practices under the code, in addressing the convention session yesterday.

"Labor conditions are friendlier than we have ever known them," he said. "I know of instances where Rosenblatt told labor it could not go out on strike, and while there are some clauses in the labor section I do not like, undoubtedly we are getting along better. We can't throw labor out and labor cannot go out on strike. I say that's something."

Seven Committees To Handle Details

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 27.—Dray horses of the M.P.T.O.A. convention are 39 men who comprise eight committees appointed this afternoon by Ed Kuykendall.

They are:

Credentials and Rules—George A. Mann, San Francisco; William Benton, Saratoga; L. E. Thompson, New York; Fred J. Dolle, Louisville; Louis Ansell, St. Louis.

Resolutions—Edward G. Levy, New Haven; Ben Berinstein, Los Angeles; R. X. Williams, Jr., Oxford, Miss.; Jay Emanuel, Philadelphia; A. Julian Brylawski, Washington; Charles E. Williams, Omaha; Joseph H. Brennan, Boston; Sol Gordon, Beaumont, Tex.

Code Practices—Morgan Walsh, San Francisco; Morris Lowenstein, Oklahoma City; Jules H. Michael, Buffalo; Mack Jackson, Alexander City, Ia.; W. E. Ruffin, Covington, Tenn.

Code Labor Provisions—Jack Miller, Chicago; Joseph R. Denison, Detroit; Charles Segall, Philadelphia; Robert B. Wilby, Atlanta; George Nasser, San Francisco.

Non-Theatrical Competition—George A. Giles, Boston; George P. Aarons, Philadelphia; Barney Dubinsky, St. Joseph, Mo.; H. V. Harvey, San Francisco; Fred Pickrell, Ponca City, Okla.

Legislation and Taxes—M. A. Lightman, Memphis; Edward M. Fay, Providence; Oscar C. Lam, Rome, Ga.; H. C. Buchanan, Charlotte.

Asks Closer SMPE, Exhibitor Contacts

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 27.—A closer alliance between exhibitors and the Society of M. P. Engineers for the improvement of technical service in the theatre and the easier solution of its engineering problems was urged by Homer G. Tasker, S. M. P. E. president, in a paper read by Herbert Griffin of International Projector Corp. at today's session of the M. P. T. O. convention.

Describing the theatre as a factory, run by engineering equipment and turning out a product of engineering, Tasker stressed the relation to the box-office of properly functioning sound, projection, lighting and ventilating equipment. He urged more frequent meetings of exhibitors with engineers for the exchange of theatre engineering ideas.

Columbia Shifts Titles

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 27.—Two title changes have been made at Columbia. "Devil's Cargo," Lambert Hillyer directing, with Wally Ford and Marian Marsh, becomes "In Spite of Danger." The Tim McCoy picture, "Guns of the Law," is now called "Fighting Shadows."

Van Dyke-Mannix Wed

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 27.—W. S. Van Dyke yesterday was married to Ruth E. Mannix, actress and niece of Eddie Mannix, M-G-M executive.

Czechoslovak Import Gains Are Foreseen

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—Film exports to Czechoslovakia are expected to gain during the current year as a result of the re-entry of American firms into that market, according to a report to the U. S. Department of Commerce from Commercial Attache Sam E. Woods in Prague.

The Czechoslovak market, it is pointed out, has been hit during the last three years by restricted imports. In November, in order to induce American companies to return, imports were put on an unlimited basis and the former contingent was replaced by a registration fee of $800 for each feature. The fees are to be used for subsidizing domestic production to the extent of $5,600 per sound feature and an additional $1,600 for each foreign language version of films produced in the Czech language.

During 1934, Czechoslovak companies produced 30 sound features, of which 39 were in Czech and one was in German. Five foreign pictures, including one French and four American, were dubbed locally in Czech during 1934.

Imports of sound pictures into Czechoslovakia during 1934 totaled 164, compared with 162 in 1933. Of the total, Germany supplied 77, followed by Great Britain and France, with 28 and 21, respectively. Sound feature imports from the United States totalled only 19.

Films for Benefits On Rise in Hartford

HARTFORD, Feb. 27.—Increased used of motion pictures for benefit performances is reported here. A series of early Sunday afternoon showings of German pictures for the August Moeller home for the aged has been drawing overflow crowds to the Princess.

On Feb. 22 the Men's Club of the Broadview Community Church presented "One Night of Love" at the Bushnell Memorial and the Sisterhood of Emanuel Synagogue will have the first local showing of "Power" at the Bushnell March 4. The next in the German series will be "Der Hauptmann von Koepenick" on March 10. Several hundred were turned away from "Viener Blut" last Sunday. These organizations formerly depended on amateur dramatics to raise funds.

Form Delaware Firms

DOVER, Feb. 27.—Arthur Hopkins Prod., Inc., has been incorporated to operate theatres and other places of amusement listing capital stock of 100 shares, of no par value. The incorporators are Anne Glatterman, Hilda Goldman and Howard E. Reinheimer of New York City.

Screen Broadcasts, Inc., has filed a charter to carry on the business of film producing and broadcasting listing a capital of $10,000. The incorporators are Leo T. Wagner, J. L. Mulhall and Charles E. Seidner, of Chester, Pa.

Fitzgerald Ends Nights

MILWAUKEE, Feb. 27.—Wisconsin Amusement Enterprises, Inc., will discontinue bank nights in all its houses, according to H. J. Fitzgerald.

Variety Club Chatter

Cincinnati

CINCINNATI, Feb. 27.—Visitors at the local tent last week included: JOHN SKIRBOLL, manager First Division exchange, Pittsburgh, and a member of the Pittsburgh tent, and RICHARD E. BECK, New York, here in the interests of the "March of Time."

BILLY BEIN and his wife, ESTHER, send a postcard from Florida showing a current bathing scene, while brother barkers are transacting business around steam radiators.

WILLIAM G. BISHOP, of Tent No. 5, Detroit, and LADDIE HANCOCK of Indianapolis No. 10, and his "frau" were circulating among Cincinnatians last week.

Detroit

DETROIT, Feb. 27.—Nine new barkers have been elected to membership in the local club. They are: HERBERT E. IVES, president of Monarch; FRED BONNEN, RKO salesman; RAYMOND CLOUD, Columbia salesman; ED. C. MURPHY, RKO salesman; JOSEPH M. MELLON, Columbia salesman; MILTON E. COHEN, First Division branch manager; HAROLD SMILAY, associate of ALEX SCHREIBER in his circuit; WALTER D. SHAFER, Wayne exhibitor; CLIFFORD H. WHITE, owner of the Beechwood.

J. L. SAXE has been named treasurer, succeeding CARL H. SHALIT, resigned. CARL BUERMELE has succeeded SAXE as chairman of the house committee.

RAY MOON is among the local filmites vacationing in Miami.

Barker MAX RUBEN became a grandpa when his son, RALPH'S, wife became the mother of a seven and one-half pound daughter.

Kansas City

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 27.—Local and national industry personalities were lampooned and lambasted in the second edition of "Fox Tid Bits" presented at the Steuben Club by Fox Midwest managers and staff for the entertainment of Variety Club members and guests.

LEO MCCARTHY delivered a swell job as the show's producer, and the genius of BILL WAGNER as general factotum was in evidence.

Those roasted didn't seem to mind it a bit. ELMER RHODEN, Fox Midwest boss, puffed at an underslung pipe as he watched his "boys" display hitherto unsuspected talents.

The skits and specialties were hilarious. EDGAR JONES was a scream as "Toby," and ROY CATO gave an amusing performance as a broken-down piano banger at a broken-down piano. Others deserving special mention were MORRILL MOORE and his orchestra, LIZZIE and CHARLIE MORRILL, SAM NASTER, HERB GOLDBERG, ED SHANBERG, FRANK RITTER, CHARLIE JONES, MARTIN FINKELSTEIN and CHARLIE SHAFER.

The show followed a dinner and election of officers, which have been announced in MOTION PICTURE DAILY. To ARTHUR COLE, assistant chief barker, went the honor of nominating the new crew. Chief Barker FRANK HENSLER presided.

Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 27.—Variety Club held its first gala entertainment this week with an estimated attendance of 2,300.

The performance at the Penn A. C. was a triumph in all departments, with city and state leaders as well as film notables present. Mayor J. HAMPTON MOORE, who addressed those present, was given an associate membership by Chief Barker EARLE SWEIGERT.

LEONARD SCHLESINGER was chairman of the entertainment committee and master of ceremonies for the evening.

Following a special introductory clip, a special reel showing pictures taken at the first Variety Club luncheon was screened. This was followed by "Star Night at the Cocoanut Grove" and "After Office Hours," feature. Acts from leading night clubs and floor shows as well as local theatres using vaudeville followed, through courtesy of the houses, with two pit bands alternating.

A drawing wound up the evening's program, with special prizes to those holding the lucky programs.

Finance Committee Chairman JAMES CLARK took an active part in the pre-entertainment work.

St. Louis

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 27.—"Variety Club Night" will be staged at the Meadowbrook Town Club in the Chase Hotel March 4.

TONY METRECI will be general chairman, assisted by ALVIN WOLFF, HAROLD W. EVENS, HENRY BUDDE and LOU ELMAN. AL ROTH and his orchestra will furnish music.

Washington

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27. — Barkers of Tent. No. 11 turned laundrymen when JOHN CHEVALIER and DON CRAIG, the kings for a day, held court in the club rooms and restaurant of GEORGE P. MARSHALL'S locally famed Palace ("Long Live Linen") Laundry.

It was the second function held outside the Willard Hotel. The kings conducted a shirt-ironing contest, the winner of which would have his shirts Palace-ironed for a period of 12 weeks free. SAM A. GALANTY got the free laundry.

Charter Two Companies

ALBANY, Feb. 27. — Another new theatre company and a production unit have been chartered here. The former is Audubon Amusement, Inc., chartered by Freda Jaret, Miriam M. Rosenblum and John G. Zellner. The other is Casino Prod., Inc., formed by June K. Rothman, Betty Black and Florence L. Levy.

Two Delaware Bills Up

DOVER, Feb. 27.—Two Sunday bills are now before the Legislature. One provides for local referendums for authorization of Sunday shows after the passage of the proposed laws. The other would permit opening of theatres after 9 o'clock Sunday nights.

India's Production Gains Cut Imports

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27. — Production in India is gaining, according to a report to the U. S. Department of Commerce from Trade Commissioner George C. Howard in Calcutta. This is especially in evidence in Bombay where native productions are now offering competition to American and British films.

There are approximately 40 studios in India, according to a reliable estimate. In addition to their own output, they rent their studios and equipment to small companies on a footage basis.

A year ago, Howard states, two or three weeks was considered a long run for a native picture, but many pictures during 1934 ran beyond this time and one ran for 11 weeks in Calcutta.

American companies are reducing the number of prints per feature and are also cutting down the number of features. Imports from the United States in 1934 were approximately 5,000,000 feet.

Hartford Group to Fight Film Attacks

HARTFORD, Feb. 27.—A fan organization is being formed here to defend films against onslaughts of the Legion of Decency and self-appointed censors. The group will be a branch of the Little Theatre Workshop, and will maintain headquarters.

The new group seeks freedom of the films in the same measure that freedom of the press is granted in the constitution. Meetings will be held weekly, and films tabooed by the Catholic Transcript will be boosted by the group whenever they are deemed worthy of boosting for aesthetic or entertainment values.

Columbia, Boston, Dark

BOSTON, Feb. 27.—The Columbia former Loew house, closed last week. This was in the Fred E. Lieberman circuit which has dropped 25 per cent of its situations in less than two months, including the Majestic here and the Capitol and Victory in Lowell. A number of exhibitors are trying to land the Lowell Strand, including, it is said, Joe Flynn of nearby Lawrence. The Majestic is being opened for foreign product by Levrad, while Jerome Parker Jerome, formerly with Lieberman, may take over the Columbia which he recently managed. Edward Sellette, most recent manager, who gave the Hub its first baby carriage parking space, has gone to Albany.

Sovey to St. Louis Opera

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 27. — Raymond Sovey, scenic designer for the New York Theatre Guild, has been appointed art director of the Municipal Opera. Zeke Colvan will return for his third season as director of the opera. Oscar Bradley, musical director, has joined the Fox studio at Hollywood.

Hubbard to Do Musical

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 27.—Lucian Hubbard will produce the musical Ted Lewis and his band will make for M-G-M. Pinkie Tomlin will be in the cast, but no story or director have been chosen as yet. Production will start around June 1.

"Good Fairy," "Mystery Man" Top in Frisco

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 27.—The Orpheum led the first advance in box-office takings in months here by going to $10,500 with "The Good Fairy" and "Mystery Man" on the screen. This take is over average by $1,500.

"Devil Dogs of the Air" was the only other first run to top par. It grabbed $8,500 at the St. Francis.

Total first run business was $78,500. Average is $82,000.

U. S. Films Lead in Argentine Theatres

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—The dominant position held in Argentina by American films is revealed in a report to the U. S. Department of Commerce from its Buenos Aires office. Of the 477 films released in that country during 1934, 353 were of American origin. Of the American, 341 were produced by the major companies.

In point of number, German films ranked second with 32 features; France, third, 26; Spanish, 22; British, 14; and Italian, four.

Argentina ranks after the United Kingdom as the most important foreign outlet for American films, having taken approximately 15,000,000 feet in 1934. For the most part, American pictures are shown in Argentina with Spanish title superimposed.

Argentina has developed local production, with six companies in operation. During 1934, these companies produced six features and it is reported that eight are now in production.

Of the approximately 1,500 theatres in Argentina, 600 are wired. The better class houses in Buenos Aires, it is pointed out, are comparable in luxury and convenience to the best in the United States.

In the face of import restrictions and other difficulties, American films have been able to maintain their dominant position in Greece, according to a report from Commercial Attache K. L. Rankin, in Athens.

"Talking" Is Los Angeles' Top, $20,000

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 27.—In a week of grosses that held to about the same level as the previous week "The Whole Town's Talking" grabbed $20,000, over normal by $2,000, at the Paramount.

"Sweet Music" made an excellent showing at the RKO Hillstreet by hitting $8,500, but it was weak at Warners' Hollywood, where the $9,000 gross was $5,000 under par.

"The Good Fairy" was strong at $4,200 at Pantages.

Total first run business was $78,928. Average is $91,200.

Estimated takings for the week ending Feb. 27:

American Pictures Up in Switzerland

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—American pictures showed a gain in Switzerland over German pictures last year, according to a report here from the American consulate-general of Zurich. The number of German films imported has remained constant, but the receipts from American pictures were greater, it was pointed out in the report.

Although French pictures are well received in French Switzerland, their drawing power is negligible in other sections of the country, and exhibitors have shown a marked preference for either American or German product.

Loses Clearance Case

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 27.—Peter M. Pegadiotes, operating the Colonial and Capitol, Farrell, Pa., has lost his fight to get a cut in the 28 days' clearance which Warners' Columbia, Sharon, Pa., has over his houses. Pegadiotes wanted a cut to 14 days, but the clearance and zoning board decided the present 28 days was equitable.

Evens Gets Ideas

St. Louis, Feb. 27.—Harold W. Evens, Loew's State manager, agreed to address the Junior Ad Club recently on advertising problems.

Then he returned to thinking up ideas for exploiting "Sequoia" and decided his audience ought to be able to help him. He screened the picture before his address and then called upon those present for suggestions.

The campaign is all laid out now.

Split Bills Draw Big in Lincoln

LINCOLN, Feb. 27.—The Orpheum, splitting a week with "Gentlemen Are Born" and "Secret Bride," with stage shows both halves, was in the hard money class last week with $3,900, over par by $1,600. Gene La Verne's local girl dance contest the last four days gave considerable buildup to the weak part of the stretch.

"Clive of India" faltered at the Stuart and gave ground to a $2,700 take, which is $400 below average. At the Lincoln "Wings in the Dark" was a clipper and got $2,600. The Varsity was in the doldrums with "School for Girls" and got a bare $1,000.

Total for the four first runs was $10,200. Average is $9,100.

Estimated takings:

Week Ending Feb. 21:

"GENTLEMEN ARE BORN" (Warners)
"SECRET BRIDE" (Warners)
ORPHEUM — (1,200), 10c-15c-25c. Stage: 3 days with "Folies Begere" and four days with Gene La Verne. Gross: $3,900. (Average, $2,300)
"WINGS IN THE DARK" (Para.)
LINCOLN—(1,600), 10c-25c, 7 days. Gross: $2,600. (Average, $2,200)
"SCHOOL FOR GIRLS" (Liberty)
VARSITY—(1,100), 10c25c, 7 days. Gross: $1,000. (Average, $1,500)

Week Ending Feb. 22:

"CLIVE OF INDIA" (U. A.)
STUART — (2,000), 10c-25c-40c, 7 days. Gross: $2,700. (Average, $3,100)

"Aran" Runs 8 Weeks

BOSTON, Feb. 27.—Grossing about $25,000 during its eight-week run at the Fine Arts, "Man of Aran" has nearly doubled all long-run records in this city during the last six years. The Fine Arts seats only 583 and is located on a side street over a mile from the main business section. Tickets sell for 50 cents in the afternoon and 75 cents at night.

The average eight-week gross of the Fine Arts Theatre is approximately $12,000.

Patricia Ellis Resting

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 27.—Patricia Ellis has left on a three-week vacation in Detroit and Washington. She has just finished work in Paramount's "Hold 'Em, Yale."

Ames in "Secret Lives"

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 27. — Adrienne Ames has been handed one of the chief roles in "Secret Lives" at Fox. The film, which features Mona Barrie and Gilbert Roland, will start March 1. This will be Edward T. Lowe's first effort as a producer at Fox. Bruce Humberstone will direct.

"Good Fairy" $10,500 Top, Kansas City

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 27.—"The Good Fairy" led the parade, combined with a stage show, soaring to $10,500 at the Tower where $8,000 is average.

A four-week teaser campaign aroused curiosity in "Evergreen" which reacted at the Uptown's box-office to the tune of $5,600, up by $2,100. This was the surprise of the week. "Evergreen" and "Good Fairy" were held.

"Sweet Music," the Newman's attraction, bettered average at $6,500. Elsewhere grosses were off.

Estimated takings:

Week Ending Feb. 14

"THE SCARLET PIMPERNEL" (U. A.)
MAINSTREET — (3,100), 15c-25c-40c, 7 days. Gross: $5,000. (Average, $6,000)
"SEQUOIA" (M-G-M)
MIDLAND—(4,000), 15c-25c-40c, 7 days. Gross: $6,900. (Average, $9,000)
"SWEET MUSIC" (Warners)
NEWMAN — (1,800), 25c-40c, 7 days. Gross: $6,500. (Average, $6,000)
"THE GOOD FAIRY" (Univ.)
TOWER — (2,200), 25c, 7 days. Stage: Britt Wood; Merna, Earle & Carrol; Dalton & Craig; White & Cole, others. Gross: $10,500. (Average, $8,000)

Week Ending Feb. 22:

"EVERGREEN" (G. B.)
UPTOWN—(2,000), 25c-40c, 7 days. Gross: $5,600. (Average, $3,500)

Censor Bill Proves Missouri Bombshell

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Feb. 27.—The legislative proposal for state censorship in Missouri was a bombshell in industry ranks, and exhibitors are rallying to defeat it. If it appears that the measure stands a chance of approval, the industry will demand a hearing.

Under the bill, introduced by Senator John P. Shea, Democrat, himself a theatre manager in St. Louis, a three-member board would be appointed by the governor. Each would receive an annual salary of $4,000.

Expenses of the board would be covered, it is estimated, by a film inspection fee of $5 a reel and a charge of 50 cents to inspect posters and other advertising.

Previous attempts have been made to establish state censorship, but this is the first time such a move has been initiated by an exhibitor. Kansas City is the only city in the state which maintains film censorship, and welfare boards in several smaller cities have supervision over films.

Ann Dvorak with Cagney

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 27.—Ann Dvorak gets the feminine lead in "The Farrell Case," in which Warners will team James Cagney and Jack Holt.

Columbia Gets Bartlett

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 27. — Michale Bartlett, formerly of the Philadelphia Opera Co., has been signed by Columbia for Grace Moore's "On Wings of Songs."

Buys Nebraska House

CRETE, Neb., Feb. 27.—A. Burrus, operator of the Isis, has bought out his competitor, A. W. Persons, operator of the Lyric.

Educational Censor Move Irks British

CEA Voices Opposition To New Announcement

By BRUCE ALLAN

LONDON, Feb. 18.—Possibilities of additional censorship, parallel with that of the British Board of Film Censors, is seen in an announcement from the British Film Institute that it is prepared to issue "vouchers of approval" to non-fictional films. These vouchers would, says the B. F. I., record "the accuracy and value for educational and cultural purposes" of such films.

The legal and parliamentary committee of the Cinematograph Exhibitors' Ass'n., in an outspoken report to the General Council, protested against this action, saying: "It is news to us that there is any public Opposition to the new Paramount Publix board of directors on the part of Morris L. Ernst, member of the Vanderlip debenture committee, will cause that important reorganization group to issue a divided assent to the Paramount plan of reorganization, it was learned yesterday.

The Vanderlip committee's assent to the plan has been delayed several days because of the schism within its ranks. Since the final court hearing on the plan is scheduled for April 4, and bondholders must be given 30 days in which to accept or reject the plan, the Vanderlip committee is being impelled to act with Ernst's differences still unresolved. A.T.&T. Net $111,167,554

American Telephone & Telegraph Co. has reported a net income applicable to its stock of $111,167,554 for 1934 compared with $100,341,875 for 1933.

This amounts to $5.96 a share on the $100 par value common stock, against $5.38 a share in 1933.

The 1934 net income was $56,792,921 less than the amount required to pay the $9 annual dividend, however.

Operating revenues for 1934 totaled $884,532,429, including some $5,000,000 subject to possible refund as a result of pending rate cases, compared with $872,406,227 in 1933.

New Belgian Treaty Requires Duty Cuts

WASHINGTON, March 1.—Reduction of the duty on raw stock from four tenths to two tenths of a cent per foot is provided for in the reciprocal trade agreement with Belgium, according to an analysis of the treaty made public today by the Department of Commerce.

The new duty will apply to film of standard width of one and three eighth inches, with all other widths of one inch or more subject to duty in equal proportion thereto.

Considerable uncertainty exists as to whether concessions made in reciprocal agreements with individual countries extend to all other nations which are on a most favored nation footing, but it was declared by department officials that all duty changes will have universal application unless and until the State Department announces that they are to be restricted.

Sioux Falls Court Dismisses Charges

SIOUX FALLS, S. D., March 1.—Two conspiracy cases, one against Paramount Pictures Distributing Corp. and Albert R. Anderson, branch manager of Paramount here, the other against Paramount Pictures Distributing, RKO, Fox, Warners, Universal, United Artists and M-G-M, were dismissed here yesterday by Circuit Judge Lucius J. Wall on motion of the defendants made after presentation of the plaintiffs' case, but before any evidence had been submitted by the defendants.

The plaintiff, Richard H. Wagner, operator of the Capitol here, and former operator of the Royal, alleged in his complaint that the defendants had conspired to prevent him from obtaining product, and asked damages of $7,500. An order was made by Judge Wall requiring Wagner to pay the costs of the action.

Para. Leads Bowlers

Paramount remains in first place in the Film Bowling League by winning the last session, two out of three games, with Fox. Radio is in second place, followed by Fox and Columbia.

The highest score of the meet was made by the Paramount team, which rolled out an 898. The highest individual score was made by Ronan, of Radio, who knocked the pins for 217. Other results are: Consolidated won three from Warner. United Artists 2, Columbia 1.

The standing of the teams is now, respectively, Paramount, Radio, Fox, Columbia, Consolidated, United Artists, M-G-M and Warners.

Gets Foreign Product

"Time" in Canada Deal

Harry H. Thomas and Charles Stillman of First Division have closed a deal with N. L. Nathanson and J. J. Fitzgibbon for the showing of "March of Time" over the entire Famous Players Canadian circuit.

Ernst Opposes Approval for Para. Setup divided assent. During the 30 days thereafter dissenting bondholders may withdraw their deposits from the committee or, if they have not deposited, may refrain from doing so. Two-thirds of the Paramount creditors, including bondholders, must assent to the plan in order to make it effective.

The Vanderlip committee's notification to bondholders will point out that Ernst's objections are centered on the board alone and that the financial phases of the plan have his approval.

With the committee's letter will go a separate letter from Ernst enumerating his objections to the board. While Ernst declined yesterday to comment on the contents of his letter in advance of its issuance, it was learned that the letter will enumerate four principal objections to the proposed Paramount board. One will be an attack on John D. Hertz of Lehman Bros. on the ground that he was named to the board to represent Paramount stock and bond holdings which were allegedly acquired late in the reorganization; that Hertz was chairman of the finance committee of Paramount at the time the film "hocking" deal with creditor banks was made and that legal steps were taken by the Paramount trustees to have this deal set aside as a preferential transaction, and, finally, that Hertz is a defendant in a pending suit brought by the trustees to recover assets for Paramount.

Must Know International Trade

A second objection will be that Paramount's foreign interests require a man on the board who is familiar with international trade, and that none has been named. A third will be that the board requires a member familiar with radio and television, and the fourth, that it requires a production representative, preferably a writer, and an educator familiar with film possibilities in schools.

The letter will make a pointed criticism of bankers on the board, and their prevalence. It was learned that Ernst nominated Henry R. Luce, publisher of Time and Fortune, who has been agreed upon by creditors for the new board. He has also been in touch with Screen Writers' Guild and Screen Actors' Guild in Hollywood for a likely nominee, and has tentatively suggested either George Kaufman or Marc Connolly, writers.

Ernst's objections to the board makeup will be aired at the April 4 court hearing, it was learned. The Vanderlip committee is one of the most important in the Paramount reorganization proceedings, representing more than $13,000,000 of the $25,000,000 of old Paramount debentures outstanding.

HOLLYWOOD, March 1.—Russell Holman, head of the eastern story board for Paramount, is eastbound after conferences here. Ben Bernie and his band also are headed for New York.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"McFadden's Flats"

(Rogers-Paramount)

HOLLYWOOD, March 1.—Modernized to cover the period of the stage play of the gay nineties, when as a popular comedy it held road show records, the talkie of Gus Hill's show emerges with comic vitality, homespun drama and wide mass appeal.

Built for laughs, of which it gets plenty, the cross-section of striving Americans, from overalls to tails, is depicted in this heart interest drama via the home life of a typical Irish family—Walter Kelly and Jane Darwell, the McFaddens, who send their daughter, Betty Furness, to a finishing school where she goes high hat. McFadden's pal, with whom he fights and forgets, is no longer German, but a Scotch barber, Andy Clyde, with his son, Richard Cromwell, who is that way about Betty. Saturated with "laugh-cry" flavor, teeming with east side-west side tang, the hilarious film high spot is Kelly's swank party where the neighborhood's melting pot dines and dances while George Barbier and Kelly, plastered, hold a bricklaying contest with books in Kelly's library.

Charles Rogers, showman producer, has given the film an up-to-the minute mounting, peopling it with great type troupers. Walter Kelly takes top honors, closely trailed by Andy Clyde, Jane Darwell, George Barbier and Betty Furness. Director Murphy squeezes all possible entertainment out of the screenplay by Arthur Caesar and Edward Kaufman. Ben Reynold's photography is good. As an attraction for neighborhoods this should clean up.

"Living on Velvet"

(Warners)

HOLLYWOOD, March 1.—The names of Kay Francis, Warren William and George Brent are certain to click at the box-office. This one is tailor-made for Brent and Miss Francis. However, William suffers through an inferior role.

The story is comedy and drama which holds the attention throughout due to the performances and direction counteracting the faltering yarn.

Brent, disillusioned about life when his parents and sister are killed in a plane crackup, which he survives, becomes a reckless ne'er-do-well. His pal, William, takes him to a party at which Miss Francis, the girl he loves, is hostess, and it's love at first sight. Brent and Miss Francis marry, and the story from here on features the struggle of the aristocratic woman to adjust herself to a mediocre manner of living with Brent, who won't accept jobs promoted by William.

Miss Francis seemingly fails to fill the void in Brent's life and she leaves him. An automobile accident, which Brent survives, brings them together again for better or worse, with William playing a major part in the reconciliation.

Frank Borzage shows individuality in his direction from the original of Jerry Wald and Julius Epstein. Helen Lowell, Russell Hicks, Maude T. Gordon, Samuel Hinds and Martha Merrill give good performances in support.

The customers will not be disappointed.

Code Seal No. 573. Running time, 75 minutes. "G."

"Great God Gold"

(Monogram)

HOLLYWOOD, March 1.—Starting as good entertainment, the story later gets involved, making it difficult to follow. Sidney Blackmer at the start is a stock speculator, who, by toss of a coin, sells all his holdings the day before the market crashes.

Attendant publicity brings him to the attention of Edwin Maxwell and John T. Murray, crooked lawyers, who capitalize on his reputation by using him as a respectable front for a receivership racket. From then on Blackmer's sympathetic character becomes heavy, unscrupulously attacking solvent firms to throw them into bankruptcy. His methods incur the enmity of Martha Sleeper, daughter of a hotel owner, who has committed suicide when Blackmer became hotel receiver. Miss Sleeper, with the help of Regis Toomey, as a newspaper reporter, finally brings about Blackmer's downfall, but the story first whitewashes his character by having him shot by Ralf Harolde, jealous husband, whose wife he has stolen. The picture ends with Blackmer dying and Miss Sleeper and Toomey on the way to the altar.

Photography and production are okay, as is Arthur Lubin's direction. The cast gives good portrayals.

demand that the B. F. I. should accord vouchers of approval to entertainment films." The committee recommended that the B. F. I. be reminded that it had agreed to refrain from any action which might be construed as an additional form of censorship.

At the C. E. A. Council meeting the opinion was expressed that the B. F. I. was in danger of exceeding its proper functions, but ultimately it was decided to leave the matter to Thomas Ormiston, M. P., a C. E. A. member who is also a Councillor of the B. F. I.

The Capitol, Haymarket, General Theatres property, controlled by Gaumont British, will close in March for reconstruction.

The new Capitol, to open in December, will be one of the most luxurious theatres in London, the plans embodying a sports arena and swimming pool in the basement. This will be frozen for ice skating in the winter. Provision for television will be made.

At present the Capitol is the only West End theatre in which all the seating is above street level, access to all parts being by stairway. The new plans bring all entrances to street level.

Run as a program house by G. B., the Capitol in its new form will probably become a long-run house, competing with the adjacent London Pavilion, U. A. key theatre, and with Paramount's Carlton and Plaza; the Empire (M-G-M) and Leicester Square Theatre (U. A.) are also a few hundreds yards away.

the wholesale value of manufactured goods, is proposed in a bill prepared by Representative Clarence J. McLeod of Michigan.

McLeod has attempted without success to have his sales tax measure adopted by the past two congresses. The proposed tax would apply to films, since only necessities of life would be exempted. A sales tax, the congressman declares today, is preferable to the nuisance taxes, because, he said, the latter are not based upon the ability to pay of the individual or industry affected.

Premiums Gaining In K.C. Territory be in the nature of a competitive "premium war," with the ultimate aim of the circuit being to put an end to the practice.

The independents maintain they are forced to giveaways by the existing clearance situation and, chiefly, by too many restrictions on double billing and 10-cent admissions. Prizes are taking the place of the second feature and 10-cent nights at some houses.

It is claimed that premiums are a business builder and encourage a steady weekly patronage. While each piece of tableware costs from eight to 11 cents, at an admission of 15 cents or 20 cents the exhibitors figure they are still ahead. Women comprise 60 per cent of the audiences on gift nights, it is estimated, and since the prizes are usually given only to feminine patrons, the balance is clear. Several exhibitors have also been attracting children with free candy and popcorn.

Premium men say the practice is also spreading in the smaller cities and that about 40 theatres are offering giveaways in this territory. This is exclusive of "bank nights," which presently are not used in Kansas City.

NRA Asserts Means To Alter Code Exist who is a member of a codified industry may propose amendments, individually or as a mamber of a minority or majority group, it was explained.

Purely as a routine of procedure, amendments should be submitted to the Code Authority as an agency of the Government, but, it was added, if the authority fails to act, the matter may be carried directly to the NRA, or, if for any reason proponents of an amendment do not care to act through the Code Authority, they may send their proposal to Washington.

Once before the NRA, all proposals for amendments are carefully considered and steps are taken to secure a consensus of the industry, it was pointed out, and where initial investigation indicates that the proposals are designed to improve a code, as distinct from proposals offered for the sole benefit of an individual or a small and not representative group, hearings are called and the matter is more fully explored.

Looking 'Em Over

"Death Flies East"

(Columbia)

Here is a mystery yarn that, despite the fact the story is interesting and shot against an unusual background and despite good character portrayals on the part of most of the cast, attains only a rating slightly above average entertainment.

The yarn has Florence Rice, recently paroled from a California prison, flying to Sing Sing to see a man about to be electrocuted in the hope of clearing her name. On the plane she meets Conrad Nagel, a college professor carrying an armament formula to Washington. Their fellow passengers include a deaf woman, a police lieutenant, an insurance salesman, a hardware company president, an Italian musician, a doctor and a young business man. A Japanese joins them at the plane's first stop. Death strikes this group when the policeman collapses in his seat. In the meantime the young business man had been poisoned, but only slightly, and taken to a Dallas hospital. The plane puts back to Dallas to investigate the policeman's death and with the aid of Nagel everything is cleared up when it is discovered the murderer is the first poison victim and that he had administered a small dose to himself to divert suspicion. Nagel goes on and gets the confession from Sing Sing and thus paves the way for the culmination of the romance that had sprung up between himself and Miss Rice.

The cast includes Raymond Walburn, Geneva Mitchell, Robert Allen, Irene Franklin, Miki Morita and Purnell Pratt. Phil Rosen directed capably. Al Siegler's photography is good. No code seal. Running time, 65 minutes. "G."

All unaffiliated exhibitor units in the country will be contacted by the two independent leaders to join the new group. In some territories where organizations now affiliated with Allied or the M.P.T.O.A. are dissatisfied they also will be asked to align. Approximately 20 cities will be included in the O'Reilly-Brandt itinerary.

Neither Allied nor the M.P.T.O.A. has a unit in the local area. Under the N.I.T.O.A. plan the T.O.C.C. and I.T.O.A. would merge and also act as the New York unit. The amalgamation is expected to take place before the summer is over.

"Rumba" walked off with $38,000 for the first week at the Paramount. Margo on the stage, in connection with her appearance in the film, helped considerably.

"Sequoia" netted the Capitol $34,000 on the week. Milton Berle and the Casino de Paree show were the stage attractions.

"The Good Fairy" was fair at the Palace at approximately $9,000.

Local exhibitors are all confident that no opposition will be forthcoming from these sources until late next spring.

K.C. in Drive On Insurance Claim Racket

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 28.—With the expressed aim of smashing the fake damage claim racket which has been thriving in Kansas City and has forced up liability insurance rates, the local Chamber of Commerce is preparing to set up an independent bureau to correct the evil. Theatres figure prominently as victims of the racket.

The bureau, to be financed by business men most affected, will work towards carrying out 17 major recommendations presented in a report of a special insurance committee of the Chamber of Commerce. About 60 days ago the committee began a study of insurance charges in Kansas City, following an excessive increase in liability rates. A preliminary meeting was attended by George S. Following receipt of a petition from Fox West Coast for a review of certain phases of the schedule the circuit considers unfair to its interests, Campi yesterday ordered the coast board to delay putting into effect the Los Angeles clearance and zoning schedule until March 15. The plan had been approved in toto by Code Authority on Feb. 21.

Campi will discuss the petition next Thursday. On Feb. 26 MOTION PICTURE DAILY exclusively stated F.W.C. would object to the coast schedule because of the peculiar competitive situation in various territories in Los Angeles and southern California.

The New Haven plan was up for discussion and voted down in its entirety. Campi's clearance and zoning committee, comprising George J. Schaefer, Charles L. O'Reilly and Al Lichtman will confer with John C.

Dismissal Arguments Up in Chicago Suits

CHICAGO, Feb. 28.—Arguments on a motion by defendant distributors and circuits to dismiss the suits of James Roder of the Astor and Jack Rubin of Public Theatre were continued today before Judge Woodward in the U. S. District Court.

The arguments revolve around the code as a source of remedy. Attorneys for Roder and Rubin contended that the remedies are not to be found in the code, branding local boards as "kangaroo courts."

W. D. Whitney, representing RKO, in asking dismissal defended the personnel of the local boards in lengthy arguments covering objectives of the N.I.R.A. Hearings resume tomorrow.

Committee of Five Will Be Selected to Talk With Rosenblatt

By RED KANN

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 28.—A committee of five yet to be named will seek reorganization of Campi to provide more equitable representation for various industry branches, greater authority for local grievance and clearance and zoning boards, and elimination of territorial appeals to Campi, except where such review may be necessary to establish or support the legality of local boards' decisions.

Out of a mass of argument and wrangling this action emerged as M. P. T. O. A.'s most significant decision insofar as the code is concerned, and came as the climax to deliberations of the 15th annual convention tonight.

The committee will confer with Compliance Director Sol A. Rosenblatt, but not in New Orleans, although he was here today to deliver an address which many delegates sissippi in response to demands that there be no "whitewashing" if the Senate granted the $5,000 asked to enable an inquiry by Harrison's Finance Committee.

The action of the Senate solved the problem caused by the submission of two investigation proposals, the other by Senator King of the Judiciary Committee. Differences between the various groups interested in the question were settled by an agreement that the inquiry should be conducted by the full Finance Committee and that Senators Nye of North Dakota and McCarran of Nevada, co-authors of the original investigation resolution, and Borah of Idaho and McGill of Kansas, members of the Judiciary Committee, also sought to make the probe, should sit with the finance group in the questioning of witnesses.

The Finance Committee and the four other Senators are to meet next Tuesday in executive session to map out plans for the public hearings which are to start shortly thereafter.

K. C. Drive on Fake Insurance Claims

cident claim racket exists as a form of "legalized robbery" costing thousands of dollars annually was made in the report.

Theatres, large and small, have been large-scale prey. Injury claims increased so extensively over a year ago that the public liability rate for theatres was jumped from a minimum of 12 cents a seat to 40 cents. As a result, most of the independent suburban theatres have no liability coverage, either because they cannot afford it or because companies canceled policies at houses considered bad risks. Some companies will no longer write insurance even at the rates that have become prohibitive for many smaller theatres.

Through the efforts of the I. T. O. a fake accident "ring" was uncovered in which claimants, witnesses and lawyers were the same in a number of cases. The favorite trick was to rip up a carpet and then stumble over it. Other investigations revealed professional accident witnesses willing to testify for a fee, with lawyers and doctors working in collusion.

Flinn some time next week on the clearance problem in the New England city.

With Eddie Cantor making one of his rare appearances, this time in behalf of the registration list on extras, Campi yesterday approved the list of 1,004 names and the proviso to increase the number 50 per cent during the year if the occasion warrants. The additional 10 per cent increases after 1935 were voted out, inasmuch as the code, as it stands now, does not go beyond June 16 of this year. If the code continues after this period, provisions to boost the extra's list will be made later.

Extension of 30 days for delinquents to pay up code assessments for the last half of 1934 was ordered by Campi. Expiration date for paying was Feb. 15, but the additional time starts from yesterday, the date of the resolution was adopted, making March 28 the final paydate. However, during this period, delinquents remitting levies cannot file complaints before local clearance and zoning and grievance boards until March 28.

Only eight of the 35 appeals on tap were decided yesterday, but the rest are expected to be disposed of next week. Charles L. O'Reilly was chairman of the session, attended by Deputy Administrator William P. Farnsworth, Nathan Yamins, Sidney Justin, Harold S. Bareford, Gordon C. Youngman, J. Robert Rubin, E. T. Vanderlip Is Due to Head Para. Board

Austin Keough, as secretary and general counsel, and H. A. Fortington, representative of British insurance companies holding Paramount securities, as chairman of the finance committee.

Fortington, through the coalition of creditor groups into a cooperative unit representing total claims of $14,000,000, had been regarded in many quarters as a formidable contender for one of the high executive posts. It is learned, however, that his inclinations are not to accept any post in Paramount which would make unusual demands on his time, because of other interests which he holds to be of greater import. It is stated on good authority, however, that he would consent to serving in some advisory capacity, preferably in Paramount's financial affairs. The chairmanship of the finance committee thus appears to be a likely post for him.

Fortington's interests, principally the Royal group of British insurance companies, made a tentative offer to underwrite the new stock issue of approximately $6,500,000, but the offer is now being held in abeyance pending further progress in the reorganization, it is learned. The subject may be revived in about two weeks with the return of Fortington from Florida. At the same time, negotiations for the acquisition of several of the large Paramount creditor bank claims by the Fortington group, begun some time ago, may be resumed.

The Paramount stockholders' committee and Paramount Broadway bondholders' committee yesterday began sending out to their depositors copies of the plan of reorganization, together with notices of the committees' assenting to the plan, as authorized by Federal Judge Alfred C. Coxe last week, and reported in MOTION PICTURE DAILY of Feb. 21. The depositors have until March 30 to withdraw from the committee if they dissent from the plan. Stockholders and bondholders who have not deposited with the committees may do so up to March 30 if they assent to the plan. A majority of the stockholders and two-thirds of the creditors, including bondholders, must assent for the plan to be made effective.

changes, which he declared "innocent victims." Louis Weber represented Skouras at the hearing, but no decision was handed down until yesterday when the board met for a second time to agree on disposition.

The case has been certified to Campi for determination. While the original complaint was filed as an overbuying matter, Rosenblatt held that it should come under the "or otherwise" provision of the code, since he does not complain that Skouras has too many pictures. His objections, he stated, are directed at the manner in which the product was purchased.

Changes Needed, Convention Decides

viewed as an out and out defense of code administration since its effective date 15 months ago.

Coupled with this move which took form through a lengthy resolution brought to the floor by Morgan A. Walsh, as chairman of a committee on NRA trade practices, were other resolutions calling for unconditional uppage in cancellation privileges from 10 to 20 per cent, complete divorce between sale of shorts, including newsreels and features, elimination of score charges, discouragement of production and distribution of sex hygiene pictures, endorsement of family night programs and others.

Code Authority administration has not been always prompt and not infrequently it has been charged with prejudice on the part of individual members, a resolution presented by Walsh pointed out.

Differs with Rosenblatt

By way of prelude to the reading of its contents, Walsh declared he differed with Rosenblatt, who had stated earlier that the code had demonstrated cooperation between major branches of the industry.

"Exhibitors can't do it alone. There must be some response from producers and distributors," he said. "Local boards have not been accorded local autonomy which the code indicated was to be theirs, he charged, and added a correction was necessary from the top because the voting power of Campi was balanced in the hands of producer and distributor.

"Harry M. Warner, Nicholas M. Schenck and Merlin H. Aylesworth asked for and got places on Code Authority, but they have never attended a single meeting beyond the first. They've appointed alternates, with the result that Campi has been changed so many times its members have to be introduced to each other when they meet. A correction is needed at the top. Even today three majors are out selling next year's product fearing a correction of some of the things we complain about when our code agreements end in June."

Objects to Daily's Story

Jack Miller, taking exception to MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S exclusive story that the M. P. T. O. A. code fireworks were launched as a trade looking toward a best possible break in a code revision, described the story as unfair.

"When I said I was for throwing out the code, I meant it and I did not assume to stand merely to get more eliminations. I am against the code, but I don't hope to get rid of it. It isn't that easy. I say, let's write a really fair code of competition and not one based on a trade. That's what this one was," he stated.

Miller was at odds with Walsh's resolution, declaring it did not go far enough. He launched an attack on the methods of handling appeals and told of instances where exhibitors had been compelled to go to New York carrying three and four witnesses with them, only to find out they had to wait occasionally as long as two weeks for decisions. The code guaranteed price cutting because it provided no methods of stopping price cutting, he continued, as he hit Rosenblatt's statement relief had been granted exhibitors in 75 per cent of the cases filed, on the ground that if this were true, half of the percentage had gone to what he termed chiselers.

"Code rules are no good unless they carry jail sentences. What are you going to do about it? What can you do? Distributors have a handy setup in New York. They have private phones into each other's offices while you exhibitors are scattered. How long do you think Kuykendall here can hold out? He had three theatres when he started out and now he has one. Rosenblatt spoke about industrial cooperation. What is industrial cooperation? You'll cooperate and cooperate until producers and distributors own all of your theatres," were the highlights of his particular brand of verbal dynamite.

"I say let's go to Washington again. If we can't get something real, let's throw our end of the code out," he continued.

Wilby Is Overruled

Robert B. Wilby of Valatenga Theatres with headquarters in Atlanta, who had tried to throw the Walsh resolutions into closed session, but who was voted down by the convention, urged delegates to stop wasting time.

"I don't think you want the code either. I don't want rain on Saturday any more than I do the code and if you can resolute that for me, I'd like it," he said.

The last day's session got going late as usual. The opening speaker was James P. Clarke, president of National Film Carriers, who spoke briefly on the work of his film delivery associates and gave an interesting statistical picture of the combined operations when he declared their trucks covered half a million miles weekly in handling 90 per cent of the industry's deliveries.

He was followed by Louis Nizer of New York, who made an earnest and effective plea for less emotional and more scientific factual exactitude on the part of exhiibtors in discussing their problems.

Calls for Leniency

"Your approach based on the facts is to be advised," he remarked. "You know first the code was 10 commandments and I hear they are being violated even today. The Greeks and Anglo-Saxons had codes, too, as did Napoleon, yet Napoleon's code was not always enforced despite his power. Complete and absolute justice is impossible. Creation of a gigantic judicial system in eight months is impossible and so is perfection. I urge you to try for revisions rather than any 'down with the code' or 'up with the code' attitude. The records show 72 per cent of all complaints to date have brought relief in almost all instances, but without the code this would not have been. I think you have other problems. Did you know, for instance, there is one theatre seat for every 10 men, women and children in the United States, including those in old age homes and asylums, and one theatre seat for every six persons in densely populated spots, and one for every second or third person, if you eliminate those who cannot attend?

Code Not Perfect, But Is Sound, Declares Rosenblatt

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 28.—The code is not a perfect instrument and certain changes are needed, but it is the soundest means yet found to alleviate aches and pains of producer, distributor and exhibitor, Compliance Director Sol A. Rosenblatt said in a lengthy address at the M. P. T. O. A. convention today. The compliance director made a special trip from Washington for the occasion.

Adding that the code nevertheless is still a target of frequent attacks from many sides, he charged that politicians were adding verbal onslaught to the tirades from self-appointed critics and gave three questions to delegates upon which he said should rest the answer to what the code has done.

Questions Are Listed

1. "Did you possess before the code the rights and remedies the code has provided?"

2. "Under the code, tribunals to regulate trade practices and afford relief in matters affecting unfair competition have been established. These industrial courts extraordinary that have been set up in the motion picture industry cannot be found in any other industry in this country. They were never tried before. But now you can take your grievances and be publicly heard even though you would have no right to go into a court of law and bring a lawsuit. Heretofore, exhibitors had no place to go—no right to be heard. Generally speaking, are these industry tribunals a good thing or a bad thing?"

3. "Means and agencies are provided by the code whereby decisions can be had and relief secured on the highly important question of overbuying. That again is something new in the industry—something you never possessed before. And I ask my third question: Is that worthwhile continuing or not?"

Gives Statistical Results

Going statistical, he said that relief had been granted exhibitors in 75 per cent of the cases tried. "Out of 1,020 cases tried by local grievances boards, 771 complaints brought relief to exhibitors. In only 24 per cent of the cases, or 237 complaints, was relief denied. In 205 cases, appeals were taken to Campi and local boards sustained, in 30 cases, or 15 per cent of the local boards' decisions, were reversed. Confronted by these benefits, who is there who would wilfully set himself up to disregard this common effort for a common good?"

On clearance board operation, Rosenblatt said relief was granted 172 exhibitors in the first 289 protests filed, or 59 per cent. Appeals to Code Authority totaled 78 per cent. of which 18 per cent were reversed and sent back to local boards, while judgment was affirmed in 82 per cent of the appeals. Some of the problems which beset the industry in 1933 still linger on the scene, he said, yet he said the industry as a whole had "achieved mountain ranges of progress from a chaotic dog eat dog attitude." At the same time he deplored the lack of unity still prevalent among groups of exhibitors throughout the country.

"From outward aspects at least, the industry in the summer of 1933 was completely disunited and disorganized," he said.

Conflict of Interests

"It was a conglomerate conflict of interests and purposes. Sharply aligned into armed camps—armed at least as to publicity and propaganda —a situation presented by groups and a division of the industry appeared hopeless. In the 15 months that the code has been in operation this one result is of a national significance. Under a single motion picture code coordinating for the first time in the history three essential divisions of the industry the way has been found for constructive action, for the good of all."

Praising the industry for its efforts toward cooperation, Rosenblatt maintained the principles of the code have stood a test of service in operation, but admitted that details need perfecting and asserted that the NRA will continue to work for its improvement and perfection as long as the code exists.

Sharp exception was taken later in the day to his statement that the Code Authority and code agencies have acted with complete fairness in discharge of their duties. On the much criticized labor clauses, he asserted provisions had been worked carefully and cited many strikes which have been averted. He praised the industry for self regulation at the production source and said he regarded the step as wisely done.

Opposition to the Code Flares Up Again

trouble, which is price cutting. We boast in this country of the highest living standard in the world, yet we sell our amusements at the lowest price. There is no theatre in Europe which does not charge more, and, in some instances, three or four times the level of American theatres. There is no public vested right in receiving entertainment for less than it costs.

Warns on Legislation

"Watch out for Federal legislation. That spells 'flop.' The 'o' stands for overseating and the 'p' stands for price cutting."

Following Nizer was L. W. Robert, Jr., Assistant Secretary of the Treasury in Washington, who urged exhibitors to name a committee for the purpose of keeping legislators advised of problems. He pointed out by so doing they would have an effective means of warding off new tax legislation.

Rosenblatt was next. He desired to avoid possible misquotation and this was his reason for reading a prepared speech. In general he defended the code, declared it had been brought together cooperatively by three major branches of the industry and conceded the code was not letter perfect. He deplored the lack of unity which he said continued to prevail in theatre ranks and added the fairness of Campi and code agencies throughout the nation had been amply demonstrated in 15 months of operation under the NRA document.

Seventy-five per cent of the cases for relief filed by exhibitors had been granted, it was his contention, and at the same time asked what there was to match this performance in a codeless era. The highlights of his address appear elsewhere in this edition.

Oppose Copyright Treaty

Presented by A. Julian Brylawski and subsequently adopted, the convention passed a resolution opposing United States entry into the International Copyright Union at Berne unless changes in existing copyright laws were made to protect American exhibitors from the deluge of additional licenses which he said would follow this country's decision to join in the Berne convention. Despite the fact the White House and State Department were behind the current copyright legislation, he held out hope that a promise, which he said had been made by the Foreign Relations Committee of the Senate to protect American exhibitors, would be fulfilled.

He told of efforts to cut the penalty for violations from $250 to $100 and promised a move would be made to further reduce the impost to $50, plus elimination of the usual attorney's fees, unless damages are proved.

Another possible attack poises the possibility of asking Congress for changes in the existing law itself.

"If we get what we want, we won't be paying licenses to ASCAP or anyone else," promised Brylawski.

On non-theatrical competition, the convention passed a resolution for appointment of a standing committee to discourage the practice with national advertisers and to collaborate with the M. P. T. O. A. territorial units on particular problems along these lines.

Discussion on legislative procedure by M. A. Lightman precipitated another wrangle based on methods.

It was at this point that Charles Segall, Philadelphia, cited plans of Pennsylvania to raise $6,000,000 from theatres in his state, through a proposed tax of one-half cent on each linear foot of film imported as well as a 10 per cent admission tax, and a measure to raise censorship fees from $2 for 1,500 feet to $15 for each 1,000 feet.

In discussing the 20 per cent unconditional cancellation privilige which the convention voted, Walsh admonished exhibitors not to worry about reports distributors will deliberately make cheaper pictures to meet the possibility of 100 per cent increase in eliminations.

"Nobody has yet devised a means of extending the calendar beyond 365 days a year. That means time is constant and will mean more competition among producers to hold on to their share. Therefore don't worry about cheaper pictures and explain this to your legislators. If distributors won't give you 20 per cent, it is up to exhibitors to determine whether they will follow the wishes of the public as evidenced by block booking bills introduced in many legislatures or wishers of producers."

This, incidently, was the only open reference to reports current that immediately prior to the convention that the M.P.T.O.A. would dangle tacit support at least of anti-block booking legislation against its striking out for increased cancellations.

Preferred Playing Is Hit

The expected resolution attacking distributors on preferred playing time developed and became part of the M.P.T.O.A. program for code revision. The St. Louis delegation introduced a flock of resolutions, most of which had been taken care of by the resolutions committee. Two, however, were passed and added to code revision agenda. One was for elimination of premiums through a majority vote in each territory in writing.

Wilby suggested no half-way tactics, but complete designation of premiums as unfair trade practice. He won. Second request was for inclusion in the code of a clause that matinees be designated as expiring not later than 5 P. M. and that it would be an unfair practice to continue matinee admissions beyond this limitation. The move is aimed by the St. Louis neighborhoods at downtown first runs there. An effort to dub double features unfair lost out by a heavy majority vote. Unfair was held to be the practice of selling shorts, including newsreels with features. This was introduced by Roy Smart of North Carolina Theatres at the behest of Wilby. Sidney Lust's resolution banning any clearance board member from sitting on a case in which he is interested was overwhelmingly defeated. Free radio shows were denounced by still another resolution, as were score charges, while family night type of shows was endorsed.

Philadelphia's campaign to foster independent producers took shape through the passage of a resolution praising them for the calibre of recent product.

M. E. Comerford and Walter Vincent were wished speedy recovery.

Producers were commended for efforts in making clean pictures and block booking was endorsed in resolutions, although circuits were frowned on for having selective contracts.

Fire underwriters will be petitioned to reduce premium rates. Kuykendall, who tried valiantly to keep the convention to schedule, but failed through late appearances daily of delegates, declared he would appoint a new executive committee after polling his territorial representation. This is to be done later in New York.

Tonight the annual banquet was held sans speeches. Many of the New York delegation left tonight for home. The general exodus starts tomorrow although many will remain for the Mardi Gras.

Arkansas Walkathon Ban Imposed by Law

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 28.—M. A. Lightman learned today that walkathons had been banned in Arkansas and intimated a similar move will be sought in Tennessee.

A sales bill in the latter state has been revised, placing theatres in the same category as other mercantile establishments, subject to a two per cent sales tax, but it is seen doubtful if the lower house will pass it.

Heavy licenses on traveling shows will be imposed, if a second Tennessee measure now up is enacted.

functioning in a fair and impartial manner and that independents do not get a fair deal because the local boards consist of an equal number of buyers and sellers.

One of the proposals is that exhibitors here be allowed to write a code of their own on the ground that the situation here differs from other sections of the country.

Henry Lazarus, Rene Brunet, Philip Sliman and Harry McLeod attacked the boards from the convention floor, claiming that they were controlled by major companies. One suggestion was that the boards be placed under a public service commissioner to be appointed by the state.

Election of officers was postponed.

leaders, including Ed Kuykendall, Jack Miller, Lewen Pizor and Jay Emanuel was held with Feist in New Orleans the other evening in an effort to straighten out the product buying situation in the Windy City. Feist is understood to have declared that building plans for Chicago were in the hands of the Loew circuit and that he would not interfere.

Feist has kept his word. Joe Vogel yesterday stated he had not heard from Feist and knew about the meeting in New Orleans only when he read it in MOTION PICTURE DAILY.

Louis Nizer, who represented Miller about two weeks ago on a Campi appeal case, is understood trying to get all concerned together. Essaness and Schoenstadt circuits in Chicago refuse to do business with M-G-M because of percentage demands. Miller, identified with Essaness, will probably talk the buying matter over with Feist again before he leaves New Orleans in an effort to stay the invasion by Loew.

Footage Tax Bill Is Presented at Albany

ning from one cent a foot on theatres of more than 5,000 seats in a community of more than 1,000,000 population down to two-tenths of a mill per foot on theatres of less than 2,000 seats in communities of less than 10,000 population.

The bill provides that during any week when total paid admissions do not exceed one and one-half times the seating capacity multiplied by number of days pictures are shown the tax will be one-half of the rates prescribed.

Another bill introducted by James E. Stephens, Democrat of New York, authorizes attendance of children under 16 in houses approved by the local police and fire departments. This applies to houses showing films outside of regular school hours, but requires special reserved sections for children and the attendance of a matron for each 200 children admitted.

Laemmle's Denial Is Read to MPTOA

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 28.—Denial that any sale of Universal is impending was presented today to the M. P. T. O. A. convention by James R. Grainger, general sales manager, in the form of a telegram from Carl Laemmle.

"No one knows better than you," the telegram read, "that we are in the midst of producing our best product. What is more, you can tell exhibitors that you are expected out here shortly to lay out production plans for next season.

"Constant rumors make it more and more difficult to deny. I want to assure you, and through you, all exhibitors assembled that when the time comes for me to retire from active business management a statement will come from me direct and not through any third parties, or via the rumor route."

MPTOA Crowd Given Eyeful of "Roberta"

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 28.—Radio put on an opening for "Roberta" at the Orpheum for the special benefit of the M.P.T.O.A. delegates. The natives also turned out in a big way.

The advance campaign was put on by Gar Moore, Orpheum publicity man, helped by Ed. Holland of S. Barret McCormick's home office staff. It included a fashion show with the original Hollywood gowns and some good looking mannequins. Motorcycle escorts for armored cars delivered the gowns at a local department store. There also were flood lights 'n' things.

Victor Meyer, Orpheum manager, sent a wire to Ned E. Depinet to tell him about the waiting lines and to predict a three-week run.

"Itto" Shown on Ship

"Itto," new French film brought to this country by Marcel Sprecher, was shown last night to an invited audience on the Ile de France by John S. Tapernoux, who will handle distribution in this country.

Sprecher will be here for about 10 days.

Pat Garyn Recovering

DALLAS, Feb. 28.—Pat Garyn is much improved after two weeks spent in St. Paul's Hospital, where he was taken after suffering a relapse from a flu attack. He is reported out of danger, but is staying in the hospital while building up.

Where the Sazeracs Flow

By RAMOS

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 28.—GEORGE WEEKS had his third encounter with the local gendarmerie about four yesterday morning. And that's a long story.

It seemed the G. B. sales manager determined to screen "The Dictator" for those who would get up at 9:30 in the morning to look. Having arranged it with VIC MEYER, manager of the Orpheum, the next step was a telegraphic invitation to the convention. ADOLPH A. COHN, commercial representative for Western Union, now entered the scene and, in order to present his credentials, deposited his wallet in Week's room, thereafter to leave without picking it up.

This opened the way complete to the rib. Phony house detectives bothered WEEKS on the phone; also assistant hotel managers. At Antoine's, HARRY MCLEOD, president of the G.S.T.O.A., who knows plenty of local flatfoots, arranged a fake arrest. It went off in grand style, even down the line to where ED KUYKENDALL played straight with the coppers and CHARLIE EINFELD asked one of them for his credentials.

About four in the morning, two other members of the New Orleans' finest descended on the Nut Club which was crowded with gay conventioneers at the time, took GEORGE into custody and toted him off to the police station. By this time, WEEKS was mad. "A joke is a joke," was the sum total of all he could sputter.

Today, the tables were turned with Western Union COHN finding WEEKS' watch in his pocket, the planting having been undertaken by MCLEOD. Some fun!

JULIAN BRYLAWSKI's train sales on behalf of the Washington D. C. Variety Club were so heavy, he wired for more tickets upon his arrival and has been doing a swell job for sweet charity's sake.

L. J. LUDWIG, associated with JOHN J. FRIEDL in the former Publix operations in and around Minneapolis, is here watching the proceedings as a sort of one-man delegation from his territory. He's been asking about MAYER, ARTHUR will be interested in learning here.

SAM DEMBOW, the personality (plus) kid, is demonstrating that copious faculty for having fun himself and imbuing all others around him with the same sort of glow. His sense of humor, always sharp, is rollicking along without brakes here, with results very amusing. For instance, he's heard the old quip having to do with early to bed, early to rise but has altered to the blackout line to read: "If you do, you won't meet any of the prominent people at the convention."

On the sidelines is a chap who wears one of those mechanical devices to improve his hearing. "I knew him back in 'Frisco in the silent days," remarked DEMBOW the other dawning. . . .

* * *

New Orleans hospitality is illustrated by an experience CHARLIE EINFELD ran into the other morning. He picked up his phone and a Southern drawl said:

"Good morning, sugar."

"I'd like a paper," said EINFELD.

"What kind of paper, sugar? Wallpaper?"

"No!"

"Flypaper?"

"No!"

"Writing paper?"

"NO!"

"I guess you-all want a newspaper, sugar."

"Right!"

It was the Roosevelt telephone operator.

A gang at Antoine's the other night included JACK MILLER, his son, JACK, and the latter's bride. Someone suggested allowing the waiter to order the dinner, which is the way it is usually done at Roy's place.

"Not for me," interrupted JACK, JR.; "I'll order my own."

Came the menu, completely in French, of course.

Young MILLER looked it over and remarked:

"It's in a foreign language, but it's funny because the one thing I want is in English."

"What is it?" he was asked.

"Filet mignon."

GEORGE SCHUTZ master-of-ceremonies for a minute Tuesday to snatch a group picture for Motion Picture Herald. "Suppose we have them look antagonistically at the chair," he suggested. "Let 'em look natural. It's the same thing," rejoined KUYKENDALL.

They took bows from the floor, in reply to Kuykendall's introductions:

JOHN D. CLARK, EARLE W. HAMMONS, ED FAY, L. C. HEHL, HARRY THOMAS, ART UNGAR, a member of the "third estate," JULES LEVY and DAVE PALFREYMAN, who said he had been criticizing everything on the program and now criticized the chair for introducing him.

Seven-Year Plan

New Orleans, Feb. 28.—A seven-year plan, bettering Stalin's idea by two, has been evolved for the M.P.T.O.A. by some of its pillars, in jovial mood, mind you. Here it is:

For 1936—Miami as the convention city.

For 1937—San Francisco during the forthcoming world's fair.

For 1938—Caliente.

For 1939—Oklahoma City.

For 1940—Palm Springs.

For 1941—On a Bermuda-bound boat.

For 1942—Elect a new president to succeed Ed Kuykendall.

Decision Ends Litigation by Which Former Producer Hoped to Collect About $20,000,000 from Industry

By CLARENCE LINZ

WASHINGTON, March 4.—Patents held by American Tri-Ergon Corp. covering sound picture equipment today were held invalid by the U. S. Supreme Court, bringing to a close litigation which for a time threatened havoc to the entire industry.

By the decision, William Fox, owner of a controlling interest in the corporation, loses the approximately $20,000,000 which he figured to collect if his claims had been upheld.

The decision of the court, in both the Paramount Publix and the Altoona Publix and Wilmer & Vincent cases, was unanimous, except that Justice Brandeis took no part in the consideration or decision of either.

The Paramount Publix case involved the so-called double printer where pictures and sound are photographed on separate negatives and combined later, and the other case covered flywheels used on projectors.

"An examination of the prior art can leave no doubt that the method, as thus described and clearly restricted

Suits by Fox An Industry Worry Since Late in 1933

William Fox's Tri-Ergon suits had hung over the industry as a potential threat since December, 1933, but the full significance of the danger did not stir any excitement until last October, when the U. S. Supreme Court refused to review a decision of the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals upholding the validity of the patents.

Immediately following this ruling patent suits were filed against major distributors and others as fast as two downtown laws firms could prepare the papers.

From the start of the litigation, which began in the form of two cases, one against Paramount Publix in U. S. District Court in Brooklyn on the double-printer patent and the other against Altoona Publix and Wilmer & Vincent in U. S. District Court at

Missouri Air Stunt Ends in Fatal Crash

LAMAR, Mo., March 4.—An airplane publicity stunt for "Devil Dogs of the Air" ended disastrously when the plane crashed in the town square here, killing two occupants and injuring the pilot.

The flight was made to permit Rex Thomas, reporter for the Lamar Democrat, to "bombard" the town with heralds advertising the air picture showing at the Plaza, operated by A. J. Simmons. As hundreds looked on, the plane suddenly hurtled to the pavement from an estimated altitude of 350 feet.

Thomas and Maurice Bassett, son of the local sheriff, were killed. The pilot, Ward Millard, had rebuilt the plane after it had figured in an earlier wreck.

Great God Gold

Monogram production and release. Directed by Arthur Lubin. Story by Albert J. Meserow and Elynore Dalkhart. Adaptation by Norman Houston. Additional dialog by Jefferson Parker. Photographed by Milton Krasner. Cast: Sidney Blackmer, Martha Sleeper, Regis Toomey, Edwin Maxwell, Ralf Harolde, Maria Alba, John T. Murray, Gloria Shea. Previewed at Pantages theatre, Feb. 26. Running time, 72 mins.

Backed by a strong topical story, excellently played by every member of the cast, smartly produced and directed and meritoriously supported from every angle, 'Great God Gold' is one of the best independent offerings seen in a long time.

Where it may not have name strength enough to stand on its own, it may invade some new territory for Monogram and rates tops in the better dual programs. In any case it should give good account of itself at the b.o.

Sidney Blackmer is given his best role to date and [illegible] part to the hilt, with [illegible] finesse. Martha Sleeper [illegible] self a decided [illegible] by a superbly [illegible] which reveals [illegible] bilities.

Story, [illegible] propaganda [illegible] posing [illegible] wrongs, is a [illegible] cuttling [illegible] the [illegible] both [illegible] Norman [illegible] the Alba [illegible] Dalkhart [illegible] of screen writing held close to the ...ds and greeds of depression ...oned folk. Jefferson Parker ...added bright and significant ...log, and the dramatic tension has been well leavened with sardonic humor.

Sidney Blackmer, financier who escaped the stock crash of 1929, is persuaded to join Edwin T. Maxwell and John T. Murphy, racketeering attorneys, in a receivership ring, connived at by a venal judge, to despoil the assets of shaky business enterprises. They leave a train of death and disaster. Blackmer's weakness for women—upon whom he relies for racketeering hunches as well as casual amours —finally catches up with him. Martha Sleeper, daughter of a victim, traps him into revelation of his semi-legal thievery and Ralf Harolde, as the husband two-timing Maria Alba, shoots him. Regis Toomey scores as an alliterative, romantic reporter.

Maxwell and Murray are excellent as the brazen attorney buccaneers. Harolde makes his short, sinister part stand out. Maria Alba as the dalliant wife is provocative and colorful. Gloria Shea plays well the part of a blonde-headed and blonde-hearted secretary.

Arthur Lubin does an exceptionally fine job directing. He keeps the story plausible and important, with mounting suspense and admirable reticence in reaching his high spots, and the character clashes ring true at every angle. Milton Krasner adds plenty mer- it with his camera, and there is a good musical score, not credited.

U. S. Supreme Court Voids Fox Patents

by the patent, lacks novelty and invention," the court held. "The only step in the respondent's method, for which any advance could be claimed over earlier methods, is the process of uniting the two records on a single positive film by printing them from separate negatives.

"The practice of printing separate photographs from separately developed negatives upon a single positive film has long been known."

Reviews History of Sound Film

Analyzing Tri-Ergon's contention that the development of the sound picture was largely due to its patents, the court went into the history of sound film since 1926 when Warners released their first talking picture. The sound originally was carried on phonographic-type turntables and it was "not until after the public interest in sound pictures was disclosed that the mechanism for recording and reproducing sound by the film method was carried to a state of perfection which would warrant its production in commercial form."

"Thus," the court continued, "there is no basis shown by this record for the contention that advance in this phase of the motion picture industry was awaiting the development of the combined sound and picture record upon a single positive film. On the contrary, the inference seems plain that the advance awaited the public acceptance of the sound motion picture; that when the public demand became manifest it was still necessary to develop suitable mechanisms, not embraced in the patent, for the production of sound from film. There had long been, ready at hand, knowledge in the photographic art which would enable one skilled in the art to produce the film suitable for use in the new apparatus.

"No Recognized Need"

"The bare fact that several inventors, in the early stages of sound reproduction, working independently, of whose knowledge and skill in the photographic art we know little or nothing, failed to resort to a method, well known to that art, for printing a combination film for which there was then no generally recognized need, does not give rise to the inference of invention."

The projection patents claimed by Tri-Ergon centered around the use of a flywheel for securing uniformity of speed. Five of the seven claims in issue apply to this mechanism. The lower court did not pass on the separate claims, but found invention in a combination of elements not embraced in any single claim, the court pointed out.

"There is no serious contention, nor could there well be, that the combination apparatus, for moving the linear record past the translation point at which the sound is recording or reproduced, involves invention without the flywheel," it was held. "The flywheel has long been known, is used in a variety of ways, and was held by the Patent Office as early as 1875, upon application of Thomas A. Edison in connection with the phonograph, not to be patentable.

"The court below, attributing the rapid development of the sound motion picture industry to the invention in the patent in suit, that, as respondent earnestly argues here, its utility and commercial success must be accepted as convincing evidence of invention. But we think that want of invention would have to be far more doubtful than it is to be aided by evidence of commercial success indicating that it brought realization of a long-felt want.

"Moreover, the record fails to show that there was any long-felt or generally recognized want in the motion picture industry for the device defined by the flywheel claims, or that the use of sound motion pictures was delayed by the inability of those skilled in the art to add a flywheel to the apparatus in order to give the desired uniformity of motion to linear phonograms.

Many Devices Were Used

"There was no public demand for sound motion pictures before 1926, when the disc system of Western Electric was first publicly used in connection with motion pictures. Before the change to the photographic film system could be accomplished, it was necessary to wait the development of numerous electrical devices not embraced in the present claims, among them were adequate amplifiers, loud speakers and microphones. Progress in the perfection of these appliances was achieved rapidly, after the public acceptance of the sound picture in 1926, through the efforts of many independent workers in the field. When the need arose for a mechanism suitable to move film records with such speed-constancy as to reproduce the sound successfully, it was forthcoming. Only the skill of the art was required to adapt the flywheel device to familiar types of mechanism to secure the desired result."

The court referred to disclaimers filed in connection with the two claims which would serve to narrow the claims so as to cover invention only when used in conjunction with a flywheel, the opinion pointing out that the practice of the Patent Office is that a claim abandoned or rejected with the acquiescence of the applicant cannot be revived in a re-issued patent.

In both cases, the decision of the Supreme Court reversed the verdict rendered by the court below.

Harrisburg, Erpi had defended Paramount and RCA Photophone had defended the theatre circuits. This was because their contracts called for protection of users of their equipment against possible patent claims.

The Harrisburg case had progressed slowly through the courts until it was finally decided by the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals at Scranton. The cases were joined for argument on the first and second appeals before the U. S. Supreme Court.

Immediately following the October refusal of an appeal the courts of original jurisdiction in Harrisburg and Brooklyn prepared perpetual injunctions.

Fantastic stories were afloat about the sums Fox might be able to collect through his foresight in buying the patents of two German inventors in the early days of the sound equipment. Fox Film filed suit on the ground that the patents were acquired by Fox through funds of the Fox Film Corp. before Fox withdrew from the company. This case is still pending, but probably will not be prosecuted.

The infringement suits piled up rapidly both here and at Wilmington. After the major producers had been made defendants the cases were extended to cover a number of laboratories and theatre circuits and there were intimations that individual theatres throughout the country would be sued later.

RCA announced it would remove flywheels and Erpi issued statements about inventions designed to avoid the double-printer infringement. Both companies were silent yesterday following the high court ruling, on the ground they had not had time to study the opinion.

In a Scranton ruling the court awarded damages to Fox and appointed a special master to hear testimony on their extent. All these pending court cases were automatically stayed when on Nov. 5 the Supreme Court agreed to rehear the case. The plea was made Oct. 8 on the ground that the lower court had reached an erroneous conclusion and that the widespread threat to the industry as a result of the Fox suits made it imperative that the court should not refuse to consider the issue on the ground of a lack of conflict of decisions in the lower courts.

The inventions were the work of a trio of Germans, Hans Vogt, Joseph Massolle and Jo Engl. The devices found their way to the United States in 1927, when William Fox acquired American rights to them under the influence of W. T. Case, wealthy scientific experimenter, a collaborator of Lee De Forest, then associated with the Fox film interests in New York.

Approximately $66,000 was paid by Fox for the rights to exploit the inventions in this country. American Tri-Ergon was formed to control them.

German Patent Case Stirs Wide Interest

WASHINGTON, March 4.—Action in Berlin by the Reich's Patent Office on January 31, in declaring void Tobis's doubleprint patent is a point of great interest both to the German and American Film industries, states Trade Commissioner George R. Canty, in Berlin, in a report to the U. S. Department of Commerce.

On Dec. 22 the German Supreme Court at Leipzig sustained decisions of two lower courts in the case of Ufa-Afifa and Hubert Schenger vs. Tobis, which read that the doubleprint methods of these companies contravened the patent held by Tobis, which the latter secured from the Tri-Ergon group in 1928.

In August, 1934, Friess A. G., a manufacturer of sound film recording sets, petitioned the Reich's Patent Office to declare void the Tobis patent on the ground that there was a prior publication of it in 1913, filed by one Friedrich Reimer. The Patent Office upheld this contention, and also found fault, because of prior publication, with another section of the patent specification which "restricts the joint shooting of sound and picture on one negative, with the contention that this negative is cut longitudinally in two before developing in order to enable an independent developing of the two parts."

It is expected that the Tobis will appeal this decision before the German Supreme Court at Leipzig,but trade opinion in Germany veers toward the viewpoint that the Patent Office's decision will be upheld, thus throwing the entire question open again.

Pathe's Plan For New Setup Gets Approval

dissolved and a new company organized with authority to issue 30,000 shares of new $7 convertible preferred stock and 2,000,000 shares of new common of $1 par value. Holders of the old Pathe eight per cent preferred stock will receive one share of new convertible preferred and five of new common for each share of the old; holders of the old Class A preferred will receive two shares of new common for each share of the old and common stockholders will receive one-twentieth share of new for each share of old.

The plan also authorizes the new company to issue collateral secured notes, of which not more than $4,000,000 shall be outstanding at any time. These notes will be convertible into new common stock and will be applied to the retirement of $2,027,500 principal amount of seven per cent sinking fund debentures outstanding, which will be called in May 1 at 103.

Only Three Objectors

Opposition to the plan at the meeting was confined to three stockholders who described it as placing a penalty on holders of the common stock to the advantage of holders of the eight per cent and Class A stock. Stuart W. Webb, Pathe president, who presided at the meeting, answered this criticism with the statement that there was an accumulation of unpaid dividends of more than $8,000,000 on the preference stock and that without the reorganization common stockholders would have no chance of receiving dividends until that deficiency had been taken care of.

In response to a query put by a stockholder, Webb stated that Pathe would not engage in production and that directors of the company regarded production for the company unfavorably. Pathe will, of course, continue its financing of outside production in conjunction with its laboratory activities. Webb also stated in reply to another question that Pathe expected to realize a "substantial" amount on the $1,690,549 of RKO notes it holds whenever RKO is reorganized.

E. B. Derr, former Pathe production head, came from the coast to attend the meeting.

Ruling Reserved on Para. Coast Units

Special Master John E. Joyce took under advisement following a hearing yesterday a petition to permit Paramount Properties, Inc., holding company for the west coast studio and Paramount Theatre Bldg., Los Angeles, to file a plan of reorganization in Federal court for Southern California and authorization for the Paramount Publix trustees to participate in such a reorganization.

The plan would provide for the issuance of new bonds in place of the $2,750,000 now outstanding, the new issue to bear the same rate of interest as the old and to be secured by the studio and theatre building. They would mature Sept. 1, 1942, and would have annual sinking fund requirements of $100,000 the first year, $125,000 the next two years and $150,000 the last four years.

A new lease on the studio to 1942 is proposed at an aggregate rental of $1,267,500 for the seven-year period, at yearly rentals varying from a minimum of $99,000 to a maximum of $176,400. The present rental is $200,000 annually. The new lease on the Los Angeles Paramount Bldg. would also be for seven years at an aggregate rental of $845,000, with a minimum annual rent of $66,000 and a maximum of $117,600. The present rental is $250,000 annually.

Bancroft Off Jokes Before Cheese Club

George Bancroft is through telling jokes at the Cheese Club. Appearing before the members yesterday, he explained that the last time he had the honor of being a guest he told an alleged funny story and someone picked it up, wrote a scenario around it and sold it to one of the producers.

To top it all, Bancroft stated, he was cast in the picture.

"Poor Elmer!" he said. "Never again will I tell any jokes to the Cheese Club."

Bancroft is looking around for a play which he plans to appear in before returning to Hollywood this summer. He has no intention of returning to pictures at present, he said.

Also on the Cheese Club bill were William Collier, Jr., and Joe Weber of the old Weber and Fields vaudeville team.

Sam Wood Sells Novel

HOLLYWOOD, March 4.—Sam Wood has sold the screen rights to "We Are Three," a novel which he purchased in Paris on his recent trip, to Carl Laemmle, Jr. If he completes his current United Artists picture, "Washington Correspondent," by April 1, Wood will direct the story. The story was written by Marchel Tibelt.

Sprecher to Entertain

Marcel Sprecher, representative of Eden Prod., Paris, who is here with the French film, "Itto," will give a reception for the press Wednesday afternoon at the Pierre. Sprecher is president of Union Syndicale des Distributeurs de Films en France.

Open Newburgh Academy

Harry Friedman has reopened the Academy, Newburgh, N. Y., which has been dark for the past two years. Publix was its last operator.

Proposed Paramount Board "Barren" of Ideas—Ernst

Declaring the proposed new board of directors of Paramount to be "barren" of creative knowledge and film industry experience, Morris L. Ernst, attorney and member of the Vanderlip debenture committee, one of the most important factors in the Paramount reorganization, stated in a letter to Paramount bondholders yesterday that he had "no faith that the board is worthy of the magnitude of the task and the exciting possibilities of the enterprise."

Ernst's views, exclusively disclosed by MOTION PICTURE DAILY on Saturday, accompanied the Vanderlip committee's notification to Paramount bondholders that it had assented to the Paramount reorganization plan and asking bondholders who favored the plan to deposit with the committee. Ernst approves the plan as "fair and financially decent," centering his objections solely on the board makeup.

"No one can deny," the letter stated, "that the motion picture industry is suffering from the distrust and arm's length dealing of all those who transact business with it at present. In my opinion the first company that establishes real confidence in the market of talent will run away with the entire show."

Ernst recommends representation for production talent on the board, men "who are familiar with entertainment, retail distribution and educational forces, and at least one person aware of movie export aspects." He favors salaries for directors to create a duty to "render a substantial service to the company" and salaries for chairmen of board committees. He also recommends a smaller board and notes that he has invited the Screen Actors' Guild and Screen Writers' Guild to prepare a panel of prospective directors of Paramount, one or more of whom would be chosen for the board. He favors some one of the type of George Kaufman.

While Ernst recommends to bondholders that they accept the plan in its present form, he urges them to communicate objections to the board to Federal Judge Alfred C. Coxe, and will voice his own objections at the next scheduled court hearing, April 4. He is known to be particularly opposed to John D. Hertz of Lehman Bros. as a board member.

The Vanderlip committee states that all of its other members "do not agree with Ernst's views and believe that the proposed board of directors gives adequate assurance of competent management and follows out the principle that representatives of creditors should control the board."

Bondholders have until April 3 to assent to or dissent from the plan.

Paramount Lines Up 13 Groups at Studio

Edwin Marin Re-signed

HOLLYWOOD, March 4. — Edwin Marin has signed a new contract to direct for M-G-M. His latest production, "The Casino Murder Case," will be released soon.

Legislative Fights Near Crucial Test

Legislative battles in a half dozen states are reaching a climax. All the law-making bodies in session are toying with increased tax proposals and are eying theatre grosses longingly. Of these, California probably has the greatest variety of proposals aimed at the industry.

In others, Sunday bills, dog-racing bills and other proposals are causing worry.

SACRAMENTO, March 4.—The Legislature resumed today after a recess with 12 of Governor Merriam's tax proposals and a score of independent measures up for consideration.

The Governor's bills are facing some organized opposition. What will come out of the trades among members is anybody's guess.

In the Governor's program is an income tax bill to raise $17,500,000 by taxing at one-third the Federal rate; an increase of bank and corporation franchise taxes from two to four per cent; severance and processing taxes; admission taxes of one cent on each 10 cents, with the first 20 cents exempt; increase of three to six per cent on motor transportation; increase of sales tax from two to three per cent; one cent additional on gasoline; three per cent consumers' tax on gas, electricity, telephone and telegraph; unemployment insurance and a 30-hour week.

Labor Measures Included

Labor has its annual two-man-in-a-booth bill in; workmen's compensation bills are up; supervision of manufacture and projection of films, their classification, and censorship are up. A dog-racing bill is also before the House.

COLUMBUS, March 4.—Distributors are organizing a determined fight against the Waldvogel bill preventing designated playdates which has passed the Senate and is now before the House. The bill has the backing of the I. T. O., churches and Parent-Teacher groups. A Senate bill raising the censorship fee from $1 to $3 per reel has been reported.

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C., March 4.—U. K. Rice, manager of Carolina Theatres, is leading the fight on the 10 per cent admission tax bill now before the General Assembly. He says the tax would have to be passed to the public, because theatre taxes have increased from $11,992 to $170,688 since 1928.

BOSTON, March 4.—Two Sunday sports bill regarded as theatre competition have been reported favorably by the Committee on Legal Affairs. One permits Sunday basketball games between 3 and 7 P. M. and the other would legalize Sunday hockey games between 1:30 and 11 P. M.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., March 4.—No constitutional amendment to legalize lotteries will be submitted to Missouri voters this year. It has been killed by the House, 51-45.

Another bill introduced by Representative Frank Catron of Lexington to bar gifts and bank nights in theatres has been killed in committee on the ground that the present lottery laws cover the subject.

Agitation over the various sales tax bills continues. Reports indicate that the House Ways and Means Committee will discard Governor Parker's one per cent sales tax plan in favor of a committee substitute which provides for continuance of the one-half of one per cent law, but with its scope broadened to include all sales and services. Rural members have indicated they will fight this on the floor of the House and try to raise the rate to one or two per cent. They practically control the House.

WILMINGTON, March 4.—Warners, Loew's and Delaware independent theatres are cooperating in a drive against Representative Henry C. White's bill in the House to permit dog racing. The measure, if it becomes a law, will permit pari-mutuel betting.

Warners, led by A. J. Vanni of the Philadelphia District which includes Wilmington; Loew's, headed by Carter Barron, of the Baltimore District, and the I.M.P.T.O.A., of Delaware and the Eastern Shore of Maryland, led by President A. Joseph DiFiore, are heading the opposition.

NRA Board Reports Code Industry Gain

the financial situation of codified industries for a period of three years.

In the film and amusement industries, it is declared, operations for the first nine months of 1934 resulted in a profit of $2,500,000 against a profit of but $200,000 in 1933 and a loss of $10,700,000 in 1932.

A total of 490,000 workers in the amusement industries were covered by codes adopted up to August 8 last, it was stated.

The report does not claim that the improved condition of industry is directly and entirely attributable to the codes, but gives the figures and lets the reader draw his own conclusions.

Deny Actors' Guild Protests Extra List

Reports emanating from Hollywood that the Actors' Guild had protested the method of selection of the 1,004 names in the registration list of extras approved last week by Campi were denied at Code Authority headquarters yesterday.

"If such a protest has been made, it has not reached this office," it was stated. "Neither has the NRA in Washington heard of a complaint from the coast on the extras' list," it was said.

Equipment Dealers' Code at White House

President Roosevelt has before him ready for signing the code for film equipment dealers, which is a supplement to the wholesale code, MOTION PICTURE DAILY learns. It is probable that the code will be signed any day. Joseph E. Robin, president of the Independent Theatre Supply Distributors Ass'n, Inc., was in Washington last week conferring with NRA officials on the draft.

Surplus Code Funds Are to Be Divided

excess of the 1934 budget will be credited as surplus through the first half of the current year. At the beginning of the last half of the year, if the NRA is continued, the money will be credited to contributors, each member of each class receiving his pro rata share of the surplus due his division. If the NRA is not continued, the excess funds will be returned. The budget also provides that distributors shall be assessed the amounts due from producers whom they represent, but are not liable for the latter's share. If the producer fails to authorize the distributor to make payment of his share, however, the Code Authority may undertake collection and ask the producer for his gross figures, to be available to Campi only.

John C. Flinn, Campi secretary, yesterday said he could not estimate the surplus of the budget for 1934, since all assessments have not yet been paid. He explained the NRA action as a correction in the order for the 1934 budget, following the public hearing in Washington recently.

Exhibitors and distributors who had not yet paid assessments recently had the Feb. 15 deadline extended to March 28 by Campi.

Ruling Sought Upon Non-Theatre Shows

Clarification of the non-theatrical clause in the code as to its limitations will be sought at the Campi session Thursday, when Code Authority will formally submit the request to the legal committee.

One of the main points involved is the angle of public institutions, among which are schools, which are permitted to operate in competition with theatres.

Paul Hooven of the Trimble, Mt. Sterling, Ky., yesterday appeared before a Campi appeal committee comprising Henry Sussman, Felix A. Jenkins and A. J. Mertz, to complain against the Morehead State Normal School, Morehead, Ky., operating two and three days a week. M. Harris, appearing on behalf of the school, stated that the Cozy, seating 250 in Morehead, was not fit for students and that he had asked the owner to equip the house, which he had refused to do. The Normal school then spent about $7,000 to equip its auditorium for pictures, Harris stated, and has been operating for the past two years.

Century-RKO Charge Up 4th Time Today

Fourth round in the Century-RKO clearance dispute in Long Island takes place this morning when the local board resumes hearings in the complaint of the Fantasy, Rockville Center, for elimination of a week's clearance by the Alden, Jamaica, and the Columbia and Strand, Far Rockaway.

Tom Murray will take the stand again with Mitchell Klupt, Century's attorney, and Louis Nizer, representing RKO, examining and cross questioning him where he left off Feb. 21. So far the time spent in hearing the case totals nine hours and from present indications may go another nine.

Nye Will Use Darrow Report In NRA Probe

by the big producers, with the approval and assistance of Compliance Director Sol A. Rosenblatt, then deputy administrator, who, it is pointed out, was formerly an employe of Nathan Burkan, legal representative of many important film interests.

Throughout the negotiations, it is alleged, Rosenblatt took the position that there was no representative trade organization in the industry and that he was justified therefore in appointing committees representing, respectively, producers, distributors and exhibitors, to write and amend the code.

Recalling the fight of the independents, Nye reminds that they were barred from one of the Washington meetings "crucially affecting" their interests, that after Rosenblatt had prepared his first draft of the code they were not given time in which to prepare a brief for the record. The brief also refers to the alleged "whitewashing" which followed the filing of charges against Rosenblatt by the independents after a Chicago meeting.

Criticizes Campi Makeup

Under the code, Nye alleges, the Code Authority is a quasi-judicial body, deciding controversies as it sees fit. The makeup of the authority, with eight representatives of producers having affiliated theatres and five representatives of unaffiliated exhibitors, one of whom, it is charged, is a representative of the "big eight," is attacked as having the result of setting up a combination which never would have been tolerated under the Sherman Act.

With his brief Senator Nye stated that he had received a large number of complaints, with which has been submitted an abundance of evidence, and that many of the complainants have expressed willingness to appear and produce documentary proof of their charges.

The committee meeting tomorrow will map out the hearings which are to be held, probably beginning next week, and also decide the question of counsel. Lowell Mason, former counsel for the Darrow Review Board, who was picked by Senator King of Utah for similar work in connection with the proposed probe by a Senate judiciary sub-committee, is the bone of contention, King seeking to have him retained in that capacity and Senator Harrison, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, holding that no necessity exists for the employment of special counsel.

Discuss F. W. C. Petition

Charles L. O'Reilly, Paul Lazarus and Sidney Justin met yesterday to discuss the Fox West Coast petition for a rehearing on the Los Angeles clearance and zoning schedule. No action was taken, but it is understood Charles Buckley and William Powers of F.W.C. will appear before Campi Thursday to present arguments on certain phases of the plan deemed harmful to the circuit.

"Town's Talking" Big Buffalo Draw

BUFFALO, March 4.—"The Whole Town's Talking" drew $10,200 at the Lafayette where $6,500 is normal, while "Sweet Music" and the Thurston show was upping the Buffalo gross to $18,100, over by $3,800. Snow, ice and bitter cold held sway until near the end of the week.

Total take was $50,300. Normal is $42,800.

Estimated takings for the week ending Feb. 29:

"SWEET MUSIC" (Warners)
BUFFALO — (3,500), 30c-55c, 7 days. Stage: Howard and Jane Thurston Co. Gross: $18,100. (Average, $14,300)
"HELLDORADO" (Fox)

Looking 'Em Over

"Emil and the Detectives"

(Wainwright-Gaumont British)

LONDON, Feb. 18.—Britain hasn't gone in for the kid picture to any extent, but this is an effort with very distinct virtues to offset against the fact that the youngsters are "Englishy" and slower with the wisecracks than the Hollywood juveniles. Cutting out the accent, this is a thoroughly amusing piece of work with distinctly good story values, some neat camera work and a clever adult characterization lifting it well out of the "just kid" category.

Emil, a 12-year-old boy, is sent to London by train with six £1 notes to deliver to his grandmother. A crook in a derby hat gives him doped sweets and gets away with the notes, but Emil is befriended by a youthful Londoner, who summons his "gang" to track the thief. He takes a room at a hotel, which the gang pickets from a neighboring shanty, while Emil is planted in the page-boy's uniform to see if he can recover the money. He fails, but in the morning the crook, leaving the hotel, is trailed by hundreds of kids and finally cornered in a bank and seized by the police, who discover that he is wanted for a bank robbery. Emil gets £100 reward and a civic reception back home, and the gang is there in force.

George Hayes does a very clever piece of work as the man in the derby, and individual situations are genuinely funny, particularly those in which Emil hides under the crook's bed and later tries to dope him with one of his own sweets. The kids are wholehearted and there is a big laugh in the scene in which, in hundreds, they pursue the thief through the streets. Distortion effects, in the episode of Emil coming out of the drug, are well done.

For its freshness, story originality and laugh bringing qualities, this is one well worth seeing.

Running time, 83 minutes. "G." ALLAN

Austro-German Pact Renewed for a Year

WASHINGTON, March 4.—The Austro-German film agreement, in force for several years, has been renewed for another year, reports Trade Commissioner George R. Canty, in Berlin, to the U. S. Department of Commerce.

The agreement, according to Commissioner Canty, includes the following points:

1. Markets are assured, respectively, for 120 German and 12 Austrian features at an exchange ratio of 10:1, without regard to existing contingents. If either party to the agreement is unable to export up to the full number, this is not to restrict the fixed total of the other. All additional features beyond the limits set will be subject to the ratio of 10:1.

2. The exchange of educational and other short films is also on the ratio of 10:1.

3. Both countries agree to assist actors and technical personnel. Austrian actors, who have been forced into indefinite unemployment in their own country, will be permitted to work in Germany without encountering difficulties, provided they conform to existing regulations regarding "Aryan descent and political purity." Similarly, German actors will be allowed to work in Austria so long as they do not "trespass on the safety of the Austrian state."

Germany further agrees to lend assistance in the matter of locations.

General Upswing Is Reported by Moray

MINNEAPOLIS, March 4.—Norman H. Moray, Vitaphone sales manager, here on a tour of the company's exchanges, finds conditions on the upgrade in the key spots he has visited.

"Unquestionably, conditions have improved tremendously," said Moray, "and I find a definite note of optimism everywhere. Good pictures are doing excellent business. To date I have visited Albany, Buffalo, Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Detroit, St. Louis and Chicago and have conferred with exhibitors in each of these cities. Everywhere I get the same reaction, that theatre business is on a definite uptrend."

Moray, now here, will visit all of the company's branch offices to confer with branch managers and exhibitors in each territory, with a view toward setting next season's lineup.

Switch on Sunday Bill

DOVER, Del., March 4.—On motion of Representative Walter Paskey the House today voted to recall the favorable report on Representative Joseph Brogan's bill to legalize Sunday movies after 1:30 P. M. by local option. The measure was referred back to the miscellaneous committee. Paskey said he had signed the favorable report by mistake.

House O.K.'s A.T.&T. Quiz

WASHINGTON, March 4.—The Senate resolution calling for an investigation of the A. T. & T. and its subsidiaries by the Federal Communications Commission today was approved by the House. The resolution will next go to the President for his signature.

"Devil Dogs" Leads Omaha; Gets $7,800

OMAHA, March 4.—A week-end blizzard socked business, but "Devil Dogs of the Air" came through with a fine showing for eight days at the Omaha in spite of this handicap by getting a total of $7,800, over par by $3,800.

"Charlie Chan in Paris" was helped by a stage bill and grossed $5,200, over the line by $700 at the Paramount. The only other profitable combination was the dual at the Brandeis, "The Whole Town's Talking" and "Maybe It's Love," which took $4,000.

Total first run business was $26,000. Average is $23,000.

Estimated takings:

Week Ending Feb. 27:

"DEVIL DOGS OF THE AIR" (Warner)
OMAHA—(2,200), 25c-40c, 8 days. Gross: $7,800. (Average, $4,000)

Week Ending Feb. 24:

"CHARLIE CHAN IN PARIS" (Fox)
PARAMOUNT—(2,800), 35c-55c, 3 days. Stage: "Chez Paree," Clymas Troupe, Lewis & Ames, Al Verdi, Merri Belle, Three Byrons, Benny Strong. Gross: $5,200. (Average, $4,500)

Week Ending Feb. 28:

"THE NIGHT IS YOUNG" (M-G-M)
"HELLDORADO" (Fox)
PARAMOUNT—(2,800), 25c-35c, 4 days. Gross: $2,000. (Average, $3,500)
"THE WHOLE TOWN'S TALKING" (Col.)
"MAYBE IT'S LOVE" (F.N.)
BRANDEIS—(1,200), 25c-35c-40c, 8 days. Gross: $4,000. (Average, $3,500)
"BIOGRAPHY OF A BACHELOR GIRL" (M-G-M)
"SECRET OF THE CHATEAU" (Univ.)
ORPHEUM—(3,000), 25c-40c, 7 days. Gross: $7,000. (Average, $7,500)

of the highlights of his new schedule. This revue, international in scope and topical in nature, will sketch important events of the United States and throughout the world each year. The first edition, Goldwyn said, will contain a leading film star and two names from the musical stage in the leading roles.

Upon his return from Europe in April, Goldwyn will start production on his first picture, "Dark Angel," which will be directed by Sidney Franklin. Miriam Hopkins will be starred in the second picture, "Barbary Coast," under the direction of Howard Hawks. Eddie Cantor will start work in June on his first. The fourth Goldwyn vehicle will also star Miriam Hopkins in a story now being prepared by Rachel Crothers. "The Goldwyn Follies" will go into production in September and the sixth picture will star Anna Sten in her fourth for Goldwyn.

This lineup will be his heaviest production schedule in the last 10 years, Goldwyn said.

Campi Awaits Direct Forms Of Criticism

Holds Exhibitor Charges Should Be Specific

Unless the various charges against Campi and its agencies and demands for increases in code cancellation privileges, sought in the form of resolutions by the M.P.T.O.A. at the annual convention last week in New Orleans are presented formally to Code Authority for investigation, the body will take no cognizance of the oral discussions, MOTION PICTURE DAILY learns.

Morgan Walsh's blast at the boards' lack of local autonomy and recommendations for changes in Campi's setup are not specific enough for Code Authority action, it is held. While it is presumed Walsh's attack on local boards is directed against the San

Extras' List Stirs Curiosity on Coast

HOLLYWOOD, March 3.—Speculation is rife here as to the 1,004 names on the extras' registration list approved by Campi last week in New York. The list was prepared from 20,000 possibilities by three representatives from the extras' group, three producers' representatives and Mrs. Mabel Kinney, chairman of the committee on extras.

The local Campi office will not make the list public until the acceptance resolution is certified by Campi

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

New Orleans, March 3.

THEY met. They let off steam. They resoluted. They are gone. And now, so what? For a handful of years, the M. P. T. O. A., in convention assembled as the expression goes, went on record as opposed to what looks like the perpetuation, rather than the continuation, of score charges. It did it again last week. In Los Angeles a year ago, duals fell under the shadow of official displeasure and producers were urged to slash output. So score charges continue with us; duals are still around and producers are making whatever programs they set up for themselves. . . .

Since exhibitors are too indifferent, too lackadaisical, too shortsighted to get for themselves a virile, two-fisted trade association they will continue to get what the organized producer and distributor determine for them. Because there is no reason to believe otherwise, New Orleans will, therefore, go the way of Los Angeles, Washington, Philadelphia and other convention cities which have rolled by the M. P. T. O. A. right of way. . . .

Hot words tumbled over the spillway on several occasions and, while they made pretty good copy, they didn't make very much sense. For instance, there were those wild-eyed statements about scrapping the code when its expiration date arrives June 30. Just like that! Just like a film deal! Merely write the man in the White House that theatre owners are fed up and don't want to be annoyed further. Nothing to it beyond a letter on an M. P. T. O. A. letterhead and signed by President Ed Kuykendall. . . .

It was a ridiculous spectacle. The adolescence of the idea was so apparent that the wonder which beset this ringsider was that no one but Rob Wilby of Atlanta checked the tirade. He, of course, knew how silly such gassing was and dismissed the posture both neatly and effectively when he said: "I don't want the code. I don't want rain on Saturday any more than I want the code, and if you can resolute that for me I'd like it." . . .

Jack Miller branded MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S Thursday lead unfair. This was the dispatch which said code scrapping and other talk on the floor were designed to make a trade on revisions stronger. Nevertheless, many of the war drums beaten here were pounded hard for exactly that purpose and by way of preparation for the jockeying back and forth when the M. P. T. O. A. begins to grapple with distributors for a more liberal bill of rights. . . .

Everything in the film business is a deal and so is the code. It was actually admitted on the floor, but suppose it had not? The conclusion is as obvious as the "R" in Rosenblatt. The strike for 20 per cent cancellations, therefore, will be settled, and gladly, at 15. The bid will go in at 20 and the compromise, if there should be one, will be accepted on a split. It's done every day in the year. . . .

The same idea stepped into the picture from another angle. This was when Morgan A. Walsh, spokesman for the committee on NRA trade practices, crisscrossed cancellations with public agitation for removal of block booking. "If distributors won't give you 20 per cent, it is up to exhibitors to determine whether they will follow the wishes of the public, as evidenced by anti-block booking bills introduced in many legislatures, or the wishes of the producers," he said. This was a direct reference to M. P. T. O. A.'s plans to barter for cancellation concession by intimating it otherwise will get behind opponents of sales in blocks. Is it a trade or is it a trade? . . .

Speculation might then be in order as to the intent behind the Report Chill On Schenck's Fox Met Deal

Bondholders Are Said to Have Other Offers

A distinct chill on the part of the bondholders' committee of Fox Metropolitan Playhouses toward the plan of reorganization for the circuit developed by Fox Theatres, which would result in placing Joseph M. Schenck at the head of the new company, was reported Saturday to be in evidence, causing sweeping revision of the original plan and resulting in delay in its presentation to the court.

Back of the Fox Met bondholders committee's reputed disinterestedness in the Fox Theatres-Schenck offer is seen the presence of new competitive offers for Fox Met and the unwillingness of the committee to close the bidding to these new interests by any quick acceptance of the Fox Theatres' plan. Reports persist that Harry Brandt, with the financial backing of William Fox, is still in the field with

Ickes Asks Fee for National Park Use

HOLLYWOOD, March 3.—Last year President Roosevelt broadcast an appeal to the American public to visit its National Parks instead of going abroad and invited the picture companies to use these parks for filming to help the movement. At that time, Sol Lesser took advantage of the invitation and secured a permit to film "Dude Ranger" in Zion National Park without any fee.

This year Lesser wired the Department of the Interior for a permit to film "The Cowboy Millionaire" in the same park and received the following wire from Secretary of the Interior Ickes: "Under a new policy laid down by this department adequate compensation will be required in all cases of filming pictures in National Parks or on properties within the jurisdiction of the Department of the Interior. Will gladly issue permit requested upon undertaking by you to pay $5,000 for privilege."

Lesser is holding up his company pending an appeal direct to President Roosevelt basing his claims to the gratis privilege by the company on spending money in Utah and the ultimate publicity the picture will secure for National Park travel.

drastic committee-on-five resolution. On paper, it went so far and would bring about such a radical change in code administration that one national sales manager tentatively cancelled his reservations Thursday night because he thought he had better stick around. This is the action which calls for group of five to confer with Compliance Director Sol A. Rosenblatt on these points, the language excerpted from the text of the resolution itself:

> Whereas, it is apparent to this organization that in the past such administration (of Campi) has not always been prompt, that not infrequently it has been charged with prejudice on the part of individual members. . . .
> Whereas, this organization believes that certain changes and amendments should be made in the motion picture code. . . .
> Be it resolved, that a committee of five confer with Sol A. Rosenblatt . . . to recommend . . .
> (a) Permit of reorganization of the Code Authority to provide for more equitable representation of the various departments of the industry and the various sections of the country.
> (b) Provide for greater authority on the part of the local grievance boards with the judgments of the local boards becoming immediately effective and operative until and unless revised or modified by the Code Authority.
> (c) Provide for review by the Code Authority of matters or findings of fact resulting in decisions by the local grievance and zoning boards only when such review is necessary to establish or support the legality of the local board's decision.

Not a simple program. Rosenblatt stated here Campi and code agencies had demonstrated their fairness. He was almost openly razzed by subsequent speakers for the sweep of his statement. Wilby it was who pointed out that a Campi with members who never attend any sessions was not the Campi provided in the code and, of course, he is correct. When he also stated that the system of alternates and appeal committees prevalent in New York contravenes the spirit, if not the letter of the code, he again was correct and pointed up the legitimate question if something should not be done about. . . .

Will it? Resolutions won't and an exhibitor association which admittedly gets the bulk of its financial support from affiliated theatres probably cannot. At any rate, New Orleans was swell for parties, food and wet goods. Socially, the convention was a four-star success. . . .

Arthur Caesar Winner

Due to an error in reporting, the Academy award for the best original story was given to Oliver H. P. Garrett and Joseph L. Mankiewicz by MOTION PICTURE DAILY. The story should have given credit to Arthur Caesar, who wrote the original story winner, "Manhattan Melodrama," and not to Garrett and Mankiewicz, who did the screen play from the Caesar story.

Looking 'Em Over

"Gold Diggers of 1935"

(First National)

NEW ORLEANS, March 3.—The big noise in "Gold Diggers of 1935" is two lavish musical numbers which are standouts in the point of camera magic, production splendor, unique conception and optical illusion. They are sufficient to set this musical into the money division. Busby Berkeley, who directed the attraction, however, was not quite so fortunate in the story that ties the production splurges together.

The story has to do with an eccentric millionairess, played by Alice Brady, who goes into her usual summer show for the Milk Fund and hires Adolphe Menjou, a temperamental Russian producer, to stage it. A parallel theme traces the love yarn of Dick Powell and Gloria Stuart with Hugh Herbert supplying the major portion of the comic elements as the wealthy fiance of Miss Stuart but far more interested in the history of snuff. The direct story thread, which is actually an excuse for the production numbers at the close, is played so broadly it borders, if it does not invade, the realms of slapstick. However, the "Piano" and "Broadway Lullaby" numbers will click with any audience, the effects achieved are novel and arresting. The Broadway number, a combination of the modernistic and impressionistic, struck this reviewer as by far the better of the two.

At its Saenger Theatre debut, which broke up early yesterday morning, audience reaction was all for the picture. Production Code Seal, No. 580. Running time, 95 minutes. "G." KANN

"Square Shooter"

(Columbia)

Tim McCoy again goes villain-busting in "Square Shooter." And again he goes about it in a way that will raise the blood pressure of his fans. It is fast entertainment mixing romance with action.

This time Tim is out to get those who, through a forged will, have seized his uncle's ranch after killing him. The men he is after are Charles Middleton and Wheeler Oakman, who have been preying upon the ranch folk. McCoy rallies those who have been victimized around him and gives the villains a taste of their own medicine. This makes Middleton and Oakman mighty keen to put a hole in Tim, who has a number of close brushes with the fellows.

The villainy gets blackest when Tim puts one over on Middleton and Oakman by getting hold of the original will left by his uncle and making off with it under a hail of lead from the villains' guns.

McCoy almost comes to grief when John Darrow, his pal, in love with Jacqueline Wells, becomes so jealous of Tim that he reveals his hideout to Middleton and Oakman. When McCoy is captured and threatened with death, Darrow becomes remorseful and goes for aid. In the end the romantic problem is solved and the villains are caught.

Erville Alderson and J. Farrell MacDonald are other players. David Selman directed. Code Seal No. 409. Running time, 53 minutes. "G."

"School for Girls"

(Liberty)

In the style of "Maedchen in Uniform," this production spins a story of reform school life with a sentiment that should make it generally pleasing entertainment for the feminine trade. Mingled with the tears is enough humor to save the production from being depressing.

The problems of the young girls, their little tragedies, their yearnings for the world outside, their bitterness—all these are depicted with sympathy and with dramatic force.

The desire of the inmates for a more tolerant attitude toward their plight is the motivating force behind the drama. The story centers around Sidney Fox, who lands there on an unfounded grand larceny charge. A romance develops between her and Paul Kelly, a member of the board of the institution, who, convinced that Miss Fox is innocent and that Lucille La Verne, the head of the school, not only is cruel to the girls but a grafter as well, goes to the governor with a plea for an investigation.

Before Miss Verne can be put on the carpet she is murdered by Lois Wilson, one of the matrons on the side of the girls. The film ends with Miss Fox free and in Kelly's arms and Miss Wilson headed for an easy stretch.

Other good names in the cast are those of Anne Shirley, Dorothy Lee, Toby Wing, Dorothy Appleby, Russell Hopton, Barbara Weeks. Three former stars, Charles Ray, William Farnum and Anna Q. Nilsson, have small parts. William Nigh directed.

No production code seal. Running time, 73 minutes. "G."

Approval of Pathe Plan Is Expected

shares of new common of $1 par value. The new stock will be distributed on the basis of one share of convertible preferred and five shares of common for each share of the old eight per cent preferred; two shares of new common for each share of old Class A preferred, and one-twentieth of a share of new common for each share of old common.

The plan also provides for authorization of the new company to issue collateral secured notes, of which not more than $4,000,000 shall be outstanding at any time. The notes will be convertible into new common stock and may be applied to the retirement of the $2,027,500 principal amount of seven per cent sinking fund debentures outstanding and to obtaining working capital.

While it is learned that Pathe has no immediate plans for reentering production itself, the company will continue its financing of independent production as a correlative activity to its laboratory interests. Capital for the financing of outside production may be derived, when required, from the issuance of the new convertible secured notes.

New directors will also be elected under the plan, but it is anticipated that most or all of the directors of the old company will be elected to the board of the new. The present officers, headed by Stuart W. Webb, president, are also expected to be reelected at a meeting of the new board to be held later.

Under the stock corporation law of New York the reorganization plan may be approved at today's extraordinary meeting if it has the approval of a majority of the stock represented at the meeting, rather than by a majority of the total stock outstanding. Sufficient proxies to assure adoption of the plan have been received by the proxy committee already, it is reported.

what may be a tempting offer to the Fox Met committee. Unconfirmed rumors also have Warners and Si Fabian interested in presenting some sort of offer to the committee, and, as yet undisclosed interests of considerable significance are known to have made overtures to the Fox Met bondholders.

The result of the interest being displayed in the circuit has been to place the bondholders in an advantageous bargaining position, thus making it necessary to revise the Fox Theatres-Schenck plan in material respects, all of which are reported to be of greater advantage to the Fox Met bondholders than was proposed in the original offer. This revision of the Fox Theatres plan, being drafted under the direction of Milton C. Weisman, receiver of Fox Theatres has brought about the delay in presenting the plan, or an outline of it, to the Federal court. Originally, it was expected the plan could be given to the court a week ago. Queried late last week, Weisman stated that no date for a court hearing was in prospect yet. Repeated efforts to reach Weisman on Saturday for comment on the new reports in explanation of the delay were unavailing.

However, a reliable source disclosed that the first draft of the revised Fox Theatres' plan had been completed and would be presented to the court about Wednesday. This source admitted that competitive bidders were in the field, but minimized their significance and discounted the reports that the Fox Met committee had "chilled" on the Fox Theatres' plan.

"We confidently expect this plan to go through and to be accepted," this spokesman said. "The delay in presenting the plan means nothing more than the usual lawyer nuisance. Haven't you ever worked with a bunch of lawyers?" he asked.

Van Schmus Denies Deal with Schenck

HOLLYWOOD, March 3.—W. G. Van Schmus, managing director of the Radio City Music Hall, is en route to New York tonight following a two weeks' visit here for the purpose of getting a closer view of production and for conferences with Radio studio officials. Before leaving for the east, Van Schmus denied his trip had anything to do with Joseph M. Schenck, who has already returned east, on a proposed deal giving the Music Hall preference to United Artists pictures.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Sunset Range"

(First Division)

HOLLYWOOD, March 3.—This is the first western on the newly formed First Division program and it should click adequately with patrons of westerns. Following closely on the heels of its star's, Hoot Gibson's, personal appearance tour throughout the country, exhibitors can take advantage of this for pre-release ballyhoo.

Touched with a modern gangster angle, the story has Mary Doran innocently going to a newly purchased ranch with a trunk full of bank robbery money slipped into her baggage by Gangster Walter McGrail. Miss Doran's brother, James Eagles, is roped in with the gang and forced to go through with the hot money job despite his protests. The romance between Miss Doran and Gibson begins when she arrives at the ranch where he is foreman. The gangsters finally show up to collect the stolen dough and a chase begins with the hard riding cowpunchers putting the gangsters on the spot with Gibson and Miss Doran riding to the altar at the fadeout. Ray McCarey directed from an original by Paul Schofield. Editor Ralph Dietrich did a smart job in the chase sequence.

Gibson's followers should like this one. No Production Code Seal. Running time, 52 minutes. "G."

"Big Boy Rides Again"

(Beacon Productions)

HOLLYWOOD, March 3.—The producers of this one have combined a western and mystery story with novel effect, making a picture that compares favorably with others in this class.

"Big Boy" Williams, as a hard-riding two-fisted he-man, is given opportunities to ride and makes the most of them. Despite the fact that the story involves kidnapping, buried treasure and murder, plot complications are all made secondary to the show of riding and outdoor scenes, for Williams. Constance Bergin supplies the love interest. Charles Francis, Vic Potel, Lafe McKee and Bud Osborne appear in support. All roles are handled suitably. Albert Herman directed with supervision by the Alexander brothers.

It bids fair to do well in neighborhood houses. No Production Code Seal. Running time, 57 minutes. "G".

Looking 'Em Over

"Oh! Daddy"

(Gaumont British)

LONDON, Feb. 18.—Leslie Henson and Frances Day are the attractions here. He has good comedy situations and good lines. She has attractive song numbers and, as a cabaret star, fills the eye pleasantly. There is a suitable role, which might have been bigger, for Robertson Hare as Henson's secretary. That other British comedy certainty, Alfred Drayton, clicks as a purity campaigner.

The story, from a stage farce, is about Lord Pye, who is persuaded by his elderly uncle, Samson, to head a Purity League, which is heartily supported by an obedient tenantry and grows apace, so that Pye finds himself called upon to address a large public meeting. He loses a train and, finding himself in London, decides to investigate vice on the spot, thereby making the acquaintance of a fetching cabaret star without realizing that she is his own step-daughter. Complications due to the unexpected arrival of Lady Pye are balanced by the fact that she has been keeping her dancer-relative a secret and it ends with purity at a heavy discount and everybody happy and unexposed.

Technical values are not too good, the cabaret sequence comparing badly with Hollywood standards.

Running time, 75 minutes. "G." ALLAN

Veiller and Para. Part

HOLLYWOOD, March 3.—Bayard Veiller's contract with Paramount as an associate producer has been terminated by mutual agreement. The pact had until May 15 to run. Veiller will take a three-month rest in England.

Leo Freedman on Coast

HOLLYWOOD, March 3.—Leo Freedman of the Columbia home office, has reported to the studio and will serve as contact for the trade press in the publicity department. Miss Lee Ronell will handle fashion features.

Campi Awaits Direct Forms Of Criticism

Francisco units, no formal complaint has reached New York.

Allied, at its recent directors' meet in Washington, took a sock at the code in the form of resolutions which have not yet been sent to Campi. Various Allied units, at annual sessions in the past year, have taken exception to the main setup in New York. In addition, the regional organizations have gone on record for code changes, but Campi holds these charges have no weight unless they are specific and filed in the proper order.

When Allied invaded Atlanta some months ago, the first resolution passed was for revamping of the local grievance board. A complaint that the board was unbalanced was made to Campi. After investigation of two men whom Allied sought to have removed, Code Authority decided to continue the set-up as constituted.

Sam Moross, assistant to John C. Flinn, was sent to the southern city for a number of days and reported that the local boards had a clean record.

Constant Checkup by Rosenblatt

Activities of local boards and Campi are being constantly checked by Compliance Director Sol A. Rosenblatt, who receives reports from impartial men sitting on the 64 boards. Deputy Administrator William P. Farnsworth, alternating for Rosenblatt at Campi sessions, also reports to his superior. Rosenblatt has a complete record of every case tried before a local board, accompanied by opinions of impartial representatives. While few know it, Rosenblatt has been keeping tabs on the conduct of every board member. In some instances changes have been made, but they are few and far between and only after a thorough checkup.

The M.P.T.O.A. is represented on Code Authority by Ed Kuykendall, Allied by Nathan Yamins. Whether Kuykendall will present to Campi the resolutions adopted at the New Orleans convention is up to the M.P.T.O.A. head. He is not expected at Thursday's meeting, but will probably be on hand at the next session.

on March 7. The resolution also will be sent by Campi to Compliance Director Sol A. Rosenblatt, who is understood to be vitally interested in the extras' situation.

All applicants on the extras' list have been working at the studios, which usually call on the Central Casting Agency for extras.

The list does not provide for a closed shop at any of the studios, inasmuch as casting directors can hire persons for atmospheric roles outside the list, it is stated.

James F. McCarthy of Warners' Strand, Harrison Harries of the Crown, Walter Lloyd of the Allyn and William Stevenson of the Parsons. All are members of the State Theatre Owners' and Managers' Ass'n.

Theatres here are already forced to pay a state seating tax, city license tax, state lease tax, marquee tax, city tax on equipment, real estate tax on buildings, music tax, Federal admission tax, incorporation tax, Code Authority tax and to employ firemen and policemen. No further taxation can be absorbed and must be passed on to the public, according to 17 managers who met at the Chamber of Commerce to discuss the matter.

Zanuck to Do "Ivanhoe"

HOLLYWOOD, March 3.—Darryl Zanuck is planning to film Sir Walter Scott's "Ivanhoe" as a spectacle for next season, with production starting July 16.

Upon completion of 20th Century's "Call of the Wild," the final picture on the current program, the company will delay further production until June 1, when the new season's schedule will be put into work.

Warner Connecticut Managers Are Moved

HARTFORD, March 3.—Five managers of Warner theatres in New England have been shifted. George Hoover, manager of the State, South Manchester, has been appointed manager of the Capitol, Springfield, Mass.

Jack Sanson, who was appointed manager of the Colonial here last week, has been transferred again to the State in South Manchester. David Sugarman, manager of the Embassy, New Britain, will succeed Sanson at the Colonial. John Hesse, manager of the Capitol, Springfield, goes to the Roger Sherman in New Haven, formerly managed by Jack Sanson. John Grace, assistant manager of the Strand, New Britain, is managing the Embassy in the same city.

WILMINGTON, March 3.—Dwight Van Meter, manager of the Aldine, Warner first run here, has been transferred to the Astor, Reading, Pa., first run with vaudeville.

"Lancer" Crashes Royalty

LONDON, March 3.—Paramount's "Lives of a Bengal Lancer" was screened for King George and Queen Mary last night at Compton Place, Eastbourne, the residence of the Duke of Devonshire. It was the first American-made film their Majesties had witnessed in several months.

To Perfect Mo. Sales Tax

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., March 3.—The final touches will be put to the substitute sales tax bill by the House on March 5. The measure is designed to replace six pending sales tax bills. The substitute measure, favorably reported upon by the House Ways and Means Committee, retains the old one-half of one per cent rate but has been broadened.

Sentry Shows Profit

Sentry Safety Control Corp. earned a net profit of $10,025 in 1934, after depreciation, expenses and other charges, according to a report made public by the company. Together with the report of Universal Sound System, Inc., its subsidiary, which showed a net loss of $7,342, there was a combined net profit of $2,683 in 1934.

"After Hours" Chicago Wow; Gets $43,000

CHICAGO, March 3.—A blizzard swept over this town early last week and raised havoc with most Loop grosses. Only two spots escaped unscathed. One of these was the Chicago, where "After Office Hours" and a show headed by George Olsen hit $43,000, over par by $8,400.

Total first run business was $121,000. Average is $127,600.

FIRST THREE DAYS' BUSINESS AT N. Y. ROXY GETS BIGGEST GROSSES SINCE "THE INVISIBLE MAN"—AND EVEN BETTERS THE SENSATIONAL BUSINESS DONE BY "IMITATION OF LIFE"!... UNIVERSAL DOES IT AGAIN!

In making proud acknowledgement of the Annual Awards of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences, Columbia announces its Fifteenth Anniversary.

It is peculiarly fitting that the organization which had its humble beginning in 1920 with the advent of the "Hall Room Boys" should in successive stages mark its way upward through "Submarine", "Flight", "Platinum Blonde", "Dirigible", "Lady For A Day", "It Happened One Night", "One Night Of Love", "Broadway Bill" and "The Whole Town's Talking" to the highest honors within the gift of a distinguished Academy and simultaneously establish itself in the world-wide confidence of exhibitors.

We acknowledge with thanks the good wishes and congratulations of our friends.

Columbia Net On Half-Year Doubles 1933

Total Is $919,184, Or $5.15 on Common

Net profits of $919,184.81 are reported by Columbia for the half-year ended Dec. 29, 1934. After all charges this is equivalent to approximately $5.15 per share of common after deducting preferred dividends, comparing with $2.25 per share on earnings of $404,562.93 for the similar period of 1933.

The consolidated balance sheet as of Dec. 29, 1934, shows current assets of $7,137,715.50 and total current liabilities of $1,418,973.26, or a ratio of over five to one. Earned surplus increased $3,903,488.51 and working capital to $5,718,742.24.

A quarterly dividend of 25 cents per share on the common and voting trust certificates for common stock has been declared, payable April 1 to stockholders of record March 13.

Claim Against Para. Is Cut to $300,000

An order approving a settlement of the $443,390 claim filed against Paramount Publix by the 1432 Broadway Corp. for future rent and other considerations in connection with a disavowed lease on the Empire, was signed by Federal Judge Alfred C. Coxe yesterday.

The approved settlement calls for a reduction of the claim to $300,000 and its allowance as a general claim for that amount in the Paramount reorganization.

Fox Has One More Chance: To Apply for a Rehearing

By CLARENCE LINZ

WASHINGTON, March 5.—Yesterday's decisions by the U. S. Supreme Court in the Tri-Ergon cases leaves William Fox with but one last shot in his locker, that of appealing for a rehearing.

Rarely sought, because the court's decisions leave little unsaid, it is, nevertheless, possible for the defeated side to secure a new consideration of its case by showing that the court had failed to consider certain important facts which were before it, or had in some way misinterpreted the evidence.

It is not believed that Fox could secure a rehearing on the basis of hitherto undisclosed testimony. All pertinent testimony is supposed to be laid before the court in argument. If there is testimony which was not disclosed in the lower courts, the Supreme Court is not likely to act.

Disposed Of

Here is comment made yesterday by John E. Otterson, president of Erpi, subsidiary of Western Electric, which conducted the defense for Paramount in the Tri-Ergon case:

"The so-called Tri-Ergon patents in question, originally taken out by German inventors, have been used as the basis for numerous infringement suits brought against American manufacturers, motion picture producers and exhibitors in connection with which extravagant claims for damages have been made. The decisions of the Supreme Court declaring these patents to be invalid finally and effectively dispose of all of these suits and the claims incident thereto."

Century-RKO Case Passes 15-Hour Mark

Cross-fire accusations by Mitchell Klupt and Louis Nizer with charges of "indecent, unfair, unethical and dishonest" being bandied about, supplemented by several warnings by the chair to cut down on drawn-out lines of questioning highlighted the fourth day of the Century-RKO Long Island clearance dispute.

Yesterday's session took about four hours and 15 minutes with Nizer making a total of 21 objections to Klupt's 16. Klupt led Nizer in the morning session with a score of 11 to 10, while in the afternoon the Century attorney objected five times to Nizer's 11. Total time consumed in the hearings so far is 15¼ hours.

Weeks Needed To End Suits By Tri-Ergon

First Cases Sent Back To Lower Courts

It may be the end of the month before the various Tri-Ergon patent suits pending in three U. S. District Courts are disposed of. In ruling on the two original suits, one brought in Brooklyn and the other in Harrisburg, the U. S. Supreme Court remanded them back to the courts of original jurisdiction for action. It may take two weeks to get the papers out.

The first suit was filed in Brooklyn against Paramount Publix on use of the double-printer. Last action on the Altoona Publix and Wilmer & Vincent flywheel cases was taken in Scranton before Judge Albert W. Johnston.

During the hectic days following the first Supreme Court refusal to

Connery Labor Bill Reported in House

WASHINGTON, March 5.—The House Labor Committee today ordered favorably reported the bill introduced by Representative Connery of Massachusetts, providing equal representation for labor on all code bodies.

The committee reached its decision after considering the testimony submitted at its recent hearings, when labor representatives charged that many of the ills of various industries were attributable to the lack of labor representatives on enforcement bodies.

No criticism was voiced on the film code, which carries such a lengthy list of wage minima as to make wage cutting practically impossible.

Number Two Release Clicks

Drama and comedy, complete with beginning, middle and end, run through the second release of "The March of Time."

By clever juxtaposition of scenes, by impressively dramatic photographic value and astute editorial judgment in the sifting of its subject matter, the five-episode two-reeler lands with a click unmistakable.

The inside story of how the New York Daily News pulled the old newspaper stunt of replating plus and minus on the Hauptmann decision, how its bigwigs held their breath while the erroneous and now famous Associated Press flash was wiped out to clear the way for a three-minute beat over competitors, exciting scenes of the presses running—this is "The March of Time's" answer to straight newsreel coverage on the trial of the century. It's swell.

Professor Edgerton of M.I.T. demonstrating wonders of his stroboscopic camera, 150 times faster than the usual camera, and what happens in ordinary phenomena such as breaking electric light bulbs, dropping drops in milk is the second subject.

Three is a yarn complete on its own of the Senatorial move toward greater safety at sea, tying in for the dramatic mixture the Mohawk disaster with a startling shot of the camera crew cutting under the bow of the Talisman and flashes of the Morro Castle, pre-disaster.

Fourth is the human interest yarn of Convict Huddie Ledbetter, known as Leadbelly, who sang his American folksong way out of Texas and Louisiana prisons to freedom and a permanent niche in the Music Division of the Library of Congress.

Living up to the connotations of its title, "The March of Time," for its closing sequence, tells the story of Hitler and explains, by picture and diagram, how the other powers are encircling him with a ring of diplomacy and steel. Comparable to the Japanese episode in the first release, this in point of import and weight, is the reel's standout. Very well conceived, executed and edited, it's the top.

Reviewers to Hold Three-Day Session

A three-day conference of the National Board of Review will open tomorrow at the Hotel Pennsylvania, with the main topic of discussion "Intelligent People and the Movies."

Tomorrow morning the board members will see a picture at Warners projection room and in the afternoon will take up the general subject, "What Are the Movies Up Against?" Dr. Frederic M. Thrasher, associate professor of education at New York University, will preside. Speakers and their subjects will be: Howard S. Cullman, "Popular Art and Profit"; Margaret G. Mayorga, chairman of motion pictures, Long Island Federation of Women's Clubs, "Legal Censorship"; Dr. Worth M. Tippy, executive secretary Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, "Indirect Censorship"; Prof. Edward C. Lindeman, N. Y. School of Social Work, "Organized Minorities and Masses."

During the evening there will be a demonstration of the N. Y. U. film course.

"Community Motion Picture Activities" will be the topic of the Friday morning sessions to be presided over by Mrs. Marguerite E. Schwarzman, director, Children's Laboratories, New Rochelle. Afternoon speakers will be: Dr. Francis D. Tyson, Mrs. Jessica G. Cosgrave, John E. Abbott, Prof. Douglas Moore, George Freedley, Mabel Williams, William Lewin and Carl Bohnenberger. Unusual pictures will be shown in the evening.

"Youth and the Movies" will be the topic of the Saturday morning session. The annual luncheon will be held at 12:30 o'clock Saturday.

review the Circuit Court of Appeals decision, which upheld the patents, suits were filed by Hirsh, Newman, Reass & Becker; Ward, Crosby & Neal and Kenyon & Kenyon against the following: In New York—A-G-R Laboratories, Inc., AmerAnglo Corp., Cinelab Laboratories, Inc., Columbia, Consolidated Film Industries, Duo-Art Film Laboratories, Filmlab, Inc., First Division, Malcolm Laboratories Corp., M-G-M, Monogram, Reliance, Talking Picture Epics, 20th Century, Universal; in Brooklyn—Warners and Vitaphone; in Wilmington—Loew's, Inc., M-G-M Distributing Corp. and Warners.

Tri-Ergon also had filed a claim of indeterminate amount against Paramount Publix in the latter's bankruptcy proceedings, asking an accounting of profits for the alleged patent infringements. The sum was to have been determined on the basis of the accounting sought and was expected to be for a very substantial amount. As a result of the Supreme Court's decision, counsel for the Paramount trustees may now move to have the claim expunged by the Federal court, and will undoubtedly do so in the near future.

Officials of RCA Photophone remained silent yesterday on the disposition of the litigation. John E. Otterson, president of Erpi, however, issued a statement printed elsewhere in this issue.

Milliken in N. E. Talk

Carl E. Milliken, secretary of the M.P.P.D.A., will address the New England Ass'n. of English Teachers at Radcliffe College, Cambridge, Mass., on Friday. His topic will be "The Educational Value of Motion Pictures." The gathering will also hear a debate on censorship between Dr. Henry Longfellow Dana of Harvard and the Rev. Russell Sullivan of the Legion of Decency.

"Colonel" Is $14,000 Hit In Cleveland

CLEVELAND, March 5.—"The Little Colonel" was the big success with a $14,000 gross, or $8,000 over average, at Warners' Hippodrome.

"After Office Hours" went $6,000 over the average at Loew's State, and the Circle ended the week with $5,500, or 82 per cent over par with "That's Gratitude" on the screen and Helen Kane heading a stage show. First run business was very good considering stiff opposition of the Grotto Circus that turned away crowds at every performance.

Total first run gross was $58,200. Average is $41,000.

Estimated takings for the week ending March 1:

"THE GOOD FAIRY" (Univ.)
ALLEN—(3,300), 20c-30c-40c, 7 days. Gross: $4,100. (Average, $3,000)

"THE LITTLE COLONEL" (Fox)
WARNERS' HIPPODROME—(3,800), 30c-35c-42c, 7 days. Gross: $16,000. (Average, $6,000)

"WOMAN IN RED" (F. N.)
RKO PALACE—(3,100), 30c-40c-60c, 7 days. Stage: "Anatole's Affairs." Gross: $13,500. (Average, $15,000)

"AFTER OFFICE HOURS" (M-G-M)
LOEW'S STATE—(3,400), 30c-35c-42c, 7 days. Gross: $16,000. (Average, $10,000)

"WINGS IN THE DARK" (Para.)
LOEW'S STILLMAN—(1,900), 20c-30c-40c, 7 days. Gross: $5,100. (Average, $4,000)

"THAT'S GRATITUDE" (Col.)
CIRCLE—(1,875), 20c-25c-30c, 7 days. Stage: Helen Kane as headliner. Gross: $5,500. (Average, $3,000)

Pa. Exhibitors Rally Against Gross Tax

HARRISBURG, March 5.—A rally of theatre operators and others opposed to the proposed Pennsylvania 10 per cent tax on gross receipts of theatrical and other amusement enterprises was held here today at the Penn Harris Hotel. From the hotel the protestants, who were drawn from every part of the state, proceeded to the capitol where a hearing was held on the measure before the ways and means committee of the House.

Those oppossed to the bill asserted the tax would have to be passed on to the public as theatres could not possibly absorb it. This, it was declared, would mean a heavy reduction in attendance, with the result many theatres would be driven to the wall.

The hearing was attended by a committee consisting of C. Floyd Hopkins, Harrisburg, vice-president of Wilmer & Vincent, chairman; William Brown, Tarentum; Fred J. Herrington, Pittsburgh, secretary of the M.P.T.O. of Western Pennsylvania; William Walker, Crafton; Michael J. O'Toole, Scranton, representing the Comerford interests; Samuel Schwartz and Oscar Neufeld, Philadelphia; Carter Barren, Washington, Pa., representing Loew's.

Those who addressed the assembled theatre men in opposition to the tax included J. Fred Osterstock, manager of the State and Embassy, Easton, Wilmer & Vincent houses; O'Toole; Lawrence Katz, president of the Harrisburg Union of M. P. Theatre Operators, and David Barrist, Philadelphia, former owner of the Exhibitor there.

Hollywood Personals

Hollywood, March 5.—Reginald Barker to direct "The Healer" for Monogram. . . . Robert Middlemass has reported at Columbia, his first assignment being a role in "Air Fury." . . . Alfred E. Green to direct Bette Davis' next for Warners, "Men on Our Mind."

Lew King set to direct "Charlie Chan in Egypt" for Fox. . . . Rouben Mamoulian through directing "Becky Sharp." . . . Evelyn Bostack, English actress, signed by Sol Lesser to play opposite George O'Brien in "Cowboy Millionaire." . . . Oliver H. P. Garrett has checked in at M-G-M to adapt "Hell Afloat," which Fritz Lang will direct.

Werner Richard Heyman, composer who did the music for Fox's "Caravan," has postponed his departure for Europe to March 8. Reason: wife is ill. . . . Adele Jerome, wife of Producer Emanuel Wolf, signed by Radio to assist in staging the dances in "She," in which she will also have a part.

"Colonel" $4,100 Leader at Lincoln

LINCOLN, March 5.—"Little Colonel" routed all the other straight picture houses at the Stuart, top pricer of the town. The take was $4,100, in spite of a snow that fell a foot thick on the second day. That's $1,000 above average.

"Gilded Lily" at the Lincoln suffered with the blizzard after starting like lightning, but gathered $2,800, $600 above the normal. The Orpheum, three days with stage show and "Bordertown" and four days with "Night Is Young," took $3,200, $900 above average. At the Varsity, "Whole Town's Talking" built steadily to $1,500, average.

Estimated takings of the four first runners, $11,600. Average $9,100.

Estimated takings:

Week Ending Feb. 28:

"BORDERTOWN" (Warners)
"NIGHT IS YOUNG" (M-G-M)
ORPHEUM—(1,200), 10c-15c-25c, 3 days. Stage: O'Connor Family, Hagji Ali. Other 4 days straight picture. Gross: $3,200. (Average, $2,300)

"GILDED LILY" (Para.)
LINCOLN — (1,600), 10c-25c, 7 days. Gross: $2,800. (Average, $2,200)

"WHOLE TOWN'S TALKING" (Col.)
VARSITY—(1,100), 10c-15c-25c, 7 days. Gross: $1,500. (Average, $1,500)

Week Ending March 1:

Many Changes Made Among N. E. Houses

BOSTON, March 5.—Policy changes, closings and openings, and changes in ownership have been numerous in New England during the past week.

The Fellsway at Medford, an Irving Green house, has dropped first runs for second runs, and the Lyric, Fitchburg, has gone from first runs to last runs.

Openings include the Lakeside, Rangely, Me., operated by H. C. Riddle; Imperial, Pawtucket, and Park, Woonsocket.

Closings are: I.O.O.F., Smyrna Falls, Me., by the Tarbell brothers; Opera House, Gorham, N. H., by C. A. Foster; Memorial Hall, New London, N. H., by W. H. Kidder.

Ownership changes include: Star, Poultney, Vt., from E. Stevenson to R. L. Whitton; Liberty, Pittsfield, N. H., from W. Trayers, Jr., to W. Trayers, Sr.; State, Dover, N. H., from Michael J. White to Fred Couture.

"Iron Duke" Gets $10,500, Montreal

MONTREAL, March 5.—For the last week before Lent, theatres experienced fair to good business, with British and foreign films holding the screen at three houses. "The Iron Duke" at the Capitol led the way with a take of $10,500, while "The Private Life of Don Juan" reached $7,500 at the Princess.

"The County Chairman" was responsible for $9,000 at Loew's. The reopening of the Imperial with "Jeannette" and a stage show resulted in a take of $5,000. All of these were better than previous average with the exception of Loew's, which is now on a straight picture run.

Total business was $34,500. Average is $34,500.

Estimated takings for the week ending March 2:

"THE IRON DUKE" (Gaumont British)
CAPITOL — (2,547), 25c-35c-40c-50c-60c, 7 days. Gross: $10,500. (Average, $9,500)

Pick "Curly Top" Title

HOLLYWOOD, March 5.—The new version of "Daddy Long Legs," which Fox is preparing to film with Shirley Temple in the top spot, will be titled "Curly Top."

Ray Henderson has been signed to do the music and David Butler will direct.

Lloyd Borrows Butler

HOLLYWOOD, March 5.—Frank Butler, writer for Hal Roach lot, has been loaned to Harold Lloyd to work on Lloyd's next feature. Butler has just finished work on "Laurel and Hardy in India" for Roach.

Switch "Enemy" Title

HOLLYWOOD, March 5.—M-G-M has changed the title of "Public Enemy No. 2" to "Baby Face Harrington."

The picture features Charles Butterworth and Una Merkel and is being directed by Raoul Walsh.

"Wings" Gets $24,500, Top In Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH, March 5.—There was a definite improvement here last week, only one house of five failing to touch or better avrage. This was the first time here in several months such an excellent showing has been made.

The Penn topped the town easily, Ted Lewis getting chief credit for the $24,500 take, although "Wings in the Dark" was of some help, too. At the Alvin, the box-office combination of Janet Gaynor and Warner Baxter carried "One More Spring" to a neat $11,500, while "The Iron Duke" at $4,400 gave the Fulton its first profit since this house lowered its scale.

Even the Warner felt the general impetus, "The Woman in Red" and "Little Men" collecting $5,000. Only the Stanley was in the dumps, and Rudy Vallee's picture, "Sweet Music," and N. T. G.'s Paradise Cafe Revue on the stage weren't able to weather the tough competition, doing around $11,000.

Total grosses in five first run houses were $56,400. Average is $56,000.

Estimated takings for the week ending Feb. 28:

"ONE MORE SPRING" (Fox)
ALVIN—(2,000), 25c-40c, 6 days. Stage: Sid Page, ammond's Pets, Paul Gannon, Ruth Ruddie, Peggy Earle, Paul Armento, Three Perkins Brothers, Streamline Alvinettes, Jerry Mayhall's orchestra. Gross: $11,500. (Average, $10,000)

"THE IRON DUKE" (Gaumont British)
FULTON—(1,750), 15c-25c, 6 days. Gross: $4,400. (Average, $4,000)

"WINGS IN THE DARK" (Para.)
PENN—(3,300), 25c-40c, 6 days. Stage: Ted Lewis, Carroll and Chalita, Snowball Whittier, Radio Aces, Lois Sterner, Paul White and Mildred Gaye. Gross: $24,500. (Average, $19,000)

"SWEET MUSIC" (Warners)
STANLEY—(3,600), 25c-40c, 6 days. Stage: N. T. G.'s Paradise Cafe Revue with Eddie Stanley, May Joyce, Frank Conville, Kada, Earl, Jack and Betty, Vanessi, Mona Leslie. Gross: $11,000. (Average, $18,000)

"WOMAN IN RED" (Warners)
"LITTLE MEN" (Mascot)
WARNER—(2,000), 25c-40c, 6 days. Gross: $5,000. (Average, $5,000)

K. C. ITO Offers Last Chance on Clearance

KANSAS CITY, March 5.—As a last resort to obtain clearance relief before proceeding with Federal court action, the I.T.O. is prepared to file tomorrow a complaint against Fox Midwest asking the zoning board to hear its charges against the circuit. It is understood it will be alleged distributors granted excessive protection to Midwest over independent suburbans and the complaint will attack the local clearance setup.

If the board fails to grant the demanded relief, the I.T.O. is definitely decided to bring the matter to the attention of the Federal authorities, it is understood.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY learned tonight that the St. Joseph, Mo., clearance schedule set up by the local board may be probed by the Department of Justice on a monopoly charge filed by Frank H. Cassil of the Rialto, that city, against Dubinsky.

Cassil charges he is unable to increase his admission above 15 cents due to the protection held by Dubinsky, as, regardless of admission, he would still have to follow Dubinsky's 15-cent second run, he charges.

Century-RKO Case Passes 15-Hour Mark

Up until yesterday's session there were 464 pages of testimony and it appears that several more hearings will be held before the case winds up before the local board.

Verbal fireworks and an exchange of criticism started when Nizer, in examining Emanuel Friedman, manager of the Fantasy, Rockville Center, openly doubted the veracity of the witness, who was answering questions in regard to the theatre's advertising. Klupt lost his temper and criticized his opponent for making the comments. There was no attempt to stifle sarcasm, which was plentiful.

Before the morning session was halted Klupt was called out of order by the chair. There were many interruptions and Nizer even expressed indignation at Klupt's persistence at interjecting, but Klupt passed it off and told Nizer to continue.

Humor Steals Into Proceedings

The early testimony was not without humor. Harry Novick a bus driver, was asked why he was sure he did not cruise a ballyhoo truck to Far Rockaway when advertising a picture for the Fantasy. He retorted, in a serious manner:

"I know I didn't go there, because I have relations in Far Rockaway and I would have gone to see them if I was in the town."

Robert L. Alberts, general manager of Suburban Bus Advertising Co., was examined and cross-examined for more than two hours on the various bus routes in Long Island and advertising placed by Century. Klupt here again was cautioned by Leo Abrams, chairman, to eliminate repetitious testimony. Walter Gutteridge, manager of the Columbia and Strand, Far Rockaway, followed and again the fireworks broke out when photographs taken on alleged Century advertising were challenged by Klupt.

Holds Photos "Dishonest"

The Century attorney charged the photos were "dishonest." The chairman asked him to try and cut out some of the questioning. He called the board unfair in permitting the opposing counsel to get in remarks on the record "after the damage had been done" without his being permitted to proceed in his own manner. Nizer then demanded that the board call a halt to Klupt's unethical attitude. Eugene Picker, a member of the board, came to the defense of Abrams, who stated he was trying to be as fair as he could to both sides. Klupt apologized.

About three minutes before the meeting adjourned until tomorrow, Klupt made another remark that riled Nizer. Nizer told Klupt and the board that "Klupt will have to toe the mark on these accusations, which are insulting, indecent and unethical. He has made remarks of RKO gypping Century, and he will have to prove them all before this case is through."

Campi Relief Given In 667 of Its Cases

the total number of complaints filed. Of this total, 240 cases were dismissed, 177 withdrawn, 14 adjusted and 23 were pending before local boards. However, Campi as of Dec. 31, had 212 grievances scheduled for appeal. Code Authority affirmed lower boards in 106 and reversed 17 other decisions.

Overbuying complaints totaled 139, premature advertising, 219; price-cutting, 609; non-classified, 28; non-theatrical, 45; interference with lease, 22; enforcing cease and desist orders, four; fraudulent transfer of theatres, 21; change of playdates, three; 10 per cent eliminations, 11; forcing of shorts, two; breach of contract, 11; failure to deliver product, one; monopolies, four.

Total number of clearance and zoning and grievance disputes before Campi for disposition as of Feb. 19 was 39.

Michael Would Ask That Code Be Ended

convention, Jules H. Michael of Buffalo proposes carrying forward his campaign for cancellation of the code as it affects exhibitors by June 30. He proposes petitioning the President to this end.

He would have the exhibition and distribution industry return to "some manner of internal self-government" by means of a "system or plan of arbitration based upon the system previously prevalent in the industry and further in accordance with such terms and conditions as may be formulated by agreement between representative groups of producers, distributors and exhibitors, independent and affiliated."

A second Michael resolution which never saw daylight calls upon Congress for a commission like the Federal Communications Commission to determine music taxes collectable by Ascap.

Editor Praises "Sequoia"

NEW HAVEN, March 5.—Monday's Journal Courier carried an editorial heralding "Sequoia" as evidence of the change of films "from mere sophisticated and garish extravagance toward quiet naturalness." The picture "provides a lesson in the powerful possibilities of the cinema," the editorial concluded. "Sequoia" is playing the Bijou. The school picture clubs are cooperating in organizing large parties of students to attend.

Charter Two Companies

ALBANY, March 5.—An equipment and a theatre company have just been chartered here. The former is Cinema Equipment Corp., with $20,000 capital, formed by George H. Tilson, Helen M. Bennett and Sidney Gersten. The other is the Trebor Theatre Corp., Winfield, chartered by Louis Masheb, Hilda E. Scheffler and Hada J. Morris.

Omaha Usherette Wins

OMAHA, March 5.—Miss Allene Fransen, blonde head usherette at the Orpheum, has been chosen by Universal as "the world's most beautiful usherette." It was a beauty contest. She will be featured in a vaudeville act and may get a screen test.

Senate Probe Of NRA Goes On Tomorrow

By BERTRAM F. LINZ

WASHINGTON, March 5.—Investigation of the operation of the Recovery Act will begin Thursday with the opening of hearings by the Senate Finance Committee at which Donald R. Richberg, executive director of the National Emergency Council and formerly right hand man of Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, will be the first witness.

Except for the fact that it will call Richberg and will give consideration to the Darrow board reports, one of which flayed the film code, the committee has made no detailed plans for its hearings, it was declared. Some of the members were said to be in favor of asking General Johnson to appear, but no decision has been reached.

Richberg will be asked to outline the present situation in the NRA. It is possible that a sub-committee will be appointed to conduct the questioning of the witnesses.

Preaches on Film Titles

OMAHA, March 5.—Film titles have furnished the inspiration for a series of sermons during March by Rev. R. W. Cooper, Baptist pastor. He began the series with "The Right to Live." The film is at the Paramount this week. Next Sunday "Under Pressure" is scheduled, followed by "The Man Who Reclaimed His Head," "Life Begins at 8:40," and "Gold Diggers of 1935." Appropriate music will be played during services to harmonize with the titles.

Would End "Love" Suits

SACRAMENTO, March 5.—A so-called "love-pirate" bill has been introduced under the joint sponsorship of Assemblyman Richie and Senator Stow. It is designed to end breach of promise and alienation of affections suits.

Add to Stock Companies

HOLLYWOOD, March 5.—M-G-M and Paramount are both developing their stock companies. Paramount's latest acquisition is six dancing girls, who, the talent scouts hope, will develop dramatic ability.

Order Strike in Mexico

MEXICO CITY, March 5.—A strike in all theatres which employ its members has been called for Friday by the National Cinematographic Workers as a sympathy move in support of a local strike at Monterey on the border.

Name Virginia Theatre

RICHMOND, March 5.—The new theatre to be erected by Walter J. Coulter and Charles A. Somma at Highland Park will be called the Park. The cost is estimated at $75,000.

Mark Kelly in Hospital

HOLLYWOOD, March 5.—Mark Kelly, sports writer, is at the Cedars of Lebanon recuperating from a stomach ailment.

N. H. Zoning Moves Await Test in L. A.

Vogel, E. T. Gomersall, Felix Jenkins and Edward Golden voted in the negative.

Although the clearance and zoning committee, comprising Sidney Justin, O'Reilly and Paul Lazarus, held a session to study the plan and try to work out a feasible system of clearance, it is understood that nothing developed at the session. A report on the New Haven plan is sceduled to be made Thursday, but action will ni all probability be deferred, it is understood.

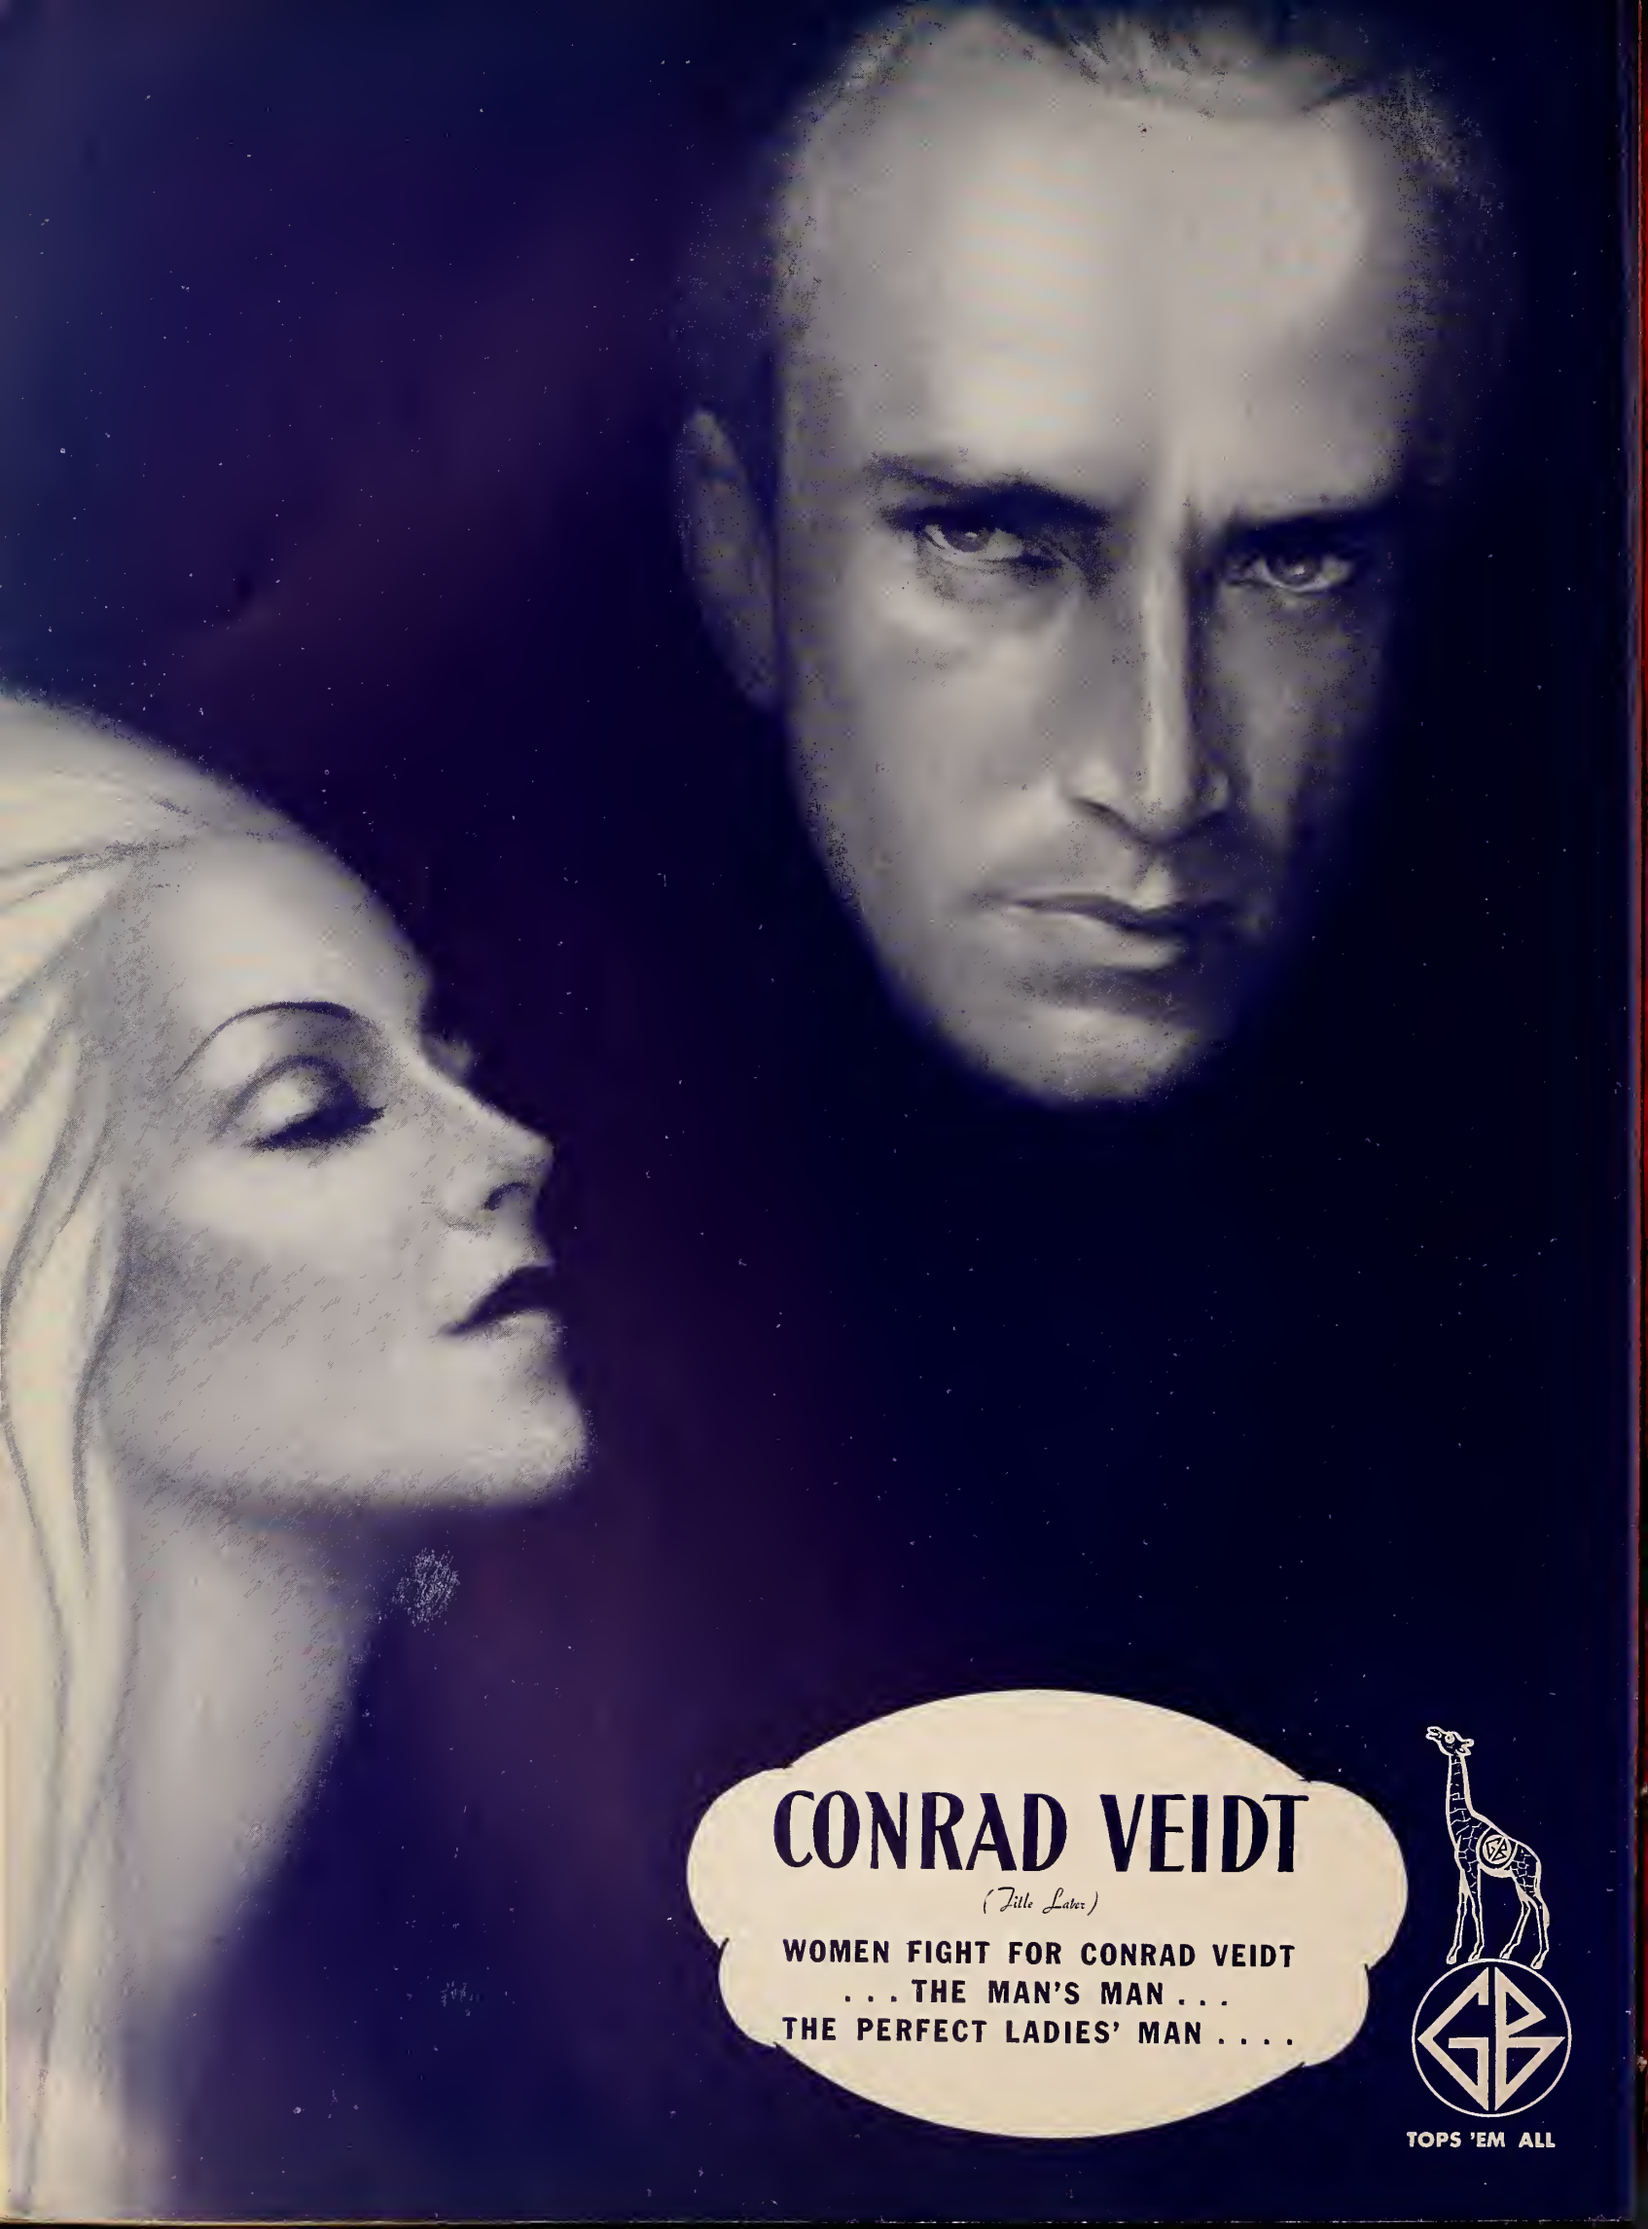
Despite Campi's efforts to get the coast plan under way, a last minute petition by Fox West Coast for a review of certain phases in it will hold the schedule up until March 15. Code Authority's previous ruling was that the schedule must be put into operation before March 31. It is understood that F.W.C. also objects to the admission angle of the plan.

Kansas City and Milwaukee schedules are next in line for Code Authority approval, but they will be held in abeyance until the coast matter is disposed of.

How Distributors Feel About It

Distributors from time to time have held that protection is a matter of barter and trade between the exchange and the exhibitor; also, that adoption of a schedule based on admissions would create a print shortage in each territory. On the print scarcity angle, distributors point to Chicago as the best example of their argument. Whenever exchanges in that city get a release date, prints from surrounding branches are called in to meet the demands of the circuits.

In turning down the New Haven schedule, distributors held that one plan was enough to experiment with at a time and that no other plan should be accepted until it is found that the Los Angeles setup works out to best interests of exhibitors and distributors. However, F.W.C. contends that in experimenting with Los Angeles the circuit will be injured because of the overlapping geographical and competitive situations. The circuit further adds that if Campi wants to test the workability of schedules it should pick on a territory not so involved as Southern California and Los Angeles.



The petition of F.W.C. will be reviewed Thursday. It is expected that Charles Buckley and W. T. Powers, its signers, will appear before the body for further expression on objections.

Richmond's Sunday Benefit Shows Gain

RICHMOND, March 5.—Sunday benefit shows are becoming a regular thing here and the police seem to have given up the idea of interference. Six were given last Sunday.

Funds from last Sunday's shows will be used for the benefit of the Virginia Association of Workers for the Blind. Robert H. Coulter, Elmer H. Brient and Frank Ponton are on a committee named to handle the money.

Purely Personal

E. L. Alperson, Charles MacDonald, Johnny O'Connor, Morton Van Praag, Toby Gruen, George Weltner, Louis Phillips, Laurence Bolognino, Sidney Justin, Robert Benjamin, Leo Abrams, Henry Randel, William Ferguson, Judge Levy and Harry Shiffman congregated at the M.P. Club for luncheon yesterday.

Lou Smith of the Paramount publicity department and Harry Browning, director of publicity and advertising for the M. & P. theatres, have been making a whirlwind tour of New England contacting film editors.

Phil Reisman, who sails Saturday on the Conte di Savoia for Italy and France, expects to bring home a ping pong trophy which he hopes to win on the liner. He's practicing assiduously these days.

Quip of the Day

Laurence Stallings fell recently and broke his left arm.

That's the side where a German cannon removed a leg.

When he showed up at the Fox Movietone News offices with a plaster cast, he remarked:

"I'm completely fireproofed on this side now."

Eric Hatch, writer, who recently finished work on "Fly-by-Night" for Fox, and Royer, Fox style artist, are in New York. Hatch will go to his Long Island home and Royer will see what's what.

Neil Agnew, Milt Kusell, Joe Unger and Abe Waxman tried out Jack Dempsey's new place for lunch yesterday. Not in one party, however.

Ernest Shomo, formerly on the Chicago staff of Physical Culture, has been placed on the Chicago advertising staff of Photoplay.

Jack Springer will leave tomorrow for Miami to join Sam Cocalis who is now vacationing in the winter resort.

L. W. Conroy, eastern operating chieftain for Erpi, returned from the M.P.T.O.A. convention yesterday.

Halsey Raines, who has been vacationing in New Orleans, leaves that city for home territory today.

Leslie E. Thompson has returned from Miami, but Major I. E. Lambert is still there.

George Hunter of the Campi legal staff was down yesterday with a cold.

A. H. Schwartz leaves for Key West and another vacation today.

Ben Bernie and his band will open at the Capitol Friday.

Drop Oil City Houses

Oil City, Pa., March 5.—The Harris Amusement Co. has given up its leases on the Drake and Lyric here.

"After Office Hours" Hit In K. C.; Draws $16,700

Kansas City, March 5.—"After Office Hours" was the Midland's smash hit at $16,700 and left other first run takes far behind. "Devil Dogs of the Air" did nicely at the Newman with $6,000, and "Evergreen" held up well at the Uptown for $3,400 in a second week. "The Good Fairy," another holdover, garnered $6,500 at the Tower.

Bad weather cut in heavily on Sunday and Monday grosses.

Total first run business was $41,000. Average is $35,500.

Estimated takings:

Week Ending Feb. 28:

"THE WOMAN IN RED" (F. N.)
MAINSTREET—(3,100), 25c-35c-40c, 7 days. Stage: "Folies de Paree," featuring Bernie & Walker, Currie & Naida, Diane Quellaire, Mlle, Janis, Les Jacksons, Cleora's Parisian Melodians, others. Gross: $8,400. (Average, combination shows, $9,000)

Report Cleanup Has Advanced Good Will

Hollywood, March 5.—Evidence of nation-wide appreciation of the improvement in the tone of screen entertainment and advertising matter was placed before publicity executives at the Hays office today by J. J. McCarthy and Lupton Wilkinson of the M.P.P.D.A., who reported that the results of a national survey showed public sentiment in favor of the industry had been in an upcurve since last summer.

Many channels are using material that gives a distorted idea of Hollywood and the picture folk, Wilkinson pointed out.

"If clean pictures and clean ads have paid dividends at the box-office, it follows that wholesome material will also pay dividends for the columns, fan magazines and other media that derive circulation from copy about Hollywood," said Wilkinson. "The trend of the times is that the way pictures and picture ads have prospered by weeding out the meritricious so can our friends who write about the business equally prosper by presenting heart appeal, wholesome humor and thrilling accomplishment."

No changes were made in the preview list at the meeting. The request of Fawcett Publications that art matter be issued to them directly on the coast was held a matter for each studio to decide for itself.

Stallings to Speak

New Haven, March 5.—Laurence Stallings, Fox Movietone News editor, will deliver the first of two talks before the Yale University Law School Thursday afternoon. His subject will be "The Camera Eye." On March 14 he will talk on "The American Newsreel."

"Colonel" Is Heavy Detroit Draw, $23,600

Detroit, March 5.—Practically the only big business in town last week went to "The Little Colonel" at the Fox where the $23,600 take was over normal by $8,600. There were five acts of vaudeville on the stage.

"After Office Hours" was comparatively strong at $21,700 in the Michigan and a dual, "Little Men" and "The Winning Ticket," was over par at $6,300 in the State. "David Copperfield" slipped to $8,200 in its third week at the United Artists.

Total first run business was $67,300. Average is $60,000.

Estimated takings for the week ending March 1:

"GRAND OLD GIRL" (Col.)
"WEST OF THE PECOS" (Radio)
ADAMS—(1,770), 10c-40c, 7 days. Gross: $3,400. (Average, $5,000)

Short Subjects

"Spice of Life"

(Columbia)

A satisfactory eight minutes of jokes, prepared and edited by The Literary Digest with "Doc" Rockwell and Gracie Worth interpolating the business of gags. This is Number 5 in the series. Production Code Seal 0300. Running time, 8 mins. "G."

"Meet the Professor"

(Universal)

This Mentone production shifts the usual locale from that of a night club to a college and the entertainment handed out is average. The cast includes Joe Browning, Bernice Claire, Clarence Nordstrom, Columbia University Band, The Glee Club Singers, The Four Brachards, Helen and Earl Tucker and the 12 Mentonettes. Production Code Seal No. 0309. Running time, 19 mins. "G."

Legion's Postcards New Worry in Omaha

OMAHA, March 5.—The Legion of Decency has contrived a new way to create local headaches by the use of the postcard system. Theatre men have learned that nearly 40,000 cards have been printed with a form announcement protesting against Class C pictures or stage shows. Blanks are left for the protester to sign. After that he has only to scribble the address of the theatre and drop it in the mail. The Paramount has been the recipient of several hundred of these cards.

Daigler Quits Hamrick

SEATTLE, March 5. — Personnel of John Hamrick's circuit in this city, Portland and Tacoma has been shaken up. Hal Daigler, general manager of the 10 houses, and Joseph Rosenfield, advertising director, have resigned. Daigler has been with the organization for the last three years, and Rosenfield for more than a year.

Effective immediately, the active management of the circuit will be taken over by John Hamrick personally. Supervising the advertising department will be Edwin B. Rivers, now in the Hamrick ad office in Portland. Rivers will establish Seattle headquarters and will direct the publicity for all three cities.

Capital Belasco Shifts

WASHINGTON, March 5.—The Belasco, for many years No. 1 legitimate house, has switched to films as a part of Radin and Levine's circuit of foreign film spots.

The inagural attraction was the Amkino release of "Chapayev" (The Red Commander).

L. Stoddard Taylor, who, for nearly 30 years, has been a familiar figure at the house, will continue as manager.

Charter Alliance Films

ALBANY, March 5.—Alliance Films, Ltd., New York, has been chartered here by Maurice Arthur Dent, Robert Clark, Hilda Geier and Arthur J. Homans.

Looking 'Em Over

"Strictly Illegal"

(Joe Rock—Gaumont-British)

LONDON, Feb. 21.—First effort of Leslie Fuller Prod., which, with Joe Rock as producer and Ralph Ceder as director, aims to put over Fuller, a sure bet in British neighborhood and provincial theatres, in the London "West End" and in America.

The West End means a lot less than America and doesn't seem to have received particular attention in the shaping of "Strictly Illegal," which, so far as the star himself is concerned, is according to Fuller precedents; in fact, he has been funnier. For America, however, there is a concluding sequence with the whole cast in a chase in the carriages, and on the running boards and roofs of a speeding train which is very good stuff of its kind.

Fuller is a street bookmaker who thinks he has killed a cop and, stealing the clothes of a clergyman, finds himself guest in a country house in which his own wife, after a quarrel with him, has secured a post as maid. The daughter of the house is preparing to elope with a musician and the story develops on the usual farcical lines of mistaken bedrooms, with a Keystone chase when the police turn up and a further complication when it is discovered that the victimized clergyman was himself a disguised thief after jewels. Finally, thieves, jewels, police, lovers and the old lady of the house all board the same train for London, and the chase continues in and out of the carriages and all over the train until things are straightened out.

The railroad sequence should make it a useful programmer on your side. Fuller is a natural droll, and there are plenty of good comedy situations, but some of the support is weak and it looks as though L. F Prod. will have to use more polish on the details of production before they can put Leslie over as a Broadway star.

Running time, 70 minutes. "G."

"Dandy Dick"

(Associated British Pictures)

LONDON, Feb. 21.—William Beaudine made this at Elstree and, without spending too lavishly either of time or money, has turned out an entertaining, light feature of second attraction category.

A Pinero play provides a good plot, the pith of which is that a clergyman, in order to finance repairs to his church steeple, is persuaded to back a horse at long odds. Trying to administer a tonic to the steed, he is seized by a cop and, afraid to admit his identity, is being carried to jail when he manages to escape and, in scarecrow garb, witnesses the victory of the outsider.

Will Hay, big variety and radio name here, is excellent in the lead and the script and director have given him every chance. There is a very funny scene in which, joy-flying at the church bazaar, he is hooked out of his seat by the parachute and descends on the steeple. All through the characterization is amusing. Of the support, Robert Nainby scores as a deaf churchwarden, but the juveniles won't cause any enthusiasm.

Running time. 70 minutes. "G." ALLAN

"Secrets of Chinatown"

(Syndicate)

This is the sort of melodramatic entertainment that was ground out in the swaddling days of the industry. The film tries very hard to be weird and mysterious, but merely succeeds in being somewhat dull and a little silly.

It is the old, old story of strange goings-on in Chinatown. All the stock devices associated with this type of picture are again put to use. Secret doors through which people vanish as in thin air, hooded figures, clouds of incense, mystic incantations, Oriental daggers, these are but a few of the familiar standbys to be found in this film.

All this hocus-pocus is started by a Chinatown murder that sends the police through a maze of secret passageways before the solution is arrived at. The unmasking of the culprit is not brought about by any brilliant plot development, but by such preposterous means as a Yogi's efforts to stir the memory of a dope peddler saved from the clutches of the villain. It is all too improbable for belief.

While this is hardly intelligent entertainment, the kids may get a goose pimple or two out of it.

The cast doesn't offer the exhibitor much to work with. The only players who may mean anything are Nick Stuart and Lucille Browne. Fred Newmeyer directed this Northern Films production.

No production code seal. Running time, 54 minutes. "G."

(Additional review on page 18)

Des Moines Charges Cause Many Orders

DES MOINES, March 5.—Bank nights and alleged shortage of second-run product involving four theatres at Marshalltown, Iowa, caused a series of hearings before the grievance board.

Don Thornburg, proprietor of the Strand and Family at Marshalltown, who had previously been ordered to stop bank nights, was complainant on all the charges.

C. C. Dunsmore of the Capitol, it was charged, had "threatened use of cash night, a device similar to bank night." Both complainant and respondent were ordered to stop threats to use devices in violation of the code.

Thornburg complained Warners and United Artists were conspiring to deprive him of second-run produce. The complaint was dismissed, but Thornburg was told he could attempt to prove a shortage.

The board ordered Dunsmore to stop advertising pictures as exclusive in Marshalltown when his contracts failed to specify this. Thornburg was ordered to cease "making announcements from his stage detrimental to his competitors." Both Thornburg and Dunsmore were ordered to stop violating the minimum admission clauses in their contracts. M. C. Roskoff of the Casino, also charged with cutting under contract minimums, was told to stop.

Complaints by all three exhibitors that M-G-M, Fox and Paramount were depriving them of second-run product were dismissed.

Milwaukee Removes House; Builds One

MILWAUKEE, March 5.—The Majestic, downtown house dark for almost three years, will be torn out of the 14-story Majestic Bldg. and replaced with store and office space. The Majestic was built in 1908, and for many years was the home of the old Orpheum vaudeville circuit.

At the same time work will start on remodeling a garage building on the city's west side to house Milwaukee's first Translux theatre. The project is being undertaken by Frank Fischer, former owner of the Fischer-Paramount houses in Wisconsin, and Joe Eskin, Richland Center operator.

Jersey Allied Will Show Safety Short

TRENTON, March 5.—More than 100 Allied of New Jersey exhibitors recently pledged support to Governor Harold G. Hoffman in a movement to further safety on the highways. A short, "Once Upon a Time," dealing with highway safety, will be shown in all New Jersey theatres, it was agreed.

The session was held at the Stacy-Trent with the Governor and other state officials making short speeches.

Ohio Has Two-Man Bill

COLUMBUS, March 5.—A two-man-in-a-booth bill, said to be sponsored by the operators' unions, has been introduced in the General Assembly.

The majors always have had two operators. A similar requirement previously was imposed on the independent houses, but this was rescinded when a settlement was made with the operators about two years ago.

Motion Picture Herald
1790 Broadway, New York.

Gentlemen:

I would be very much obliged if you would ask your shipping department to send me and debit to my account the latest edition of Motion Picture Almanac, with instructions to send it yearly until further notice.

I should like to congratulate you on your interesting, authoritative and really excellent journal of the world's movie events. Always I find it very useful and informative, and often turn the news in it to account, as you may see even in my article of today's date.

Yours sincerely

Film Securities Is Finally Dissolved

missed under a court order signed yesterday by Federal Judge John Knox.

The company has been preparing for its final dissolution for the past year. Following the sale at auction on Dec. 19, 1933, of the 660,900 shares of Loew's, Inc., which constituted the sole asset of the company, it realized the purpose for which it had been organized, namely, to end the dual control of Fox and Loew's by a single interest.

William Fox acquired the Loew's shares in 1927 at a reported aggregate cost of $76,000,000. The government subsequently brought anti-trust proceedings which resulted in the consent decree of 1931 under which Film Securities Corp. was organized to take over the Fox control of Loew's, represented by the 660,900 shares.

Subsequently, Film Securities issued notes in the aggregate amount of $18,300,000, secured by the Loew's stock, and when the notes were defaulted in 1933 the stock was placed on the auction block and bid in by the noteholders, who exchanged the defaulted obligations for it.

A. T. & T. held $8,000,000 of the notes and received 260,000 shares of the Loew's stock, the bulk of which is reported to have been disposed of in the open market since. Another 260,000 shares went to Chase National Bank, which held $4,000,000 of the notes; to Dillon, Read & Co., which held $2,000,000, and to Hayden, Stone & Co., which held another $2,000,000. An additional 140,900 shares went to small, scattered accounts which held the remaining $2,300,000 of notes. The three financial houses disposed of their stock in the open market subsequently. The bidders paid a total of $18,604,335 for the stock at a time at which its market value was $19,827,000. Its market value subsequently has increased more than $5 per share, or a total increase in market valuation of $3,304,500 for the block.

Yonkers Explosion Victim Takes Stand

WHITE PLAINS, March 5.—Isabella Williams, 11, first to sue as a result of the explosion in front of Proctor's Theatre, Yonkers, on Feb. 23, testified in her own behalf in Supreme Court here today. Her father is seeking $250,000 in damages, charging that the girl is permanently disfigured.

Defendants are: Yonkers Electric Light & Power Co., Edwards Electrical Contracting Co., RKO-Proctor Corp., Yonkers Theatre Corp. and Westinghouse Electric and Mfg. Co.

Ickes Cuts Fee for Zion Park Location

HOLLYWOOD, March 5.—As a result of Sol Lesser's objection to a $5,000 fee for permission to use Zion National Park for location purposes Secretary of the Interior Ickes has wired that he can have it for $2,000.

Lesser is hesitating. He still thinks he should be allowed to use it without charge in view of President Roosevelt's appeal last spring to film companies to use national parks to encourage domestic travel.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Private Worlds"

(Wanger Prod.-Paramount)

HOLLYWOOD, March 5.—Dramatizing in celluloid that heretofore untouchable area of the mentally deranged, Walter Wanger with guts and courage has produced a great picture, an important picture, directed with heart-breaking tenderness and sympathetic understanding by Gregory La Cava and flawlessly acted by Claudette Colbert, Charles Boyer, Joan Bennett, Joel McCrea, Helen Vinson and others.

Into its production must have gone painstaking preparation, loving care and a penetrating exploration of this hitherto forbidden field, made evident by La Cava's treatment on the screen of Lyn Starling's screen play adapted from Phyllis Bottome's best-selling novel.

Miss Colbert and McCrea, as doctors in a lunatic asylum, achieve success by the modern scientific approach of kindness in treating the unfortunate. Boyer, appointed superintendent, thwarts McCrea's ambitions for his job. He dislikes women doctors and attempts to separate Miss Colbert and McCrea until the former demonstrates her ability to handle the men patients, particularly Big Boy Williams, who goes berserk.

Boyer's sister, Miss Vinson, steps out with McCrea, causing Miss Bennett, his wife, to go nearly insane. By scientifically eliminating Miss Vinson, McCrea and Miss Bennett come to an understanding, and Miss Colbert substitutes Boyer for her ghost lover.

The production is suffused with beauty and value in every concept of its expression. It satisfies the eye and ear, sending warm thrills to the heart. Its people are all human, likable, understandable. All their frailties are X-rayed with sympathy and delicate revelation. Laughs blend with sobs. Terrific drama is conjured up from the harrowing atmosphere in the background and the human yearnings for love and affection in the foreground.

All performances are of a high order. Besides the leads, Esther Dale, as a matron; Samuel Hinds, as Doctor Arnold, and Jean Rouverol, as "Crazy Carrie," also stand out. Leon Shamroy's photography is excellent, highspotted by the scene where Miss Bennett becomes unbalanced.

"Private Worlds" is one of the finest films of the year. Judging from the audience reaction and inquiries after the preview, women will get a terrific boot out of it. The subject matter is controversial, but people probably will recommend seeing it.

Having been daringly and thoughtfully produced, it demands and merits daring and thoughtful exploitation.

Para. Invites Stars

Paramount has invited a collection of its own and other celebrities to the opening of "Ruggles of Red Gap" at the Paramount tonight. Among them are: Claudette Colbert, Gary Cooper, Fred Waring, Ben Bernie, Eddie Cantor, Jack Dempsey, Hannah Williams, Ben Hecht, Charles MacArthur, Beatrice Lillie, Fred Allen, Lanny Ross, Margo, Jane Froman, Walter O'Keefe, Mitzi Green, Paul Whiteman, Abe Lyman, Dorothy Mackaill, Lois Moran and Carlyle Blackwell.

"Aran" to Be Published

Robert J. Flaherty's "The Man of Aran" is to be published in book form in the spring by E. P. Dutton & Co. Pat Mullen, a native of the islands, is the author. The story has already been published in England by Faber & Faber.

N. O. Theatre Raided

NEW ORLEANS, March 5.—Police last night raided the Crescent where "Children of the Sun" was being screened with Lady Eve and her nudist girls on the stage. The entire house staff as well as the players were arrested.

Bar Portland Pickets

PORTLAND, March 5.—Pickets have been ordered by the court to remain away from the entrance to the Rivoli which has been picketed for the past four years. "Gold Diggers of 1935" has been booked by J. J. Parker to open March 9.

Feinberg in Dallas

DALLAS, March 5.—George Feinberg is here from New Orleans and returns to New York in about 10 days.

Kennedy Board to Get Pathe Change approved by an extraordinary meeting of stockholders on Monday.

The step will bring this particular phase of Pathe's rehabilitation under the jurisdiction of Joseph P. Kennedy, former Pathe head, now director of the S. E. C. No decision has been made yet by the Pathe board on the form of registration under S. E. C. which will be chosen. Several methods are possible.

Thereafter, the plan will be ratified by the Pathe board, the present company will be dissolved and the new Pathe company organized. Following the transfer of the new securities for those of the old company on the basis prescribed in the plan, a meeting of the new stockholders will be called to elect the board of the new company. Officers will be elected by the new board at its first meeting thereafter. Few changes are expected in either the new directorate or the officers.

California Solon Hits Schenck Move

day by Assemblyman Morgan of Los Angeles, who is co-author of a bill calling for a penny tax on each foot of film sold or distributed in the state.

Schenck's threat was inspired chiefly by legislation seeking to tax incomes at one-third the Federal rate and to raise the franchise levy from two or four per cent.

Attorney General Webb has declared constitutional a measure providing license fees for each unit operated by a chain organization outside the county where it has its headquarters. Theatre circuits are included under the provisions of the bill. The measure, sponsored by Senator Keough, sets the fee for each such unit at $100 multiplied by the total number of units. Where a circuit operates 12 or more theatres outside the county where its offices are located the fee is $1,200 for each unit.

MIAMI, March 5.—Joseph M. Schenck says he will confer with S. R. Kent at Boca Raton on the proposal he has in mind to move studios to this state to escape the heavy taxation impending in California. Schenck's proposal is that Floridians invest funds to build the plants at an interest rate of about two and one-half per cent and guarantee producers against future heavy taxation.

HOLLYWOOD, March 5.—Louis B. Mayer of M-G-M revealed today he discussed with Joseph M. Schenck over the long-distance phone last week the possibility of transferring production activities to Florida.

"The situation in Florida and other states offering inducements to the industry to move there is being investigated in the event that legislative measures developed in California effect hardships on the industry that will preclude activity here," he said.

Carl Laemmle, Sr., had this to say on the idea of transferring production activity to Florida or elsewhere: "I've been in California 20 years and I've never seen any reason to move."

"I don't think it will ever happen," was the comment of Walter Wanger.

WILL IT BE a bull's-eye? Of that the producers of THE MARCH OF TIME cannot be sure. No one can.

But of this much MARCH OF TIME's editors can be sure—are sure: the new release of THE MARCH OF TIME is better than the first.

They have done much to tighten up this month's new MARCH OF TIME. They have made it crisper, faster, cleaner. The rushes more than fulfill promise of that.

It is MARCH OF TIME's determination to make each new release a more complete, a more skillful "News-magazine of the Screen."

GET YOUR SHARE OF THIS GIGANTIC AUDIENCE

For the second release of THE MARCH OF TIME—a national advertising campaign even stronger than last month's! Advertisements in TIME and FORTUNE to a combined audience of more than 2,548,000—advertisements in 109 local newspapers to an additional 17,747,284—spot radio advertising in 38 cities to 20,842,444—and a dramatic 24-sheet campaign in 37 cities to an audience estimated at 25,095,129 daily! All of this advertising will bring customers to theatres showing the new release of THE MARCH OF TIME.

Possible Abandonment Of NRA Now Envisioned

Reports Spread After George Pays Visit To White House

By BERTRAM F. LINZ

WASHINGTON, March 6.—Possible abandonment of the NRA was envisioned today following a visit to the White House by Senator George of Georgia, conservative Democrat, after which he indicated that he had told the President the most which could be put through Congress in the way of legislation would be the transfer of fair trade practices provisions to the Federal Trade Commission and control of wages and hours to the Department of Labor.

A plan to this effect was broached to the Senate Finance Committee by Senator King, Utah Democrat, who has been fighting the Recovery Administration. The suggestion for the scrapping of the NRA has considerable support at the Capitol.

The spreading of the attack followed the announcement that S. Clay

First of Bankruptcy Law Staff Evacuates Paramount Building

The first contingent of the small army of attorneys and clerical help which has been working on the Paramount bankruptcy proceedings for more than two years past evacuated the Paramount home office yesterday, offering the first physical evidence of the approaching wind-up of the company's bankruptcy experience.

The departing group included Adrian Leiby, George E. Johnson and Leo Rosen, attorneys of the Root, Clark, Buckner & Ballantine staff, which is counsel for the Paramount Publix trustees. The group was prominent in handling for the estate many of the large creditor claims filed against it and also in the development of many of the reorganization plans for subsidiary companies in bankruptcy. Rosen assisted in the development of the Saenger reorganization plan.

The attorneys and clerical staff assigned to the trustee's activities have occupied the bulk of the eighth and ninth floor space in the Paramount Bldg. While the evacuation is expected to increase in proportions during the next few weeks, it is not believed that it will be concluded before June.

Rezoning in Los Angeles Stirs Up Objections

Petition by Fox West Coast for a rehearing on the Los Angeles schedule will be acted upon this morning by Campi. If Code Authority grants the hearing, attorneys for the circuit will appear before the body and present objections to the combination of certain zones and division of others. About 11 situations are involved, including Santa Monica and Los Angeles, where the same exchange serves both cities. Despite the proximity of the two cities, they clear from different focal points. This makes them separate zones.

Ohio Censor Rules He Can Cut "Time"

COLUMBUS, March 6.—Although newsreels are exempt from censorship in Ohio, John W. Bricker, attorney general, and Dr. Beverly O. Skinner, censor chief, have definitely ruled that "March of Time" must be censored before showing in this state. This is looked upon as a matter of formality, as both officials have indicated to First Division that no eliminations will be made.

The second issue, to be released March 8, will be censored the day previous.

Report S. A. Lynch Eyes Detroit Spots

DETROIT, March 6.—It is reported here that a New York combine, represented by S. A. Lynch, may invade the local first-run field. Representatives of the combine are said to have been here this week looking over both the RKO Downtown and the Broadway-Capitol theatres, which have been closed for some time. It also was said they were considering leasing the Madison from George W. Trendle. Trendle is operating the latter theatre now as a second-run house.

Sunday Opening Measure Suffers Defeat in Kansas

TOPEKA, March 6.—A Senate bill to legalize Sunday shows in Kansas has been killed by the committee on Federal and state affairs. Introduced by Senator Miller of Tonganoxie, assertedly to benefit the exhibitor in that community, the measure failed to receive the support of exhibitors.

The industry in Kansas did not deem the time propitious to move for repeal of the blue law. The procedure whereby theatres operate on the Sabbath where local sentiment permits despite the state prohibition is considered satisfactory for the time being.

Robert J. Fannon has been named as a committee of one on free shows, Myron Sattler, on transportation, and Schnitzer, entertainment.

Randel will call a special meeting of his committee within the next few days. Because Lee is in Europe on a vacation and Streimer is upstate on business, the regular meeting of the local board scheduled last night was postponed until March 20.

Eureka Files Denial On "Ecstasy" Charge

Eureka Prod., Inc., yesterday filed an answer in the action started by the Government in U. S. District Court here Tuesday to exclude "Ecstasy," Czechoslovakian film which the company is seeking to exhibit in this country.

A copy of the answer, filed through the firm's attorney, Henry Pearlman, has been served on U. S. District Attorney Martin Conboy, who is handling the case for the Government. Denial is made by Eureka that the film is obscene or subject to confiscation or destruction.

Some time ago the Treasury Department ruled against importation of the film.

Flint Deal on Duals Will Start April 1

DETROIT, March 6.—Flint exhibitors have agreed to put their dual-billing ban into effect on April 1. The agreement calls for the use of one double-bill program a week and exhibitors may also show a "guest" picture on one program each week. No double bills may be shown on Sundays.

Some exhibitors already are grumbling over being forced into the agreement and doubt has been expressed if it finally will be carried out. Exhibitors in that city have reached such agreements several times before, but never have put them into effect.

Film Daily's 17th Year Book Appears

Its cover embossed in tan and blue and its page total running to 1088, the 17th edition of The Film Daily Year Book made its appearance yesterday.

The volume, once again edited under the supervision of Jack Alicoate, breaks down into six major classifications. Production, including detailed lists of feature releases with credits, a list of 14,573 features released from 1915 to date, releases by companies, original titles as well as the work of players, directors, authors, scenarists, editors, cameramen and songwriters slides easily into first position in point of pages devoted to its manifold phases.

The personnel division blankets producers, distributors, exhibitor and social organizations, while the section on exploitation classifies various types of standard stunts for celluloid ballyhoo. Theatres by cities and states, as well as groupings by circuits fill over 100 pages in addition to which there are lists of equipment dealers and a buying guide for exhibitor aid. The foreign section discusses each country in the world in detail.

This year, the comprehensive scope of the volume has been stepped up to include a discussion of the code by Louis Nizer and an array of code board decisions by various exchange centers.

An interesting feature is a history of the industry starting in 1824. K.

Schenck Move Stirs New Tax Proposals

SACRAMENTO, March 6.—Senator Culbert Olson, a Los Angeles Democratic leader, has answered Joseph M. Schenck's threat to move studios to Florida with a proposal to raise $100,000,000 through an income tax levy during the next two years.

Olson has asked the Legislature to reject Governor Merriam's budget and to accept his plan, which, in addition to an income tax, includes increases in the bank and franchise taxes on net profits and business and nuisance taxes to raise $283,500,000.

Is Taking No Chances

HOLLYWOOD, March 6.—In anticipation of the passage of legislation detrimental to the industry, Joseph M. Schenck is understood to have ordered Darryl Zanuck back to Hollywood from Florida with instructions to abandon all plans for the $250,000 construction program at United Artists and to stop all other studio improvements for the time being.

The construction project was to have started Monday.

NAUGHTY MARIETTA

The Greatest Singing Picture Ever Made!

THE Film Daily

"NAUGHTY MARIETTA"

with Jeanette MacDonald, Nelson Eddy, Frank Morgan, Joseph Cawthorn

M-G-M (HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW) Approx. 80 mins.

SURE MUSICAL HIT WITH FINE CAST PUTTING OVER VICTOR HERBERT SCORE AND PLENTY OF COMEDY TO HELP.

This is a smash musical hit, which serves as a triumphal screen introduction for Nelson Eddy, noted baritone. Together with Jeanette MacDonald, who is at her best, he has made the Victor Herbert operetta a joyous songfest that should appeal to all types of audiences. "Sweet Mystery of Life" and "I'm Falling in Love With Some One", old favorites, and "Southern Moon", stand out. The picture is also rich in comedy, with Frank Morgan and Elsa Lanchester supplying most of the laughs. Director Van Dyke, who has done an excellent job, shows his versatility in guiding a musical. Jeanette, as a French princess, refuses the King's command that she marry one of his aides. Instead, she takes the place of her maid, who was to have sailed for New Orleans with a boat-load of brides-to-be. Eddy, a scout, falls in love with her—and love triumphs.

Cast: Jeanette MacDonald, Nelson Eddy, Frank Morgan, Elsa Lanchester, Douglas Dumbrille, Joseph Cawthorn, Cecilia Parker, Walter Kingsford, Greta Meyer, Akim Tamiroff, Harold Huber, Edward Brophy.

Director, W. S. Van Dyke. Book and Lyrics, Rida Johnson Young, Music, Victor Herbert, Screenplay, John Lee Mahin, Francis Goodrich, Albert Hackett; Musical Adaptation, Herbert Stothart; Additional Lyrics, Gus Kahn, Cameraman, William Daniels; Editor, Blanche Sewell Direction, Aces. Photography, A-1

Lilting music that trills its way throughout the picture and thrills by its performance. The lovely, familiar Victor Herbert arias are at once the hero and heroine and raison d'etre of the production and, as sung by Jeanette MacDonald and Nelson Eddy, they are something one can't afford to miss It's a picture that should be labelled, "Must See."

There is in the picture another debt the public owes itself and that is the privilege of hearing Nelson Eddy He sings his way through with the greatest of ease, with a voice that has a surprisingly great range, with a personality that is easy-going and charming, and he has all the physical attributes of a hero. There's gold in that thar voice for Mr. Eddy, the producers and the exhibitors.

Those are the outstandingly important features of "Naughty Marietta." The plot doesn't matter, because it's delightfully hidden by the music and direction, the acting and the spare dialogue The whole thing is necessarily made up of individual credits. Van Dyke turns his talents on a musical and manages to give it the same moving pace that he injects into all his pictures The big song numbers have been staged very well and he has gotten that same feeling of the actors having fun while working that impresses in everything he does Herbert Stothart is the one to thank for the grand scoring of the picture. It must have been a terrific task and he has done a gorgeous job. And to continue with the music, Gus Kahn has contributed fresh lyrics that help tremendously in the pleasure of renewing acquaintance with old favorites. The screen play has been cleverly and amusingly done by John Lee Mahin, Frances Goodrich and Albert Hackett.

Jeanette MacDonald has the happiest role that's been handed her in a long time. She looks so beautiful in the costumes and her voice is an inspiration. Frank Morgan, good old Frank Morgan, is a joy as the governor trying to forget what he married. What he married was Elsa Lanchester in her first sizable part on the American screen and there's an actress who should become a very valuable factor in our fair business. She's grand, she's so realistically awful Harold Huber and Edward Brophy as a couple of palsy walsys in Daniel Boone outfits are priceless Cecilia Parker is lovely and very charming as a little maid. Joseph Cawthorn, Douglas Dumbrille, Walter Kingsford, Akim Tamiroff and Greta Meyer are all excellent in supporting roles.

William Daniels photography does much to enhance the beauty of the production, and for that production itself Hunt Stromberg may take a bow Hunt seems to be clicking along rather merrily these days. All in all, this picture is something to shout about for the whole family

U. A. Is Ordered to Cancel DeKalb Show

United Artists has been ordered by Campi to cancel "Catherine the Great" at the Egyptian, DeKalb, Ill., following a complaint by F. W. Anderson, operator of the house, that the distributor would not comply with the 10 per cent cancellation clause of the code.

The case was certified by the Chicago grievance board to Campi, which heard it on June 8, when the complaint was remanded to the local board for rehearing because of a conflict in the evidence. The exhibitor stated that he had bought the entire 21 pictures offered by U. A. at the same time. After the rehearing, the case was again certified to Code Authority, which held that the exhibitor was entitled to the elimination.

Campi reversed a unanimous overbuying decision of the Salt Lake grievance board in the complaint of Joe George and Orissa M. George of the Rio, Idaho Falls, Idaho, against the Paramount, Gayety and Rex, same city. The local board granted the complainant a number of films, but Code Authority found that the respondents had not overbought.

Lower boards were upheld in three other decisions. They include dismissal by the New York clearance and zoning board of the protest by the Washington, Washington, N. J., against the Embassy and State, Easton, Pa.; Music Hall, Clinton, N. J., and Strand, Hackettstown, N. J.; the reduced admissions complaint by J. Blumenfeld, American, Oakland, Cal., against Morgan A. Walsh of the T. & D., same city; the theatre lease issue filed by F. L. Liggett, National, McRae, Ga., against J. H. Thompson, Hawkinsville, Ga. E. A. Alger of the Peru, Peru, Ill., was ordered to cease and desist from premature advertising.

Kenosha Cut Scales Are Ordered Ended

MILWAUKEE, March 6.—Kenosha Theatre, Kenosha, operated by Standard Theatres, Inc., has been ordered by the grievance board to discontinue 15-cent matinee and 25-cent evening admissions on Fox, Paramount, RKO, Columbia and Vitagraph product.

It was declared that the distributors' contracts with Warner Bros. Theatres, predecessor of Standard, specified admission prices of not less than 35 cents at night and 25 cents at matinees, and that no new contracts were entered into with Standard. The distributors contended that their contracts are with Warner Bros. Circuit Management Corp., and that the Kenosha has charged lower admissions than they agreed upon.

Standard Theatres, Inc., also was ordered to discontinue bank nights at its Kenosha and screeno at its Strand in Oshkosh and at its Bay in Green Bay. The bank night complaint was brought by the Saxe Amusement Management, Inc., the screeno complaints by the Wisconsin Amusement Enterprises, Inc.

Students Demand Cuts

COLUMBIA, Mo., March 6.—University of Missouri students are threatening to go on strike unless the local theatre cuts its night top below 35 cents.

Looking 'Em Over

"Soviet Russia Today"

(Amkino)

Red Russia attempts to justify its political philosophy in this Soyuzfilmnews production by offering a camera record of what has been achieved there under Soviet rule. Everything that might have the effect of gaining sympathy for Communism has been flung into the film.

Needless to say, the picture presents a one-sided view of Soviet Russia. It tries to do for Communism what "Mussolini Speaks" tried to do for Fascism—simply to reveal the bright side of the picture.

The film lingers fondly on some of the most prominent of the Soviet achievements, such as the reduction of illiteracy, the rehabilitation of the criminal and transformation of Moscow into a seaport through an elaborate system of canals. There are times when the photography is extremely effective; there are others when it is quite ordinary.

The only conceivable interest this film can have for American audiences lies in its travelogue qualities. The production has English titles, and a spoken commentary in English accompanies the early part of the film.

No production code seal. Running time, 67 minutes. "G."

N. H. Board Decides Two Clearance Cases

NEW HAVEN, March 6.—The clearance and zoning board has ruled on two cases involving Bridgeport and Hartford. The first was the protest of the Black Rock, Bridgeport, against Loew's Palace, Majestic, Globe and Lyric Theatres. The board decided unanimously that the Lyric and Black Rock are not in competition and ordered that Bridgeport first runs shall have a maximum clearance over the complaining theatre of not more than 30 days.

Joseph Shulman presented the case of the Rivoli, Hartford, vs. Warners' Colonial and Lyric Theatres. This protest was originally filed last June, and decided as part of the Hartford clearance and zoning schedule set up by the local board. Since there is little hope that a schedule will be approved for Hartford by Campi, the protest was reheard locally. The protestant expressed willingness to continue under an existing compromise arrangement and withdrew the complaint.

Indignation was expressed by a number of exhibitors present over Campi's apparent rejection of the Dixwell complaint against College, exclusive second run, and of clearance and zoning schedules in general.

ITO Files Complaint Against K. C. Zoning

KANSAS CITY, March 6.—Warning its action was a last attempt to obtain clearance relief before resorting to legal measures, the local I.T.O. today filed a complaint with the zoning board attacking the protection schedule here.

The complaint, which did not mention Fox Midwest by name, was directed at all theatres having protection over independent suburbans and proposed a new clearance plan, which, however, was rejected by Midwest. The same proposals were submitted to Campi recently for consideration in the drafting of a new schedule.

The board meets Monday to discuss the complaint and decide if under code procedure a hearing can be held, since Campi is already pondering a schedule for Kansas City. If a hearing is granted, it will be held on March 13.

Find K. C. Discharge Violated Section 7A

KANSAS CITY, March 6.—Violation of Section 7-A of the National Recovery Act was charged to Edwin S. Young, Central Theatre, in a decision of the Regional Labor Board. The Independent M. P. Operators' Union filed the complaint after one of its members, G. D. Blackmore, had been discharged and Young switched to Local 170, I. A. T. S. E.

The board found Blackmore was dismissed from the booth not because of his affiliation with the independent union but because Young wanted to employ a member of Local 170. After discharging Blackmore as operator. Young retained him as assistant manager at the same salary, later dismissing him entirely because of his union affiliation. The board found the latter act in violation of Section 7-A.

The labor body found itself unable to order Blackmore's reinstatement as assistant manager because the position apparently has been abolished. It recommended, however, that should Young employ an assistant within the next six months, he offer the position to Blackmore before employing any one else.

The independent union has announced it will file an appeal to the National Labor Board.

Fifth RKO-Century Hearing Due Today

Fifth round in the Century-RKO clearance dispute in Long Island will be staged today. Four previous sessions have consumed a total of more than 15 hours and today's hearing is slated to add four hours to the total.

The case is the longest so far on record in point of hours spent by a board listening to clearance arguments. Verbal fireworks have exploded at each of the four sessions and the record now shows a total of 129 objections, 68 raised by Louis Nizer, representing RKO, and 61 by Mitchell Klupt, attorney for Century.

Sitting on the board are Leo Abrams of Universal, chairman; Robert Wolff, RKO Radio; Ex-Judge Alfred E. Steers, impartial member; Eugene Picker, Loew's; Edward Rugoff, Laurence Bolognino and Harry Shiffman, independent exhibitors.

Coast Board's Order Again Goes to Court

LOS ANGELES, March 6.—More litigation looms over the grievance board's film stoppage orders, but the next move is up to the theatres—the Oxnard at Oxnard and the San Gabriel at San Gabriel.

These are the two houses that defied the board's ban on bank nights some time ago and lost an injunction appeal in Federal Court on the ground that they still had an appeal to Compliance Director Sol A. Rosenblatt which they had not used. Since then Rosenblatt has ruled against them and they have again gone into court, but the temporary injunction arrived after the board has issued a new order yesterday. Now they must go into court again to get the order extended to apply to distributors.

The board ruled against the Fairfax on a premature advertising charge brought by the Hollywood Pantages. It also ordered the Park and Colorado, Pasadena, to stop script books.

A request by the York Theatre for a 33 per cent elimination from all exchange contracts on grounds of overbuying was dismissed by the board on the theory that it had no jurisdiction.

Neth Is Ordered to Stop Premature Ads

CINCINNATI March 6.—The grievance board has ordered J. Real Neth, Columbus, to discontinue premature advertising at the Eastern, State and Clinton, neighborhoods. Complainant was Loew's Ohio and Broad, same city.

A cease and desist order also was issued to Neth on premature advertising at the Clinton. Complainant in this case was the RKO Palace, Columbus.

Complaint of premature advertising was brought by the Loew houses against P. J. Perkas, Ritz, neighborhood, Columbus. A cease and desist order was issued respondent.

In the case of Frank Cole, operating the Lincoln, Cincinnati colored house, against Universal, complainant disputed respondent's right to reallocate price on "The Good Fairy," after it had been cancelled. The board ruled that, while complainant was within his rights in cancelling the picture, respondent also had the right to reallocate it from a higher to lower classification. This case, it is understood, will be appealed.

All of Frisco Bank Nights Under Fire

SAN FRANCISCO, March 6.—Bank night business is up in the air here. Herman Cohen of the United Artists and Strand theatres has upset the apple cart by filing with the grievance board a complaint against every theatre in San Francisco using bank night or race night. The whole situation will be ventilated next Monday.

All during the time the wrangling was going on between the neighborhoods, with suits, counter suits, retaliation bank nights, and so on, Herman was gradually preparing for his big offensive. This action brings to a head the rows involving theatres run by the Levins, the Nasser Brothers, Robert A. McNeil and independents. All these theatres are principals in bank night litigation now pending.

FWC Petition For Rehearing On Tap Today

N. J., is on the docket for the ninth time and again will be delayed. The committee trying to effect a settlement hoped that the acquisition by Adam Adams, of the Park Lane, Palisades Park, N. J., would remedy the situation, but this has not worked out and now another means of settlement will be sought, it is stated.

Although no resolution has been passed, MOTION PICTURE DAILY learns no action will be taken on New Haven, Kansas City and Milwaukee schedules for some time. Campi members first want to see how the Los Angeles plan works out before others are approved. With the N. I. R. A. expiring on June 16, Code Authority is not anxious to upset territorial clearance schedules generally until it knows whether the act will be continued, and if it is, what changes, if any, are in store for the film code.

Distributors are still holding out admission prices as a basic factor in schedules. While this angle was permitted in the L. A. plan, sales heads conceded it for experimental purposes.

Certification of the resolution adopted last week approving the extras' registration list in Hollywood is also on the calendar.

who oppose the plan are permitted to withdraw.

New deposits with the Paramount Broadway bond committee and the Vanderlip debenture committee are also reported being received daily. It is not anticipated that any difficulty will be encountered by the committees in obtaining the necessary stock and bond representation required to make the plan effective; that is, two-thirds of the bonds and a majority of the outstanding stock.

Paramount Hopeful Cuban Ban Will End

An airmail print of "Rumba" left New York last night for Havana for showing today to Cuban officials in the hope entertained by Paramount that the government's decision banning the film will be revoked. Cuban officials demand the picture be destroyed and an apology made if Paramount product is not to be barred from future distribution in the island republic.

Paramount stated yesterday the ban was ordered despite the fact Cuban officials had not seen the picture.

Paramount Meet May Go to Coast in May

Paramount is considering holding its annual sales meet in Hollywood late in May. The last convention was held on the coast, but because of the changes in personnel, the company is figuring on taking the sales forces to the studios again to get acquainted with the men making the pictures.

Fox is also planning on a coast convention, but definite decision is awaiting return of S. R. Kent from Florida.

U. A. may convene its sales forces on the coast sometime in June, but last minute switches may bring the men together in Chicago.

Columbia is talking convention with some men preferring the east and others Pinehurst, N. C., sometime in May or June. The decision, however, rests with Harry Cohn.

Pari-Mutuel Hearing Draws Boston Group

BOSTON, March 6.—Organized industry attended a public hearing on pari-mutuel racing yesterday and heard the internal fight between horse and dog men burst into the open.

The most important development of the day was Corporate Counsel Foley's ruling that recently passed referendums do not repeal the laws of 1856 relative to local jurisdiction over any racing location. Foley contends permits granted by the State Racing Commission are invalid without local consent. The ruling is held important as citizens who voted for the tracks do not want them near their homes.

Theatre men elsewhere who are fighting competition from tracks are looking to developments in Massachusetts.

Hamrick Shifts Policies

SEATTLE, March 6.—John Hamrick's Music Hall next week will become a third run, double feature spot at 10 and 15 cents. Dan Redden, assistant manager, will replace James Q. Clemmer as manager.

On the same date, the Music Box will again become the key house, with an elaborate opening of "Roberta." The scale will be 25 to 55 cents.

Sparks Dropping Shows

TAMPA, March 6.—The unit companies of about 20 people which have been played by Sparks Victory here for the past three years will be discontinued after this week.

For some time the shows were given a run of three days each week, but for the past year the showing has been cut to two days weekly.

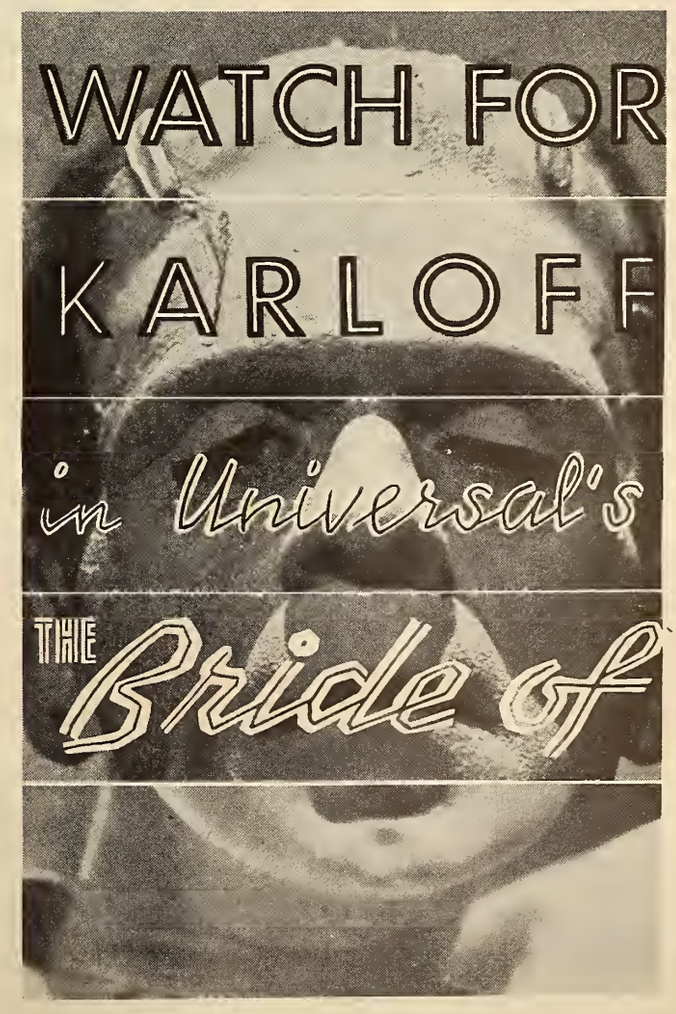
Para. Buys Herbert Yarn

HOLLYWOOD, March 6.—Paramount has bought the life story of Victor Herbert from his estate along with about 500 of Herbert's musical compositions. Ernst Lubitsch says he will make an all-star musical for next year's program, using the Herbert story and music.

Barrons Take Another

PRATT, Kan., March 6. — Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Barron, who operate two theatres here, have acquired an interest in the Novelty at Anthony, Kan.



Now Envision Possible NRA Abandonment

Williams, chairman of the National Industrial Recovery Board, was soon to follow General Hugh S. Johnson into private life. Williams took the position on a purely temporary basis. During his administration, the cigarette code was adopted with a 20 cent minimum wage, arousing the bitter opposition of organized labor. Aside from this, the Recovery Board has apparently done little and the NRA has been steadily slowing down.

The Capitol today was awaiting the words of Donald Richberg, executive director of the National Emergency Council, slated to appear before the Finance Committee Thursday, confident that he would speak the mind of the President and that he might outline in more detail the definite form of legislation desired by the White House.

If Richberg indicates the President's acceptance of the plan to scrap the NRA, no further investigation will be necessary, it is believed. If, however, the President is represented as still desiring continuance of the Recovery Act as now written, the probe will go on and will be directed toward the half dozen or so major codes in view of the Administrations's announcement that codes affecting intrastate commerce only may be dropped.

Kansas Sunday Opening Bill Meets Defeat

At some future session, when general demand for Sunday shows is sufficiently strong, the industry may get behind a movement to bring about seven-day operation.

Exhibitors are interested in legislative battles over proposals to impose a sales tax and hike the income tax levies ranging as high as 400 per cent. Of three sales tax bills introduced, the one gaining most support is a three per cent levy, which would hit theatres.

Bills killed by committee action include: To establish a state NRA; to prevent state courts from issuing temporary injunctions in labor disputes and prescribing permanent injunctions after a hearing on the issues; a boiler inspection bill, and a measure to tax chain stores which would have affected theatre circuits.

PORTLAND, March 6.—Regular film shows will be permitted Sundays after 3 P. M. if the bill of Representative Udell Bramson is passed by the Legislature. Not waiting for action, theatres are now escaping legal action by running as benefit shows and allotting a percentage of the intake to charity.

ALBANY, March 6.—A bill has been introduced in the New York State Assembly by Albert D. Schanzer, Democrat of New York, making it a misdemeanor to fail to give a benefit performance in a theatre at time and place printed on ticket without refunding moneys received therefor.

A bill introduced by Assemblyman J. E. Stephens, Democrat, of New York City would permit the adoption of local ordinances admitting children to theatres unaccompanied by adults in the daytime outside school hours and on Sundays to witness films suitable for the young. Theatres would have to have one female attendant for every 75 children and every child would have to be provided with a seat.

BALTIMORE, March 6.—Senator John G. Callan has introduced a bill in the Senate at Annapolis calling for the doubling of the present license fees for theatres. The new bill would also add an additional tax to circuits. All houses charging more than five cents admission will be affected by the new bill.

Taylor Warns Gross Tax Due on March 15

fact the city recently passed a two per cent sales tax, the tax of one-tenth of one per cent on gross receipts is still in effect, and the first payment is due March 15. Tax forms to make returns on this tax are being mailed to 60,000 business firms which paid the tax last year.

The tax on grosses applies regardless of operating expense, profit or loss. Local exhibitors have been complaining about the impost for months, alleging it to be discriminatory.

at a group price only and the requiring that an exhibitor lease all of the group in order to get any of the films. The bill further makes unlawful such variation between group and individual prices as would produce coercion of choice or tend to restrain trade.

The bill also would require that an accurate synopsis be furnished the exhibitor at the time of leasiing of a film, the synopsis to be made a part of the contract and be sufficiently comprehensive to permit the exhibitor to determine whether it is suitable for his patrons.

In the event of substantial variation in a film from its synopsis the exhibitor would be permitted to cancel without liability and to recover damages for the variation, or to exhibit the film despite the variation and recover damages as for a breach of warranty.

The enforcement provisions of the act provide for criminal penalties and injunction relief. Interstate shipment of any films leased or intended to be leased in violation of the anti-block booking provisions would be prohibited. The bill would become effective one year after enactment.

HOLLYWOOD, March 6.—Leo Morrison's suit against June Knight over commissions allegedly due him was settled out of court today. The exact sum was not mentioned. Morrison was discharged as the actress' agent last September.

"Colonel" Is Philadelphia Hit, $25,000

PHILADELPHIA, March 6. — "The Little Colonel" was the standout last week in a generally prosperous film program. The Shirley Temple film knocked off $25,000 at the Fox. Though originally booked for only one week, it went into its second and may get a third.

"After Office Hours" got an extra day at the Boyd with a total take of $14,000; likewise "Sweet Music" at the Stanley, with $13,000. "Sequoia" took two extra days at the Stanton for a total of $7,500.

Persistent rumors of closing of Mastbaum—which actually took place on Saturday—were no help to the last program, which got $32,000, considerably under average, for "Living on Velvet." The bill was retained an extra two days to lead up to a Saturday closing.

Total first run business was $123,700. Average is $125,230.

Estimated takings for the week ending Feb. 28:

Pens Are Poised in Memphis Palace Deal

MEMPHIS, March 6.—M. A. Lightman's deal for the Palace here is expected to be closed in time to assume operation of the theatre Saturday. In such an event the first film will be "The Good Fairy." It is understood papers will be signed Friday.

Francis Deering, Loew's State manager, left tonight for Houston to manage Loew's State there. Col. Cecil Vogel, Loew city manager, moved his office today from the Palace to the State, where he will continue in charge.

The deal marks the final dissolution of the Loew-Paramount pool here. Paramount will be Lightman's partner in the operation of the Orpheum and Palace, but not the Strand.

Back Unscalped

Omaha, March 6.—I. Mortimer Weiner, Columbia salesman, returned to the branch office with an order for pictures and a painted sign which he induced an Iowa exhibitor to give him.

The sign read: "$50 reward offered for the scalp of any film salesman bothering this wigwam."

Weiner said it made him sore.

"With all the dough I've spent on hair tonic I figured my scalp was worth $100 at least."

"Pimpernel" Washington's Hit, $18,000

WASHINGTON, March 6. — "The Scarlet Pimpernel" skyrocketed RKO-Keith's into top position last week with a take of $18,000, sending the U. A. picture into its second week. Gross was $6,600 over average.

Runner-up was the Earle with Rudy Vallee's "Sweet Music" and a personal appearance of Carmela Ponselle. The take was $18,900, over par by $1,300.

Still sensational was the business done during the third week of "David Copperfield" at Loew's Palace, where the Dickens' story took $11,000, which was $3,500 under average for the first week.

First week under the screen policy, Belasco Theatre took in $1,000. "Chapayev" was the inaugural attraction for the house which will be devoted to the showing of foreign-made pictures.

Total gross for the week was $77,300. Average is $71,200.

Estimated takings, exclusive of tax, for the week ending Feb. 28:

Calls Nudist Film Clean

NEW ORLEANS, March 6.—Eddie Chittenden, operator of the Crescent, who was arrested along with the rest of the house staff on Monday for showing "Children of the Sun," nudist film, entered an affidavit before Judge Nat Bond today asking for an injunction and return of the film and claiming that the picture was decent and was being shown in many theatres of the country.

"Colonel" Is Frisco Smash; Gets $28,000

SAN FRANCISCO, March 6.—Getting off to a flying start with a big matinee business which held up all week, "The Little Colonel" grabbed $28,000 at the Warfield. This is $5,000 above normal.

All the other first runs were weak, except a dual made up of "Woman in Red" and "Little Men" at the Fox which took $10,500.

Total first run business was $76,000. Average is $82,000.

"Woman in Red" Indianapolis Wow

INDIANAPOLIS, March 6.—"Woman in Red," with Earl Carroll's "Vanities" on the Indiana stage, ran away with the big business here last week. The $12,000 gross was over par by $5,000.

"The Scarlet Pimpernel" was strong at the Circle, going $1,000 over the line for a total of $5,000.

Total first run business was $29,750. Average was $24,500.

Estimated takings for the week ending March 2:

Munger Group Only One Still Not Assenting

The Paramount Publix general creditors' committee, representing claims of more than $3,000,000, yesterday recommended acceptance of the Paramount plan of reorganization to all merchandise and other general creditors whom it represents. This leaves the Munger debenture committee as the only organized group which has not assented to the plan.

In a letter sent out over the signature of R. E. Anderson, chairman of the general creditors' committee and treasurer of Erpi, notice is given that general creditors who favor the plan should execute their acceptances in the form approved by the court and forward them either to the committee for

Production Gains; 41 Features Going

HOLLYWOOD, March 7.—Production increased last week over the preceding week with 41 features and four shorts before the cameras as compared to 38 and five for the previous week. In addition, a total of 16 features and 13 shorts were in the final stages of preparation, while 38 features and 19 shorts were in the cutting rooms.

Fox took the lead with eight features in work, three preparing and seven editing. Radio reported eight,

Richberg Asks 2 More Years For NRA with Modifications

By CLARENCE LINZ

WASHINGTON, March 7.—Continuance for two years of the Industrial Recovery Act, with such changes as will meet criticisms which have been directed at the present law, was asked today by Donald R. Richberg, former chief counsel of the NRA and now executive director of the National Emergency Council.

Appearing before the Senate Finance Committee, Richberg outlined the desires of the President for extension and possible perpetuation of the present setup. Changes in the law, he declared, should include a better definition by Congress of its policy; exemption from the anti-trust laws should be restricted to code provisions written in compliance with the anti-monopoly sections of the act; the machinery for enforcement should be

Code to Stay; Theatres' End Undetermined

Speculation Rife Over Outlook in Capital

By BERTRAM F. LINZ

WASHINGTON, March 7.—The film code, along with steel, textiles and a number of other commodities, is considered one of the basic props of the NRA and is expected to stand under whatever new form the Recovery Administration may assume. Therefore, abandonment of a number of codes, which, it has been intimated, the Administration may order in the near future, will have no effect on the film industry as an industry.

However, speculation was afoot in Washington tonight over the possibilities for board modification in the present code structure, as indicated by Donald R. Richberg, former chief counsel of the NRA and now executive director of the National Emergency Council, and their effect on the

By RED KANN

HAVING tallied an impressive count in publicity for his suggestion that Hollywood talent be accorded representation on the new Paramount board, Morris L. Ernst, member of the Vanderlip bondholders' committee, now has a lively topic of banter to shuttle across, over and around the bar at Tony's and "21." The out-of-town reader probably will have to be told these are two lively and expensive New York restaurants (nee speakeasies) where many wisecrackers and wisecracks hold court before admiring and doting entourages. Of definite gag, if of no other, value is his suggestion that the Screen Writers' Guild, as well as the Screen Actors' Guild, prepare a panel of nominees. Whether or no they will is yet to be determined. If they do, the guilds will be guilty of the worst kind of sucker play for reasons obvious, including what follows. . . .

How they can go about presenting their candidates, if they name any, or obtaining consideration for them, which they won't get, are twin mystery facts in the situation. Moreover, Ernst appears to be giving both questions no consideration whatsoever. The Writers' and Actors' Guilds have no standing, legal or otherwise, in Paramount's reorganization. How they might hope to get a hearing on their recommendations at the reorganization meeting slated for April 4 not even Ernst is prepared to state. Yet having thrown out the suggestion, he adds he himself does not expect to make any presentation from those sources to the court. Left hand, right hand stuff, sadly lacking in coordination. . . .

Less indefinite by his own words is Ernst's declared intention of opposing the board at large and John D. Hertz, in particular. The obvious inconsistencies in his stand lead to natural speculation as to exactly what he is driving at. Leaping bravely from speculation to something perhaps more concrete results in this: Ernst is a well known lawyer around town. His clients embrace a number of Hollywood writers. Could all his balderdash be construable as propaganda on the part of writers per se? Could it be designed to convince those on the Ernst retainer list that he was snappily on his toes, carrying their fight forward for princely salaries and option renewals? Or could it be that Ernst, owning a perfect headline name, so brief is it, is consorting with newspaper clippings and scrapbooks? . . .

At the moment, there is no evidence worthy of serious consideration to indicate any change whatever will be made in the presently agreed upon 16 members of the board. There is some sentiment, and this in significant reorganization quarters, favoring a board of 18. But the opposition to it is so strong that objective could not be attained without throwing open again the entire and highly controversial subject of the board's membership. None of the responsible creditor groups is likely to pay so big a price to gain its point. . . .

Opposition to Hertz continues more pronounced than to any other single member of the board. It is based on the part the former chairman of Paramount's finance committee played in the bank credit transaction of 1932, which later became the subject of litigation by the trustees, and on the fact that Hertz has been made a defendant in another action for recovery of Paramount assets by the trustees. Other criticism charges the bulk of the Paramount securities which he has been named to represent was acquired late in the reorganization. The opposition, however, is confined to small, disorganized groups, the most important elements of which are Ernst and the Munger debenture committee. . . .

Pitted against them in Hertz's favor are the impressive security holdings of Lehman Bros. and Lehman Corp., the support of the important Fortington creditors' group and the inclination of all major creditor groups not to reopen the subject of board membership unless it becomes necessary through the exercise by Federal Judge Alfred C. Coxe of the right he reserved for the court to veto any member of the initial board proposed. This last remains as the one possibility of a change in the board membership occurring prior to reorganization. The conclusions are now yours to draw. . . .

While the Fortington group presently is in the market for acquisition of the entire $13,800,000 claim of Paramount's bank creditors—"if the price is right," as a spokesman for the group puts it—even the transfer of that claim would not alter the initial membership of the board as now plotted. The Fortington group could not vote its newly acquired holdings until the first board vacancies occur, one year after reorganization. The reason is at once as simple and as binding as all that. . . .

Miscellany: In its drive for new season contracts, Fox is reported to have approved 1,000 deals to date. Companies, their push already launched, include Warners and RKO, not to overlook Paramount. . . Harold B. Franklin is or is not working on a booking combine with Fox West Coast malcontents or opposition as charter members. . . . Marlene Dietrich and Claudette Colbert, fresh arrivals from the sunkist land, went to see the Elisabeth Bergner show, "Escape Me Never," as a first order of business and that's a genuine professional compliment. . . . More important to Harry Warner than deals right now is his delight over the new grandson. . . . Alex Kempner, currently in Hollywood purloins, denies he is representing William Fox. And from Philadelphia, Albert M. Greenfield says he's not interested in purchasing Universal. Heigh, ho! . . .

M-G-M Is Now Using Three Sound Tracks

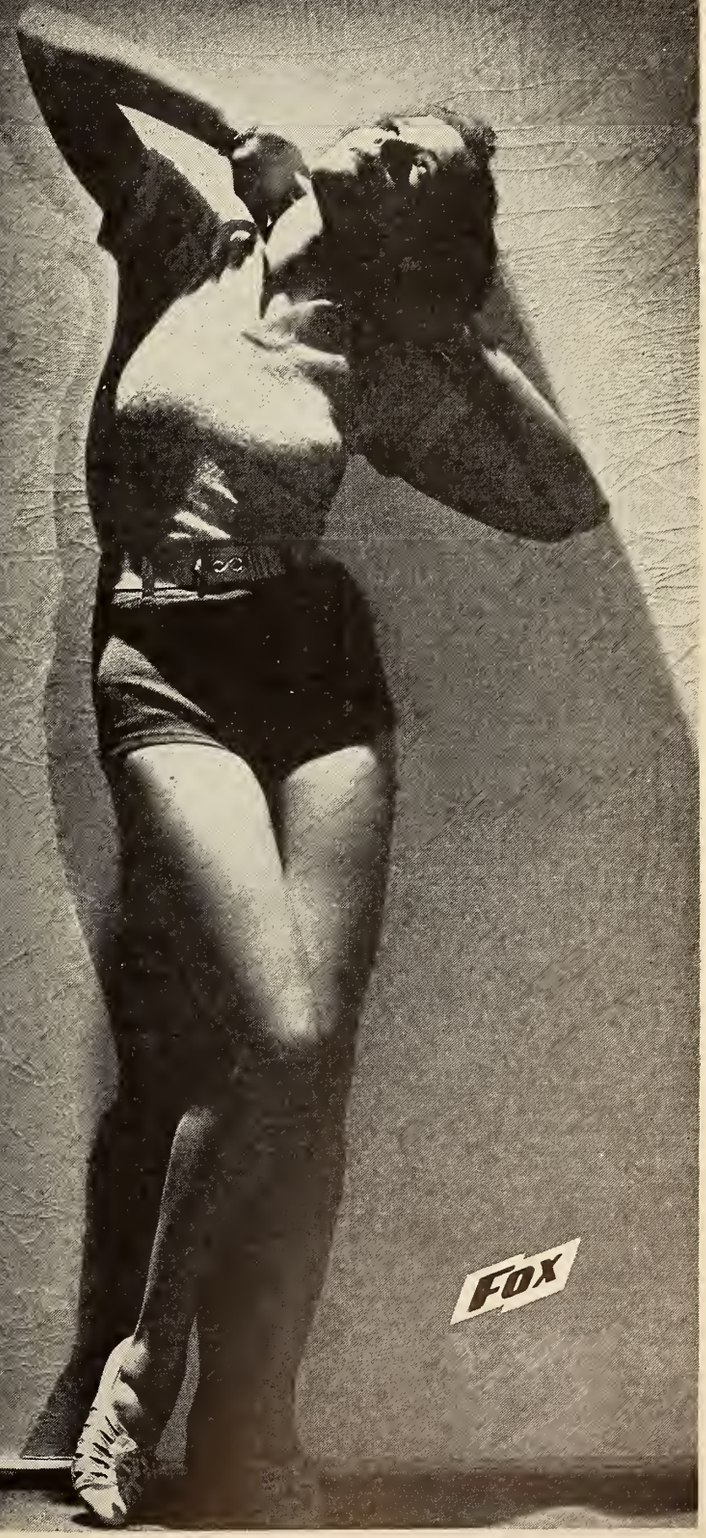
CHICAGO, March 7.—M-G-M has inaugurated a new method of releasing three separate types of prints on each feature, incorporating different volumes for A, B and C houses. This is to conform with reproduction requirements in variously classified theatres, said Hunt Stromberg, M-G-M producer, as he passed through here today on his way to New York.

The method aims to achieve higher sound quality, diversified in volume according to the size of the theatre, Stromberg continued. He will attend a screening of "Naughty Marietta" at the Army and Navy Club in Washington Friday and look over the background in Connecticut for "Ah, Wilderness."

Stromberg said the industry's self-imposed censorship was achieving higher standards and greatly needed reforms in weeding out the crude, vulgar and obvious and placing a premium on intelligence, versatility and originality.

Stromberg in Washington

WASHINGTON, March 7.—Hunt Stromberg, producer of "Naughty Marietta," for M-G-M, is here with a print of the picture for the special showing to be given tomorrow night at Loew's Fox. William Ferguson is due tomorrow night from New York.



"Rumba" Issue Delayed

A mixup in air transportation prevented a print of "Rumba" from reaching Cuban government officials yesterday with the result that Havana's objection to the Paramount picture remained unchanged yesterday. The print is due to reach its destination today with a final decision on the issue to follow immediately.

Cuba is reputedly distressed over the film's content and wants Paramount to destroy it.

alternate, F. Thomas Murray, was not present either. He appeared before the local clearance board on behalf of Century circuit which has a dispute against RKO in Long Island. Lewen Pizor sat for Ed Kuykendall, the M.P.T.O.A. head being confined to his home in Columbus, Miss., recuperating from the recent New Orleans convention. Max Levinson alternated for Nathan Yamins, Allied member.

Felix F. Feist of M-G-M substituted for J. Robert Rubin, alternate for Nicholas M. Schenck; Felix A. Jenkins alternated for S. R. Kent, now vacationing in Florida; Sidney Justin sat for George J. Schaefer; Leslie E. Thompson, for M. H. Aylesworth; Edward Golden, for W. Ray Johnston; E. T. (Peck) Gomersall, for R. H. Cochrane; Harold S. Bareford, for Harry M. Warner.

Up to yesterday's meeting there has been at least one original appointee of the President at each Campi session.

Five FWC Men Are Heard

Five Fox West Coast representatives appeared to protest the Los Angeles schedule. They were: Charles Skouras, president of the circuit; Mike Rosenberg, a partner in a number of the coast houses; Edward Alperson, buyer; Charles Buckley and William T. Powers, attorneys.

After a lengthy discussion of F. W. C.'s objections, John C. Flinn was delegated to visit the coast and investigate the several situations involved. He plans to leave by plane tomorrow on a week's trip. In any event, the schedule must go into effect before March 31, but not before March 15, as previously ruled by Campi.

A rotating chairmanship for the Extras' Standing Committee in Hollywood was decided upon, following resignation from the post by Mrs. Mabel Kinney, who still continues as one of the 15 on the committee.

No date for the next hearing has been set. Thompson was chairman yesterday when 33 appeals were decided. Nothing was done on the Leonia clearance and zoning dispute or on appointment of impartial men as permanent chairmen of local boards.

Rosenblatt Coming For New Wage Talk

months ago, no progress has been made by circuit and independent exhibitor heads and I.A.T.S.E. representatives on the two operators' schedules presented. One was submitted by Charles L. O'Reilly, president of the T.O.C.C., and the other by the international union.

Independent exhibitors have threatened to withdraw from the fact-finding committee and negotiate a deal of their own with the I.A.T.S.E. if no unified plan is adopted. Leslie E. Thompson, chairman of the fact-finding committee, returned from a Florida vacation earlier in the week and there have been no indications of a meeting.

Rosenblatt plans to spend a few days here before returning to the Capital. While here he is expected to confer with George Browne, head of the I.A.T.S.E., in an effort to stay the return of pickets and also try to work out a common operators' schedule.

Richberg Asks 2 More Years For NRA with Modifications

strengthened by providing for the prevention of violations by equity procedure; making violations punishable by fine only and making the remedies of the Federal Trade Commission Act available for enforcement.

Today he contented himself with making a formal statement outlining the desires of the President and on Friday will appear before the same committee again to make a more detailed explanation.

Discussing the charges which have been levied at the NRA, Richberg asserted that the general proposition that the effect of codes upon small enterprises has been harmful cannot be sustained.

"It may be true," he told the committee, "that under some codes small enterprises have continued to suffer from disadvantages under which they have suffered for many years. But it is also true that the detailed record of code after code shows that new protections have been extended to small enterprises and, in many instances, the major purpose and effect of code provisions have been to protect the smaller enterprises against their large competitors."

Suggestions that the best method of handling the situation would be to abandon the NRA and turn enforcement of the act over to the Department of Labor and Federal Trade Commission today drew fire from the American Federation of Labor which announced that such action would be unacceptable to labor.

The plan to sink the NRA was laid before the President Wednesday by Senator George of Georgia. While it has considerable support in Congress, it is generally considered that it could not be put through in the face of Administration opposition, but its possibilities will probably be explored by the Finance Committee during its consideration of the legislation.

The President's power to impose conditions upon his approval of a code or to require amendments or modification thereof, Richberg also said, should be explicitly given "but the proponents of voluntary codes should have the right to withdraw their consent from codes so modified as to be unacceptable to them."

"There should be a clear grant of power to the President to impose a limited code wherever there is no code in effect," he continued, "which limited codes should contain only certain requirements, such as minimum wages, maximum hours, the prohibition of notoriously unfair business practices. The Congress should itself set the standards of minimum wages and maximum hours for administrative application in limited codes. Some flexibility in these standards is absolutely necessary, but the area of executive discretion should be rather narrowly defined."

In order to maintain the continuity of present codes and, at the same time, insure any necessary revisions, Richberg recommended a requirement that all codes be extended for a limited period within which they shall be revised to conform to the requirements of the new act.

Charge Chiseling on Pay

Charging violation of the wage clause of the code during their engagement in "Romance of a People" on the Roxy stage last September, 32 chorus girls yesterday appeared in Commercial Frauds Court here against Meyer W. Wiesgal and M. W. W. Prod., whom they charged with paying them $12 for a week's work when the industry NRA pact specifies a $30 minimum for dancers.

The theatre was absolved of any blame by Samuel Shayon, manager of F. & M. Stage Shows, bookers of the production, who said that Wiesgal had assured him the girls were receiving code wages.

Would Permit Fight Film

WASHINGTON, March 7.—A bill seeking to lift the Federal ban against interstate transportation of fight films was offered in the House today by Representative Quinn, Pennsylvania Democrat.

Uphold Shea Clearance

BUFFALO, March 7.—The 21 days' clearance enjoyed by Shea's Seneca, Buffalo, over the Ridge in suburban Lackawanna has been upheld by the clearance and zoning board, but the time in which the Seneca may play pictures after availability was cut from 21 to 14 days. In no instance, it was determined, shall availability to the Ridge be more than 35 days after conclusion of the Buffalo first run clearance.

Failure of the Seneca to exercise its availability rights within 14 days automatically will mean waiving of those rights in favor of the Ridge. Mike Morad, Ida and Joe Williams of the Steel City Theatre Corp. were the protestants, against the Shea Theatre Corp.

Stop Wisconsin "Nights"

MILWAUKEE, March 7.—The grievance board has ordered the Venetian and Princess, Milwaukee; the Parkway, Madison, and the Grand, Green Bay, to discontinue bank nights. The first three houses are operated by Wisconsin Amusement Enterprises, Inc., and the complaints were brought against them by the Saxe Amusement Management, Inc., while the Grand is operated by George Hannon, and the complaint against him was brought by the Wisconsin Amusement Enterprises.

exhibition end of this industry. Richberg, in his talk before the Senate Finance Committee, declared provisions should be made in the new act for the voluntary submission of codes but that "codification should be limited to those trades and industries actually engaged in interstate commerce or affecting it so substantially that the establishment and enforcement of standards of fair competition therein are necessary for the protection of interstate commerce."

Observers read into this statement the possibility that a large number of industries now codified might be relieved. Continuation of the exhibition section of the film code, for instance, might therefore depend upon the determination of the extent to which exhibition affected interstate commerce in pictures.

Hears NIRA Will End

KANSAS CITY, March 7.—"Congress is preparing to let the NIRA expire by limitation June 16 without any extension or any law to replace it," states a copyrighted Washington dispatch to the Kansas City Journal-Post, which adds:

"An earnest effort is being made to save at least the blue eagle's feathers by extending the wages, hours and child labor provisions of the NIRA.

"The impression prevails generally on Capitol Hill that NRA has outlived its usefulness, if any, and now may be regarded as just another new deal experiment that failed to work."

Bank Nights General In Kansas—Missouri

KANSAS CITY, March 7.—Despite numerous cease and desist orders by the grievance board against exhibitors using bank night, the practice is in effect at 80 individual and circuit theatres in the Kansas-western Missouri territory, according to R. W. McEwan, local distributor.

Dubinsky and Commonwealth circuits are employing the stimulator, as is Fox Midwest to a limited extent. In several towns the stunt is run under the name of cash night, and it is charged this is an infringement of the copyright held by the bank night owners.

In connection with Fox Midwest's appeal from the local board's decision against cash night at the Beyer, Excelsior Springs, Mo., L. J. McCarthy, Fox district manager, has filed an affidavit showing that the Casino, same town, is running bank night on Sunday. McCarthy asked that Campi take the new evidence into consideration. The Casino was the complainant against Fox Midwest.

Campi Budget Approved

WASHINGTON, March 7.—Approval of Campi's budget for 1934 was announced today by the NRA. The budget is as submitted at the recent hearing, providing for the retention of the surplus and the provision for distributor collection of producer assessments.

New Gross Tax Gets Study in California

SACRAMENTO, March 7.—The flood of tax bills continues. The State Equalization Board has offered four bills to the Legislature designed to increase treasury receipts by assessing sales tax rates against leases and rentals or automobiles, office and accounting equipment, films made available to theatres and other tangible property.

State Controller Riley is working for a low rate gross transaction tax to operate with the retail sales tax. He believes one-quarter per cent on wholesalers and one-half of one per cent on manufacturers' transactions would raise $50,000,000 biennially. These rates would be in addition to the proposed income tax.

Pittsburgh Fulton To Raise Its Scale

PITTSBURGH, March 7. — After a month at a 15-25c scale, the Fulton next week will return to its former admission prices, 15, 25 and 40 cents. It's the first counter step in the recent price war and is expected to send at least one and perhaps two more houses back to the old scales.

Theatres have found that, despite low scales, grosses haven't shown any improvement. In many cases they have fallen off and even attendance figures have proved that it's still the attraction around here. They'll buy at any price if they want it. If they don't want it, you can't give it to them for nothing.

Duffy to 20th as Associate Producer

LOS ANGELES, March 7.—Henry Duffy, for several years a legitimate producer on the coast, has signed a long-term contract as an associate producer for 20th Century and special adviser to Darryl Zanuck. The pact becomes effective June 1, when 20th Century starts its new program.

Duffy made no statement regarding disposition of his lease on the El Capitan.

Research Group to Meet

HOLLYWOOD, March 7.—The subcommittee of the Academy research council, composed of sound engineers and appointed to devise ways and means of establishing closer contact between studio sound men and theatre projectionists, will hold its first meeting on Friday night.

The council believes it essential to map some form of educational campaign this year when so many improvements in recording are taking place. It feels that best results will be obtained in sound reproduction in theatres by furnishing projectionists with technical data regarding these new developments.

Safety Short Finished

George Gullette and Emerson Yorke, producer and director, respectively, have completed production of "Stop-Look-Listen." The picture has been made in association with Welfare Prod. to cooperate with the New York City Police Department campaign on safety. The picture will have its initial showing at the Skouras, Jamaica, and will be shown in selected areas throughout the city.

Code Objectathon Hears About a Card for Hours

by MOTION PICTURE DAILY. Although the board made a special plea to the attorneys to eliminate as many objections as possible in an effort to get through with the case, Louis Nizer registered five in the morning and 16 in the afternoon while Mitchell Klupt chalked up 14 in the forenoon session and five after lunch, making a total of 21 for the day by Nizer and 19 for Klupt. The grand total of objections made by both lawyers during the five hearings is now 168.

Four of the witnesses put on the stand by Nizer during the morning were photographers who testified to the authenticity of a photograph taken of the Far Rockaway dairy. They were Harold Harrison, who accompanied his father, who took the picture; Joseph Heppner and Maurice Haralon. They all agreed that the photograph in question was a true picture of the actual subject and no superimposition was involved. Nizer brought in the quartet as a result of a remark made at the previous session by Klupt that the window card was a "plant."

Walter Gutteridge, manager of the RKO Strand and Columbia, Far Rockaway; Emanuel Friedman, manager of the Fantasy, Rockville Center; William Hauser, distributor of window cards for Century, and George Lang, bill poster man for RKO's Far Rockaway houses, were examined and cross-examined on the window card .

Albert E. Foy, an employe at the Fantasy, was questioned about four different lists of automobile license numbers he took down on three different occasions at a Far Rockaway parking space. Albert J. Burns of Century and Marie Egan of Shelock & Arnold also testified on these lists. Ed Peskay, buyer for Skouras, was quizzed on Columbia and U.A. contracts which involved pictures bought and clearance for the Fantasy.

There was much ado about credibility of witnesses. The lawyers were warned about eliminating remarks other than objections, but regardless of Abrams' admonition both attorneys took occasion now and then to inject sarcasm and other biting words into the record. Exclusive of yesterday's session, there are 700 pages of testimoney with expectations that the final record will total more than 1,000 pages.

Before adjourning until next Monday, Abrams asked both sides to try and complete the case at the next hearing.

Justice Dep't Warns On Kidnaping Hoax

HOLLYWOOD, March 7.—Actors and actresses here have been warned by Joseph E. P. Dunn, local director of the Department of Justice, that the government will not tolerate kidnaping and extortion hoaxes.

The warning was issued as Dunn prepared to investigate the $10,000 extortion threat which Thelma Todd reported she received Feb. 25.

"This Thelma Todd matter reached my office Tuesday night in a roundabout manner," Dunn said. "If it is a bona-fide case, my office will work day and night to solve it. But I want it distinctly understood that our office will not tolerate nor be used in any cheap Hollywood publicity stunt."

the Hall, reported yesterday on his return from a two-weeks trip to the coast. No discussions on the impending deal occurred during the trip, Van Schmus said, and indicated that none were on tap for the next few days.

"I had hoped the trip would be a vacation one," he said, "but I had to come home to rest. I found Hollywood working hard, seriously and sincerely. What I saw encouraged me greatly on the outlook for the coming months. There are some excellent pictures on the way."

Industry May Flee Tax, Says Giannini

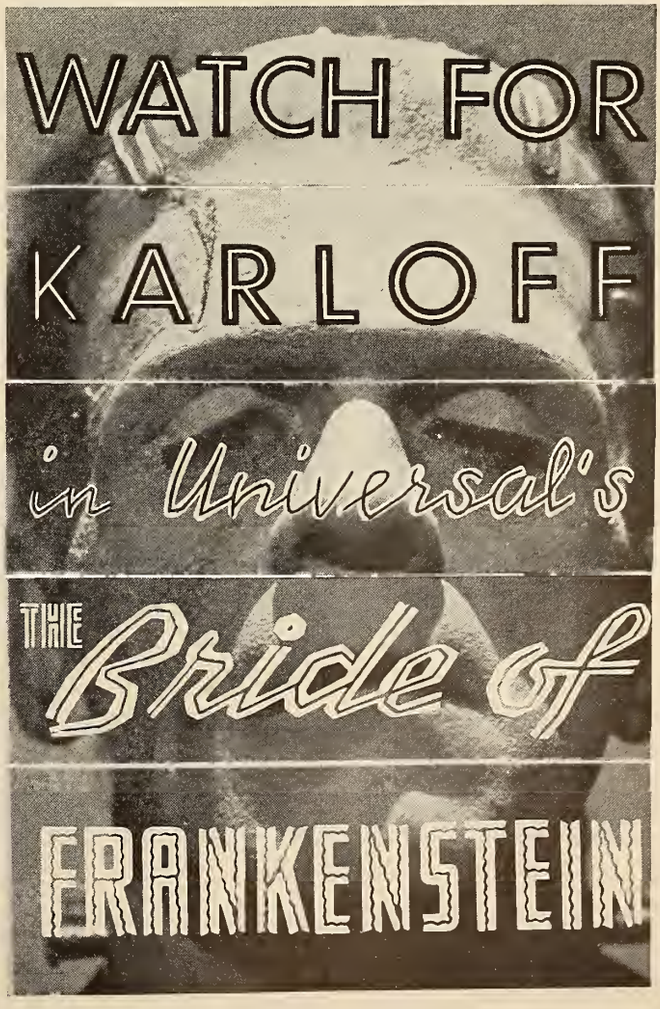
Giannini, chairman of the executive committee of the Bank of America N. A., in an article on the front page of the Los Angeles Times today.

Asserting the industry "is virtually being kicked out of the state," Giannini declares that film leaders are cocking an ear to "the blandishments of other states and nations which seek to win them away from us," adding that he knows it "to be a fact" that "Arizona, Texas, Florida, New Jersey, Connecticut and New York are making strong bids" to attract the studios, with some states "offering tax exemption for 20-year periods" and others "going as far as offering to erect studios for producers free of charge."



"I know it to be a fact," writes the banker, "that any studio wishing to move can erect buildings elsewhere for one-tenth of the cost of the structures now housing them here. Changes in property values and building costs make this possible."

Slice Income Tax Limit

SACRAMENTO, March 7.—Joseph M. Schenck's threat to move studios to Florida is believed to have actuated a caucus of Democrats and progressive Republicans today in cutting the proposed maximum in an income tax bill from 75 per cent to 15 per cent on $30,000 and up incomes. The rate on $3,500 incomes was set at one per cent.

This reduced the estimated receipts from this source for the biennium from $100,000,000 to $50,000,000.

The group also proposed triple bank and corporation taxes to raise $33,00,000 biennially.

filing or direct to The N. Y. Trust Co., as agent for the special master designated by the court to receive the acceptances.

The letter states that "the slate for the board of directors of the reorganized company as proposed in the plan has been determined by consultation and negotiation among the various committees representing the principal groups of creditors and stockholders, and stands approved by the court."

Erpi, with its claim of $1,200,000, is the largest single creditor represented by this committee. Acceptance of the plan by it leaves only the Munger debenture committee among the significant organized creditor groups which has not given its assent to the plan. This group represents about $800,000 of Paramount debentures under powers of attorney rather than under certificates of deposit and therefore it is not required to provide its bondholders with the 30-day period for assent or withdrawal as are the other bondholders' and stockholders' committees. The general creditors' committee also represents its members under powers of attorney.

Assents to the plan already have been given by the Vanderlip debenture committee, Paramount Broadway bond committee and the stockholders' committee. Other large creditors, such as Allied Owners, the bank group and the large security holding interests within the so-called Fortington group, have approved the plan and will file individual assents with the N. Y. Trust Co. in advance of the next scheduled court hearing, April 4, for final confirmation of the plan.

Order Lasky to File Bill of Particulars

An order directing Jesse L. Lasky to file a verified bill of particulars within the next 10 days in connection with his claim against Paramount Publix of $282,000, plus an indeterminate amount, for alleged breach of an employment contract, was signed yesterday by Federal Judge Alfred C. Coxe.

Judge Coxe also signed an order authorizing the Paramount trustees to employ Myer & Greene, special accountants, to determine the probable financial liability of former officers and directors of Paramount and associates of Kuhn, Loeb & Co. under the action making them defendants which the trustees brought last December to recover for Paramount alleged losses as a result of certain transactions under the so-called employes' stock purchase plan of 1928 to 1931. Compensation for the firm of special accountants making the audit is not to exceed $3,000, according to the order.

but would continue his policy of importing American talent as well as from other countries.

Arthur Lee, head of the company's American office, who is accompanying Balcon, said that despite the prevailing impression that foreign product does not measure up to domestic in inland theatres he finds G. B. pictures doing excellent business in Kansas, Minnesota and other middle western spots. He also said that regardless of the territory, English pictures show results where the exhibitor is willing to get behind them and sell them.

Balcon added that the greatest exhibitor problem in England is the same as here, which is the problem of product sufficient to show continuously profitable operation. Gaumont British desires to use color, Balcon continued, but this is improbable since the only perfected process, Technicolor, is not available for his company and in addition G. B. hasn't the necessary facilities.

of television when it is ready for commercial use, and is already being provided for, according to the Wall St. Journal.

Full licensee privileges under whatever patents are controlled by RCA will be available to outside manufacturers under this policy, the article stated. The licensing system is expected to avoid a recurrence of "the many costly patent litigations, scores of poorly financed manufacturing units resulting in cut-throat competition, and huge losses on the part of the investing public" experienced in the development of the radio industry, the article observes.

Fox May Ask Rehearing on Patent Cases

the advisability of asking for the rehearing, but had not reached a decision yet. Fox has 20 days from March 4, the date on which the Supreme Court handed down its decision declaring the patents to be invalid, in which to file a petition for a rehearing. Thus the petition could be made at any time up to March 25. A rehearing is rarely sought by unsuccessful litigants, but could be obtained if it could be shown that the high court had failed to consider any important facts which had been before it or had misinterpreted significant evidence.

David Sarnoff, president of RCA, yesterday issued the following comment on the recent patents' decision of the Supreme Court:

"The flywheel patents suits were brought by the American Tri-Ergon Corp. against Altoona Publix Theatres, Inc., Wilmer & Vincent Corp. and Locust Street Real Estate Corp., alleging infringement in theatre reproducing equipment purchased by the defendants from RCA Photophone, Inc. The suits were decided by the Radio Corp. on behalf of Photophone.

"The Supreme Court's decision afford substantial relief from additional litigation, not only to the Radio Corp., but also to the whole motion picture industry which makes extensive use of the apparatus to which the patent relates. The industry is now assured that it can continue to use the recording and reproducing equipment that has been furnished it by RCA without liability for infringement of this patent.

"We are equally pleased with the decision in the companion suit on the so-called double print patent. This decision likewise relieves the industry of problems and difficulties involved in the litigation that has been pending on this patent."

Review Group Speakers for Industry Rule

Self-regulation for the industry, as against censorship and interference on the part of minority groups, was the keynote of the eleventh annual National Board of Review conference which opened at the Hotel Pennsylvania yesterday. Dr. Frederic M. Thrasher, associate professor of education at New York University, presided. The conference will last through Saturday.

Several hundred delegates were on hand for the open session at the start of the afternoon program. The topic for discussion was "What Are the Movies Up Against?" and it was during this discussion that most of the delegates decried censorship and interference by minority groups so strongly that further arguments on this topic are expected before the conference ends.

The speakers during the afternoon were Howard S. Cullman, trustee of the Roxy, who spoke on "Popular Art and Profits"; Margaret G. Mayorga, chairman of the motion picture division of the Long Island Federation of Women's Clubs, on "Legal Censorship"; Dr. Worth M. Tippy, executive secretary of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, whose talk was titled "Indirect Censorship" and Dr. Francis D. Tyson, Department of Economics, University of Pittsburgh, who spoke on "Organized Minorities and the Masses."

Cullman Sees Films Improving

In his address Cullman said, in part: "The quality of pictures is steadily improving, and far greater improvement is compatible with a profitable business. The public has learned to expect and like good acting, expert photography and interesting, if not necessarily new, stories. Any film which fails to meet these standards is, per se, doomed to failure.

"As a motion picture exhibitor and as a trustee responsible for the invested savings of thousands of bondholders, I have learned that the word 'art' has no place in my official vocabulary. Instead, I have been schooled to substitute the phrase 'good entertainment.'"

Miss Mayorga expressed the opinion that there should be no legal censorship of films. She also said better pictures coming out of Hollywood would need no censorship whatsoever, if more technicians, actors, actresses and others directly connected with the actual filming of a picture were in controlling positions as members of the boards of directors of companies instead of having these boards composed "merely" of bankers as they are today.

Dr. Tippy, at one time a leading advocate for censorship, had no prepared speech but delivered a talk against it and he spoke of the boycott of indecent pictures inaugurated some time ago by the Legion of Decency.

The afternoon's speeches were closed with the address of Dr. Tyson, who spoke on the harm that is capable of being rendered by minorities.

Last evening the delegates gathered in the auditorium of the School of Education of New York University for a demonstration of the new course on pictures recently inaugurated under auspices of the National Board of Review in the curriculum of the School of Education. Col. Roy W. Winton, managing director of the Amateur Cinema League, Inc., spoke at this meeting on "Personal Motion Pictures" and illustrated his talk with 16-mm pictures.

The conference will resume this morning with an open discussion to be followed by addresses in the afternoon by Mrs. Jessica G. Cosgrave, principal of the Lenox and Finch Schools, and Dr. John A. Hollinger, director of Visual Education, University of Pittsburgh.

Looking 'Em Over

"The Florentine Dagger"

(Warners)

It's a mystery story with a variety of psychological, not to say psychopathic twists, but the peculiar mental motivations are not allowed to mar the suspense or slow up the action. The yarn holds the interest and most of the principal roles are well handled.

In other words, "The Florentine Dagger" is good entertainment, especially for the mystery story fans, without being a so-called epic or super special.

Scenes are laid in the Alps and in Vienna with Donald Woods playing Juan Cesare, one of the last of the Borgias. He happens into an Alpine town in the same train with C. Audrey Smith, an English physician and psychologist, and Henry O'Neill, a Viennese playwright. Fearing that he may develop the Renaissance poisoning complex of his ancestors, Woods takes a dose of something he thinks is poison and Smith talks him into going back to Vienna to write.

In the course of time he gets Margaret Lindsay to play Lucretia Borgia in his play. He thinks she is the daughter of O'Neill. The latter is murdered. Woods fears he may have done it himself, but at the same time suspects Miss Lindsay committed the crime. The latter reels are devoted to the efforts of Robert Barrat, a debonair police inspector, and Smith to unravel the crime.

Production Code Seal No. 613. Running time, 67 minutes. "G."

"The Crimson Trail"

(Universal)

It's bang, bang all the way in "The Crimson Trail." The clatter of horses' hoofs sounds throughout practically the whole length of the film once the hero, Buck Jones, takes the saddle. To fire further the enthusiasm of the western fans the producers have thrown in a couple of hand-to-hand tussles that are corkers.

The action gets under way when Buck starts out to vindicate his uncle (Charles French), accused in the shooting of a neighboring rancher (Charles Stockdale). The guilty party is really Ward Bond, who has been rustling cattle from the Stockdale outfit and selling it to French, who does not suspect the source of the animals. French is thus made to look like a rustler and has a tough time trying to convince Stockdale's cowhands that he isn't. The fellow barely escapes being strung up. But with Buck on the job everything turns out all right.

The hero pursues Bond relentlessly and in jig time he catches up with him. During a fight with Jones, Bond is killed by John Bleiffer, a maniac member of his gang, resentful against the boss villain.

Woven into the film is a romance between Jones and Polly Ann Young, daughter of Stockdale. Also in the cast are Bob Kortmann and Bud Osborne. Direction is credited to Al Raboch.

Production Code Seal No. 559. Running time, 58 minutes. "G."

"It's a Bet"

(Associated British Pictures)

LONDON, Feb. 26.—Directed by Alexander Esway and with useful names in Gene Gerrard, Helen Chandler and Allan Vincent, this is a bright British comedy effort with enough plot interest to maintain continuity in a series of far-fetched and amusing incidents.

The plot turns on the adventures of a discharged newspaper man who wagers that he will disappear for a month. Complications arise from the fact that the other man in the bet is after the invisible one's girl and that another girl turns up just when she is wanted, but the big appeal and the laughs are in the hero's ingenuity in making himself scarce when apparently cornered.

Plenty of variety in the backgrounds, including some attractive English exteriors, and the acting, although the feminine element could have been stronger, is good enough to make it a program item.

Running time, 75 minutes. "G."

ALLAN

"Sequoia" Is Los Angeles' Hit, $7,000

LOS ANGELES, March 7.—"Sequoia" was something of a sensation in a pre-Lenten week that seemed to lift grosses slightly above their recent low level. The picture piled up $7,000 at the 900-seat 4 Star. This is $3,750 above normal.

"Rumba" at the Paramount was strong. It reached $19,500, over the line by $1,500.

Total first run business was $76,300. Average is $91,200.

Estimated takings for the week ending March 6:

Pettengill's Booking Bill Allied Move

Myers Helped Draft It, Bulletin States

WASHINGTON, March 8.—The anti-block booking bill introduced by Congressman Samuel B. Pettengill of Indiana is Allied's much-discussed move on this subject, it is disclosed in the latest Allied bulletin.

Abram F. Myers, general counsel, writes that it was "drafted by a distinguished and influential group of public spirited people with the aid of the Legislative Drafting Service of Columbia and the advice of the general counsel of Allied."

Typewritten copies have been furnished to "a few interested leaders," the bulletin states.

Palace Acquisition Gives Memphis Dominance

The deal, long pending whereby Loew's Palace in Memphis will be operated by M. A. Lightman of Malco Theatres, Inc., under a partnership arrangement with Paramount was finally closed late Thursday night, Joe Vogel of Loew's, Inc., informed MOTION PICTURE DAILY yesterday.

MEMPHIS, March 8.—M. A. Lightman's ambition of many years has been realized. He has taken the dominant position in the downtown situation away from the major circuits.

Closing of the deal by which he acquires the Palace from Loew for operation under a partnership arrangement with Paramount makes the former national M.P.T.O.A. president top exhibitor hereabouts.

That Para. Board May Get Screen Tests Any Day Now

The idea of tying a Hollywood name of 14-karat publicity value to the new board of directors of Paramount appears to be gaining adherents, at least within the Manhattan legal circle which has—or hopes to have—fat-salaried Hollywood talent for its clientele.

Morris L. Ernst of the Vanderlip committee of Paramount bondholders originated the idea. Marc Connelly or George Kaufman would suit him, personally, but he also suggested that the Screen Writers' and Screen Actors' Guilds prepare a panel of 25 names to submit as nominees for directors of Paramount. Now comes Louis M. Levy, perhaps inspired by the heavyweight publicity which

Richberg Hits NRA Transfer To Trade Body

Not Equipped for Job, He Tells Senators

By BERTRAM F. LINZ

WASHINGTON, March 8.—Abandonment of the NRA and transfer of the enforcement of NIRA to the Department of Labor and the Federal Trade Commission today was opposed by Donald R. Richberg, executive director of the National Emergency Council, before the Senate Finance Committee.

Neither body, Richberg said, is equipped to undertake such work, and it would be impossible to carry out the purposes of the law under the Federal Trade Commission Act.

Plans for the transfer, however, will be pressed by senators who believe this to be the best way to protect the interests of the smaller establishments, and it was announced by Senator Nye of North Dakota that he would prepare and introduce a

Quip of the Day

Telling about her embarrassment at the Academy dinner in Hollywood when she was recalled from the train to receive the 1934 acting award—said embarrassment caused by the fact she wasn't appropriately attired—Claudette Colbert relates:

"I couldn't think of anything right then except how out of my place were my clothes. I guess I kissed Irvin S. Cobb when he gave me the trophy, but I really don't remember."

HALSEY RAINES, due back from his vacation Monday, popped into M-G-M home office publicity department yesterday ahead of schedule. The reason: He ran out of money in New Orleans.

MARLENE DIETRICH creating quite a furore walking up 5th Ave. yesterday. Maybe it was the flaming red gloves she was wearing that really drew crowds.

MOLLY LAMONT, British film actress signed by Radio, arrives on Tuesday on her way to the coast. She's aboard the Olympic.

HUGH HERBERT and MRS. HERBERT arrived in town yesterday on a month's vacation. They are at the Warwick.

Bulgaria, Turkey, Greece and Russia and there are no plans for opening offices in any of these places.

With the exception of Warners and Universal, all major companies have distribution offices in Germany, Schaefer added. Warners pulled out altogether some time ago, while Universal sold its branch to Rota Film Co., but has Rudiger von Etzdorf as its representative in the company's branch. Paramount does not plan to withdraw from the country, it was stated.

Schaefer said that the central and eastern European countries, with the exception of Germany, are going through the financial crisis America passed through about two years ago. He added that since last September, conditions in Germaany have picked up in a big way.

Distribution of American made pictures with superimposed titles varies in different countries. In Holland, Paramount releases 35. The same number holds true for Poland, Roumania and Yugoslavia. In Hungary, 25 are distributed and in the Baltic provinces, 45. In Germany 12 are released and in Austria, 25.

Eight dubbed versions in German are released each year in the last two countries. Schaefer's supervision covers 15 countries. No changes in personnel have been made in the last four years, he said.

Mike Rosenberg, partner of F.W.C. in several spots, plans to leave within the next few days. He originally intended to accompany Skouras and Buckley west, but since Skouras is not set on his departure date Rosenberg wants to get back on the coast as soon as possible. He also wants to be in Los Angeles when John C. Flinn is there investigating the F.W.C. clearance schedule complaints.

Hoyt Services Today

Funeral services will be held this morning for Richard F. Hoyt, financier, who died early Thursday morning at Doctors' Hospital.

As a partner of Hayden, Stone & Co. until his resignation in October, 1933, to become vice-president of the Haystone Securities Corp., Hoyt was identified with a number of important film transactions, principally in the theatre field. The most notable, perhaps, was the group known as the Richard Hoyt Syndicate which obtained control of West Coast Theatres about six or seven years ago and subsequently sold it to William Fox and the companies he headed at that time.

Richberg Hits NRA Transfer To Trade Body

resolution giving business units the right to make trade agreements subject to approval by the Federal Trade Commission.

Questioned at length by members of the committee as to the proposed dropping of codes for industries engaged solely in intrastate business, Richberg made it clear that the Administration will leave to Congress the responsibility of determining how far such a movement should go.

While a number of the so-called service industries have already been relieved of code responsibilities, it was indicated officials feel that other trades, such as film exhibition, would be difficult to classify as intrastate activities only and that, if Congress desired the dropping of codes in this "twilight" zone, there should be more than a mere administrative order as basis.

While administration officials express confidence that the Recovery Act will be continued, they may be forced to wage a bitter fight to get their legislation through in the face of the agitation for the scrapping of the NRA.

Leaders in the fight against the NRA are planning to bring out definite accusations against code administrators, as the Senate Finance Committee investigation charges, and predict that conditions will be shown to be so bad as to necessitate a new deal if the recovery movement is not to fail completely.

NRA Scrapping Discussed Here

The proposal to abandon the NRA was the subject of discussion at the Pennsylvania Hotel here yesterday at a meeting of 350 local members of code authorities.

Cullman May Hear Labor Tangle Here

Section 7A only if the NRA can't handle them.

So far the NRA fact-finding committee has been unsuccessful in settling the local basic wage situation, despite personal efforts of Compliance Director Sol A. Rosenblatt.

Leslie E. Thompson, chairman, yesterday called a meeting of the committee. No independent member put in an appearance, indicating that they are not interested. Reports have it that the I.A.T.S.E. will resume picketing in this area because of the failure of the fact-finding committee to agree on a common scale.

Rosenblatt, who was due from Washington yesterday, postponed the trip until today, when he is expected to confer with union and exhibitor heads. He has threatened to draw up a wage schedule of his own in the event the fact-finding committee fails to get together on a common plan. Whether he will carry out this plan or turn the whole matter over to Cullman has not been indicated as yet, but it is possible that Cullman may be drafted as arbitrator in the local issue.

That Para. Board May Get Screen Tests Any Day Now

Ernst's idea garnered, who is all ready to join forces with the originator and demand a few chairs on the directorate for some sure-fire publicity names from out Hollywoodway. Levy, like Ernst, numbers several film professionals among his clients. However, there is room for more. He has also contacted Hollywood agencies to submit names. His personal favorites for the board are Clark Gable and Adolph Menjou. He said so himself and added that he would throw the Paramount stock he represents—amount undisclosed—their way if it came to a vote.

"But," protested his interviewer, "Gable is under contract to a competitor of Paramount."

Levy brushed that aside with "We're not even considering that."

"But do you imagine," the reporter pursued, "that Gable would give up a contract which nets him several hundred thousands annually to sit on the Paramount board at $50 a sit?"

"We don't know that Gable will serve," was Levy's reply. "We hope he will consent. If he wants to stop being an actor and get into the executive class all those obstacles could be taken care of."

A representative of Paramount bondholders, also known to be nursing objections to the proposed board, was informed of the Ernst-Levy views and asked whether they coincided with his.

"Those so-and-sos will have this reorganization on the funny page of the papers, instead of the financial section, if they keep it up," was the only printable answer obtainable.

Meanwhile, definite indications were had from a spokesman for the Screen Writers' and Screen Actors' Guilds that neither would carry out Ernst's suggestion of submitting a panel of board candidates.

"In the first place," he said, "we have no idea who would be a proper candidate and whoever it is should be a New York man."

Kansas City I.T.O. Joins Claims Fight

has been formed to fight the fake accident claim racket in Kansas City, according to Jay Means.

While the public liability rate for theatres was raised from 12 cents a seat to 40 cents, the I.T.O. some time ago obtained group insurance coverage for a number of theatres at a rate of 20 cents, in conjunction with burglary and holdup coverage.

There is evidence that the racket is still strong, despite concerted efforts to eradicate it.

The new bureau is sending out a questionnaire to business firms requesting information on claims or suits for personal injury filed since Jan. 1, 1934. The data will be entered on a central index file and employed in running down fake claimants, professional witnesses and unethical lawyers and doctors.

the state by Allied to prevent dog or horse racing. Public hearings are scheduled here for Monday at the State House on bills favoring local options on dog and horse track sites, but it is extremely doubtful whether any tracks can be constructed in time to open this summer, even if permission to do so is granted.

When asked whether he would veto any racing bills passed, Governor Curley said he would follow the advice of the Racing Commission. As the commission is unlikely to advise itself out of its job, Curley's statement seems an indication he favors racing.

The New Hampshire House of Representatives at Concord yesterday reenacted the pari-mutuel racing bill and an early passage of this measure is looked for in the Senate. This assures the reopening of Rockingham Park in the spring.

Last summer Rockingham Park drew capacity crowds from this and other Massachusetts cities and it is estimated the track took in over $15,000,000 in the machines alone.

Pettengill's Booking Bill Allied Move

there are no Allied units have been arranged for. Dues have been fixed at three cents a seat annually. The memberships entitle subscribers to Allied seals and service, but these forms of membership end when enough join in individual territories to make a new unit feasible.

In the middle of a number of sarcastic references to the M.P.T.O.A. convention the bulletin says:

"Mr. Julian Brylawski (Warner Bros.) sought to have the convention go on record against the anti-blocking bills. Finally a timid request for a 20 per cent cancellation privilege was passed. MOTION PICTURE DAILY (March 4) promptly exposed this as a smoke screen, showing that the sponsors would be glad to compromise for 15 per cent—or what have you?"

While that may be construed as a compliment to penetrating reporting, the bulletin also had this to say:

"MOTION PICTURE DAILY on Feb. 25 gave the M.P.T.O.A. more space than it gives Allied in the course of a year. The headings were wonderful, but they slipped a little in the items mentioning the delegations (or lack of delegations) from the various territories. . . . Nevertheless, we must chide the likable Red Kann for his editorial lamenting the lack of effective, aggressive exhibitor organization. Red knows full well that as soon as any organization gets really aggressive it immediately arouses the opposition of the trade press, which opposition is reflected not merely on the editorial page but in misleading headings, misplaced emphasis and dirty digs and pokes at the leaders of any such organization."

Attention is called to the fact that the Allied convention will be held in the Robert Fulton Hotel, Atlanta, May 21-23. The bulletin promises that Bobby Jones will attend.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Behind the Green Lights"

(Mascot)

HOLLYWOOD, March 8.—This is a dramatic expose of a modern criminal lawyer, faithfully translated from the book of the same name, by Capt. Cornelius W. Willemse of the New York Homicide Squad, who is an authority on what transpires behind the green lights of police headquarters and their relation to crime.

Using the Willemse expose as a premise, this independent production is admirably embellished with a down-to-earth romance, virile action and gunplay in a series of tense dramatic and cunning situations involving the conflict between crooked lawyers and honest law enforcers.

Christy Cabanne directed well with a balanced cast, including Norman Foster, Judith Allen, Sidney Blackmer, Purnell Pratt, Theodore Von Eltz, Edward Gargan, Kenneth Thompson, Ford Sterling and others.

Foster is a hard, fighting detective rounding up criminals only to have them set free by Blackmer, a tricky criminal lawyer, who uses Miss Allen, his secretary, to defend the criminals against the evidence furnished by Foster. Though Foster and Miss Allen are sweethearts, the former tolerates this trickery, persisting in an effort to get the goods on Blackmer, which, when accomplished, reconciles Miss Allen to abandon the practice of law for marriage.

The story is topical and is in line with the present national movement against crime, affording fine exploitation possibilities for smart showmen.

Variety Club Chatter

Albany

ALBANY, March 8.—New officers of the local tent will be installed April 1. They are: Chief Barker, RALPH PIELOW; first assistant chief barker, C. R. HALLIGAN; second assistant, CHARLES SMAKWITZ; property man, JOSEPH GARY; wagon master, HENRY FRIEDER; canvassmen, WILLIAM C. SMALLEY, WILLIAM BELTON, MEYER SCHINE, M. J. KALLET, M. GRASSGREEN, J. BULLWINKLE; chairman of the board, C. H. BUCKLEY.

A memorial to the memory of the late JAMES DERMODY is to be placed in the clubrooms.

EUGENE STEINER, MOE SILVER and KEITH GOLDSMITH are new members.

A ping pong tournament is in full swing. Leaders are: E. HOLLANDER, PIELOW, G. BEATTIE, LEON HERMAN, S. GOLDBERG, H. RIPPS and J. ROSE.

Cincinnati

CINCINNATI, March 8. — Local barkers and their guests experienced a thrill equalled only by holding four aces on an unlucky Saturday night, when OLE OLSEN and CHIC JOHNSON, playing a local engagement, came into the club with some of the members of their company, to enliven the regular Saturday night shindig.

Cincinnati barkers circulating around Columbus, capital of the state, last week included: STAN JACQUES, PAUL KRIEGER, AL SHMITKIN, RALPH KINSLER, SAM KRAMER, RUDY KNOPPLE and CHARLIE WIEGEL.

Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE, March 8.—The first King for a Day luncheon was held March 4 at the Plankinton with E. J. WEISFELDT and J. B. SCHUYLER in charge.

The club's house committee has been named to consist of SAM SHURMAN, chairman; HAROLD MIRISCH, GEORGE LEVINE, HOWARD HERZOG, E. L. WEISNER, JACK FRACKMAN and CHARLES BRAUN.

Wednesday afternoons have been set aside as ladies' day at the club from 11:30 A. M. to 6:00 P. M. and Sunday nights from 6 o'clock to closing as open house for members and friends.

A special luncheon table has been set aside in the Sky Room of the Plankinton for barkers to congregate daily.

Revamped Criterion Opens in Oklahoma

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 8.—The Criterion reopened here last night after a face-lifting operation costing $75,000 with "After Office Hours." The house has been done over in the latest modernistic style. A concrete floor and new seats, stage equipment and projection apparatus are among the improvements.

The theatre was closed for renovation on Nov. 1 by Pat McGee, now head of Standard Theatres Inc., who began working as an usher there the day the house opened in 1920.

Ban Still Unsettled

"Rumba" was to be screened for Cuban officials in Havana at midnight last night. Paramount today expects word of the government's decision as to whether the ban clamped on Paramount because of objection to "Rumba" will be maintained, revised or lifted.

Lightman Out Front in His Circuit Moves

he has moved up from a small town and neighborhood showman to the chief place in the local first run situation.

Lightman now operates the Orpheum, largest Main Street theatre, run unsuccessfully by various interests since RKO defaulted on its bonds; the Strand, one-time Loew house, but dark until reopened by Lightman a year and a half ago, and since remodeled at a cost of $25,000; the Princess, dime grind house on Main, and the Palace, just off Main St. in the heart of town, built by Loew and operated by Loew, then Paramount, and since 1927 Loew again. Only opposition remaining downtown is afforded by the Warner and Loew's State.

Three years ago Loew ran the Palace, State and Strand, RKO had the Orpheum, and there was the Warner. Lightman had a few suburban subsequent runs here and several houses out in the territory. Today he operates 40 theatres outside Memphis, the six choice neighborhoods of the town, and four loop spots.

It is anticipated that Lightman will have shortly Paramount, RKO, Universal, Columbia and possibly a split on the Fox product. It is considered likely that he will make the Orpheum or Palace the ace house, playing the pick of pictures there for full weeks, with the next best bets in the other of the two houses, probably with vaudeville, using the Strand as a sluff and subsequent-run house.

Loew will probably be better off by the deal, being able to concentrate on M-G-M and United Artists, along with at least half of Fox, in the State. The Warner position remains unchanged.

It was anticipated here at one time that Lightman's acquisition of the Palace might cause Warner and Loew to pool their interests, but this is considered unlikely now.

Reviewers Told of Community Activity

Community motion picture activity and interest, and its relation to the industry, schools, churches, newspapers and municipal government were discussed in open forum at yesterday morning's session of the National Board of Review annual conference at the Hotel Pennsylvania. Participating were Mort Blumenstock, Warner Theatres advertising director, and A. E. McNeil, in charge of educational films for Skouras Theatres, who discussed theatre contact and cooperation with better films groups and women's clubs.

James P. Cunningham of Motion Picture Herald reviewed the code to date and explained the present status of the anti-film legislation wave, after which he conducted an open forum.

Bank Nights Gaining In Chicago Theatres

CHICAGO, March 10.—Bank nights and screeno, along with the generally widespread use of premiums are gaining vogue here as business stimulators. Screeno in the past few months has gone into many theatres and is being advertised in the newspapers.

Bank night has gained a more recent foothold. So far no competitive situations have arisen to bring the matter before the code board, but protests are expected.

Fox Met Offer Is 75¢ on $1 For the Bonds

Twenty Cents in Cash; Plan Is Well Liked

Bondholders of Fox Metropolitan Playhouses are offered 75 cents on the dollar for their $12,460,000 claim under the revised plan of reorganization developed by Fox Theatres and Joseph M. Schenck, it was learned over the week-end. The offer constitutes a payment of 20 cents on the dollar in cash and 55 cents on the dollar in new bonds of the reorganized company, to be secured by the 86 theatre leaseholds and fee properties comprising the Fox Met circuit.

The plan, now in its final stages, is regarded in well informed circles as being acceptable to the Fox Met bondholders' committee and is described by principals close to the committee as "a very strong offer." In any event the plan in its final form has reversed the indifference to the original Fox Theatres' offer displayed recently by representatives of the Fox Met committee, which is now reported as regarding the offer "most favorably."

Strengthening of the offer is also regarded as dispelling some of the

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

WE take Allied down the rocky road this morning, hoping to bruise its shins and skin its nose for inaccuracies which run rampant through its latest press release. . . .

From its bulletin: MOTION PICTURE DAILY on February 25 gave M. P. T. O. A. more space than it gives Allied in the course of a year.

So it's publicity Allied's after! We never even suspected it. Now that we're told, we remind the author of the association's bulletin of the approximate 10,000 words wired by this writer from the scene of his organization's Detroit convention of several years ago. Also of the voluntary thanks for the complete coverage volunteered by Abram F. Myers and H. M. Richey in the latter's office—address, Fox Theatre Building, Motor City—the day following the close of that session. The facts can easily be checked. . . .

From the bulletin: The headings were wonderful, but they slipped a little in the items mentioning the delegations (or lack of delegations) from the various territories. A review of these items reveals more blanks than delegations and more distributors and accessory men than exhibitors.

Schoolboy stuff. The headlines were based on what M. P. T. O. A. leaders had to say. Allied's objection, therefore, is with the harangues of Ed Kuykendall's associates. The nation-wide check on delegation attendance, as conducted by this publication's news staff, made it very apparent many territories would not attend. The survey said so, for all, including Allied men, to read. . . .

From the bulletin: Nevertheless, we must chide the likable (pardon our embarrassment) Red Kann for his editorial lamenting the lack of effective, aggressive exhibitor organization. Red knows full well that, as soon as any organization gets really aggressive, it immediately arouses the opposition of the trade press, which opposition is reflected not merely on the editorial page, but in misleading headings, misplaced emphasis, and dirty digs and pokes at the leaders of any such organization.

Kann knows and concedes nothing of the kind. What he said editorially by way of postmortem on the M. P. T. O. A. convention was nothing less than a plea for exhibitors to get wise and attempt to organize as effectively as the member companies of the Hays association if independent theatremen are to make any impression on their own behalf. If that isn't furnishing propaganda gratis for Allied, M. P. T. O. A. and any other exhibitor organizations which may be kicking around, what is?

Those "misleading headlines, misplaced emphasis and dirty digs and pokes?" Let's go specific? What are they? Allied indulges in that very practice which is entirely all right, since it's in the clear with its attitude. This business of making vague charges unsupported by the evidence is something else.

Or maybe we've been foolish of a pleasant Saturday in waxing wroth. Allied is so obviously kicking the gong around for sweet ballyhoo's sake. . . .

Elsewhere, other matters are brewing. For instance, an adjustment of rentals on "March of Time" that may result in increases for many theatres and reductions for others is under way. Exhibitors in "closed" towns who paid only a nominal tariff for the first issue are the ones most likely to find their rentals for subsequent issues tilted in proportion with the business being done. Others in highly competitive situations may have their rentals shaved. The object, of course, is to adjust the cost of the reel in proportion to its worth to the individual exhibitor by establishing rentals in the light of actual experience with the reel.

"March of Time" issued 400 prints of the first release, all of which are being recalled with release of the second issue. Thus, no two issues of the reel will be available for exhibition at the same time if the policy is continued. . . .

Loew officials are talking out a deal to acquire the Mayfair from Walter Reade and would transfer the Loew's New York policy up 7th Avenue a couple of blocks. Cartographers will have to busy themselves changing the Broadway theatre map if the deal jells. More about this later. . . .

Must Darryl Zanuck go through with "Ivanhoe?" It's anti-Semitic as Walter Scott wrote it. If Darryl makes it as Scott did not author it, will the result be "Ivanhoe?" . . .

Paramount and Universal are reported pouting at each other. Crosby's "Mississippi" is ready. Laemmle's "Show Boat" hasn't even reached the cameras. . . .

With 1,000 new season contracts signed and filed, Fox Film's aim is 4,000 by June 1. The objective, if attained, will be the big noise of the company's sales convention late in May. . . .

Ad Universal: A Chicago bankroll is reported willing and now it's reported Manny Cohen is after Universal. Uncle Carl is the industry's most sought after dowager. . . .

Mayor Appears at Reviewers' Luncheon

Approximately 1,500 persons attended the 20th annual luncheon which closed the 11th annual conference of the National Board of Review at the Hotel Pennsylvania on Saturday.

Mayor LaGuardia headed the list of speakers, which included Howard Dietz, advertising and publicity chief of M-G-M; Herbert Brownell, state assemblyman; the Rev. Thomas L. Harris of the Philadelphia Catholic archdiocese; LeRoy E. Bowman, director of leadership training of the United Parents' Ass'n, and John Collier, United States commissioner of Indian affairs and an officer of the board.

Also at the speakers' table were Gladys Swarthout, Irene Rich, Walter Connolly, George Bancroft, Blanche Sweet, Rudy Vallee and Otto Harbach.

Dr. George W. Kirchwey, chairman of the National Board of Review, acted as toastmaster.

G. B. Would Swap Talent

HOLLYWOOD, March 10.—Gaumont British is prepared to enter upon a reciprocal agreement for American stars in exchange for Madeleine Carroll, Jesse Matthews and Conrad Veidt, said Michael Balcon, G. B. executive, upon his arrival here yesterday from New York.

He conferred with George Arliss, who left later in the day for London to make two films for G.B., the first of which will be based on the life of Cecil Rhodes. M-G-M is planning a picture along the same lines, but has deferred to G. B.

Balcon will be here six weeks. Arthur Lee, who accompanied him, will remain a week and will visit G. B. exchanges on the way back to New York.

The President Polk, which sailed from San Francisco March 1, has been equipped and films will be sent to meet it at its various ports of call. Other liners, as they put into San Francisco, will be equipped.

RKO-Century Battle Goes on Again Today

With more than 900 pages of testimony on record for the five previous hearings, the local clearance and zoning board today starts its sixth session on the Century-RKO clearance and zoning dispute in Long Island. Although attorneys for both sides have been urged to complete the hearing today, indications are that unless more time than the usual four and one-half hours is allotted, the lawyers will not be able to wind up with summations.

Twenty hours have already been spent by the board hearing the case and members are anxious to have it over with. During the last hearing 12 different witnesses were put on the stand. Four of them were photographers and the bulk of the testimony hinged on a window card jointly advertising the Rivoli, Hempstead, and Fantasy, Rockville Center, L. I. These are Century houses.

Marie Egan of Sherlock & Arnold was on the stand last Thursday explaining how she checked up on automobile licenses, the numbers of which were taken by Albert E. Foy of Century on a parking lot in Far Rockway. Another girl from this office will testify today on the lists.

During the five episodes, Nizer and Klupt have bandied threats, innuendoes and inferences as to integrity of witnesses, "plants," gypping and "playing games."

Klupt himself took the stand last Thursday when a question of the slips on which the license numbers were written came up.

Nizer cross-examined him and asked who wrote the numbers on the top of the sheets. Klupt replied: "I don't know."

At the end of the session, Nizer told Klupt: "Now don't play games," with Klupt responding: "Oh, Ho."

Ross Wins on Clearance

Boston, March 10.—The clearance and zoning board has decided in favor of Charles Ross of the Strand, Windsor, Vt., petitioner against Peter D. Latchis of the Latchis in Claremont, N. H., and M-G-M. Ross claimed that M-G-M insisted that his theatre play its pictures after Latchis, writing the demand into the 1934-35 contracts, whereas such protection had not been mentioned previously. The decision handed down is: "On the evidence submitted, Windsor, Vt., and Claremont, N. H., are non-competitive and Claremont, N. H., shall have no clearance over Windsor, Vt.

competitive bids for the circuit which were definitely in the offing up to a week ago. The possibility of competitive bids being made still remains, but indications are that they will not develop until after the Fox Theatres-Schenck plan has been presented for court approval. What develops following a hearing on the plan will probably guide prospective bidders' policies. The prevalent impression is that the offer will provide little for competitors to shoot at, however.

Authors of the plan already have outlined the principal phases of it to Federal Judge Julian W. Mack, who has jurisdiction over Fox Met's reorganization, and to Federal Judge Martin T. Manton, whose jurisdiction is the Fox Theatres' receivership. A date for a hearing of the plan will be sought of Judge Mack today and may be not later than Friday. The plan will propose that Schenck be elected president of reorganized Fox Met and that Skouras and Randforce be continued as operators of the circuit at least until May 1, 1936.

May Run Ads in Advance

Cincinnati, March 10.—Despite the fact that the local grievance board issued a desist order against the Salem, Dayton, on complaint of the Riverdale, same city, which charged premature advertising, the respondent has been granted permission to advertise 13 days prior to his 52-day availability.

Contracts of both houses contain a 45-day availability clause after the first run when the admission is 20 cents plus tax, and 52 to 60 days on a 15-cent admission plus tax.

Stop Kenosha Nights

Milwaukee, March 10.—The grievance board has ordered the Kenosha at Kenosha, operated by the Standard Theatres, Inc., to discontinue bank nights. The complaint was entered by the Vogue Theatre Co. of Kenosha.

Deny Waterville Change

Boston, March 10.—The grievance board has refused to make any change in clearances at Waterville, Me. A complaint by H. H. Paul of the State, that city, sought a cut in clearance now held by the City.

N. S. S. Hits on New Trailer Arrangement

National Screen Service is turning to production talent for a new type of special trailer on M-G-M and Warner releases made necessary by decision of those two majors to make and sell their own service. They're good.

Five of the new brand were shown yesterday noon, subjects being "Black Fury" and "Devil Dogs of the Air" on the Warner list and "The Night Is Young," "Sequoia" and "Biography of a Bachelor Girl" on the Metro list.

Since actual production clips are not available in these two cases, N. S. S. is building action stuff around the distributor's releases. Fred Kohler occupies feature spot in the trailer on "Black Fury." The slight story thread has him addressing the tycoons of a fictitious mine and urging them to learn conditions for themselves as portrayed by Paul Muni in "Black Fury." The spiel permits Kohler to get in the usual plug for the attraction. Featured in the "Biography of a Bachelor Girl" trailer is Thelma Todd; Herman Bing and Charles Judels in the subject matter on "The Night Is Young"; Pat Flaherty and Warren Hymer on "Devil Dogs" and Charles B. Murphy, the animal trainer, on "Sequoia."

The idea is novel, the treatment fresh and the conclusion easily apparent that the scheme runs far ahead of the usual trailer idea, including the average affair turned out by N. S. S.

National Screen's New Trailers Previewed

National Screen Service yesterday gave a trade press preview on five of the trailers it is producing without the cooperation of M-G-M and Warner Bros.-First National, both of which are now making their own picture advance ballyhoos. These trailers do not employ clips from the films publicized, but instead offer individual, interesting stories, told in footage not exceeding 200 feet. In virtually every trailer players known to screen audiences are used and each constitutes excellent supplementary entertainment for theaters, apart from their respective publicity values. Trailers screened yesterday were for "Biography of a Bachelor Girl," with Thelma Todd appearing in the National Screen Service production; "Sequoia," with Charles B. Murphy and Ben Hall; "The Night is Young," with Charles Judels and Herman Bing; "Devil Dogs of the Air," with Pat Flaherty and Warren Hymer, and "Black Fury," with Fred Kohler. They're an effective and novel medium for selling forthcoming pictures to your patrons.

Nat. Screen Shows Better Trailers

New York.—National Screen Service yesterday showed the trade press five advance trailers, built along brand new production lines and embodying the first intelligent use of production entertainment without spilling the whole story of the pictures.

The five trailers are of Ann Harding in MGM's "Biography of a Bachelor Girl" "Devil Dogs of the Air," with the action taking place in mid-ocean where two aviators are adrift, anxiously awaiting rescue by the "Devil Dogs," and discussing the merits of the picture; "The Night is Young," with Herman Bing and Charles Judels getting into trouble with a studio watchman; "Sequoia," showing Charles Murphy, the animal trainer; "Black Fury," with Fred Kohler telling the board of directors the lowdown on Muni's coal mine picture.

National Screen Scores

New trailers, which National Screen Service is now making, are an innovation in trailers that should prove a boon to audiences. New idea is to take the main theme of the pictures being exploited on the screen and build a short dramatization around them. Title of the picture and the names of the stars and featured players are worked into the story. In short, it takes the stereotyped forms of advance ballyhoo and presents them in a visual manner that is ten times less obvious and considerably more lasting in the memory of the movie-goer. National Screen is to be congratulated for this new departure.

New Trailers That "Sell"

Trend From Stereotyped "Ad" Reels Provide Pleasure and Sales Punch

SHOWMEN'S TRADE REVIE

TRAILERS DELUXE!

Faced with the necessity of furnishing the theatremen with trailers that have real punch and seat-selling power, National Screen Service has effectively risen to the occasion and prepared "plot" trailers which are by far the sweetest yet offered.

At a private screening held in New York early this week, the trade press was afforded its first opportunity of seeing a group of these new trailers that are designed to overcome the loss of "action or scene" trailers due to the fact that Metro and Warners are making and servicing their own.

The idea has been in the works for a long time. As a matter of fact we first saw these new trailers over six months ago, but we did not consider them sufficiently perfected for actual release to theatres. But today (4th), we saw the finished product and we can honestly say that they are truly an innovation in advance advertising for any picture.

The first five screened included the following: "Sequoia," "Black Fury," "The Night Is Young," "Devil Dogs of the Air" and "Biography of a Bachelor Girl." Each one is an advance plug for the picture that will certainly meet with audience approval for any and every theatre. Best of all is the fact that they do not give the slightest "tip-off" on the picture plot in any manner whatsoever.

The first part of each of this new form of trailer is devoted to a little "plot" in which the picture is approached in a subtle, yet convincing manner. The second part is the musically, synchronized, animated titles that definitely "sell" the picture. The two ideas combined go to make up a swell plug for the picture. Just wait until you've had a chance to see these new trailers yourself. You will be just as enthused as we were.

Surrounded by fine production, they constitute a marvelous introduction to the coming attraction with an appeal heretofore never utilized for screen trailers. We recommend them and predict that they will be greeted with loud and long approval by theatremen all over the country.

PRODUCED TRAILERS

20 Mins.
Projection Room
National Screen Service

Expanding on recent experiments in trailer manufacture, partly with a view to getting away from the routine form, National Screen Service has a new type trailer, produced in toto by that company.

These trailers are so staged that they look suspiciously like shorts until they get well under way. Subtly managed on the advertising angle, the trailer uses clever means to make sure that strong selling points are injected.

National was, in a fashion, forced to this new style but has evolved a method which marks a distinct advance in this field. It was partly forced because Metro, on Jan. 1, joined Warner Bros. as a producer of its own trailers.

Having no contracts with these majors, under which dialog scenes would be made available, plus other co-operation, NSS was faced with the problem of servicing its accounts (theatres) on pictures of these two companies. Getting together a group of five specially produced trailers on Warner and Metro pictures, NSS hired its own actors, prepared its own sets and staged the scenes. It used no talent under contract to either Warner or Metro.

On 'Biography of a Bachelor Girl' (MG) National hired Thelma Todd and others to stage a bedroom scene. After making the audience guess as to what it is all about, the characters, as in a story, ring in a discussion on 'Bachelor Girl' to send in the ad plug. Trailer subject ends with Miss Todd hopping out of bed in nightgown, throwing a mink coat over her shoulders and declaring that she's going out to find what impressions of life Ann Harding (star of the picture) reveals in her diary.

The one for 'Devil Dogs' (WB) opens like a newsreel with lost fliers in the Pacific. Film cuts to two men marooned on airplane wreckage out at sea. Warren B. Hymer and Pat Flaherty have a radio with them through which comes gab about 'Devil Dogs,' the two men getting into a fight over the merits of that picture.

'Night Is Young' (MG) is another, with Herman Bing and Charles Judels as a couple of muggs crashing a studio gate in their car and ending up discussing this picture with the doorman.

Production of trailers on 'Sequoia' (MG) and 'Black Fury' (WB) are handled with freshness and effect. Charles B. Murphy, animal trainer, who handled beasts for 'Sequoia,' is in a hunting lodge setting, with a mountain lion as a pet. He introduces a conversation with another man over 'Sequoia.' For 'Black Fury' there is a company directors' meeting when one man argues with board members over what they know about handling the troubles of miners.

Some of these trailers carry an introduction credit, making them look more than ever like a short, with the opening words: 'National Screen Presents.' Copy tags onto produced scenes but is severely held down to get away from the tiresome ballyhoo which has characterized so many trailers.

If NSS is getting out these trailers on WB and Metro pictures as a means of competing against these two majors in the trailer field, it is offering real opposition. It is a forward step in screen advertising methods. Aside from anything else, these new type advance plugs give a variety in trailers if a house is using the conventional design, which includes actual scenes from films.

J. J. Gillespie Passes

BUFFALO, March 10.—James J. Gillespie, 67, widely known theatre property man and member of I. A. T. S. E. No. 10, is dead. Gillespie, employed at Shea's Buffalo until his fatal illness, had been employed in all Shea theatres in this city for 20 years and for a decade before that traveled with leading shows. Three brothers and two sisters survive. Funeral and burial were in Hamilton, Ont.

"U" Signs Sally Eilers

HOLLYWOOD, March 10.—Sally Eilers has been signed by Universal to play the title role in "Alias Mary Dow." The story is from an original by William L. Johnson. Gladys Ungar and Rose Franken are doing the screen treatment.

"Bill" Heavy Seattle Draw In Fifth Week

SEATTLE, March 10.—"Broadway Bill" was still a big draw in its fifth week at the Liberty. It grabbed $5,500 at the Liberty, over par by $1,500. The showing was especially noteworthy because it was the only downtown attraction to top normal.

"The Gilded Lily" came close to the profit line with $6,900 at the Fifth Avenue.

Total first run business was $34,400. Average is $37,000.

Estimated takings for the week ending March 4:

boards. It is proposed that it consist of five members appointed by the Governor.

While local exhibitors and exchanges have not had an opportunity to study the bill, the disposition is to regard with favor any plan which would eliminate the present censor board as far as Chicago is concerned. After a short lull the local board is again on a rampage with its shears. Cost to exchanges of the local board runs much too high for comfort, it is generally admitted.

Want Tax Reconsidered

ST. LOUIS, March 10.—The Middleton Theatre Co. of St. Louis, has petitioned the Board of Tax Appeals in Washington for redetermination of a 1929 income tax claim and penalty totaling $6,011. The company was assessed taxes of $4,007 and penalties of $2,003 for alleged fraud.

The petitioner, saying the tax was levied in 1929 for a transaction which did not take place until 1932, charged the Bureau of Internal Revenue unlawfully assessed the deficiency in order to prevent the statute of limitations from barring its collection.

"Ruggles" Is Hit; "Roberta" Also Big

"The Whole Town's Talking" garnered $72,500 at the Music Hall after getting $35,000 on Saturday and Sunday. Matinee business was off. At the Paramount the last six days of a two-week run of "Rumba" fared evenly with an $18,000 intake. "While the Patient Slept" at the Rialto was brutal, the take dipping to less than $8,000. "Biography of a Bachelor Girl" was disappointing at the Capitol, the week's tally showing only $27,000.

"Red Hot Tires" took it on the chin at the Mayfair with under $6,000. "Great Hotel Murder" was fair at the Astor at $8,000. "Murder on a Honeymoon" was below average at the Roxy with $27,000. The second week of "Folies Bergere" chalked up around $25,000 at the Rivoli, while the second stanza of "Sweet Music" at the Strand hovered around $21,000. "The Scarlet Pimpernel" at the Palace was very good at $11,000.

Turn Over Army Theatre

SAN ANTONIO, March 10.—The new $100,000 War Department theatre at Fort Sam Houston has been officially turned over to post authorities at a brief ceremony by Col. R. L. Collins and Major General James F. McKinley, adjutant general of the army.

Open New Guthrie House

GUTHRIE, Okla., March 10.—A new theatre has been opened here in a building formerly occupied by a grocery store. It is operated by the Gem Theatre Co. of Norman, Okla. Three houses are being operated in Guthrie at the present time, including the Melba, State and Guthrie.

for old age pensions. If the program passes the upper branch, no action is expected on a bill by Representative Lindhorst of St. Louis to levy 10 per cent on theatre tickets and other amusements, as well as tobacco, candy and chewing gum.

The two per cent proposal was adopted as an amendment to a bill extending the present one-half of one per cent tax on a broader base, sponsored by the House Ways and Means committee. The higher assessment was supported by real estate and school interests and favored by administration forces. It was adopted by a narrow one-vote margain, 69 to 68. The committee bill was a substitute for four other measures calling for higher levies. A two per cent sales tax bill is also pending in the Senate.

To make the two per cent tax acceptable to merchants, an amendment is to be adopted making it mandatory to pass it on. How this will be done in the case of theatre admissions and other small purchases has not been figured out.

Surprise Tax Bills Defeated in Kansas

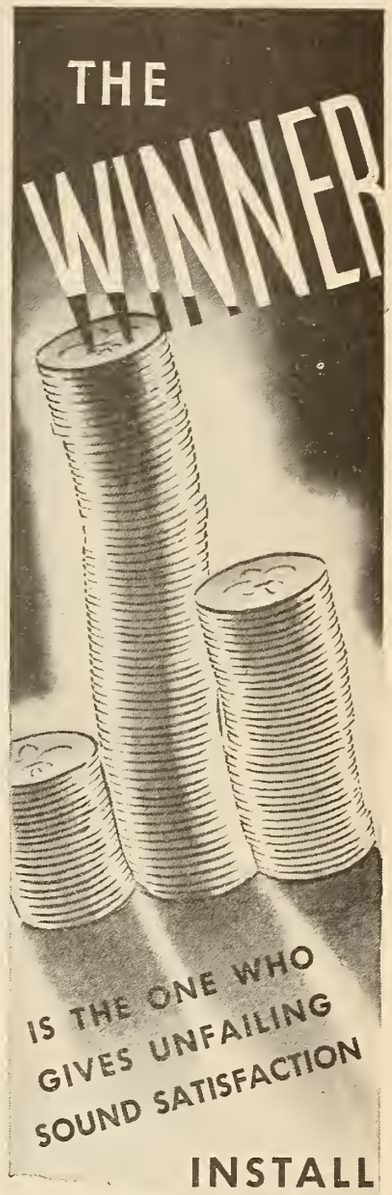
work of friends of the industry in the Kansas legislature.

The measures caught industry representatives off guard. They were eleventh hour proposals, filed on the day introduction of all but appropriation bills ceased and a day before each branch of the legislature was to end consideration of its own bills. When the nature of the proposals became known, film men started things rolling and through last-minute and almost frenzied efforts were successful in bringing about the defeat of the drastic taxation.



Men in close contact with the legislation assert this was the closest that Kansas exhibitors ever came to being heavily taxed.

The apparent intent of the bill sponsors was to stampede the measures through at the last minute, banking on the fact the opposition had no time to rally a defense. The four per cent of the gross measure singling out film theatres was brought in by the House Committee on Taxation. Representatives opposed were able to delay passage and the bill automatically expired when consideration of House bills ceased.

The second proposal, sponsored by the House Committee on Education, was camouflaged as a bill to tax malt and malt beverages, including 3.2 beer, to create a school aid fund of $750,000. Tucked away in the bill as one source of revenue for the fund was a provision for a 10 per cent levy on tickets. Led by Representative E. A. Briles, who owns and operates a theatre at Stafford, Kan., opponents fought the tax on the floor.

Issue La. Tax Ruling

NEW ORLEANS, March 10.—Out-of-state corporations doing business in Louisiana, but having a net income of less than $3,000 from sources within the state, do not have to pay taxes under the new income tax law, according to the office of the Supervisor of Public Accounts in a communiation to the Association of Commerce, received in reply to a request for information. "This fact, however, would not necessarily exempt the foreign corporation from being liable for filing income tax reports with the state," it was added.

Variety Club Chatter

Buffalo

BUFFALO, March 10.—An appeal that Variety join in a movement to aid the 3,000,000 young men graduated every year from high schools and colleges to find opportunities for employment was made to Variety Club of Buffalo by Erie County Judge GEORGE A. ROWE at a club luncheon.

It was newspaper and radio day for the organization, which was host to editors and business executives of the three Buffalo dailies and to executives of two broadcasting companies here. Judge ROWE declared steps must be taken to ameliorate the unemployment situation through experimental farms expected to be established in Erie County, through allocation of Federal work relief and through other steps.

SYDNEY SAMSON and CARL KEMPKE were kings for the day. Approximately 80 attended the luncheon.

MRS. LOUISE BORK, mother of Barker WILLIAM F. BORK of the Universal office staff here, is dead.

Barker JOE MILLER of Columbia and his wife have returned from their annual cruise to the West Indies.

Barker HARRY SEED, Warner-First National district manager, has gone to Florida, joining a group there including A. CHARLES HAYMAN of the Lafayette.

Canvasman ROBERT MURPHY is the goat for a story of ticket sales that put 200 tickets in the hands of one man through a series of I'll-Match-You games. He couldn't get a winner, but he did succeed in adding no little to the club's independence campaign.

Kansas City

KANSAS CITY, March 10.—GEORGE S. BAKER, newly-elected chief barker, announces these standing committees to serve under his administration:

House: R. R. BIECHELE, J. A. CAMERON, F. E. RITTER, A. F. BAKER, JOHN MUCHMORE. Chairman is to be selected.

Finance: ED. SHANBERG, chairman; HARRY TAYLOR, IRWIN DUBINSKY, F. H. JONES, L. J. MCCARTHY, WILLIAM WARNER.

Publicity: BARNEY JOFFEE, chairman; PAUL BAYZMAN, AL FINESTONE, KENNETH FORCE.

Entertainment: I. DUBINSKY, Chairman; WILLIAM WAGNER, G. L. CARRINGTON, SAM ABEND, ERNIE MEHL, HARRY TAYLOR.

Welfare: A. H. COLE, chairman; FRANK HENSLER, E. C. RHODEN, WARD SCOTT, T. R. THOMPSON, JAY MEANS. This committee is to have charge of charitable activities.

A large committee is considering new quarters, which will shortly be selected. It is planned that formal installation of the new officers will be held in conjunction with housewarming of the new club rooms, probably early in April.

Heading the new quarters committee is FINTON JONES, the new first assistant chief barker. Others on the committee are CAMERON, CHARLES JONES, COLE, BIECHELE, JOE MANFRE, I. DUBINSKY, HENSLER, MEANS, BILL ALTHAUS, L. E. POPE, PECK BAKER, CHARLES SHAFER, R. C. LIBEAU, WARNER, SHANBERG and RITTER.

Ickes to Ask Bonds For Park Locations

WASHINGTON, March 10.—Producers using the National Parks will hereafter be required to post a bond to cover any damage that might result, under plans now being worked out by Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes.

Determination to require the bond results from an expense of some $3,000 incurred by the Government in fixing things up after the "Sequoia" troupe got through.

Heretofore there has been no expense incurred in the use of the National Parks, the department feeling that the publicity was sufficient remuneration. Suggestions by Ickes that a fee be imposed met with a storm of protest from the producers, and it is now planned to require them to post a bond. In the case of the Army and Navy, it is said, bonds usually range from $200 to $2,500, but on one occasion as high as $25,000, was required.

Ohio Bans "Playthings"

COLUMBUS, March 10.—The censors have banned "Playthings of Desire" from Ohio on the ground that it contains "too much harmful hot stuff."

The film was produced by Kennedy Prod. on location in Florida, with Ohio release through Selected Pictures, Cleveland.

Lumiere Uses Color Filters To Gain Depth

since the demonstration was made on Feb. 25.

Lumiere's principal problem was a choice of colors in his filters. He dropped down the ordinary red and green lights used in the "Anaglyphe" system on the theory that they resulted in eye strain. His blue and yellow are not plain colors, but composite shades in which there are reds and greens, but with different wave lengths.

It is said the only difficulty in connection with the process is to induce theatre patrons to use the special eyeglasses.

Pictures are still seen in white and black. The projector lenses are changed and the projection machine is placed in a horizontal position, instead of being vertical.

French papers are devoting considerable space to the invention.

During his visit here on his way to Hollywood to resume picture work Jan Kiepura sang "La Tosca" at the National Opera Comique. He was enthusiastically received and requested by the audience to sing three of his film songs, "Tell Me Tonight," "Madonna" and "Ninon."

He was made a chevalier of the Legion of Honor by the Government for his contribution to French art.

Four American-made pictures are grossing heavily here. "The Gay Divorcee" is in its 10th week at the Modern, "One Night of Love" is in its third week at Cinema Edouard VII. It is the original version with French sub-titles. "The Merry Widow" has played eight weeks in a French version at the Madeleine, and a dubbed version of "The Lives of a Bengal Lancer" has just gotten off to a good start at the Paramount.

New French Tax Bill Worries U. S. Films

PARIS, March 10.—American film interests in France stand to suffer another blow because of a measure adopted by the Chamber of Deputies Finance Commission which calls for a decrease in taxes on exhibitors showing French pictures. The proportion of French films that must be shown to benefit by the new decree has not yet been fixed, however.

American exhibitors here look for a sharp drop in the number of their pictures shown if this new measure passes in the Chamber.

Lewin's Dual Attack Stirs Independents

Golden Replies Warmly; Others Disturbed

Repercussions from the attack on duals made by Dr. William Lewin at the National Board of Review meeting here late last week and answered by Edward Golden of Monogram were still echoing in independent distribution circles yesterday.

Lewin, who is chairman of the motion picture appreciation committee of the National Council of Teachers of English, appears to be in for a large amount of correspondence during the next few days from distribution champions of duals, which he termed the most serious drawback to the better film movement, and from double featuring exhibitors whom he referred to as "the most pernicious race of

Nizer's Nanny Gallops; Klupt Objects to "Snort"

Mitchell Klupt, attorney for Century circuit, yesterday got Louis Nizer's "goat" as the sixth round in the Century-RKO Long Island clearance objectathon added another four hours to the previous 20. Nizer became annoyed at Klupt's persistent remarks and charged the Century lawyer with being "smart" and using "cheap" and "shyster" methods. The rift between the two attorneys became so tense in the afternoon that Nizer threatened to withdraw from the proceedings unless his opponent acted like a "gentleman."

In the forenoon, Eugene Picker of Loew's, a member of the board, made a noise that Klupt called a "snort," and Klupt, always on the alert, objected. Picker objected to Klupt's objection and added a few words with the result that Harry Shiffman, another board member, wanted a "snort" defined. No one could qualify as an expert, and the board skipped it.

Six witnesses took the stand in the morning and a like number in the afternoon. Total objections for the day were: Klupt, three in the morn-

Television in Theatres Gets British Study

By BRUCE ALLAN

LONDON, March 1.—Inclusion of televised items in film programs will be possible this summer according to a statement from Capt. A. D. G. West of Baird Television Co., associated with Gaumont British.

Recent improvements in the system, he declared, would make it possible to project on full size screens.

Also under consideration is the practicability of the development of a service of televised news pictures, demanded by many exhibitors, says Captain West. There is no technical difficulty, he declares, and Baird may televise this year's race for the Derby direct to theatres, if the permission

Code Transfer To Trade Body Seen as Easy

WASHINGTON, March 11.—Transfer to the Federal Trade Commission of the administration of the trade practice provisions of the recovery codes, which may be pressed in Congress by members antagonistic to the National Recovery Administration, could be accomplished easily and would require only an expansion of existing machinery in the commission.

It would not be necessary for codified industries to go through the routine of applying for a trade-practice conference and discussing proposals, as required under the plan followed by the commission, since the codes represent the results of general conferences at which all members of the industry involved were

Doubts Power To Levy Code Assessments

Richberg States Views to Senate Probers

By BERTRAM F. LINZ

WASHINGTON, March 11.—Admission by Donald R. Richberg, former chief counsel of the NRA, that there is grave doubt whether code authorities have the right to force contributions for administration costs marked today's hearing before the Senate Finance Committee.

Questioned by Senator Clark of Missouri as to whether code authorities were exercising "the right, in effect, to levy taxes," Richberg said he did not think they had such authority, explaining that in most cases costs were being met by voluntary contributions.

Criticisms that the investigation of the Recovery Act threatens to become a whitewash were voiced today by senators opposed to the NRA after Senator Harrison, chairman of the committee, over the opposition of Senator

Pickets Return to Broadway Theatres

After an absence of some months, pickets have returned to Broadway as a result of failure by the fact-finding committee to prepare a basic operators' schedule for the metropolitan area. Three independent houses were picketed yesterday, and it is reported circuit theatres will find the sandwich men parading up and down in front of the theatres shortly.

The Mayfair and Astor, Walter Reade units, were picketed by men with American Federation of Labor signs while the Gaiety, a burlesque house which sandwiches pictures between stage shows, was paraded by Empire State Union pickets. In each instance there were from two to three men with signs.

Reports were current yesterday that the fact-finding committee has disbanded and it would not be long before Broadway breaks out in a rash of picketing.

English Group Buys RKO Vancouver Unit

VANCOUVER, B. C., March 11.—RKO disposed of its last Vancouver interests with the sale of the Vancouver Theatre and Orpheum Office Bld. to an English syndicate for a price reported to be close to $250,000. H. V. Sharpels of Vancouver, acted with Joe Toplitzky of Los Angeles, for the Orpheum Theatrical Co., Ltd.

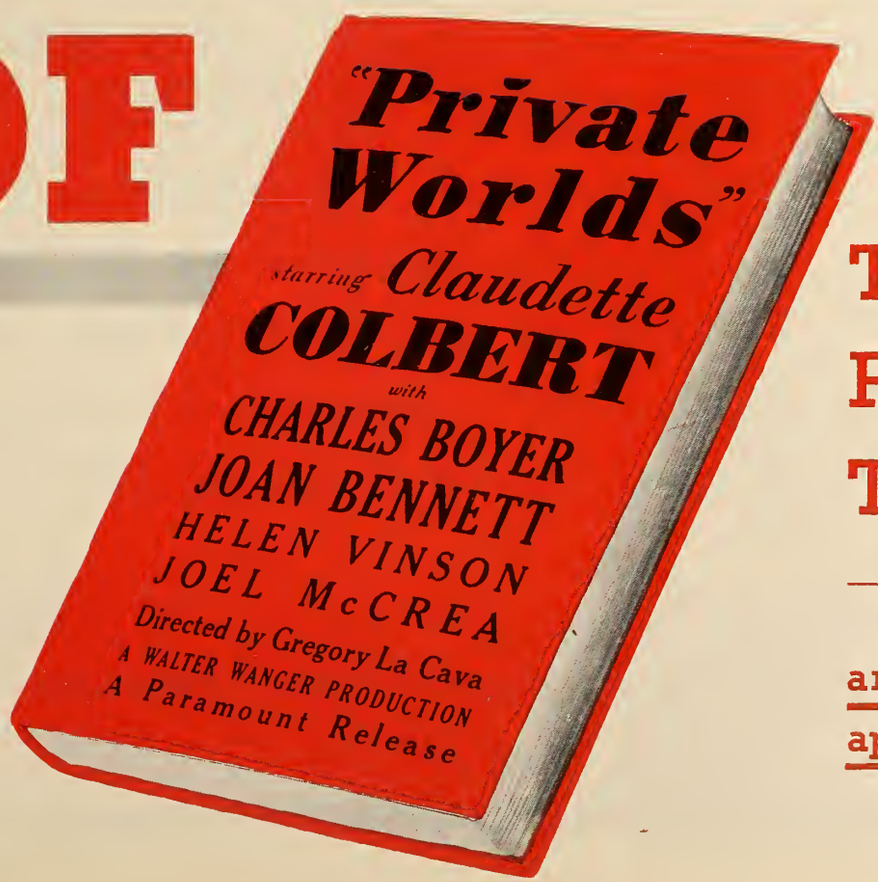
Deal is largest real estate turnover here in recent times and involves a 125-foot frontage on Granville St. The theatre will continue dark as at present, opening when required for traveling stage companies. Actual members of the purchasing syndicate are not known, but they were represented by Yorkshire & Pacific Securities, Ltd.

Another Censor Fee Increase Up in Ohio

COLUMBUS, March 11.—The General Assembly is "double billing" in its current legislative program.

In addition to a bill introduced by Senator Zoul of Cleveland to increase censorship fees to $3 for the first 1,000-foot reel, and $2 for each succeeding reel, Representative Carey of Toledo is sponsoring a bill to make the fee $5 for the first and $3 for each additional reel. The present fee is $1 per reel.

Distributors estimate that the Zoul bill would increase the cost of censorhip $100,000 per year, while the other would add $200,000 annually.



May Buy U. S. Films

Amkino was advised by cable from Moscow yesterday that the Soviet was considering purchase of the American films shown at the recent 15th anniversary of the Russian film industry. The pictures include "The Invisible Man," "Our Daily Bread," "Gentlemen Are Born," "Viva Villa," "Little Women," "La Cucuracha" and Disney cartoons.

"WOMEN WILL GET A TERRIFIC BOOT OUT OF THE FINEST PICTURE OF THE YEAR!"

—Motion Picture Daily and the reasons why appear on the next page

HERE'S WHY:

"I'm living in a ghost world with a ghost lover!"

1. The theme of "Private Worlds" is REPRESSION—a topic of vital interest to ALL women!

"I hate woman doctors. They always take advantage of their sex."

2. "Private Worlds" vividly dramatizes the eternal conflict of the sexes! It asks the question, "Can a woman compete with a man on an even basis in a man's world?" —and answers, "YES!"

Charles Boyer, who, Louella Parsons says, "is so grand in this picture that all the girls are asking where he has been all their lives."

3. . . . Women will go for CHARLES BOYER! The Hollywood Reporter says: "Charles Boyer is superb! There is no question that America—especially female America—will be at his feet."

Code Transfer To Trade Body Seen as Easy

given an opportunity to express their views.

Interest in the possibility of a transfer of NRA functions to the Federal Trade Commission has been heightened by Senator Nye's announcement that he intends to introduce a bill calling for this change in spite of the fact that the Senate Finance Committee has already instructed its bill drafting staff to get in touch with Donald Richberg for the purpose of embodying Administration suggestions.

A report to Congress on the trade-practice plan by the commission shows that it follows closely the purposes and procedure of the recovery act. The trade-practice conferences, the commission explains, are the logical development of efforts of the commission, cooperating with industry, to protect the public against unfair methods of competition and raise the standards of business practice.

The plan of thus dealing with unfair trade practices has been in operation for some 15 years, and during the last fiscal year alone rules thus devised were voluntarily accepted by approximately 2,400 individuals, firms and corporations.

Chance to Correct Abuses

"These conferences afford representatives of an industry the opportunity to assemble voluntarily and, under the auspices of the Federal Trade Commission, consider methods for the correction or abandonment of unfair and unethical practices and trade abuses," the report declared.

"The procedure is to deal with an industry as a unit. Concern is solely with practices and methods. Agreements reached terminate on a given date unfair methods of competition, unethical conduct or any trade abuses condemned at the conference, and thus place all competitors on a fair competitive basis.

"Procedure is predicated on the theory that the primary concern of the Federal Trade Commission is the interest of the public," the report continued.

"Recognition is given of the principle that the public is entitled to the benefits which flow from competition, and that each competitor is entitled to a fair competitive opportunity. The legitimate conduct of business is in perfect harmony with the best interest of the public. That which injures one undoubtedly harms the other, and the commission, in the trade-practice conference, provides a procedure which protects the interests of all."

That Rivoli, Hempstead, and Fantasy, Rockville Center, L. I., window card came up again when Klupt brought in Benjamin Epstein, owner of a grocery store in Far Rockaway, as surprise witness. Nizer brought in four of his own witnesses, Mrs. "Toots" Pauker, Adolph F. Boldholdt, Morris Rochelle and Gerald Kaufman. All but Kaufman talked about the card for an hour and a half.

Howard Weiss, Charles MacDonald, Fred H. Griffin, Patrick J. Walsh and John G. Heines were on the stand in the morning, while most of the afternoon was given over to the window card witnesses with the exception of Kaufman and Moe Sanders of Fox who introduced the Fantasy clearance clause for the record.

In addition to the "snorting" episode, Klupt chided Picker earlier in the day for criticizing some of the testimony on the Alden mailing list. Picker pulled a fast one. He called an executive session and the matter was settled. The mailing list data was admitted. On two other occasions, the board went into informal huddles on certain issues.

The morning session was anything but mild. At one time, Klupt asked for a showdown. Nizer agreed and said: "Let's have it." Then followed a verbal barrage which included "discourteous," "shyster," "credibility of witnesses," "snorting," etc., etc.

Next meeting is slated for Thursday at which time testimony is expected to be completed with summations to follow.

Bank Night in Md. Is Declared Lottery

WASHINGTON, March 11.—Bank nights were declared lotteries in a decision handed down today by the local grievance board which ordered E.L. Moore of the Ridgley, Ridgley, Md., to cease and desist from the practice.

The complaint was brought by M. H. Schwarz of the Dentonia, Denton, Md.

Joseph C. Grant of the Dunbar complained that the Star Amusement Corp., Baltimore, was distributing passes for advertising purposes. The case was continued for additional evidence. Grant withdrew a complaint against the same defendant in regard to reduced admissions. His overbuying grievance against Star Amusement was continued until the next session.

Adoption of a plan of reorganization was recommended by the Joint Committee of Investment Trusts and Insurance Companies, which has been looking into the affairs of the circuit.

At the annual meeting shareholders refused to hear a reorganization scheme prepared by the directors until the joint committee had investigated the company.

the new conditions had improved the quality of product.

"The switch to talking pictures," asserted the 20th Century producer, "was more chaotic while it lasted, but it was a mechanical change and depended more than anything else on the perfection of mechanical devices. The mere novelty of hearing screen images talk atoned for its deficiencies in the eyes of the film public.

"The present change is more difficult, because it was psychological. It required no mere adaptation to physical and mechanical appliances, but an entirely new way of thinking."

Zanuck added that the agitation for clean films not only required the producers to alter their way of thinking but "to change the public's attitude toward screen entertainment."

HOLLYWOOD, March 11.—Two former New York newspaper men, Hy Daab and Major Ross Duff Whytock, have written "Park Row," a saga of New York journalism covering 20 years of the dramatic period in newspaper history. Many of the historic figures of "the Row" have been woven into the story.

Doubts Power To Levy Code Assessments

King of Utah, secured approval of a schedule of witnesses to be called. In the list Clarence Darrow is the only person not connected with the NRA.

"There is too much effort on the part of the NRA and its officials to bolster up the organization," Senator King commented. "I regard it as important that we bring witnesses who have legitimate and valid complaints, particularly in view of Mr. Richberg's statement that NRA is such a beneficial organization and necessary to prevent monopoly."

Today's hearing was marked by a brief skirmish between Richberg and Senator Borah of Idaho, the former declaring that the latter's demand for the scrapping of all of the Recovery Act except the wage, hour and child labor provisions would enable monopolies to flourish and increase unemployment. Borah, in exchange, called Richberg a friend of monopoly and a foe of labor and small business.

Jersey Pari-Mutuel, Billboard Bills Up

TRENTON, March 11.—Two bills affecting the industry—revision of the state billboard tax law and legalization of pari-mutuel betting on horse racing—are slated for action in the Assembly this week.

The billboard measure, Assembly 129 by Herbert J. Pascoe of Union, has been reported from committee and is ready for a vote. The 12 Essex members, largest delegation in the House, are solidly against the measure, but with Democratic help it has a good chance of passage.

The present state billboard tax is three cents per square foot and cost of billboard advertising has been increased since 1930 when the law became effective. Pascoe's measure would repeal the tax and replace it with a graduated flat tax based on the number of locations, the maximum tax being $500 annually for concerns having more than 500 billboards. Passage of the bill is expected to result in lower advertising rates.

Exhibitors are watching the horse racing measure with concern because of their experience with the dog tracks last year. The dog tracks milked dry the territories in which they operated and cut into film patronage greatly. While horse racing would be conducted in the daytime, of course, and would not compete directly with evening performances, exhibitors are wondering how much money would be diverted to the mutuel machines, leaving movie patrons with less to spend for other amusements.

The horse racing constitutional amendment, sponsored by Assemblyman Joseph Altman of Atlantic City, will be reported favorably from committee this week. It will be brought to a vote next week and appears certain of passage, the strong Democratic minority being for it. The amendment passed the 1934 legislature and approval this year will mean its submission to the voters in the fall.

Lewin's Dual Attack Stirs Independents

vermin the Lord ever suffered on the face of the earth."

Golden, in making an unscheduled reply to Lewin at the annual luncheon which closed the National Board of Review meeting Saturday, declared that the critic of duals was unwarrantedly "mixing an economic with a moral issue." Golden cited the recent Federal court decision at Philadelphia which held the contractual restriction of double featuring in that instance to be a "conspiracy in restraint of trade" and declared that any effort to abolish duals was contrary to the spirit of the decision and, therefore, to Federal law.

"Dr. Lewin's statements strike at the very vitals of independent production," Golden said. "There is not one of the present large companies which did not have its beginning as an independent company such as Monogram. Abolish double featuring and you abolish the independent and all that his existence means to competition and growth within the industry. Without double featuring there would be no need for more than 365 pictures a year."

Other speakers at the luncheon directed their remarks to the subject of censorship. Assemblyman Herbert Brownell, Jr., who sponsored a bill in the state legislature to abolish the New York censor board, said that censorship had "in no way aided in raising the standard of films, accomplished no worthwhile purpose and did practically no good, whatever."

State Censors on Hand

Among Brownell's interested listeners were six members of the state censor board. He declared that he hoped his views would enlighten Review Board members from states where no censorship exists.

Mayor LaGuardia, another speaker, stated that he believed there was no real threat of Federal censorship, revealing that during his 14 years in Congress only two Federal censorship measures were introduced which had any serious support "and that soon dwindled."

"The best censorship is that of the box-office," the Mayor said. He urged special theatre hours for juvenile attendance, with a matron in charge of each theatre section set aside for children, but added that he had had little support for the idea.

Dr. George W. Kirchwey, chairman of the National Board of Review, concluded an argument for freedom of expression for films with the plea not to "render them as repulsive to children as school and the home have become." "Motion pictures," he said, "are the only romantic and emotional outlet for many city children."

Alexander Markey, producer of "Hei Tiki," urged the greater artistic development of films. He appealed to the Board of Review to make an effort to establish a clearing house or endowed foundation where "creative genius, barred from expressing itself in films by standard production costs, could create and market a new film expression."

Markey stated that if production was not taken away from the business men who seized it before it had had a chance to be developed as an art, it never would become an art.

The advertising of Markey's "Hei Tiki" at the Globe, where it had its Broadway first run, drew numerous complaints for its suggestive nature and was called to the attention of License Commissioner Paul S. Moss.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Ten Dollar Raise"

(Fox)

HOLLYWOOD, March 11.—As a $40-a-week bookkeeper whose hobby is saving pins and being punctual, Edward Everett Horton provokes laughs aplenty. His individual brand of comedy pathos hits a laugh peak due to the shrewd direction, the comedian's portrayal and performances of the supporting cast.

This has mass appeal and should hit spots as good average comedy.

Horton, who has earned the same salary for years, loves Karen Morley, secretary of the firm, but is afraid to take the fatal step because of finances. All appeals to the Boss (Berton Churchill) for a raise fail and Horton is dejected when a fast-talking salesman sells him four worthless lots in swamp land. Meanwhile, the boss' son (Glen Boles) wants to marry Miss Morley's daughter. Churchill intervenes and Miss Morley is fired for not acceding to Churchill's demands.

Just when all seems lost between Horton and Miss Morley the former falls into a swamp on one of the lots and the odor is so vile that his pal (Ray Walker) has the water analyzed, with the result Horton receives $100,000 and a percentage from a water bottling corporation. Horton buys Churchill's firm, making the boss work for him, and marries Miss Morley.

George Marshall does a fine job of direction, maintaining the comedy tempo. Performances are good all 'round, with Horton splendid. Henry Johnson and Louis Breslow contribute a well-rounded screen play from Peter B. Kyne's original.

Exploited for laughs, this one should ring the bell.

Production Code Seal No. 667. Running time, 70 minutes. "G."

Looking 'Em Over

"Rainbow Valley"

(Monogram)

With less action, particularly in the line of hand-to-hand struggles between John Wayne and the villain, and with more emphasis evidently placed on the story, here is a worthy member of the Lone Star series. Wayne presents his usual virile character portrayal and the other members of the cast handle their roles capably.

Sent to prison to get the goods on a bandit gang which is terrorizing the inhabitants of Rainbow Valley, Wayne is pardoned and joins forces with George Hayes, eccentric mail carrier, in an effort to build a road to connect the valley with the outside world. Thwarted at every turn by his enemies, Wayne joins the gang and uses its men and dynamite to bring the road to completion under the guise of stopping them. In the meantime, romance has blossomed with Lucille Brown, post mistress of Romance Valley, and the fadeout finds them in each other's arms.

R. N. Bradbury's direction keeps the film moving at a fast pace. The photography by William Hyer is okay.

Western fans and children in particular should get a kick out of this one. Reviewed without production code seal. Running time, 52 minutes. "G."

"Transient Lady," which was previewed at the Mayfair on Friday night, was reviewed by wire from Hollywood on Feb. 13.

of the Postmaster General can be obtained.

Sir John Gilmour, Home Secretary, has clarified the position regarding the future of non-flam films by a statement in reply to a question in the House of Commons.

Confirming his intention to ask for revision of existing safety regulations under the Cinematograph Act, Sir John denied that it was intended to apply the same rules to celluloid and non-flam films. "At no time has it been contemplated," he said, "that the same regulations should be applied to films on a nitro-cellulose base and to films on an acetate base."

Considerable opposition has been shown by those interested in educational and commercial film production to the suggestion that the exhibition of such films was to be subjected to the same rules as those obtaining in theatres.

Gerald Cock, appointed director of television by the British Broadcasting Corp., is the man who has controlled all outside broadcasts for the B. B. C. Once commercial director of a film company, he had an earlier association with Hollywood, where he fruit-farmed on land now occupied by leading studios. Films will be largely used in his first television transmissions.

Frisco Case Postponed

SAN FRANCISCO, March 11.—The case of Herman Cohen, United Artists Theatre, versus 31 local houses, charging violation of the code through the use of bank nights, was postponed to March 19 today following a brief hearing before the grievance board attended by virtually every principal theatre operator here. Lack of preparedness due to the M.P.T.O.A. convention caused the postponement.

Joyce Reserves Rule On Big Para. Claims

Special Master John E. Joyce took under advisement following a hearing yesterday two petitions for the allowance of claims against Paramount Publix aggregating $26,127,000, exclusive of interest, to permit holders of the claims to vote specific amounts on Paramount's plan of reorganization.

Joyce granted another petition closing the docket of claims on March 21 against their further filing or being assigned, until such time as the Federal court may reopen the docket. This will enable the special master to make his report to the court showing which creditors may vote on the reorganization plan and in what amount.

The petitions for the allowance of the claims were filed by Paramount Publix and by counsel for the Paramount trustees. The latter petition asks for the final allowance of the bondholders' claims aggregating $25,157,000, plus interest; while Paramount's petition asks the provisional allowance of those claims and 17 additional claims aggregating $950,000. The petitions embrace all of the claims to participate in the reorganization except those which have been made a part of the plan itself, such as the Allied Owners, bank group and Paramount Broadway claims.

Moley Hits 'Absurd' Criticism of Films

against those critics who annihilate endowments in pseudo-scientific efforts to prove that movies "incite to crime."

These processes, Moley said, usually consist of taking a number of case histories—just how many depends upon the size of the endowment—and asking each subject a list of leading questions. From the replies, conclusions are drawn which seem to have little to do with the case histories, he said.

The industry's only concern about the criticism levelled against it from these quarters should be whether there is justification for it, he said. The wisest procedure in the face of criticism is to perfect what you are doing, the film men were told.

"One 'David Copperfield' with its precious content of true art and great and basic morals," Moley said, "will win more parents to the support of the motion picture industry than can be taken away by a thousand screeds attacking the movies as a source of evil."

"There are more factors in films conducive to crime prevention than to crime encouragement," he added. "Make the law enforcer the hero, rather than the buffoon of the story. If you can do this on the proper level, you have the instruments of crime suppression at hand. I think the industry is recognizing its responsibility. The public should commend its constructive works, and encourage it to do more, rather than bitterly criticizing its faults."

Moley praised the activities of Will H. Hays and his organization, declaring that "his programs are intelligently conceived" and that in endeavoring to raise film standards Hays is "performing a diffcult task in an intelligent manner."

Francis Walton, editor of the New Outlook, said that the industry "has taken it unduly on the chin" for the attention paid to crime by films.

"Some pictures have featured some of the big shots of crime," he said, "but so have the newspapers."

Martin Weyrauch, managing editor of the Brooklyn Eagle, declared that if motion pictures and the radio had existed at the time of the writing of the Constitution the same guarantee of freedom of expression which it gives to newspapers would have been specifically granted to the newer media of communication, because "the intent of the Constitution was to guarantee freedom of speech to all agencies of criticism."

"U" Not Sold, Not Even to Huey:Laemmle

Takes Hot Verbal Shots At Industry Gossips

HOLLYWOOD, March 12.—Universal hasn't been sold. Take Carl Laemmle's word for it—his emphatic word.

"If you can believe some of the trade papers and certain radio gossips," he says, "Universal has been sold out to everybody in the world except Huey Long, Father Coughlin and General Hugh S. Johnson.

"And the only reason why we have not been sold out to them," he adds, "is because they have been too busily engaged in calling each other political termites, pied pipers, chocolate soldiers, cream puff soldiers, religious flubdubs and other endearing names.

"I must admit that I have been tempted more than once to call names. Year after year I have seen plain, manufactured lies published about

Good Friday Closing Demanded in Canada

TORONTO, March 12.—A new movement has rolled up on the horizon to harrass theatre proprietors. Unless theatres are closed on Good Friday, adherents of the Roman Catholic faith will be instructed to boycott them during the week following Easter when religious restrictions are generally removed.

The threatened boycott first made itself known in the Atlantic Province of Nova Scotia, but the matter is now

Code Changes Get Approval From the NRA

No Reference to Leases Or Show Contractors

By BERTRAM F. LINZ

WASHINGTON, March 12.—Omitting all reference to the problems of interference with lease or compliance of unit show contractors with code wage provisions, the NRA today announced approval of amendments to the film code which were discussed at the hearing last December.

The new matter to be inserted in the code deals with the labor conditions of chorus girls, covers the rehearsal pay of principals, limits the application of the code to the continental United States and Alaska, and eliminates rep, tab, tent, wagon, truck and medicine shows and showboats.

Chiseling of wages through the employment of so-called amateurs is to Hollywood, March 12. — Gaumont British plans to release 16 in this market again next season, according to Michael Balcon, production head, who is here on a talent hunt. G. B. will make a total of 26, however, and also will distribute in England 14 additional features made by other producers.

Films Escape Onslaught As Kansans Quit

KANSAS CITY, March 12.—The Kansas Legislature at Topeka, which adjourns Wednesday, dealt leniently with the industry at this session. Not one adverse bill was passed, and two measures now law are of a beneficial nature.

The legality of contracts was clarified by an amendment to the censor law passed on presentation of Representative E. A. Briles, himself an exhibitor, under which contracts may be sold prior to approval of films by the state censors.

The censor law, adopted in 1923, provided that no films could be sold before approval. This voided contracts calling for future delivery, and exhibitors have invoked this provision when in litigation with distributors.

Fortington's Group Delays Para. Bonds

Holds Balance of Power In Naming Directors

The so-called Fortington group, a coalition of Paramount Publix creditors with claims aggregating $15,000,000, is deferring the deposit of its estimated $4,000,000 bond holdings in favor of the company's plan of reorganization to insure the election of its nominees to the board of directors of the new company, it was learned yesterday.

Through its bond holdings, the Fortington group occupies a strategic position in the reorganization at this stage. Before the Paramount plan can be made effective it must have the approval of a majority of the stockholders and two-thirds of all creditors, including bondholders. The Vanderlip debenture committee, principal representative of bondholders, has on deposit approximately $13,100,000 of the

The creditor representatives will act in the nature of an unofficial board of directors in considering the deal which calls for Schulberg's production of six to eight pictures for Paramount release.

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

STORIES, growing out of much conversation, about the theatre situation on Broadway, begin, but will not end, with a blind ad which appeared on the second page of the New York Times recently and, for some unexplained reason slipped by the eagle optics of those whose business it is to purvey, survey and convey the news. It read:

"We represent a client who wishes to contact an individual who will invest $700,000 in a first mortgage on an important piece of improved New York real estate located in the heart of Times Square. The property is assessed for $4,000,000.

"The terms of the mortgage are to include six per cent interest, semi-annual amortization so that the entire amount is repaid within ten years PLUS a participation to the extent of 33 1/3 per cent in the profits from the operation of the property. A contract will be entered into, for the operation of the business for which the property is at present being used, with a nationally known and eminently successful company at present doing an annual gross business in excess of $100,000,000.

"This advertisement is directed to principals only and we invite the strictest investigation of the entire proposition. No brokers—no trades—no promotion schemes or phoney bond issues will be given the slightest consideration. Our client will discuss the matter only after we are completely satisfied as to the seriousness of purpose and responsibility of anyone who may answer this advertisement."

Donahue and Coe are the "we." This is the advertising agency for Loew's and M-G-M. The property "assessed for $4,000,000" might be Loew's State, but more likely is the Capitol. And that opens the floodgates of speculation, removed more than a trifle from such an unsatisfactory classification by some talks which have been held in recent weeks and months. There was the time, as told in this space, when Nick Schenck was dickering for the Roxy as a first run home for Leo in Times Square and the byways leading immediately from it. Latterly, there have been palavers—some go further and say it's a deal—that Loew's will take over the Mayfair from Walter Reade for the policy now grinding away at Loew's New York. . . .

Sooner or later, the eminently successful type of operation which is the New York's will have to deposit itself elsewhere. The block from 44th to 45th Street which is that theatre's current home, is coming down and, as a matter of fact, certain tenants of the building already have been informed they will have to seek other quarters. The chances are slight, so slight that they might be discounted entirely, that the New York will be dropped; it makes too much money. It's ditto on Loew's State which is a sweetheart insofar as theatres and black figures go. The situation as it has to do with the Capitol, however, is a marquee of another color. . . .

The house is no longer new. By comparison with the Music Hall, it's ancient, although that goes as well for virtually every other amusement contender in the Broadway sector. Snuggling closest to the plans bruited afoot is the report Schenck eyes the Roxy for several reasons, to wit: (1) It's more modern. (2) It's closer to the new entertainment center as created by the Music Hall, the envy of all other impresarios along the stem. What, then, would happen to the Capitol? The answer is: What would happen to the Rivoli if the Joe Schenck-Van Schmus flirtation ripens into real romance? You know about that already. . . .

Heave a sigh or a sob for Clark Gable! Louis M. Levy, dark horse attorney interesting himself in Paramount's reorganization, is all for Gable as a member of the new board, Metro competition and fat acting salaries having nothing to do with the case. Already the Methodist congregation at Hopedale, Ohio, has heard him described as "serving a devil of lust" and has prayed for his conversion to Christianity. It was a return engagement since the same congregation prayed the same way last Summer. Gable's birthplace thus faces conflict and crisis, for members of the parent-teachers' group there think Clark is "an artist in the true sense of the word." It's because women in handsome numbers think many things about Gable aside from his artistry that Metro stars him. . . .

This will never do. Allied has been campaigning long for a change in the makeup of Campi. It's not truly representative; but lopsided and some more along kindred lines, goes the story. Now the M.P.T.O.A. has launched the same cry. Mergers have been committed on less. . . .

be prevented by a provision that "the minimum wage of a performer employed on a per diem and compensated in any manner shall be $7.50 net in cash per day for each theatre in which such performer appears."

It is also provided that no exhibitor shall enter into any agreement directly or indirectly, for services of a kind usually and customarily performed by theatre employes directly compensated by exhibitors unless such agreements provide for maintenance of code wage minima and hour maxima. This would not apply to agreements entered into prior to the effective date of the amendment.

Ipswich Clearance Cases Are Quashed

Philip Smith of the Strand, Ipswich. The clearance protests were filed by Paramount and Salem theatres, Salem, Mass., and the Larcom and Ware, Beverly, Mass.

Sam Markaill and Smith appeared on behalf of the Strand, while H. Lebaron Sampson represented the protestants.

In sending back the two complaints for rehearing, the committee held that the Boston board had set up protection for someone who hadn't asked for it. All Boston downtown houses ordinarily have 28 days' protection on subsequent and neighborhood theatres.

David Stoneman, attorney for Walter B. Littlefield, appeared before the committee requesting that the Jamaica at Jamaica Plain, and the Egleston, Boston, be given equal availability. Littlefield operates the Egleston, which Stoneman claimed was 1.6 miles from the Rivoli, Boston. The local board reduced the 14 days' clearance of the Rivoli to seven days but Stoneman claimed that the Rivoli has one day clearance over the Jamaica, which holds him up from 60 to 70 days after downtown Boston.

During his argument, Stoneman read into the record an exclusive story in MOTION PICTURE DAILY whereby Warners' Forum in Los Angeles was declared non-competitive to Fox West Coast's Uptown, a mile apart. Benjamin Trustman represented the Rivoli and Jamaica.

Samuelson Loses in Two Code Decisions

Sidney Samuelson, representing Fred Faulkner, an Allied of New Jersey member, at the local grievance board yesterday, lost two decisions in favor of Warners which brought the complaints.

Frank Damis, assistant to Don Jacocks, of Warners, contended that the respondents Palace, Netcong, N. J., was prematurely advertising ahead of the Baker and Playhouse, Dover. He also held in a second complaint that the Park, Newark, was also violating the code.

The board upheld Damis in both instances, but not unanimously.

"New Courts of Industry"

REVIEWED BY J. M. JERAULD

For a lawyer, Louis Nizer is surprisingly direct. His literary style in his new book, "New Courts of Industry," is as swift and lucid as his more carefully prepared speeches at film functions.

His knowledge of the code background and his close contact with its week-by-week developments permit him to appraise details with the perspective of the whole picture in mind. The net result for exhibitors and distributors is that probably for the first time they have a guide to lead them through the mazes of code procedure toward whatever goal they happen to be seeking.

The title might lead an outsider to conclude that an important industry had passed a milestone on the road to an ideal state. As a matter of fact, the book is an excellent review of the code's first year, with illuminating comments on some of the things that were not accomplished as well as those that were.

Its 344 pages are divided into general classifications, all of which are useful for reference purposes. After a preface devoted to the NRA and the ideal of self-regulation in industry, the author gives six pages to a chapter called "A Judicial System Is Born" and calls the code boards "accidental" and a "surprise" to the code's sponsors.

Chapter II goes into overbuying at length and cites principles evolved in grievance board cases as well as Code Authority decisions. In this chapter, selective contracts are discussed in detail.

In Chapter III, general complaints are discussed, especially those covering giveaways, rebates, and other forms of reduced admissions.

"The effort to compromise the conflicts involved resulted in the most ambiguous clause in the code," Nizer writes. "There have been more appeals involving this section than any other." He calls attention to the fact that, in spite of many decisions banning bank night, race nights and screeno, they have not been barred where there is no competition.

The Campi principle covering this, Nizer says, is that "where these schemes are introduced into a competitive community the exhibition of motion pictures falls into the background and the race becomes one in which exhibitors see which can give the most prizes and still stay in business."

Lease interference decisions and their conflict are cited to justify the removal of this clause.

Nizer is generally hopeful about clearance and zoning prospects in spite of the long delays and failure to agree on more than two schedules —those in Miami and St. Petersburg, he says.

Statistics of decisions in a chapter called "Looking Back in Review" give a succinct picture of the boards' first year's work.

A portion of the book that will appeal to exhibitors with an aversion to the legal phraseology of the code text is an analysis of the code in short chapters and sub-divisions that can be read swiftly. It furnishes more real information as to what is actually in the code than has been available heretofore.

The code is printed in full, of course, and in the back of the book is a series of indices that make it easy to delve into any angle a busy man wants to know about in a hurry.

One of the surprises is that, in spite of the agitation over cancellations, short forcing and preferred playing time, no appeals have actually reached Code Authority on these questions, except two cases involving the principles of cancellation.

Elwood-Warner Case Off Until April 13

WASHINGTON, March 12.—At the request of the Broadwood Holding Co., a further postponement of the hearing of the Elwood, Newark, case against two Warner theatres has been ordered by the Industrial Appeals Board. It was pointed out that counsel for the complainant could not appear on March 15 and the hearing was set back to April 13.

It is understood the argument will be confined to a question of jurisdiction.

Reason for the postponement of the Elwood case is believed to be that David T. Wilentz, representing Louis Levin of the complaining theatre, is busy working on the Hauptmann appeal, date of which has not yet been set, and which must be disposed of before he takes up the Warner case where he left off last year.

C. E. Williams Returns

OMAHA, March 12.—Charles E. Williams, president of the Nebraska M.P.T.O., is expected home Thursday after a stopover at Hot Springs, Ark., hospital following the M.P.T.O.A. convention in New Orleans.

Deadlock Continues In K.C. Zoning Row

KANSAS CITY, March 12.—The Kansas City clearance dispute continued deadlocked today as the I.T.O. and Elmer Rhoden of Fox Midwest failed to reach an agreement on the independents' demands for a new schedule. A conference was suggested by the zoning board yesterday when it deferred action on the independents' complaint against Midwest pending possible agreement.

It is understood Rhoden objects to the independents' proposal to penalize premium users because Midwest is planning to employ giveaways here. He is reported willing to relinquish protection over equally priced independent houses for this season, but the exhibitors want assurance for the future.

Independents are understood planning to make further attempts to obtain Midwest's acceptance of their demands before proceeding with drastic measures.

PROVIDENCE, March 12.—H. H. Maloney, Loew's State manager, who was taken seriously ill about the first of the year, is now reported definitely on the road to recovery.

Fortington's Group Delays Para. Bonds

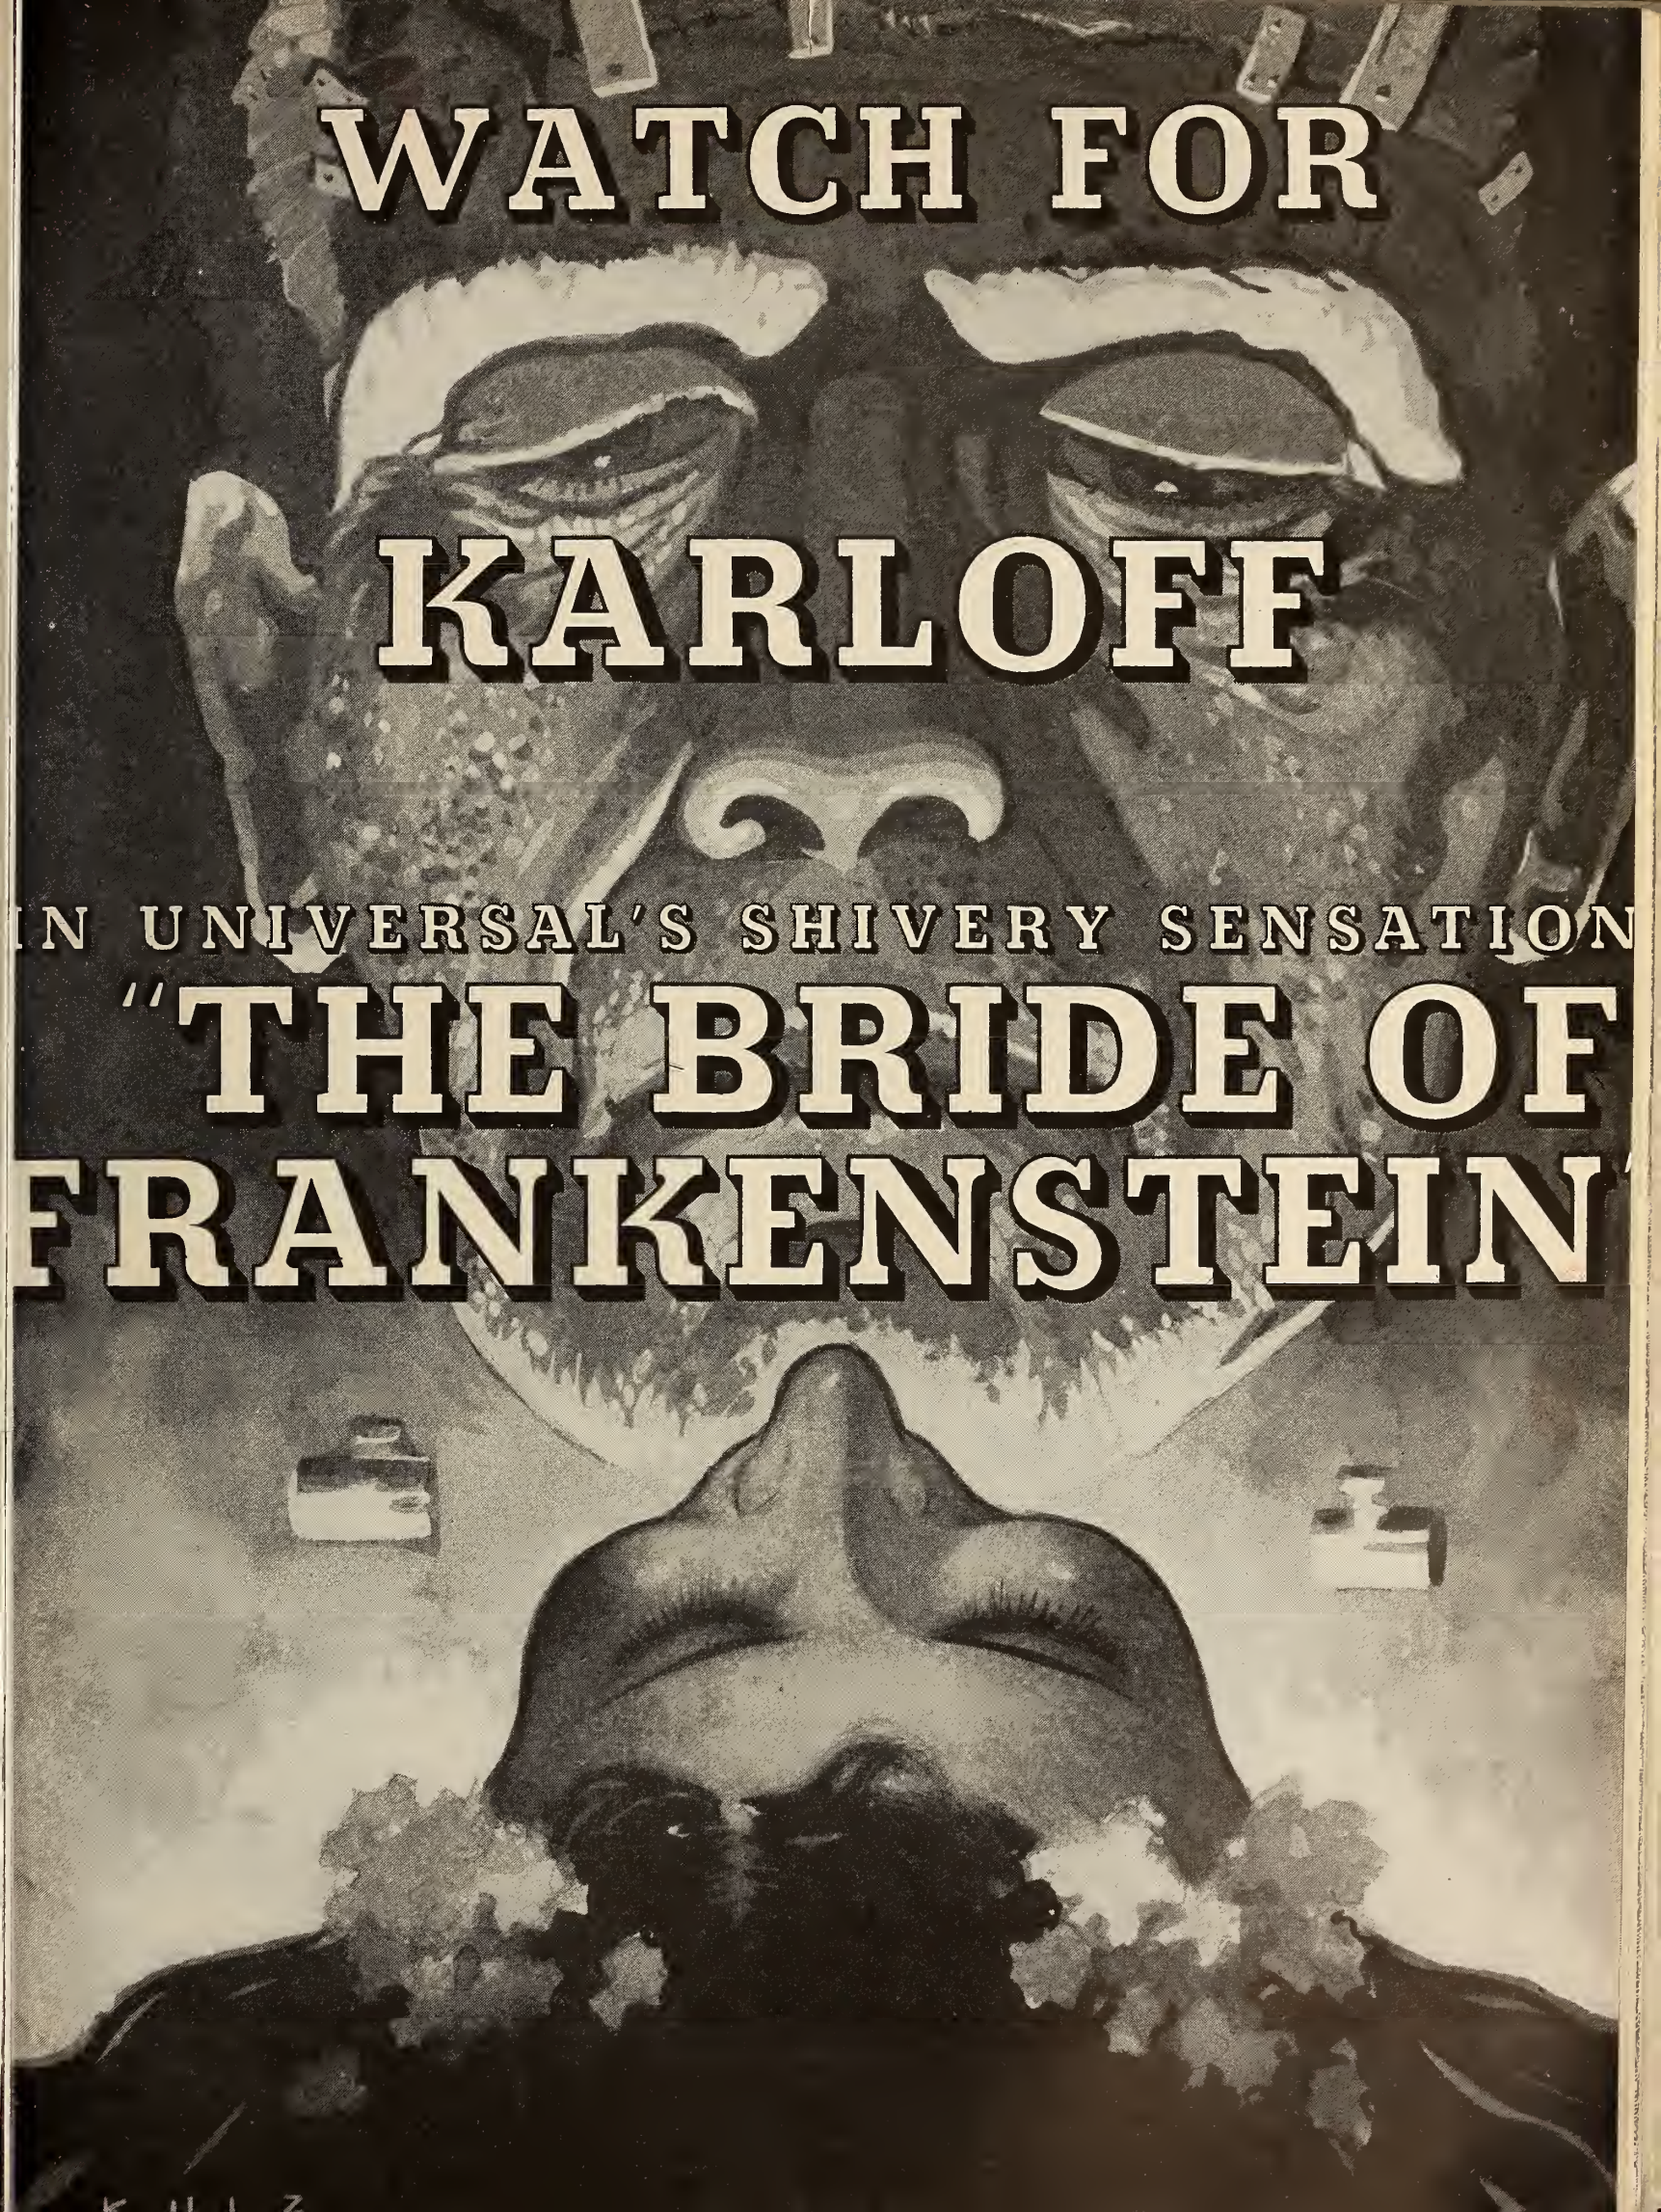
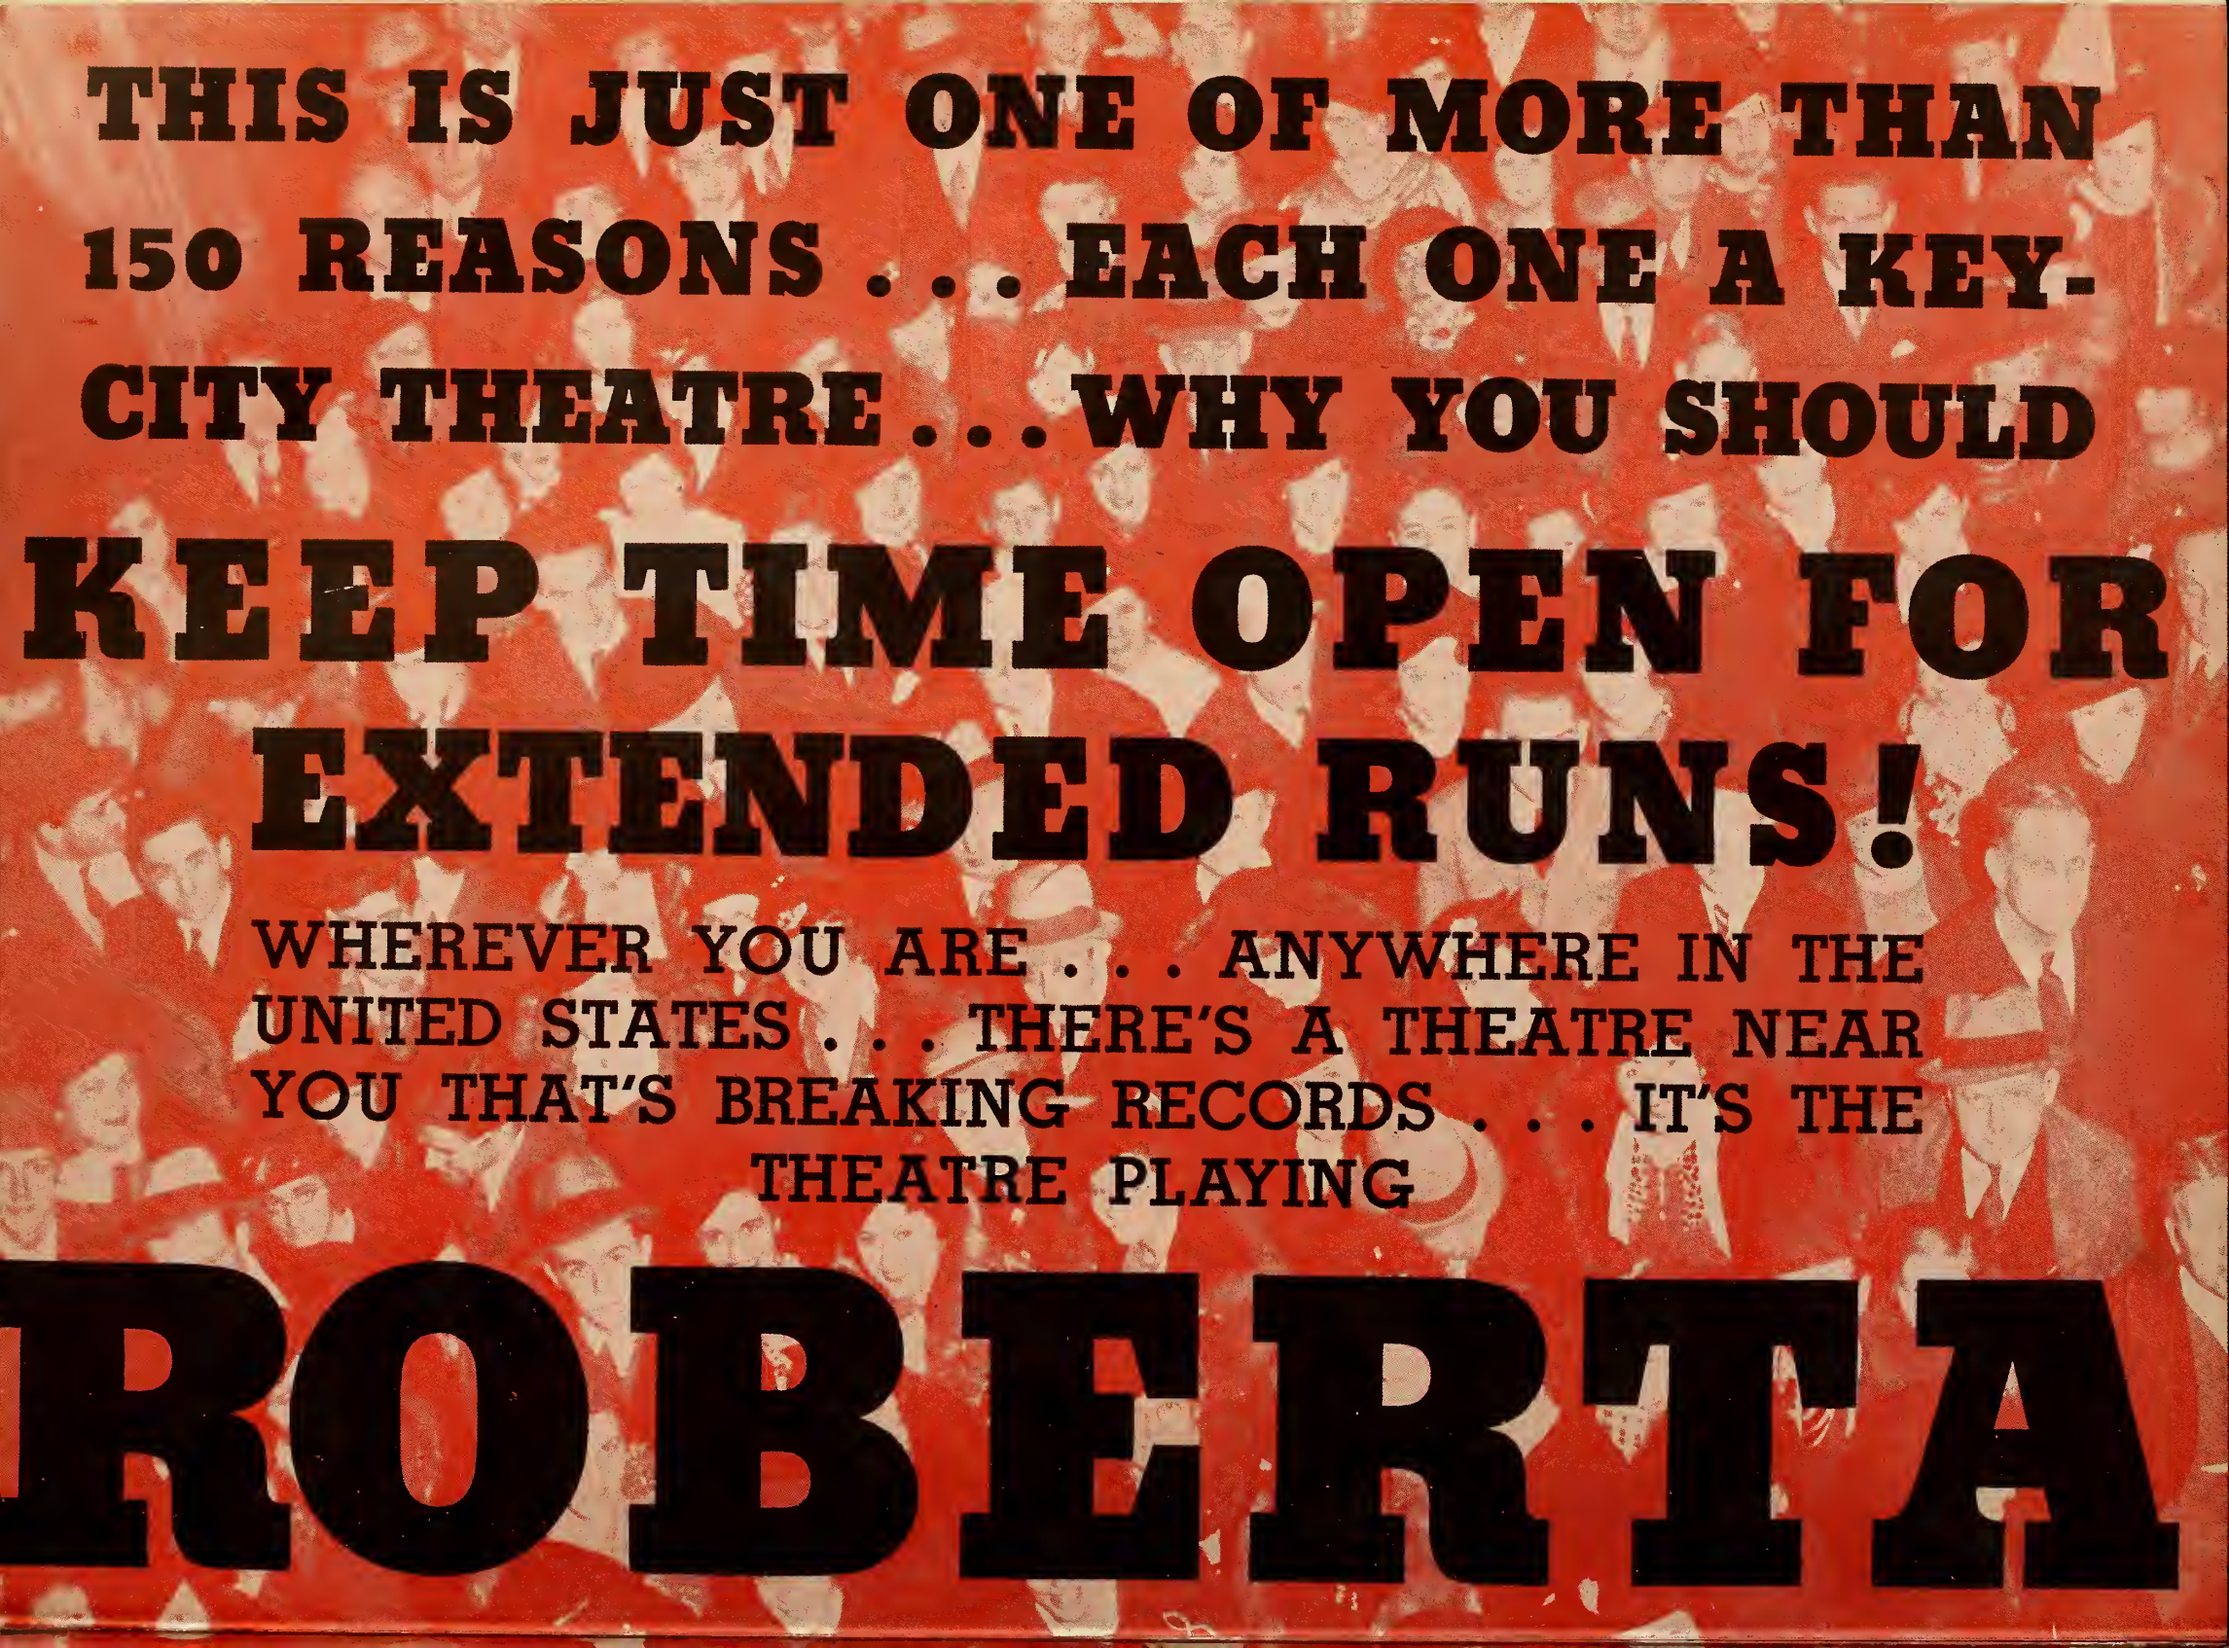
$25,157,000 of Paramount bonds outstanding. There is required for confirmation of the plan the assent of approximately $16,600,000 of bonds. Thus the deposit of the Fortington group's bond holdings with the Vanderlip committee could assure the latter of the required amount of representation, whereas a failure to deposit might present an insurmountable obstacle to the committee's attaining the necessary two-thirds representation.

The Fortington group's stand is explained by a spokesman as a precautionary one calculated to protect its nominees for the board from being displaced. Factions within the group have been particularly active in the acquisition of Paramount securities in the open market during the past few months. The group, likewise, opened discussions some time ago with Paramount bank creditors for acquisition of the latters' nearly $14,000,000 of claims, but with the recent return from Florida of H. A. Fortington the discussions were closed and, it is now understood, may not be reopened.

Group's Nominees for Board



The group's nominees for the board include Fortington, Stephen Callaghan, John D. Hertz, Floyd B. Odlum and Charles E. Richardson. Withholding of the bond deposits to assure the election of these nominees may be accomplished without causing a delay in confirmation of the reorganization plan. The bonds may be deposited under the plan as soon as the court has formally approved the board make-up as outlined in the plan. Thereafter, no change in the proposed board could be made without cause and court authorization.



With its strategic position in the reorganization practically established, the Fortington group is also expected to have an important voice in the election of officers of the new company. While indications continue to point to Adolph Zukor as president, new sentiment linking N. L. Nathanson's name with that office is appearing in creditor circles. Definite indications also are in evidence that an executive post, probably that of vice president in charge of finance, will be created for Eugene Leake, one of the Paramount trustees.

Report L. A. Plan To Start March 31

LOS ANGELES, March 12.—Despite several phases of the plan which are being investigated by John C. Flinn, who came on from New York for the purpose, the Los Angeles schedule will be put into effect on March 31, it is learned.

The few points contested by F.W.C. representatives in New York last Thursday do not materially affect the schedule, but may precipitate later changes. Flinn plans to leave for the east Sunday by plane and report back to Campi on his findings at the next session of the tribunal.

and other forms of "mental or physical" endurance contests were banned. Exhibitors in the larger centers favored the ban.

Proposals defeated in one way or another included: a 10 per cent tax on theatre grosses; another for four per cent; a bill banning Sunday shows, which would have tightened the closing law now on the statute books; a bill repealing the Sunday closing law, which was not wanted at this time by the industry; an anti-discrimination measure which would have prohibited the sale of film at different prices; a chain store bill which would have saddled a heavy tax on theatre circuits. Several minor measures which would have hit exhibitors along with other businesses were killed in committee.

The House passed a bill preventing corporations from making consolidated returns for income tax purposes, in conformance with the new Federal laws, but the Senate knocked it out. If passed, Fox Midwest and other circuits having more than one subsidiary in the state would have had to pay a higher tax.

Several sales tax bills and a measure to hike the income tax were the subject of considerable debate, but were allowed to expire and will be revived at a special session called within two months to raise revenue for social security legislation to be enacted at that time, following adjournment of Congress.

Addressing the Variety Club here, Representative Frank McFarland of Topeka declared theatres can expect to be included in a consumers' sales tax which is almost certain to pass the special session. He urged the industry to cooperate in suggesting a plan that would be least burdensome.

Pennsylvania Acts On Admissions Tax

HARRISBURG, March 12.—The first film measure to come out of committee of the Pennsylvania Legislature was that placing a 10 per cent tax on admissions. The bill was favorably reported last night by the House Ways and Means Committee, passed its first reading today and will probably pass the second and final readings in the House before the end of the week.

The measure is one of Governor Earle's administration revenue measures estimated to raise $6,000,000 in two years.

Bost Tooth Paste is offering cash prizes to exhibitors and theatre managers for the best photographs of window or lobby displays on the Frankie Darro Club-Bost tie-up. Bost, in addition, is distributing over 3,000 prizes to Frankie Darro Club members through the houses operating the clubs, and a grand prize of a trip to Hollywood for two.

This campaign is backed by national advertising and a coast-to-coast radio broadcast featuring Edwin C. Hill.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"George White's 1935 Scandals"

(Fox)

SAN DIEGO, March 12.—George White sat in the Fox California here and heard an audience applaud his "1935 Scandals" because he has turned out a spectacular musical comedy with the right mixture of tuneful songs and real, sure-fire comedy.

Equally as lavish as the 1934 edition, the new "Scandals" has just as many pertty girls doing figure eights, but White has spelled out box-office when he gave the laugh-makers, Cliff Edwards and Ned Sparks, the run of the show. Edwards' clowning as he sang "I Was Born Too Late" is one of the best comedy sequences in years.

The story starts with White's stop-off in a Georgia jerkwater town to witness a rival "White's Scandals." Delighted with the talent shown by Alice Faye, he offers her a Broadway spot, but she wants her boy-friend, James Dunn, in on the deal. White finally agrees when Miss Faye's aunt, once in show business herself, entreats. He also takes back the small-town "Scandals" producer, played by Sparks, and his side-kick, Edwards. The small-towners wow Broawday audiences, but Miss Faye and Dunn drift apart and become infatuated with two of White's jealous cast-off stars. Dunn falls for Eleanor Powell, whose sensational tap dancing is one of the picture's high spots. The yarn winds up as White fires Miss Faye and Dunn, but brings them back together as stars when the Georgia aunt travels to New York to see her proteges in the big-time.

Besides the leads, good performances are turned in by Lyda Roberti, Benny Rubin, Arline Judge, Charles Richman and others.

Plenty of exploitation points: well-known stars, clever comedians, a chorus of 200 including 30 beauty contest winners and songs everybody will hum. This one should appeal to all ages.

Looking 'Em Over

"La Crise Est Finie"

(European Films)

Pleasant entertainment is this gay musical film, produced in France by Nero Films. It is tuneful fun done in the manner of Rene Clair. Peopling it is as charming a troupe of performers as one can wish for. The men will find the chorus gals quite an eyeful.

"La Crise Est Finie" ("The Depression Is Over") develops its story with a strong sense of irony. A theatrical troupe finds itself up against it when the backer of the show dismisses the company after refusing to pay off. With high hopes but with no definite plans, the performers head in a body for Paris where they induce the caretaker of a darkened theatre to let them live in the house and use it as a rehearsal hall.

They hit upon the idea of putting on a show of their own. The remainder of the film details the difficulties that beset their venture. When everything seems lost luck turns their way and the film ends upon a note of supreme elation.

The production boasts a number of attractive song numbers. One of them, bearing the title of the film, serves as the theme tune of "La Crise Est Finie." Jean Lenoir is responsible for the music.

Albert Prejean, Danielle Darrieux, Suzanne Dehelly, Regine Bary, Rene Lestelly and Milly Mathis are the most prominent in the cast. The direction is by Robert Siodmak.

There are plenty of English subtitles.

No production code seal. Running time, 80 minutes. "G."

"In a Monastery Garden"

(R. & S. Corp.)

Advertised as a "special Lenten presentation," it is doubtful whether or not this Julius Hagen production from London's Twickenham studio is all of that in the true sense of the words. Granted that it does capably handle a delicate religious theme, the first part of the film concerns itself with "men, maids and mistresses," to such an extent that it is strictly sophisticated fare, particularly for those understanding French.

The story is built around John Stuart, a brilliant young musician,

Universal by totally irresponsible people who are a part of the maniac fringe of the motion picture business.

"They cook up mad dreams and print them as facts.

"If their lies could have wrecked Universal, this company would have been a battered hulk many years ago—for I cannot recall one single year in the past quarter of a century in which some fake sale of Universal has failed to appear in print.

"I have never sought to send any of these fakers to jail for criminal libel because, to tell the truth, their libels have hurt them more than they have hurt Universal.

"In fact it is an amazing thing that in spite of all the circumstantial lies which have been published over a long period of time, the trade has maintained its confidence in Universal without the flicker of an eyelid!

"Stories which have been printed about Universal would ruin more than one company, but they have never ruined Universal.

"Even the Universal staff, which you might think would be disturbed by stories of sales and mergers, has remained on the job day in and day out.

"I have always been mushy enough to believe that sentiment cuts a lot of ice in this business or any other. I have always believed that the Universal staff and the Universal customers have had the same sentimental attachment for Universal that Universal has had for them. Time and experience have justified my belief.

"So—Universal is still here. It is still in the same hands. It has had its good years and its bad, but its average has been pretty good. It has never harmed anyone. It has helped thousands.

"It has not made me rich in dollars but it has made me rich in friendships and in confidence and in all the things which endure."

20th Birthday Nears

HOLLYWOOD, March 12.—On Friday, Universal City will observe its 20th birthday. Opened with a golden key in 1915 by Carl Laemmle, the plant is still under the same management.

Laemmle will be central figure in a celebration planned on that day.

Jan. 3, 1935, increased 18 per cent over the same period of the preceding year.

Despite a reduction in admission prices, gross receipts also increased. In the 38-week period of the trusteeship from June 15, 1934, through March 7, 1935, the theatre earned a net operating profit of $120,169.56 after taxes, lobby rent, interest on receiver's certificates and physical improvements were deducted, but, however, before interest on funded indebtedness, an increase of $11,784.34 over the same weeks of 1933-34 when the net operating profit was $8,385.22.

Anti-Industry Bills Beaten in Missouri

The same recommendation was given a bill prohibiting standing room, sponsored by Representative Brady. Both types of legislation bob up perennially.

Rally Against Censor Bill

KANSAS CITY, March 12.—Industry forces here and in St. Louis today rallied against the Shea bill creating state censorship in Missouri following recommendation of the measure by the Senate criminal jurisprudence committee, which proposed six amendments. Exhibitors are bombarding the state capitol with protests since censorship is held unnecessary in Missouri and a burden to the industry of $100,000 yearly.

It is charged here that Senator Shea is grinding a private ax and that he introduced the measure at the behest of certain St. Louis theatre interests involved in litigation with major distributors as a means of punishing film companies.

Police Head Praises Industry's Attitude

HOLLYWOOD, March 12.—Peter J. Siccardi, president of the International Association of Chiefs of Police who is here for conferences and surveys with producers concerning their treatment of crime pictures, has expressed, on behalf of his association, its appreciation of the manner in which the industry has cooperated in efforts to fight crime.

"My report to my association," Siccardi said, "will be that the industry is conscientiously and painstakingly studying each crime story with the view of discouraging crime. The intent and present practice of the Production Code Administration is to make sure that the police officer is presented in his proper light. As president, I thank the industry both for its attitude and thorough spirit of cooperation in carrying on the work of depicting word pictures that crime does not pay."

who renounces the world because of the treatment he received from it. Accused of a murder he didn't commit, robbed of the girl he loves and his own music by his brother, he chooses a cloistered haven rather than face the world.

The character portrayals are sketched with extremely broad strokes and American audiences will probably find it hard to understand the English accents and the French which are interspersed in spots. Besides Stuart, others in the film are Hugh Williams, Gino Malo, Joan Maude and Dino Galvani. The latter created snickers in a local audience yesterday by the way he leered, glared and smirked through every scene until finally killed.

The direction of Maurice Elvey depends more on dialogue than anything else for effects. The photography is good on the whole.

"Devil Dogs" Tops Dull Lincoln Week

LINCOLN, March 12.—A blizzard hit the street shortly after the week started and crippled theatres. However, "Devil Dogs of the Air" was still in the money and went over average by $100 with a $3,200 tally at the Stuart. This was almost solely on the strength of the first two days. The Lincoln sagged to an average run of $2,200 on "One More Spring." Perhaps the irony of the outside winter had a lot to do with it.

"Ready for Love" and a stage show followed by "The President Vanishes" on a split at the Orpheum was good for $2,700, about $400 to the good. At the Varsity the second week of "Whole Town's Talking" dwindled $600 below the normal take with $900.

Estimated takings for the 4 first run spots, $9,000. Average is $9,100.

Estimated takings:

Week Ending March 7:

"ONE MORE SPRING" (Fox)

LINCOLN—(1,600), 10c-25c, 7 days. Gross: $2,200. (Average, $2,200)

"THE WHOLE TOWN'S TALKING" (Col.)

being taken up in other parts of the Dominion.

In an open letter to managers, Rev. C. F. Curran, director of Catholic Action in the Archdiocese of Halifax, requested them to decide on uniform action in regard to closing on Good Friday. Otherwise, he asserted, it would be necessary to institute a campaign to dissuade Christians from "desecrating the sacred day."

"Among the means very likely to be adopted," he declared, "will be advising people to keep away during Easter week from those theatres which make light of the Christian endeavor to sanctify the anniversary of the Saviour's death."

Announcement has already been made that theatres in Hull, Quebec, and in other centres of the Province of Quebec, will be closed on the afternoon of Good Friday, but will open for evening performances.

Schenck Plan Would Retain Met Operators

New Pact for Skouras, Randforce in View

New long term operating contracts for Skouras and Randforce are provided in the Fox Theatres-Joseph M. Schenck plan of reorganization for Fox Metropolitan Playhouses, it was learned yesterday.

The original plan called for operating agreements which would be cancellable after May 1, 1936, in the event of an acceptable purchase offer being received by the bondholders. The final plan, which may be made public tomorrow when its sponsors will ask Federal Judge Julian W. Mack to set a date for a creditors' hearing on the plan, is not expected to meet with any serious opposition. Its provision for 75 cents on the $1 for the $12,460,700 of bondholders' claims, 20

Mo. Censor Bill Gains

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., March 13.—The criminal jurisprudence committee of the Senate today reported favorably on the censorship bill of Senator John P. Shea of St. Louis, with only a few minor amendments reducing the salaries of the censors and their employes. One amendment would cut the censors' salaries from $4,000 to $2,500 a year each.

Picketing Spreads Here

Picketing in the local area is spreading and circuit houses are now being visited by the sandwich men. Loew's State yesterday had two men with Allied M. P. Operators' signs picketing the house, while A. F. L. men continue to march up and down in front of the Mayfair and Astor.

GEORGE HAIGHT'S deal with SAMUEL GOLDWYN does not mean that the former will entirely drop his legitimate stage activities. Not at all. He'll be back on Broadway in the fall when HERMAN SHUMLIN puts on "Sweet Mystery of Life."

MIKE ROSENBERG canceled his plans yesterday to leave for the coast at the last minute. He will get away some time next week. CHARLES SKOURAS, CHARLES BUCKLEY and EDWARD ZABEL may depart for the west over the week-end.

CAPTAIN RICHARD NORTON and JACK BUCHANAN, who arrived here from London a day or two ago, were in the audience at "Anything Goes" last night. BUCHANAN will probably do the BILL GAXTON role in the London production.

Quip of the Day

Ali Gaga nominates to the Nobel Peace Commission for the Peace Prize of 1934 the name of Ruby Laffoon, governor of Kentucky, who, by appointing so many colonels, has made it virtually impossible to recruit an army of privates in America.

WILLIAM A. JOHNSTON and JOHNNY HINES have sold their story, "The Butler," to Columbia. The same company has also bought "Theodora Goes Wild" from MARY MCCARTHY.

J. J. MCCARTHY, who is due in from the coast Saturday, will lead the M. P. P. D. A. delegation now quartered on the 15th floor up to the new offices on the 22nd floor next week. Nearer to headquarters.

TOM PETTEY, new M. P. P. D. A. acquisition from newspaperdom, is learning the ropes in the Advertising Advisory Council and not expecting any immediate trip to Hollywood.

MANNY SILVERSTONE, American representative of London Films, leaves tomorrow for Toronto for the opening of "The Scarlet Pimpernel" there.

WILL H. HAYS resplendent in gray fedora with pulled down brim and yellow yarn gloves on the Avenoo yesterday.

HUGH HERBERT, who is here on a vacation, will make a personal appearance at the Strand tonight after viewing "Gold Diggers of 1935."

GEORGE ARLISS is spending little time here. He arrived yesterday and will leave on the Olympic tomorrow night.

SIDNEY KENT terminates his usual Florida vacation on Monday when he returns to his desk at Fox.

AL JOLSON and RUBY KEELER will arrive in town in about two weeks for a long vacation here.

MILTON DOUGLAS, who opened at the Versailles Tuesday night, is set for a series of shorts for Warners.

HUNT STROMBERG, W. S. VAN DYKE, FRANCES GOODRICH and ALBERT HACKETT, all of whom have played prominent parts in turning out "Naughty Marietta," leave for Hollywood after the picture opens at the Capitol on March 22.

GILBERT JOSEPHSON for the third time has joined Consolidated Amusements as field supervisor of the circuit's 20 houses. He was last at the Monroe, where LOU GOLDFARB has succeeded him.

CHARLES MACDONALD has a swell yarn on HUEY LONG which you should hear. It has to be cleaned up from top to bottom to make these columns, however.

PHIL REISMAN sails Saturday on the Conte de Savoia. He was scheduled to leave last week for Paris and Italy, but delayed his departure a week.

BERNARD ROSE, treasurer of Projection Optics Co. of Rochester, was in town yesterday and left last night for Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington.

HENRY HULL, having obtained a year's absence from Universal, will resume his Jeeter role in a road tour of "Tobacco Road."

JOHN BARRYMORE is playing with the idea of producing a picture in India and based on a play by TAGORE, Indian poet.

EUGENE PICKER can't stand anyone near him smoking a pipe. That's a warning to beware. He doesn't mind cheroot puffers.

ROBERT WOLFF and EDWARD RUGOFF plan to leave for Key West, Fla., on April 5, to test their prowess as fishermen.

NELL and LYNN FARNOL expect to move into their house by the end of the month if decorators, et al, come through on schedule.

BERNIE MILLS, Monogram Albany franchise holder, is in town. JIM ALEXANDER, Pittsburgh representative, has returned to the Smoky City.

HARRY ASCHER, Majestic Boston franchise holder, was in town yesterday conferring with HERMAN GLUCKMAN and E. H. GOLDSTEIN.

BORIS MORROS' anticipation now is that he will join the Paramount studio in April.

CHARLES STERN, an assistant to AL LICHTMAN, is back in Philadelphia again.

KARL BRENKERT arrived from Boston yesterday morning and left last night for Detroit.

Crooker to Do Tour For Einfeld's Plan

S. Charles Einfeld, in charge of Warner advertising and publicity, is putting into action the suggestions he outlined at the M.P.T.O.A. convention in New Orleans for exhibitor to form closer contacts with their local newspaper editors. In line with this idea, Einfeld is sending Herb Crooker, the company's publicity director, on an extensive tour for the purpose of forming closer alliances between exhibitors and local publishers.

Crooker leaves Sunday night and will stop at Boston, Rochester, Syracuse, Albany, Buffalo, Detroit, Chicago, Omaha, Pittsburgh, Baltimore, Washington and Atlanta. He will be gone about three weeks.

Pick Eastman Directors

Herman C. Sievers, vice-president in charge of sales and advertising, and Perley S. Wilcox, president of the company's subsidiary Tennessee Eastman Corp., have been elected directors of the Eastman Kodak Co. to fill the vacancies created by the deaths of Lewis B. Jones and Rudolph Speth.

The board also elected M. B. Folsom treasurer of the company and Cornelius J. Van Niel general comptroller.

Lightman Will Remodel

MEMPHIS, March 13.—The Palace, former Loew house recently acquired by M. A. Lightman, will be closed during the summer for remodeling at a cost of $25,000, the exhibitor said today following a conference with Y. Frank Freeman of Paramount Publix, which will be a partner in the operation. Freeman stopped here on his way to New York from New Orleans. The name will be changed.

Marks Plans Shorts

CHICAGO, March 13.—Meyer S. Marks, who, with his brother, built the Marbro and Granada in competition with B. & K. and later sold the houses to that circuit, declares he will enter the short subject field using radio personalities and asserts "The Rise of the Goldbergs" will be the first. He plans to make the series in the east.

Profit Up $111,784.34

The $120,169.56 net operating profit of the Roxy in the 38-week period of the trusteeship from June 15, 1934, through March 7, 1935, represented an increase of $111,784.34 over the same weeks of 1933-34, not $11,784.34, as appeared in yesterday's MOTION PICTURE DAILY as result of a typographical error.

Second Release Set

HOLLYWOOD, March 13.—Decision to release "Oil for the Lamps of China" as the second Cosmopolitan was reached as the result of a huddle between Harry M. and Jack L. Warner and Edgar B. Hatrick. The picture has 10 more shooting days to go. All hands unite in declaring their enthusiasm.

legitimate theatre Code Authority sessions, reporting to the compliance director after meetings.

Farnsworth was in town yesterday attending the meeting of the Legitimate Theatre Code Authority, but left town before he could be reached for a statement.

He was born in New Jersey about 30 years ago and attended the University of Virginia. He also studied law for several years, but has never taken the bar examination. About six months ago he married the secretary of an NRA official in Washington and now makes his home in the capital.

Fishing is Farnsworth's chief hobby, although he doesn't get much opportunity to pursue the sport on his present job. He joined the NRA during the latter part of the summer of 1933 as a member of the legal committee of the N. I. R. A. Shortly after he was appointed deputy administrator of all amusement codes, under Rosenblatt.

Farnsworth also has had a short experience with show business, having produced one play some time ago.

American industry is "overwhelmingly" in favor of the continuance of codes, he said in answer to criticism from Senator Borah of Idaho, and asserted he could bring "battalions" of business men before the committee to support the code organization.

Some of the monopoly charges, Richberg told the committee, arise from patent monopolies which cannot be corrected by enforcement of the anti-trust laws, this being particularly true in the electrical industries.

Members of the investigating group opposed to the NRA asserted that Richberg had not succeeded in changing their opinions, Senator King of Utah declaring that he had not made a showing justifying maintenance of the codes.

Alperson, Powers in L. A. for Clearance

Los Angeles, March 13.—Edward Alperson and William T. Powers are here from New York on the Los Angeles clearance schedule. Both Fox West Coast representatives appeared before Campi last Thursday to protest certain phases of the schedule and are now on the grounds. Looking into the 11 situations involved.

John C. Flinn is here from New York investigating F. W. C. objections. The local board met today and discussed the issues. Powers, Alperson and Flinn plan to plane back to New York Sunday.

David Weinstock, Harry Brandt's partner in New Jersey, brought up the M-G-M issue during a general discussion of conditions in this territory.

College Ordered to Limit Its Showings

Charlotte, March 13.—Following complaints of Rock Hill, S. C., theatres, Winthrop College has been ordered by the grievance board here to stop admitting the public to its film showings.

Theatre men protested that students are not allowed to attend theatres in the town and that the admission of persons outside the college to its showings constituted unfair competition.

Shea Withdraws Appeal

Mort Shea, operating the Weller, Zanesville, O., yesterday withdrew his appeal from the Cleveland grievance board's overbuying decision in which he was ordered to give the Zanesville Theatre Co., operating the Liberty, Quimby, Grand and Imperial, that city, 24 pictures of his allotment.

The appeal was on the Campi calendar yesterday, but was taken off at the last minute when the withdrawal came through.

Deny N. H. Clearance

Boston, March 13.—The clearance and zoning board has held that Claremont, N. H., and Windsor, Vt., are not competitive and that, therefore, the former shall have no clearance over the latter. The case was brought by the Strand in Windsor against the Latchis and M-G-M.

Begorra!

Boston, March 13. — St. Patrick's Day is a big day here. The Irish—and there are many of them—have parades, dinners and what not. This accounts for the St. Patrick's Day committee of the Friars' Club, which reads: Abe Weiner, Jack Goldstein, Eddie Ansin, Louis M. Boas, Ed Stoneman, John Dervin and J. M. McGann.

Dervin and McGann wear green ties that day. Stoneman may.

plane immediately, arriving here Saturday.

Paramount and Warners made arrangements with the Attorney General's office to enter pleadings for George Schaefer, Harry Warner, Herman Starr and Abel Cary Thomas, who were indicted with Depinet, at the time the case goes to trial. The only object of the arrangement is to avoid the necessity of those indicted making a trip to St. Louis at this time.

Former Senator Reed of Missouri will appear as counsel for Warners at the trial. Paramount has retained William R. Gentry and Samuel W. Fordyce, both of St. Louis, as counsel.

Tentative Trial Date April 2

St. Louis, March 13.—Trial of the defendants in the St. Louis anti-trust action has been tentatively set for April 2. By stipulation of counsel arraignment of the defendants has been deferred to the actual date of the trial in Federal court.

Due to a crowded docket and the fact that one judge is handling two divisions, it is very doubtful the case can be heard in April.

Allied Men Divide Iowa Into 32 Units

Des Moines, March 13.—Organization of Iowa into 32 districts, with a chairman and a committee for each, was effected today at the closing session of the mid-year convention of Allied Theatre Owners of Iowa and Nebraska at the Hotel Savery here.

President Leo F. Wolcott told the meeting the publication of box-office figures by the trade press was partially responsible for unfair tax measures. He also expressed opposition to designated playdates and to the competition offered tax-paying theatres by tax-free places of amusement.

The appointment of a successor to Lester Martin, who recently retired as secretary, was postponed to the next meeting.

A dance closed the convention, with music supplied by Jan Garber.

Schenck Plan Would Retain Met Operators

cents of which will be in cash and 55 cents in new bonds, has dispelled virtually all of the competitive bidding. Saul E. Rogers, attorney, is the only principal remaining in the field who is still regarded as likely to submit an alternative plan or offer.

The Fox Theatres-Schenck plan, however, provides for a reorganization of Fox Met rather than a foreclosure and sale. The large equity in the going company reserved for the bondholders under the plan has virtually assured it the all-important support of the bondholders' committee, which has on deposit more than 80 per cent of the principal amount of bonds outstanding.

Federal reorganization statutes require the assent of only two-thirds of the bondholders and creditors, together with a majority of the stockholders, for confirmation of a reorganization plan. Fox Theatres has a claim of $5,000,000 against Fox Met as an unsecured creditor, which represents about 85 per cent of all unsecured creditors' claims on file, and also owns all of the common stock of Fox Met. Thus, with the support of the bondholders' committee, the Fox Theatres-Schenck plan would be virtually unopposed.

The plan involves a cash outlay of approximately $1,900,000 which will be derived from the sale of the stock of reorganized Fox Met to Schenck and Fox Theatres. Schenck would become president of the new company. The new bond issue will be approximately $7,500,000, principal amount, and will be held by the present bondholders. Provisions are made in the plan for a sinking fund dependent on earnings and for a graduating interest rate on the bonds.

Paramount Theatre Bldg., Los Angeles, to be filed in the Federal district court for Southern California, was granted yesterday in an order signed by Federal Judge Alfred C. Coxe.

The reorganization plan will provide for the issuance of a new $2,750,000 of bonds to replace those now outstanding, bearing the same rate of interest as the old and secured by the studio and building. A new lease on the studio to 1942 is proposed at an aggregate rental of $1,267,500 for the seven years, and on the theatre building for a similar period at an aggregate rental of $845,000.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Hold 'Em, Yale"

(Charles R. Rogers-Paramount)

HOLLYWOOD, March 13.—Adapted from a Damon Runyon story, this one deals with a girl who's nuts about anything in uniform but who, unfortunately, picks the wrong uniform. Well directed and acted, it is a hilarious comedy aimed at neighborhood clientele.

Patricia Ellis is the uniform-conscious girl who falls for Cesar Romero, a member of a gangster quintet. Miss Ellis' dad (George Barbier) has just paid off on a former love affair and is promoting the girl's marriage to Larry Crabbe when Romero moves in.

Miss Ellis surprises Romero and his fellow-gangsters (William Frawley, George E. Stone, Andy Devine and Warren Hymer) at an apartment during a ticket-scalping confab, stepping in bag and baggage. Romero fixes things with the gangsters by telling them that through her he will pay back $400 he owes them. Romero skips town, and then the comedy begins.

The story hits a laugh peak when Miss Ellis starts educating the gangsters in home economics and table etiquette. The climax features the gangsters' efforts to get rid of her, finally marrying her off to Crabbe, a football dizzy who somehow succeeds in being the hero of the Yale-Harvard game.

Sidney Lanfield's direction is timed for comedy tempo. Frawley's performance is the film's high spot. Capable performances are given by Miss Ellis, Stone, Devine, Hymer and Barbier. Paul Gerard Smith and Eddie Welch penned a creditable screen play.

This one, while not for the intelligentsia, should pull as good average fare.

Production Code Seal No. 628. Running time, 82 minutes. "G."

"Go Into Your Dance"

(Warners)

HOLLYWOOD, March 13.—This picture is a lavishly mounted musical interspersed with comedy, melodrama and romance before a background of many novel settings, beautiful girls and well-trained male dancing ensembles. It gives Ruby Keeler ample opportunities for displaying her terpsichorean art while Al Jolson counterbalances with the delivery of several catchy songs composed by Dubin and Warren. Bobby Connelly's handling of the big production numbers is eye-filling and Archie Mayo's direction as a whole is ably handled, although Patsy Kelly's comedy is subdued.

The story is typical Jolsonesque, portraying him as a nonchalant actor who gets in bad with the producers and becomes blackballed from Broadway. His sister, Glenda Farrell, trails him to California, making it possible for him to stage a comeback by promoting a bankroll to produce his own show. She also takes over a theatre and replaces the seats with tables and puts over a night club on a scale exceeding the imagination of the most fantastic dreamer. Jolson, Miss Keeler and Miss Farrell dominate, bolstered by the clever performances of Miss Kelly, Sharon Lynne, Barton McLane, Gordon Westcott, William Davidson, Joyce Compton and others. For audiences fond of musicals with a story this should be entertaining and amusing.

Production Code Seal No. 665. Running time, 90 minutes. "G."

Schools Get Film Book

NEW ORLEANS, March 13.—Edgar Dale's "Motion Picture Appreciation" gets a break in the public schools here through the efforts of Mrs. A. S. Tucker, Better Films Committee president. Mrs. Tucker, who has been urging motion picture appreciation on the youth of the town, recently held several conferences with State Superintendent of Education Harris. At their conclusion Harris notified school heads that Dale's book would be accepted as one of the "required" reading books for students.

opening sometime in May. The second is being put up by James Coston, partner of Warners in Chicago, and is slated to be completed about the middle of June.

Long term leases on both houses have already been signed, but policies have not been set.

Donates Bowling Prize

Nat Weltz, of the Weltz Ad Service, has donated a 24-inch silver trophy to the winning team in the M.P. Bowling League, which will shortly wind up its season.

Among the teams battling for the prize are United Artists, RKO, Columbia, Fox, Warner, M-G-M, Paramount and Consolidated.

Short Subjects

"South Seasickness"

(Radio)

Edgar Kennedy rubs his bald head, waves his arms, makes rash promises and screams at Florence Lake, Dot Farley and Jack Rice just as he did in previous numbers of this series, but the comedy results here fall short of the mark set by his earlier efforts. In this one he wants to run away to the South Seas, but is kept at home, finally to be reconciled with his wife, Miss Lake, when she tells him she is going to become a mother.

Kennedy fans will get a few laughs out of this film. Production Code Seal, No. 564. Running time, 20½ mins. "G."

"Japanese Lanterns"

(Van Beuren-Radio)

A color cartoon that tells the story of a Japanese family engaged in the making of colored lanterns. Everything is going along fine until a storm comes up and carries away all the newly made lanterns. The two children of the family try to save them and are wafted aloft also, but are saved, along with their handiwork, by a stork.

The coloring in the film is good, and the story interesting. It should please audiences. Production Code Seal, No. 0317. Running time, 9 mins. "G."

"Father Knows Best"

(Universal)

This short is really funny, particularly because of the antics of Sterling Holloway, assisted by Phyllis Fraser, Virginia Hammond and Franklin Pangborn.

Holloway's girl friend, because of his backwardness, is forced to take the initiative and ask him to marry her. She speaks to his family, is refused and the couple finally elope. All in all, it's grand fun.

A local audience got plenty of laughs. Production Code Seal, No. 569. Running time, 12 minutes. "G".

"Radio Songs"

(Master Arts)

Featuring organist Lew White, this short will have particular appeal to those that like music. It is a medley of "rain songs" against a background of real and cartoon figures.

The songs played include, "Singing in the Rain," "I Get the Blues When It Rains," "Chasing Rainbows" and "Rain."

Satisfactory. Reviewed without production code seal. Running time, 5 minutes. "G".

"Topnotchers"

(Radio)

This short is a presentation of the various topnotchers in the world of sport, past and present, and as the reel unfolds a description of the athletes is supplied by the Easy Aces of radio fame, with Goodman Ace supplying statistical data on the various champions and Jane Ace offering her own opinion for comedy effect.

Mildly entertaining. Production Code Seal, No. 0335. Running time, 11 mins. "G."

Americans Engaged By Mexican Studio

By JAMES LOCKHART

MEXICO CITY, March 13.—Cinematografica Mexicana, S. A., one of the larger Mexican producers, has two American technicians and a Mexican actor who has played in several Hollywood made pictures, on its staff for the first Mexican folklore story to be made with sound. The Americans are Lauron Draper, cameraman, who worked for M-G-M for several years in Hollywood and France, and Robert Quigley, formerly with the art departments of M-G-M, Radio, Monogram and Universal, who is handling the art work of this production, "Janitzio."

The Mexican is Carlos Navarro, who played in "The Big House," "Trial of Mary Dugan" and "The Kid from Spain."

Variety Club Chatter

Cincinnati

CINCINNATI, March 13. — Local barkers were given an eye and earfull at the Saturday night shindig when members of the LARRY RICH "Broadway Nights" company, playing the local Shubert, strutted their stuff, and "a good time was had by all."

HERMAN BERNFELD, film editor of the Enquirer, is the proud father of a baby girl. It's his first.

ROY PATTERSON, skipper of the Gordon, at Middletown, O., is the latest recruit on a non-resident basis.

NOAH SCHECTER, who is one up on most of the local barkers by spending the winter in Florida, is the champion tall tale-teller. SCHECTER, with a party of three friends, claims to have caught 400 pounds of fish in three hours, including 41 kingfish (not the Louisiana variety), two dolphins and two bonitas. He sends a photograph as evidence.

Detroit

DETROIT, March 13.—MAURICE CAPLAN is spending a couple of weeks with the Detroit baseball club at its training camp in Florida.

ALEX SCHREIBER is visiting New Orleans.

Regular monthly business meeting was postponed until next month by President EDGAR E. KIRCHNER.

W. G. BISHOP, M-G-M exploiter in this territory, is walking on crutches as the result of a fall in a Cincinnati hotel in which he sustained a severe ankle sprain.

HAROLD C. ROBINSON, who intended to vacation in Florida after attending the meeting of the National Film Carriers, Inc., held in conjunction with the M. P. T. O. A. convention in New Orleans, had to postpone it. He was called home on account of urgent business.

RAY MOON, general manager of Co-Operative Theatres, is back home from Florida.

HARRIS SILVERBERG, injured in the Lansing hotel fire some weeks ago, visited the Film Building for the first time since then last Saturday.

CARL BUERMELE has his right paw bandaged, the palm infected, but that doesn't keep him out of the pitch games as he deals left-handed.

JIM ROBERTSON will stay in Florida until after Easter Sunday.

MAC MCCOY has returned from a 10-day trip to Miami.

MAX RUBEN, who has been seriously ill for some time, is still at his home.

Indianapolis

INDIANAPOLIS, March 13.—Plans are set for celebration of the tent's first birthday party, March 23, at the Claypool Hotel. ED RESENER and his Lyric Theatre orchestra will furnish the music. The party will be limited to members and their wives.

JACK MANNING, former stage director of the "Greenwich Village Follies," was club guest Saturday night.

As part of the charity program, $100 has been donated to Riley Hospital.

Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA, March 13.—With the return of members of various committees from the MPTOA convention and southern vacation spots, Tent No. 13 has practically formulated its spring schedule.

First of the fortnightly luncheons was held today at the Bellevue Stratford Hotel. The schedule included talks by Major General SMEDLEY E. BUTLER and Judge CHARLES KLEIN, Orphans' Court.

Determination to add new members to the lists was evident at the recent meeting of the board. Selection of a new second assistant chief barker was also discussed. Formal announcement on both matters will be made at the next luncheon.

Among the visitors last week were Judge USILTON, and Senator MAX ARON, head of the Pennsylvania Senate Finance Committee.

The Sunday trade showings are picking up in attendance.

Readjustment of the clubhouse's operating staff has been completed, and with the final decorating touches, the club can now be considered complete. A new and final set of house rules has been issued.

Washington

WASHINGTON, March 13.—Permission has been granted to First Assistant Chief Barker LOUIS ROME of Baltimore to establish a branch of Tent No. 11 in the Monument City.

The ROME request was granted at a special meeting of the board of governors, held prior to a general meeting of the club.

The proposal as accepted by the board was that ROME would have complete charge of the organization of the branch, assuming personally the responsibility of underwriting any expenditures, and that he would obtain 20 new members.

While the Baltimore branch would retain allegiance to Washington's Tent No. 11, paying the dues and other assessments here, the parent organization would refund to the branch one-half of the moneys obtained by the branch.

The by-laws were changed to create an "affiliate member" group, to be composed of non-film, but otherwise eligible, men who would be subject to the same obligations and have the same privileges (except those of voting and holding office) as resident members.

Other by-law changes were:

Increasing maximum regular membership from 100 to 125.

Adding standing committee on welfare and public charity.

Decreasing from 10 to five the number of names required on nominations.

Spotting the annual election on the first Monday in December, the terms to commence Jan. 1.

Revamping the term of office of the board of governors, to permit a two-year term with either five or six new canvasmen being elected each year.

One of the tent's main charitable projects at present is the donation of a projector to the Tuberculosis Sanitarium for Children, at Glendale, Md.

On March 18 BOB GRACE and SAM FLAX will officiate at a smoker meeting, at which JAY EMANUEL, publisher of The National Exhibitor, will formally present the National Exhibitor Trophy to the winning team in the M. P. Bowling League.

At his own request, STEVE COCHRAN has been named one of the kings for March 25. COCHRAN, manager of the National, wanted to have his turn when he could bring in as entertainers and guests BERT LAHR, RAY BOLGER, and other members of the "Life Begins at 8.40" company.

Theatres Opening in New Colorado Spots

DENVER, March 13.—Opening of theatres in new towns is getting an early start this year, as it did last in the Denver territory. Last year several towns that had not had theatres for three to six years were opened. The first this year is Sagauche, with Ross Labach putting in a theatre. The town has never had sound, and has been without any theatre for three years.

Fred Lind, owner of houses at Littleton and Steamboat Springs, Col., is adding to his string by building at Rifle, Col. He expects to open this month.

Combine 14 Theatres

With the merging of Bermuda Motion Picture Co. and Reid Hall, Ltd., operating 14 theatres in Bermuda, into Bermuda General Theatres with Morris Gibbons as managing secretary, Edwin Sedgwick Chittenden Coppock has returned to New York. Of the 14 houses, three have been closed as a result of the merger and cuthroat competition in the form of quadruple bills eliminated.

Coppock was with Paramount for nine years before going to Bermuda where he spent eight months with Bermuda M. P. Co.

Swedish Circuit Grows

WASHINGTON, March 13.—Another link in the circuit operated by Aktb. Svensk Filmindustri (The Swedish Film Co., Inc.), Stockholm, brings the total to 14, according to a report issued by the U. S. Department of Commerce.

This company—the largest producer and the leading theatre operator in Sweden—is erecting the 800-seat house in the heart of Stockholm. The first public performance will take place about October 1.

Duals at Scollay Square

BOSTON, March 13.—The Scollay Square, an M. & P.-Publix house, has dropped vaudeville in favor of duals.

"Velvet" Hits Washington's Top, $18,500

WASHINGTON, March 13.—"Living on Velvet" was just that for the Earle last week when the Kay Francis picture attracted $18,500, or $900 over par. Dorsey Brothers' orchestra, with Bob Crosby, helped.

Runnerup was "One More Spring" at Loew's Fox. The take was $21,000, a mere $500 over average. Dave Appolon and his own revue were on the stage.

In the No. 2 houses, "Charlie Chan in Paris" was a smash hit at $6,500 worth, one of the biggest first run weeks the house has had at the present policy, 40c top. That figure is $3,400 over a par of $3,100. The Metropolitan, playing a return engagement of "Devil Dogs of the Air," broke par by $400 for a gross of $4,500.

"Power," the second film at the Belasco, took $1,600 and was held a second week.

Total first run business was $74,900. Average without the Belasco is $71,200.

Ohio Employment Up 7% Above Last Year

COLUMBUS, March 13.—The monthly bulletin of the Ohio State University bureau of business research just released shows February industrial employment in Ohio up 4.5 per cent over January, and seven per cent over February of last year. The increase compared with a seasonal gain of 0.8 per cent, and brought the average employment for the first two months of this year to 7.8 per cent over the corresponding period of 1934.

Youngstown alone failed to share in the increase.

Exhibitors throughout the state report business considerably ahead of this season last year, especially with the better pictures.

"Roberta" Cincy Smash

CINCINNATI, March 13.—"Roberta" is proving a 10-strike and is heading for an estimated $17,000 on its first week at the RKO Albee. It will be held, probably moving to one of the other downtown houses.

"Sweet Music" Only Draw in San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO, March 13.—"Sweet Music" was the only attraction downtown to do anything like good business last week. It reached $24,500, over the line by $1,500, at the Warfield.

"The Whole Town's Talking" took $8,000 in its second week at the Orpheum, but "Little Colonel," "The Private Life of Don Juan" and "Vanessa" failed to make much impression.

Total first run business was $74,750. Average is $82,000.

Estimated takings:

Week Ending March 5:
"A NOTORIOUS GENTLEMAN" (Univ.)
GOLDEN GATE—(2,800), 25c-35c-40c, 7 days. Stage, band. Gross: $12,500. (Average, $13,000)

"Copperfield" Gets Montreal Holdover

MONTREAL, March 13.—In spite of the start of Lent, two attractions rated a holdover. One of these, "David Copperfield," at the Capitol, pulled $12,000. "Clive of India" went over the top at the Princess and was held after a first week's take of $10,500, which was the best at this house in many weeks. "Ziegfeld Follies" at His Majesty's was formidable opposition to these pictures. "The Night Is Young" registered $9,500 at Loew's on the new reduced prices.

Total business was $35,500. Average is $29,500.

Estimated takings for the week ending March 9:

P. S.—You may expect a little bill for the damage.

N. B.—Rosen sent a piece of the molding by return mail.

"Iron Duke" Cleveland's Top, $6,100

CLEVELAND, March 13.—Two attractions garnered most of the first run profit here last week. "The Iron Duke" headed the list by going over par $3,100 on a gross of $6,100. "The Little Colonel" was a close second, getting $8,700, up by $2,700, at Warners' Hippodrome.

The only other attraction in town to reach normal was "Lightning Strikes Twice" which took $5,000 at the Circle.

Total gross for the week was $45,-300. Average is $43,000.

Estimated takings for the week ending March 9:

"THE IRON DUKE" (G. B.)

HOLLYWOOD, March 13.—Anita Loos has been signed to a long term writing contract by M-G-M.

She will work with her husband, John Emerson, who has been made a producer. Her first assignment will be "The Studio Girl," a novel by Gordon Ashley.

Hampton Quits Mascot

HOLLYWOOD, March 13.—Earle Hampton has resigned as publicity and advertising director for Mascot. His work has been taken over by Dave Flournoy, who was formerly his assistant. Hampton has not announced his future plans.

"Roberta" Is Pittsburgh's $18,000 Wow

PITTSBURGH, March 13.—The biggest thing in town last week and, in fact, the biggest thing around here for some time was "Roberta" at the Stanley. Playing at 40 cents, without stage support against big in-person attractions at two other houses, the musical turned in a sensational $18,-000, the best a straight picture has done here since "Little Women." It was moved to the Davis, which was reopened for a run.

At the Penn, "After Office Hours," with George Jessel on the stage, topped average by $1,000, getting close to $20,000, but everywhere else business was off due to the terrific competition of "Roberta." At the Alvin, "The Good Fairy" was a distinct disappointment at $8,500, while "Evergreen" at the Fulton, despite excellent notices and very favorable word-of-mouth, managed to get only $3,500. The Warner, too, suffered, doing just a little better than $4,000 with "Murder On a Honeymoon" and "Enchanted April."

Total grosses in five first runs were $54,600. Average is $46,000.

Estimated takings for the week ending March 7:

"THE GOOD FAIRY" (Univ.)
ALVIN—(2,000), 25c-40c, 6 days. Stage: Aunt Jemimah, Southland Rhythm Girls, Montez and Maria, Lamberti, Streamline Alvinettes and Jerry Mayhall's orchestra. Gross: $8,500. (Average, $10,000)

PENN—(3,300), 25c-40c, 6 days. Stage: George Jessel, Lita Grey Chaplin, Chester Fredericks, Three Stewart Sisters, Three Kanes, Youthful Rhythms Revue. Gross: $20,000. (Average, $19,000)

"ROBERTA" (Radio)
STANLEY—(3,600), 25c-40c, 6 days. Gross: $18,000. (Average, $8,000)

"MURDER ON A HONEYMOON" (Radio)
"ENCHANTED APRIL" (Radio)
WARNER—(2,000), 25c-40c, 6 days. Gross: $4,100. (Average, $5,000)

"Wings" at $3,700 Is Oklahoma Smash

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 13.—"Wings in the Dark" took all the important money here last week by going to $3,700 at the Capitol. This tops normal by $1,700.

The Liberty held its own by getting $2,600 for the first four days of the week with a stage show. "The President Vanishes" was weak at $400 for the last three days.

Total first run business was $12,900. Average is $13,500.

Estimated takings for the week ending March 9:

"THE GOOD FAIRY" (Univ.)
WARNER—(1,900), 10c-20c-36c-41c-56c, 7 days. Gross: $2,800. (Average, $5,000)

ITO Appeals To K.C. Board For Clearance

KANSAS CITY, March 13.—Filing of a clearance complaint by the I. T. O. is a reversal of policy under which the local organization originally decided not to have anything to do with the local clearance and zoning board. As first outlined, the plan was that if Fox Midwest rejected the independents' demands the next step would be to seek relief through the Federal legal machinery.

A three-man committee of the I. T. O. has been enrolling independents, members and non-members, in a "war chest" with which to prosecute legal action. It is understood the necessary amount has been raised.

The complaint lodged with the zoning board is for the purpose of exhausting every possible peacable means of obtaining relief.

Included is a schedule the I. T. O. wants the board to adopt, which is identical with one recently turned down by Fox Midwest and which was submitted to Campi. It would reduce protection of first runs and higher bracket admissions and also shorten the protection over 20-cent admissions or under. The currently extended clearance over 20 cents and less is the chief complaint. It is expected that first runs and Fox Midwest, which has practically all of the higher-priced suburbans, will resist the schedule.

Provisions of the Plan

The proposed plan provides: First suburban run at 25 cents or higher, 28 days from close of first run; second suburban run at 25 cents, 14 days later; third suburban run at 25 cents, following by 14 days; 20 cents, 14 days after close of last 25-cent run; 15 cents, three weeks after 20 cents; 10 cents, six weeks after 15 cents.

It is also provided that duals and premiums, when used singly, should draw a penalty of 28 days in clearance, and when used together the clearance should be 42 days. Also demanded is no protection between equally priced houses and that all pictures should be made available for dualling.

The penalties for multiple features and giveaways are a concession to exhibitors and distributors who feel that houses not resorting to these devices should have extra protection. The independents oppose distributors' designation of pictures to play twin bills on the ground that features shown with a major stage show first run will not stand up on a single bill at a suburban run.

The I. T. O. maneuvers are predicated on the fact no official schedule exists and are grounded on the claim that clearances were set up for this season on the basis of terms written into contracts held by Fox Midwest which others must follow.

New Washington Tax

SEATTLE, March 13. — Under a new Washington state theatre tax, patrons are now obliged to pay one cent on a 25-cent ticket, two cents on a 40-cent ticket, three cents on a 50-cent ticket and five cents on those costing $1.

Hollywood Personals

Hollywood, March 13.—Stepin Fetchit called back from tour by Fox to resume work . . . Erin O'Brien Moore signed by Fox for "Heaven's Gate" . . . Ruth Rose, Radio writer, at work on "Pompeii" . . . Marion Davies to start "Page Miss Glory" on March 15.

Grace Moore quite pleased with the Society of Arts and Sciences medal . . . Ed Shubert gets role intended for William Gargan in "Alibi Ike."

Claire Dodd a vamp in "Men On Her Mind" . . . Alison Skipworth has role in "Becky Sharp" intended by Lowell Sherman for Mrs. Leslie Carter . . . Fred Keating has sinus trouble . . . Maurine Watkins winds up at M-G-M.

Discuss Compromise On a California Tax

SACRAMENTO, March 13.—Governor Frank R. Merriam, in conference with Bud Lollier of Fox West Coast, said he was willing to accept a substitute for the proposed one per cent admission tax exempting the first 20 cents, to raise $4,000,000 biennially.

Lollier denied it was possible to raise that amount and said that theatres now charging 25 cents would have to drop their prices to 20 cents and that many would go broke as a consequence.

Merriam said he was unwilling to substitute another means of obtaining the revenue unless that revenue is assured by the new plan.

Lollier pointed out that a 40 cents admission really meant 50 cents if the bill is passed, what with Federal and state taxes combined.

Indications here are that Merriam is seeking a substitute measure, but will accept the tax on admissions unless another plan is devised.

A survey by film representatives indicates the chief danger in bills now lies in the income, admission and footage taxes with the Administration's promise for a veto on the latter, dropping of admissions if a substitute can be found, but no compromise on income taxes.

Lollier is organizing a fight on nuisance taxes which he feels would put many theatres out of business.

Dog racing opposition is being lined up in the south and will be presented at a committee hearing next Wednesday.

Sending Pelton to Eye Florida Sites

Ass'n to inspect proposed studio sites in Florida, it was learned today. He will leave Friday.

It is understood that in Florida he will be joined by New York studio representatives. The group will then proceed to New Jersey to look over possible sites there, it is announced.

Louis B. Mayer of M-G-M, addressing the Los Angeles Junior Chamber of Commerce on its 11th anniversary today, pointed out the perils of excessive taxation, stating that until laws are devised to take care of the jobless California will be faced with the necessity of levying confiscatory taxes that will drive all industries from the state.

Flu Holds Up "Crusades"

HOLLYWOOD, March 13.—With Cecil B. DeMille, director, and Henry Wilcoxon, one of the players, down with the flu, production on "The Crusades" has been halted at Paramount.

Century vs. RKO to Go on Again Today

With 24 hours actually devoted to previous hearings and more than 1,000 pages of testimony in the record, the seventh inning in the Century-RKO Long Island clearance dispute goes on today.

Another session, in addition to today's, will see the wind up of the longest code case on record. It is considered one of the most important in this territory because of its subsequent effect on the entire clearance map in Long Island. While RKO is affected directly by the decision, Loew's Valencia in Jamaica will also be brought into the picture later.

Wired Houses Total To 665 in Austria

WASHINGTON, March 13.—A survey made at the end of last year showed there were 665 houses wired for sound in Austria, according to Daniel C. Roper, secretary of commerce.

American distributors were granted 110 import permits for features and 173 for shorts by the Austrian government last year, Roper also reports.

Pete Carroll, 58, Is Dead on the Coast

HOLLYWOOD, March 13.—Pete Carroll, veteran exchange manager and with Hal Roach for the past 15 years, 10 of them spent as the producer's personal representative in New York, died of heart disease at his home here today.

Carroll, who started his career with Pathe, was 58 years old. His widow survives.

G.B. Signs Maude Howell

HOLLYWOOD, March 13. — Michael Balcon of Gaumont British today signed Maude Howell as scenarist and co-director of the two films the company is to make with George Arliss starred. She will sail on the Majestic on March 22 and will remain in England six months. Miss Howell is the first to be signed by the G.B. executive since his arrival in search of talent.

Seek Dismissal of Suit

CINCINNATI, March 13.—A motion for dismissal of the suit of General Talking Pictures Corp., New York, vs. D. F. McCoy, operating the La Max, Wilmington, O., has been filed in the U. S. District Court by the defendant, who contends that the court has no jurisdiction since the sum involved does not exceed $3,000.

Suit is based on defendant's alleged failure to comply with contract.

"Pimpernel" Denver Hit; Gets $6,000

DENVER, March 13.—Any lingering idea that an English picture can't compete with the best American product in this territory was dispelled last week. "The Scarlet Pimpernel" hit $6,000, over par by $3,500, at the Aladdin.

As a result, other downtown houses found the going rough.

Total first run business was $22,500. Average is $20,500.

Rogers' Met Bid to Await Schenck Plan

May Not Be Presented, If Latter Is Better

Saul E. Rogers, representing undisclosed interests, will not submit a plan of reorganization for Fox Metropolitan Playhouses until the Fox Theatres-Joseph M. Schenck plan has come before the Federal court for a hearing, and then only in the event the terms of the latter plan can be bettered by a competitive one, it was learned yesterday.

The receiver for Fox Theatres will petition Federal Judge Julian W. Mack today to set a date for hearing of the plan in which Schenck is participating. It is anticipated that the hearing date will be within the next week or 10 days.

So strong is the Fox Theatres-Schenck plan regarded that several competitive bidders for the circuit of 86 theatres who were in evidence a few weeks ago, have now withdrawn

Consolidated Film 1934 Net $917,160

The annual report of Consolidated Film Industries, Inc., shows a slight gain over 1933. During the period ending Dec. 31, 1934, the company had a net of $917,160 after depreciation, interest, provision for doubtful accounts, Federal taxes, idle plant expenses and other charges. This equals 22 cents on the common after provision for the $2 annual dividend on the preferred. In 1933 the net was 21 cents on the common and totalled $909,388.

Assets at the end of 1934 are listed at $5,257,688, including $1,240,474 in cash and marketable securities. Total assets aggregated $12,887,978.

Massachusetts Men To Build Big Track

BOSTON, March 14.—The new group which yesterday filed incorporation papers here plans to operate a $2,000,000 horse track in a Boston suburban town. The opening date is set for June 15, which will not conflict with the meets at Saratoga and Belmont Park.

The new corporation has filed an application with the racing commission for a license to operate.

Century vs. RKO Bumps Over Some More Legal Hurdles

Century vs. RKO (Mitchell Klupt for Century, complainant; Louis Nizer for RKO, respondent)—started Feb. 7, 1935, A.D.—went four hours nearer conclusion yesterday before N. Y. Clearance and Zoning Board, Leo Abrams, P.J.

Complaint brought under Article 6, Part 1, Section 1, C.F.C. of M.P.I.

Hours devoted to hearing now total twenty-eight and one-half (28½). Objections now are: Nizer, 144; Klupt, 121, not including those interspersed yesterday by Abrams. Yesterday's score was: Nizer, 26; Klupt, 28. A quiet day!

According to "New Courts of Industry," recently published by Mr. Nizer (see Page 101) there are "differences as to guiding principles" on clearance. Abrams thinks he's right.

It took from July to the end of November to draw up the code (See MOTION PICTURE DAILY). This

Historical Notes

What has transpired and what is to come during the hearing of Century versus RKO in the matter of a clearance controversy in Long Island:

Laurence Bolognino of Consolidated Amusement has passed through a pneumonia crisis, the grip and a bad cold. He expected to take a vacation in Miami several weeks ago, but now consoles himself that after the case is over he will visit Europe and take in the sights. He says so himself.

Harry Shiffman, after the second session, became a benedict. He didn't want to wait too long.

Robert Wolff and Edward Rugoff, who had planned to vacation long before this, may get away April 5 and head south on a fishing trip.

Fred Schwartz, who also was set on a vacation about this time, is doubtful whether he'll ever get away now.

Johnny O'Connor expects to be a proud daddy.

Senators Get Near NRA Fundamentals

WASHINGTON, March 14.—The Senate Finance Committee today began to get nearer the definite operation of the NRA with the appearance before it of S. Clay Williams, retiring chairman of the National Industrial Recovery Board, after five days of testimony by Donald R. Richberg, coordinator of emergency activities.

Whereas Richberg was questioned as to the broad policies of the Administration, Williams and those who

Chicago Bank Night Is Ordered Stopped

CHICAGO, March 14.—Revival of bank night by Essaness at the North Center speedily brought that circuit before the local grievance board this week. The complainant was George Gehring, who operates the Rosewood.

The board, in keeping with past policy, ordered Essaness to stop. Essaness will file an appeal with Campi.

Will Rogers Stays With Fox Till 1938

HOLLYWOOD, March 14.—Will Rogers has been signed to a new contract by Fox. The agreement calls for the comedian's exclusive services as an actor until 1938. Rogers has been with Fox since 1929.

Rentals Stir Agitation in Great Britain

By BRUCE ALLAN

LONDON, March 4.—The annual report of the Cinematograph Exhibitors' Ass'n indicates the prevailing rates for film hire are an outstanding problem of the year.

Circumstances have enabled distributors to increase prices "to uneconomic heights," says Secretary W. R. Fuller, in his survey, but if exhibitors were united, "film rentals could be reorganized on a basis which

Letters to Be Mailed to Debenture Holders

The Munger debenture committee, representing approximately $800,000 of Paramount Publix debentures, yesterday approved the Paramount plan of reorganization. Letters giving notice of its assent to the plan are being prepared for early mailing to debenture holders.

It is learned that the letters will include a mild criticism of the proposed board of directors for reorganized Paramount. The committee is unofficially reported to be opposed to the election to the board of John D. Hertz, in particular.

The Munger committee is the last of the organized Paramount creditor groups to assent to the plan. The Vanderlip debenture committee, the stockholders' protective committee, Paramount Broadway bondholders and the merchandise creditors' committee signified their assent to the plan earlier. Bank creditors and others

Schulberg's Deal Stirs Objections

B. P. Schulberg's new producing and releasing agreement with Paramount drew the fire of various creditor representatives to whom it was submitted for lengthy hearing yesterday. Indications at a late hour, with the meeting still going strong, were that several changes in the proposed arrangement might have to be made before creditor approval would be given.

The proposed deal provides for production by Schulberg of seven pictures during the next year at an out-

California in Move To Tax Film Rentals

SACRAMENTO, March 14.—The Senate Revenue and Taxation Committee today approved a bill under which film releases and rentals and other tangibles can be brought under the sales tax.

This committee also set next Wednesday for a hearing on all the income tax bills. A Democratic-Progressive coalition in the Assembly is plotting against the $50,000,000 income tax plan which provides for a 15 per cent tax on incomes of $30,000.

Warners Rush "G Men"

HOLLYWOOD, March 14.—In an effort to beat five other studios to release of a Department of Justice picture, Warners has assigned three units to "The G Men." William Keighley is directing the principals, William McGann is handling the exteriors and Bobby Connelly is doing the night club sequences.

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

THIS day, we go oracular on you and warn that, unless exhibitors do something pointed and hurriedly about what is taking on proportions of a deluge, the present day excitement over dog racing will become a future day headache for theatres. Much fussing and fuming are under way in widely separated sections of the country all for the sake of pari-mutuel betting and canine loping. Twelve to fourteen bills strong already, the latest to hit the deck was Maryland, as recently as yesterday. . . .

Handmaiden to the intensive campaign to legalize dog races, is a movement on behalf of horse trotting as well. The more imminent danger, however, goes readily to the dogs—and we are not punning—since they are easier to raise and train. A check into what has happened so far reveals the competition to theatres is direct and potentially serious on several counts. First, because the races are more often than not held at night. Secondly, because the code probably can do nothing about it and because admittance is largely turned over to the pass system. The idea is obvious: Get the public to the races and cash in on the betting which inevitably follows. There are instances where tracks have had a daily gate of $25,000 or more. . . .

If part of our job were exhibition instead of struggling with a column of dubious merit, we should figure every dollar spent by the public to sweeten the lighter side of its existence was a potential motion picture dollar. We, therefore, should fight to get it or part of it anyway and gird our loins against encroachment of new style competition such as rears its head in this new-fangled box-office disturber. . . .

The legislative battleground this winter and spring is sprawled virtually over the entire tier of the forty-eight states. In some places it's bad; it's worse in others. In no place, is it easy. Ohio, for example, is the scene of much activity. There, exhibitor members of the Independent Theatre Owners of Ohio admit they are sponsors and steamer-uppers of the Waldvogel bill which would prevent distributors from designating playdates. Denied is the rumor that the same organization is whipping up excitement over a measure to increase censorship fees from $1 to $5 a reel by way of a kick in the pants of distributors. However. . . .

A slight digression is necessary to get over the point of these several paragraphs. In 1926, Connecticut enacted a $10 per reel tax. The situation which developed as a direct consequence was an industry sensation in those far distant days. A revolving fund was created and to it distributor and exhibitor contributed alike. After two years, the statute was repealed and so the incident terminated. That is, it went into trade history except for an extremely important something. In 1927, distributors inserted in standard contract forms a clause which exhibitors at large probably do not know is there. The context provides that any new tax legislated in any state for any purpose will be passed on to the exhibitor to absorb. . . .

Argue no arguments as to its propriety or its legality, for that matter. The point is both simple and clear, as the standard contract itself sets forth. Getting back to Ohio again, the point there is also both simple and clear. If it should be a fact that the proposed censorship hike is retaliatory in intent and exhibitor in conception, the results will kick out the purpose. Distributors in New York have computed that at an increase of $4 in censorship cost, the tax to the exhibitor will run about fifteen cents a reel. To the man who pays $10 for a feature and adds shorts, this additional cost may run him $1.50 per show. And that's an item. . . .

Bill Ornstein went into training last night. Objective: Five pounds off, mostly around the waistline, and a general transformation of avoirdupois into muscle. It's designed for what may have to be a protective move on his part, what with wife and baby to think about. The drama, or perhaps it's comedy, has to do with his reporting of the Century-RKO case which has been staggering along for days now under a load of objections fathered by Louis Nizer and Mitchell Klupt, window cards, Jamaica as, or as not, a shopping center, busses, automobile tags, death certificates, mailing lists and some other bits of testimony which don't readily come to mind. . . .

This is the case involving clearance which could have been settled in a day. We didn't know that until someone closely identified with it volunteered the information yesterday. Only it hasn't, the procedure swelling into size and proportions admittedly beyond the importance of the issue or issues at stake until everyone identified with it wishes the damned thing had never come up in the first place. . . .

The objections, described in MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S whimsy as an objectathon, have been running to a goodly tally, making their final total an operation best achieved on the auditing department's well-oiled and busily engaged adding machine. The published result has created displeasure—not merely a mild displeasure, but something much, much deeper, mind you—in three quarters and an expressed warning of considerable import to the Ornstein chassis. That explains his period of training. He is taking no chances on the theory or in the hope, maybe, that blood pressure which ran away from better judgment might be only kidding after all. Even some of our best known film men don't always exaggerate. . . .

"Gold Diggers" Gets Radio Plug at Start

"Gold Diggers of 1935" got quite an airing yesterday.

In a tieup with WNEW the comments of members of the audience were broadcast over a microphone of that station set up in the lobby of the Strand when the film opened there yesterday morning. Hugh Herbert, who appears in the picture, acted as master of ceremonies. S. Charles Einfeld, Warners' advertising and publicity chief, engineered the stunt.

In the evening no less than five important radio programs featured tunes from the picture. The plugging was done by Rudy Vallee, Lanny Ross on the Maxwell House program, Fred Waring on the Ford broadcast, Paul Whiteman on the Kraft hour and Ruth Etting and Harv and Esther on the Harvester Cigar program.

Broadway, built in 1890 and used for stage shows. This gives Huffman four first runs, the number he has had since he took over the Orpheum on a pooling arrangement with RKO a couple of years ago.

Huffman turned over the Orpheum to RKO this week, following redemption of the house. Bondholders had operated, with Huffman as manager, since the foreclosure soon after the opening in 1931.

E. T. Zadra, formerly with Butterfield, has leased the Washington Park from Sam Lustig. The house has been operated for some time by William Van Zant.

Seeks Blind Patrons

SPRINGFIELD, O., March 14.—Phil Chakeres, president Chakeres-Warner, Inc., is establishing a substantial fan following among the blind in this vicinity. By sending the sightless a weekly list of attractions playing the circuit's seven houses here and in nearby towns, and specifying the pictures where sound predominates over action, the clientele among the afflicted is growing rapidly.

Lent Fails to Hurt N. O.

NEW ORLEANS, March 14.—Lent, which in previous years has brought out the red in theatre accounting departments, is proving better than in many previous years, there being no decrease in attendance. A few are showing a substantial increase over last fall. Night clubs are having even better patronage than theatres.

Filmtone May Dissolve

WILMINGTON, March 14.—Filmtone Corp., a Delaware firm, will hold a special stockholders' meeting here March 25 for the purpose of voting on the advisability of dissolving the company. The meeting will be held pursuant to a resolution adopted at a meeting of the board of directors. Record books of the company will be open for inspection by the stockholders.

would make exhibition a profitable section of the industry."

Competition for big features has rendered non-operative, suggests Fuller, a resolution of the association that 40 per cent should be a maximum rental.

"If a sufficient number of members choose to hand their bookings over to the General Council, the K. R. S. could bluster and threaten until it was blue in the face," is another striking expression of the C. E. A.'s general secretary.

In view of the distributors' declared policy of refusing to deal with booking circuits, another statement in the report has attracted much attention in England.

"It may be anticipated," says Fuller, "that from now on, there will be groupings of exhibitors in order to create equal bargaining powers with renters, and permit the laws of supply and demand to operate freely. This situation has not yet progressed to the extent that it would be possible for the General Council to protect the interests of independent exhibitors, but any further steps will call for a greater degree of support of its decisions than has been manifested in the past."

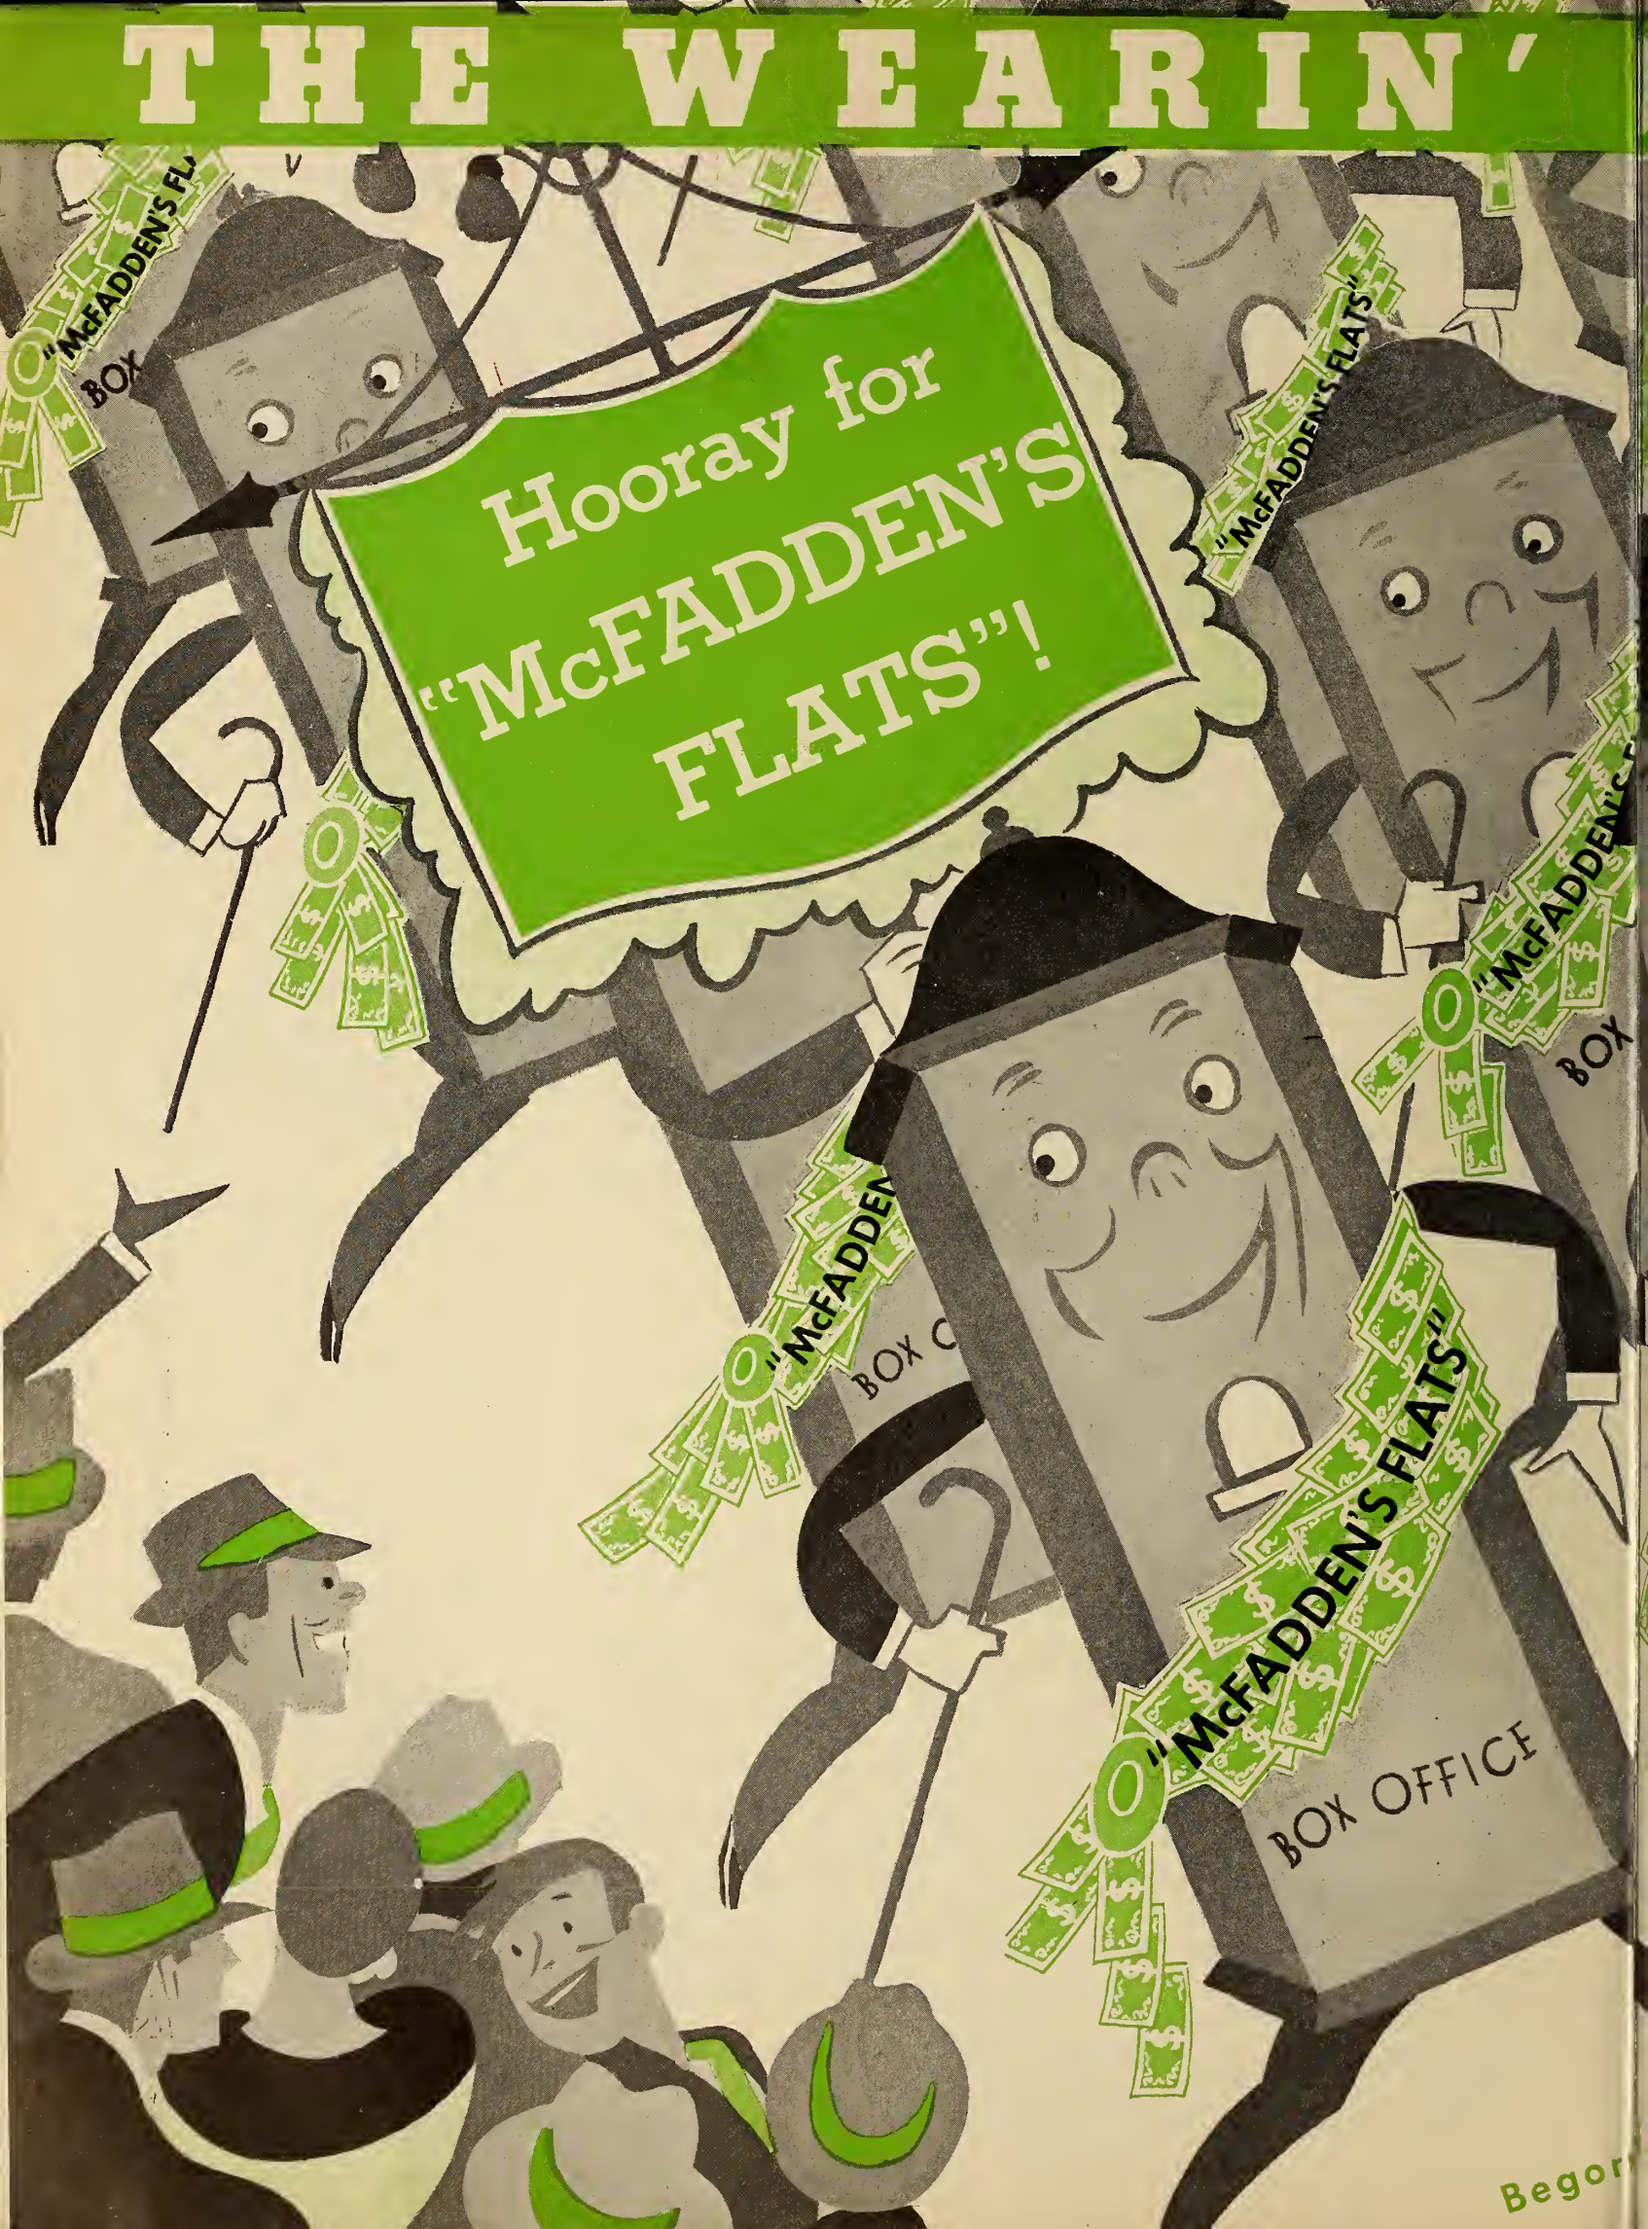
Hold Connecticut Man

NEW HAVEN, March 14.—Herbert E. Logan, 34, of Torrington, has been bound over to the Superior Court for trial on charges of arson and causing injury to property by the use of explosives in connection with the $10,000 fire at the Garden last August. He is held in $2,500 bond.

A CRITIC WRITES AN AD!

By E. de S. Melcher in The Washington Star

SO, M-G-M isn't able to make a musical film! It isn't, isn't it! Well, then, what will you say when you hear that 'Naughty Marietta' is one of the best musical pictures that has ever been made; that the director of 'The Thin Man' and 'Forsaking All Others' made it; that it comes straight from M-G-M, and that Victor Herbert's music rings out from the screen with that same clarity, that same warmth and vitality and that same sweep and breadth that made Grace Moore's 'One Night of Love' a landmark in the motion picture industry.



"All of this is fact. 'Naughty Marietta' is a credit to M-G-M and a credit to everyone concerned. It proves that W. S. Van Dyke is one of Hollywood's wonder men—that he can yank just as many rabbits out of Victor Herbert's hat as he can out of The Thin Man's or Joan Crawford's. His uncanny knack, particularly at the outset, of swelling every inch of this picture with rich orchestrations and of disguising the plot with such music as will make you jump out of your seat is a wonder and a delight. From now on, Jeanette MacDonald and Nelson Eddy will be referred to as 'tops.' 'Naughty Marietta' is something of which M-G-M, Director Van Dyke and Victor Herbert should be proud."

AND BY THE WAY— just who can match these M-G-M musicals of the past:

Broadway Melody
Hollywood Revue
Rogue Song
Marianne
New Moon
The Pagan Dancing Lady
Going Hollywood
Merry Widow etc., etc.

Distributors Protest Mo. Censorship Bill

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., March 14.—Representatives from Missouri's distribution centers protested against Senator John P. Shea's censorship bill as an unnecessary burden to the industry before the Senate committee on criminal jurisprudence here last night.

Arthur Cole of the Paramount Kansas City branch told the members of the committee that if the bill became a law it would cost the industry $250,000 annually in fees.

Fred Wehrenberg of St. Louis, R. R. Biechele of Kansas City, secretary of the Kansas-Missouri Theatre Ass'n, and Thomas Hall, Columbia (Mo.) exhibitor, called the committee's attention to the industry's voluntary efforts to raise film standards and its cooperation with community groups to improve the tone of screen entertainment.

The committee has recommended the bill for passage with amendments reducing the number of censor board members from three to one and cutting the proposed salaries of officials of the body.

Merchants Seeking Vaudeville for N. O.

NEW ORLEANS, March 14.—Claiming that the all-picture policies of the major houses here is depriving the city of a substantial payroll, the Association of Commerce has written members of the Theatre Managers' Ass'n. requesting conferences to discuss the possible return of vaudeville.

The coming of this powerful merchants' group into line with over 20 other organizations which have previously petitioned theatres may bring results.

Eckersleys Expanding

SPOKANE, March 14.—A new circuit is being developed by the Eckersley brothers, now operating houses in both Kooskia and Kamia, Idaho. They have recently opened a new house at Winchester, Idaho.

These houses are operated in conjunction with the Wigwam at Nez Perce, Idaho.

Haarmann in New Post

OMAHA, March 14.—William Haarmann has become booking manager for the Paramount exchange here, succeeding William Barker. Johnny Harms leaves the ad-sales department to become Haarmann's assistant and Irving Birge succeeds Harms as assistant manager of the ad-sales department.

G.B. Signs Noah Beery

HOLLYWOOD, March 14. — Michael Balcon of Gaumont British, here in search of talent, has closed a deal with Noah Beery for a role in one of his company's pictures similar to that he played in "Beau Geste."

Enloe Succeeds Clark

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 14.—O. E. Enloe, operator of the Criterion at El Reno, has been elected secretary-treasurer of the M. P. T. O. of Oklahoma, succeeding the late R. M. Clark.

Looking 'Em Over

"Abdul, the Damned"

(Associated British Pictures)

LONDON, March 1.—Capitol Prod., the Max Schach-Karl Grune combination, made this in association with B.I.P., at the latter's Elstree studio. A spectacular treatment of the last days of the Turkish despotism, it has color and drama, good acting by Fritz Kortner and Nils Asther, some dance stuff to contrast with the sterner scenes and the advantage of dealing, with some freedom, with actual events.

The big selling point is Kortner's portrait of Abdul Hamid II, at the time of his pre-war struggle with the Young Turks and ultimate deposition. Kortner, who sometimes underacts, makes the last of the Sultans a furtive figure, obsessed by the fear of assassination and driven by his fear to a policy of torture and wholesale execution. He keeps a drunken German actor to double for him in public appearances; uses, and then scraps, a chief of police to whom murder is all in the day's work and through it all, by his terror of dagger and poison, is a pathetic rather than a terrifying figure.

Romantic interest depends on the fact that an Austrian actress consents to enter the Sultan's harem in order to save the life of her officer lover. The latter, exiled, becomes a leader of the Young Turks and plays a prominent part in the final successful revolt. This is the weak side of the film, neither Adrienne Ames nor John Stuart having much opportunity.

The selling values are the portrait of Abdul, the grimness of the scenes of torture and execution—the Young Turks being shot down one by one with the song of freedom on their lips—and a background which is original and conveys an atmosphere of authenticity.

Apart from Kortner's fine work, there is a brilliant study of the chief eunuch by Esme Percy, and Asther shows real versatility by his study of the smiling-villain chief of police.

There is plenty of box-office material in it, but a good deal of cutting is necessary. One dance sequence is used for two entirely different scenes, separated by a considerable stretch of time. Abdul had too much money to need repeats.

Running time, 95 minutes. "A." ALLAN

Dave Frazier to Denver

DENVER, March 14.—Dave Frazier, manager for Sheffield at Salt Lake City, has been moved to Denver following the resignation of A. G. Edwards. J. R. Keitz, salesman for Sheffield here, has also resigned and joined Gaumont British as salesman.

Widen Vacation Period

Instead of limiting employes in various exchanges and home office to vacations during the four-month period starting May 15, M-G-M has modified the rule to provide that starting April 1 any employe can take a vacation at any time, regardless of the time of the year.

May Reopen in Cleveland

CLEVELAND, March 14.—It is rumored that Edward Flanigon and Sam Manheim are about to reopen the Terminal Theatre with a 10 and 15-cent policy. Flanigon was formerly president of the Cleveland M. P. Exhibitors' Ass'n., and Manheim was a prominent theatre owner and head of a burlesque circuit.

Livingstone Re-Signed

HOLLYWOOD, March 14.—Robert Livingstone has been signed to a new term contract with M-G-M because of his performance in "The Winning Ticket." He is now working in "Public Enemy No. 2."

Variety Club Chatter

Buffalo

BUFFALO, March 14.—A testimonial dinner to Major Louis Lazar, former upstate New York manager of Warner Theatres, with headquarters in Albany was the first extra-club affair staged by Buffalo Variety. Fifty men, including Warner house managers from Medina, Jamestown, Wellsville, Dunkirk, Elmira, Hornell and Batavia gathered at the dinner. SYDNEY SAMSON was toastmaster. There were talks by MOE SILVER, LAZAR's successor; NATE SAUBER of Universal, KENNETH ROBINSON of Paramount, and REV. JOSEPH MAHONEY. RALPH CRABILL lauded LAZAR as an executive and presented him a parchment testimonial on behalf of Warner managers in this area. HERBERT T. SILVERBERG, a trustee of Buffalo Variety, presented a traveling bag.

Recent visitors to Buffalo included JACK SAXE, WILLIAM HURLBUT and SAM SEPLOWIN, all of Tent No. 5, Detroit. They were guests of Barker JACK BERKOWITZ.

Chief Barker EDWARD K. (TED) O'SHEA and SYDNEY SAMSON, first assistant chief, are the latest to hear the call of the West Indies. They have sailed on a 12-day cruise that may take in Cuba.

Short Subjects

"Stranger Than Fiction No. 8"

(Universal)

Shifting sand that covers an entire forest in Oregon, a dog Pullman, a tombstone made from a railroad car wheel, mystic fire rites in Japan, a traveling dentist, a fighting gander, an oxygen hotel and baby alligators are presented.

On the whole, the film is up to the average set by others of this series and is recommended. Reviewed without production code seal. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

"Stranger Than Fiction No. 9"

(Universal)

This reel presents shots of two-headed trout, the manufacture of gasoline from sea water, a New Mexico salt mine, a fish taxidermist and the world's shortest railroad all in an interesting fashion.

Audiences should be pleasantly interested and entertained. Reviewed without production code seal. Running time, 9½ mins. "G."

"Telephone Blues"

(Mentone-Universal)

This film presents Olga Baclanova, Murray Lane and his Harmoniacs, The Three Dodge Brothers, Henry Scott and the Tic-Toc Girls. The Tic-Toc Girls carry the picture and make it top notch entertainment by means of their inimitable songs. Henry Scott plays the piano with mittens on his hands, the Dodge Brothers dance, Miss Baclanova sings a song in Russian and Murray Lane has his boys give a grand imitation of Borrah Minnevitch.

This short is recommended. Production Code Seal No. 0352. Running time, 19 mins. "G."

"Do a Good Deed"

(Universal)

As a master of a Boy Scout camp in this cartoon, Oswald is a great success. He teaches all the scouts to do good deeds daily and starts the day off with a lilting tune, "Do a Good Deed." A bear breaks up the camp and all the woodland friends of the scouts come to their aid.

An amusing short that should have particular appeal to children. Reviewed without production code seal. Running time, 7 mins. "G."

"Two Little Lambs"

(Universal)

Oswald, in this cartoon, is an aviator trying to win a prize for stunting so he can marry Bunny Lou. While talking to her, two little lambs steal his plane and fly away. They get all mixed up with the air circus, but Oswald saves them to find that their antics in his plane had won him the prize.

Satisfactory. Production Code Seal No. 607. Running time, 8½ mins. "G."

Century vs. RKO Bumps Over Some More Legal Hurdles

case is not expected to take that long, observers agree.

Basic principles involved in this case are that Century wants seven days' protection which RKO now has for Far Rockaway and Jamaica houses over Century's Rockville Center house removed. RKO objects—not succinctly, but at length. Some of the board members sitting in the case work for film companies, but they don't mind the hearings. It's all in the cause of art.

Yesterday the board heard about the mailing list of the Alden, Jamaica. It took George Green of the Globe Mailing Service two hours to tell about that. What he had to say stirred up objections by Messrs. Nizer and Klupt, Esq. Finally, Mr. Abrams issued a cease and desist order, and Joseph Nocera of Rockville Center was called to the stand by Klupt to tell some more about the mailing list. Abrams ruled he had heard enough. Mr. Nocera didn't testify.

That Show Card Again

Before Mr. Green went on the stand, Mr. Nizer wanted to call a witness on the window card which has figured in about four hours of previous testimony, but Mr. Abrams ruled against this. Theodore Faust, an usher at the Century Merrick; Cecil Mitchell, assistant manager of the Merrick; Albert J. Burns, chief investigator and contact man for Century, and George Hines, manager of the Alden, also testified.

Tom Murray of Century went on the stand. Contracts were discussed, but Mr. Abrams called an executive session to get both attorneys to agree on certain stipulations.

When they came out of the executive session an adjournment was announced.

Thursday was set for additional testimony and summation.

Lightman After a Star

MEMPHIS, March 14.—M. A. Lightman has been appointed chairman of a committee to seek one or more guest stars from Hollywood for the annual Memphis Cotton Carnival May 6-11.

The event will be more important than usual because the National Cotton Show will be held here at the same time.

Regis Toomey has already notified Lightman that he will pay Memphis a return visit for the Carnival, having sampled local hospitality at the fall tri-state M.P.T.O. meet.

Plan Somberby Dinner

BOSTON, March 14.—Plans are gathering headway for a testimonial dinner to Al Somberby, an exhibitor for the past 35 years, and manager of the Howard and Bowdoin Square. The entire local industry is behind the project. Details were tentatively set during a meeting with Executive Secretary Joe Brennan at the M.P.T.O.A. suite in Scollay Square. The date for the fete, which will have a Gay Nineties background, is March 26.

John Anderson Returns

FORT MORGAN, Col., March 14.—John Anderson, owner of the USA and Cover theatres, has decided he would rather be in the theatre than in the drug business. A druggist before operating houses, he leased his string to Edwin Bluck and went to California to reenter the drug business. He has returned and bought the leases from Bluck and is again exhibiting.

Richmond to Portland

PORTLAND, Me., March 14.—Arthur Goldstone has resigned as manager of Keith's, an M. & P. house. Sam Richmond has been shifted from Boston to handle the house which is now showing first runs.

"Spring" and Raymond Pile Up at Detroit

DETROIT, March 14.—"One More Spring" on the Fox screen and Gene Raymond on the stage proved a high powered combination. The $31,500 take left average so far behind that it didn't mean anything.

One of the other draws was "The Scarlet Pimpernel," which went over the line by $2,400 for a total of $12,400 at United Artists. "Society Doctor" was close behind in the big money class with $22,400 at the Michigan. George Olsen's band helped.

Total first run business was $78,900. Average is $60,000.

Estimated takings for the week ending March 8:

"THE LITTLE COLONEL" (Fox)
ADAMS—(1,770), 10c-40c, 7 days, 2nd week. Gross: $5,200. (Average, $5,000)

Clemmer in New Post

SEATTLE, March 14.—James Q. Clemmer, former manager of John Hamrick's Music Hall, this week assumes the management of Hamrick's Blue Mouse and Music Box. The latter now becomes the key theatre in the Hamrick circuit, with the Music Hall switching to a third run dual policy.

Clemmer replaces Bob Murray as head of the two smaller houses. Murray, after seven years with the Hamrick organization, will devote his time to a recently-formed restaurant business.

Policies Shift in N. E.

BOSTON, March 14.—The Maine & New Hampshire Theatre Corp. has put the Arcadia in Rumford, Me., back in operation. In Connecticut, the Roger Sherman in New Haven and the Jacques in Waterbury are again combining stage shows with films. A. Twombley has closed the Opera House in Alton, N. H. The Rialto in Woonsocket, R. I., which booked second runs when operated by Fred Greene is being run as a first run situation by J. Donahue. In Maine, the citizens of East Millinocket have shut up their publicly owned theatre.

North Easton Spot Opens

BOSTON, March 14.—North Easton again has a theatre. The Easton is back on the active list, although on a part time basis. Ancil Sanborn, in Sanbornville, N. H., has darkened the Opera House until further notice. In Monson, the Capitol is reported as having passed from the control of Mrs. Mark Skwark. The Star in Poultney, Vt., has again changed hands. It is now run by Walter Lapata.

Awards by Academy Stir Reviewer's Ire

KANSAS CITY, March 14—The Academy's annual awards for excellence in acting are attacked by Lowell Lawrance, film critic of the Journal-Post, who complains that "the Academy seems to have forgotten what constitutes good acting."

"In giving the awards for the finest screen performances of 1934 to Clark Gable and Claudette Colbert for their work in "It Happened One Night," the Academy has, in my opinion, hanged Thespis in effigy and shown a discouraging lack of appreciation for true artistic merit in Hollywood," says Lawrance.

He charges further that the acting awards were based on box-office popularity rather than "histrionic excellence."

In Lawrance's opinion, the honors should have gone to Robert Donat for his part in "The Count of Monte Cristo" and to Bette Davis for her work in "Of Human Bondage."

"The ability to draw vivid characterizations, not merely showing off personality, is the mark of great acting," he adds.

Buffalo Votes for Own Player Awards

BUFFALO, March 14.—Dissatisfied with the Academy nominations for the 1934 awards, the Buffalo Times at the suggestion of Mayor George J. Zimmermann conducted a poll among readers to select their own winners.

Top choices were Robert Donat in "The Count of Monte Cristo" among men and Claudette Colbert in "It Happened One Night" among women. Miss Colbert also was the Academy choice. Times medals for the best 1934 performance, designed by Alex O. Levy, president of the Buffalo Society of Artists, will be presented the stars.

Incidentally, the balloters gave one vote for the dog Flush in "The Barretts of Wimpole Street" and one for the horse playing the title role in "Broadway Bill."

Lease Birmingham House

BIRMINGHAM, March 14.—P. A. Engler and R. B. Wilby have taken a five-year lease on the Negro theatre on Fourth Ave Repairs and alterations will be made. It will be operated as the Frolic.

The owner, the Mutual Life Insurance Co., will spend between $20,000 and $25,000 in repairs and alterations and the lessees will pay for air conditioning and furnishings.

Academy Roster Gains

HOLLYWOOD, March 14.—Technical membership in the Academy is on the increase. A late bulletin shows 36 new members joined in 1934 and a total of 33 since the first of the year. The latter group included eight art directors, eight film editors, seven cameramen, and 10 sound men.

Starr Goes to Seattle

KANSAS CITY, March 14.—Murray Starr, who has been assisting Beverly Miller, National Screen representative here, has been transferred to Seattle. Two of the company's representatives in the Pacific coast city have been injured in a motor car wreck, according to word received here.

Sweet Deal

Leave it to an exhibitor to change a lemon into an orange without going through the usual grafting process.

Abe Leff of the Leff-Meyers circuit owned an apartment house in the Bronx which was a consistent red ink affair. He left for Miami several weeks ago, fell for an orange grove and exchanged it for his building here.

During the last few days local branch managers and personnel of various exchanges have received boxes of oranges from Leff, indicating that it was a sweet deal.

Lewis Gets "Pompeii"

HOLLYWOOD, March 14.—Russell Lewis, former assistant to Robert Edmund Jones on "La Cucuracha" and "Becky Sharp," has been assigned by Radio to supervise the dances on Merian C. Cooper's "The Last Days of Pompeii."

Alexander Oumansky had previously been signed, but it is understood Radio has decided to cut out the ballet sequences for which Oumansky was signed.

Charter Two Companies

ALBANY, March 14.—International Booking Corp., New York City, has been chartered here with capital of $10,000 to engage in theatrical and musical booking. Felix W. Salmaggi, Joseph F. Viola and Norman Furman are directors and subscribers. A charter also has been issued to Promotional Films, Inc., with capital of 100 shares, no par value. Directors and subscribers are R. M. Savini, J. Michelson and Ceil Bernert, all of New York.

OMAHA, March 14.—Carl Snider has sold the Lothrop to Epstein Theatres, Inc. This leaves Snider with three and Epstein with six.

RKO Managers Shift In Cincinnati Spots

CINCINNATI, March 14.—RKO managerial shifts here include Manny Shure from the Palace to the Albee, and Cliff Boyd from the Albee to the Shubert, just acquired and opened by the circuit. Joe Alexander moves from the Capitol to the Palace, and is succeeded at the Capitol by Clarence Valentine, formerly assistant at the Palace.

Harold Eckert is Boyd's assistant at the Shubert. He previously was cashier at this house when it was a legitimate stand. L. Siebert, assistant at the Capitol, has been assigned a similar post at the Palace. Norman Linz, formerly assistant at the Grand, goes to the Capitol in a like capacity, and Arthur Piccola, chief of service at the Palace, has been promoted to assistant at the Grand.

Comerford Will Build

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., March 14—Construction of a theatre to replace the Hazle Street playhouse, built more than a quarter of a century ago, is proposed by Comerford-Publix, according to M. B. Comerford, vice-president.

The new structure will represent an outlay of $125,000. Charles Ryan, construction superintendent, says it will be "a modern, fireproof business block" of brick and limestone seating 1,200. It will be ready by early winter.

Men Hit Sunday Shows

GROVE CITY, Pa., March 14.—Three hundred local men at a mass meeting voted to send letters of protest to legislators in Harrisburg against pending bills to legalize Sunday films in Pennsylvania. T. J. Robinson is preparing the letters, which will be sent to State Senator Glen R. Law of the Mercer-Crawford district, and to Mercer County assemblymen, Major W. G. Smith of this city, and L. Norman Dilley of Greenville.

Would Tax Pin Tables

ALBANY, March 14.—A bill has been introduced in the Assembly by Eugene R. Duffy, Democrat of New York, to impose a tax of 50 on each pin table or game table operated in any place of business or location, to be paid each year, and providing if more than three tables are operated the annual tax shall be $2,000. Some theatres have pin or game tables in their lobbies.

M-G-M Remodels Stage

HOLLYWOOD, March 14. — M-G-M is modernizing one of the sound stages and equipping it for various types of water shots.

The entire floor will be of insulated composition and will be removable. A swimming pool, fountain and other water contrivances are being constructed under the flooring.

Joan Crawford will be the first to use the remodeled stage for her new film, "No More Ladies."

Planck Goes to Marion

MARION, O., March 14. — George Planck has been named city manager for Southio Theatres, Inc., here with supervision over the Palace and Marion. He succeeds Roy E. Peffley, who goes to Middletown as city manager in charge of the Paramount and Strand.

Key City Grosses Rising; Now at Best Autumn Level

Improvements in national grosses which set in following the low point reached in the week ending Jan. 24-25 have continued steadily with the exception of one week. The total for 22 cities reporting to MOTION PICTURE DAILY was $1,405,417 for the week ending Feb. 28-29. There has also been a slight increase in the number of first run theatres in these spots, the total now being 140. Last October there were only 131.

February closed with grosses running close to the point reached in the sudden pickup late last September and in early October.

The improvement was general, in spite of varying weather factors, as only nine cities of the 22 failed to register gains.

Set "Shark Island" Title

HOLLYWOOD, March 14.—Darryl Zanuck has set "Shark Island" as the definite release title on 20th Century's production of the life of Dr. Mudd, the physician who attended Booth after Abraham Lincoln's assassination.

Two Firms Chartered

ALBANY, March 14.—Latest incorporations here are Eastern Theatre Corp., chartered by Joseph Wolowich, Rose Kaplan and Mollie Singerman, and Dostov Corp., incorporated by Richard S. Petty, Marie D. Devany and Edna Ryan.

Fox Finishes Two More

HOLLYWOOD, March 14.—Fox has wound up production on the Spencer Tracy picture, "It's A Small World," and also "Spring Tonic," co-featuring Lew Ayres and Claire Trevor, formerly titled "Man Eating Tiger." Six films are now in work at the Westwood plant.

Marshall with Harding

HOLLYWOOD, March 14.—Herbert Marshall will play opposite Ann Harding in "The Flame Within" for M-G-M. Louis Hayward and Merle Oberon are in the cast.

"U" to Encourage Player Broadcasts

HOLLYWOOD, March 14.—Universal has established a television and radio department with a view to training its players for broadcasting on the theory that radio will help exploit their personalities and help develop their voices. Stock company players will be encouraged to try broadcasting.

The new department is under the direction of Louis Landfield, with Gene Grant as his assistant here and Max Hart handling the New York end.

Asks Liquor in Theatres

HARRISBURG, March 14.—The right to sell liquor in theatres and other places of amusement in Pennsylvania, which has been banned for 53 years, will be restored, subject to licensing, if a bill just introduced in the lower house of the Assembly is adopted.

The measure, introduced by Assemblyman Louis Schwartz, author of two other pending bills designed to permit Sunday shows after 2 o'clock in the afternoon, has been referred to the Committee on Law and Order.

Two Titles Are Set

"The Scoundrel" has been set as the release title of the Ben Hecht-Charles MacArthur production, "Miracle in 49th Street."

HOLLYWOOD, March 14.—"Goin' to Town" will be the final title of Mae West's latest film, previously known as "Now I'm a Lady" and "How Am I Doin'?"

Howard on O'Brien Film

HOLLYWOOD, March 14.—Sol Lesser has signed Dave Howard to direct the next George O'Brien western, "Hard Rock O'Brien," a yarn about Boulder Dam.

Charles Furthman penned the original and will also do the screen play. The picture will be produced under the Atherton Pictures banner.

Para. to Film Garibaldi

HOLLYWOOD, March 14.—Paramount will produce a story based on the life of Garibaldi, the Italian patriot. E. Alexander Powell, war correspondent and authority on the life of Garibaldi, has been signed to do the screen play. Executives believe it will be necessary to go off the lot to find a lead suitable, as none of the contract players are fitted for the part.

Pert Kelton for Musical

HOLLYWOOD, March 14.—Pert Kelton, comedienne, will play the feminine lead in "Hooray for Love," musical soon to go into production at Radio. Gene Raymond will play opposite Miss Kelton, and the supporting cast include Bill Robinson and Maria Gambarelli.

Menjou in "Gondolier"

HOLLYWOOD, March 14. — Adolphe Menjou gets a featured role in "Broadway Gondolier," Warner musical, which will have Dick Powell and Joan Blondell in the chief roles.

The film is slated for early production with Lloyd Bacon directing.

Lachman on "Orchids"

HOLLYWOOD, March 14. — Harry Lachman will direct "Orchids to You," which Fox will produce.

KRS Refuses To Recognize G. B. Booking

British Society's Move Creates Sensation

By BRUCE ALLAN

LONDON, March 15.—The Kinematograph Renters' Society created a sensation in the trade today by refusing to recognize the Gaumont British booking deals with Hyams & Gale and Union Cinemas, Ltd. The latter controls 34 theatres.

K. R. S. will not accept bookings from these two pending assurance that there is no booking agreement with Gaumont British designed to obtain films at lower prices. John Maxwell says this attitude is fair in view

"Throttle Pushing"

A new feature by Harry E. Nichols (H.E.N.), traveling representative of Quigley Publications, takes its bow on page 4 today.

Over main highways and many anything but that, Nichols covers thousands of miles every year. His authoring will concern itself with the things he sees and the exhibitors he meets. There seems to be no limit to either.

Mayer Says Industry Will Quit Coast to Avoid Taxes

SAN FRANCISCO, March 15.—Louis B. Mayer who addressed the Shrine Club here yesterday, attacking Hitlerism, declared today in an interview with MOTION PICTURE DAILY that the industry can move lock, stock and barrel from California to some other state for $10,000,000, and will do so within the next two years, if the program of taxation now before the California Legislature is enacted.

He also sees the possibility of a secession of Northern California from Southern California, and the establishment of a strict embargo on the state's borders to keep out thousands of hungry, jobless itinerants.

McCormick to Return To Circle for a Day

S. Barret McCormick, advertising and publicity director for Radio, will live in the past for a day on March 22. On that date he will find himself back at the Circle, Indianapolis, in the post of managing director of the house which he held 15 years ago. The occasion will be the world premiere of "Laddie."

For that one evening McCormick will have around him, as far as possible, the very people who were on

Gable Contract Is Extended for Year

HOLLYWOOD, March 15. — Clark Gable's contract has been extended by M-G-M for one year starting April 1. In exercising its option, M-G-M guarantees 40 weeks in the year.

Leonard Praskins' option as a writer has not been taken up. Karl Freund, director, has been given a long term pact and Betty Furness' contract has been continued for another 12 months.

Change May Be Made In St. Louis Charge

ST. LOUIS, March 15.—Because there is some question about the name of one of the Paramount units listed in the Federal anti-trust indictments returned here recently, counsel for the Government and the defendant companies have entered into a stipulation that motions may be filed when the cases are called on April 2.

It is considered doubtful, however, whether the cases will actually go to trial on that day, because of the crowded court calendar.

Laurel-Hardy Split Up Old Comedy Team

HOLLYWOOD, March 15.—Stan Laurel and Oliver Hardy are no longer a team. The split resulted when the former terminated his contract over the asserted inability of Hal Roach to secure suitable story material.

Roach is retaining Hardy, who with Patsy Kelly and Spanky MacFarland will produce a new series of comedies under the general title of "The "Jackpots.. Kilts.. Diapers"

Universal City yesterday celebrated its 20th anniversary on time and to the day.

The observance persuaded R. H. Cochrane to send the following telegram to Carl Laemmle in Hollywood, signing it "The Forgotten Man":

"How well do I remember that day 20 years ago when we opened our Universal City jackpot on a pair of deuces. That was the day I wore my first long pants. Today I own no pants at all. As clearly as though it were only 100 years ago I recall that you opened the gate with a golden key. I have often wondered whether it was real gold, but on that day of days in my childish innocence I believed in fairies. I even remember that you took me by the hand and conducted me through the newly opened studios to protect me from the fairies.

"You were like a grandfather to me and I shall never forget it. Since then you have been growing greater and greater so

Evergreen Managers Discuss New Season

SEATTLE, March 15.—City managers for Evergreen State houses throughout Washington and Oregon gathered here this week for a "new season" sales conference with Frank L. Newman, Sr.

Carl Mahne, manager of the Egyptian here, received a first prize check for $300 for his operating record of the last quarter. Second prize went to Lynn Peterson of Bremerton. The all-day session was concluded with a banquet at the Washington Athletic Club.

In attendance were Frank L. Newman, Jr. and Morry Folladare of Portland; Lynn Peterson, Bremerton; Morry Nimmer, Wenatchee; Harold Murphy, Olympia; Joe Rosenfield, Al Baker and Russ Brown of Spokane; Jim Carey, Vancouver; Art Monohan and Bob Moore, Bellingham; Bill Hartford, Everett; Jim O'Connell, Eugene; and Jack Rosenberg, Herb Sobottka, Harry Woodin, Al Finkelstein, Al Rosenberg and Vic Gauntlett, Seattle.

Ascap Winner in 7 Mississippi Cases

NEW ORLEANS, March 15.—Hard upon the heels of exhibitors' fights against paying Ascap license fees come seven judgments rendered by Federal courts against theatres in Mississippi. They are: Drew, Drew; Folly, Marks; Princess, Waynesboro; Palace, Newton; Palace, Crystal Springs; Hazelhurst, Hazelhurst; Royal, Rollingfork.

In the hotel field, Ascap is reported ready to proceed against the Roosevelt and St. Charles. The Roosevelt is understood to have been picked as a test case. Its managing director, Seymour Weiss, close friend of Huey Long, is president of the Louisiana Hotel Ass'n.

Kincey Says South Is Showing Pickup

"Conditions are all right in the south and there has been a general improvement over last year," H. F. ("Mike") Kincey of the Kincey-Wilby circuit stated yesterday. The southern operator was in town on a code case and left last night for Charlotte.

Kincey-Wilby operate 53 houses in North and South Carolina and about 25 in Alabama. The State, Fayettville, N.C., was recently remodeled and other renovations are contemplated, Kincey added. Recently added to the circuit were the Imperial, Charlotte, and Pitt, Greenville, N. C., new theatres.

Four Roxy Films Dated

"Woman in Red" is the next attraction for the Roxy, opening March 22. Following will be "I Love You Always," on March 29; "It Happened in New York," on April 5, and "Love in Bloom," either April 12 or April 19.

"Whole Town" Denver High; Gets $5,000

DENVER, March 15.—"The Whole Town's Talking" lived up to its title at the Paramount. Business started off well and stayed strong, with the result that the $5,000 take was over par by $1,000.

"The Scarlet Pimpernel" held up nicely in its second week at the Aladdin with a gross of $3,000. At the Tabor "The Best Man Wins" was strong on a gross of $3,500 helped by a stage show.

Total first run business was $24,500. Average is $25,500.

Estimated takings for the week ending March 14:

"SCARLET PIMPERNEL" (U. A.)
ALADDIN—1,500, 25c-35c-50c, 7 days, 2nd week. Gross: $3,000. (Average, $2,500)

HOLLYWOOD, March 15.—Virgil Miller, Paramount camera department head, has received notice of his appointment to the American National Committee which will go to Paris in July to attend the International Congress of Photographers.

Miller intends to join the committee.

Smallpox Closes Theatres

DIGHTON, Kan., March 15.—County commissioners have ordered theatres and all other public gathering places closed for two weeks because of a smallpox epidemic here. Other Kansas towns have been similarly affected.

Fox Summons Alice Faye

HOLLYWOOD, March 15.—Alice Faye, vacationing in the east, has been recalled by Fox, and will start in "Adios Argentina," as soon as she returns. She will play opposite Tito Guizar.

Ayres, Trevor Assigned

HOLLYWOOD, March 15.—Fox has handed Lew Ayres and Claire Trevor the principal roles in "Work of Art," Sinclair Lewis story. The film is slated to get under way April 1. John Blystone probably will direct.

Balcon Says Britain Welcomes Industry

HOLLYWOOD, March 15.—Speaking at a luncheon given for him by Louis B. Mayer at the M-G-M studio, Michael Balcon of British Gaumont said today that if the industry should decide to move out of California upon the success of the state's tax program, "it is welcomed to England."

Balcon also told his listeners, consisting of film executives, stars, newspaper publishers and civic and educational leaders, that to meet such competition as is offered by Hollywood "there is nothing left for me but to return to England and produce pictures with American backgrounds."

Dr. Koretz, counsellor of Vienna, where he represents M-G-M and Fox interests, was also a guest of honor. He told the gathering that "just as your pictures are the comfort and the consolation of the world so has my own country given the world its finest music."

Dallas Personals

DALLAS, March 15.—Karl Hoblitzelle, president of Interstate Circuit, has just returned from a business trip to Washington.

Harry Thomas of First Division is in Dallas visiting his brother Davis Thomas, who handles sales for First Division in this territory.

Frank Sarz of Interstate Circuit is back in town after a trip over the territory, getting Interstate houses set for two coming attractions, "As Thousands Cheer" and Helen Hayes.

Plan 3 Months on "Allah"

HOLLYWOOD, March 15.—M-G-M plans to put at least three months of preparation on "The Garden of Allah." Producer David Selznick has signed George Cukor to direct, and is contemplating sending a company to the Sahara desert to film some of the sequences.

Darrow Attack on NRA Is Due Monday

today by the committee after its members had heard, with evident distaste, that if the Industrial Recovery Act is to protect hours and wages, inefficient small concerns must be destroyed.

This statement was made by S. Clay Williams, chairman of the National Industrial Recovery Board and executive of one of the large tobacco companies. The tobacco industry, during his tenure of office, secured approval of a code with minimum wages running as low as 25 cents an hour.

Contrary to the views of those who believe the codes should be amended to conform to the anti-trust laws, Williams recommended amendment of the latter to make the codes effective.

Darrow's testimony next week is expected to be the signal for opponents of the NRA as now constituted to launch a bitter attack against that organization. As chairman of the Review Board last year, he signed reports viciously assailing the activities of the NRA and the dominant interests in the motion picture and a number of other industries, precipitating equally vitriolic replies from Administrator Johnson, denying the board's charges that the codes investigated tended to foster monopoly and crush the small operator.

hop a plane for the east in time for the next Campi meeting on March 28. While here the code executive secretary will get the local board's final okay on certain phases of the schedule which were disputed by Fox West Coast.

Campi members yesterday agreed to hold the next session on March 28 instead of March 21, as originally planned.

Albany Premium Ban Will Start June 7

ALBANY, March 15.—A local ban on premiums, giveaways, script books and other forms of reduced admissions will go into effect June 7.

A recent vote ordered by the clearance and zoning board was heavily in favor of the ban. Affiliated theatres were unanimously for it and 80 per cent of unaffiliated houses favored it. The code provides that a 75 per cent vote in a competitive area is sufficient to make its giveaways clause effective.

Delay Frankfort Ruling

CINCINNATI, March 15.—Pending Campi's decision in the appealed case of the Morehead, Ky., State Teachers' College, which the local grievance board ordered distributors to discontinue serving on complaint of Paul M. Hooven, Trimble, Mt. Sterling, Ky., the board has postponed ruling in the case of J. D. Lee, operating the Capitol, colored house, Frankfort, Ky., against the Frankfort State Industrial Institute, colored, and M-G-M, Cincinnati.

The two issues are parallel. The respondent in the case just heard plays pictures on Saturday at a 15-cent admission, which complainant charges is non-theatrical competition.

Skourases Get Offer of New Fox Met Issue

Schenck in Fox Met, Haystone probably would finance the deal.

The Skouras stock purchase proposal has not been made a part of the plan of reorganization, and the fact that the offer has been made is indicative of the certainty which exists among the principals that the Fox Theatres-Schenck plan of reorganization for Fox Met will be accepted. The plan itself calls for acquisition of the new stock issue by Schenck and Fox Theatres, with Schenck becoming president of the new company. This accomplished, it is believed that Fox Theatres would then sell part or all of its interest in the new company to Skouras, assuming that the offer receives the approval of Haystone. So far as could be learned no similar stock purchase offer has been made to Randforce, joint operators with Skouras of the Fox Met houses.

To Get 10-Year Contracts

Skouras and Randforce will be given new 10-year operating contracts under the reorganization plan, together with provisions for stock ownership in the subsidiary operating companies. Fox Met bondholders will receive 20 cents on the $1 in cash and 55 cents in new bonds for their claims. This provision requires about $2,500,000 in cash, approximately $1,900,000 of which would be derived from the mortgaged cash of Fox Met on hand. The balance would be supplied by the Schenck and Fox Theatres stock subscriptions.

The plan will be presented in Federal court on Monday or Tuesday of next week and a date for a creditors' hearing set at that time. Such a hearing would be approximately three weeks later, as creditors must be given 20 days' notice. Judge Mack extended the time for presentation of the plan from yesterday to May 1, by which time, it is expected, the plan will have been accepted.

Throttle Pushing

GOODBYE TO NEW ORLEANS

The M.P.T.O.A. convention has come and gone and so we take to the open road once again. Disliked saying goodbye to one of the most efficiently operated exchanges in the country—the RKO office so well managed by Guy Brown. Will miss the smiling good mornings from Lee Newman, secretary; E. Zinser, cashier; and Clarence Moldon, the poster boss who, we hope, wins the next RKO national poster contest.

HIGHWAY 90—ALABAMA

Ten miles east of the Cochrane Bridge, across Mobile Bay, we met the Redwood Theatre Circuit of Northern California, stalking amongst the Piney Woods. George Mann in person, with the missus, little George Richard and Joye Vivian. Oh boy, what a road! Nine o'clock at night and the rain coming down in sheets. George and his Packard, towing that trick trailer, were sure plowing up the Alabama red clay. Only 12 miles to go, but we'll bet George will live over that night for 12 years to come. Mann plans a trip throughout Florida and will do a little golfing in Miami with Mitchell Wolfson and Sid Meyers, of the Wometco Theatres there. Then up the Atlantic Seaboard to New York before returning home to San Francisco.

CRESTVIEW, FLA.

When we made this town in 1920, there was a small airdrome in operation. Mrs. A. J. Outlaw was just starting in selling the silent drama. Was quite unprepared to see this town boasting such a fine, modern theatre, the Crestview. Mr. and Mrs. Outlaw have the agency for Falls City beer for Western Florida. Now we know why RKO, Universal and United Artists salesmen stop over so regular.

LIVE OAK, FLA.

Tom Flemming, who operates the Alimar, is all hot and bothered since competition is coming into his town. B. E. Gore, who operates several theatres in Lake City, Fla., is putting in a small house. Throughout film circles in this section, Flemming has a reputation for never having repudiated a contract.

QUINCY, FLA.

Herb Lord, a Banford protege, is running the Shaw for the Nat Williams circuit. Herb pulled one on "David Copperfield" which we think is a classic. He sold the county school board the idea of closing all the rural schools on Friday afternoon so that the children could come in and see the picture. Herb furnished transportation and got five school busses at a total cost of $5 (Mike Vogel, please take notice). This theatre is unique in many ways.

APOPKA, FLA.

Walter Gunn, former Chicago exhibitor, has opened a new house in this city. Present policy calls for two changes a week.

DAYTONA BEACH, FLA.

Ray Bang has reopened the old Kingston which has been closed for a number of years, has wired for sound and fixed the place up into a very nice suburban proposition.

Mrs. Charles Lewis, wife of the oldest and most popular shipping clerk in Kansas City film circles, will visit with C. W. Allen family here next week. Allen is the manager for RKO at Jacksonville.

JACKSONVILLE, FLA.

C. L. Swinney, service engineer for RCA in Florida and Georgia, is back in town after supervising the installation of equipment in a Nat Williams house, the old Dixie, now named the Pine, at Pelham, Ga.

M. C. Moore, Round Table Club winner and manager of the Riverside, had a run-in with Mayor Alsop, Milton, who is putting on a big campaign for "King of Kings," had his ballyhoo truck parked in front of the Presbyterian Church Sunday noon. The mayor took violent objections to this form of advertising and arrested the truck driver. Moore and the mayor darn near came to blows, but when the case was called Monday morning, the driver and Moore were dismissed as there is no ordinance in this city prohibiting the parking of an advertising truck.

Bartholomew Resting

HOLLYWOOD, March 15.—M-G-M has given Freddie Bartholomew, who was featured in "David Copperfield," a vacation on a ranch near here.

The child actor hasn't had a rest since arriving in Hollywood, having gone on six weeks of personal appearances right after doing the M-G-M picture.

However, there remain a number of obstacles, legal in the main, which have to be cleared away. These are not regarded as vital, although they are of sufficient import to slow down the progress of the deal towards consummation.

Schulberg will make seven for Paramount next season, as the contemplated arrangement now stands. These will be budgeted at not more than $250,000 each with Paramount furnishing half of the finances and Erpi and Ralph A. Kohn, former Paramount treasurer, the remainder.

Philadelphia Meeting Gets Hot Over Tax

Charges Stir Replies; Committee Named

PHILADELPHIA, March 18.—Sixty film men got into a state of excitement discussing the proposed 10 per cent sales tax here today, but did nothing about it except to appoint a committee. "Sensational disclosures" had been promised in the call for the session, which was held at the Broadwood Hotel, but these consisted of charges that circuits favored a deal on the tax bill in return for Sunday shows.

The House is expected to act on the tax Tuesday. The committee includes Harry Fried, George Gravenstine, Luke Gring and Milt Rogasner.

The meeting was advertised by the I.E.P.A. and presided over By Morris Wax, chairman of the I.E.P.A.

"I wonder who is going to reserve the scenario rights."

'Time' Shifts Sales Method; Will Expand

Drops Its 3,000-Theatre Plan; Changes Prices

Abandoning its original plan of holding down distribution of its monthly releases to 3,000 theatres, "The March of Time" yesterday completed plans for as wide a distribution as its selling crew can obtain and coupled with its switch in policy what is expected to be general reductions in its current rental level.

The move follows what was unhesitatingly admitted yesterday as an experiment in setting up the original rental schedule. "The March of Time" officials readily acknowledged that, at the outset, they did not know what their product was entitled to get or could get. After several months of their so-called laboratory test, however, plans have been rearranged along several lines.

In highlight, the scheme hinges largely on retail sales surveys made by the Department of Commerce and the territorial sales curve of a group of nationally circulated magazines. It was realized that some territories,

With $60,000 in the till for the first four days of the second week, "Roberta" is expected to tally around $95,000 for the second stanza at the Music Hall. This would be about $3,000 less than the first week.

"One More Spring," at the Palace, garnered about $8,000, and "McFadden's Flats," at the Rialto, wound up a week's run last night with approximately $8,000. The picture is being held an extra day and will be succeeded tomorrow by "Mystery of Edwin Drood."

Monogram Break

Harry H. Thomas of First Division yesterday stated his company had "disposed of the Monogram franchise in the New York territory and our commitments in Philadelphia will not be renewed."

Edward Golden, sales manager for Monogram, declined either to comment on Thomas' statement or on his own company's plans for these two important territories.

K.C. Showmen Join Fight on Claims Racket

KANSAS CITY, March 18.—Support of exhibitors will be thrown behind the Liability Protective Ass'n., Inc., the group organized to fight the fake claim racket in Kansas City, it was indicated at a meeting at the Chamber of Commerce.

Sirovich Asks Science, Art Cabinet Post

Also Wants a Building Done in a Big Way

By BERTRAM F. LINZ

WASHINGTON, March 18.—Creation of a new cabinet post—Secretary of Science, Art and Literature—is proposed in a concurrent resolution introduced in the House today by Congressman Sirovich of New York. It was referred to the Committee on Patents, of which he is chairman.

The proposed new department would take over all bureaus and other agencies of the Government which have jurisdiction over the arts and sciences, including films and radio. A separate building "architecturally in keeping with the beauty of art, the dignity of science and the visions of literature" would be provided.

"The limitations of the olden stage have been removed by the motion picture, accompanied by sonancy," Sirovich declared in his resolution, "and

Block Booking Bill Indorsed by Lowell

Dr. A. Lawrence Lowell, honorary president of the M. P. Research Council, has endorsed the Pettengill bill for restriction of block booking and blind buying, according to a statement issued yesterday by the council.

Lowell, a former president of Harvard, was quoted in the council's press release as saying that he favored the bill because he is "unable to see that the practices of block booking and blind selling have any object except that of supporting a monopoly and obliging exhibitors to use films which for moral or other reasons they do not desire to exhibit."

Amos 'n' Andy Are Sued

Van Beuren sued Amos 'n' Andy and NBC in Supreme Court here yesterday, charging the comedians broke a contract in 1933 for a series of shorts. Damages of $181,995 are sought. The defendants have filed counterclaims.

Schulberg and Jaffe Sell Agency Shares

HOLLYWOOD, March 18.—As a result of a disagreement between Charles Feldman and Sam Jaffe, the Schulberg-Feldman-Jaffe agency has been dissolved with Ad Schulberg and her brother, Jaffe, getting $70,000 for their interest from Feldman.

Jaffe plans to join B. P. Schulberg as production manager of the latter's independent unit as soon as the former Paramount production head closes his deal for seven pictures. Paramount trustees in New York are considering approval of the Schulberg deal.

Kelland Yarn for Cantor

Samuel Goldwyn has picked a Clarence Budington Kelland story tentatively titled "Dreamland" as Eddie Cantor's sixth annual musical for United Artists. Howard Lindsay and Russel Crouse will adapt the story. Cantor will leave for the coast in May and the picture will start June 15.

more densely populated than others, could be expected to return more revenue as, for example, Ohio as compared with Mississippi which has less population and also less whites.

The result of a national investigation conducted by a corps of auditors now is described as a "national standardized price policy of uniformly equal prices in equal sales situations." Developed at a recent Detroit meeting of "The March of Time" and First Division branch managers and salesmen, it was stated yesterday that the first workout of the new idea was tried in Michigan with results "so gratifying that its sponsors feel it is now ready to be introduced nationally."

Coupled with it will be a national promotional campaign which may run to as high a cost as $40,000 monthly. The pages of Time and Fortune, as well as radio time on "The March of Time" weekly broadcast, will be the basis to which will be added newspaper advertising and paid space in a number of national media. The anticipation is the results will be fruitful in that the full advantage of the ballyhoo will be reaped while each release is in distribution. It is planned to withdraw each from circulation at the end of four weeks.

Exhibitors to Get Refunds

The price revision includes refunds on all contracts taken at prices higher than the new scale now being whipped into final shape. Where an exhibitor pays less than $50 a release on a six release basis and where his experience with four subjects tells him the price is too high, he may cancel and "The March of Time" promises to return 50 per cent of his rental price. Any account signing for six releases automatically gets an option on the following group of 12. If, however, "The March of Time" desires to cancel for a competitive sale elsewhere, the producer agrees to pay the exhibitor half of the rental on the initial six. There will also be a credit of 10 per cent of the total contract for accessories, this applying to new contracts on the new selling basis.

Actual sales under the new order will be handled through a new company known as The March of Time Distributors, Inc., as apart from The March of Time, Inc., the producer, and First Division, the actual distributor. Roy E. Larsen, Harry H. Thomas and Ralph Rolan are officers. Fred McConnell, W. P. Garyn and Richard Beck, Jr., will transfer from the producing company to the new distributing company. Additional representatives probably will be added in the impending drive for wider distribution.

First Division, according to Thomas, will keep pace although he failed to explain in detail how yesterday. Extension of direct production was hinted with the arrival back on the coast of Nicholas Ludington.

K.C. Showmen Join Fight on Claims Racket

A contribution of $1,000 is sought from theatres toward the fund of between $15,000 and $20,000 it is estimated will be required to set up the protective bureau. As one of its first activities, the bureau plans to concern itself with false injury claims against theatres.

The seriousness of the situation for exhibitors, especially the smaller ones, is seen in the fact that about 30 independent suburban houses are not covered by liability insurance, while they are one of the chief targets for fake injury claims and lawsuits. Only about 10 theatres of this type carry insurance.

The absence of coverage is explained by the prohibitive cost, the liability rate for theatres having been boosted from 10 cents a seat to 40 cents. The insurance companies blame the growth of the claim racket for the excessive cost and in some instances refuse to cover theatres even at the high rate.

Century-RKO Case Testimony Halted

and Louis Nizer, representing the respondent. Yesterday's meeting was the shortest of the eight with only one and a half hours actually being devoted to the examination and cross-examination of witnesses. Prior to the start of the hearing, the board was tied up in executive session for an hour discussing various phases of the case.

Klupt took about 15 minutes to wind up his case with Nizer following. Tom Murray of Century, Walter Gutteridge, manager of the Strand and Columbia, Far Rockaway; Fred Schwartz, son of A. H. Schwartz; Al Judkowitz, owner and interested in the operation with RKO of the two Far Rockaway units; James Finey, of the RKO home office booking department; J. G. Heines, manager of the Alden, Jamaica; Charles McDonald, RKO division manager, and John O'Connor, head RKO buyer and booker, were the witnesses of the day.

Advertising of RKO and the Fantasy, Rockville Center, was the principal topic of discussion.

There was a considerable furore when the Alden mailing list was brought up again after the board had ruled out further testimony and references. McDonald was first questioned on the list by Nizer, who appealed to the board to admit further testimony on the subject. Nizer defied Klupt to prove that RKO bought a list of names from a swimming pool for the Alden and this started the commotion with Klupt and Nizer exchanging remarks that were stricken from the record.

Nizer then tried to examine O'Connor on an analysis he made of auto license numbers taken down by two Century employes. Klupt objected and another hectic argument followed with the result that an executive session was called again and all reference deleted from the record.

Both attorneys tallied 15 objections for the short period, making a new total of 159 for Nizer and 136 for Klupt.

Summations will be held Thursday with the Century counsel taking the floor first.

The 1934 budget of $203,589.12 has been signed by W. A. Harriman, administrative officer of the N.I.R.A. Unless objections are filed by March 22, the budget becomes effective April 6.

Of the 21 decisions on appeals announced yesterday, nine involved bank nights in various forms, in each instance discontinuance was ordered. I. B. Adelman of the Delman, Houston, Tex., won on the clearance appeal by the Texan, Iris, Ritz, Kirby, Majestic, Metropolitan and State, same city. The local board held that 75 days after first run Houston with 14 days to clear was reasonable in Adelman's case with Campi upholding the decision. The Philadelphia ban on premiums was reversed, as exclusively reported in MOTION PICTURE DAILY Feb. 5.

Philadelphia Meeting Gets Hot Over Tax

board. Members of the M.P.T.O. also were present, but no circuit representatives attended.

Those invited to speak included William Brown, Pittsburgh exhibitor; Fred Herrington, secretary of the western Pennsylvania Allied unit; Sidney Samuelson, Allied president, and David Barrist, I.E.P.A. member.

Barrist was the first speaker. He said that Warners had sponsored a drive to help the Republican candidate for governor at the last election, with the result that a Democrat had won and there was feeling in the present administration against the industry. He declared that circuits were "selling the independents down the river in return for an open Sunday." He called it "the betrayal of the independent," but offered no proof to support his arguments.

Brown, a member of the state industry steering committee, reviewed the work of the committee to date.

Asked by Charles Segall what the heralded charges were, Barrist said the purpose of the meeting was to prevent a swap or compromise measure in return for Sunday shows.

Herrington, a member of the steering committee, said that circuit representatives had dropped out of the committee's work one by one. Warner and Loew representatives were named as among those who had quit. Wilmer & Vincent representatives are still active, it was stated. Herrington quoted a conversation designed to show that M. J. O'Toole, Comerford representative, had withdrawn from the committee "on orders from New York."

Herrington declared that Lewen Pizor, M.P.T.O. president, was supporting the alleged deal on the part of the circuits with the administration.

Jack Cohen leaped to his feet and hotly defended Pizor. He declared that Pizor was doing good work. He said he had attended a conference with the Governor at which Pizor also was present and that Pizor had made no deal, but had tried to show the Governor the plight of the industry.

Darrow Delays His Testimony on NRA

NRA situation, Clarence Darrow today did not appear before the Senate Finance Committee investigating the NRA, but is expected to do so Wednesday. Discussing the inquiry, Darrow today characterized it as a "whitewash," pointing out that he was apparently the only opponent of the NRA to be called.

S. Clay Williams, chairman of the National Industrial Recovery Board, continuing his testimony before the committee, today flatly denied that either the Recovery Act or its administration had brought about the suspension of the anti-trust laws beyond the point necessary to effectuate the basic requirements of the law.

Universal City, '15-'35: Its Genesis and History

HOLLYWOOD, March 18.—When producers pioneered into California, warm bright sunshine and natural beauty also attracted Carl Laemmle who had been filming Universal pictures previously at Fort Lee, N. J. Fresh from Kenosha, he built his first studio at Gower and Sunset, in Hollywood.

There was a great deal of activity in the little studios, which employed sunlight exclusively for photographic purposes back in 1912 and two years later the Gower Street "plant" was so crowded, Laemmle began to worry about larger quarters. The town itself was beginning to grow, thanks to the picture industry, and real estate prices boomed.

Besides, there was an increasing demand for westerns which could not hold 50 horses, so Carl, Senior, felt the best investment he could make would be to buy a large ranch and build a plant that would met the needs of every type of picture from westerns to serials to animal films to comedies. So he began pioneering again at distant places for a site that would match his ambition.

For more than six months, Universal agents scoured the surrounding countryside. Finally, early in 1914, Isadore Bernstein, then manager of Universal Studios, negotiated for the purchase of the Taylor estate, in what was then Lankershim. The property was located five miles from the heart of Hollywood and about 13 miles from the Alexandria Hotel, then the hub of Los Angeles. Two hundred and thirty-five acres and ideally suited for picture making. Laemmle pondered.

Through Stanley Anderson, who later developed Beverly Hills, Bernstein acquired the Taylor estate and was ordered to prepare for Laemmle's approval, his concept of what the "world's largest studio" should encompass. This was the beginning of Universal City, which today extends west from Dark Canyon Road, the Burbank city limits, to Lankershim Blvd., the main street of North Hollywood. Scenes representing every corner of the globe have been filmed here and from the studios located here have gone more than 2,250 pictures which have made film history and brought fame and fortune to many stars, writers, directors and producers.

Long before a street car line approached this "magic city" of the San Fernando Valley, the site of Universal City was the scene of a modest little war. Spanish invaders from northern California came down to El Camino Real from San Francisco and, following the inhabitants of the Puebla, heard of the advancing forces and marched north along the riverbed until they met the attackers. It is said that for three days there was gun fire, a lot of noise and, after a mule had been killed and two men wounded on each side, the clashing warriors got together and celebrated peace with a huge fiesta and the valley was quiet again.

Without assistance and although he was managing the affairs of 20 companies making pictures every week, Bernstein laid out Universal City, even to the point of arranging a residential section, enabling the studio thus to obtain the rating of a fourth-class city with its own governmental post office. He designed the buildings and acted as contractor with William Horsley as head of the construction crew.

In the fall of 1914, construction crews began clearing the western end of the ranch, leveling off sites for stages and building roads, particularly "Laemmle Boulevard," a paved street a mile long leading from the front admission gate to the "Back Ranch." Presently the farming community of Lankershim began to grow into a city of considerable size, for those who did not and could not live at Universal City bought property and moved there. In October, 1914, there were nearly 500 inhabitants of Universal City, among them 75 Indians, who lived in tepees on the edge of the hill; western riders, "soldiers" and workmen and 125 head of horses.

By December, 1914, the administration buildings, cafe, stables, hospital, and post office were complete. At first, open stages were built, to accommodate overflow production from Gower St. The new stages were large enough for several companies at one time. North of the sets were the dressing rooms and over the dressing rooms was a huge grandstand where tourists and visitors were admitted at a small charge, the whole thing resembling a baseball park in many ways. Visitors came to the studio in busses, mounted the bleachers and were permitted to applaud so long as they did not disturb the work before the box cameras.

The crowning achievement of this early plant was "the electric stage." Pioneering again, a stage electrically equipped was erected between the electrical department and the scenario building, which was closed in and not open to the bleacher visitors. On this stage the first "trick" shots were photographed. Nearly 50 pictures were completed at Universal City before the grand official opening and filmland's finest zoo had become so well established that elephants, camels, and even trained lions made their way about the back ranch with homelike nonchalance.

March 15, 1915, had been heralded as the opening day for this then wonder city. Colored posters had been tacked in railway stations from coast to coast, promising thrills never before experienced would assail the eyes and ears of California visitors when Universal City opened.

A special train from New York picked up Universal branch office managers and leading exhibitors at Chicago, Kansas City and Denver.

They charged a quarter to see how pictures were made in those days. Scene at Universal City when a "Rubberneck Wagon" made regular trips from Los Angeles to the studio. Tourists were the customers and they came in droves.

Buffalo Bill met the party at the Grand Canyon and crowds at every station sped them to the show. At San Bernardino, Bernstein and studio officials ballyhooed their arrival and the 100 passengers motored into Los Angeles.

Early next morning, Monday, March 15, the visitors headed a motorized caravan through Hollywood, over Cahuenga Pass and down into the valley to the main gate of Universal City. Here a crowd of more than 20,000 saw the west's first woman police chief, Laura Oakley, present Laemmle with the golden key to the chain lock.

As a band played the national anthem, a flag was pulled to the top of the flag pole, and Laemmle with a grand gesture and his smile, opened Universal City and studios. R. H. Cochrane, vice-president, P. A. Powers, treasurer, Joe Brandt and Bernstein proudly assisted their chief. U. K. Whipple, camera man who was later to become a famed war photographer, ground off newsreel scenes.

As visitors entered the grounds on their first tour of inspection, cowboys, mounted actors costumed as Union and Confederate soldiers; Indians, in full war paint and regalia, acted as guides and guards. During the lunch hour, the guests of honor were served in the studio restaurant, and famous players of those days were introduced between speeches of greeting and well wishing.

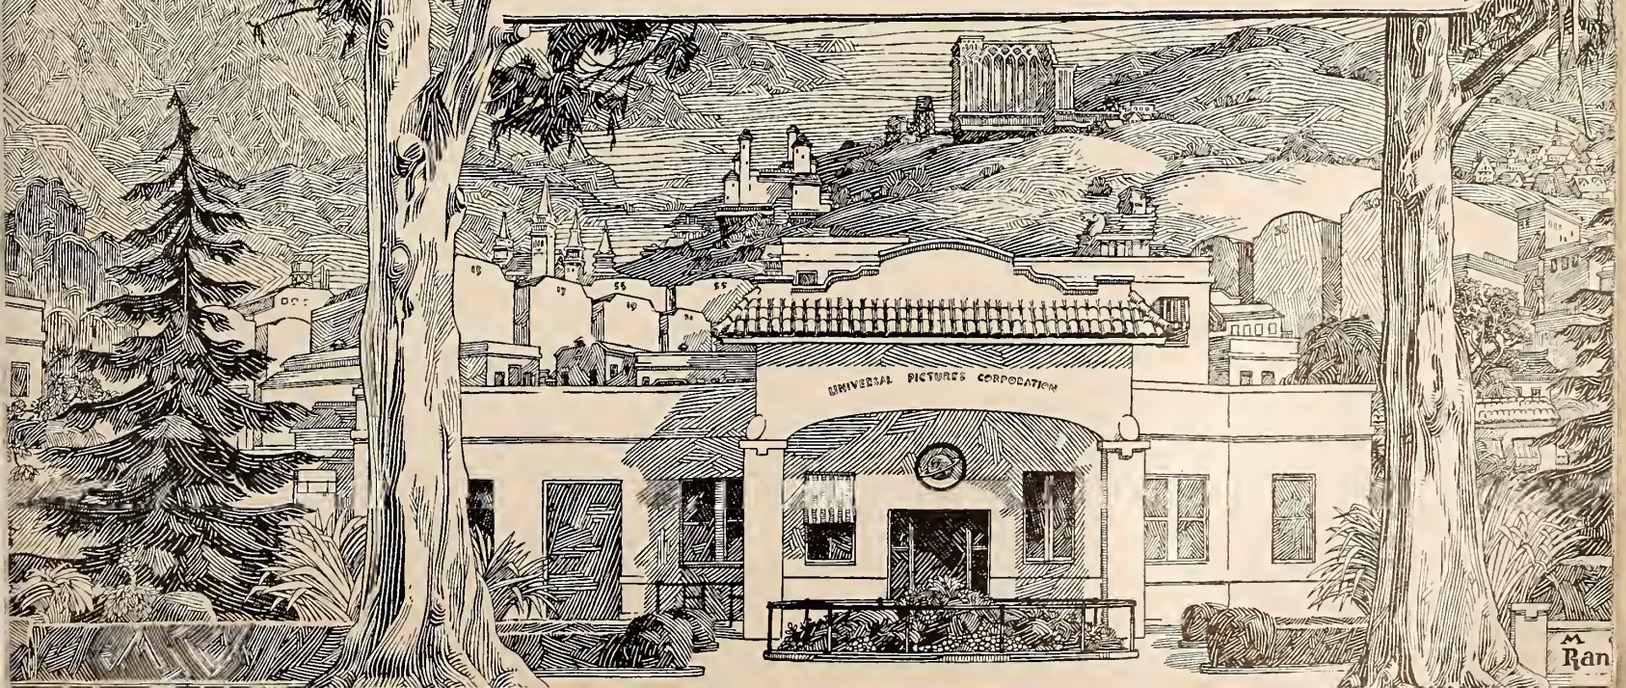
20th ANNIVERSARY OF UNIVERSAL STUDIOS

Not Millions – But Billions!

While I have been in this business 29 years, this is really the 20th Anniversary of Universal because the first nine years of my picture career only led up to Universal. Then we opened Universal City. I wish I could find words to express my deep-seated joy in being able to commemorate this 20th year.

Twenty is a lot of years for any company to remain unchanged as a world-wide organization.



I am therefore extremely happy on this occasion to thank my associates and co-workers who have helped to make possible such a glorious past, and those of you who are now wholeheartedly helping to preserve the name and integrity of Universal for the future.

What can I say? How can I adequately put into words what I now feel? I don't know. I am stumped. So I won't try.

I'll just say to each and every one of you—thanks, a million thanks. But that is not enough. Today we deal in billions instead of millions. So, I say billions of thanks for the perfectly glorious way in which you have stood by me through thick and thin.

Universal City, '15-'35: Its Genesis and History

returned to the lot to behold new miracles. The first event was a battle. The Motion Picture News correspondent reported:

"Francis Ford staged a battle on the greensward, surrounded by a natural amphitheatre of hills—the very location in which 'Damon and Pythias' had been photographed."

When the battle ended, automobiles carried the guests to the back ranch, where Henry MacRae's 101 Bison Co. staged a spectacular scene from "The Flood," starring Marie Walcamp. Thousands gasped as a huge reservoir, high in the hills, released tons of water which came rushing toward the cameras, tossing Miss Walcamp and her supporting players around in foamy white waves while excited cameramen recorded the scene and the crowd cheered. From the MacRae set, the party went to see Princess Ibrahim Hassan playing the romantic story of her own life, then visited Al Christie's Nestor Comedy company at work.

At sunset, a barbecue supper was served by soldier, cowboy and Indian actors. And after the barbecue, a grand ball was held on the "electric stage." Laemmle, Messrs. Cochrane and Powers sat in a special box and reviewed the grand march, led by Charles ("Daddy") Manley, an 86-year-old actor, and "Mother" Benson, character actress of the day. The paraders marched to a tune composed by Norman McNamer especially for the occasion. General Manager Bernstein, though tired from a day of excitement, participated in the march, carrying Junior Laemmle on his shoulder. By midnight, the guests were ready to return to Los Angeles, convinced that Universal City was officially open and was indeed one of the amazing places of the world.

Crowds Watch Stunts

On Tuesday, March 16, the celebration continued with added thrills and added thousands attending. The morning was given over to watching the various companies at work and the afternoon was started with a half mile horse race for a trophy and a thrilling exhibition of tumbling, wall scaling and daring by Eddie Polo. After this, the crowd went to the back ranch, where Frank Stiles was scheduled to demonstrate how an airplane would attack a warship.

After flying low over the hills and dropping dummy bombs on a set, Stiles misjudged his distance, crashed and was instantly killed. This catastrophy caused immediate cancellation of further entertainment and the guests of honor finished the second day with a quiet dinner at Nat Goodwin's cafe in Venice.

The following day was St. Patrick's Day, and Powers was host to exchange managers, studio stars and executives at the Alexandria Hotel. The entertainment scheduled for the studio had been cancelled because of the death of Stiles. On the next day, the Universal special train headed for New York.

In spite of the excitement which attended the opening, 31 different films were released during the opening week. The list ranged from animated weekly newsreels to animal comedies and a comedy drama called "Mary's Duke," in three reels.

Mecca of Notables

The opening festivities had brought many future celebrities to Universal City. Just starting their picture careers and little known at the time, the following were at the grand ball: Cecil B. DeMille, J. Warren Kerrigan, Robert Z. Leonard, Lon Chaney, Hobart Bosworth, Al Christie, T. L. Tally, Frank Lloyd, Jean Hersholt, and Thomas H. Ince.

The following year, Vice-President Thomas A. Marshall came to Universal City after visiting the Panama-Pacific Exposition at San Francisco and dedicated a new electrical stage. Present at the ceremonies were Henry and Edsel Ford and Thomas A. Edison.

In 1916 the great Anna Pavlowa arrived to make "The Dumb Girl of Portici," which marked the debut of Lois Wilson, a beauty contest winner from Birmingham, Ala., and Boris Karloff, a stage actor who gave up the theatre when the flu epidemic made actors wear masks. Jules Verne's "20,000 Leagues Under the Sea" was filmed partly in the Caribbean Sea and partly at Universal City.

Robert Z. Leonard, Frank Lloyd, Frank Borzage, Rex Ingram, Elmer Clifton, Allan Holubar, Edward J. LeSaint, Ida May Parks, Joseph de-Grasse, Rupert Julian, Francis and Jack Ford, W. S. Van Dyke and other notable directors were gaining prestige and some of them "doubling in brass" at Universal in those days. Lloyd was author, director and star of a series of short reel comedies as was also Robert Leonard.

In 1917, Mae Murray made her debut at Universal in "Princess Virtue" directed by Leonard, whom she married. Then Harry Carey, Herbert Rawlinson, Dorothy Phillips, Ella Hall, Fritzi Ridgeway, Fritzi Brunette, Zoe Ray, Eddie Polo, Grace Cunard and Francis Ford, Marie Walcamp and Jack Holt, Hobart Henley and Priscilla Dean were the leading Universal stars. As war approached Lois Weber was making Universal pictures with Mildred Harris Chaplin at her own studio and Miss Harris, with Priscilla Dean, Marie Walcamp, Grace Cunard, Mary MacLaren, Monroe Salisbury, Ella Hall and Dorothy Phillips were important Universal stars.

Among the hits of 1917 and 1918 were "Sirens of the Sea," "Come Through," "Hell Morgan's Girl," "Just Jim," "Shoes," "Scandal Mongers," "Price of a Good Time," "For Men Only," "Kaiser, Beast of Berlin," which starred its director, Rupert Julian, and broke records for exhibitors. As the Armistice approached Allan Holubar began "The Heart of Humanity," starring William Stowell and Dorothy Phillips with Eric von Stroheim in support.

The Era of Spectacle

Shortly afterward Miss Phillips starred in "Destiny" and von Stroheim began his directorial career with "Blind Husbands" and followed with the first million-dollar production, "Foolish Wives." "The Virgin of Stamboul" and "Under Two Flags" did much to make Miss Dean the leading Universal star. Herbert Rawlinson began a series of George Barr McCutcheon Graustarkian melodramas; James J. Corbett's success in the serial, "The Red Glove," brought Jack Dempsey before Universal cameras for two serials and Reginald Denny began his career auspiciously as the star of two series of "Leather Pushers" short reelers. Returning from the war, Hoot Gibson began his career in earnest in two-reelers.

"Foolish Wives" was followed by "The Hunchback of Notre Dame," directed by Wallace Worsley and for which a $400,000 set duplicating exactly the cathedral of Notre Dame and surrounding historical buildings was built. This picture brought Lon Chaney into the front rank of stars and represented one of the milestones of screen advancement. "Phantom of the Opera" with Chaney was a worthy successor as was also the von Stroheim-Rupert Julian production, "Merry-Go-Round." Toward the end of the silent picture days young Carl Laemmle, Jr. (at 17), became a producer, and made 40 short-reel subjects which won approval as "The Collegians." Then he advanced to the ranks of feature production and made "Broadway."

Here Comes "Showboat"

Came the memorable "Showboat," which was begun as a silent picture and converted into a talking picture. Toward the end of the silent days the comedy-drama team of Laura LaPlante and Reginald Denny was Universal's popular starring combination.

"Uncle Tom's Cabin" and "The Whole Town's Talking," with Edward Everett Horton and a new Mexican actress, Dolores del Rio, were outstanding in 1926. "The Cat and the Canary" and "The Last Laugh," "Bachelor Daddy" and "Silk Stockings" were other hit films of the late silent picture era at Universal City.

"Showboat" ushered in sound at Universal City along with Ken Maynard westerns, "The Drake Case" and "Czar of Broadway." When Laemmle, Jr., became general manager on his 21st birthday he cabled his father to buy the rights to "All Quiet on the Western Front," which Hollywood wiseacres said "could not be filmed." Lewis Milestone was engaged to film the book, which he did with a practically unknown cast at a cost far over $1,000,000. Completed, the picture won five international awards for merit.

While Milestone was making "All Quiet," young Laemmle was also supervising "King of Jazz" in Technicolor at a cost of more than $1,000,000, and "Captain of the Guard" with John Boles and Laura LaPlante.

While few important industries can hark back for 20 years and behold progress comparable to that of the motion picture industry, fewer individuals can have bestowed upon them the encomiums that have been tendered Laemmle for his record of a quarter of a century. Universal carved a niche for itself in celluloid history. The company has served as a laboratory for experiment and a training school for personalities as well as producer of clean entertainment. The industry, in showering Laemmle with roses and panegyrics, reflects its own rise on the 20th anniversary of the opening of Universal City.

Bank Night Owners File Missouri Suit

KANSAS CITY, March 18.—Alleging infringement of the bank night copyright, Affiliated Distributors, Inc., has filed suit in Federal court for $7,200 damages against Tom Edwards, Ozark, Eldon, Mo. Suit was filed at Jefferson City, Mo., but will be heard here.

It is alleged that after cancelling his bank night contract with the distributor's consent, Edwards started cash night in violation of contract provisions which bind the user not to employ anything similar within a year after cancellation.

According to R. W. McEwan, local distributor, this action is a forerunner to others to be brought in this territory against theatres using cash night, prosperity night, ritz night, silver night, profit sharing night, or any other device operating in violation of the bank night copyright. Don Johnson has been retained as the company's attorney.

Mae Murray Reports New Producing Firm

KANSAS CITY, March 18.—Mae Murray, coastbound, said here last night she with several others was forming a production company with distribution through a major. She asserted she would be featured and serve as an executive, declining to reveal details.

Intermountain Meets

SALT LAKE CITY, March 18.—Among those who attended a two-day session of the Intermountain Theatre Owners' Ass'n. were: A. F. Johnson of St. Anthony, Idaho; Mike Neilson of Logan and Brigham City, Utah; W. C. Call, Brigham City; H. D. Jorgensen of Rigby, Idaho; Mr. and Mrs. Littlejohn of Helper and Price, Utah; Ben Winslow of Tremonton, Utah; G. W. Thatcher of Logan; John Rugar of Park City, Utah, and C. E. Huish, president, from Eureka, Utah.

Meet Over Bank Nights

SAN FRANCISCO, March 18.—A group of exhibitors including all principal local operators today met at the office of Rowena Foley, code board secretary, to defend themselves against a blanket complaint by Herman Cohen, operator of the United Artists, who charges violation of the code through use of bank nights. The complainant wants the practice done away with.

Two Appeals Are Heard

Two clearance and zoning cases were heard yesterday by a Campi appeal committee consisting of Gordon C. Youngman, chairman; E. T. Gomersall and William Yoost. The cases were: George H. Kline, State, Boyertown, Pa., against Strand and Hippodrome, Pottstown, Pa.; Albert A. Galston and Jay M. Sutton, Marcal, Los Angeles, against A. L., Mike and Charles Gore, Iris, same town.

of the arrangements. Representatives of producing firms requested to serve include P. D. Cochrane, Howard Dietz, S. Charles Einfeld, Robert Gillham, Hal Horne, Charles E. McCarthy, S. Barret McCormick, Herschel Stuart and A. P. Waxman.

Among theatre representatives asked to sit on the committee are Joseph Bernhard, Mort Blumenstock, Oscar Doob, John Dowd, Charles C. Moskowitz, Sam Rinzler, George Skouras, Major Leslie Thompson and Joe Vogel.

A luncheon at the M. P. Club will precede the opening of the exhibit. Tom Wiley and Arnold Van Leer of the club are working with A-Mike Vogel, chairman of the Managers' Round Table Club, on preliminaries.

'3 on Horse' to Warners

"Three Men on a Horse," current on Broadway, has been sold to Warners.

Para. Will Finance Wanger; Paley Out

HOLLYWOOD, March 18.—Jay Paley's deal with Walter Wanger to finance two pictures has expired and Paramount will back Wanger on all his future productions, thus permitting him to continue working at the General Service Studios here. Paramount, as usual, will release the pictures.

"Camelias" Opening

"La Dame aux Camelias" opens tonight at the 5th Ave. Playhouse and Yvonne Printemps and Pierre Fresnay, who are co-starred, will make a personal appearance at the opening.

Report Loew Peace Moves From Chicago

First Compromise Talks Died in New Orleans

CHICAGO, March 17.—In the face of the persistent and insistent attitude on the part of Loew officials that the circuit will build and acquire theatres here are reports that efforts to compromise the situation have not been abandoned.

The difficulty is over Metro's inability to persuade the Essanness and Schoenstadt circuits and independent theatres which buy through various local booking combines to play Leo's product on percentage, plus designated playdates.

The first attempt, launched by Jay Emanuel of Philadelphia in conjunction with M. P. T. O. A. leaders, took Major Edward Bowes, vice-president of M-G-M for the past 10 years, has resigned that post to concentrate his efforts on his broadcasting work and the Capitol Theatre. No successor has been appointed.

When reached Saturday, Bowes told MOTION PICTURE DAILY: "I have reached a point where I want to do less and have therefore resigned the M-G-M vice-presidency."

He denied reports that the WHN auxiliary station in Brooklyn would close.

G. B. Retaliates Swiftly In British Booking Fight

By BRUCE ALLAN

LONDON, March 17.—Swiftly is developing Gaumont British's retaliation over decision of the Kinematograph Renters' Society not to recognize the former's booking deal with the Hyams and Gale circuit as well as with Union Cinemas, Ltd., which together represent 34 houses, many of them in the de luxe classification.

It is understood G.B.'s answer is that it will not book films from Wardour, Pathe or M-G-M. Inclusion of the latter is viewed as a direct slap at Sam Eckman, Jr., managing director for M-G-M here, who is chief ally of John Maxwell, president of K.R.S., in the move against G. B.

As a result of the absence of every original appointee at the last session, Campi is now being called the Board of Alternates.

Kuykendall Has Named Committee for Task

M. P. T. O. A. will launch its campaign for "reasonably increased cancellation" under the code immediately, Ed Kuykendall, president, said Saturday.

The committee of five, which the organization's recent national convention authorized and empowered to propose a program of code changes, has been designated by Kuykendall and will be announced in the M. P. T. O. A. organizational bulletin appearing early this week. Kuykendall will be chairman of the committee and Morris Loewenstein, new M. P. T. O. A. national secretary, will be secretary. A clause authorizing 20 per cent cancellations is expected to be proposed by the committee for inclusion in the code, in accordance with sentiment expressed at the convention. Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

THE industry is passing through the pains of editorial castigation with less and less injury. A look, even a quick one, at substantial segments of the nation's press, proves the point. The evidence . . .

The Seattle Sunday Times: "Fair-minded picture patrons must admit the producers have kept faith. The moral tone of motion picture entertainment has never been as high as it is at present. . . . And the most significant point of all is that the industry has regulated itself; has cleaned its own house."

The Wilkes Barre Times-Leader: . . . "Moving pictures have changed their flavors and, though one may not say that the change is absolute, yet much more of the wholesome is to be enjoyed than before." . . .

The Gastonia Gazette: "It is with a sense of keen personal and social delight that we have watched the gradual evolution of the motion picture theatre from its not-so-long abandoned plane of sensationalized sex-madness to a definite level of cultural achievement."

The Lawrence, Mass., News: "Moving pictures are on the reform. They are glad they started to purify their plots and clean up stories. Filth is fast disappearing and the miracle of it all is that the pictures are actually beginning to make money." . . .

The Los Angeles Post-Record: "The Legion of Decency has done a good job in suppressing the salacious movie. . . . The producers, too, are to be complimented for their prompt response to the demand for more healthful fare and, if published figures may be taken as an indication, the sanitation process has been a profitable as well as a moral step."

The Hamilton, O., Journal: "Since the inauguration of a well-organized campaign against indecency and the exploitation of crime and immorality on the screen, there has been a marked improvement in the tone of motion pictures, but the standard could be raised still higher without interference with box-office receipts." . . .

The Sioux City, Iowa, Journal: "The average fan might have difficulty in recalling a single film in the last two or three months to which he could find objection on the ground that it was offensive to morals."

The New Bedford, Mass., Standard Times: "That the past year has witnessed a distinct improvement to motion picture offerings when judged from the standards of taste and morals has become increasingly clear to the atregoers. . . . It is only fair, however, that efforts to safeguard the public against indecency should be accompanied by the encouragement of patronage for really good pictures." . . .

The Los Angeles Times: "Hollywood is a barometer of public taste. The pendulum has swung back from artificiality toward sincerity. The flapper has flapped out. . . . Bad manners, fast habits, extravagant living, promiscuous petting and free love are ceasing to be 'smart.' Even hip flasks are becoming relics. . . . We have muddled through considerable mud; but we are scraping it off."

The Grand Rapids, Mich., Herald: "The movie industry, having thrown off its rather mottled garb and donned the robes of purity, likes the new raiment and so does the public." . . .

The Ogden, Utah, Standard-Examiner: "Evidence of an earnest effort to improve the entertainment standards of motion pictures is to be found in the list of new productions. . . . The latest films have been freed from routine themes. . . . Because the films are a vital force in national entertainment and instruction, this new spirit on the part of producers should be encouraged. The public in the end will determine whether this policy will be continued."

The Hartford Courant: "Since the great awakening, the industry appears to have made a thoroughly good job of it. It has pretty effectually silenced its critics by producing many films that not only are unobjectionable but possess merit in the highest order. . . . On every side one hears little but praise of what the industry has done to meet the requirements of decent public sentiment." . . .

And so it goes in greater volume than the film man, engrossed in his normal job of making, selling and exhibiting films, perhaps realizes. What you have read here represents a tiny voice in virtually a roar of editorial approbation which is descending on the industry. This is

IATSE Cuts Week to Help More Members

In an effort to reduce unemployment within the organization's ranks, the I. A. T. S. E., supervising the activities of Local 306, is lopping off a working day from each employed member's week.

Working members have been putting in five days a week. Starting this week they will report for four as a result of an order issued by the international body. There are about 1,800 members in Local 306, of which, it is said, approximately 400 are without employment.

Several operators have protested, but without results. The I. A. T. S. E. has power to take whatever emergency measures are necessary to insure work for as many members as possible and has exercised this right.

With the windup of the NRA fact-finding committee, the truce between Local 306, Allied M. P. Operators and Empire State Union has been dissolved with the outcome that picketing of independent and circuit houses is in full force again. Compliance Director Sol A. Rosenblatt's efforts to reconcile the various unions and exhibitor leaders have failed. He was in town over the week-end to discuss the situation with exhibitor heads, but did not indicate whether he would call another meeting of the body in Washington.

Some reports have it he may write a basic wage scale for the fact-finding committee and present it to Campi for approval. The local booth plan is a part of the code, and before it is approved by the NRA it must first be accepted by Code Authority.

Universal Shutdown; Resume in 2 Weeks

HOLLYWOOD, March 17.—Universal City is at a temporary shutdown with not a single production in work. The lull will only last about two weeks with three pictures slated to start at the end of that period.

Films slated for the cameras at that time are "The Raven," "Chinatown Squad" and "Alias Mary Dow," the latter to star Sally Eilers.

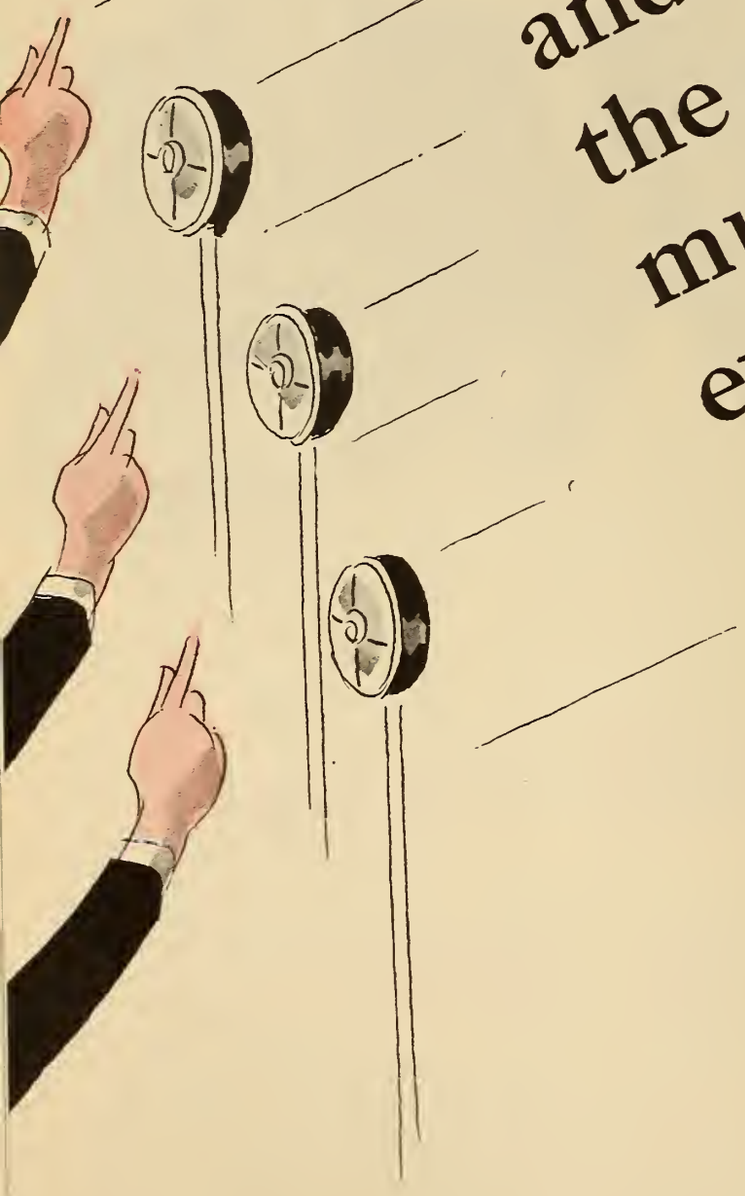
Barnes Opposite Arnold

HOLLYWOOD, March 17.—Binnie Barnes draws the feminine lead in "Diamond Jim," Universal film featuring Edward Arnold. Eddie Sutherland will direct with production starting on or about April 1.

1,000 Observe "U" City's 20th Year

HOLLYWOOD, March 17.—Universal City celebrated its 20th anniversary Saturday night with all available ex-employes attending as well as present workers and their families to the tune of about 1,000. Many current topline executives and players who received their initial training under Carl Laemmle's sponsorship were included.

Chevalier Sails on 23rd



HOLLYWOOD, March 17.—Maurice Chevalier is rushing his departure for New York so that he can catch the March 23 sailing of the Isle de France. He will spend his usual summer vacation in France and return to Hollywood in the Fall.

U.S. Gaining Old Position With Hungary

By ENDRE HEVESI

BUDAPEST, March 5.—In this country of 8,000,000 inhabitants, the state of the film and show business depends entirely on the 1,000,000 population of the capital. Only a Budapest success gets box-office results and a picture which fails to please here cannot pay its way even if it is well received in the provinces.

Most picture goers in Budapest speak a second language beside Hungarian. This is, in the majority of cases, German, owing to the proximity of the German language territory. This is the reason why, when sound first came in American films were almost entirely driven out of Hungarian territory and their place taken by German talkers made in Berlin. This situation has entirely changed since the advent of the Hitler regime. German production for export purposes has practically ceased and has been unable to recover its former position. There is a lack of good German films without a political tinge. American pictures have regained their former position in Hungary.

Meeting European Tastes

Imports by the Budapest branches of American companies currently are approaching the standards of European tastes. These are much appreciated in Hungary, but pictures catering to 100 per cent American tastes are hopeless. The English language is a distinct drawback, since it is spoken by comparatively few people, particularly outside Budapest. Last season and in the course of the first part of the current season there have been no outstanding financial successes among picture imports.

In the heyday of German talkers, a run of six to 20 weeks was nothing unusual. During the past two seasons, however, such runs have been unknown. Three weeks was the longest run in any theatre, and even this was given a few hits. American pictures had better not reckon on longer runs than two or three, or even one week, in the "premiere theatre," and profits should be calculated on this modest basis.

There is no doubt, however, that American films will maintain their position in Hungary. French pictures are not popular here, English product is only beginning to build up a market, and with the one exception of "The Private Life of Henry VIII," none can boast of box-office results so far. An output of at least 12 Hungarian and German language talkers made in Budapest must be reckoned with.

German censors do not permit the importation of German-language talkers made in Budapest into Germany, on the ground that too much non-Aryan talent is employed. If there is no change in this German attitude, it will make the successful exploitation of the Budapest studios impossible, and in this case the Hungarian government will almost certainly make reprisals and restrict the importation of German pictures. Austrian production does not count for much. No more do Czech pictures made in Prague, since the Czech government, for political reasons, does not admit Hungarian pictures into Czechoslovakia, not wishing the Hungarian minorities in that country to keep in contact with Hungarian culture. As a result, the Hungarian authorities impede the importation of Czech product into this country. Russian films need also not be reckoned with. Hungarian censors have not so far permitted the showing of any Russian pictures.

Taking all these points into consideration, it seems certain that the position of American pictures in coming months will be a dominating one, but no very big business may be expected.

Germany's Theatre Total Is Now Figured at 4,922

By J. K. RUTENBERG

BERLIN, March 7.—German figures on theatres in the country currently operating are computed at 4,922. Of this total 4,044 have under 500 seats; 642 seat from 500 to 900 each and 236 have larger capacities. In the minor division, bulk seats are figured at 1,133,814. Medium-sized houses seat 558,197 and the larger houses 296,930, thereby making the grand total for the nation 1,988,941.

Theatres open daily run to 2,142. Open twice a week are 1,358, and the remainder give one show a week.

More than 40 nations to date have signed the Geneva convention abolishing taxes of every description on educationals, the signatory countries including the United States, Great Britain, Italy, France, Germany, Austria, Bengium, Poland, Switzerland, Sweden and India. Every educational for which such exemption is claimed must now be submitted to the International Institute for Education in Rome. There the film will be examined and decision made if the exemption may apply.

Two thousand 16 mm. reproducers have been delivered to German schools and institutions. Available for exhibition are 4,000 educational subjects. The funds making this possible were contributed voluntarily by pupils at the rate of 80 pfennigs a year.

* * *

An international convention of exhibitors is slated to be held here the end of April. The sessions probably will run a full week.

Pursuing further its international policy, Tobis Tonbild Syndikat, AG. will open an exchange in Prague by April 1 as the Czech Tobis Corp. Production of pictures in Czechoslovakia by the fall is also rating serious consideration. This will give Tobis its own distributlon outlets in England, France, Holland, Austria, Portugal, Switzerland and, of course, Germany.

Of the 285 features imported by Austria last year Germany claims the lead with 129. The United States is in second place with 110, while 46 came from assorted European countries. Thus, Germany is up 20 on its 1933 total and the United States the same.

The German features, "Um das Menschenrecht" (Around Men's Rights) has been withdrawn from distribution. It was directed by Hans Zoberlein and dealt with German conditions after the Treaty of Versailles.

The Ass'n of German Film Industrials, the Renters' Society, the Union of German Film Studios and the German Organization for Export Trade have united and formed an Ass'n of German Film Production and Film Exploitation (Verband deut scher Filmherstellung und Filmverwertung) under the leadership of Carl Froelich.

As exclusively forecast in MOTION PICTURE DAILY, the conditions brought about by the introduction of a price of 20,000 Reichsmarks per import license have changed. Owing to the negotiations by the remaining American branches in Germany, the fee has been considerably reduced. It is pretty certain that the above fee, which would have made the German market prohibitive for American companies, except in the case of unusual pictures, will be cut by 50 per cent for originals and will introduce a sliding scale for "dubbed" pictures.

Czechoslovak Film Prospect Brighter

WASHINGTON, March 17.—The resumption of activities by the American industry in Czechoslovakia with the lifting of restrictions against foreign films by that country is expected to lead to brighter days for the Czech theatre man. This opinion is based on reports received by the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce from Sam E. Woods, commercial attache at Prague.

"Motion picture theatre owners," says a bulletin of the bureau, "will no longer be forced to contend with a shortage of good pictures and domestic producers will be given an opportunity to improve the quality of their sound features in view of the substantial increase in the subsidy and the reduction in studio costs resulting from the competitive situation created by the opening of a second studio.

"The position of local film exchanges will likewise improve, since under the new regulations they will no longer need to depend on local producers for import permits or be forced to produce locally in order to acquire them."

The ban against foreign films was eased in November of last year after being in effect three years. Its purpose had been to reduce foreign competition, check the flood of German pictures pouring into Czechoslovakia and establish a subsidy for the infant domestic industry. The harmful effect of the system (which required a permit accompanied by a fee of $840 for each film imported) on the Czechoslovakian market impelled the government to do away with it.

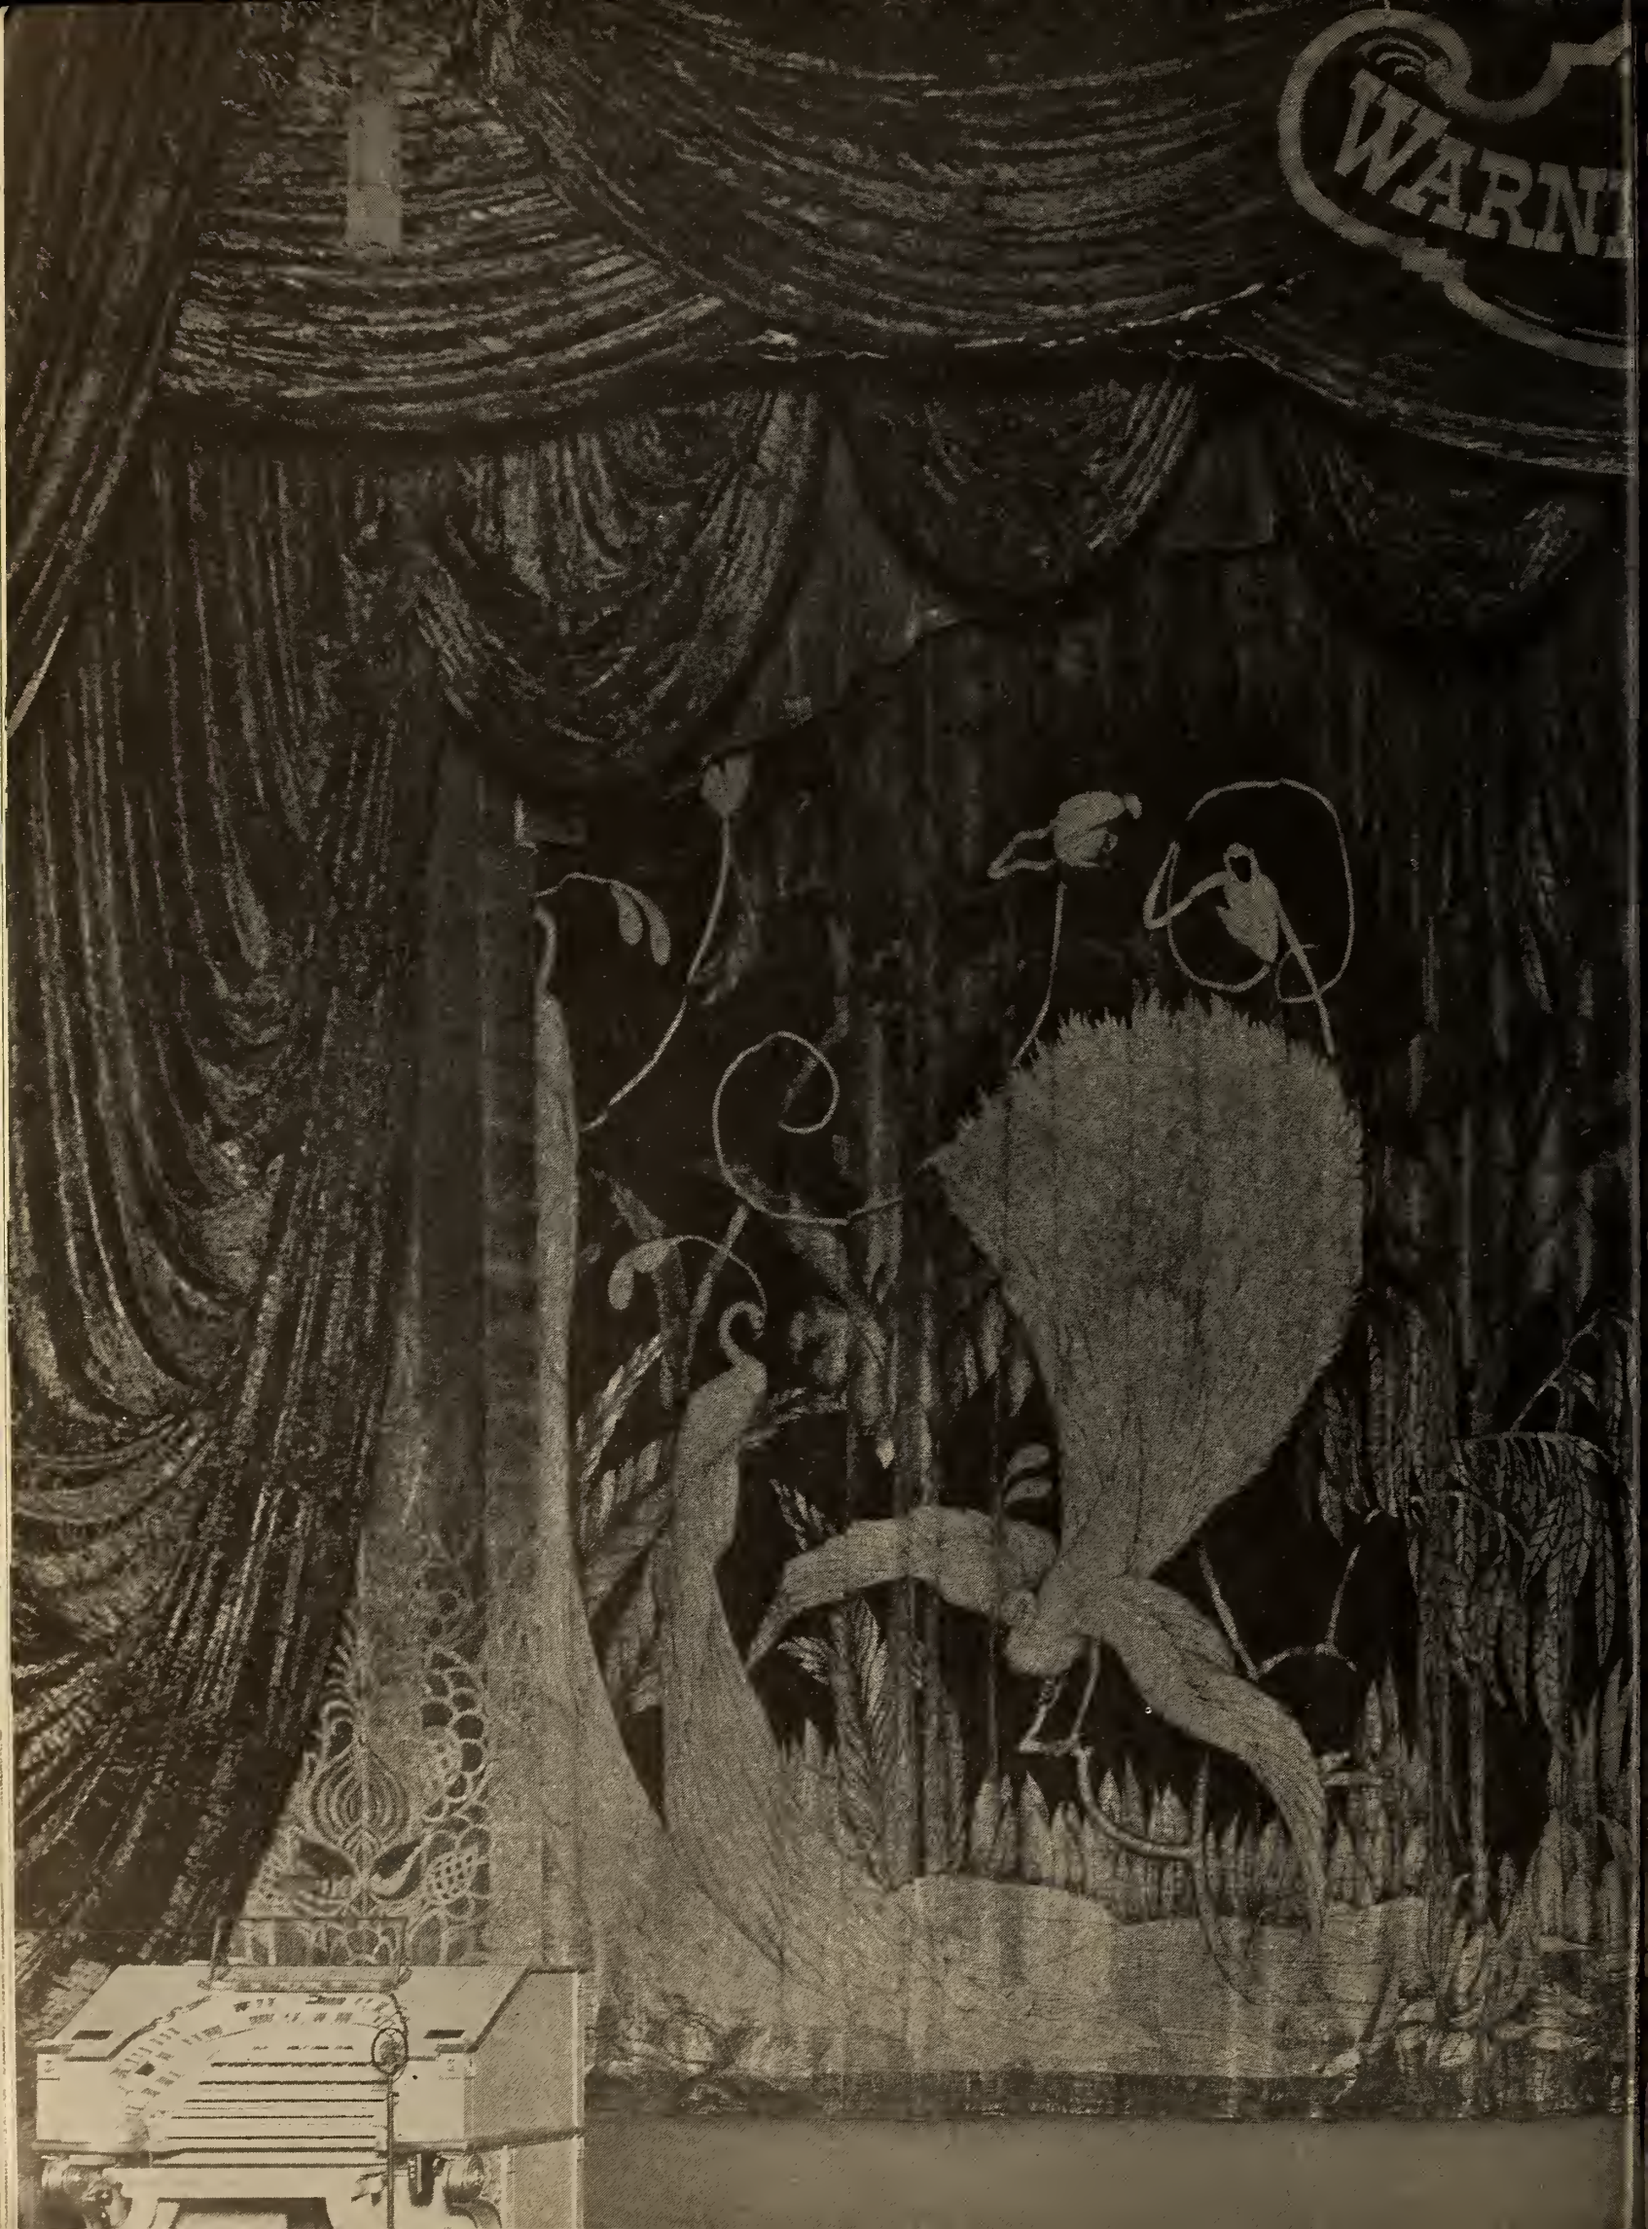
Mexico Silver Boom Seen as Theatre Help

By JAMES LOCKHART

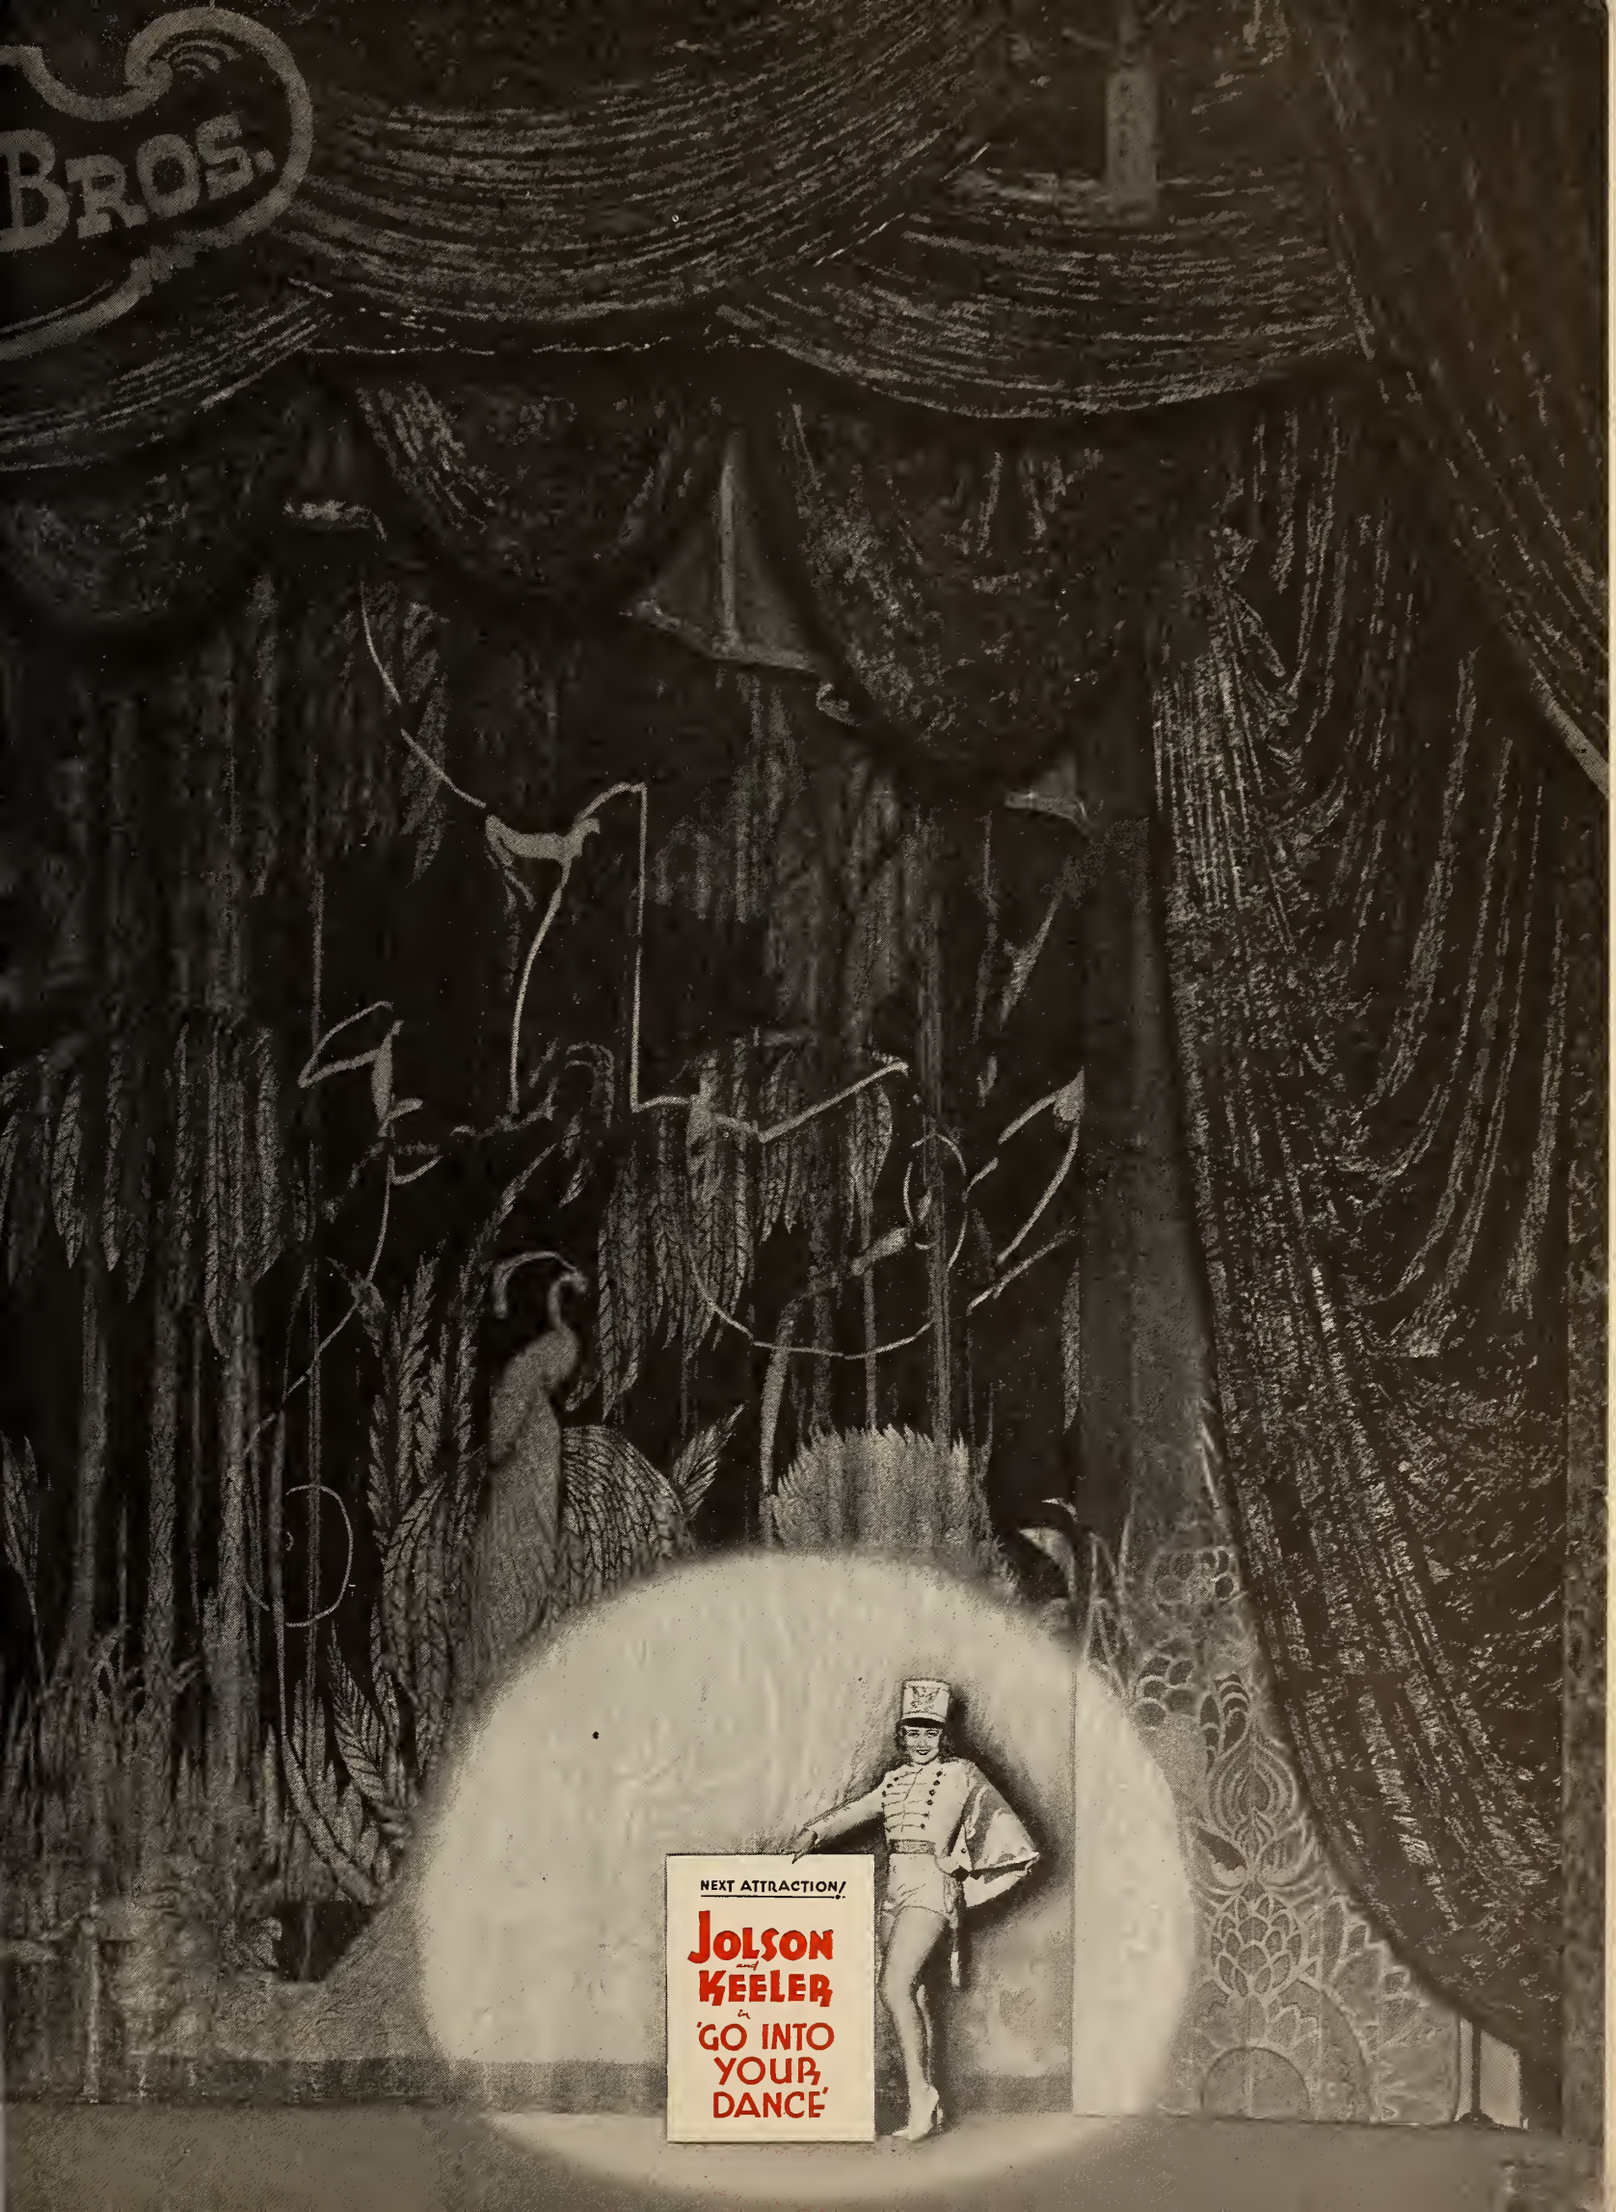
MEXICO CITY, March 7.—Renewed activity in the mining industry, an important phase of which is the increased world demand for, and price of, silver is mirroring itself in exhibition in this country.

As 1935 approaches its spring, general optimism, therefore, is prevalent. The majority opinion holds that the turn for the better which conditions reflected late last year will manifest itself more emphatically as 1935 grows older.

Exhibitors report a 25 per cent increase in business this year over last. Practically all of the public which eliminated pictures from its budgets during the depression is returning this year. If things keep on going as well as they are at present, 1935 should show an increase of at least 50 per cent in attendances here, exhibitors estimate.



A factor in this expected increased business is that several new and large theatres will be in operation. Some exhibitors see a trend toward higher prices for this city in 1935. At present, an exhibitor is doing very well indeed if he can get 1.50 pesos (about 40 cents) per patron, orchestra, for a first calibre, first run picture. There is talk that two pesos (56 cents) will be standard tariff in local first runs later this year.



Distributors Also Optimistic

Distributors also view 1935 as a bright year. It holds promise for increased business for them, at least as far as Mexico City is concerned. This city will have five first runs as against three now. Furthermore, with houses already under construction and others that are to go up and to be put into service in the course of the year, distributors see more business ahead for them. Before 1935 passes into history, this city will have around 70 picture houses. The number now is 61. Also, it is more than likely that several more theatres will be wired soon.

All agree, however, that 1935 will not be without its clouds. Taxes and duties are very high. Nevertheless, some distributors are confident action will be taken by the Government toward lowering both taxes and duties. Some foresee that several imposts will be abolished in the course of 1935, although they see little, if anything, beneficial in that direction concerning duties on films, discs and other equipment.

Although there is much improvement in Mexican-made pictures and they have become very popular in second-run houses here and in first as well as second runs in the provinces and while domestic pictures have set up some of the biggest box-office records in this country during 1934, distributors of foreign pictures have no worry in that direction. The concensus of opinion is that, while home production is holding its own and has at last claimed a public, it is a long way from running imported pictures off the screen. It is contended that at least 95 per cent of the films shown in Mexico this year will come from abroad.

Cincy Taft Garners $17,000 2nd Week

CINCINNATI, March 17.—The stage and screen policy inaugurated at the Taft by Larry Sundbrock, head of the National Radio Artists Ass'n, local booking office, did an estimated $17,000 last week with Thurston, the magician, on the stage, plus "The Night Alarm" as the screen feature.

Sundbrock, who leased the house temporarily as an experiment, and opened it March 1, concurrently with RKO's opening of the Shubert with stage and screen attractions, will continue its operation, playing personalities of the stage, screen and radio.

It is on a grind basis, with prices pegged at 25 cents from 11 A.M. to 1 P.M. for any seat; 40 cents for matinee, with an evening scale of 40 and 60 cents for balcony and lower floor. Children 25 cents any time.

Chicago House Gets 100% Apparatus for the Deaf

CHICAGO, March 17.—The first theatre of its kind—100 per cent equipped for the hard of hearing—will be opened March 22 as the initial unit in a proposed circuit of houses offering special facilities for the country's more than 20,000,000 hard of hearing.

E. S. A., Inc., of which David Ettleson is president and E. J. Stutz secretary and manager, is sponsor of the project under an arrangement with Dr. Hugo Lieber, inventor of the Sonotone apparatus for the hard of hearing.

The theatre will be known as the Sonotone. It will seat 350. More than $20,000 is being expended to make it a standard for others to follow.

Two types of hearing aids are being installed. One is Dr. Lieber's oscillator system by which deafened persons hear through bone conduction of sound from a small frame held to any part of the head. The method brings hearing to people totally deaf, it is said. Another will be provided for those whose hearing is impaired in lesser degree.

Despite the small seating capacity, two large RCA high fidelity speakers will be used. The sound volume possible is that for a 4,000-seat house, but each individual may adjust the volume to suit his particular condition.

According to the sponsors, 300,000 persons in the metropolitan area have impaired hearing. An advertising campaign will be directed to this group through organizations devoted to this work. Regular newspaper copy will carry only the line "every seat equipped for the hard of hearing."

An admission scale of 25 cents and 40 cents will prevail. A banquet is scheduled for March 21 to be followed by a preview, to which personalities in civic life and the medical profession will be invited. Dr. Lieber will head a delegation from the Federation for the Hard of Hearing.

"Roberta" Is Philadelphia Hit, $24,000

PHILADELPHIA March 17.—Grosses hit the top this week with "Roberta" leading the way at $24,000—double the average—for its first week at the Boyd. Now in second week with third likely.

"The Little Colonel," flanked by "March of Time," hit $18,500 for its third week, a top-notch figure. "Ruggles of Red Gap" got a good $12,000 at the Stanley and "Night Life of the Gods" topped $13,500 at the Earle.

Only definite slump in town was "Folies Bergere." After a corking first week, opposition of "Roberta" cut down gross and picture goes out tomorrow after two weeks.

Total first run business was $87,600. Average is $70,900.

Estimated takings for the week ending March 14:

Resume "The Crusades"

HOLLYWOOD, March 17.—Cecil B. DeMille, who was forced to halt production on "The Crusades" because of illness, is back on the job.

Henry Wilcoxson, one of the featured players, is still out with the flu.

Next Sidney Is "Accent"

HOLLYWOOD, March 17.—Sylvia Sidney will probably star in "Accent on Youth" as her next vehicle for Paramount.

The actress is now on a holiday trip east and is expected back shortly.

"Ruggles" Is Boston Smash; Gets $29,000

BOSTON, March 17.—"Ruggles of Red Gap" was a sensation at the Metropolitan. It ran the take up to $29,000, with the help of a stage show. This is $7,000 over par.

"Folies Bergere" and "Death Flies East" was the only other important money-making bill. It was $4,000 up on a gross of $14,000 at Loew's State.

Total first run business was $71,500. Average is $65,000.

Estimated takings for the week ending March 8:

subject to negotiations which the committee will have with distribution representatives.

M. P. T. O. A. will throw its weight against anti-block booking legislation, Kuykendall disclosed. In particular, it will oppose the Pettengill measure which has been introduced at Washington, and will recommend increased cancellation privileges as a more orderly solution of block booking problem.

M. P. T. O. A.'s new executive committee membership is currently being elected by its six regional divisions, each of which name a representative to the committee. In addition to the six, Kuykendall and Loewenstein also serve as members of the executive committee. Results of the balloting now in progress are expected to be made known within the next week or two.

Kuykendall leaves for Washington today and is expected back here toward the end of the week.

Flinn Due Back from Coast Trip Tuesday

Los Angeles, March 17.—After conferring three days and nights with the local clearance and zoning board on final changes of the Los Angeles schedule, John C. Flinn plans to leave tomorrow for New York, where he is expected to arrive Tuesday, with the revised plan.

He would not discuss changes agreed upon by the board inasmuch as Campi has not approved them. The revisions will be put up to Code Authority at its next session.

No Campi session is scheduled for Thursday, the meeting having been postponed until March 28 by unanimous consent of all Code Authority members last Friday.

Flinn, according to word reaching Campi headquarters late last week, was not due until March 25 or March 26, but he is believed to have changed his plans again when the Los Angeles board finally agreed upon changes in the coast schedule late last week.

drawing power has been tested, according to The Philadelphia Exhibitor.

To Raze Rialto May 15

Demolition of the Rialto will begin on May 15. The present building will be replaced by a more modern theatre. Wreckers will begin work immediately after the last performance is over.

Plans are being made to have an array of celebrities who at one time or another played at the theatre on hand to see the wreckers start.

Ampa to Nominate

Ampa members on Thursday will appoint a nominating committee, which will make selections of candidates for the new year. The meeting will be closed. Following this session, one more open meeting with gala entertainment will be held prior to the annual Naked Truth Dinner at the Astor, April 27.

Century-RKO Near End of Long Hearing

By agreement between Louis Nizer and Mitchell Klupt and the local clearance and zoning board, testimony in the Century-RKO clearance dispute in Long Island will wind up today with summations to follow on Thursday.

Today's session will be the eighth. At the last meeting, Abrams' patience was worn to a frazzle trying to keep both counselors in line. He had to strike from the record at the rate of once every 15 minutes rejoinders by Klupt. However, during the last hour of the seventh hearing, the Century attorney, answering a remark made by Nizer, stated: "I am doing this to amuse myself."

Abrams, who had to consult Ex-Judge Alfred E. Steers several times for information on points of law, didn't wait for any consultation when the remark was passed. He immediately dismissed the witness, George Green, who had been testifying on the mailing list of the Alden, Jamaica, and also Joseph Nocera, who had been brought from Rockville Center for examination and cross-examination.

Considerable interest has been manifested in local circles as to the decision and the way various members of the board will vote. Hearing the case are Abrams of Univeral, Robert Wolff of RKO Radio, Eugene Picker of Loew's, Harry Shiffman, president of Isle Theatres, an independent circuit; Laurence Bolognino, head of Consolidated Amusements; and Edward Rugoff of Rugoff and Becker, an independently operated circuit. Steers is the impartial man and votes only in the event of a tie.

Both sides have already indicated that the decision will be appealed. With this statement on the record, the board may elect not to hand down a verdict and certify it to Campi. The local grievance board did this the other day in the Rosenblatt-Skouras case involving the former's Westwood, Westwood, and Skouras' Pascack, Westwood, N. J. The board held that in a precious case Campi had reversed a unanimous opinion and, as either side would appeal in the new case, the matter was certified to Code Authority for disposition.

place recently in New Orleans, but failed to get anywhere. The indication at the time, however, was that the matter would be taken up in Chicago by the groups directly interested.

"No Limit to Number"

"There is no limit to the number of theatres we will build or acquire in Chicago," David Bernstein, vice-president and treasurer of Loew's, stated over the week-end.

"We have taken option on a number of sites while we are investigating titles, mortgages and other matters relevant to deals we have in the process of negotiations," he said.

Bernstein denied reports that the circuit may expand its activities to include Detroit and further in Indianapolis.

IEPA Men Forecast Big "Disclosures"

Philadelphia, March 17.—"Sensational disclosures" are predicted by the Independent Exhibitors' Protective Ass'n. at a meeting scheduled to be held here at the Broadwood Hotel Monday.

Just what the "sensational disclosures" are has not been revealed, but the group feels that they are important enough to attract exhibitors outside of their own organization.

It is also expected a discussion will be held on a compromise with the state on the new proposed admissions tax, and it is thought an exemption will be asked for houses charging 25 cents or less.

Detroit Men on Sick List

Detroit, March 17.—Local filmites on the sick list include Willard Patterson, general manager of United Detroit (Publix) theatres, who is seriously ill in a hospital; Fred Schader, publicity director of the Fox, who has rheumatic fever, and M. Harlan starr, local G. B. manager, who is home with the flu.

Charles C. Perry, manager of the Adams, who recently underwent an operation for appendicitis, has returned to work.

Richmond, March 17.—Al Nowitsky, manager of the Colonial, has recovered from a severe illness and has resumed his duties.

Sells Trans-Lux Stock

A New York company identified as "Affiliates Equities" has disposed of a block of 168,033 shares of Trans-Lux Daylight Picture Screen Corp. stock to an undisclosed purchaser, according to Curb Exchange records. A. M. Andrews, former director of Trans-Lux, is understood to be associated with the seller. He was once the largest holder of Trans-Lux stock. The stock involved in the transaction represents almost 25 per cent of the total number of shares outstanding.

Block Booking Bill Hearings Will Be Asked

grossed in the utilities problem, Pettengill said he would wait until Chairman Sam Rayburn of Texas had disposed of that question before he approached him on block booking. There is sufficient support behind the bill to assure the granting of hearings, he asserted.

Support of the measure by the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America was seen by the congressman in a request just received for several thousand copies of the bill, which will be distributed among all the church papers of the Protestant faiths. While the Catholic organizations have not yet committed themselves, he said, he has received a number of communications indicating that their approval will be given.

Shelve Temporarily New Exhibitor Body

behind the new association is to have the country broken down into Congressional districts with exhibitor leaders in each district. National Independent Theatre Owners was the name tentatively set.

Reason for abandoning the move at this time are the unsettlement of the code and the flaring up of the local operator war again in this territory. There's a possibility the plan may be revived later in the year.

"Ruggles" $50,000 Draw at Paramount

Capitol fared nicely with "After Office Hours" and Ben Bernie and his band on the stage. Business at this house was around $40,000.

The Roxy with "Enchanted April" did not hit the expected gross, getting only $28,000 of the contemplated $35,000. "Shadow of Doubt" was weak at the Mayfair with $7,500. The Astor, with "Transient Lady," tallied $4,000, while the Rivoli on the third and last week of "Folies Bergere" garnered $12,000. "Living on Velvet" at the Strand grossed around $11,000.

Francis Made Head Of Coast Photophone

G. K. Throckmorton, executive vice-president of RCA Manufacturing Co., has appointed James E. Francis, formerly manager of the RCA Victor Photophone department, manager of the company's Hollywood operations. Edward M. Hartley, who has been service manager for some time, has been appointed to fill the vacancy made by Francis' promotion and F. B. Ostman, assistant to Hartley, is now service manager.

Francis, who will leave for the coast in about a month, will supervise all activities in recording, selling, servicing and the maintenance of reproducing equipment.

McKay Says Studio Exodus Is Serious

fornia legislature now realizes this fact.

He also expressed the belief that as a consequence, California will not enact any extreme tax measures which would make the move necessary.

McKay also said the transfer of "The Great Ziegfeld" from Universal to M-G-M is just about completed on the basis of an outright sale and that this was one of the reasons for his trip to Hollywood.

Roth Gets Assignment

HOLLYWOOD, March 17.—Murray Roth draws the directorial assignment on "Chinatown Squad" from Universal. The picture will get under way in a couple of weeks.

Valerie Hobson, only cast assignment to date, has been handed the feminine lead. Maurice Pivar will produce.

Ready with "Healer"

HOLLYWOOD, March 17.—Monogram has signed Ralph Bellamy, Karen Morley and Mickey Rooney for leads in "The Healer," which is similar in theme to "The Miracle Man," and is from a novel by Robert Herrick. George Waggner is doing the adaptation, and Reginald Barker will direct.

Fire at Lincoln Center

KANSAS CITY, March 17.—A film fire in the Princess, Lincoln Center, Kan., destroyed the booth and the interior and caused $8,000 damage. The audience, mostly children, escaped unhurt. The house is owned by Ray Musselman.

Renew with Bulgakov

HOLLYWOOD, March 17.—Columbia has exercised a six-month option on Leo Bulgakov. The director recently completely "White Lies" and "I'll Love You Always." The latter will be released soon.

Re-Sign Grace Bradley

HOLLYWOOD, March 17.—Grace Bradley has had her option lifted for an additional year by Paramount. The actress' last picture was "Stolen Harmony," top spotting George Raft and Ben Bernie.

Cooper-Lombard Teamed

HOLLYWOOD, March 17.—Paramount has purchased "The New Divorce," a French play by Milneaux, for Gary Cooper and Carole Lombard.

Purely Personal

GRADWELL SEARS, pen in hand:

Your "Purely Personal Column" sets forth the erroneous fact that I have gone in for skiing in a big way. Evidently your correspondent has skiing confused with skeet shooting. Skiing requires snow and hills so I am told. The fact is I have never had a pair of skiis on in my life.

I must admit, however, that skeet shooting, which requires a shot gun, ammunition and clay pigeons, is the favorite sport of some of the highly important figures in the industry. I refer to Charlie Pettijohn, Neil Agnew and George Skouras. It gives the boys an opportunity to display that Indian blood. Last week at the Westchester Gun Club, Charlie Pettijohn was high over all, and the writer modestly admits he was second.

Just couldn't help straightening out your erroneous information. Also wanted to prove that I read MOTION PICTURE DAILY.

Quip of the Day

Joe Lee of Fox, just back from a Mediterranean cruise, was asked what countries he had visited.

"Italy, Palestine, Greece, ——," he enumerated and was interrupted by a listener.

"How did you get into Greece while the revolution was on?" the listener wanted to know.

"I had a letter from George Skouras," Lee snapped.

Rocky Mountain circuits. Both Skourases have predicted the circuits would be taken out of bankruptcy around April 1, but indications now point to June 1 as the earliest possible date.

Terms of the operating contract have been agreed upon for some time with only the signatures needed to make them binding. Kent, who sat in at most of the conferences on contract provisions before he left for Florida, will return today to look over the pact and approve it for his company. A meeting of all principals is slated in Kent's office today. Signatures are expected.

Charles Skouras, Edward Zabel, his secretary; Charles Buckley, F. W. A. attorney, and Mike Rosenberg will probably leave tomorrow or Wednesday for the coast. They have been waiting for Kent to return.

Kent is also president of National Theatres, holding company for Fox West Coast. When the circuits are reorganized, Fox Rocky Mountain will be known as Associated Theatres and Fox Midwest will be changed to Fox Midcontinent.

Set Wilmington Hearing

WILMINGTON, March 17.—A hearing on matters contained in the petition of the receivers of Jenkins Television Corp. asking an order authorizing a compromise with the receivers of De Forest Radio Co. and Wiley R. Reynolds and W. R. Reynolds & Co., is scheduled in the U. S. District Court here March 30. John Biggs, Jr., of Wilmington, and Cliffton V. Edwards of New York, are the receivers of Jenkins Television and Leslie E. Gordon of Passaic, N. J., and Ralph E. Lum of Newark, De Forest Radio receivers.

Shift N. E. Managers

BOSTON, March 17.—Managers in the New England district have been shifted in a number of instances.

In Providence, Lewis Talbot is now manager of the Modern, operated by Anthony Romano and Abraham Spitz. Fred Lovett in nearby Olneyville is extending his activities for E. M. Loew to manage the Royal which has been reopened on a curtailed basis. Jack Heese has shifted from the Capitol in Springfield to take over the Roger Sherman in New Haven. John Sanson, who formerly had the latter house, has been transferred again, this time from the Colonial in Hartford, and is now at the State in South Manchester, Conn.

May Do 5th Feature

HOLLYWOOD, March 17.—First Division has completed "Rainbow's End," second Hoot Gibson western in a series of four. The company has until June 1 to deliver the next two westerns and is considering sandwiching in another feature before starting the Gibsons.

Nears Half-Way Mark

HOLLYWOOD, March 17.—Mascot, with six features finished, has eight more to go on its 1934-35 program. In the serial division, there remain two. These are "The Fighting Marine" and "Adventures of Rex and Rinty."

Fortington's Plans Bestir Para. Circles

possible vacancy may have on the initial board. Fortington is reported to hold that he or his interests will be at liberty to designate a successor-representative in the event of his resignation. Others point out that if the vacancy does not occur until next fall, a successor would be elected by stockholders and might, or might not, be a representative of the British insurance companies.

Fortington could not be reached for comment on Saturday, but a spokesman for him was of the opinion that his proposed return to England late in the year would be for temporary business purposes and, while they might be of lengthy duration, would not involve resumption of permanent residence there and, hence, would not affect board membership.

Fortington's interests are regarded as guiding factors in the Paramount creditor group comprising, in addition to the British insurance companies, Allied Owners Corp., Atlas Corp., Lehman Bros., Lazard Freres, Erpi and others. This group has presented five nominees for the board, among them John D. Hertz of Lehman Bros. Opposition to Hertz, manifest for some weeks in scattered creditor and stockholders quarters, is now reported to have invaded the inner circle of the Fortington group itself.

Report Altschul to Fight

The version of this report most frequently heard in creditor ranks is that Frank B. Altschul of Lazard Freres, who was prominently mentioned for a place on the board just prior to the naming of Hertz, still feels that he should have been given the place which went to Hertz and is preparing to contest for it. Lazard Freres are reliably reported to hold more than $1,000,000 of Paramount bonds and debentures and the withdrawal of this support from the Fortington group could be of considerable significance in the reorganization.

Another report credited in responsible reorganization quarters is that individual bondholders, representing approximately $1,500,000 of Paramount securities, and not identified with any of the large creditor groups, are dissatisfied with the proposed board setup and may come into court at the next scheduled hearing on the reorganization plan, April 4, to voice their objections. The group, it is said, is considering the retention for this purpose of some nationally known counsel, such as Newton D. Baker of Cleveland.

Asserts Para. Staff Should Oppose Plan

Louis M. Levy, attorney, said to represent some holders of Paramount Publix stock, notified trade papers on Saturday that he had written George J. Schaefer, Paramount general manager, in reply to the latter's recent recommendation that Paramount employes holding the company's stock give their assent to the reorganization plan now before the Federal court here.

Levy's letter to Schaefer, read over the telephone by his secretary, set forth the attorney's opinion that the plan should be opposed by stockholders as "unfair and inequitable" and advised that Levy would submit a new board of directors for Paramount which would include Schaefer, Charles E. Richardson and Percy H. Johnston as the only members from the proposed board now before the court. The letter praised Schaefer for his work for Paramount.

Levy is counsel for professional talent and advocates a place on the board for their representatives.

Lucas Gets Eighth Term

NEW LONDON, March 17.—W. W. Lucas has been elected president of Local No. 439, I. A. T. S. E., for the eighth consecutive season.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Princess O'Hara"

(Universal)

HOLLYWOOD, March 17.—This picture will delightfully surprise Damon Runyon, who may recognize but little of his original story but who will find exciting, well-made entertainment that is certain to please. Producer Leonard Spigelgass, throwing away Runyon's script, has made a fast moving race track story as his first production effort that clicks speedily.

Chester Morris, a nightclub, taxi and race horse owner, tries defending Jean Parker after her father, Ralph Remly, has been killed while driving a horse hack during a taxi war. The girl refuses aid, blaming Morris for her father's death and, in the ensuing complications, starts to operate her dead father's hack. She is stopped when her horse gets pneumonia. The mob then steals a race horse, which is the main rival of Morris' horse in the big race, and places the stolen animal on the hack. When this is discovered, the girl is on the spot as the horse owner promises not to prosecute only if the horse wins the big race, the promise being made on the theory that Morris stole the horse to keep it from competition. Morris has bet heavily on his own nag and will therefore lose either way. The situation is finally cleared up cleverly.

The players carry their parts in keeping with the nature of the story and the direction of David Burton never lets things lapse. Leon Errol, Vince Barnett and Clara Blandick score in support. The adaptation by Doris Malloy and Harry Clark is excellent.

The film is swell entertainment for all houses with the possible exception of deluxe mansions.

Production Code Seal, No. 672. Running time, 75 minutes. "G."

Looking 'Em Over

"Gigolette"

(Select-Radio)

"Gigolette" is aimed for dual bills, may need proper selling to get it over.

The story tells of Ralph Bellamy, gyp night club operator, who meets Adrienne Ames, society girl, while she is waiting table at a charity bazaar. Thinking the girl is only a waitress, he invites her to look him up if she ever needs a job. Soon after, her father loses all his money, kills himself, and the girl is faced with earning her own living. She looks up Bellamy, who places her as a hostess in his night club. Hostess duties not pleasing Miss Ames, she gets Bellamy to open a respectable place.

Meanwhile, she has met Donald Cook, wealthy society spender, and rivalry develops between Bellamy and Cook, which climaxes when Miss Ames gives money obtained from Cook to Bellamy to save his new club. Things straighten out, Cook getting the girl; Bellamy giving his blessing.

Action is somewhat slow in spots, but scenes giving inside information on method of operating gyp places are interesting. Production values are good in the bigger night club scenes. Robert Armstrong, playing Bellamy's assistant, does best work of supporting cast. Phil Rosen directed for Select Pictures.

Production Code Seal No. 0265. Running time, 67 minutes. "G."

board. The case was Standard Theatres, Inc., vs. Saxe.

It was testified that contracts between Fox, RKO, and Columbia and the Orpheum permitted 15-cent minimum admissions, but that the Paramount contracts called for 20 cents minimum. It was declared that an oral agreement between Saxe and Paramount permitted the lower admissions, but the board ruled that the written contract was binding.

The board also ordered the Grand at Oshkosh to discontinue bank nights and the Rex at Oshkosh to discontinue surprise nights. Both the Grand and Rex are operated by Wisconsin Amusement Enterprises, Inc.

Missouri Bill For Censoring Is Laid Aside

ST. LOUIS, March 17.—State Senator John P. Shea has had his censorship bill placed on the informal calendar. Under this arrangement a bill does not come up for vote under the ordinary routine, but may be called out at any time the author desires. Usually bills so handled are not called for a vote.

Distributors and exhibitors have been in a state of agitation ever since Shea, a former exhibitor, introduced it. Last Wednesday night he was the only witness at a hearing on the measure before the Criminal Jurisprudence Committee. After a speech in which he said exhibitors throughout the state favored it; were opposed to block booking and were so restricted they couldn't buy posters, the committee reported the bill favorably with an amendment cutting the proposed censors' salaries from $4,000 to $2,500.

Appear Against Bill

While this was happening, Fred Wehrenberg, president of the M.P.-T.O. unit; R. R. Biechele, secretary of the I.T.O. of Kansas City, and Arthur Cole, representing exchanges, were before the House Ways and Means Committee opposing the proposed 10 per cent admission tax. Their astonishment was profound when they heard what had happened before the Senate committee and they let their sentiments become known with considerable emphasis.

They told the committeemen that even the Legion of Decency and Better Films Committees were opposed to censorship.

Shea figured in the St. Louis Amusement Co. litigation with his sister. He and his sister were plantiffs in a receivership suit filed against the St. Louis Amusement Co., in which he charged mismanagement on the part of Warners. He is understood to have lost heavily in the reorganization. Later he managed Harry Koplar's Montgomery.

Paramount Meet to Start Here May 23

Paramount is the first company to definitely announce its convention dates and place. The annual sales meeting is set for four days starting May 23 at the Waldorf Astoria.

Attending the session will be district and branch managers in addition to home office personnel and members of the "100 Per cent Club." Following the four-day meet, district heads will call special confabs for salesmen, bookers and ad sales managers.

G. B. J. Frawley is in charge of convention details.

Drops Detroit Lease

DETROIT, March 17.—Fred B. Miller, who has operated the Loyal for the last four years, has not renewed his lease and the house is now being operated by Samuel Ackerman.

The Forest and Majestic, closed for some weeks for remodelling due to the widening of Woodward Ave., will reopen April 1, according to Jacob Schreiber, operator.

"Little Colonel" Providence Smash

PROVIDENCE, March 17.—The charm of little Shirley Temple not only pulled capacity business to the Majestic for the week but likewise threw the overflow to other theatres, resulting in excellent trade for all. The film, "Little Colonel," was moved by the Fay interests to the Carlton for another week, making way for "Gold Diggers." The Majestic cleaned up $10,500 on the petite star, which is $3,500 over the normal gross.

The RKO Albee came next in line with Cab Calloway on the stage and "Without Children" as the screen attraction. The take was $10,000.

Fay's, with "A Notorious Gentleman," and a stage revue, caught $8,200 and the Strand came through with $7,100 on "The Whole Town's Talking." "Folies Bergere" garnered $8,700 at Loew's.

Total first run business was $45,700. Average is $40,500.

Estimated takings for the week ending March 14:

"THE WHOLE TOWN'S TALKING" (Col.)
"EVENSONG" (G.-B.)
STRAND—(2,300), 15c-40c, 7 days. Gross: $7,100. (Average, $6,500)
"THE LITTLE COLONEL" (Fox)
"SYMPHONY OF LIVING" (Invincible)
MAJESTIC—(2,400), 15c-40c, 7 days. Gross: $10,500. (Average, $7,000)
"FOLIES BERGERE" (U.A.)
LOEW'S STATE—(3,800), 15c-40c, 7 days. Gross: $8,700. (Average, $12,000)
"WITHOUT CHILDREN" (Liberty)
RKO ALBEE—(2,300), 15c-40c, 7 days. Cab Calloway on stage. Gross: $10,000. (Average, $7,000)
"A NOTORIOUS GENTLEMAN" (Univ.)
FAY'S—(1,600), 15c-40c, 7 days. Stage: "Broadway Scandals of 1935." Gross: $8,200. (Average, $7,000)
"RENDEZVOUS AT MIDNIGHT" (Univ.)
RKO VICTORY—(1,600), 10c-25c, 4 days. Gross: $1,200. (Average, $1,000)

Wisconsin I. T. P. A. Seeks Playdate Ban

MILWAUKEE, March 17.—The legislative committee of the Independent Theatres Protective Ass'n, headed by F. J. McWilliams, has introduced a bill in the state legislature similar to that championed by the Ohio Independent Exhibitors' Ass'n, to bar preferred playing dates.

The association is also sponsoring a measure to prohibit walkathons and similar marathon contests. The bill has already has a committee hearing and indications point to its passage.

not to say that the conduct of the business has passed beyond criticism. It has not. Probably it never will. For this is the kind of a commercial-artistic institution which the world and his wife delight in talking about and interfering with. Significant, however, is the drift of sizable outside comment on what has taken and will continue to take place.

The weather, spring-like in content, short cuts to columning go one up via the scissors and paste method applied to the current issue of The New Dynamo, house organ of the Fox sales department. It relates in part:

> "Two weeks ago we published a 12-week survey of what the four major newsreels had accomplished. That survey showed that in 12 weeks Fox Movietone News had scored 115 scoops against its nearest rival's 75. That survey further showed that in 12 weeks Fox Movietone News carried in 24 issues a total of 231 subjects against its next strongest opposition's 200. That justified the industry's general acknowledgment of the superiority and supremacy of Fox Movietone News. . . . Now we present a survey for four months—16 weeks. In that period, Fox Movietone News' 32 issues have presented 317 against its nearest rival's 283. . . . In 16 weeks in 24 issues . . . 138 exclusives against its nearest rival's 97." . . .

This column, always competent to handle its sums in the lower brackets, thought there were five major newsreels. The higher mathematics, as per above, carry us completely out of our depth. . . .

"The March of Time" disciples went publicity conscious over the week-end and the results were these:

> "Unplanned, unorganized, unknown to movie audiences, what amounts to a national ban on pictures of Adolf Hitler has been in existence in the United States for many a month. The motion picture trade is well aware of it, yet no one will admit or deny it."

This is a buildup and a prelude to a subsequent paragraph which points out "The March of Time," second release, devotes ten minutes to a review of Hitler-type diplomacy and what other Continental powers are doing about it.

Now here's one in return: Perhaps unorganized, but planned and executed nevertheless, is voluntary action on many a theatre operator's part to cut the very Hitler sequence talked about. Where German population or German sympathy runs high, the practice is widespread. . . .

Available information in this sector insists that it was Stan Laurel who kicked over the traces, maintaining Hal Roach was delinquent in furnishing suitable material for comedy antics with Hardy. Stan without Babe and Babe without Stan is like ham without eggs. Some friendly disposed soul ought to take Laurel for a ride through those Hollywood hills and tell him a couple of things. . . .

Unimportant note: Hearst editors apparently don't know their boss's general manager, film division, is Edgar B., and not Edward B., Hatrick. Proof supplied by the columns of the New York Evening Journal. For that matter, neither does the Warner publicity department. . . .

Among Charlie Pettijohn's pleasantest memories: His recent reception by exhibitors at the New Orleans convention. There were many he had not seen for several years. Yet they remembered him and so they greeted him with cordiality undisguised and unmistakable. . . .

Law-making which meets this department's approval: The bill of U. S. Senator Duffy of Wisconsin which would prohibit the stage appearance of Hauptmann case jurors and, presumably, all others sitting in judgment on past and future notorious murder cases. . . .

RKO-M. & S. on March 25

March 25 has been set as the tentative date for resumption of arbitration hearings on the Meyer & Schneider breach of lease charges against RKO involving film playing policies at the latter's Hollywood and Apollo. The hearings were postponed some time ago by agreement of counsel for both sides.

COLUMBUS, March 17.—William A. Finney, divisional director for Loew's, has appointed Fred P. Oestreicher as press agent for the local Ohio and Broad. Oestreicher, a former newspaperman on a Columbus daily, has been handling publicity for another house here.

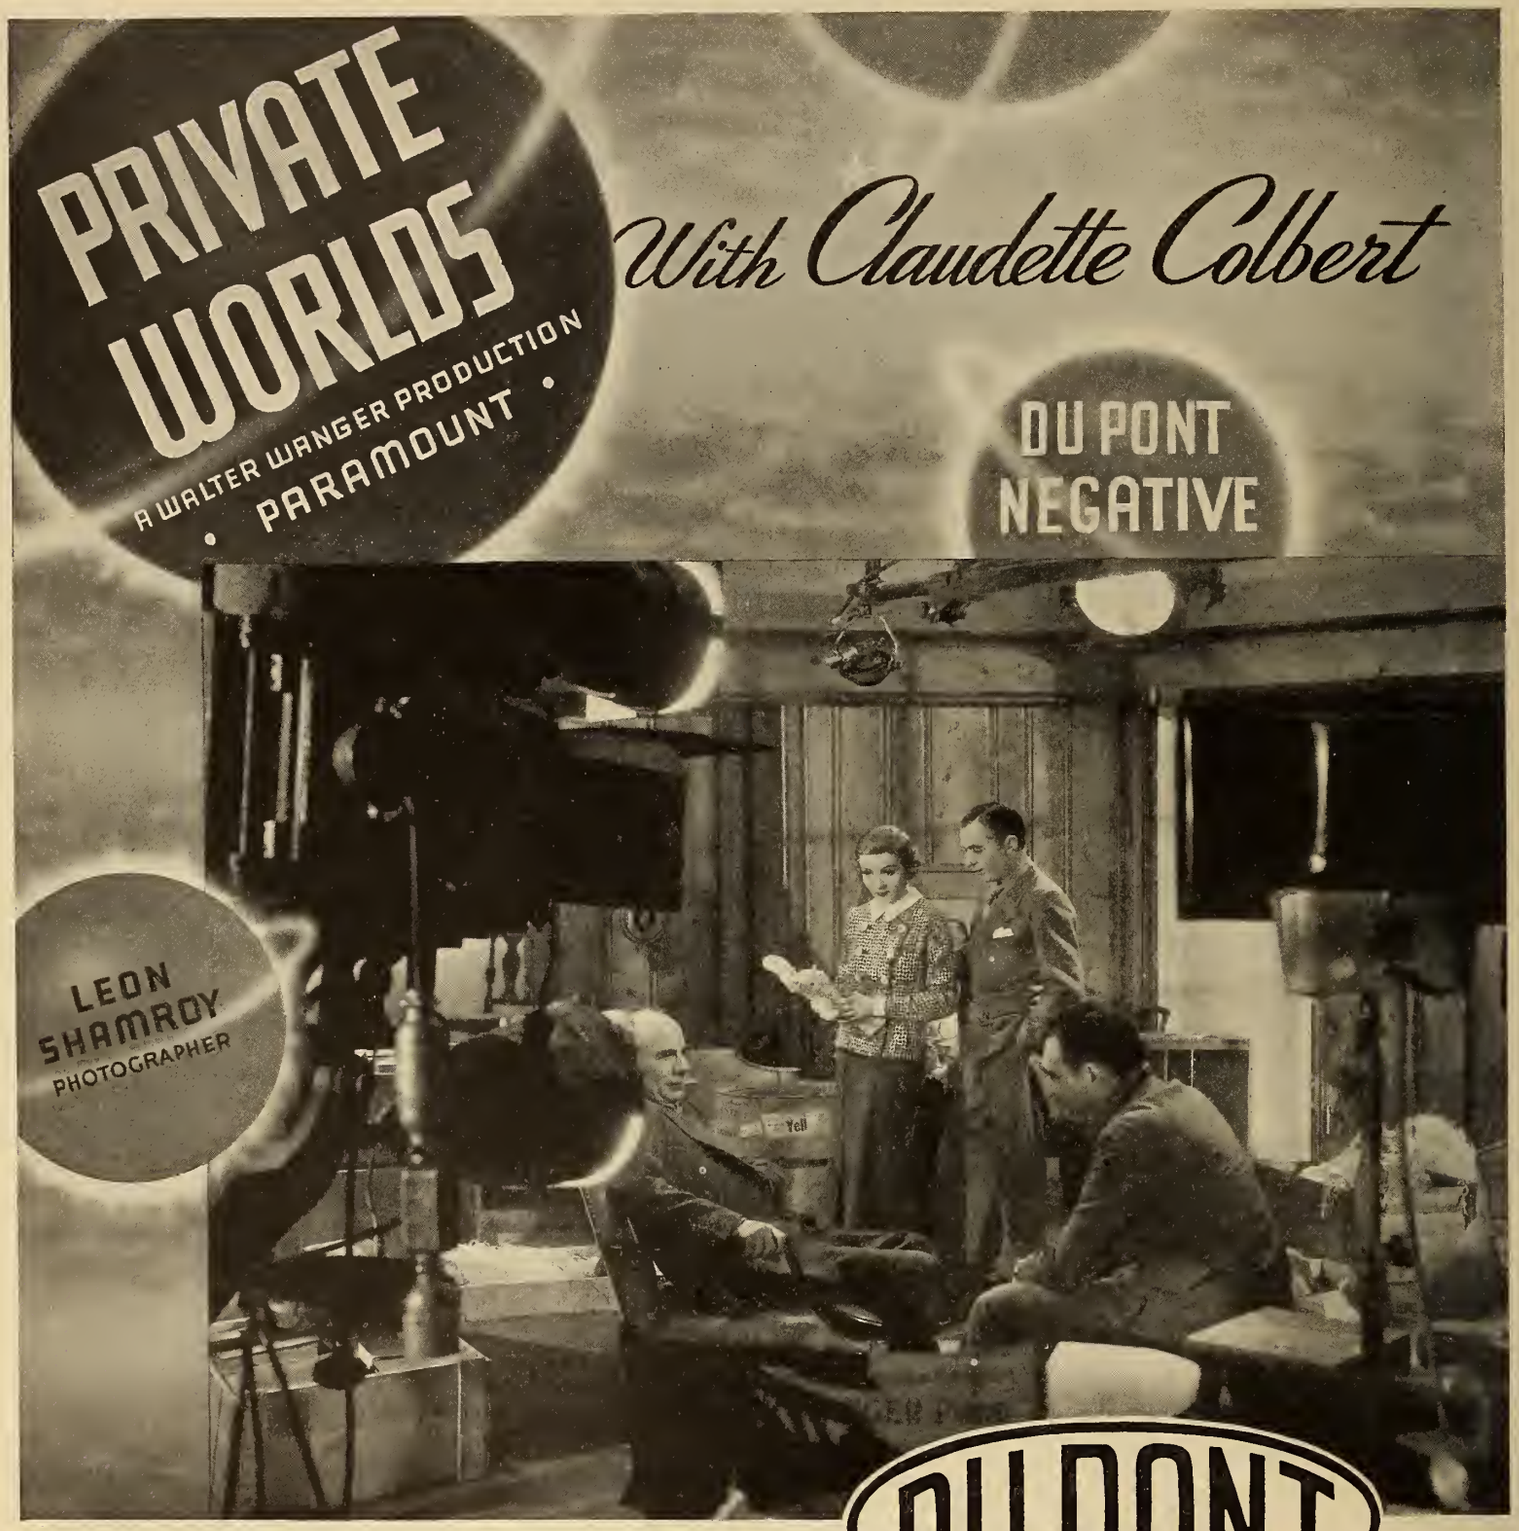
Fox Exchanges Get Rich Drive Awards

Christmas this year is nine months ahead of time for a number of Fox exchange employes as a result of five different sales drives.

Branch personnel in the Atlanta office will get four weeks' extra salary, this exchange having been first in the 13-week S. R. Kent Drive. Second place was taken by New Orleans and all employes will receive three weeks' additional salary. Charlotte was third and two weeks' extra pay will be given each worker. Fourth rating goes to San Francisco with one week's salary as the award.

In the short subject delivery drive, New Orleans won $1,000, which will be distributed among exchange employes. Albany was second with a $500 prize; Atlanta, third, getting $350; Charlotte, fourth, for an award of $250.



New York takes top money in the 15-week "Peck's Bad Boy" delivery contest with $1,750 to be handed out. Los Angeles was second, taking the $1,500 award; Philadelphia, third, for $1,000; Omaha, fourth, $500; Des Moines, fifth, $250.

First award, totaling $1,750, in "The Cat's Paw" drive, goes to Toronto; second to Los Angeles, for $1,500; third to San Francisco, $1,000; fourth to New York, $500; fifth to Philadelphia, $250.

In the ad sales delivery, Don Reed of Atlanta won first place; G. Calvert, Memphis, second; G. Pabst, New Orleans, third; C. Hilsop, Vancouver, fourth; S. Kohlberg, Milwaukee, fifth; S. Glasier, Toronto, sixth.

Code Reopening Indefinite; MPTOA Moves for Revision

By SHERWIN A. KANE

An M.P.T.O.A. code committee of seven has been named by Ed Kuykendall, president, to present to Compliance Director Sol A. Rosenblatt "at the earliest date that can be arranged" recommendations for code changes which were proposed by the organization's recent national convention.

The code committee is comprised of Kuykendall, chairman; Morris

Only $1,500,000 Shy of Two-Thirds Need

Assents to the Paramount Publix plan of reorganization by bondholders are increasing in number daily after several weeks of inactivity, and a total of $15,000,000 of the $25,177,000 of Paramount-Famous-Lasky and Paramount Publix issues outstanding, are now on deposit in favor of the plan, it was stated yesterday.

A total of about $16,500,000 of bonds, or two-thirds of those outstanding, is necessary to final confirmation of the plan by these holders. Deposits of Paramount Broadway bonds, however, are not being made in any volume as yet. This issue represents indebtedness on the Paramount Building and Theatre in Times

NRB's Ruling Snarls Campi Budget Plan

By CLARENCE LINZ

WASHINGTON, March 19.—Complete revamping of Campi's budget for the first half of the current year, not yet approved, today was seen necessary under an order issued yesterday by the National Recovery Board refusing approval to any budget assessment plans providing for fixed minima or maxima, flat assessments which are uniform for all members of an industry, or sliding scales providing for payments in accordance with specified brackets.

The bill, introduced by Senator John P. Shea of St. Louis, has obtained the approval of the Senate committee on criinal jurisprudence and may be called up for a vote at any time.

Flinn Delays Return; Will Make Two Stops

Delaying his trip to New York again, John C. Flinn plans to leave the coast by plane Thursday and arrive in Kansas City the following day for conferences with the local clearance and zoning board on the schedule, which has aroused a considerable fuss among independents in that territory. On Saturday, Flinn will be in Chicago going over the code situation generally and after a day in the Windy City leave for New York where he is due Sunday.

Will Build in World Centers to Fight Booking Combine

Loew's is set to launch a world-wide theatre building campaign. Sites for the first four additions abroad already have been acquired with construction plans now being drawn. It was Arthur Loew, first vice-president and foreign head of M-G-M, who divulged the international undertaking yesterday.

"There is no limit to the number of theatres we will build," he said, "but we are going into every city in the world where there is a booking combination."

Loew's board of directors, it is learned, officially has given the M-G-M international chief carte blanche on whatever program he follows. Unlimited funds are at his disposal.

The foreign move, coming on the heels of the circuit's decision to invade Chicago with its own properties as a result of failure of M-G-M to get together with the Essaness and

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

PICTURES and what they gross.

Window dressing, of course. Attendant problems, naturally. But here in a phrase is the picture business.

Taking a bow, deep and from the waist, MOTION PICTURE DAILY, for many months now, has been catching pictures up and down the Pacific Coast, in big towns and in small towns, for telegraphic transmission to New York and publication immediately beyond that. The practice has earned for itself recognition in all industry quarters as invaluable and indispensable.

How it works is demonstrated by the following foray into the realm of statistics:

In January, 19 attractions were previewed.

In February, the total hit 35.

In March (to date), 12.

Many of these pictures will not be released for months, thereby conveying to theatre operators their first inside track on what is heading their and their screens' way.

In many instances, New York executives learn first from the columns of MOTION PICTURE DAILY what the entertainment content, plus or minus, is in the product they are selling and merchandising.

This activity is aside from, yet it parallels, reviews caught regularly along Broadway, in neighborhood theatres in Greater New York and elsewhere throughout the nation.

Merely a service that serves. . . .

Joseph P. Bickerton, Jr., is a well-known New York lawyer. He is also the arbiter through whom clear sales of New York plays to film producers. It appears his records show an intake of $24,123.38 for 1934, this representing three and one half per cent of the total expenditures by producers for talker rights. Mathematical calculation, to carry this along to its logical conclusion, finally proves it was approximately $700,000 which this industry's producers spent last year to acquire the handiwork of various playwrights and sundry stage maestros. A tidy sum and about it we wonder . . . .

We wonder how much of that sum was wisely expended. That's a current wonder. A long-standing one has been what this fault finder views as the generally magnified point of view which many producers insist upon retaining where Broadway stage plays enter the deliberations. For years, recognized producers and others have kept the sounding boards of New York theatres busy with plays of indifferent merit, confident and, rarely wrong moreover, that the film business will pay handsomely for works which many writers in Hollywood can duplicate and beat if given the time and the chance. There seems to be something alluring and attractive about a New York stage play which few film producers can resist. . . .

Today's aside has nothing at all to do with the worthwhile which hit Times Square. There is plenty of reason to annex them for pictures and sufficient reason to meet the toll which is always exacted. This has to do, however, with the many vehicles of average or less merit which, for some inexplicable reason unless it be habit, are kept breathing long enough for a sucker producer to salvage. Everybody knows the system and why it flourishes. Nobody does anything about it. . . .

Philadelphia type excitement concerns the revival of "It Happened One Night" at the downtown, first run Stanton beginning today. There, good and staunch memories hold this is a precedent because the first run follows in the wake of return dates at various local Warner neighborhood houses. All of this persuades us to rise, to pound and to ask on the typewriter: Why not? What reason is there against re-dating old pictures except a usual lack of courage on the part of the exhibitor? Releases come along so fast, their possibilities hardly are even wrung dry. And another question: What's the smarter thing to do? Play an indifferent release because it's new or a clicker even if it's old? . . .

Funnier and funnier gets the code. The budget for the first six months of the year having been determined, set and given an approving nod by NRA officials down Washington way, yesterday brought word of a complex ruling from the National Recovery Board which may make necessary the same job all over again. The ruling has to do with minima and maxima which reminds of our Latin and proceeds to tie neatly, but effectively, in red tape the financial sustenance which even a code must have. As if matters weren't complicated enough! . . .

The M.P.T.O.A. Indians who went off the reservation at New Orleans with wild war cries about dumping the code and ended their whoops with demands for changes were warned at the time that their bass would turn to soprano by the time it reached Washington. It has. Yesterday the wires told what anyone with some sense would have known anyway: That there will be no changes, that code reopening will not even be discussed until the Blue Eagle gets its new plumage. This is the way it's to be. . . .

Harold B. Franklin has cast the die. He returns to exhibition in his old stamping ground, California, with Alex Kempner, reputed agent for Bill Fox in many matters, and a new company known as Standard Theatres, Inc. To say that Franklin is gunning for some of Fox West Coast's prestige may sound like saying a mouthful. However, we're saying exactly that. . . .

Free FERA Showings Given Ban in Mass.

BOSTON, March 19.—A move of national interest was brought to light today with the revelation that free FERA film shows have been banned in Massachusetts.

Interference with privately conducted theatres is given as one of the reasons why John Fitzgerald, FERA engineer, has turned down a proposal, tentatively approved by a subordinate, calling for free picture shows for some 12,000 persons in Lynn, including FERA workers and their dependents.

Those in favor of the free shows plan to carry their fight further, it is understood.

"Billy" Green Dead

PORTLAND, Ore., March 19.—William ("Billy") Green is dead of pneumonia contracted after an auto crash. Fifty-four years old, he was widely known throughout the Northwest and for the past two years represented National Screen in Utah, Idaho and Oregon. He was an original member of the White Rats. His widow, Fannie Green, survives him.

HOLLYWOOD, March 19.—Funeral services for Frank Joyce, partner in the Joyce-Selznick Agency since 1928, were held this morning at Wee-Kirk-of-the-Heather Cemetery with only relatives and friends attending. Joyce, who was 43, died at the Good Samaritan Hospital after a year's illness.

The agency's offices were closed for the day.

IN A NUTSHELL!

NRB's Ruling Snarls Campi Budget Plan

lates the first two and the last of these four restrictions in that both a minima and a maxima are set and intermediate payments are based on arbitrarily arranged brackets.

Study of the situation has been begun by officials of the amusement division in an effort to develop some plan for bringing the budget into line with the new order. It is expected, however, that the document will have to go back to Campi for revision, possibly accompanied by such suggestions as may be developed by the study.

The producer-distributor schedule in the pending budget is based on sales brackets, and it has been suggested that some plan might be worked out for imposing an assessment of one-fourth of one per cent and permitting members of that branch of the industry to pay on the percentage basis or, if they do not wish to disclose their gross, on the bracket plan. There is some question, however, as to whether the alternative bracket would be approved by the board.

So far as exhibitors are concerned, it appeared today that a percentage of receipts would have to be substituted for the present brackets, which are based upon population, capacity and type of house.

Had the schedule been approved, there would have been no difficulty as the new order is not retroactive.

Liberty, getting a favorable decision from the board. The New Liberty appealed to Code Authority in New York, but the decision was upheld.

The New Liberty's court application attacked the code as an unconstitutional attempt of the Federal government to regulate intrastate business and an unlawful attempt to delegate authority to representatives of private industry.

Charges Film Monopoly

KANSAS CITY, March 19.—Charging monopoly of product, the Dickinson, Creston, Ia., has filed a grievance complaint here against the Strand, a Commonwealth circuit house in the same city. Though Creston is out of this territory, the local board has jurisdiction because the theatres are served from Kansas City.

Dickinson alleges the Commonwealth house has effected product buys with Paramount, M-G-M, Radio, Warner-First National, Fox and Monogram, and refuses to allow the complainant sufficient product to operate his theatre. The Strand makes four changes weekly of five features and has 334 features under contract while the Dickinson has 120, according to the complaint.

This case and a bank night complaint of the Delphos, Carthage, Mo., against the Fox Crane, same city, will be heard by the grievance board March 27.

Code Reopening Indefinite; MPTOA Moves for Revision

Lowenstein of Oklahoma City, secretary; Morgan A. Walsh, San Francisco; Jack Miller, Chicago; Lewen Pizor, Philadelphia; George A. Giles, Boston, and O. C. Lam, Rome, Ga.

This committee will propose to Rosenblatt the reorganization of Code Authority to provide a membership more representative of industry departments and of national territories; the increase of authority of local grievance boards with their rulings made immediately operative and remaining so unless reversed by Campi and provisions calling for review of local clearance and zoning board rulings only when necessary to establish or support the legality of such rulings.

This committee may also conduct negotiations with distributors and Rosenblatt to obtain a 20 per cent cancellation privilege under the code, as recommended by the M.P.T.O.A. convention. Similarly, the organization's resolutions calling for a code amendment prohibiting score charge levies and asking for revision of the code clause relating to designated play dates so as to effect their unquailified prohibition, probably will be undertaken by this committee also.

Answering criticism of the recent M.P.T.O.A. convention for an implied failure to take definite action on exhibition problems in favor of resolutions, Kuykendall, in an organizational bulletin issued yesterday, had the following to say:

Brings Up Cancellation

"Only the naive or the fault-finding can criticize the convention for not definitely and finally getting a 20 per cent cancellation from the distributors, abolishing the score charge, removing the music tax extortion, eliminating the spreading evil of double features and premium rackets, doing away with designated play dates, providing fair zoning plans for every city, rewriting the code according to our own ideas, reducing unfair taxes and passing the new NRA law through Congress. If anyone expected these things to be done in three days by the convention, he was certainly an optimist.

"But none of them is impossible. Whether or not they are eventually accomplished depends to a large extent on the amount of active support given by the individual exhibitors and local organizations back of these policies."

The bulletin states that "well over 700 exhibitors" attended the convention, 440 of whom registered as delegates and represented 4,400 theatres in 48 states. Seventeen regional exhibitor associations were represented at the annual meeting of the M.P.T.O.A. board, according to the bulletin.

Cut Danville Clearance

WASHINGTON, March 19. — The grievance board today voted to trim clearance of Danville first runs over Schoolfield, Va., from 90 to 42 days. L. W. Lee of the latter town had filed the complaint against Wilby-Kincey Theatre Enterprises of Danville.

by the Code Authority for that industry, would be suspended until after Congress had acted.

The board's action was apparently based on the possibility that the new legislation, if it continues the Recovery Act, will make important revisions in the law. There is growing agitation for simplified legislation providing only for the control of hours and wages, elimination of child labor and the inclusion of a few of the most important trade practice provisions of each industry.

A number of industries, it was learned, are voting on the question of amending code structures. A majority of the responses favor the simplification of the law and the codes and the elimination of heavy trimmings in trade practice clauses, with which most of the codes are dressed up. It is held many trade practice clauses in many codes are proving unsatisfactory in actual operation.

See Move for More Intensive NRA Quiz

WASHINGTON, March 19.—The Senate Finance Committee will employ a Federal Trade Commission investigator to assist in the conduct of the hearings on the Recovery Act, it was learned today.

While it was said the main duty of the new assistant would be to aid in charting the investigation, it is believed the move is a prelude to a more intensive study of the subject than has been made with the witnesses who have so far appeared.

Clarence Darrow, head of the Review Board, which investigated the film and other codes a year ago, will appear before the committee tomorrow. While it has always been impossible to predict Darrow's next move, it is not believed he will go deeply into individual codes unless asked to do so by members of the committee, but will devote himself largely to painting a picture of the NRA setup as he saw it.

'Bank Envelopes' Are Ordered Discontinued

Harry Brandt yesterday was ordered by the local grievance board to stop distributing "bank envelopes," containing coins of various denominations, to children at the Audubon during Saturday matinees.

The unanimous decision was handed down on complaint by Loew's Rio. Eugene Picker insisted the practice was a code violation and, when the board wanted to adjourn the case until next week for further data, insisted on bringing down one of his witnesses and getting an immediate verdict. Melvin Albert represented Brandt. An appeal will be filed today by Albert for Brandt.

Up to Directors

ALBANY, March 19.—The M. P. Foundation of the United States of America, Inc., a membership corporation which was chartered here Oct. 24, 1933, has filed a certificate increasing its directors from five to not less than five and not more than nine.

Square, the reorganization of which has been embodied in the Paramount plan. There are now on deposit approximately 40 per cent of the $8,875,000 Paramount Broadway issue outstanding, or about $3,500,000. Deposits of approximately $5,900,000 are necessary for affirmation of the plan by this group.

Assents by Paramount-Famous-Lasky and Paramount Publix holders were aided by the approval late last week of the Munger debenture committee, whose letter notifying holders of its approval of the plan is being sent out today.

The committee's recommendation that bondholders assent to the plan is accompanied by a mild criticism of the proposed Paramount board.

"We wanted a board," the letter states, "that would be effective in bringing about complete loyalty and devotion to the interests of Paramount and one that would serve to put an end to all schisms, factions, personal interests and cliques—a board distinguished by the ability of business men, rather than of prominence in Wall Street. Although some men proposed for the board eminently qualify, still, in the main, the requisite board has not yet been obtained. However, this matter of directors has not yet been finally determined by the court. We hope, therefore, that the necessary improvements may be made before the plan is finally confirmed."

Is Opposed to Hertz

The Munger committee is known to be opposed to John D. Hertz of Lehman Bros. as a board member.

The committee's letter also recites that the two major law suits brought by the Paramount trustees against former officers and directors involve attempts to recover more than $15,000,000 for Paramount, $12,000,000 of which would be based on operations of the so-called Paramount employes' stock purchase plan of 1928 to 1931.

The committee represents approximately $800,000 of Paramount debentures under powers of attorney.

Reports that Sol A. Rosenblatt, NRA compliance director and administrator of the film code, had been approached by representatives of the Paramount stockholders' committee in connection with a proffered post as general counsel of the reorganized company and a possible vice-presidency, were denied yesterday. The reports stated that the proposal had been discussed with Rosenblatt by Maurice Newton, member of the stockholders' committee and nominee for the new Paramount board.

"There is absolutely no truth to the report," Newton told MOTION PICTURE DAILY when queried yesterday.

Alfred A. Cook, counsel for the stockholders' committee, is now vacationing in Bermuda and is not expected to return until April 1, but other spokesmen for the committee termed the report "ridiculous."

Purely Personal

HYMAN and Mrs. ROSENBERG celebrated their 55th wedding anniversary last night at their home in Mt. Vernon. All seven of their children were among those present. MOE, SAM and AL ROSENBERG, all three of whom have been associated with Warners and other amusement enterprises, were there with their wives. . . . And in New England

MAX MELINCOFF, JACK WALTON, MILDRED SHORE and HARRY SPINGLER handled detail of the Warner Club party in Boston's Cocoanut Grove the other night. . . . CHRIS JOYCE, assistant manager of the Paramount, New Haven, has been transferred to the Allyn, Hartford, where he will assist WALTER LLOYD. TED SMALLEY, formerly at the Capitol, Worcester, replaces him. AL KANE, LOUIS SCHAEFER, HENRY GERMAINE and GEORGE REISING were among Paramount theatre and exchange employes who banded together for a farewell party, all for JOYCE'S sake. . . . A. J. MOREAU, M. and P.-Publix district manager for Northern New England, is again on the Portland scene what with a Bermuda holiday behind him. JACK HASSETT, Paramount manager in Barre, Vt., was his companion.

Revenge Motive

Kansas City, March 19. — Senator John P. Shea of St. Louis, author of what is the most drastic censorship bill ever introduced in Missouri, admits he introduced the bill as a spite measure to "get even" with a certain major film company which, he asserts, caused him a business loss. He made this assertion to a group of industry representatives gathered in Jefferson City last week to protest the bill at a special hearing called by the committee to which it had been referred.

Conn. MPTO to Ask For Code Revisions

NEW HAVEN, March 19.—The secretary of the M.P.T.O. of Connecticut has been instructed to send letters demanding relief on the shortage of prints to local exchanges, home offices, Campi and the Senate investigating committee.

A committee including J. B. Fishman and Edward G. Levy will be sent to Washington to demand 20 per cent cancelation privilege on blocks of 10 or more, no restrictions eliminating preferred playing time and changes in the grievance board and Campi.

Bitter Fight Rages Around Censor Bill

in St. Louis and Kansas City are busy as beavers to bring the dangerous import of the legislation to the attention of theatre men.

Considerable assistance has been forthcoming from civic organizations, churches and, in St. Louis, from the press. Dailies in that city are editorially denouncing the bill as harmful to the best interests of the state.

Arthur H. Cole of Paramount in Kansas City and George S. Baker, manager of the Publix Newman, have enlisted the support of the Chamber of Commerce here. After their appearance before the legislative committee of the Chamber, that body went on record as throwing its weight behind the industry in fighting the proposal.

Dr. Burris Jenkins, pastor of the Community Church here, and other churchmen in the state have made their opposition heard at the state capital.

Fred Wehrenberg, president of the M.P.T.O. of St. Louis, Eastern Missouri and Southern Illinois, has called exhibitors to arms in that sector, while in western Missouri John C. Stapel, president of the Kansas-Missouri Theatre Ass'n, and R. R. Biechele, secretary, are asking showmen to keep up a barrage of protests until death of the legislation is assured.

"Roberta" Is Double Smash On the Coast

Los Angeles, March 19.—"Roberta" was the big noise both downtown and in Hollywood. At the Hillstreet it was 100 per cent over normal on a take of $16,000 and at Warners' Hollywood it was strong at $14,300, although not sensational.

In its second week at the 4-Star "Sequoia" took $5,000, which was $1,750 over a first-week average. "Unfinished Symphony" held up to $3,000 in its third week at the Filmarte. The only other spot to display any activity was Pantages, which had a dual, "Transient Lady" and "The Nut Farm."

Total first run business was $76,834. Average is $91,200.

sembly ways and means committee enabling California to collect a sales tax from firms doing business outside the state.

Assemblyman Jones of Los Angeles, who sponsored the amendment, said: "I don't think film rentals should be assessed a sales tax. If we are going to tax the motion picture industry let us do it in an open manner, not through hidden means."

A new plan to balance the budget, with a one per cent gross receipts tax as its principal feature, was proposed by Assemblyman Donihue as a means of raising $300,000,000 biennially.

Why They Go

Providence, March 19.—The theatre is to blame for its losses, said Prof. Thomas Crosby, Jr., head of the dramatic department of Brown University, in a lecture to the Sock and Buskin Society, university theatrical group. He pointed out that while the legitimate theatre has reduced its melodrama and sentimentality films have made a success of things by exploiting these qualities.

"People," said the professor who once played with the Bonstelle troupe here, "go to the theatre to be entertained and not reformed. The movies have taken up melodrama and that is why people go to see them."

Detroit Goes For "Roberta" In a Big Way

Detroit, March 19.—Three musicals just about skimmed the cream of the downtown business last week, with "Roberta" away out front in the race. The Radio musical ran up to $33,700 at the Fox, passing par by $18,700.

"Sweet Music" went $3,600 over the average mark for a total of $23,600 at the Michigan, and "Folies Bergere" was up by $3,400 for a total of $13,400 at the United Artists. In spite of this heavy competition one other house, the State, with a dual, "The Nut Farm" and "Woman in Red," succeeded in bettering par.

Total first run business was $85,000. Average is $60,000.

Estimated takings for the week ending March 15:

"SILVER STREAK" (Radio)
"MURDER ON A HONEYMOON" (Radio)

LeBaron Move Undecided

Hollywood, March 19.—With the future status of William LeBaron, Paramount producer, as yet undetermined, executives are wondering what his next move will be. LeBaron, once chief executive of Radio, credited with the production of the famous "Cimarron" and lately with all of the Mae West vehicles at Paramount, is reported to have received offers from major studios.

LeBaron has indicated that he might become an independent producer, releasing through a major company.

"Roberta" Up To New Mark In Cleveland

Cleveland, March 19.—"Roberta" broke the house record at Warners' Hippodrome with a $23,000 gross. The picture played to over $10,000 on the opening Saturday and Sunday, which is also a week-end record, the house average for the week being $6,000.

George Jessel in person with "Dangerous Corner" on the screen was a smash at the Circle with a $6,000 gross against a $3,000 average. "Sequoia" went $800 over average at Loew's Stillman. The weather was good during the week, but was bad over the week-end.

Total first run gross was $52,900. Average is $41,000.

Estimated takings for the week ending March 15:

"Rumba" Lincoln's Best Draw, $2,400

Lincoln, March 19. — "Rumba" was the only attraction in town last week to overcome the Lenten slump and get into the profit class. It was $200 up on a $2,400 take at the Lincoln.

"After Office Hours" was weak at the Stuart on a $2,700 gross, and a dual at the Orpheum, "Right to Live" and "Romance in Manhattan," was just so-so.

Total first run business was $8,650. Average is $9,100.

Estimated takings:

Week Ending March 14:

"RIGHT TO LIVE" (Warners)
"ROMANCE IN MANHATTAN" (Radio)

Lloyd Planning Second

Hollywood, March 19.—Harold Lloyd wll make a second feature this season after he completes "The Milky Way" for Paramount. He plans to return to Metropolitan studios as soon as he finishes for Paramount and start on an original which Richard Connell is writing for him. "The Milky Way" is scheduled for Fall release, and the second feature, as yet untitled, will be released in the spring.

World Drive For Theatres Set by Loew

Schoedstadt circuits, is predicated principally on the success Loew's has experienced in Australia and other cities abroad. Recently the circuit took over two theatres and built a third, which gave it representation in Sydney, Melbourne and Brisbane. Some time ago a theatre was built in Johannesburg, South Africa, in opposition to the Schlesinger interests.

Harry Moskowitz, in charge of Loew's construction department, is working on blue prints for houses in the following cities: Santiago, Chile; Lima, Peru; Osaka and Tokyo, Japan. The first two will seat approximately 1,500 and cost $250,000 each. The Japanese units will be a trifle larger and more expensive. No starting date for construction has yet been set.

Loew and Moskowitz plan to go abroad some time in the fall when building is expected to get under way. It was not indicated which house would go up first.

No talks with Chicago exhibitors who have held out so far on M-G-M product deals have been held in the last few weeks, it was learned yesterday with the arrival from the Windy City of Edwin Silverman, president of the Essaness circuit, operating 23 units.

May Confer With Feist

While his presence yesterday was required at Campi where he appeared on behalf of the Embassy, Chicago, respondent in a clearance and zoning complaint filed by the Liberty, Silverman told a reporter from MOTION PICTURE DAILY that he may confer with Felix Feist, M-G-M sales manager, before he leaves for home on Saturday. Louis Nizer, by the way, acted as his counsel in the appeal hearing.

"M-G-M's deal is impossible," Silverman stated. "It's like building theatres next to ours and we just cannot agree on their terms.

"We have dealt with M-G-M every year we have been in business and have gotten along, but this year it's impossible," he added. Silverman said the distributor was asking for "something like" 14 pictures on percentage and preferred playing time.

He declared Essaness was not affiliated with Schoedstadt or Aaron Saperstein and maintained his stand against M-G-M was independent of any others.

Following his return from Chicago last week with Louis K. Sidney and Thomas Lamb, David Bernstein, vice-president and treasurer of Loew's, stated there was no limit to the number of theatres the company would acquire and build in the Windy City.

New Theatre Company

ALBANY, March 19.—E. J. Kennery and Associates, Inc., Cornwall-on-Hudson, has been chartered here with a capital of 200 shares of no par value stock to exhibit and operate theatres. John J. Kennery, E. J. Kennery and Phyllis L. Commay are the incorporators.

Precedent

Philadelphia, March 19.—Warner has revived "It Happened One Night" for a downtown run at the Stanton beginning Wednesday.

Not only does this upset a precedent by bringing an old film back to a first run, but it represents probably the first time in local Warner history that a first run has followed neighborhood showings. Soon after the Academy Award was announced, the circuit revived the film in several key neighborhoods. Business was so good that the Stanton booking was arranged.

Mass. Licenses for Stage Hands Poised

BOSTON, March 19.—A bill to put the licensing of stage hands under jurisdiction of the Commission of Public Safety will be heard in executive session Wednesday. This petition, brought forward by George Curran and others, is at present being held under advisement by the Legislative Committee of Public Safety. It is considered significant.

"No person shall be employed or allowed to work as a master mechanic or a stage hand on any stage in the commonwealth during the period when a performance is being given until he has received a special or a first class license to do so from an inspector," the bill, House No. 1648, reads.

Adds Sipes House

CHARLOTTE, March 19.—The North Carolina Theatres, Inc., local company, has purchased the Alamance at Burlington from the Sipes chain and has assumed operation of the house with J. B. Austin as manager.

Racing Bill Licked In Jersey Assembly lobbying today for the necessary ballots to enable him to obtain another vote on the measure after the legislature reconvenes on April 1, tomorrow's being the last session before the scheduled recess.

The pressure of church lobbies was instrumental in defeating the bill. A week ago enough votes were pledged to pass the measure, but they were reduced under the pressure of church organizations.

The Rev. Dr. Lester H. Clee, Presbyterian minister, who is House speaker, appeared against the measure. Others opposed to it emphasized that pari-mutuel dog racing in New Jersey last year took so much money out of the territories where the tracks operated that theatres, in common with stores and other establishments, lost business.

Sidney Samuelson, Allied president, was one of those who witnessed the bill's defeat.

general manager of distribution, who has been on the coast since Saturday. Details are now being lined up.

Complete plans for next season will be announced at the convention, which Laemmle has promised to attend.

Grainger will be here two weeks passing on material in hand and to be purchased.

"Legion," Final Title

HOLLYWOOD, March 19.—Edward Small, production head of Reliance, has changed the title of "Let 'Em Have It" to "Legion of Valor."

Marion Burns Signed

HOLLYWOOD, March 19.—Monogram has signed Marion Burns for two westerns opposite John Wayne.

Looking 'Em Over

"Liliom"

(Fox)

American audiences should enjoy this French production, made at the Fox plant in France by Fritz Lang and starring Charles Boyer. The dialogue is all French, but English sub-titles are supplied. In most instances, however, it is possible to follow the story despite any lack of knowledge of the language spoken on the screen.

Boyer is, by far, the outstanding character in the film. His portrayal of the unmoral, cruel, but lovable rogue, Liliom, is done with vitality and understanding. Lang's direction never lets the acting lag.

The story is Ferenc Molnar's familiar modern semi-classic, but the setting and treatment are different from previous versions. Boyer, as Liliom, is the swaggering carnival barker who falls in love with a chambermaid and sets up house-keeping with her. He fails to provide for her, however, and continues his easy way of living. When told he is to become a father, Boyer attempts to rob a paymaster and kills himself when trapped. Before he dies, however, he dreams he is in heaven, where he is shown the evil of his ways.

Others in the cast who perform admirably are Madeleine Ozeray, Alcover Forelle, Robert Arnoux, Henri Richard, Maximilienne and Mimi Funes. A special musical accompaniment by Jean Lenoir and F. Waxman is appropriate.

This film is recommended particularly where foreign pictures are appreciated. This is not a regular Fox release, but is available through Fox exchanges.

Frisco Bank Night Hearing Is Started

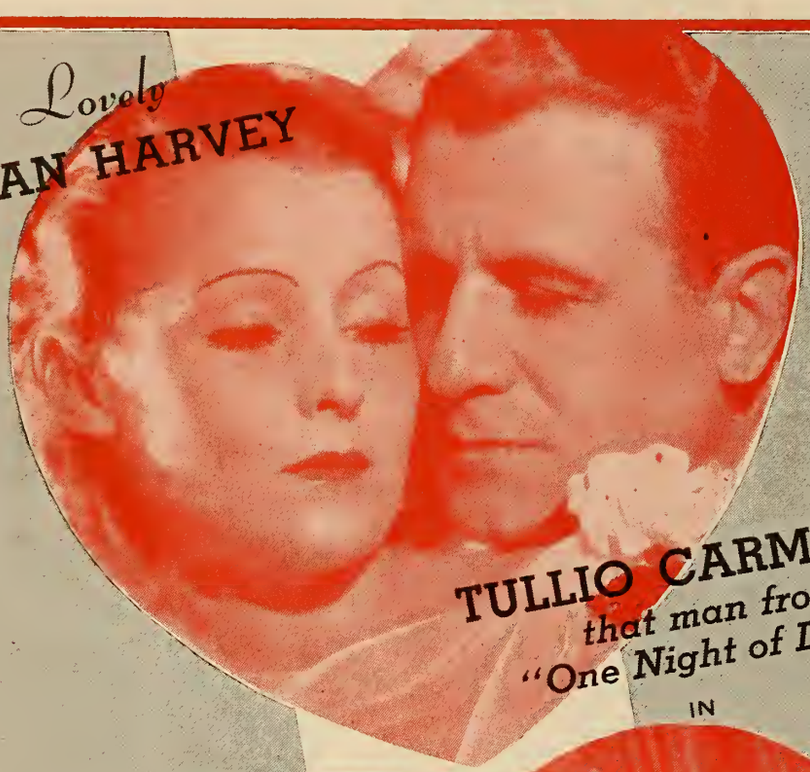
SAN FRANCISCO, March 19.—Hearing of the complaint brought against 32 theatres by Herman Cohen, operator of the United Artists, who charges violation of the code through the use of bank nights, opened before the local grievance board today. Some 100 theatre men, representative of the entire industry in northern California, were present.

Cohen was represented by A. S. Newburgh, Fox West Coast by L. S. Hamm and Nasser Bros. by J. W. Ehrlich.

Testimony today was heard against F.W.C. and Nasser. Those who testified were Cohen, James Nasser, Charles Thall of F.W.C. and Ethel Taylor, a Cohen employe. The board ruled each case must be proved. The session was presided over by Aaron Goldberg. The hearing will be continued on March 27.

Haines Does a Solo

Roy H. Haines of Warners acted as a Campi appeal committee of one yesterday, hearing three Chicago and one Buffalo clearance and zoning cases.



The cases were Lyric, Earlville, Ill., against State, Sandwich, Ill.; Liberty, Chicago, against the Embassy, same city; Regent, Buffalo, against Victoria, Jefferson and Elmwood, Buffalo; Fairy, Nappanee, Ind., against Colfax, Granada and Palace, South Bend.

Sidney Justin appeared on behalf of Publix for the Colfax and Palace, South Bend, while Louis Nizer and Edwin Silverman appeared for the Embassy, Chicago.

Fox Met Plan Going Before Court Friday

Hearing Will Be Held After 20-Day Lapse

The reorganization plan for Fox Metropolitan Playhouses sponsored by Joseph M. Schenck and Fox Theatres will be filed with Federal Judge Julian W. Mack tomorrow and a date will then be asked for a creditors' hearing on the plan.

The hearing date will probably be about the middle of April as a minimum of 20 days' notice must be given to creditors.

The plan provides for the formation of a new Fox Met company, the stock of which will be owned jointly by Schenck and Fox Theatres, although the latter has offered to sell to Skouras Theatres a large part of its Fox Met holdings subsequent to reorganization. Schenck will become president of the new company and operation of its 86 theatres will continue with Skouras and Randforce under new 10-year contracts. Financial details of the plan have been disclosed in previous issues of MOTION PICTURE DAILY.

Estimate RKO Loss Will Be $500,000

RKO's consolidated net loss for 1934 is estimated at $500,000 by representatives of Irving Trust Co. as trustee.

The final balance sheet still lacks the audited reports of several theatre subsidiaries which are now being prepared and may be completed within the next few weeks. Indications are,

Middletown, Conn., March 20.—These Wesleyan University boys and girls don't want anything militaristic in their lives—not even in their newsreels. Soldiers can march, if they want to, but not across the screens hereabouts. The martial music might get 'em.

The Wesleyan League for Industrial Democracy and the Peace Action League of Wesleyan have protested to the Middlesex Theatre management against "militaristic propaganda" in Hearst Metrotone clips.

Pennsylvania House Passes 10% Tax Bill

HARRISBURG, March 20. — Despite organized opposition from the industry, the Pennsylvania House late last night passed the administration's 10 per cent admission tax bill. The vote was 117-82.

Governor Earle estimates it will produce $6,000,000 in two years.

Stronger opposition is expected in the Senate, which is controlled by Republicans, but its passage is held probable.

SEATTLE, March 20.—Both houses of the legislature last night passed a revised revenue bill intended to raise $16,000,000 annually.

It includes a one-cent tax on admissions of 20 cents or fractions there-

Brandt Moves To End Duals, Raise Prices

Wants General Meeting For This Territory

Harry Brandt, president of the I.T.O.A. of New York, last night told MOTION PICTURE DAILY he was about to issue a general industry invitation to discuss a method of eliminating duals in Greater New York and, at the same time, couple with the movement a general hike in admissions.

"The I.T.O. has learned by direct comment of patrons which attend its members' theatres that many of them are much disgusted with considerable of the product offered them on double bills," he stated.

"I am, therefore, about to issue invitations for a conference of major circuit executives, independent theatres, as well as producers and distributors, at which the problem can be discussed. I am not hopeful that one meeting will solve the problem, but I feel the practice can be eliminated by a thorough and sincere airing of the various points involved. However, I am opposed to any plan

M-G-M Re-Signs Three

HOLLYWOOD, March 20.—Elizabeth Allan, Stuart Erwin and William Henry have just been signed to new contracts by M-G-M.

Purely Personal

GEORGIE COYLE, flyweight champion of the Golden Gloves contest, who is also an usher at the Music Hall, was host to 45 members of the boxing squad and their trainer, AL COPELAND, last night. Trophies were presented.

NICHOLAS LUDINGTON, WILLIAM M. L. FISKE, 3rd, and JOHN CURTIS, who were scheduled to arrive from the coast yesterday, didn't. They're still in Hollywood unaware of any need to be here for the present.

S. BARRET MCCORMICK left last night for Indianapolis to become manager of the Circle there for one night. He has lined up 25 of his old employes to help him out.

Quip of the Day

Leonard Gaynor of Fox read that ad of Eddie Cantor's offering himself as a "radio consultant."

"He'd better hire himself," was all he had to say.

JIM CUNNINGHAM, editor of "Asides & Interludes," disrupted diners at the Willow Cafeteria yesterday by objecting to a five-cent overcharge for cream on his baked apple.

EARLE W. HAMMONS, WILLIAM F. RODGERS and BILL SCULLY were among those who did their daily lunching stint at the Astor yesterday.

HUNT STROMBERG, W. S. VAN DYKE, CHARLES HACKETT and FRANCES GOODRICH, all Emgeemers, trek to the coast today.

ROBERT KATSHER, Austrian composer, arrived on the Ile de France the other night en route to the M-G-M studios.

GEORGE J. SCHAEFER, Paramount general manager, left for the Bahamas last night on a 10-day deep sea fishing trip.

FRANK PHELPS, Warner theatre executive, left last night for Cleveland on business. It's a flying trip.

J. J. MCCARTHY is due in from Hollywood Saturday after two weeks on the coast.

ED KUYKENDALL is en route to his Columbus, Miss., home following a two-day Washington stopover.

GEORGE WEEKS celebrates a birthday today, but, like the daisies, won't tell.

ROBERT B. WILBY of Valatenga Theatres, Inc., Atlanta, is in New York.

HERMAN RIFKIN came to town from Boston yesterday for a two-day visit.

GEORGE SKOURAS was spreading smiles around the Hays office yesterday.

PAT CASEY expects to head westward this week-end.

CHARLES ROSENZWEIG has returned from a long Miami vacation.

BARBARA BLANE, who has been dancing in Broadway clubs for some time, has been signed to a long-term contract by Fox. She'll leave for the coast shortly. ROBERT WILDHACK, who has been appearing in "Life Begins at 8:40," left for Hollywood yesterday to report to M-G-M. The William Morris Agency handled the deals.

HARRY SHAW, in charge of the Poli circuit for Loew's in New England, is vacationing at the Laurel-in-the-Pines at Lakewood. He originally planned to take a southern cruise, but decided on Lakewood the last minute.

AL JOLSON leaves Hollywood Saturday for here. He is on a vacation and will complete arrangements for his Shell broadcasts which are to start next month. RUBY KEELER, MRS. JOLSON in private life, will accompany him.

PHIL SHERMAN of the Winnipeg U. A. branch returns to the U. S. on April 1 when he becomes attached to the New Haven office of the same company.

NOAH BEERY, who was recently signed for a Gaumont British picture to be made in England, will sail early next month to start work.

ED FAY of Providence and GEORGE WEEKS of Gaumont British were spotted at the Tavern during the lunch period yesterday.

GEORGE RAFT intends to take a European trip upon completion of "The Glass Key." That is, if nothing interferes.

DAVE LOEW is due back from the coast around April 1. He's been playing a lot of golf on western links.

TYREE DILLARD, JR., would like to get away to Bermuda on a short cruise, but just can't find the time.

E. J. VALLEN of Vallen Curtain Control, Akron, O., is in town visiting theatre equipment dealers.

BILL SCULLY and JACK ELLIS are back from Miami with tans that will take weeks to wear off.

LYNN FARNOL has been through a slight case of morality trouble on some advertising art.

. . . and at Detroit

RAY E. MOON, general manager of Co-Operative Theatres of Michigan Inc., has returned from Florida. He was away a month . . . FRED STRUBANK, Monogram salesman; MAC MCCOY, Columbia salesman, and ALEX SCHREIBER of the Loop and Capitol theatres, are others returning from the South.

Flinn Ends Coast Job

LOS ANGELES, March 20.—Campi Secretary John C. Flinn today ended conferences on final changes in the local clearance schedule and will fly east Thursday night. The changes, according to Flinn, have been predicated on the belief that the clearance board is equitable to all. He expressed the opinion Campi would give its approval in time to have the revised schedule become effective March 31.

Feist Will Help on Exploitation Show

Felix F. Feist will act with Martin Quigley as honorary chairman of the general committee for the first annual "Show of Showmanship" to be held for four days starting April 1 at the Motion Picture Club.

Other acceptances for the committee are from Joseph Bernhard and Mort Blumenstock of Warners, P. D. Cochrane of Universal, Oscar A. Doob of Loew's. Robert M. Gillham of Paramount, Charles E. McCarthy of Fox and Herschel Stuart of Columbia.

A-Mike Vogel, chairman of the Managers' Round Table Club of Motion Picture Herald, is sending invitations to exhibitors, managers and others in the metropolitan area. Sam Rinzler of Randforce and George Skouras of Fox Metropolitan are the first circuit heads to arrange to have their managers, assistants and others attend.

Exhibits will consist of Quigley Awards and other exploitation campaigns received by the Round Table Club from the field. Tom Wiley and Arnold Van Leer of Motion Picture Club are working with company heads who will show advertising and other publicity on coming attractions.

British Producing Gain Seen by Asher

Indicating a new production boom is under way in England, Irving Asher, head of Warner production activities in England, states the purpose of his trip is to confer with home office executives on an increase in the number of films to be made next season.

"A great boom is on in the film business in England and there is money to be made in supplying the needs of theatres in the British Empire." He added that he hoped Warners would adopt the policy of developing production abroad in earnest.

Charter "Time" Unit

DOVER, Del., March 20.—March of Time Distributing Corp. has been formed here to deal in pictures of all kinds, listing a capital of $100,000. Incorporators are Russell A. Smith, Jackson Heights, L. I.; Keith T. Middleton, New York, and Henry G. Walters, Jr., Elmhurst, L. I.

This is the new company which will handle exploitation of the "March of Time" reel.

Brandt Moves To End Duals, Raise Prices

looking toward the end of twin bills unless admission prices can be raised on some general plan and by the same juncture."

He explained he felt a hike in scales is a necessary adjunct to the plan because the increase in grosses will fortify the exhibitor against "sloughing" of mediocre product. Adding preliminary conversations already have taken place with some circuits, independent and producer, Brandt expressed it as his opinion that, while no producer deliberately sets forth to make a bad picture, many emerge that way, nevertheless.

He believes this is the time to launch the endeavor, well in advance of the new buying season and to actually put into effect by Labor Day, getting across the increase under the guise, perhaps, of a "Greater Movie Season." His idea is not to increase admissions on a set plan as applied to all houses in the metropolitan area, but to advance prices five or ten cents, depending upon zones and conditions in them. It is his thought, further, that independent producers might be persuaded not to fight the idea and cited the instance of "The Girl of the Limberlost" which, he said, rated five times its rental draw in many local situations, but failed to get its worth because of the prevalence of twin features.

Move to Hike Prices Failed

Several months ago local circuits, through Charles McDonald, a division head at RKO, planned to increase admissions at all theatres with the cooperation of the I.T.O.A. and T.O.C.C. A meeting was set to be called by McDonald at which all exhibitors in this territory were to discuss the move. The session sizzled.

Some exhibitors contacted by Motion Picture Daily at the time gave little hope to any move to advance prices, particularly in the evening. It was held that the low matinee tariff was reflected in the early box-office receipts, but that in the evening when admissions are higher, attendance was not so good anyway unless the attraction was unusual.

About two years ago major and independent circuit leaders held several conferences in a move to eliminate duals, but RKO took a stroll.

and in the Philadelphia territory the contract terminates at the end of the 1934-35 releasing season.

Johnston said yesterday, "The two organizations, Monogram and First Division Exchanges, are distinctly competitive and it would have been inadvisable to have continued any operation together for a longer period."

Monogram's plans for the operation of the local exchange will be announced shortly, when expansion plans for the new season are ready.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Strangers All"

(Radio)

Hollywood, March 20.—Dealing with a quaint family whose respective tendencies make them strangers to each other, this film is well spiked with laughs and is thoroughly entertaiining. The direction and performances are No. 1 calibre and the picture will keep audiences laughing most of the time.

May Robson, as the mother, has a tough job keeping peace in a family consisting of James Bush, a youth with radical tendencies; William Bakewell, a histrionic flop who wants to be a Hollywood actor; Preston Foster, who runs a clothing store on a shoestring, and Florine McKinney, a harum-scarum daughter. Comedy situations leading to the climax are the usual incidents but are put over in fine manner. The hectic windup features Foster unable to meet a bank debt, Bush arrested for starting a riot, Miss McKinney marrying the wrong guy, who proves to be the right one, and Bakewell trying to run out on a muddle to protect his histrionic name before he has one.

Miss Robson's savings of $1,000 transfer hands several times, finally saving the day. The comical fadeout has the family thrilling to Bakewell's performance as atmosphere in a Hollywood film, the flash being so quick Miss McKinney missed him.

Charles Vidor's direction keeps the film moving fast at all times. All performances are first rate with Bakewell's comedy role the standout. John Boyle's photography is above the average. Milton Krums penned the screen play from the play by Marie M. Bercovici.

Previewed without production code seal. Running time, 70 minutes. "G."

"Motive for Revenge"

(Darmour-Majestic)

Hollywood, March 20.—Where entertainment bristling with melodramatic action and suspense is appreciated, this fast-paced modern yarn should give satisfaction. What romance and comedy there are, and there's plenty of both, nicely embellish the primary elements.

The title gives definite hint to the picture's character. Mother-in-law Doris Lloyd continually harping upon bank clerk Donald Cook for his refusing to provide extravagant luxuries for his wife, Irene Hervey. succeeds in making him a thief. His only hope during prison years is his wife's promise to await his release. The interfering mother-in-law, however, contrives to have Miss Hervey marry the fanatically jealous tycoon, Edwin Arnold. Upon Cook's release, with revenge now his ambition, he is in Arnold's house when that worthy is killed.

Suspicion is centered upon his wife. Intent upon taking the blame himself, Cook and Miss Hervey are aboard a deserted gambling boat in sequences that are made funny by the antics of a pair of dumb detectives. In the meantime, maid Kenilworthy confesses the killing of Arnold. The way made clear for the lovers to pick up their broken romance, the mother-in-law is hilariously eliminated in the finale. Although the cast boasts no outstanding names, Cook, Miss Hervey, Doris Lloyd and Arnold contribute convincing performances in the feature roles. Support is adequate with Edwin Argus, John Kelly, Billy West and Fern Emmett being outstanding. Burt Lynwood's direction took advantage of the Stuart Anthony story so that there is lots of opportunity for tricky showmanship exploitation based upon the yarn's dialogue, situations and action.

No code seal. Running time 65 minutes. "G."

Looking 'Em Over

"I'll Love You Always"

(Columbia)

San Diego, March 20.—Featuring Nancy Carroll and George Murphy, this is an entertaining story of love triumphant. They make the most of the opportunities.

The story concerns Miss Carroll as Nora Clegg, a promising Shakespearian actress, who sacrifices her career to marry Carl Brent, played by Murphy. He is a brilliant, unemployed young engineer. Facing actual want because of Brent's refusal to accept menial jobs, the two quarrel. Nora decides to return to the stage. Brent steals money to show her

Calif. Income Tax Looms

Sacramento, March 20.—It is believed the Assembly is set to pass an income tax calling for a third of the Federal rate, to raise $20,000,000. It is claimed this would give California the highest state income tax rate in the country.

The Senate has passed the resolution calling upon Congress to pass the Townsend old age pension plan, and this is taken as an indication that the administration can force through its income tax measure.

Nebraska Tax Killed

Lincoln, March 20.—The measure seeking to levy a 10 per cent tax on the gross of film and film equipment rentals was killed in the House today. Speakers against the measure were President C. E. Para. Unit Enters Plea to Reorganize

Paramount theatre building in New York and studios, asked Federal Court today for permission to reorganize. Revamping of its capital structure provides there will be no reduction in par value or lowering of interest rates on the company's $2,750,000 first mortgage six per cent bonds now outstanding and no change in ownership or control of the properties.

While a hearing on the proposed plan is set for April 8, the court authorized the company to remain in possession of the properties and to continue operation as heretofore. The company is a subsidiary of Paramount Publix, and this move is part of the reorganization plan of the parent company.

One of the major changes in the plan provides for elimination of serial maturities in the company's bond issue and establishment of a sinking fund so that all bonds would have a single maturity on Sept. 1, 1942.

Harry L. Dunn, counsel for the company, stated that through the proposed changes in the trust indenture the existing provisions permitting release of certain properties from the mortgage would be eliminated. At present, he said, it would be possible to obtain release of the studio properties from mortgage if the theatre properties were earning two and one-half times bond interest requirements.

Under the proposed plan the company may only obtain the release of studio properties upon payment of 60 per cent of the principal amount of the bonds then outstanding, providing the remainder of the outstanding bonds were fully guaranteed by the parent company. This plan supersedes all other plans and is believed to satisfy all interested parties, according to counsel.

N.H. House Votes to Ban Daylight Saving

CONCORD, N. H., March 20.—Upsetting a majority committee report, the House today voted, 188 to 100, to prohibit daylight saving in the state. Substantial fines are provided for violations of Standard Time schedules, even by private business. The measure is expected to receive strong support in the Senate.

For some years there has been a bitter fight over the adoption of Daylight Saving Time by some municipalities and commercial enterprises. A local option amendment was snowed under.

A bill to give selectmen the authority to censor films met with strong opposition yesterday at a hearing before the judiciary committee of the House. Senator Ancil Sanborn holds that town officials should be given more authority. No decision on the measure has been reached yet.

a last good time. He tells her he has accepted an engineering job in Russia, although he goes to prison. Their letters are diverted by friends and, the girl, still believing her husband is in Russia, returns to New York to await the birth of their child. Brent at last realizes that love means more than pride. A reunion is effected when Nora learns that he stole to make her happy.

Other principals include Jean Dixon, Harry Beresford, Robert Allen and Arthur Hohl.

Production Code Seal No. 636. Running time, 75 minutes. "G."

"The World Accuses"

(Chesterfield)

If this production was designed to capitalize on the recent Vanderbilt-Whitney court battle for the custody of the former's child, it falls far short of the mark. It is also shy on entertainment value except when Dickie Moore and Cora Sue Collins are on the screen. These two youngsters walk away with the picture from a cast that includes Vivian Tobin, Russell Hopton, Harold Huber and Robert Elliot.

The yarn has Miss Tobin, who gives up a theatrical career to marry into society, unable to get along with her mother-in-law. When her husband is killed in a brawl in a Broadway club her child is taken away from her and given to its grandmother. The youngster grows up to be Dickie Moore after two reels. In the meantime, Miss Tobin gets a job in a nursery and meets Hopton, father of Cora Sue Collins. The murderer of her husband escapes from prison and hides in the nursery where Miss Tobin is now in charge. This enables the authorities to recapture him and return the child to his mother. The romance that had sprung up between Miss Tobin and Hopton winds up at the altar, providing a happy ending for those liking the hero and heroine in each others arms at the fadeout.

Charles Lamont's direction is satisfactory in spots, but he didn't have much material. The photography of M. A. Anderson is fair.

The film might prove suitable for small towns and neighborhoods. Reviewed without production code seal. Running time, 63 minutes. "G."

"The Fighting Pilot"

(Ajax)

The chief trouble with this picture is that it has no regard whatever for plausibility or restraint—not a wee bit.

The sole concern of its producers, Reliable, seems to have been to supply action, action and then more action. In this they have succeeded well, although the result is not always to the film's advantage. There's so much smacking around that after a time it all becomes a bit monotonous, if not downright comical. One tussle between the hero and the villains alone consumes almost half of the footage.

All this should suggest that "The Fighting Pilot" is meat for the kids but hardly for maturer minds.

It must be said for Richard Talmadge, the star, that he takes a lot of risks to give his fans what they presumably expect of him. The wonder is that at the end he is still on his feet and has enough strength left to squeeze the heroine (Gertrude Messinger) to his manly bosom.

The story has to do with the efforts of Robert Frazer, a foreign agent, to learn the secret of a new airplane motor invented by William Humphrey, Miss Messinger's dad. The film is nothing more than a series of encounters between Talmadge, a pilot in love with Miss Messinger, and Frazer and his gang. Talmadge comes out the winner, of course.

Eddie Davis is the comic of the piece. Noel Mason directed.

No code seal. Running time, 60 minutes. "G."

Change in Utah Sale Tax Law to Be Asked

SALT LAKE CITY, March 20.—Amendment of the sales tax law to eliminate the first $500 gross each month in establishments where sales average 25 cents is to be sought.

It is said that approximately 1,200 retail establishments are facing prosecution because of delinquent returns.

Ohio Walkathon Bill

COLUMBUS, March 20.—A bill has been introduced by Senator Philip Wolfe, Mansfield, to prohibit walkathons and similar endurance contests which continue longer than 24 hours. The bill specifies penalties of not less than $50 or more than $300, with imprisonment of 30 days, each day's exhibition to be considered a separate offense.

Files Suit Over Song

Mrs. Basil Burke, of Stamford, Conn., has filed suit against Warners claiming the melody of the song, "Happiness Ahead," which Dick Powell sang in the picture of that name is the same as her song, "F. D. Is the Man." In reply to Mrs. Burke's charge of plagiarism. Warners allege that the melody was old before she used it.

Plan Advertising Films

Promotion Films, Inc., chartered last week in Albany, will produce and distribute on a national and regional basis a series of commercial advertising films.

R. M. Savini is president, J. Michelson, vice-president and treasurer, and Ceil Bernert, secretary.

Open in Philadelphia

Typhoon Air Conditioning Co., Inc., has opened a Philadelphia office to handle eastern Pennsylvania, New Jersey south of Trenton, Delaware, Maryland and the District of Columbia. Charles S. Dingleman, former chief engineer of the Stanley Co., is in charge.

Louisiana House Burns

NEW ORLEANS, March 20.—Fire, which originated in the Alamo, New Roads, La., operated by L. J. Langlois, destroyed the building, a two-story structure, and threatened to spread over the entire commercial section.

Monty Banks. The former will direct "London Symphony," first of two features to star Clive Brook; the second of these will be the Anglo-Australian film already announced.

Stars lined up include, in addition to Brook: Gracie Fields, Leslie Henson, Victoria Hopper and Edmund Gwenn, and among the authors are J. B. Priestley, Margaret Kennedy, Ian Hay, R. C. Sheriff, H. M. Harwood and Eleanor Smith

A.B.F.D. will move in June from Wardour St. to big new premises in Oxford St.

Plans Are Not Definite

While Associated Talking Pictures is planning to produce one or two pictures in this country in line with the cooperative distribution and production arrangement with First Division, no definite plans have been set, Reginald Baker, financial head and joint managing director of this company and Associated British Film Distributors in England, stated yesterday.

The company will not make any definite moves until it is convinced there is a possibility of commercializing its stars for future development in this country. Grace Fields is the first star the company has in mind for the test, providing a decision to produce here is made.

First Division in turn, would make one or two films in England. The cooperative deal runs indefinitely, Baker stated. The A.T.P. executive stated he likes the United States and will probably return in about six months for another visit. He sails tomorrow on the Majestic.

While in Hollywood for two weeks, Baker met a number of friends and conferred with First Division production heads on new product.

complainant, and Louis Nizer, for the respondent.

Upon request of both parties, the declarations by both attorneys will go into the record, which to date is about 1,350 pages. It costs 85 cents a page for recording the testimony. Indications are that today's session will go about four hours with from 100 to 150 pages of copy in the record. The public stenographer's bill on this case will tally around $1,275, which Century will pay, having ordered the minutes taken.

Urge Moe Silver for Albany Board Place

ALBANY, March 20.—Moe Silver has been unanimously recommended to Code Authority by the grievance board to succeed Louis Lazar, former Warner manager here. Silver is Lazar's successor with Warners.

The board has issued a stop order against the Regent on its opportunity contests. The complaint had been brought by A. Stone, Eagle Theatre.

Not Right Now

Washington, March 20.—Compliance Director Sol A. Rosenblatt has no intention of resigning "at this time," it was declared today. He refused to say whether he had received any recent offers, as rumored.

New York reports have it Rosenblatt had been approached by Paramount interests to become general counsel or, perhaps, a vice-president.

Sundays Ruled Out In Filing Appeals

Sundays do not count as one of the five days allowed exhibitors and distributors in which to file appeals, Tyree Dillard, Jr., legal head of Campi, yesterday told an appeal committee. He said this was his understanding with Compliance Director Sol A. Rosenblatt and he had ruled that way in other cases.

The committee consisted of Sidney Justin, chairman, Paul Burger, and Charles Moses. The case was an appeal by M-G-M from unanimous decisions by the New Jersey advisory board and local clearance and zoning board in the case of Irving Dollinger of the Plaza, Linden, against Warners Rahway at Rahway, and Ritz and Regent, at Linden, N. J.

Dollinger claimed that the decision was handed down Jan. 24, sent out the next day and Metro appealed on Jan. 31. The two unanimous verdicts were in favor of Dollinger. The Plaza was given the right to play seven days after Rahway and the two Warner houses in Linden instead of the 14 days demanded by his competitor.

M-G-M was not concerned in the case and no one could understand why Dave Levy, branch manager, appealed. Levy has been ill for the last week and could not attend the session. William Scully promised to attend in place of Levy, but never showed up.

New Haven May Take Clearance to Court

College, local exhibitors have consulted a prominent law firm with reference to instituting action in the Federal court.

Not only has Campi failed to act on the revised schedule for New Haven, but the case of Dixwell vs. College, decided favorably to the complainant and 19 other subsequent run theatres in the city, appears to have died on reaching Code Authority on appeal.

Darrow Criticizes President on NRA

the NRA is taking business away from the small concerns and giving it to the big ones and foresaw in continuance of the organization the enslavement of all workers and small business men.

Discussing the activities of his board, he declared that within a few weeks of its creation he was given the impression that speed rather than intensive investigation was desired by the Administration.

An effort to have the committee investigate individual codes will be made by Senator Gerlad F. Nye of North Dakota, who has secured a report on the clothing code which, he charges, contains evidence of oppression.

Issue Toledo Stop Order

CLEVELAND, March 20.—Film service for the Ohio at Toledo has been ordered stopped by the grievance board as a result of the failure of Jack O'Connell to maintain scales alleged to have been stipulated in his contracts. The order becomes effective March 25. A compliance order was issued on March 11.

Urge Sliman for Board

NEW ORLEANS, March 20.—Philip Sliman has been recommended to Campi as the successor of Joe Barcelona, resigned, on the clearance and zoning board. Sliman, who runs the Laurel here, qualifies as an independent subsequent run exhibitor.

Fox Reports 1934 Net As $1,273,069

Equals 52c Per Share; Slightly Under '33

Fox Film Corp. reports a profit of $1,273,069 for the year ending Dec. 29, 1934, after all charges, including Federal income taxes. This compares with a loss of $557,122 for the 13 weeks to April 1, 1933, the period prior to reorganization, and a profit of $1,410,793 (without tax deduction) for the 39 weeks ending Dec. 30, 1934.

On the basis of 2,436,409 shares of Class A and Class B stock outstanding, the $1,273,069 net amounts to 52 cents per share.

For the 13 weeks prior to the end of the fiscal year Dec. 29 the company sustained a loss of $233,143. During January and February earnings

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

MOTION PICTURE DAILY, issue of January 11, in the selfsame spot wherein you find it today, thus:

"Not at this time" will Consolidated consider sponsoring an exchange organization for the varied assortment of independents in the financing of which the big laboratory company plays a part. Herb Yates says so and that means he knows, for, when you talk about Consolidated, it's virtually the same as saying Yates. The understanding is these selfsame independents have approached him at various times over a period of some months to do something about it to the end that they get the break which they are not getting now but which they say should be theirs in the constant struggle for a proper place in the sun. "Not at this time," it might be said, is as permanent as was yesterday, a hectic day what with all this excitement over Federal grand jury probes thundering up in the north, south, east and west. . . .

March 21: Something big is in the air in the Yates domain. There is talk, all quiet but not quite all, about a company known as Republic Pictures. It is being aired about as a new appendage to the production and distribution structure of the industry. Yates, usually clam-like when any newspaper man is within striking distance, remained true to form yesterday. From other quarters, all mysterious in the nature and extent of their guarded whisperings, the word was around that the something "big" may happen in about two weeks. . . .

Congressman Sirovich, who once wrote a play about which nothing happened, is in The Congressional Record again. This time, he proposes a bill creating a new Cabinet post to carry the grandiloquent title of Secretary of Science, Art and Literature. Not understanding the occasional difficulty of tried and true film men in keeping their own business within bounds, he would have his new department supervise pictures with radio added for further fun. It is his lofty flight of words, however, that has filtered under our epidermis. Get a load of it:

"The limitations of the olden stage have been removed by the motion picture, accompanied by sonancy, and the genius of dramatic authors and writers is no longer pent up in the Utica of confination to small stages and auditoriums, but ranges the United States so that the lesser villages may now receive the same presentations as the major cities and instead of fustian and bucram, the backgrounds of film dramas are as realistic as if, as in many cases they are, they were the actual scenes of the words and actions of the plays shown on the film."

There's grave danger in all of this. Hollywood, having read with dictionary in hand, may dangle a contract. . . .

No sooner did this space go institutional when what should reach the desk but additional evidence of the manner in which MOTION PICTURE DAILY's preview service out of Hollywood registers with many on-their-toes showmen. The photographic proof adorns the area neighborly to this comment. It is a shot of the lobby of the Paramount Theatre, Portland, Ore., where Frank Newman, Jr., did what the picture proves he did. "Showman's Bible," he calls this publication. Who are we to deny it? . . .

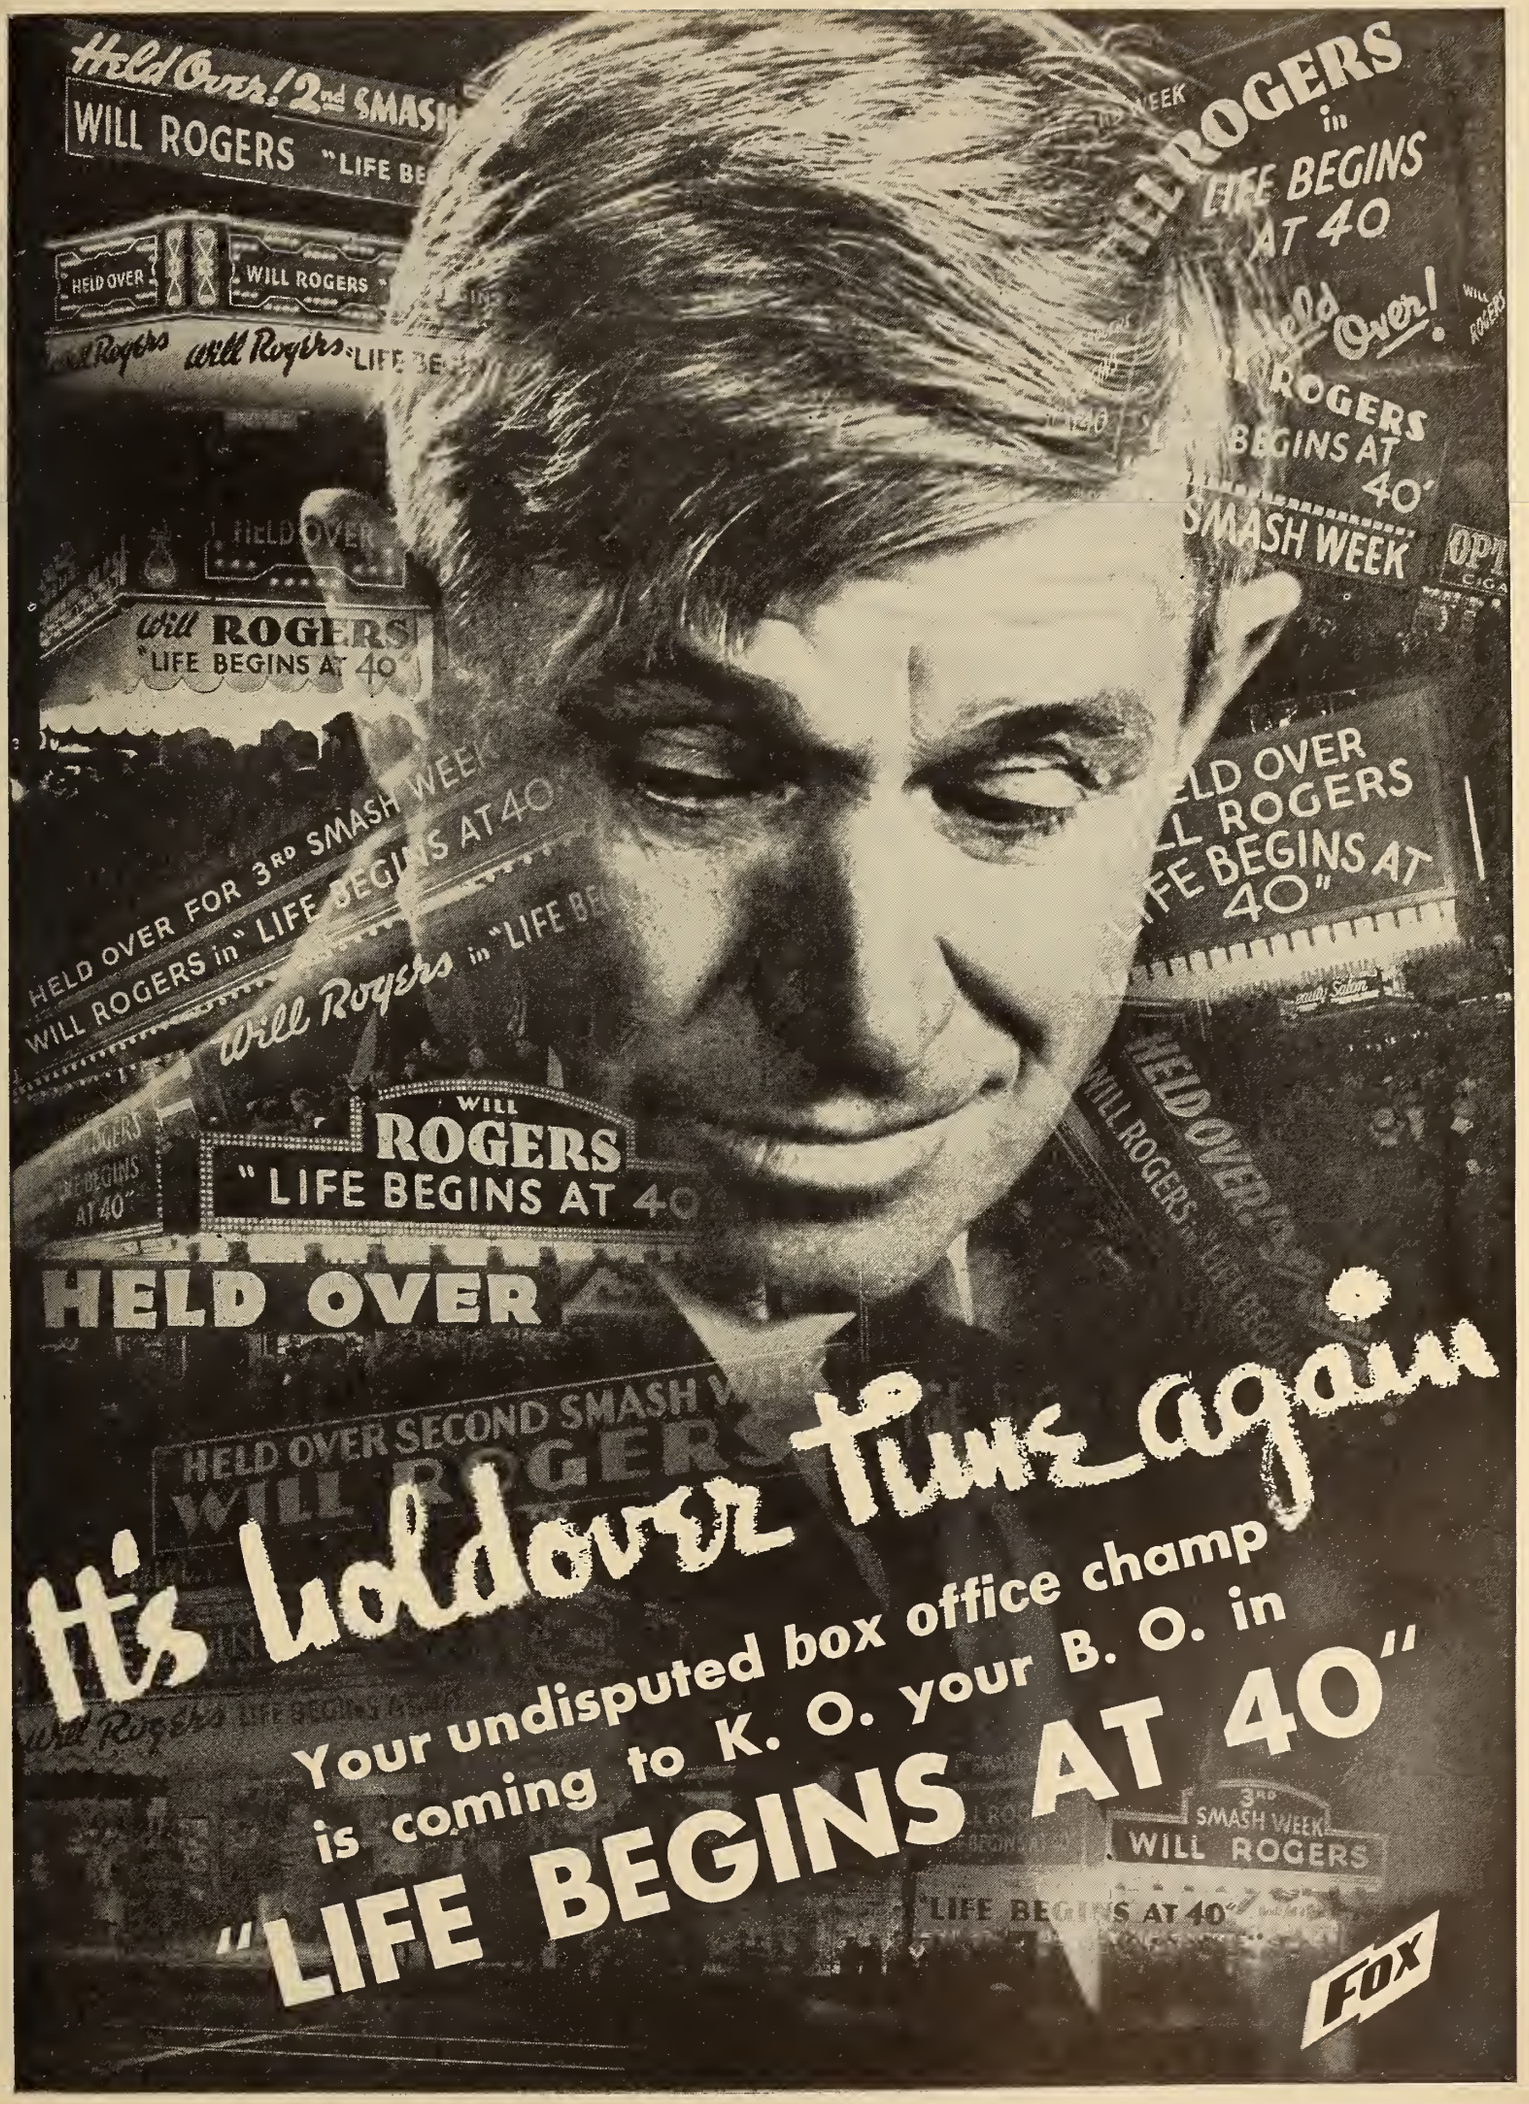
It was a Captain Boycott, a landowner in Mayo, Ireland, back in the '80s who, through devious reasons, started the term. Today, our favorite dictionary disposes of it with this definition: "To combine against (a landlord, tradesman, employer or other person), to withhold social or business intercourse from him and to deter others from holding such intercourse." The I.T.O.A. of New Jersey and Allied of New Jersey may not know the origin of the practice, but that does not at all prevent them from discussing such a joint idea along similar lines, meaning Metro and Warners. Two-thirds of the combined membership are reported in favor of severing relations with Leo while one-third seems anxious to end it all with Warners. In both instances, the reputed complaint is the same: opposition to sales policies providing for designated playdates, percentages and the forcing of shorts with features. It has an ugly connotation, that word boycott. . . .

Finney Named Head Of Ampa Nominators

Ed Finney of Monogram yesterday was selected chairman of Ampa's nominating committee which includes Edward McNamee, Tom Hamlin, Dave Davidson, Ben Atwell, Charles Leonard and Jack Harrower. A meeting of the group is slated for Monday, but selections of candidates for office next season must be in the hands of Mel Heymann, secretary, by April 4.

Sidney Olcott wired his appreciation to the organization for the reception given him at the last session.

Reisman Closes Deals



Phil Reisman, vice-president in charge of foreign sales for RKO, has closed a deal with Cine Colombia of Medellin for the entire lineup of his company for distribution in Colombia. He also has closed with M. A. Schlesinger, acting for African Consolidated Films, Ltd., Johannesburg, for South African distribution of all Radio product for 1934-35.

Believe Para. Plan Cinched By Agreement

April 4 hearing, it was learned authoritatively yesterday.

In accordance with the understanding, it was reported, the Fortington group will file assents to the plan for $3,500,000 of Paramount debentures, as general claims. In addition, it will permit another $3,500,000 of bonds which it represents to remain on deposit with the Vanderlip and Munger debenture committees, both of which have assented to the plan. The Fortington group also represents $11,000,000 of general claims against Paramount which, when filed in assent to the plan, are regarded as assuring the two-thirds of general creditor and bondholders' claims necessary for ratification.

Coincident with this development, a drive is being launched jointly by Field, Glore & Co., investment house, and Strook and Strook, counsel for the Paramount Broadway bonholders' committee, to obtain the necessary assents of two-thirds of the holders of the $8,875,000 Paramount Broadway issue outstanding. The assents from these holders have reached an aggregate slightly under $4,000,000, as compared with the approximately $5,900,000 required. There are numerous scattered holders of the bonds and the only explanation of the slowness with which they are being filed is the indifference of holders.

Terms of the Paramount Broadway reorganization are regarded as highly favorable to the bondholders and the drive to be conducted by Field, Glore and Strook is expected to make the holders aware of the necessity of filing assents and to result in bringing in the necessary amount.

Stockholders have already filed in sufficient amount for ratification of the plan by their classification. A majority of the holders is needed and approximately 60 per cent have already filed.

May Oppose Loew And Momand Ruling

The Paramount Publix trustees, E. M. Loew of Boston and A. B. Momand of Oklahoma may file exceptions to the ruling of Special Master John E. Joyce in connection with the Loew and Momand anti-trust claims against Paramount up to April 20, Federal Judge Alfred C. Coxe ruled yesterday.

The original Loew and Momand claims asked treble damages of Paramount of aproximately $10,000,000 as a result of alleged violations of the anti-trust laws. Referee Joyce ruled recently that while proof of actual damages might be proper, the penalty of treble damages could not be collected from a bankrupt. Filing of exceptions to this ruling might result in a different finding by Judge Coxe.

Overtures for settlement of the Loew claim for $75,000 by the Paramount trustees are in an advanced stage and may be consummated prior to April 20, however. No offer to settle the Momand claim has been made as yet, so far as could be learned.

NEIL AGNEW is preparing for a Hollywood trip. He may get away Saturday or Sunday.

ALINE MACMAHON was among those at the premiere of "Black Pit" Wednesday evening.

HOWARD S. CULLMAN, trustee of the Roxy, paradoxically is inviting his friends to see "The Wedding Night" at the Rivoli. The reason being that Cullman's tobacco plantation at Tariffville, Conn., is the exterior background of the picture.

GREGORY RATOFF probably will be a member of the cast of "On Your Toes," forthcoming Shubert musical with RODGERS and HART music and lyrics. They're usually very good.

GENOROSO PONCE FILHO, distributor of Radio pictures in Rio de Janeiro, is en route back home on the Western World after a five-week sojourn here looking over the 1934-35 product.

JIM LOUGHBOROUGH, once a film press agent, is now attached to the public relations division of the Federal Housing Administration in Washington.

SAM FOX is a busy man nowadays completing plans to move his publishing company and Movietone Music Corp., from present quarters to Radio City.

JAMES CHRISTIE, mid-west division manager for RKO, is due to arrive from Chicago today. He was scheduled to arrive Wednesday, but delayed.

LAURENCE BOLOGNINO will finally get off on that long-awaited vacation the end of next week. The Century-RKO case has been holding him up.

BERNIE BROOKS, upstate Paramount salesman working out of the local exchange, has acquired a Ford in which to do his traveling.

SOL SCHWARTZ, manager of the RKO Fordham, is busy lining up special talent for the theatre's 14th anniversary next month.

ROBERT DONAT is due to arrive here from England about the middle of next month to make "Captain Blood" for Warners.

CASSANDRA, psychic and palmist who recently arrived from Europe, is now under the management of MAX RICHARD.

GEORGE W. WEEKS of Gaumont British left yesterday for Philadelphia and Washington. He will return Monday.

ABE BLUMSTEIN has resigned as sales head for the Audio shorts at the First Division exchange in New York.

BOB FOX, winner of the FRED ALLEN amateur broadcast will appear at the Roxy, beginning today.

JACK COHN expects to shove off for California Saturday. Over the airline.

TALLULAH BANKHEAD'S next will be "Something Gay." For the SHUBERTS.

BARNEY BALABAN is in town from Chicago for a visit of several days.

AMOS HIATT expects to hit the rails any day now.

OSCAR DOOB has been the recipient of suspicious glances since that French perfume exploitation gag for "Folies Bergere" made its appearance about the Loew offices.

HARRY THOMAS is in Philadelphia.

Loew's to Aid Move for Dual Stoppage Here metropolitan theatre division, no authoritative statement on the company's attitude toward the Brandt proposal could be obtained. Unofficial views within the company, however, were that RKO might disregard any move to curb duals. Efforts to reach George Skouras, Ed Peskay and Louis Weber for the Skouras Theatres' attitude were unsuccessful.

Meanwhile, Brandt stated yesterday that letters were being sent out immediately to all exhibitors in the New York area advising them of the plans for the conference and its purposes. The holding of the meeting, he said, depends upon the response from exhibitors. If sufficient interest is displayed, the meeting will probably be held at an early date.

Reactions to Brandt's proposal were immediate in independent production and distribution circles, he reported. Several protests were received from these sources, together with reminders of the injury which a curtailment of double featuring here might work on independent producers and distributors. Brandt's reply was that the evil of duals, as disclosed within I.T.O.A. ranks, was the poor quality of product shown on the double feature program. Elimination of the policy, he said, was aimed at no single producing or distributing group and sought only the elimination of the poor quality feature, regardless of whether it came from an independent or a major company.

Para. Set for a Rush

HOLLYWOOD, March 21.—With the installation of Harold Hurley as executive production assistant to Ernst Lubitsch, the studio is set to line up more producers and get its new schedule under way.

RKO-RADIO PICTURE

"Baboona" Is Capital Wow; Gets $7,200

WASHINGTON, March 21. — "Baboona" sky-rocketed Loew's Columbia to a near-record last week when the Martin Johnson opus, abetted by a personal appearance of Mr. and Mrs. Johnson, drew $7,200, over average by $4,100.

"Roberta" took $20,000 at RKO-Keith's. Average is $11,400. It was held a second week.

Playing "The Woman in Red," the Metropolitan broke par for a take of $4,500, or $400 over the line.

Total first run business was $83,600. Average, without the Belasco, is $71,200.

Glazer on Way East

HOLLYWOOD, March 21.—Benjamin Glazer started east tonight to sign radio headliners for Paramount's "The Big Broadcast of 1935" and to arrange for filming "Anything Goes," current on Broadway.

RKO Sweepstakes

It's called the RKO legal sweepstakes and circuit heads are trying to figure out which of three cases now in various stages will be the first to come to an end.

Milton Maier has been in Detroit for several weeks working on the settlement of a long-term lease on the Temple, which is to be demolished for a bus terminal.

Bruce Bromley, who recently returned from St. Louis, resumes Monday as RKO attorney in the M. & S. arbitration hearings. These sessions have been going on for weeks.

Louis Nizer, representing RKO in the Century clearance complaint against the circuit, recently wound up testimony in the hearings and resumed on the case yesterday for summation, which will be followed by a Campi appeal session.

British Will Abide By Production Code

Captain Richard Norton, a production executive of British and Dominion, the latter stated yesterday prior to his departure for London on the Majestic tonight.

Norton implied that as a result of a number of conferences held here with Will H. Hays he would return to his native country prepared to acquaint British studios with pitfalls which they should dodge in producing pictures for distribution in this market.

While Norton declined specifically to outline how this would be done in detail, maintaining that announcement of the plan should come from Hays, he did go so far as to point out that one step would be the supplying of English producers with American censorship elimination in an effort to make them familiar with the type of material to be avoided and that a second step would be the creation of a system whereby scripts of proposed British pictures could be cleared by the Production Code Administration at a speed which would not delay actual camera work.

He also divulged a plan to revamp "Nell Gwyn" by the addition of a prologue and an epilogue which, he said, would make the picture suitable for American distribution in so far as requirements of the Production Code were concerned.

Norton, enthused by his reception here and laudatory to an extreme in his comment on the efficacy of the American trade press, plans to attend the United Artists sales convention on the coast in May.

Studios to Put Ban Upon Lurid Writers

HOLLYWOOD, March 21.—Sensation-seeking writers are to be barred from studios, it was stated today by J. J. McCarthy prior to his departure tonight after three weeks of conferences with studio publicity heads. Those who refuse to cooperate will be stricken from the Hays office credentials list.

"Roberta" Is Second Week Coast Leader

LOS ANGELES, March 21.—"Roberta" led the field in its second week downtown, but failed to create much of an impression as a holdover in Hollywood. The take at the Hillstreet was $12,000, which was $3,100 over the line, but at Warners Hollywood it was $2,000 under the line on a total of $12,000.

Total first run business was $80,546. Average is $92,100.

Estimated takings for the week ending March 20:

Flinn to Confer in K. C.; Also Chicago

KANSAS CITY, March 21.—John C. Flinn is due here tomorrow for informal conferences with members of the clearance and zoning board and exhibitors to discuss protection and clearance in this territory.

No schedule will be adopted for this area until Campi finds that the Los Angeles plan, which goes into effect March 31, is workable and favorable to all interests involved.

The I. T. O. has dropped plans for Federal court action upon being assured by Elmer C. Rhoden that Fox Midwest will not insist on protection over equally priced houses this season. The I. T. O., however, opposes clearance as favored by Campi and wants equal protection for identical admissions written into the forthcoming schedule.

A new I. T. O. committee will attempt to obtain unrestricted dualing privileges from distributors, offering as a concession to delay duals 28 days after regular spots. Most distributors at present place limitations on doubling.

From here Flinn will go to Chicago, arriving there Saturday, to contact exhibitors. From the Windy City he will go to New York, where he is due Sunday.

Sign Federal Operator

HOLLYWOOD, March 21.—The Producers' Association has retained Thomas F. Cullen, special agent in charge of the New York Division of the Department of Justice, to serve in an advisory capacity on several pictures based on activities of Federal agents. Cullen is on leave from the service at present.

Ruling Reserved on Stanley Co. Probe

WILMINGTON, March 21.—Decision was reserved here today in the Superior Court on the petition of Harry Schwalbe of Philadelphia for a writ of mandamus to compel the Stanley Co. of America to permit him or his representatives to examine the books of the company for the purpose of obtaining certain information relative to management and operations. Judges Harrington and Reinhardt sat on the case.

Schwalbe testified that he was associated in the formation of the Stanley Co. some years ago and that about seven years ago control was obtained by Warner Bros. Pictures, which now owns all but about 8,000 shares of the company stock. Schwalbe owns about 6,000 shares.

Schwalbe denied his desire to examine the books was actuated by any ulterior motive such as to force the defendant company to purchase the stock he owns.

Scranton Opposing Opening on Sunday

SCRANTON, March 21.—Action proposed in the State Assembly to legalize Sunday shows in Pennsylvania has drawn numerous protests here. Meeting in this city, the members of the Northern Welsh Presbytery went on record as voicing a "strong protest."

Others who have added their protests are the Lackawanna County Booster Ass'n., Jr O. U. A. M.; the Methodist Ministers' Ass'n. and Plymouth Congregational Church.

Schenck-Blumenthal Buy Florida Villa

Joseph M. Schenck and A. C. Blumenthal yesterday completed the joint purchase of the Seligman Villa at Palm Beach, Fla., the former property of the head of the international banking house of J. & W. Seligman & Co. It was stated that Schenck plans to occupy the house only two or three months out of the year unless Hollywood moves to Florida, in which case he might extend the residency another month or two.

Dividend by Loew's, Ltd.

Marcus Loew's Theatres, Ltd., of Canada, has declared a dividend of $1.75 on preferred stock to take care of accumulations. Payment will be made April 1 to stockholders of record on March 23.

PORTLAND, March 21.—H. D. R. McBride and L. L. Francis of Spokane have incorporated Howard Amusement Co. to operate a circuit in Washington.

Named in Tax Liens

LOS ANGELES, March 21.—Tax liens have been filed here against Ruth Chatterton, George Brent, Ted Healy and Harry D. Edwards and his wife, Evelyn Brent.

"One Night" Reopens

"It Happened One Night," Academy prize winning feature, has been booked for a return engagement on Broadway and opens at the Astor this morning.

Variety Club Chatter

Cincinnati

CINCINNATI, March 21.—A drive for a limited number of new members is in progress, with JOE OULIHAN heading one team, and JIM GRADY the other. Results are beginning to show.

Local barkers returning from Florida during the past week include MEYER LANTZ, CHARLIE MCDONALD, BILLIE BEIN and NOAH SCHECTER.

COL. ARTHUR FRUDENFELD, head of the local RKO, spent a few days of last week in Chicago on business.

MANNY SHURE, first assistant chief barker, has transferred from the RKO Palace to the Albee. JOE ALEXANDER, who previously hung out at the Capitol, may now be found at the Palace.

RUSSELL WILSON, who holds the title of His Honor, the Mayor, was one of the busiest men in town on St. Patrick's Day. He made three speeches to different organizations.

Kansas City

KANSAS CITY, March 21.—Beginning March 25, luncheon meetings will be held every other Monday. Chief Barker GEORGE BAKER has named as kings for that date GUS DIAMOND, FRANK CASSIL and NORRIS B. CRESSWELL.

Representative FRANK MCFARLAND of Topeka gave the barkers an insight into the legislative machinery at the Kansas capital at a meeting at which R. R. BIECHELE, PECK BAKER and BILL ALTHAUS did the honors.

MCFARLAND tossed orchids in the direction of Barkers BIECHELE and HARRY MCCLURE of Topeka for their efforts in staving off legislation which would have been harmful to the industry. Representative E. A. BRILES also came in for much praise. In return, BIECHELE and ARTHUR COLE spread some posies for MCFARLAND.

MAX ROTH, Columbia d. m., now can be called "colonel." The Kentucky brand. Which makes two for the local Columbia office, HARRY TAYLOR being the other "cunnel."

LEO MCCARTHY, FINTON JONES, IRWIN DUBINSKY and COLE comprise a committee bearing definite instructions to wind up negotiations for new club quarters.

FRANK HENSLER is proud of his past chief barker's jewel pin, a token from the tent. COLE presented it elegantly.

Ladies' Day, the first function under the administration of Chief Barker BAKER, was a huge success, with a turnout of 125. DON DAVIS, JOHN SCHILLING and M. H. STRAIGHT of Radio Station WHB have the barkers' plaudits for furnishing grand entertainment.

Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA, March 21.—First fortnightly luncheon of Tent No. 13 was held at the Bellevue Stratford Hotel with 150 in attendance and IZ EPSTEIN and HERB ELLIOTT kings for the day. Major General SMEDLEY BUTLER and Orphans' Court Judge CHARLES KLEIN were guest speakers. The affair made a great impression and was covered by the dailies.

Chief Barker EARLE SWEIGERT announced that MILTON ROGASNER had been elected second assistant chief barker, with DOC LEVY succeeding him on the board.

Luncheons will be held the second and fourth Wednesdays of each month, according to a club vote.

Kings for the next luncheon will be appointed soon.

Tent No. 13 also voted to expand its membership to 150, with applications, endorsed by two members, now being accepted. It is expected that this number will be filled soon.

A new steward has been appointed.

The club program, with Tuesday night as Stage Night, and special entertainment Saturday and Sunday, is working out well. More and more, club members are making the clubhouse their downtown headquarters.

"Laddie" Opens Tonight

INDIANAPOLIS, March 21.—"Laddie" will have its world premiere at the Circle here Friday night with S. Barret McCormick, advertising and publicity director for Radio, who arrived in town this afternoon, acting as managing director of the house for the occasion. McCormick held that post at the theatre 15 years ago.

Virginia Weidler, eight, who appears in the film, also arrived today from the coast. She will make personal appearances at the opening and during the first week's run of the film.

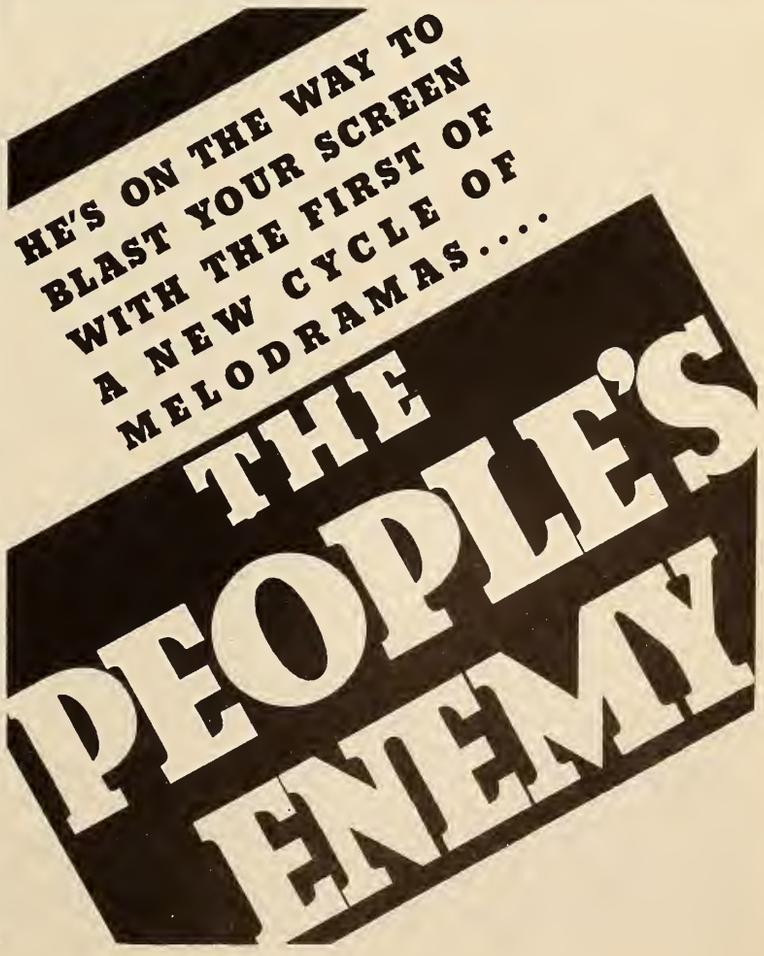
Mrs. Joe Feldman Gains

ATLANTA, March 21. — Mrs. Joe Feldman, wife of a Universal salesman, is convalescing from a fall in which she sustained a triple fracture of her leg.

Pathe Working Out New News Broadcast

Pathe is working out the details of what it hopes will be a new technique of news broadcasting for its bi-weekly series of 15-minute broadcasts on Bromo-Seltzer time over an NBC hookup. The first experimental program is now being done by John Begg, who has been put in charge of the broadcasts by Courtland Smith.

The plan is to avoid news dramatization like that used by the "March of Time" and to confine it to material to be shown in forthcoming reels. Where persons actually speak in the reels their voices will be used in a narrative recorded on film to be furnished for the broadcasts. Other sounds may also be introduced.



The program will be called "Pathe News on the Air." The first broadcast will be April 8.

New High Speed Camera

A camera developed for high speed photography has been demonstrated before the American Society of Mechanical Engineers by George Lane. The new device, known as the Western Electric "Ultra Speed Camera," has been called "the microscope of time," and is used in aiding detection of flaws in rapidly moving machinery.

Omaha Club Meeting Set

OMAHA, March 21.—First meeting of Variety Club, still in the process of organization, is scheduled for Monday with a luncheon. H. J. Shumow and William Miskel, promoters of the club, will be in charge of arrangements.

Fox Reports 1934 Net As $1,273,069

showed a decided improvement over the fourth quarter, the company reports.

The report states that the popularity of its three principal stars increased during the year. These stars are Will Rogers, Janet Gaynor and Shirley Temple. On the last page of the report is this statement:

"Sixteen thousand motion picture exhibitors, voting in the annual canvass conducted by the Motion Picture Herald to determine the most popular film stars in the country's box-offices, named among the first ten the following three Fox stars: Will Rogers—the country's greatest box-office attraction; Janet Gaynor—first among all feminine stars; Shirley Temple—first child star ever listed among the first 10."

Gross revenue for the 52 weeks ended Dec. 29, 1934, amounted to $37,546,586, compared with $33,285,767, an increase of $4,260,819.

Fox Film's balance sheet shows current assets of $20,021,879, which includes cash—$4,499,462; receivables—$1,382,233, and inventories—$13,678,351, against current liabilities of $4,442,246. The corporation has no bank loans.

Investments and advances to affiliated companies after deducting the reserve for revaluation of $14,500,000 are given as $16,340,537.

Fixed Assets at $10,130,022

Fixed assets, after deducting reserves for depreciation, total $10,130,022. Funded debt includes five-year six per cent convertible debentures totalling $1,696,600, and subsidiary realty companies' bonds of $2,194,200, a total of $3,890,800.

The net worth of the corporation, as shown by its balance sheet Dec. 29, 1934, was $536,518,017, including earned surplus accumulated since April 1, 1933, of $3,006,812, and was represented by 2,419,759 shares of Class A and 16,650 shares of Class B capital stock, indicating a book value of $14.99 per share.

It is noted in the balance sheet that National Theatres Corp. (formerly Wesco Corp.) has been reorganized and that Fox Film is now the owner of 42 per cent of its outstanding capital stock. As a result of the reorganization National Theatres Corp., as such, now has no funded debt or bank loans. During 1934 continued progress was made in improving the operating position of the various subsidiary circuits of theatres comprising the former Wesco group which have been for some time in bankruptcy.

Subsequent to the closing of the corporation's fiscal year, the most important group has been taken out of bankruptcy and the report expresses the hope that by the end of 1935 the entire system will have been reorganized. In this connection, the report notes that Fox Film's former ownership of Wesco Corp. has been reduced to 42 per cent, but that the elimination of large debts formerly existing ahead of Fox Film's 100 per cent ownership has brought the present 42 per cent interest in National Theatres much nearer the actual theatre properties and, in the judgment of the management, has improved Fox Film's position with respect to the entire circuit.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Chasing Yesterday"

(Radio)

HOLLYWOOD, March 21.—In the realm of whimsical charm nicely decorated with virtues of a quiet home life, George Nicholls has touchingly and charmingly directed Anatole France's tender tale of a French college professor and his adopted daughter, patterning the drama involving their loving lives.

While in tempo it moves completely in harmony with a mood of gentleness, interest is constantly held by the creation of the feeling of well being radiated by the sympathy invoked from character portrayals.

O. P. Heggie, a bachelor watched over by Helen Westley, harking back to his only love, returns to the scene of that romance and meets Ann Shirley, daughter of his dead flame. How he kidnaps her from a harsh environment, gets embroiled with a scheming lawyer (Etienne Girardot) and enmeshed with schoolmarm Elizabeth Patterson, and is finally befriended by John Qualen, a book agent, is the framework of the yarn.

Miss Shirley, reminiscent of Mary Pickford in "Pollyanna," reflects adolescent girlhood charmingly. Few screen performances have equaled Heggie's portrayal. Girardot and Qualen are fine. Miss Patterson's performance is outstanding. Miss Westley, Hilda Vaughn, Doris Lloyd and Trent Durkin complete the cast.

The production has a cameo quality, carved with care and tenderness. Cliff Reid produced it. Francis Faragoh did a good screen play.

Where homespun and whimsy go, this should find favor, particularly with lovers of charming, delightful entertainment.

"Baby Face Harrington"

(M-G-M)

HOLLYWOOD, March 21.—This picture teams Charles Butterworth and Una Merkel in a laugh-crowded farce that speeds along, letting down only in the last few hundred feet.

Butterworth is a sap clerk married to Miss Merkel. She prods him to ask for a raise and the boss fires him instead. Butterworth then cashes an insurance policy and loses the money, accusing Donald Meek, a real estate agent, of stealing it. He takes the money from Meek, finds his own and then is robbed of both rolls by Nat Pendleton, Public Enemy No. 1. Meek has Butterworth jailed and put in a cell with one of Pendleton's mob. A jail delivery is arranged by the mob and Butterworth is taken along, with the tabloids playing him up as the brains of the gang, a man with a dual personality.

While a prisoner of the mob, he overhears plans for a bank robbery, tips off the police, who capture the entire gang, thus vindicating himself and restoring himself to Miss Merkel, whose faith in him had never been shaken despite the efforts of Harvey Stephens, the heavy, who has tried to steal her during the trouble.

Director Raoul Walsh paces things nicely until the last sequences. Production by Edgar Selwyn is good. Nunally Johnson and Edwin Knopf contributed some snappy dialogue in the screen adaptation from the play by Selwyn and William LeBaron.

sion to distribute "The March of Time" in England, Reginald Baker, financial head and joint managing director of the English company, stated yesterday. He added no contracts would be signed.

"One difficulty remains in the handling of the subject," Baker explained. "That is the comment which has to be changed for English audiences." He did not consider this angle much of a problem.

Baker sails today on the Majestic after three weeks in the United States and plans to return again in six months.

Short Subjects

"Better Housing News Flashes"

(Federal Housing Administration)

The first two releases in the series of one-reelers planned by the Federal Housing Administration under the general title of "Better Housing News Flashes" in the Federal campaign to aid recovery by extending Government funds for property improvements admirably suit the purpose for which they are intended.

Their value, however, does not stop here. The films are interesting and instructive at the same time, possessing, additionally, considerable value as entertainment pure and simple. They carry their message to the homeowner and the operator of business properties in such graphic terms that exhibitors will find it worth their while to play the films, which run slightly more than six minutes each.

Women especially will find "Better Housing News Flashes" of inherent interest, for the pictures, in clinching their argument for better housing by the presentation of specific cases of "before and after," offer many scenes showing how the kitchen and other parts of the home that are the special domain of the woman of the house can be altered to make the housewife's job easier.

And last but not least, it won't cost the exhibitor a penny to show the films. They will be offered to him for the asking by the Federal Housing Administration, which will handle distribution directly.

The pictures have been produced by Pathe in fine fashion. Distribution starts early next month.

William Boyd Dies; End Was Unexpected

HOLLYWOOD, March 21.—William Boyd, whose Sergeant Quirt in the stage version of "What Price Glory" opened a film career for him, died last night at the Hollywood Hospital from an intestinal disorder. His condition had not been regarded as serious.

He had been on the stage for years before he achieved his greatest fame in the Stallings-Anderson play, having appeared in support of Maud Adams, Ethel Barrymore, Margaret Anglin, Emily Stevens and others.

Joseph Roth Passes

BOSTON, March 21.—Joseph Roth, president of Cameo Screen Attractions, died here today from a cerebral hemorrhage. Roth was 52 and has been active in the industry since 1905. He was a former president of the local film board. Funeral services will be held Friday.

Lapp, Denver, Killed

DENVER, March 21.—Walter Lapp, 23, assistant manager of the Plaza, was killed in an auto accident north of Denver, in which a girl, another occupant of the same car, was also fatally injured.

PORTLAND, March 21.—Forest F. Fine, formerly of San Francisco, and Herb Cass, formerly of Omaha, have taken over the territory previously handled by William Green for National Screen. Green passed away here early this week from pneumonia.

Legislative Battles Gain In Intensity

last night. It had previously passed the Senate and now goes to Governor Davey, who is expected to sign it quickly.

This state also has a pari-mutuel betting bill pending and a new type of billboard tax which calls for a $200 annual fee for each panel in addition to a five-cent-per-foot tax.

Threaten to Quit Omaha

OMAHA, March 21.—Film contracts provide that footage taxes, if imposed, will be passed on to exhibitors, but distributors are taking no chances on the House bill now pending which would impose a 10 per cent tax on all film rentals. They are threatening to move over to Council Bluffs, Ia., if the measure is passed. Film shipments would then be interstate commerce.

In the meantime, fearing distributors' threats may not carry weight with legislators, exhibitors are getting themselves into a state of excitement. Their first delegation, headed by Charles E. McLucas, M.P.T.O. unit head, with D. V. McLucas, U.A. branch manager, appeared at a House hearing Tuesday.

Hope of defeating the bill has risen since.

Missourians Fight Tax

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., March 21.—Exhibitors' worries have been only partly relieved by the Temporary sidetracking of the censorship bill. The Senate has passed a horse and dog racing bill authorizing racing within 20 miles of St. Louis and the question is now up to the House.

In the meantime the sales tax problem is getting more acute. Newspapers and radio are being used by merchants and exhibitors to convince Missourians that the proposed increase to two per cent would cost every inhabitant $24 per year and that the smaller their income, the greater proportion of it would be diverted to taxes.

Wash. Tax in Balance

SEATTLE, March 21.—What will happen to the proposed state tax on admissions, a part of the contemplated retail sales tax, is still a matter of conjecture here. The Washington state legislature is still in session in Olympia, although the gathering ended "officially" five days ago.

At present, the Senate is redrafting the sales tax bill, one provision of which calls for a tax of one cent on theatre admissions of 20 cents, one-and-one-half cents on a 30-cent ticket, and two cents on a 40-cent ticket. Admissions are non-taxable under 20 cents. This amendment, however, is reported to be opposed in the House. So that when (and if) the Senate finally approves the bill and sends it to the House, the latter body is said to be inclined to kill the theatre tax altogether.

Indiana Men Satisfied

INDIANAPOLIS, March 21.—Indiana exhibitors are satisfied so far with the results of the legislative session. In a bulletin to members, Associated Theatre Owners lists a number of bills it has succeeded in having killed or shelved, but it is admitted that a forthcoming special session is a source of worry.

The special session is to be held within the next few months to raise additional revenue.

A 10 per cent admission tax bill has been indefinitely postponed, a bill increasing penalties for discrimination has been killed, as has a pari-mutuel betting bill, and bills lightening carnival license fees. A measure requiring the use of licensed electricians for repairs is still on the calendar.

Among bills favored and passed was one prohibiting marathons, and others restricting night clubs. The association claims credit for amendments to a state NRA act eliminating signers of national codes from state assessments.

Repeal Iowa Blue Law

DES MOINES, March 21.—Repeal of the Sunday blue laws has been passed in the House, 61-38, and the measure is now up to the Senate. Only two towns in the state have been enforcing blue laws, except on horse racing and dancing.

Bryson said: "Because of the business recovery, Federal income tax returns for 1934 indicate a 50 per cent increase. The Governor recommended an act to raise $17,500,000. This measure will produce $27,000,000."

Assemblyman Frank Laughlin of Los Angeles charges directors and other studio employes are urging him to fight for his film footage tax bill, saying the industry is the greatest tax dodger and ought to bear a fair share of the tax burden.

Century-RKO Both Predict Victory and ended his summary at 4:48, following which Klupt was allowed 20 minutes for rebuttal. Deliberations starts 3 P.M. next Tuesday.

Both attorneys presented well prepared breakdowns of the case which has been before the board on eight different days for a duration of 30 hours. During most of the hearings, Campi sent over a representative to sit in and observe the procedure.

Commendation for Leo Abrams' handling of the meetings as chairman has been heard on all sides. The case is regarded as the most important ever before the local board. Century seeks to remove the seven-day clearance RKO's Strand and Columbia, Far Rockaway, and Alden, Jamaica, has over the Fantasy, Rockville Center. The plaintiff claims there is no competition between the situations involved, while RKO holds the opposite view.

There were numerous interruptions during the summations and again, as in practically all previous sessions, Abrams had to strike remarks by attorneys off the record. When either counsel made comments on testimony of witnesses, opposing counsel insisted on reference to the record.

Klupt, in his opening speech, thanked the board for its patience, as did Nizer.

Shortly after his opening remarks, Nizer made much ado over Klupt's charges of "gypping." Klupt challenged Nizer to find the remark in the record. It was not there, the public stenographer having missed it. MOTION PICTURE DAILY's reporter did not and Nizer brought out the fact that it was reported in the trade papers, meaning this publication, since no other has taken the trouble to cover the case. It was then that Klupt explained how he happened to pass the remark.

In expressing his confidence of victory, Nizer told the board he had faith in a unanimous decision for dismissal. He also said: "There is enough evidence here to sink a boat."

The record, with summations included, will run to approximately 1,500 pages.

Code Revision Outlook Goes To NRA Board

ing action by Congress on extension of the Recovery Act, and there is some doubt in Rosenblatt's mind as to whether it would not be best also to defer consideration of the film code.

The legislation extending the Recovery Act will make some important changes in the law as now written, possibly to the extent of requiring the revision of all codes. If this is the case, it is pointed out, changes which the M.P.T.O.A. has in mind could be considered at that time.

the President in the coordination of the recovery agencies, today was placed in charge of the Recovery Administration by President Roosevelt. His title is chairman of the National Industrial Recovery Board.

Richberg succeeds S. Clay Williams, tobacco magnate, who took the job temporarily following Johnson's departure and who advised the President some days ago of his desire to resign.

While the Recovery Administration was being handed over to one of the chief supporters of regimentation, the Senate was struggling with an amendment offered by Senator Borah of Idaho, NRA enemy, for incorporation in the pending work relief bill, which would repeal all exemptions from the anti-trust laws.

The amendment was defeated by a scant 10 votes, the vote of 43-33 giving indications that the attack on continuation of the Recovery Act, expected when the legislation comes up on the floor, will have considerable support.

Ohio Exhibitor Gets Stay on Film Order

CLEVELAND, March 21—A temporary injunction has been granted Francis Reeh, Shelby Theatre, Shelby, by Common Pleas Judge Homer G. The injunction was granted without notice and without a hearing and holds until the case is heard. Reeh has filed suit against the NRA and also against the state NRA Act.

NRA to Set a Date For Booth Hearing

WASHINGTON, March 21.—A date for a new hearing on New York booth costs is expected to be set by the NRA tomorrow. Missouri 2% Tax Passage Seems Likely

Amendments Whipped in Shape by the House

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., March 22.—Passage of the state administration's two per cent sales tax bill, which has been in doubt, now appears probable. The measure has been perfected by the House with amendments after a strenuous two weeks' battle in the lower chamber over allocation of the expected revenue.

As perfected, the bill specifically levies the tax on theatre admissions and other amusements, newspaper advertising, billboards and other outdoor advertising, advertising agencies and numerous services used by theatres.

Loew's to Get Three Allied Owner Houses

lied might be unable to deliver clear title.

The new agreement embodied in the Allied reorganization plan provides for payments of $500,000 annually for 10 years by Loew's, and of $525,000 for the next succeeding 15 years. Provision is also made by which Loew's may acquire title to the houses earlier by anticipating payments on a discount basis. The payments are to be made by Loew's Theatre & Realty Corp., and are guaranteed by Loew's, Inc.

Allied is also the lessor to Paramount of the Brooklyn Paramount, the Alabama at Birmingham, and the Paramount, Tremont, O., and Paramount, Glens Falls, N. Y. Claims of Allied against Paramount, arising out of the construction and leasing of these houses, have been settled in a separate agreement under which Allied is made a general creditor of Paramount for $5,000,000 and Paramount agrees to complete the outright purchase of the three theatres.

Fabian Got Brooklyn Property

The Paramount Bldg., Brooklyn, exclusive of the theatre, was recently sold to Si Fabian by Allied in a transaction which clarified and hastened the latter's reorganization and also avoided a $500,000 Federal transfer tax to which Allied would have been subject under the terms of its original settlement agreement with Paramount.

Judge Inch ruled that any sale of Allied-owned real estate after reorganization would have to be confirmed by five of the new company's seven directors. Allied listed assets, as of the time of reorganization, of $24,878,424, and liabilities of $14,700,168. Under its plan of reorganization the principal amount of its $9,127,000 of first mortgage bonds and $1,747,000 of debentures outstanding will be unchanged. Interest on the first mortgage bonds, however, is reduced from six per cent to four per cent and the maturities are extended to 1958. Interest on the debentures will be at two per cent and the maturities will be extended to 1953.

The court's tentative approval of the plan is conditioned upon its acceptance by two-thirds of the creditors of the company at a meeting to be held before Judge Inch March 29.

Plan Dinner for Wurtzel

HOLLYWOOD, March 22.—Fox executives will give an informal dinner at Movietone City next Tuesday night to Sol Wurtzel, John Stone and M. H. Golden to celebrate two years of operation of the Western Avenue plant by the trio. Forty English and 14 Spanish productions have been made at the studio since it was reopened.

Premiums Big Peril, Says Flinn in K. C.

of industry leaders was that premiums should be eliminated entirely as a factor in selling screen entertainment.

An open forum developed into a debate on clearance, bank nights and other subjects prominent in industry discussions. Flinn declared bank nights and similar gift enterprises were a moot subject on which only the courts could render final determination and indicated there would be an early decision on this point in cases now pending in Denver and Oklahoma City.

Describing his visit here as unofficial, Flinn cautioned the grievance and clearance boards at a morning session that he could not solve any local problems. Later at the open meeting he was the target of numerous questions fired at him chiefly by independents.

Flinn told MOTION PICTURE DAILY he was carrying back to New York the Los Angeles clearance board's recommendations on Fox West Coast's application for a rehearing on the zoning schedule for that territory which he will submit to Campi at Thursday's session. He said it was not his function to predict how soon the Los Angeles plan would be in effect, but asserted that exhibitor elements there had evinced a desire to be fair and arrive at something workable.

Tonight Flinn conferred further with Elmer C. Rhoden of F.W.C. and Jay Means, I.T.O. head, and made a survey of theatres with reference to Kansas City's proposed clearance schedule, following which he boarded a plane for Chicago, where he will spend the week-end, arriving in New York on Monday.

The net result of his day's visit was to clear up some moot points which had agitated local exhibitors and collect voluminous information for Campi's guidance in dealing with Kansas City's clearance problem.

Cut in Operators' Week Is Protested may result in projection complications. The operators themselves are against the plan, inasmuch as salaries will be cut proportionately.

In addition to the elimination of a day from the working week, the I.A.T.S.E. is asking all members to devote two days a week to picketing as a result of the failure of the fact-finding committee to settle the three-union operator controversy.

Although the deadline for acceptance of the plan by the members was March 18, many projectionists are not answering the reports sent out. However, it is believed the international which has assumed control of Local 306 will put through the emergency measure regardless of the members' apathy.

To Do Vanderbilt Yarn

HOLLYWOOD, March 22.—Fox will produce Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr's., "Farewell to Fifth Avenue" as a special on next year's program.

Looking 'Em Over

"La Dame aux Camelias"

(DuWorld)

This is a beautiful, poignant picturization of the immortal love story of Alexandre Dumas, fils.

Despite the fact that the dialogue is in French, audiences should appreciate this film because of the fine character portrayals of Yvonne Printemps and Pierre Fresnay, who seem to make the lovers, Julie and Armand, actually live on the screen.

The picture moves at a rapid pace and Fernand Rivers is to be commended for his direction. The music, written by Reynaldo Hahn, and particularly the song that Miss Printemps sings and of which the censors evidently disapproved, for its English sub-titles are blacked out, is appropriate.

The story has been changed but little from Dumas' novel. To Paris comes little, country-bred Miss Printemps. In a few short months she has blossomed out into "The Lady of the Camelias," in whose salon gather DeMusset, Gautier, Liszt, the Duc de Murias and all the splendor and gaiety of Paris. Then comes Fresnay and love. The two are deliriously happy until their romance is shattered by Fresnay's father. From that point on Miss Printemps slowly withers and dies because of the havoc wrought by a cough and her loss of Fresnay.

This picture is to be recommended. For those who don't understand French, there are English sub-titles. In places, however, the story is easily followed without the translations of the lines, so forceful is the acting of Miss Printemps and Fresnay.

Others in the cast are Lugne Poe, Armontel, Lurville, Andre Dubosc and Jeanne Marken.

Reviewed without production code seal. Running time, 85 minutes. "G."

"The Cyclone Ranger"

(Spectrum Pictures)

This is a run-of-the-mill western that should prove adequate fare for neighborhoods and small towns. It lacks the usual amount of action in pictures of this type and Director Bob Hill tells his story in a manner that presents too much dialogue. The photography of Donald Keyes is only fair.

Bill Cody, who is starred, Earl Hodgins, Donald Reed and Eddie Gribbon are satisfactory in their roles. Others in the cast are Nena Quartaro, Solidad Jimines and Colin Chase.

The yarn has Cody as leader of a band of ranchers who have been swindled out of their land. They steal their own cattle and are considered outlaws. Reed is found to be the son of a powerful woman rancher in Mexico who is being protected by Hodgins, a former foreman. Cody, Hodgins and Reed are returning to Mexico when the latter is killed. The remaining two continue the trip and Cody is mistaken for the lost son. He carries on the deception until the former members of his gang arrive and try to fleece the old lady of her cattle and money. A fight ensues, the outlaws are killed and Cody and Hodgins find themselves free men again. This clears the way for the romance that had sprung up between Cody and Miss Quartaro.

Reviewed without production code seal. Running time, 60 minutes. "G."

George Skouras for Higher Scales Here

George Skouras is in favor of eliminating duals and increasing admissions locally, he stated yesterday, provided other theatres will do likewise.

Skouras' attitude on duals is that they are "the scourge" of the industry and should be abolished. He is very much in accord with the move to hike prices and says he would not hesitate to join in such a plan.

zation proceedings. The committee will petition the court early next week for an order declaring the deposit agreement under which the committee represents bondholders to be a "fair" one.

The reorganization plan, as disclosed in earlier issues of MOTION PICTURE DAILY, provides for the acquisition of the stock of the new company by Schenck and Fox Theatres, with Schenck becoming president of reorganized Fox Met. Holders of the $12,460,700 of Fox Met bonds outstanding will receive 75 cents on the $1 for their equity. The payment will be 20 cents on the $1 in cash and 55 cents in new bonds. For the cash distribution, $600,000 will be paid into the company by Schenck and Fox Theatres and an additional $1,800,000 of unmortgaged Fox Met cash on hand will be made available to the bondholders. The new bond issue will aggregate $6,835,000, with interest at five per cent.

Skouras and Randforce will continue to operate the 86 Fox Met houses under new 10-year contracts.

NRA Refuses to Fix Bank Nights' Status

WASHINGTON, March 22.—Efforts to build a backfire under the NRA for the purpose of securing an interpretation that bank nights come under the premiums provisions of the film code rather than the lottery clause, failed today when officials of the NRA declared they had no intention of taking any action in the matter.

For several days the amusement division has been receiving telegrams from various sections of the country, some from exhibitors but mostly from people in other occupations, in which it was declared bank nights were proving a great impetus to business in all lines and should not be treated as a lottery but rather as a premium, thus giving the exhibitors in each locality an opportunity to vote on their continuance.

It was said at the NRA however, that no recommendations have been received from Code Authority and that nothing would be done in the matter.

few days are reported to have raised havoc with theatre business.

In many towns all business virtually ceased and transportation facilities stopped as day became night. State officials closed several Kansas highways when dust drifts became too dense for safety. In Great Bend and other Kansas towns exhibitors had to stop their shows when dust drifted in and obscured the screens.

Monogram Sets Dividend

A dividend of six percent on the capital stock of Monogram Pictures was voted yesterday by the executive committee of the company. It is payable to holders of record May 1 in quarterly installments of 1½ per cent each on May 1, Aug. 1, Nov. 1 and Feb. 1.

Missouri 2% Tax Passage Seems Likely

It makes it compulsory to pass on the equivalent of the tax.

Theatres in Kansas City and St. Louis will encounter competition in the form of horse racing and probably dog racing this summer, parimutuel betting having been legalized by the House. The Senate has approved a bill permitting gambling on horse racing only, and a conference committee will be necessary to work out the differences. As passed, the House racing measure permits dog tracks only at St. Louis. The state would collect three per cent of all wagers, and, in addition, the tracks would pay a fee of 20 cents on each admission.

Theatre circuits would be hit by a bill which has passed the House providing for an annual license tax on chain stores, graduated from $25 a unit for chains with two to five stores and $200 a unit for those with 26 or more stores.

HARTFORD, March 22.—A general fight is being organized on a five per cent admission tax pending in the Legislature, but exhibitors are worried for fear it will be passed as a part of the relief program.

See Delay in Bay State

BOSTON, March 22.—Being put over to the next legislative session seems to be the best probable fate of the two foremost bills against the industry, that of Thomas Dorgan to bar children of 14 from pictures except those passed by a religious board and that of James Scanlon to make licensing authorities individual censorship boards whose approval would be necessary for all pictures opened to anyone under 21.

United Artists has begun issuing foreign supplements to its domestic press books. The first is on "Clive of India." It is a four-page issue on coated stock with a series of exploitation stunts chosen for what is believed to be their suitability for foreign markets. The idea was suggested recently by Arthur W. Kelly, vice-president in charge of foreign distribution, upon his return from a trip abroad.

"Colonel" Is $9,500 Smash In Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH, March 22.—The customary Lenten reaction failed to hit at least two houses here last week. At the Fulton "The Little Colonel" ran up a sensational $9,500. The Penn, with a combination of "Vanessa" and Earl Carroll's "Vanities" claimed around $22,000.

"Roberta," after a record-breaking week at the Stanley, was moved to the Davis and did a nice $4,500 in eight days, while the Stanley was nosediving to $5,500 with "Living On Velvet." At the Alvin, credit for $10,000 goes to Fred Bradna's indoor circus, rather than to the film, "When a Man's a Man," and at the Warner, the twin features, "While the Patient Slept" and "Let's Live Tonight," couldn't better $4,250.

Total grosses in six first run houses were $55,750. Average is $51,000.

Estimated takings for the week ending March 14:

"WHEN A MAN'S A MAN" (Fox)

ALVIN—(2,000), 25c-40c, 6 days. Stage: Fred Bradna's indoor circus with Honey Troupe, Proske's Tigers, Felix Adler, Three French Misses, Robinson's Military Elephants, Ella Bradna, Charlie Seagrist aerialists. Gross: $10,000. (Average, $10,000)

Reverse Murray Ruling

Mae Murray has been given a chance to renew her action for an accounting against Tiffany Prod., which she sued some time ago for $300,000.

Her first suit was dismissed by Justice Steuer in the Supreme Court on the ground that she had failed to show her pictures and had made a profit. On appeal the Appellate Court ruled that the case should not have been dismissed, because Tiffany had failed to prove that the pictures did not make a profit.

"Colonel" Is Chicago High; Gets $37,000

CHICAGO, March 22.—"The Little Colonel" was the heaviest grosser in town last week. With the help of a special B. & K. show, it reached $37,000 at the Chicago, over normal by $2,400.

Business also was good in three other spots. The Oriental had a strong $17,000 on "Under Pressure," with a stage revue; "Ruggles of Red Gap" took a good $15,000 at the Roosevelt, and the Palace, with "Gigolette," was well over the line at $24,000.

Total first run business was $127,000. Average is $127,600.

Estimated takings:

Week Ending March 14:

"THE LITTLE COLONEL" (Fox)

W. E. Loss Slashed to $7,751,548 Last Year

A net loss of $7,751,548 after interest charges is reported by Western Electric for 1934. Although on the minus side, the figure, according to the firm's financial statement, represents the first improvement in the business of Western Electric over a previous similar period in five years. The loss in 1933 was $13,772,504. Sales last year amounted to $91,807,000, which compares with $69,511,000 in 1933.

The company's consolidated balance sheet shows total assets of $306,294,326 as of December 31, 1934. This is comparable with $333,897,873 at the close of 1933. Capital totaled $142,500,000 at the end of last year.

The balance in surplus at December 31, 1934, was $12,579,222, $5,704,382 under the previous year. Included in the surplus for 1934 is $2,036,073 realized on the sale of securities understood to be Loew's stock.

Ampa Meet Closed

Ampa's meeting Thursday will be closed, the session to be devoted to details on the Naked Truth Dinner on April 27 at the Astor.

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

WHILE an apparent truce has been called in Paramount reorganization circles providing for final agreement on the presently constituted board of 16 members in return for the deposit of sufficient assents by the Fortington group to assure creditor confirmation of the plan, opposition to certain members of the board still exists outside of the major creditor circles. If this opposition succeeds in attracting to itself sufficient support to displace a Fortington board nominee, that group continues in a position to throw the selection of a new board, or individual member or members, back into the laps of the major groups. . . .

This could be accomplished by a withdrawal from the bondholders' committees of $3,500,000 of Fortington represented securities on deposit with the committees in assent to the plan or by withdrawal of assents of the additional $3,500,000 of bonds which it purposes to file in assent to the plan as general claims. The group represents another $11,000,000 of claims which it might, or might not control, to the extent of bringing about its withdrawal. . . .

The Fortington group, primarily, wants the assurance that no attempt will be made by the major creditors to displace its five nominees for the board—Stephen Callaghan, John D. Hertz, Fortington, Floyd B. Odlum and Charles E. Richardson. Hence, the "ace," or several of them, which the group retains in its aristocratic sleeve. The assurance, it is reported, has now been given them in return for their needed support of the plan. It is pointed out, however, that such support can be given without any finality—in case. . . .

The truce has apparently calmed the kingpins of reorganization, the bulk of whom have departed for sunny climes preparatory to that long-waited April 4 hearing in Federal court, which by present indications will be the last of a long succession of them. Hertz of the Fortington group and Julius Klein of the Vanderlip bondholders' group are in Florida. Vanderlip, himself, outstanding candidate for chairman of the board, is in California, as is Percy H. Johnston, board member. Albert Cook of the stockholders' committee is in Bermuda and Robert Szold of the Munger debenture committee and Arthur Ballantine of the trustees' legal staff are sojourning in the south. Those who remain appear to be busy with other matters. . . .

Mailbag stuff from "Skip" Weshner, in charge of Warner first-runs in Philadelphia, and a link of strength in the chain fashioned in this space the other day about re-dating old, but formidable, attractions in lieu of new, but indifferent, ones:

"I read your paragraph in the Insiders' Outlook column Wednesday, March 20, regarding the booking of 'It Happened One Night" at the Stanton Theatre, which gets 55 cents top, after it played two or three times at 15-cent houses near by and after it played all of the neighborhood theatres. Also be advised that the opening day yesterday (Wednesday), this grand picture grossed as much as the first-run picture, which we pulled, grossed in three days with a Saturday opening.

"Sure we smashed precedent by playing a repeat picture at this house, but who the hell ever said that precedent wasn't to be smashed in this business? If the wise boys running theatres haven't learned that exhibition is a day-to-day business and no longer a week-to-week business, it is about time they woke up."

Interesting, as you will admit. But there is more:

"I was very much amused with the fuss and discussion raised by people outside of our own immediate company, who seem to think that re-dating a picture, which secured the Academy award, even though it played a lot of other theatres, was a fatal step. From my experience, we have found that a picture loaded with box-office dynamite played repeat is a hell of a lot more valuable to the exhibitor than an ordinary programmer played first run.

"The quicker, therefore, that we forget precedent and handle our business as the daily situation demands, the better off all of us, who are running theatres, will be."

The italics represent editorial prerogative for dear old emphasis' sake. . . .

Those several major circuits who look anything but kindly on the first two shorts made by Pathe for the Federal Housing Administration appear to be facing a quandary. The inclination is to aid the government, but there is the normal factor of running theatres in the manner set for them to run. Why the presence on celluloid of G. E. iceboxes, plugs for R. H. Macy, et al., were quite necessary to tell and sell the FHA story doesn't seem to be quite apparent. . . . Herman Gluckman of Capitol

Sindlinger Winner In "Life" Contest

Al Sindlinger, manager of the Appleton, Appleton, Wis., has been returned the winner of the Aunt Jemima Contest in connection with the showing of "Imitation of Life." Sindlinger was also winner of the Quaker Oats contest on "Six Day Bike Race" held some time ago.

Other prize winners were Lou Richmond, National Theatre, Boston; William J. Soutter, Fox Palace, Wichita; E. M. Hart, Strand, Plainfield, N. J.; E. A. Patchem, Stuart, Lincoln, Neb.; W. E. Baty, Jr., Palace, Fort Worth; Barney Dubinsky, Missouri, St. Joseph; M. M. Mesher, Winter Garden, Seattle; Manager, Fox Mayan, Denver; Herbert Bloom, Olympia, Worcester, Mass.; A. J. Kalberger, Paramount, Ft. Wayne; J. H. Black, Capitol, Calgary; F. E. Patch, Capitol, Regina, Canada, and Ray Tubman, Capitol, Ottawa.

Walsh Also States Studios Will Move

SAN FRANCISCO, March 24.—Morgan A. Walsh, president of the Northern California I. T. O. A., has added his voice to the chorus of those predicting removal of production from California if the proposed tax program is enacted. He was speaking before the Ate-Y Club, made up of business and professional men here.

Agnew to Hollywood

Neil F. Agnew, general sales manager for Paramount, left for the coast yesterday, via the bird's route, to confer with studio executives on next season's lineup. On April 5, he will sail from Los Angeles for Honolulu to close an important 1935-36 product deal.

Agnew plans to return in five weeks, preparatory to holding of the annual sales meet at the Walorf Astoria, starting May 23.

McCormick to Coast

INDIANAPOLIS, March 24.—S. Barret McCormick, director of advertising and publicity for Radio, having staged the opening of "Laddie" at the Circle here last Friday as guest manager of the house he managed 15 years ago, has left for the coast by plane. He will spend a week or 10 days at the studio for conferences on forthcoming product.

Darmour West Today

Larry Darmour, partner and production head of Majestic, expects to wind up conferences today with Herman Gluckman, president, and E. H. Goldstein, vice-president, on the new season's lineup of 12. In the event pending details are completed, Darmour will hop a plane for Hollywood this afternoon.

Brady a Forum Speaker

William A. Brady will give his views on pictures at the M. P. Club Forum tomorrow. Other speakers will be Elmer Rice, dramatist; Faith Baldwin, novelist; Rita Weiman, writer, and Magistrate Anna Kross. Mrs. James A. Farley will be another guest.

Exchange is in the throes of an interesting distribution deal. . . .

ticularly in relation to supply, selection and dates of competing theatres."

At present, Fox Met follows Loew's in all competitive situations with U. A. and 20th Century product. Fox Met will continue to have the Fox Film franchise held by Skouras and Randforce, who receive new 10-year operating contracts under the reorganization plan.

The plan also specifically exempts U. A. and 20th Century contracts made by Skouras and Randforce from being subjected to a veto power reserved for the board of the new company in relation to all other Fox Met film contracts.

Schenck will become president and chairman of the board of reorganized Fox Met, and Harry Buckley, vice-president of U. A. Theatre Circuit, and William P. Phillips, a director of U. A. Theatre Circuit, will also be on the Fox Met board. Milton C. Weisman, receiver of Fox Theatres, which participates with Schenck in the plan, and Samuel S. Allan, law partner of Weisman's, also become board members, representing Fox Theatres' equity in the new company. Fox Theatres owns all of the stock of Fox Met. William Rhinelander Stewart, member of the investment house of John C. Paige & Co., is the sixth member of what will be a board of nine.

Who Will Elect Other Three

The remaining three will be elected by the holders of the $6,853,385 of new five per cent debentures which will be issued to the present holders of the old $12,458,200 of debentures. These holders also receive a minimum of $2,400,000 cash, approximately $1,700,000 of which will be from the Fox Met cash on hand. An additional $700,000 is being paid in by U. A. Theatre Circuit for 50 per cent of the stock of the new company. The remaining 50 per cent goes to Fox Theatres in exchange for withdrawal of its more than $5,000,000 of claims against Fox Met.

The plan states that the 44 Skouras-operated Fox Met houses showed a profit of $121,101 last year, and the 36 Randforce-operated houses a profit of $48,536. Skouras Bros. will receive $52,000 annually under their operating contract, and Randforce $39,780.

A creditors' hearing on the plan will be held April 12 before Federal Judge Julian W. Mack.

Paramount Gets Set For "Mae Day" Riot

ert M. Gillham is working out the details.

"Mae," in case you haven't guessed, is Mae West. It will be a "Going to Town" contest. Rumor has it that this is the title of her next picture. First prize will be $500; second, $350; third, $200; fourth and fifth, $100 each, and sixth, seventh, eighth, ninth and tenth, $50 each.

Judges will be: Oscar Doob, Mort Blumenstock, John Dowd, Milton Feld and Alec Moss.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Cardinal Richelieu"

(20th Century-U. A.)

HOLLYWOOD, March 24.—Venturing into the domains of debatable subject matter as he did with "The House of Rothschild" and having won exhibitors' favor, intrepid Darryl F. Zanuck again essays the biographical drama with another provocative world personality and again triumphs with entertainment that is bound to cause comment and sure to draw crowds.

Painting Cardinal Richelieu with sympathetic strokes, setting him amidst the intrigues of the decadent court of Louis XIII and colorfully revealing the dramatic conflicts that beset king and prelate alike, a fine balance of appeal is achieved to please the large body of faithful adherents to the church as well as others.

Aside from its historical importance, the production pictures Richelieu as a human being. Centering its drama around the fateful era when, threatened with civil war with feudal princes ruthlessly deciding the people's fates in gang leader fashion, France finds herself between a vacillating king, a kniving court seeking personal power and the astute diplomatist, Richelieu, whose sole concern is France. Ready for any emergency to serve country, king or spiritual superior, Richelieu uses the weapons his adversaries choose and outwits them at every turn to lead the king and light his way.

George Arliss' Richelieu is polished, suave and subtle and gives that grand Thespian full sway for his exceptional talent. Edward Arnold, another topnotcher, as King Louis contributes a finely shaded, robust performance. Maureen O'Sullivan and Cesar Romero supply the romance. Douglas Dumbrille, as Barados; Francis Lister, as Gaston; Violet Kemble Cooper, as the Queen Mother, and Lumsden Hare, as the Swedish King, head the imposing cast of superior mold.

The production evidences a keen eye for showmanship value. Rowland V. Lee's direction is super quality, as was his "The Count of Monte Cristo." The film, adapted from the play by Bulwer-Lytton, is richly photographed by Peverell Marley.

On the strength of all its names and word-of-mouth advertising, "Cardinal Richelieu" should gratify showmen with "The House of Rothschild" popularity and grosses.

Production Code Seal, No. 676. Running time, 80 minutes. "A."

"Mark of the Vampire"

(M-G-M)

HOLLYWOOD, March 24.—Beginning where most thrill pictures leave off, killing entertainment is ladled out in good measure in this one. A creepy atmosphere starts with weird music over the main title and carries over into a graveyard scene opening with a murder committed in the first 200 feet.

Lionel Atwill, police inspector called in to solve the murder, scoffs at the theory advanced by witnesses that the crime was committed by vampires who rise from graves at night and suck blood from living humans.

A year later, with the mystery still unsolved, Lionel Barrymore as a professor is called in to investigate further vampire activities. A series of spooky events follows, climaxed when Barrymore stages the reenactment of the first crime by hypnotizing Jean Hersholt into repeating his movements on the fatal night. Hersholt, the murderer, having taken advantage of the local superstition to conceal the crime, is topped by Barrymore, who stages ghastlier events to trap him. The audience, held in suspense still the end, gets plenty of thrills.

Director Tod Browning takes full advantage of the situations and times his actions expertly. Bela Lugosi, playing the vampire, is his usual weird self. Elizabeth Allen and Henry Watsworth provide the romantic interest capably. Guy Endore and Bernard Schubert wrote the screenplay.

Audiences that like scary stuff should enjoy this chiller. No production code seal. Running time, 64 minutes. "A."

"A Night at the Ritz"

S. S. Krellberg has closed with United Artists to handle sales of "The Lost City," feature and serial versions, in Argentine, Bolivia, Canal Zone, Central America, Chile, Cuba, Panama, Paraguay, Peru, Porto Rica and Uruquay. The picture is now in its sixth week at the Globe, New York, and has been booked over the metropolitan RKO circuit. It will also play Warner, Randforce and Skouras theatres in New York and New Jersey.

Protest Amateur Actors

A formal protest has been made by the American Federation of Actors to the NRA Administration in Washington and to Campi here complaining against the use of amateurs in picture theatres on the grounds that it is "an unfair trade practice and decidedly in contrast to the program sponsored by our President, and the purpose of the National Recovery Act."

MAJOR DISTRIBUTION FRANCHISE PLAN

An Invitation to Men Experienced in Motion Picture Exhibition and Distribution

1. A NEW producing company has been organized, amply financed to produce from twelve to twenty pictures the first year, season 1935-36.

2. THESE pictures produced under the supervision of able executives in the motion picture industry.

3. THOUGH the making and marketing of motion pictures represent two separate and distinct phases of operation the two are inseparable and essential.

4. THEREFORE this invitation is extended to men of experience in the motion picture trade in all territories to participate in the organization of exclusive distribution exchanges in their respective territories.

5. THOSE who are able to participate financially in this cooperative method of distribution reply.

6. THIS plan of operation is similar to the former First National Distribution Franchise plan. Liberal financial cooperation extended by this company to men who are able to meet every requirement for intelligently associating themselves with this project.

7. PLANS completed and ready for immediate operation.

If interested give full details as to your past connections and financial ability for participation.

Reports are current that starting April 1 all Mazda lamps will be reduced 20 per cent, netting exhibitors considerable savings.

Milwaukee House in Row with Newspaper

MILWAUKEE, March 24.—A merry battle is waging here between The Milwaukee Sentinel and the Fox Alhambra over the showing of Texas Guinan's "Hotcha Girls."

Fox has dropped its advertising from the Sentinel, which in turn has pointed the spotlight upon sex shows at the house. Pictures played by the theatre have included "Narcotic" and "Guilty Parents," with the "Hotcha Girls" as the current attraction.

When District Attorney William A. Zabel confiscated lifelike cardboard models from the lobby the paper gave the raid front page publicity. The Alhambra nonchalantly declared: "Advertising in This Space Confiscated. Show Going on As Usual."

because of the distributors' demands for 12 pictures on percentage arrangements.

The Essaness circuit, with 23 houses, is among the group. Edwin Silverman, president, returned from New York a few days ago after attending a code appeal hearing. He talked to Felix F. Feist, general sales manager of M-G-M, on the phone, prior to his departure, but there is no change in the situation.

Thomas W. Lamb, architect, is due Monday or Tuesday from Kansas City. He will confer with Lynch and both will return to New York after the deals have been set.

Joe Vogel, Louis K. Sidney and David Bernstein will not visit here this week. Sidney has made several trips to look over locations, but now that he has taken over supervision of WHN in New York he will spend most of his time at the home office in the future.

Lynch, up until a few months ago, held a 15-year franchise for M-G-M product in Philadelphia.

Gap" was very good at $38,000. It bows out tomorrow night to make way for "Private Worlds" on Wednesday. "The Wedding Night" at the Rivoli for the first week tallied a nice $32,000, and "Gold Diggers of 1935" hit $24,500 during its first seven days at the Strand.

"Let's Live Tonight" at the Roxy wound up with $26,200, while the Capitol's holdover week on "After Office Hours" was 'way off at $20,000. "Sweet Music" at the Palace was fair with $8,000. "High School Girl," at the Astor, hit the skids with a poor $4,200, while "Times Square Lady" at the Mayfair got $6,300.

To Do Play on Pepys

HOLLYWOOD, March 24.—W. P. Lipscomb, British playwright, at present under contract to 20th Century, and also working on the script of "A Tale of Two Cities" at M-G-M, is writing a new play based on the life of Samuel Pepys, in collaboration with Arthur Bryant. The play will contain new material just discovered by Bryant in hitherto unpublished diaries of Pepys.

Lipscomb plans to produce the show in Hollywood before doing it in England, as his picture contracts will not permit the trip abroad for some months.

More Springfield Men

SPRINGFIELD, O., March 24.—Lee Euring, recently appointed manager of the Hippodrome, has resumed his former position as assistant at the Regent. Louis Harris, who succeeded Euring at the Regent, has returned to the Fairbanks as assistant manager. All are Chakeres-Warner houses.

Throttle Pushing

By H. E. N.

BROOKSVILLE, FLA.

Bob Quellett, a Marcus protege from the Rocky Mountain section and formerly of Flagstaff, Ariz., is now running a real show-shop down here. One of those Gulf gentle zephyrs, blowing 40 miles to the gallon, laid low the power lines the other night. Hence, the good people of this town could not see "Handy Andy." Gordon Weeks, projectionist for this theatre, knows his tubes and reverberations.

STARKE, FLA.

Mina Manassa, charming owner of the Ritz, is bemoaning the fact that Florida had a severe freeze this winter and that the orange and strawberry crop will be very short. Not many tourists for this section, so business is away off.

FT. MYERS, FLA.

"Hunt at Home" is as good a title for this short as any. Boss Ed Sparks, of the United Theatres, Inc., so they say, spent some $500 on a deer hunting trip into the wilds of Mexico recently, accompanied by such genial souls as Claude Ezell, Jules Levy, Fred Jacks and others, but got no deer. The other day Sparks' manager killed a deer in the lobby of the Sunrise in this city with a baseball bat.

KISSIMMEE, FLA.

Fred O. Mullen states they can give this town back to old Chief Kissimmee, the way business is at his Arcade. Evidently the last freeze down here is no laughing matter for the boys in sections where they did not have the tourist crop to tide them over for the summer. Fred had taken over the Granada at St. Cloud from Harry Bott before the thermometer dipped so low. He is also operating the Crescent, Dade City, and the Vivian, Lacoochee, which he has closed. Mullen hails from Plattsburg, N. Y.

LAKELAND, FLA.

"The House by the Side of the Road," the office of the United Theatres, Inc. Here we meet such courteous hosts as B. B. Garner, general manager of theatre operations; M. C. Talley, secretary and treasurer, and last but not least, F. L. Alig, auditor. Fisherman all, at least, they talk a good fishing trip. United is now operating some 70 theatres but will close 20 houses which are classed as seasonal, April 1. Their Lyric, Gainsville, was recently remodeled at a cost of $10,000. The Garden, Tampa, remodeled, cost $6,000; the Nebraska, Sulphur Springs, remodeled, cost $6,000 and the name changed to the Roxy. Unit vaudeville, which has been playing over the United time on a 21-day booking, has been reduced to 11 days and will possibly be discontinued altogether by April 1. Garner stated, while they have enjoyed a very successful season due to the influx of visitors, they will undoubtedly have a poor summer owing to poor crop conditions.

DEMOPOLIS, ALA.

L. J. Duncan of West Point, Ga., is building a fine house which will run in opposition to M. C. Webb who operates the Lido here.

ACEWORTH, GA.

V. S. Golden, owner of the Aceworth, has taken over the Ritz, Clarkdale, Ga. This is the home of the Clark Thread Milling Co.

TUSKEGEE, ALA.

The only twin theatre in the United States will open on or about April 15 here. It will be known as the Macon and is being built by the Macon Theatre Co., costing, it is said, $40,000. Both auditoriums will seat 400 and have a separating fire wall, one booth containing four machines will project simultaneously one or two pictures. This house will have two separate stages and ventilating systems, one marquee and two box offices. This town, being the home of the colored Tuskegee Institute, is the reason for this arrangement as this class of patronage demand something better than a balcony. The other side will be used for the white patronage. National Theatre Supply Co., J. C. Brown, manager, of Atlanta, will fully equip the theatre.

ATLANTA, GA.

We are now officially in the land of the three G's (grits, gravy and grease). True Southern hospitality with no open season "on reductions," as business looks fine all through the state. It is good to greet the real pioneers of the business in this territory. They go on year after year either in the exchange field or as exhibitors. We refer to "Snake" Richardson, Walter Brandenburg, "Shag" Jordan, Arthur Bromberg, Capt. J. A. Rebb, Arthur Lucas, Bill Murray, Homer Edenfield, Oscar Lam, Oscar Oldknow, Hugh Manning, Herman Wink, Tony Sudekum, Louis Rosenbaum, Charlie Crute, Frank Dowler, No. 1 and P. H. Savin, dean of all bookers. The old Southern Express Co. lost some good drivers when they let Richardson, Brandenburg and Jordan go. Tom Branon, President of Affiliated Producers, Inc., will move April 1 from the Samuels Bldg., which has been leased by Paramount. Affiliated will have new quarters on the second floor of the Warner Bldg. This popular exchange has scheduled for early release Edgar Rice Burrough's new adventures of Tarzan, which will be released as a seven-reel feature and a 12-episode serial. It is being filmed in Guatemala.

Sam Moscow, district sales manager, Columbia, held a general sales meeting of all his branch managers here this week. Those attending were Jack Underwood, Dallas; Huston Duval, New Orleans; W. W. Anderson, Atlanta; Jimmie Rogers, Memphis; Len Stocker, Oklahoma City; Bob Ingram, Charlotte. This meeting was held to take up the matter of liquidation of contracts and the adoption of a uniform sales policy. C. P. Lester, division manager of the Southeast for National Screen Service, is hard at work trying to lift another championship sales banner. He is leading the 15th anniversary contest at the half way mark, but is getting some real competition from Wallace Walthall, Dallas, and Jack Flannery, Seattle. Ralph E. Peckham of the Mayfair Exchange, announces purchase of "The Wandering Jew" for early release in eight Southern states. This is the picture that had a run at the Criterion, New York. It is now on its fourth week in Boston. A special trade showing will be given to southern exhibitors here at Atlanta in a few weeks.

months ago when Brandt took over the Victory, Bayside, in S. & C. territory. The latter circuit has the Capitol. Protection moves were made by Brandt immediately on his entrance into the situation with the result that S. & C. demanded and got increased clearance over the Victory.

Later the issue veered to Brooklyn where Brandt acquired the Tivoli which is in the same area as the St. George and Heights, S. & C. theatres. Again protection demands were made by Brandt and again his efforts proved in vain.

Brandt has been looking for a number of theatres in S. & C. situations. He is already represented in several spots competitive to Consolidated Amusements, which has a long term operating arrangements with S. & C. Likewise, Springer & Cocalis have scouts out after additional prospects, particularly in Brandt territory.

Harry Brandt is reported after the Beacon, now being run by Cocalis and Springer. He doesn't deny he is negotiating with the bondholders for the property. The I.T.O.A. president recently opened the Tudor on Third Ave. and 42nd St., for which he expects to draw class trade from Tudor City. The theatre was completely remodeled at a cost of $15,000 with Joe Hornstein in charge of the renovations.

S. & C. plan to open the new Tribune on Nassau St. about April 1. The same circuit also is building in the Pelham Bay section of Westchester Ave., where it already has three houses, the Castle Hill, Ward and Rosedale.

Hays Predicts More Classics On the Screen

Originals to Gain, Too, He Says in Report

More pictures based on literary classics, in spite of the large number of these turned out in recent months, and also an increase in the number of screen originals are predicted for next season by Will H. Hays in his annual report to the M.P.P.D.A.

The report was submitted yesterday at the annual meeting of directors. All officers and directors of the organization were reelected at the meeting. Officers are: Will H. Hays, president; Carl E. Milliken, secretary; Frederick L. Herron, treasurer; George Borthwick, assistant treasurer. Directors are: M. H. Aylesworth,

S. & C.-Consolidated End Operating Deal

Laurence Bolognino, head of Consolidated Amusements, and Jack Springer and Sam Cocalis of the Springer & Cocalis circuit have called it quits and are dissolving Trio-Consolidated, the joint operating company for the two circuits which was formed last August.

All Consolidated houses will revert to Bolognino, while Springer and Cocalis will resume operations of their former circuit. All interests continue on friendly terms, but couldn't agree on policy, which caused the rupture.

Films Are in Boom, Says Miss Perkins

SAN FRANCISCO, March 25.—The film industry is booming, declared Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins in an address before a labor legislation conference here today.

Miss Perkins declared that in 1934 the nine principal companies converted a net loss of $1,079,000 in 1933 into a net profit of $10,455,000. More workers were employed in Hollywood during January, she said, than during any January for the past six years.

Ohio Income Taxes Rise 41% in a Year

COLUMBUS, March 25.—Washington dispatches show that Federal income collections in Ohio, both personal and corporation, totaled $8,446,030.55 between March 1 and 15, inclusive, an increase of 41 per cent over the corresponding period of last year. Statisticians say that, taking this as a reliable business barometer, conditions in Ohio have not only improved substantially over a year ago, but the gain has been relatively much larger than that for the country as a whole.

Para.-Erpi Service Deal Agreed Upon

Paramount theatre operating partners with C. W. Bunn, Erpi general sales manager, in New Orleans during January. The meeting represented about 350 Paramount theatres. Among those attending it were Barney Balaban of B. & K., Chicago; Karl Hoblitzelle of Dallas, E. V. Richards of Saenger Theatres, New Orleans; A. H. Blank, Des Moines; R. B. Wilby of Wilby-Kincey, and William Jenkins of Lucas & Jenkins.

With the conclusion of the negotiations, all Paramount operating partners will effect individual servicing contracts for their theatre units. No further attempt will be made to effect blanket contracts for the Paramount houses on any basis other than that being generally offered to the theatre industry, it was stated. The first of the individual contracts will probably be closed this week for the Wilby-Kincey and B. & K. units.

Lower Rates Possible

The new Erpi servicing contracts make appreciably lower rates possible to exhibitors by offering a choice of three service classifications instead of the former standard contract providing for 26 service calls per year. The new pacts will include, in addition to the 26-call contract, one for 17 calls annually and a third for 12 calls annually. Each will be at proportionately reduced rates.

The Paramount pacts, in addition, will call for the full payment to Erpi of accumulated service charges wherever these were suspended during the receivership or bankruptcy of Paramount theatre units and where they remain unpaid.

Special Master John E. Joyce will be asked today to approve the settlement of Erpi's $1,900,000 claim filed against Paramount Publix in the latter's reorganization proceedings. Terms of the settlement make Erpi a general creditor of Paramount for $1,200,000 and also provide for new domestic recording license agreements, already worked out and representing, in some instances, reductions of 80 per cent as compared with former rates. Similar new agreements have also been made by Erpi with Warners and those with other companies are in process of negotiation. Details of the agreements were published in MOTION PICTURE DAILY of Feb. 4.

R. H. Cochrane, Jack Cohn, Cecil B. DeMille, Ned Depinet, Sidney R. Kent, Jesse L. Lasky, Sol Lesser, Hal E. Roach, David Sarnoff, Joseph M. Schenck, E. W. Hammons, Will H. Hays, Frederick L. Herron, Nicholas M. Schenck, Albert L. Warner, Harry M. Warner and Adolph Zukor.

The prospective increase in originals is hailed by him as a good sign, because "the industry cannot afford to rest its achievements upon material adapted from the book shelves or from current stage productions.

"The photoplay," he says, "is necessarily a combination of many existing arts—literature, drama, music, painting, dancing, photography—but it is likewise an independent form of expression demanding its own creativeness and initiative. It is an encouraging sign to note, therefore, that an increasing number of original screen plays, many of them of a serious, socially-conscious nature, are being planned by our studios.

"A compilation of source material based on features reviewed and approved by the association during the past calendar year, shows the following classifications, as indicated by percentages:

"Orginal screen plays, 40 per cent; adapted from classics, novels and short stories, 40.5 per cent; adapted from stage plays and musicals, 19.5 per cent."

Deplores Cycles in Production

Hays takes a definite stand against cycles in production.

"Banality, itself, is a form of bad taste," Hays continues, "and the imitativeness that results in a 'cycle' is a reproach to a recreational medium which serves an universal public—a public which demands an ever-changing entertainment fare. So it is gratifying that an indicated increase in the number of original screen plays now being planned for production by the leading studios seems to guarantee that variety as well as quality will continue to mark the progress of the motion picture."

There has been a marked improvement in quality and technical advances have also been made, Hays declares. Improvement in public taste has caused an advance in film quality, he states.

"Pictures produced upon a higher standard of appeal," he continues, "have brought a new strata of attendance to the motion picture theatre. The artistic and cultural content of many of the present films is of a character to attract thousands who have heretofore considered the screen an inferior form of entertainment, artistically and culturally limited by the need of appealing to an universal audience. Today many great pictures projected from the screen are not only encriching the lives but endowing the minds of their audiences."

Discussing technical gains, Hays says: "The echoes of the debate as to whether sound was a curse or a blessing to an art that had adjusted itself to pantomime have not yet died down. But it is abundantly clear now that the great pictures of the 1934-35 season based on literary and dramatic values heretofore unattainable on the screen could not have been achieved without the new dimension of sound."

Report Warners to Rush New Building

HOLLYWOOD, March 25.—Warners are reported to be speeding up plans for the start of work on new stages and settings to replace the area burned in the recent fire.

Costs are estimated to run over $1,000,000.

The film colony is interested in the move, as it comes in the midst of the agitation for moving out of the state in case the tax program pending in the legislature is enacted.

Nat Levine, president of Mascot, is reported to be considering an offer from Paul Ralli, president of the Las Vegas (Nev.) Chamber of Commerce, for 50 acres of land free of charge and without local taxation as a studio site.

Florida Gets Excited

TAMPA, March 25.—Florida is all pepped up over the visit of Fred Pelton, M-G-M representative, who is touring the state inspecting possible studio sites as a result of the high tax program pending in the California legislature.

Following a call issued by the State Chamber of Commerce a general conference was held in Miami yesterday. Frank M. Traynor, president of the Tampa chamber and vice-president of the state body, represented this city at the gathering.

A special committee named by Governor Sholtz is touring the state with Pelton.

Governor Sholtz has conferred with Pelton at Tallahassee, as the Legislature goes into session next week and taxation exemption measures may be brought up, if the possibility of getting production to move to this state seems to warrant action.

made by Flinn on Fox West Coast's petition protesting 11 situations.

Flinn returned from the coast late Sunday night after stopovers at Kansas City and Chicago. He went over all the territories in dispute, following which he turned out the 29-page summary.

Studying the analysis are Sidney Justin, Charles L. O'Reilly and Paul Lazarus. Indications are that the coast schedule will be passed Thursday and go into effect on Sunday. Several changes suggested by F. W. C. were agreed to in part by the Los Angeles board last week, but whether they will be included in the final plan is up to Campi to decide on Thursday.

Another session between Flinn, Lazarus, Justin and O'Reilly is slated for today or tomorrow.

A. F. A. Wins Code Case

A settlement was reached yesterday in the dispute between the American Federation of Actors and the Abe Feinberg booking office involving an alleged violation of the minimum pay provision of the vaudeville code by the latter. Feinberg had been charged with booking the Lightning Due act into the Majestic, Paterson, N. J., for four days at less than the code minimum. Following an NRA hearing last week, the respondent was ordered to pay the code salary, plus transportation and baggage costs.

20th Sets Tibbett Film

HOLLYWOOD, March 25.—"The Diamond Horseshoe," an original by Bess Meredyth and George Marion, Jr., will be Lawrence Tibbett's first picture under his contract with 20th Century. It goes into production early in July. "Sing, Governor, Sing," which was originally selected as his initial film for the company, has been revised for the use of Paul Whiteman and his band.

for those which are open three days or less.

Concert halls, restaurants, radio broadcasters, hotels, fall fairs, bands and individual artists have also been called upon to pay heavier fees under the new scale. For the first time, the society has registered a scale of charges for single performances of an individual composition.

Under amendments to the Canadian Copyright Act one year ago, the Canadian Performing Rights Society was given a monopoly of performing rights for all copyright music whether presented in person or by mechanical means such as sound films. The organization is able to make a self-determined charge on any or all pieces whether the copyright has been covered by fee in the country of origin or not.

Protests have been sent to the Dominion Government, but the only result so far has been the offer of C. H. Cahan, Secretary of State, of a royal commission inquiry into the fairness of the new fees which is the only redress provided by the act. The society claims copyright control of two million compositions, ancient and modern.

He states that, thereupon, he considered himself discharged. Sam Katz and other officials identified with Paramount at the time are reported to be prepared to testify in Lasky's behalf. The Paramount Publix trustees, in opposing the claim, contend that Lasky left the company voluntarily.

Details of the proposed settlement were worked out on the coast recently between S. S. Isseks, of counsel for the Paramount trustees, and Lloyd Wright, counsel for Lasky. If the settlement is not consummated by May 1, the depositions of Lasky, Katz and others on the west coast will be taken thereafter, and the contesting of the claim resumed.

SCREENLAND HONOR PAGE

To Paul Muni for the Most Honest Portrayal of the Movie Month in "Black Fury"

PAUL MUNI is indisputably the most honest of all actors on the screen. If he cannot "feel" a part, he cannot do it justice. He submerges himself in his character. He ceases to be Paul Muni and becomes Every Man. His intensity reaches right out from the screen to us. His blazing honesty compels our interest in "Black Fury," the stirring drama which is the star's current vehicle. Not since "I Am a Fugitive from a Chain Gang" has he so impressed us with his art. As a simple, earthy, brawny coal-miner Paul Muni is an heroic figure, a vitally real character of valiant and unforgettable sincerity.

United Amusement's Net Off to $34,314

TORONTO, March 25.—The United Amusement Corp., operating 20 theatres in the Montreal district and in which Famous Players Canadian Corp. holds a large interest, came through 1934 with no red ink on the balance sheet, although profits were down, according to the year's financial statement just issued here.

Net profit for the year was $34,314, as compared with $68,234 for the previous 16 months, the date of the fiscal 12 months having been changed to correspond with the calendar year. A net profit and loss balance of $790,866 was carried forward on Dec. 31 last, as compared with $796,247 at the end of the previous year. Dividends amounting to $37,183 were paid on Class A common stock of $1,560,150.

Arcturus Loses Point

WILMINGTON, March 25.—The bill of complaint filed by the Arcturus Radio Tube Co. against the RCA in which the former sought to have Chancery Court enjoin the defendant from prosecuting a suit against it in New Jersey Supreme Court has been dismissed in an opinion filed here by Chancellor Josiah O. Wolcott.

In 1933 the RCA brought suit against Arcturus, one of 15 companies licensed to manufacture tubes under RCA patents, to recover the difference between the five per cent royalties paid by the licensee and the minimum royalty of $50,000 set forth in the license agreement. Arcturus contended that, while the minimum royalty provision is in the agreement, it had an understanding with the RCA it was not to be enforced.

The team has already won the championship of the Southern California A. A. U. and of the Missouri Valley A. A. U. and is favored to get the national crown.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Black Fury"

(Warners)

HOLLYWOOD, March 25.—Flung with resounding impact against a drab, colorless coal town is a drama of Miner Paul Muni, his girl and his miner pals, and through his muddled yearnings a saga of men, mines and methods is movingly presented, factual as a newsreel, warm and tender in human significance.

Using as a basis the revelations in January Fortune magazine of private detective agencies that foment strikes to supply plug-uglies and scab labor at tremendous fees, Warners have produced an important topical picture splashed with the sodden poverty of the mining town, depicting the brutality of strike engineers in all their violence and heartbreak.

Muni, drunk after his girl (Karen Morley) skips with Cop William Gargan, is sucked into the maelstrom of industrial warfare by Provocateur Carol Naish, who calls a strike, electing dumb Miner Muni as head. Ignorant, groping as strong arms are sworn in and scabs take over the mining, Muni feels the wrath of his pals as the crisis mounts and women spit at him as hunger stalks.

Ready to capitulate to terms, Muni sees his pal, James Qualen, battered by coal police for protecting a girl and, coming to his rescue, is pulped himself. Burning to rehabilitate himself, he escapes from the hospital, steals food and dynamite and, meeting Miss Morley, back from Gargan, blows up sections of the mine and holds a one-man strike, preventing others from working, thereby bringing conciliation, open mines, town acclaim and Karen to his side.

Muni's performance, undoubtedly one for Academy consideration, is poignant, penetrating, outstanding. Michael Curtiz, in broad-stroke style, has directed with virile sweep, imaginative and heart-touching.

The production, without siding with men or management, reflects all the smeary dreariness of Polish home and mine life in graphic expanse and artistic correctness.

An outstanding cast supports, including those mentioned above and Barton McLane, Vince Barnett, Tully Marshall, Mae Marsh and Sarah Haden.

Adapted from an original by Judge Musmanno and a play by Harry R. Irving, the screen play by Abe Finkel and Carl Erickson is brisk, vivid and stirring.

As a successor to Muni's "Scarface" and "I Am a Fugitive" this offers showmen a front-page subject without political bias, melodrama packed with tumult, an entertainment to cause talk and come-back patronage equal or surpassing the latter film.

Production Code Seal No. 579. Running time, 90 minutes. "G."

"Star of Midnight"

(Radio)

HOLLYWOOD, March 25.—Crackling in the "Thin Man" manner, jaunty and light-hearted and full of laughs as its murder is solved, "Star of Midnight" is swell entertainment and should prove profitable.

William Powell, a lawyer, and Ginger Rogers, his sweetheart, teaming themselves as Holmes and Watson, solve the killing of Columnist Russell Hopton in hilarious manner.

Romance and comedy are closely linked with clues bringing the police, gangland and socialites in for contrasting dramatic interest. Stephen Robert's direction is smart, fast and distinctive, with comedy and suspense embossing the entertainment.

Howard Green, Anthony Veiller and Edward Kaufman wrote the screen play from Arthur Somers Roche's novel, with a bang-up job resulting.

Powell again demonstrates his light comedy expertness, permitting the drama to seethe under flip cracks and general raciness. Paul Kelly, as a gang leader whittling a wooden gun, and Gene Lockhart,, as a butler, together with Ralph Morgan, Leslie Fenton, J. Farrell MacDonald, Vivian Oakland and Robert Emmett O'Connor, give excellent support.

Production values are all that could be desired. The names of Powell and Miss Rogers, linked with the good title and excellent entertainment, should create oral comment to attract swell business for a swell picture.

No production code seal. Running time, 90 minutes. "G."

Early Ascap Trial May Be Sought Here

Report Attorney General Will Make Request

Immediate trial of the government's monopoly suit against the American Society of Composers, Authors & Publishers may be asked by the Attorney General's office, it was learned yesterday following the handing down of an order by Federal Judge John C. Knox directing that a substantial part of Ascap's answer to the government's bill of complaint be stricken out.

The move for the immediate trial of the action was broached by Andrew Bennett of the Attorney General's office, Washington, who stated that a "certificate of necessity" requiring an early trial before three Federal judges might be sought by the government. His declaration followed a conference on Monday with Judge Knox, attended by John H.

Collapse of Cleveland's Dual Ban Looms with Circuit Break

Cleveland, March 26.—Double features loomed ominously on the local horizon today with the opening of Max Lefkowich's University Theatre showing "The Little Minister" and "Father Brown, Detective." In some circles, this is seen as a move toward the resumption of duals since Lefkowich is the first local independent circuit owner to break the single feature agreement which has until July 8 to go.

Lefkowich signed the agreement and then was faced with the opposition of six subsequent run houses which were not affected by the agreement, one of these, the Alhambra, being in direct opposition to his University. As a result of this, Lefkowich has returned to double bills.

The five other houses now showing duals because they opened after the agreement went into effect are the Metropolitan, Family, Temple, Erie and Rex.

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

PRODUCTION at large has just passed through what potentially, at least, was an extremely narrow squeak. The scene was Los Angeles and the champion of the industry in this case Universal and its newsreel. It appears a woman named Doris Prieslar had sued the company, as well as the Pantages, charging that clips of the death of "Baby Face" Nelson had resulted in the loss of her child. She was an expectant mother when she saw the film. The suit was for $150,000 in damages. The court ordered the claim thrown out, hinging its attitude largely on the fact that the nature of the newsreel was fully advertised outside the theatre. . . .

Interesting because the plaintiff herself was shown to be guilty of contributary negligence, the point goes considerably beyond in that a judgment for the suing party, in the opinion of production executives, might have set a precedent against the future filming of thrill and horror pictures or thrill and horror sequences. Production minus either or both obviously would have thrown a millstone of considerable weight around creative enterprise in Hollywood, not to figure what a terrific letdown it would have been with large segments of audiences through the nation. . . .

Mailbag stuff from Arnold J. Bernstein:

The Connecticut protest against the militaristic propaganda contained in recent news clips mentioned on the front page of your issue of March 21 raises an important issue which should be brought to the attention of every exhibitor.

I refer to the exhibitor's right to control the uses to which his own screen may be put. For practical purposes, the exhibitor must delegate to the producer and distributor his control of the type and form of entertainment to be shown on his screen. But the exercise of this delegated power should be limited to forms of entertainment.

No one denies that the exhibitor has a legitimate cause for complaint when the producer attempts to turn his screen into an advertising medium. I submit he has a far better reason to complain when his screen is being converted into an active agent of propaganda. An awful responsibility is being cast upon him. And when the forces, generated by the flood of propaganda he is unwittingly aiding in disseminating, drive America into the next war, it will be too late for him to realize his responsibility.

The exhibitor has a right to insist that his screen be used solely for purposes of entertainment and education. He has a duty either to accept the responsibility involved in its use for propaganda or to protest such use.

This has to do with the protest lodged by the Wesleyan League for Industrial Democracy and the Peace Action League of that college against alleged militaristic propaganda in Hearst Metrotone clips. Now that Bernstein has had his say, what other ideas are lurking about in typewriters and ink bottles awaiting an airing? . . .

Late, but so far as this column's checking up system has been able to discover, new. Nevertheless: When Nick Schenck was on the coast, not this time but on his previous visit, he previewed "David Copperfield." What he saw caused him to issue a statement commending the picture. As some other executives go, there was no thrill in that. As Schenck and his reticence go, his remarks meant plenty. The understanding beyond this has it that the head of Loew's and M-G-M, so impressed was he, thereupon gave the studio carte blanche and permission to go the limit on future big pictures. The way Metro makes them, that limit is something. Make no mistake about it. . . .

Back in London, Hugh Walpole submitted to an interview with a reporter for News of the World, a Sunday newspaper with a tidy circulation of about 3,000,000. It had to do, naturally enough, with his experiences on the Gold Coast, including this:

But what with hanging round the studio and being asked to say his piece at various conferences, he inevitably found himself seated before a typewriter with the job of inventing twenty or so lines of extra dialogue.

Ideas came easily. He found the words seemed to flow well. At the end of an hour, on his own admission, he sat back and took quite a lot of pride in his first contribution to motion picture art.

In fact, on due consideration he was reluctantly driven to the conclusion that the dialogue which he had just fashioned was perhaps a little better than he had ever heard in a cinema. Whereupon he patted the manuscript fondly and sent it to David Selznick, the production chief in charge of "David Copperfield."

Next morning Walpole was early at the studio, anxious to receive the bouquets which he felt convinced Selznick would shower on him for his brilliance. He went to Selznick's office. It was empty, but on the desk he noticed his manuscript. It was besmirched with blue pencil, and across the top in bold writing was inscribed the one word, "lousy."

Pathe News maintains its new broadcasting idea is apart and separate from the news dramatization which has made "The March of Time" so popular an air feature. That, the supposition goes, is designed to avoid what might smack of ether competition. April 8, marking Pathe's debut, will show what it shows. . . .

California's proposed income tax rate, if grafted to current state and Federal imposts, would make the total seventy-six per cent on incomes of $1,000,000. If it ever comes to pass, Hollywood will blossom forth with a new crop of tragedians. . . .

Fight on Greenthal In Ampa Simmering

Opposition to Monroe Greenthal as candidate for the Ampa presidency is simmering in the form of a committee. The insurgent group objecting to the U.A. exploitation head running for the office was slated to meet yesterday at the M.P. Club, but only a few men gathered and the session was called off.

The next move by the objectors will be to protest formally against Greenthal at the next closed session. One of the reasons for dropping the committee idea is that no one had been chosen to run against the U.A. candidate. Another reason is that some of the men opposing Greenthal are doing business with the company and fear their relationships do not permit an open stand.

One of the prime movers against Greenthal is Louis Goldberg, who is not with any company at present.

Another preview show will be held at the M.P. Club Sunday night. The picture is "Mississippi."

NICE WORDS FOR Naughty MARIETTA

"SUPERLATIVES for 'Naughty Marietta'! It's the top. Madly enthusiastic audience applauded each song. The ovation has not been approached in recent movie memory. Jeanette MacDonald is thrice-crowned queen of song-stars . . . Eddy a thrilling thrush cast in the heroic mold." —Regina Crewe, N. Y. American

"Such love songs not heard since 'One Night of Love'. Would have delighted its composer . . . gayly romantic and rhapsodically tuneful. Pictorially handsome in lavish Metro-style, it tells its story in spirited romantic episodes." —Andre Sennwald, Times

"A perfection of cinema light opera...Eddy a brilliant barytone ...masculine, engaging and good looking...as charming as a screen operetta ever is likely to be!" Richard Watts, Jr., Herald-Trib.

"Handsomely produced it's charming and tuneful entertainment... Nelson Eddy sings brilliantly." —Rose Pelswick, Journal

"Those advance enthusiams were justified. This handsome version should please even Victor Herbert himself. Eddy is a find; MacDonald is at the top!" —Eileen Creelman, Sun

"A fitting tribute to the composer of the operetta. Eddy steals the spotlight with fine, full-powered voice." —Kate Cameron, News

"An exquisite film, so rich musically and strong in story it makes the average movie seem tawdry. Great entertainment!" —Bland Johaneson, Mirror

Decision Held On Erpi-Para. Proposed Deal

agreements. The settlement was agreed upon four months ago, as reported exclusively in MOTION PICTURE DAILY of Nov. 19, and the new recording and servicing agreements have been negotiated meanwhile.

Ralph Vatner, attorney, who said he represented Paramount stockholders, was the only objector to the Erpi claim settlement who appeared at the hearing. He stated that the $500 per reel recording fee was "excessive" and declared that Paramount could obtain similar recording rights from RCA and others at half that cost. He estimated that the domestic recording fees of Paramount, at that rate, would approximate $3,000,000 annually.

Counsel for the Paramount trustees replied that all other large producers pay the same fees as those proposed in the new recording license agreement for Paramount. Vatner countered that other producers are under contract and cannot avoid paying royalties of that amount, while Paramount, in its bankruptcy proceedings, could disavow its Erpi contract.

Terms Published on Feb. 4

On Feb. 4 MOTION PICTURE DAILY published the terms of the new Paramount-Erpi recording license agreement, at which time it was stated that the old standard rate of $500 per reel had been abandoned for dubbed versions, foreign versions and trailers for new rates amounting in some instances to reductions of 80 per cent. The $500 per reel royalty remains, however, for features, shorts and newsreels.

Vatner was given until today to file an affidavit in support of his objections, and counsel for the Paramount trustees have until Friday to file an answering affidavit.

The Marks Bros. litigation centered about Paramount's claims to recover part of a $146,208 fund held in escrow by the Continental Illinois Bank as a guarantee of repurchase by Paramount of company stock issued in 1929 for acquisition of the Marks Bros. Chicago theatres. Under the settlement Paramount is to receive $56,218 of the fund and discontinue all litigation against Marks Bros. and the bank. Marks Bros. will receive the balance of the fund but will still be prohibited from reentering the Chicago theatre field until 1944, as stipulated in the original theatre purchase agreement.

Extend Lasky Hearing

Special Master John E. Joyce yesterday extended the time for the taking of depositions in connection with Jesse L. Lasky's $282,000 salary claim against Paramount Publix until May 14.

The extension was granted to permit the conclusion of efforts to settle the claim. Tentative settlement terms already have been agreed upon but if they are not consummated counsel for the Paramount trustees will proceed to the coast in May to take the depositions of Lasky, Sam Katz, Ralph Kohn and others.

William A. Brady Thumbs Pages of Theatre History

By J. M. JERAULD

William A. Brady thumbed the pages of film and theatre history yesterday at the Motion Picture Club —gently at times; at others with a swift flourish illumined with biting sarcasm. He paraded personalities and events with that easy grace which has always distinguished him as a public speaker, touching upon incidents that had become almost legendary to some of his hearers.

It was a blend of anecdote, of lament over the decline of the theatre, of flashing comment on the events of recent days, of prophecy. His hearers were fascinated. They gave him a rising ovation when he finished. He nominated himself as dean of pictures as well as the theatre.

Louis Nizer introduced him as a man "who had played bits with Booth." Booth died in 1891.

"I see so few gray hairs before me," Brady began, "that I will address myself to the youngsters."

Got Call from Wilson

He told how Woodrow Wilson had summoned him to the White House during the World War and had asked him to help bolster Allied morale by sending pictures of America's war preparations. He gave films credit for helping stave off revolution in Vienna after the armistice.

In striking phrases he lamented the decline of the theatre, saying that the spoken drama has disappeared in 14 of the 48 states. He hoped the theatre would not bow out completely.

"Films have been lucky," he said. "When silent pictures were dying, sound fell into producers' laps; when smut was killing them the Legion of Decency fell into their laps. Who would have thought a few years ago that 'David Copperfield' would be a sensation? I played Uriah Heep to empty seats a generation ago."

Brady even had a good word to say for Hollywood, although he admitted that at the start of the clean film drive he took 150 plays to the coast and sold one—"Way Down East."

"There has never been such competence, such complete mastery of details assembled in one industry before," he went on; "I wish we had it in the theatre."

He hurled a few barbed darts at censorship and related how the industry had sent sent him to 46 states to oppose censorship in 1920 and his record was 100 per cent. "They refused to pay me $15,000 to spend 24 hours in Albany," he said, "and a law was enacted."

His historical comments were impressive. In 1892, he said, he took James J. Corbett to Orange and made a six-reel fight picture in six days under Thomas A. Edison's direction. He called it the first "fight film ever publicly exhibited."

"In 1896," he continued, "I arranged for the first pictures ever made under electric lights—the Jeffries-Sharkey fight at Coney Island. Fights have played an important part in the history of pictures. At the Carson City fight between Corbett and Fitzsimmons we photographed the whole bout. It was shown in every country in the world and grossed $2,000,000."

Leaning forward on the table (he was seated throughout the talk), he said earnestly: "This is the first time in 15 years I have had the honor of addressing a large group of film men. I hope I will have the privilege of doing it again before I pass out."

Women played an important part in the program. Faith Baldwin talked humorously on her experiences in Hollywood. Magistrate Anna Kross spoke feelingly of her opposition to censorship as an attack on democracy; Rita Weiman said she hoped producers would use playwrights and novelists in adapting their own works to the screen. Mrs. Achmed Abdullah and Mrs. James J. Farley took bows.

Westerns Gain

Because of the demand for westerns, Universal is considering increasing the Buck Jones outdoor pictures next season from six to eight, which would bring the schedule up to 44 for 1935-36.

Reveal Early Para. Bankruptcy Plans

was contemplated by Paramount as early as July 1, 1932, it was disclosed yesterday in a petition for settlement of a claim for services rendered by the Cravath firm, which was filed with Special Master John E. Joyce yesterday. Paramount's petition for an equity receivership was not filed until Jan. 26, 1933.

The Cravath claim is for $25,142 for services which it states were rendered early in 1933 to Film Productions Corp., a Paramount subsidiary, and for other services, most of which were in the nature of "a contemplation of bankruptcy," according to the petition. For earlier work of the same nature, the Cravath firm has been paid approximately $77,000. This work included the formation, from July, 1932, to Jan., 1933, of the so-called "picture group" of Paramount subsidiaries, which includes Paramount Pictures Corp., Paramount Productions, Inc., Paramount Pictures Distributing Corp. and Paramount International Corp. The inference is that these subsidiaries were formed in anticipation of bankruptcy for the parent company.

The petition proposes the allowance in full of the $25,142 claim and the settlement of an additional $20,000 claim for $10,000 and the release of Paramount from all claims by the Cravath firm arising out of the services for which the $77,000 fees were paid. A hearing on the petition has been set for Friday before Joyce.

The Cravath firm was also awarded $15,000 by the Federal bankruptcy court last year.

Report Terms Set For Para.'s Board called Fortington creditor group, will have two- and three-year terms on the board apportioned among them, it was reported yesterday.

By-laws of reorganized Paramount provide for the division of the 16 directors into three groups, one group to have a one-year tenure, a second group a two-year tenure, and the third, a three-year tenure. Annual elections of directors will be held after the third year.

Leading creditor groups are said to be in agreement on allotting of the two- and three-year terms to the four Fortington nominess. The remaining 12 directors are expected to have their tenures designated by the creditor groups some time next week.

Meanwhile, creditor confirmation of the Paramount reorganization plan is being speeded toward a final stage which may be reached within the next few days. Assents to the plan by holders of Paramount Broadway bonds, which have been lagging behind other creditor classifications, reached 59 per cent of the $8,875,000 total amount outstanding. Thus, approximately $5,240,000 of Broadway bonds have assented to the plan, as compared with the $5,976,000 required.

Paramount Publix and Paramount Famous Lasky bondholders and general creditors of Paramount, of whom two-thirds, or about $34,000,000 of claims, are required to assent to the plan, have already received assurances from large holders that the necessary amounts will be filed in advance of the final court hearing on the plan, April 4.

Ask Leave to Hold Old Pacts of Para.

A petition asking leave for the Paramount Publix trustees to adopt 181 executory contracts made prior to the company's bankruptcy, in order that they may be assumed by the new Paramount company on its reorganization, was filed yesterday with Special Master John E. Joyce.

Among the contracts to be adopted are many covering Paramount theatre operations which were made at the time various circuits were acquired throughout the country. They include fulfillment of contracts made with Saenger, Rickards & Nace, Publix Northwest and Minnesota Amusement Co., Dent Theatres, A. H. Blank, Southern Enterprises, Fitzpatrick-McElroy, Famous Players Canadian, Olympia, M. & P., Jefferson Amusement Co., Walter S. Butterfield and B. & K.

Also to be adopted are nummerous contracts involving long term film franchises with affiliated circuits; many contracts for foreign distribution of Paramount product, theatre lease guaranties by the parent company, Erpi licensing pacts and contracts with authors and agents. A provision of the Paramount reorganization plan calls for assumption by the new company of only those executory contracts of the old company which are adopted by the trustees.

A hearing on the petition has been set for Saturday before Joyce.

family has continued activity in exhibition and today operates 16 houses headed by the downtown Harris Alvin. Senator Frank J. Harris is the head of the company and will continue after John Harris' return. Associated with him in the planned reorganization and expansion will be old-time Harris men, including John T. McGreevy, James G. Balmer and George Tyson, the latter Harris' assistant from 1930 to 1933 when he was zone manager for Warners.

The Harrises are Pittsburgh's leading theatrical family. The original circuit was founded by John P. and Harry Davis who were not alone partners but brothers-in-law through the marriage of the elder Harris to Eleanor Davis. When John P. died in 1925, D. A., John H. and F. J. Harris continued expanding the circuit finally to sell out to the Warners in '30.

Harris Hiking Prices

PITTSBURGH, March 26.—With the price cutting war at its height, John Harris has started moves to boost admissions at downtown first runs to their former level. Harris started the move at the Alvin, with Loew's following at the Penn, which last week cleaned up on Eddie Cantor in person and "Sequoia" on the screen.

If revision is successful, Loew's will drop vaudeville at the Penn, now charging 35 and 25 cents for matinees and 40 cents evenings.

Skouras Pact Delayed

With several matters yet to be discussed in connection with the 10-year operating contract with National Theatres for Fox West Coast, Charles Skouras does not plan to get away until the middle of next week.

S. R. Kent, president of National Theatres and Fox Film, leaves for the coast today for a two-week visit at the studio to talk over new production. W. C. Michel, vice-president of Fox, will sit in on the contract conference for Kent.

Benedict in Eckels Job

HOLLYWOOD, March 26.—S. Barret McCormick, advertising and publicity director for Radio, said last night that Howard S. "Sequoia" and Cantor Smash In Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH, March 26.—Lent notwithstanding, last week was one of the best all-round sessions Pittsburgh has had in several months, and only a single house failed to touch par. The others were far above, the Penn stepping out with a great $28,000 for Eddie Cantor in person and "Sequoia" on the screen.

At the Fulton, "The Little Colonel" was held three days beyond the second week and in nine days gathered a nice $7,500, while the Alvin was hitting $10,500 with "Life Begins at 40" and keeping it for a second week. "Ruggles of Red Gap" proved a winner at the Stanley, getting around $11,000, which is excellent, and only the Warner alone, with "Captain Hurricane" and "Love in Bloom," was unable to get in the profit column, although not very far behind at $4,800.

Total grosses in five first run houses were $61,800. Average is $42,500.

Estimated takings for the week ending March 21:

"LIFE BEGINS AT 40" (Fox)
ALVIN—(2,000), 25c-40c, 6 days. Gross: $10,500. (Average, $6,000)

Would Control Benefits

ALBANY, March 26.—Under the provisions of a bill introduced in the Senate by Thomas F. Burchill, Democrat of New York City, and referred to the Codes Committee, the penal law is amended by making it larceny to conduct a show or other public exhibition advertised for charitable purposes, without turning over to the cause or charity at least 75 per cent of net receipts.

"Roberta" Is Boston Wow; $18,000 Over

BOSTON, March 26. — "Roberta" started a lineup at the beginning of the week and kept it going until the end, with the result that Keith's Memorial grabbed $30,000, over normal by $18,000.

Only one other spot topped par. That was Loew's State where "The Wedding Night" and "Shadow of Doubt" took $11,000, up by $1,000. "Gold Diggers of 1935" reached a par $22,000 at the Metropolitan with a stage show. It snowed Wednesday.

Total first run business was $79,000. Average is $65,000.

Dust Storms Dent Takes in Lincoln

LINCOLN, March 26.—Nothing good last week and every spot below average from $200 to $600. Dust storms, which made breathing almost impossible on the streets, discouraged amusement seekers and the Lenten dent remained as pronounced as ever.

The Stuart, barely able to clip off $2,600, was $500 down on the week with "Sweet Music." The Lincoln, with the "St. Louis Kid," took $1,900, likewise under the mark by $300.

The Orpheum's vaude-picture policy received a sharp setback. "Wicked Woman" and Janet Adler's girl show for three days, followed by "Bachelor of Arts" (four days) was able to get only $1,900. That's $400 down.

Total first run business was $7,300. Average is $9,100.

Estimated takings:

Week Ending March 21:
"WICKED WOMAN" (M-G-M)
"BACHELOR OF ARTS" (Fox)

Warners Hold Talbot

HOLLYWOOD, March 26.—Warners have exercised their option on Lyle Talbot for an additional year.

The actor has just completed a role in "Oil for the Lamps of China."

"Shadow" and Mills Troupe Seattle High

SEATTLE, March 26.—"Shadow of Doubt" and the Four Mill Brothers piled up $8,700, over normal by $2,700, at the Paramount last week. This is a record for the house.

In the face of this competition "The Little Colonel" reached $8,600 in nine days at the Fifth Avenue and "Roberta" had a big $5,200 in its second week at the Music Box.

Total first run business was $35,950. Average is $30,500.

Estimated takings for the week ending March 23:

"THE WEDDING NIGHT" (U. A.)

"Wedding" on Dual Top in Providence

PROVIDENCE, March 26. — Loew's State came back into its own last week to catch $12,200 with "The Wedding Night" and "Times Square Lady," highest score for the week.

"Gold Diggers of 1935" did a par $7,000 at the Majestic and Fay's caught $7,200 with "Transient Lady" and "Talk of the Town" revue, $200 over average. The other vaudeville house, RKO Albee, had a take of $6,500 with "Captain Hurricane" and a revue, "Cocktail Hour."

"Carnival" and "All the King's Horses" were under par at the Strand, bringing in $6,100. Strong opposition from pro and amateur hockey teams and opening of a sportsman's show did some damage to theatres.

Total first run business was $40,250. Average is $40,500.

Estimated takings for the week ending March 21:

"CARNIVAL" (Col.)
"ALL THE KING'S HORSES" (Para.)

Mrs. Baier Plans Fight to End Gifts in Mo. by Law

KANSAS CITY, March 26.—Mrs. A. Baier of the suburban Lindbergh here says she is planning to ask a state representative to introduce a bill in the Missouri Assembly banning preiums at theatres or making it illegal to give added inducements when playing a picture day and date with equally priced houses not adopting the practice.

Mrs. Baier said the spread of premiums creates a condition unfair to other theatres and she believes special legislation necessary because of the failure of efforts to prohibit the practice through code machinery.

A poll of local suburban exhibitors at the present time would find a majority favoring outside inducements, it is concluded from the existing trend.

An attempt recently was made in the Missouri legislature to prevent the operation of cash nights, bank nights and similar gift enterprises, but it got no further than a committee, which killed the bill.

Historical Record Compiled from Film

KANSAS CITY, March 26.—History as the motion picture has recorded it is the topic of a pictorial feature titled "Unreeling History" starting in the Kansas City Star's rotogravure section.

Prepared by John C. Moffitt, film editor, the feature will be released through the Bell Syndicate. Compilation was a work of several months and resulted in a collection of about 1,000 stills. The feature will run a year, it is estimated.

Keith's Cincy Scale Up

CINCINNATI, March 26.—Coincident with inauguration of the 52nd anniversary of Keith stage shows, the RKO Shubert has increased evening prices to 42 and 55 cents, including tax, for balcony and lower floor. The scale since the house opened March 1 has been 35 and 42 cents from 1 P. M. to closing.

Mascot to Start Four

HOLLYWOOD, March 26.—Mascot will reach a production peak in April with four pictures slated to go into work by the 25th. They are: "One Frightened Night," "City News," "Anything Once" and "Confidential."

Para. Signs O. R. Cohen

HOLLYWOOD, March 26.—Paramount has signed Octavus Roy Cohen to write a story around the character, "The Virginia Judge," which Walter C. Kelly has made famous. Kelly will play the part in the picture.

Miller's Father Dies

KANSAS CITY, March 26.—Beverly Miller, National Screen Service representative, is mourning the death of his father, Dr. W. C. Miller, at Labadie, Mo.

Get Vigilant Cartoons

Trans-Oceanic Film Export Co. has acquired foreign distribution rights on a series of 13 one-reel cartoons produced by Vigilant Pictures.

Star Dust

Hollywood, March 26. — "Whitey," the cat who played the role of Hannibal in "Chasing Yesterday," is being lined up for a long-term ticket at RKO on the strength of that performance.

The feline was purchased for six bits by Henry East, her owner, but East has spent 175 bucks grooming her for stardom. It is the cheapest deal on record here.

Which reminds of what will become of that black cat used in all of Marlene Dietrich's pictures now that the Von Sternberg-Dietrich combination has split?

Eastman's 1934 Net Up to $14,503,247

Eastman Kodak reports a substantial rise in income for 1934 over the 1933 total. Consolidated net for the parent company and all its wholly owned subsidiaries totalled $14,503,247, equal to $6.28 per share. For 1933 the net was $11,119,004, or $4.76 per share.

Sales have gained both in this country and abroad, according to Frank W. Lovejoy, president. Earned surplus at the end of 1934 was $80,600,102, compared with $76,595,941 the year before. Current assets total $91,522,874.

A summary of changes during 1934 was given as follows: Profit on silver bullion, $1,550,046; profit on exchange, $624,294; investment appreciation, $726,667; unemployment reserve fund, $393,626; released reserves, $142,864; other credits, $65,676.

B. F. Keith Loss in 1934 Cut to $136,035

For 1934 B. F. Keith Corp. reports a loss of $136,035 after Federal taxes, depreciation, amortization, interest and other charges. In 1933 the loss, after the same charges, was $580,387.

Current assets are listed as $882,010, including $776,861 in cash. Current liabilities are given as $346,693. Total assets on Dec. 31 were $21,046,423.

Bomb Is Threatened; German Film Banned

TORONTO, March 26.—A sensation developed here when W. S. Brady, proprietor of the Madison, received a bombing threat by mail if the picture "Germany Awakes" were presented as scheduled.

The immediate outcome was the cancellation of the engagement and the Ontario Government took further action, through the censors by withdrawing official sanction of the film, thus placing it out of circulation insofar as this province is concerned.

The picture was to have been presented under the auspices of the Deutscher Bund Kanada, a local German social organization, which had already sold approximately 1,000 tickets for the run.

Pre-Release Dates Hit by Group in Wis.

MILWAUKEE, March 26.—The Independent Theatres Protective Ass'n. has gone on record as being opposed to pre-release dates and has notified exchange managers to that effect. The organization's stand is aimed primarily at the Wisconsin Amusement Enterprises.

The association is requesting exchanges to adhere to the 1933-34 clearance schedule, which makes no reference to pre-release dating. The group will also make an effort to outlaw duals, premiums and similar practices.

Canton Bus Strike Hits Theatre Trade

CANTON, O., March 26.—Theatre receipts, especially at the downtown houses, are being affected by a strike of 145 city bus drivers. The strike has paralyzed the city's transportation system, compelling approximately 30,000 riders to seek other means of transportation.

Mayor Arthur Trumbull has forbidden private motorists from picking up passengers.

Charter Color Classics

ALBANY, March 26.—Color Classics, Inc., New York City, has been chartered with $40,000 capital in $10 shares to deal in moving picture machines. Walter H. Bond, William Arthur Babson and Aurora M. Viehbrook are directors and subscribers.

More Duals in Lincoln

LINCOLN, March 26.—A third house here went to double features last week, when the Varsity, taking the cue from the Kiva, also an L. L. Dent spot which went dual a couple of weeks ago, put up signs saying the bargain film showing would go in for a trial. J. H. Cooper's Sun also shows duals.

O'Brien Unit in Arizona

HOLLYWOOD, March 26.—Director Eddie Cline and a troupe of 60 have gone to Phoenix, Ariz., to film "Cowboy Millionaire," featuring George O'Brien and Evelyn Bostock. The Sol Lesser unit will remain at the Arizona location for three weeks.

Col. Holds Mae Marsh

HOLLYWOOD, March 26.—Columbia has picked up another six-month option on the contract of Mae Marsh. Miss Marsh is currently working in "In Spite of Danger," in which she has the top feminine spot opposite Wallace Ford.

Selling Early in N. O.

NEW ORLEANS, March 26.—From all indications the selling season here will close earlier than usual, since exhibitors, both circuit and independent, are showing an eagerness to buy and already have the season well in swing.

may not be extended and that the Government may not be inclined at the present time vigorously to enforce code requirements."

Ordering the Recovery Administration to exert its "full power" to insist upon and obtain compliance, the President, charging bad faith on the part of those attempting to lengthen hours or reduce wages contrary to code requirements, announced that he had requested the Department of Justice to take prompt and vigorous action to prevent or punish violations.

He also suggested that the situation be brought to the attention of Congress so that the recovery legislation could be accelerated.

FWC to Seek Delay Or Clearance Shift

Unless changes are made in the Los Angeles schedule as a result of its petition, Fox West Coast will demand that Campi delay indefinitely putting it into effect, it was learned yesterday.

Charles L. O'Reilly, Sidney Justin and Paul Lazarus, members of Campi's clearance and zoning committee are studying the 29-page report by John C. Flinn, who visited each of the situations involved when he was directed by Code Authority personally to investigate the F.W.C. petition. Flinn's report gives an analysis of the situation without recommendations.

Some of the members of the clearance committee had not completed the Flinn report yesterday. The schedule is slated to go into effect Sunday. It will be one of the main items on the calendar at tomorrow's Campi session.

While schedules for Kansas City, New Haven and Milwaukee are on the calendar they will be passed up. Consensus of opinion of Campi men is that they want to see how the coast plan works out before others are adopted and put into operation.

There are about 30 appeals ready for Campi decisions. Appeal committees meet three times a week and have been able to catch up with the number of appeals on the docket. Cases are heard from three to four weeks from the date Code Authority receives them. Committees hearing appeal cases are being given a vacation this week. Hearings resume Monday.

Cullman Insists on Rule Against Reade

Although Walter Reade, in a letter to the local grievance board, admits distribution of "service passes' at the Astor, a practice which has since been stopped, Howard S. Cullman, trustee of the Roxy, is insisting that the board hand down a decision in his favor next Tuesday.

Reade contends that he has been ill during the past three weeks and that a new manager was responsible for issuance of the passes.

K. C. Premium Ideas Get Strange Slants

KANSAS CITY, March 26.—The premium craze has given birth to some fantastic ideas among exhibitors, it was revealed when a few of the new wrinkles were sprung on John C. Flinn, Campi secretary, presiding at a round table here late last week.

One exhibitor arose to inquire if, with each paid admission, it would be permissible to give a free ticket to another theatre under the same operation.

Another query fired at Flinn was if it would be okay with him if, instead of giving dishes, a theatre handed out coupons good for merchandise at a neighborhood store.

By the time the exhibitors concluded their cross fire of questioning Flinn looked as if he could do with a couple of aspirins.

Picker Makes Plea For RKO Clearance

Eugene Picker of Loew's yesterday put up a strong fight for maintenance of the present seven-day clearance held by RKO's Strand and Columbia, Far Rockaway, and Alden, Jamaica, L. I., over Century's Fantasy, Rockville Center. Loew's has the Hillside, Hillside, which would ultimately be affected by the decision in the event the clearance is eliminated by the local board.

After two and three-quarters hours of arguing, with several members opposing Picker's stand, the session was adjourned until tomorrow.

Alfred E. Steers, impartial member, celebrated his 75th birthday yesterday and withdrew from the deliberations shortly before its breakup to attend a dinner in his honor.

Four Ad Cases Are Put Over by Board

Four of the five premature advertising complaints on the calendar at the local grievance board were postponed yesterday. The complaints put over until the next session were filed by Century Circuit against Sam Baker's Hollis and Island, Hollis; Linden, Jamaica; Bellaire, Bellaire, L. I.

Dave Weinstock's case against Louis Feld of the Treat, Newark, was decided in the complainant's favor. Weinstock has the Broad, same city.

Assert Bank Night Deals Gain in Hub

BOSTON, March 26.—Contracts have been signed for more than a dozen theatres, according to James Kennedy, giving bank nights a foundation in the New England territory where tango and screeno also have foothold. The grievance board has not been called upon as yet to decide on a case regarding the legality of bank nights.

plaintiff, charged that seeing Baby Face Nelson shot dead while she was an expectant mother caused her baby to be born dead.

The court ruled that the nature of the reel was fully advertised outside the theatre and ordered the jury to return a verdict in favor of the defendants.

Early Ascap Trial May Be Sought Here

Amen, special assistant to the Attorney General, Bennett and Arthur Schwartz of the Nathan Burkan office, counsel for Ascap. At the conference Bennett asked an immediate trial of the case but was told that no judges were available now and that the Federal court calendars were crowded with cases regarded as of equal importance.

Yesterday Judge Knox's order directing the striking out of all portions of Ascap's answer relating to the hitsory of the organization, its background and reasons for being was handed down, opening the way to trial as soon as a date can be obtained. The action was taken on the grounds that much of Ascap's 60-page answer to the government's complaint was improper or irrelevant.

Judge Knox also denied Ascap's motions for leave to take the depositions of nummerous exhibitors and agents, contending that these might not be needed in view of the striking out of much of the answer. The depositions were wanted to substantiate statements made in the answer. Ascap, however, was given leave to reinstate its motion for depositions if it feels they are still needed to support what remains of the answer.

Predict Early Tax Vote in California to raise $11,000,000, and a tax of one per cent on real estate transfers to raise $10,000,000.

Democrats are uniting with the Progressive block to put through a compromise program which would place the income tax levy budget at between $30,000,000 and $35,000,000. The administration bill calls for a rate one-third of the Federal scale—1.3 to 21 per cent, the highest maximum in any state and four times the average in 24 states using income taxes. The average minimum and maximum in these 24 states is 1.4 to 5.4 per cent. Florida has no income tax, and New York's tax runs from two to six per cent.

A 21 per cent state tax added to a Federal maximum of 63 per cent would make a total of 84 per cent on a net income of $1,000,000 a year.

Harms Injures a Leg

OMAHA, March 26.—Gus Harms, portly member of the Scott Ballantyne supply firm, injured a leg severely while in a Sioux City, Ia., hotel last week.

Pick "Werewolf" Title

HOLLYWOOD, March 26.—"Werewolf of London" will be the final title of Universal's thriller based on Robert Harris' story of that name. It has been called "The Unholy Hour."

Columbia Shifts Title

HOLYWOOD, March 26.—Columbia has dropped the working title of "Gimpy" and has picked "The Unwelcome Stranger" for the release name of Jack Holt's next.

Changes Made In Copyright Pact Measure

maximum to $10,000, but gives the courts greater leeway. It provides, not for the payment of proven damages and profits, but for such sums as the court believes "shall be sufficient to prevent their operation as a license to infringe and as shall be just, proper and adequate in view of the circumstances of the case." Further, the bill carries the right to appeal such cases to higher courts, not now given.

As amended, the measure includes in the right to use copyrighted material in the production of pictures the right to exhibit the resultant films, thus protecting the exhibitor. The protection given authors against mutilation or undue change in their words is retained, but with a provision permitting producers to make changes necessary to conform with customary standards of the industry.

The proposed differentiation between photoplays and other types of pictures is dropped, and newsreels are given the protection accorded newspapers and are protected against injunctions which would prevent their exhibition. Because of the fact that the 56-year copyright period proposed in the bill would remove some works from the public domain, a provision has been incorporated to prevent the bringing of charges of infringement, after the withdrawal of a work from the public domain, for its use while in that category.

New regulations surrounding the securing of copyright require the deposit of five prints from scenes of pictures and provide that no action for infringement may be maintained until the plaintiff has complied with all requirements for deposit of copies and registration.

Search for Florida Studio Sites Grows

MIAMI, March 26.—The search for possible studio sites in the event the industry is driven out of California by the success of the high tax program pending in the legislation there went on apace in Florida today.

Following a conference at the Alcazar Hotel here between Fred Pelton, M-G-M representative, and Morris Helprin, representing Joseph M. Schenck, and representatives of 13 Florida districts, the film men were taken today to inspect sites in St. Petersburg and Tampa, with other cities to follow. A special plane has been chartered for the purpose.

"Economic reasons are now, to a great extent, looming considerably to influence the industry's move to Florida because of the possible lower basic commodity costs," according to Pelton, who adds that "this may be even more important than pending legislation in California."

Seek New Board Setup

HOLLYWOOD, March 26.—A motion was passed at a meeting of the Songwriters' Protective Ass'n. last night that by-laws be changed to provide for a self-perpetuating board of directors.

Day-after-Day
EXCELLENCE

EASTMAN Super-Sensitive "Pan" Negative has played a part in productions that marked veritable milestones in cinematic progress. Yet its success in these outstanding pictures is based upon the same dependability it offers cameramen and producers every day in the year. Unfailing, day-after-day excellence is the quality that makes this film the natural choice for the screen's greatest ventures. Eastman Kodak Company, Rochester, N. Y. (J. E. K. C. Men Will Open Capitol in Detroit

DETROIT, March 26.—The Capitol, 3,400-seat house here, is to be opened Easter Sunday by interests operating the Tower in Kansas City. This is understood to be the first step in a gradual expansion program in which theatres will be added in key towns and operated on a policy which has been successful in Kansas City, combination stage shows and first run pictures at a low price scale.

The tariff at the Capitol has been set at 20c-25c-35c, and the stage shows will be vaudeville with a band and a line of girls. Formerly operated by Publix-Kunsky, and for a few weeks last fall by an independent, the house has been dark since last November.

A corporation is to be formed with William Reinke and S. Bernard Joffee of Kansas City and Nate Block of St. Joseph, Mo., as the factors. These men combined a year ago to open the Tower in Kansas City, and the house clicked with a vaudeville-picture policy at 25 cents. Reinke and Block are here arranging for the opening.

Four Holdovers in Big Broadway Week

Little Colonel," heading for an $85,000 gross, is being held at the Music Hall. "Naughty Marietta" is slated for another week at the Capitol. It will probably gross $50,000 for the first stanza, which ends tomorrow night.

"The Mystery of Edwin Drood" was good for $13,000 at the Rialto, while Walter Reade is finding business good enough at the Astor and Mayfair to keep "It Happened One Night" and "The Man Who Knew Too Much" another week. The Astor will wind up tomorrow night with about $10,000, while the Gaumont British film at the Mayfair will corral about $13,000 for the week ending this afternoon. Third week of "Ruggles of Red Gap" at the Paramount tallied $30,000.

Okla. Court Won't Act in Trust Case

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 26.—Holding that picture theatres are subject to the anti-trust laws of Oklahoma, the Supreme Court here today refused to break up an alleged film trust in Pottawatomie on the ground that district courts and county attorneys have no jurisdiction in such a case.

Clarence Tankersley, county attorney, brought suit against L. C. Griffith, Paramount Publix, Universal, Regal Theatres and the Griffith Amusement Co., alleging that they controlled the leasing of films and had put A. B. Momand, theatre owner, out of business through an illegal combination in violation of the Oklahoma anti-trust laws.

Hodges, Hickson West

A. J. Hodges and D. C. Hickson, northeast and southeast operating superintendents, respectively, of Erpi, leave New York today by plane for Hollywood, the former to become technical and commercial contact executive for the company with the large studio licensees, and the latter to serve with General Service Studios in an executive capacity.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"It's a Small World"

(Fox)

HOLLYWOOD, March 26.—Depicting life in Hope Center, Louisiana, this comedy of native and local flavor is good average entertainment.

Spencer Tracy and Wendy Barrie wreck their cars while detouring in Louisiana and are towed into a village where Raymond Walburn is everything from judge and hotelkeeper to barber and game warden. Charged with negligence, reckless driving and other misdemeanors, the pair go on trial in Walburn's court before a jury that acquits the girl but finds Tracy guilty. He pays the fine, which proves to be the first of a long series of charges imposed by Walburn. Tracy then has himself appointed special court officer so he can prevent Miss Barrie, against whom he has a damage claim, from leaving town. The romance between the pair is thwarted several times, but love triumphs.

Despite the slim story the picture has many laughs. The locale and characters are different and a warm folky quality pervades.

Irving Cummings' directorial talents turns this into unusual comedy channels. Photography and production are excellent. All supporting roles are well played, highlighted by Virginia Sales as a slavey, Charles Sellon as a deaf farmer and Irving Bacon as a garage owner. It should satisfy, especially in neighborhoods.

Production Code Seal No. 709. Running time, 68 minutes. "G."

"Sons of Steel"

(Chesterfield)

HOLLYWOOD, March 26.—"Sons of Steel" reaches only the fair mark on the entertainment chart. However, it should prove passable screen fare for neighborhood clientele. Direction and performances are good, but the story somehow fails to rise to its potential peak.

The story revolves around two brothers in separate walks of life and their sons. Holmes Herbert, a socialite, and Walter Walker, steel mill owner, are the brothers and William Bakewell and Charles Starrett their respective sons. Bakewell is raised in a society atmosphere and Starrett is adopted into the family of a steel worker portrayed by Richard Carlyle and Florence Roberts. Both boys attend the same college and wind up working in the steel mill, Bakewell as executive and Starrett, a machinist. The climax arrives when the steel workers strike and Starrett, suddenly discovering that Walker, the owner of the mill, is his father, manages to send the men back to their jobs.

A thin thread of romance is supplied by Polly Ann Young, as a stenographer. Direction by Charles Lamont is a high spot in the film with all performances measuring up to par. Charles Belden did a good job on the dialogue and continuity.

Production Code Seal, No. 448. Running time, 64 minutes. "G."

"New Adventures of Tarzan"

(Burroughs-Tarzan Enterprises)

HOLLYWOOD, March 26.—This production, aimed at children's matinee trade, shows an expedition bent on stealing jewels from natives, which may not be the thing for children; hence there is plenty of need for selling to get a break.

The story moves slowly, starting in Africa, with Herman Brix, as Tarzan, enlisted from the jungle to join an expedition to the Mayan ruins in Guatemala. More than half of the footage is devoted to the sea trip of the party from Africa to Central America, with the heavy attempting to steal the map from the expedition head. The action speeds somewhat when the party arrives at Guatemala and races the heavy to the ruined city, where a tribe of wild natives fights vainly to protect the gems from the intruders.

Brix, playing Tarzan as athlete, swimmer and tree swinger, is unconvincing in the dramatic episodes.

The photography and scenery are good.

Wilbur McGaugh's direction is uncertain. He never seemed to be sure whether he was making a feature or a serial.

No production code seal. Running time, 73 minutes. "G."

"Private Worlds," last night's preview at the Paramount, was reviewed by wire from Hollywood on March 6.

"I'll Love You Always," Friday's opener at the Roxy, was reviewed by wire from Hollywood on March 21.

Short Subjects

"Borrah Minevitch & His Rascals"

(Vitaphone)

Although Borrah Minevitch and his band of harmonica playing boys have appeared in several shorts of this type, this one is nevertheless novel entertainment. It has plenty of music and lots of comedy of the first order.

Minevitch's musical presentations include "Railroad Sam," "Oceans of Love," "Campesita" and "Won't You Buy My Violets?" all done in fine style.

Highly recommended. Production Code Seal, No. 332. Running time, 11 mins. "G."

"Laughing with Medbury in Hollywood"

(Columbia)

Jack Oakie is the only star shown in this subject, and only because he happened to be coming out of a restaurant, but Hollywood itself is covered so thoroughly that this is a very interesting reel. All the freak restaurants, homes and other points of interest in the town itself are shown to the accompaniment of Walter Futter's comical comments.

To be recommended. Production Code Seal, No. 515. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

"The Tin Man"

(Roach-M-G-M)

Thelma Todd and Patsy Kelly get lost while driving in the country and stop at a lonely house to 'phone for help. Inside they encounter a crank inventor who turns a mechanical man loose on them. Both girls suffer many embarrassing moments, finally escaping after the robot turns on his own inventor when things go haywire.

Amusing. Production Code Seal, No. 495. Running time, 19 mins. "G."

"Windy"

(M-G-M)

Charles (Chic) Sales here presents another of his perfect characterizations, this time it is an old desert rat with a great love of children. He is barred from the school grounds in his home town and is reinstated after saving one of the children from a snake.

It isn't the story, but the way Sales talks and acts that makes this a short subject to be highly recommended. Reviewed without production code seal. Running time, 9 mins. "G."

"Jamaica"

(Van Beuren-Radio)

The latest member of the Vagabond Adventure series presents a beautifully photographed and comprehensive view of the island of Jamaica. The reel includes shots of Kingston; native streets, homes and farms; sugar plantations and mills and banana plantations. Off-screen dialogue is supplied by Alois Havrilla, radio announcer.

Satisfactory. No production code seal. Running time, 11 mins. "G."

Schenck, Fox Theatres May Split Shares

While no formal decision has been made by Skouras Theatres as to acceptance or rejection of the standing offer under which the company may purchase a large block of the new stock of Fox Metropolitan Playhouses after reorganization of the latter, it is now considered unlikely that the offer will be accepted.

According to reports, Joseph M. Schenck, who becomes president of reorganized Fox Met, favors a stock equity for Skouras in the new parent company and advanced the offer to make a block of the stock available. The new company will issue only 10,000 shares of new stock, which will be held equally by Fox Theatres and Schenck. It is understood that

Western Film Demand Gains; More Planned

Re-Issues Being Put Out For Week-End Bills

Following demands by exhibitors throughout the country for more action films, several major distributors will increase the number of westerns next season.

Paramount, which released about five for the current season, will most likely boost the number to nine or 10. Three or four in the new series will be made from Zane Grey novels.

Columbia is set to distribute eight Ken Maynards in 1935-36 and may reissue eight Tim McCoys. During the present season 16 outdoor films have been released, eight of which were Tim McCoys and eight Buck Jones re-issues.

Universal, which has six from Buck Jones currently, is planning to increase

WASHINGTON, March 27.—Department of Justice officials today definitely decided to press for an early trial of the government's monopoly action against the American Society of Composers, Authors & Publishers and declared tonight that "the government will use every effort" to bring the case to trial without delay.

Throughout the day officials of the department were studying the ruling handed down by Federal Judge John C. Greenthal Not Named For Ampa Job: Finney

Declaring that MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S story yesterday on Monroe Greenthal's nomination for the presidency of the Ampa was contrary to fact, Edward Finney, chairman of the nominating group, stated he has been aware of a rival faction which threatens to oppose whatever ticket is planned by the official group, but not against any individual.

Finney further adds that the nominating members were considering Greenthal for the post of president because of his splendid work on the unemployment committee in addition to his handling of meetings in the absense of William Ferguson, incumbent. It is also stated that the committee has come to no decision on the new slate. Finney says he understands that Greenthal has been offered the presidency by the opposition group.

However, it is understood Greenthal will not accept either nomination because of the nature of his work at U. A., which requires that he be out of town at frequent intervals.

Skouras Not Expected to Buy into Met

each is willing to dispose of a minimum of 1,000 shares to Skouras and the offer has been submitted by the latter to Hayden, Stone & Co. for action. Present indications are that no action will be taken by the investment house and it is understood that Skouras Theatres will not undertake purchase of the stock without outside financing.

Both Skouras and Randforce will have stock participation in the subsidiary operating companies of Fox Met, although their 10-year operating contracts with the new company have not been finally closed yet. Eventual liquidation by Fox Theatres of its entire equity in Fox Met appears likely, inasmuch as Fox Theatres is in receivership and its liquidation or reorganization may be asked by creditors.

Meanwhile, the Fox Theatres-Schenck plan appears virtually certain to go through the creditors' hearing on April 12 without serious opposition or the presentation of a competitive plan. Saul E. Rogers, attorney, representing undisclosed interests, stated last week that he would not offer an alternative plan unless he could better the terms proposed in the Fox Theatres-Schenck plan. It is almost certain that this will not be done. Rogers is the only known principal interested in presenting a competitive plan at this time.

list now awaiting Rosenblatt's approval. It is also charged the proceedings were contrary to the NRA.

The letter, drafted by Frank Woods, first secretary of the Academy, claims that 2,000 equally qualified extras were excluded from the list and that this violates the code of fair practice in that the code doesn't authorize an active extra list. The letter also formally asks that registration sub-committee and Campi action be eliminated and registration rules be made public.

It is further requested that Article 3, Section 4, of the code be clarified. This section deals with employes on location.

Eugene H. Marcus is now in Washington representing the three groups in the negotiations. The general feeling is that the extras will appeal to producers and the Central Casting Office ff not given a sympathetic ear at the capital.

Opera for Radio City

The production of three operas and a ballet on the stage of the Music Hall is being planned for the near future, according to W. G. Van Schmus, managing director. Richard Strauss' "Salome," Gounod's "Faust" and Smetana's "The Bartered Bride," in condensed versions, are the operas planned. The ballet will have Respighi's "Pines of Rome" as the music.

Quick Action To Be Sought On Ascap Suit issues, Department officials decided to press forward with the case rather than to permit it to go over to the fall term of court.

Whether the government's next step will be the filing of a certificate of necessity, or some other action calculated to hasten trial of the suit, could not be learned definitely. However, formal action for a prompt hearing of the case is expected within the next few days and the seeking of a certificate of necessity to compel the setting of an immediate trial before three Federal judges has been suggested by department officials as a possibility. Owing to the crowded Federal court calendar in New York and the unavailability of trial judges, an effort to obtain a certificate of necessity might be met with an advancement of the Ascap case to a preferred place on the trial calendar in order that it might be heard by one judge instead of the three who would have to be assigned if the certificate of necessity was obtained.

Chicago Board Stops Alger's Film Supply

CHICAGO, March 27.—The local grievance board today issued a film stoppage order against E. E. Alger, operator of the Peru and nine other houses downstate, as a result of a complaint filed against him on Sept. 25 by Publix Great States on reduced admissions through giveaways and other such practices. The order, effective April 5, is the first of its kind here.

Alger ignored a Feb. 14 order of the board that he desist. He was given notice to appear March 12 and 26 to show cause why his service should not be stopped. Meanwhile Campi upheld the local board.

The stop order was issued following Alger's failure to appear before the board yesterday. He informed the board by letter that he was in touch with Compliance Director Sol A. Rosenblatt regarding a rehearing of his case.

revisions. The Code Authority secretary returned from Hollywood Sunday night.

Flinn submitted his report to Charles L. O'Reilly, Sidney Justin and Paul Lazarus for study late Monday afternoon. Because of other business the trio has not been able to fully digest the contents in time for this morning's session. The committee will ask that it be given another week or two to go over the analysis before reporting to Campi.

The schedule is slated to go into effect Sunday, according to a previous vote by Code Authority. Whether this will be carried out with the exception of those situations contested by F.W.C., or adopted generally with changes, if any, to come later, will be decided today.

Expect Ruling Today In Century-RKO Case

In addition, there are numerous exhibits by both sides. Eugene Picker, who put up a strong fight against independent members of the board for maintenance of RKO's seven-day clearance over the Century Fantasy, Rockville Center, was home yesterday with a sore throat, but will be on hand today.

No vote was taken at Tuesday's session, the deliberation revolving around various principles involved. At one time Leo Abrams, chairman, was in doubt on a certain point and had to call John C. Flinn for a clarification.

Blank Gets Stay on Bank Night Ruling

DES MOINES, March 27.—A. H. Blank, president of the Central States Theatre Corp., has secured an injunction from Federal Judge Charles A. Dewey against outlawing his bank nights by the local grievance board. The stay is also directed at Fox, M-G-M, RKO, Paramount, Universal and Vitagraph.

The board has issued a cease and desist order against Blank, claiming the cash prizes he was giving away formed a rebate of part of the admission price.

A spokesman at Campi yesterday said that Blank had appealed the decision of the Des Moines board, but that at the same time his appeal reached New York by mail a wire arrived notifying Campi of his suit.

will be called within the next few weeks further to discuss the move. About 30 will attend.

With the I.T.O.A. representing practically all of the smaller exhibitors in the territory, the unit is on record for elimination of twin bills and advancement in admissions and is now anxious to get the larger theatres to agree to approve the idea. All houses will go single bill at the same time, if the plan is adopted.

Complainants Must Prove Competition

CLEVELAND, March 27.—The grievance board has made a ruling that hereafter complainants must prove they are competitors of houses against which they are filing complaints.

Statements covering the competition angle must be included in the complaints, as well. This is to carry out a rule of Campi that only competitors are entitled to hearings.

The board has lifted its stop film service order against the Ohio, Toledo. Jack O'Connell, owner, has agreed to maintain admissions at the contract level.

Drop Boston Complaint

BOSTON, March 27.—The grievance board has dismissed a complaint filed by Edward T. Bloomberg, operator of the Strand at Gloucester, in which he charged that M. & P.-Publix is monopolizing product of five major distributors. He is expected to file an appeal.

New code signers in this territory are: Victory Amusement Co. for the Victory, Casino and Olympic, Lawrence; Abraham Goodside, Strand, Portland; Netoco-Marblehead Theatre Corp., Sanford Theatre Co., Thomas A. McNulty of the Warwick, Marblehead, and Waltham Amusement Co.

College Takes Appeal

CHARLOTTE, March 27.—An appeal to Campi has been taken by Winthrop College from the grievance board decision that it cannot show pictures not previously shown in Rock Hill, S. C., theatres and cannot charge admission to persons outside the college.

Gift nights and giveaways have been banned by the grievance board in Rhodes Brothers' houses at Mooresville, F. C. Hanes at Lenoir, and Harold Kay at North Wilkesboro.

the series to eight. An announcement to this effect is expected at the annual sales convention in Chicago starting May 25.

Exhibitors all over the country feature westerns on week-ends above other types of pictures. This applies to the big city runs as well as small towns. In New York, westerns are great Saturday and Sunday matinee attractions for juveniles and it is not unusual for neighborhood houses to put on an action film as a third feature for the first two shows.

Some independent exchanges get so many calls for the westerns that branch heads have reopened the vaults for features two and three years old.

Para.-Erpi Terms Called Exorbitant

tees yesterday by Ralph Vatner, attorney, for William Yoost, an exhibitor who states that he owns $23,000 of Paramount bonds.

The affidavit recites that the RCA Victor bid would save Paramount $3,000,000 during the life of the proposed contract. It also contends that various Erpi overcharges against Paramount should be offset against the Erpi $1,900,000 claim which the trustees propose to settle for $1,200,000. The affidavit recites that Erpi may be liable to Paramount for treble damages of $50,000,000 under the anti-trust laws, citing, for substantiation, the Delaware Federal court ruling in the case of Warners, Duo Vac and General Talking Pictures against A. T. & T., Western Electric and Erpi. The affidavit also states that Erpi's patents should be listed individually in the licensing agreement for Paramount's protection in the event any of them are held to be invalid. Counsel for the Paramount trustees have until Friday to reply.

Vatner is counsel for the American Society for the Protection of the M. P. Theatre, an organization which has launched bitter attacks on the "big electrics" and Erpi in particular in recent years.

Approval of Allied Plan Seen as Sure

however, was expected to be made up in advance of today's hearing.

Sufficient assents have been received from general creditors having approximately $4,900,000 of claims and from the holders of the $1,747,000 of Allied debentures outstanding.

The plan provides for the outright purchase by Loew's of the Kings, Pitkin and Valencia for $12,875,000 with payments spread over 25 years but subject to earlier completion on a discount basis. Also, while the plan does not contain the settlement provisions of Allied's large claim against Paramount Publix, it has a reservation providing for approval of the proposed settlement by the creditors. The settlement itself is a separate pact calling for the leasing by Paramount of the Brooklyn Paramount, the Paramount at Glens Falls, N. Y., Paramount at Fremont, O., and the purchase of the Alabama, at Birmingham. It also provides for a cash payment to Allied of $150,000 and the allowance of the balance of Allied's claims on a general creditor's basis at $5,000,000.

Looking 'Em Over

"Traveling Saleslady"

(Warners)

Although Joan Blondell and Glenda Farrell are given top billing in this one, it is that grand trouper and excellent comedian Hugh Herbert who provides practically all the entertainment by his antics. Cast as an absent-minded inventor, Herbert had last night's Strand audience roaring at his every scene. Chiefly because of his work and because of an excellent cast, this film is recommended as more than satisfactory.

The yarn has Miss Blondell as the daughter of a toothpaste manufacturer (Grant Mitchell) who goes over to her father's competitor with Herbert and his invention, known as "cocktail toothpaste," when she is refused a job by her parent. To convince her father that she can work she goes on the road and makes a phenomenal success as a saleslady. In the meantime she meets William Gargan, ace salesman for her father, and they fall in love, but continue to fight in a business way. The windup is satisfactory, with the lovers in each other's arms and the rival companies merging.

Director Ray Enright keeps the film moving at a fast pace, inserting Herbert every time it starts to lag to give it added impetus. F. Hugh Herbert and Manuel Seff are to be commended on their screen play. The photography of George Barnes is good.

Others in the cast, all of whom turn in swell jobs, include Ruth Donnelly, Johnny Arthur, Al Shean, Bert Roach and Joseph Crehan.

"Moscow Laughs"

(Amkino)

Believe it or not. In "Moscow Laughs" the Soviets have turned out a film entirely devoid of propaganda. That, it must be admitted, is quite an achievement—for the Soviets. The Russians are revealed in a gay mood in this one. Moscow laughs. It's about time it did.

This time the Muscovites have gone about producing entertainment purely and they have not done badly at it.

"Moscow Laughs" is a melange of comedy and music sprinkled with irony. Some of the music is rather good and the photography effective, the exterior shots being especially good.

The story tells of a musical herdsman who is mistaken for a famous composer by a well-to-do young woman. Smitten with him, she invites him to her home. When the fellow is told to play for the guests he picks a tune on his herdsman's pipe. His flocks, attracted by the familiar strains of the instrument, break into the house and make a mess of things. When his identity is learned he is put out, and the romance between him and the girl is ended.

Later, in Moscow, the young musician by pure chance finds himself at the head of a jazz orchestra after a series of difficulties. Things look bright for him in the end.

The chief trouble with the film is that it lacks the polish and smoothness found in the musical entertainment turned out in Hollywood.

Leonid Utesov, Lubov Orlova and M. P. Strelkova are the principal players. The cast is capable. Direction is credited to Gregory Alexandrov and the music to I. O. Dunayevsky. Kinocombinat produced.

There are English subtitles in profusion.

No production code seal. Running time, 90 minutes. "G."

Nasser Bros. houses and two Fox West Coast theatres, ordered to end the practice. Nasser immediately filed an appeal, while F.W.C. accepted the ruling.

The Nasser houses are the New Mission, New Fillmore, Royal, Alhambra, American and Castro. The F.W.C. theatres are the El Capitan and Rialto. The cases involving these theatres were heard on March 19.

Today the board resumed hearing Cohen's complaints against Golden State and Levin Theatres, witnesses including Robert McNeil, Cohen and Ben Levin. The board held that a downtown house not holding bank nights was affected by any neighborhood house doing so.

The board's ruling was seen as an indication of complete victory for Cohen in all other cases. The hearing will be continued on April 1.

All defendants are understood being approached now by a group from their own ranks with plans that all discontinue bank nights as soon as the board shows it can enforce cease and desist orders.

New Orleans to Vote On Daylight Saving

NEW ORLEANS, March 27.—As a result of efforts of exchange men and exhibitors the Commission Council has decided to submit daylight saving time to a citywide referendum April 23. Theatre interests were supported by organized labor.

Norman Carter, representing exhibitors, said the time change would cut business by 20 per cent. Theatres, he said, are now contributing $8,000 monthly to the city's relief rolls. He predicted advancement of clocks would mean heavy cuts in this amount.

Federal Housing Loan Limit Boost to $50,000 Predicted

By BERTRAM F. LINZ

Washington, March 28.—Legislation increasing from $2,000 to $50,000 the amount which may be loaned to business properties, including theatres, under the Federal Housing Act is expected to be approved by Congress in the near future.

The increase has already been given the support of the House and officials of the Housing Administration anticipate that support will also be gained in the Senate, which will make passage easy.

Administration officials have consistently contended that the $2,000 maximum has made impossible any extensive use of the government's assistance by business men, whereas it is felt that a $50,000 maximum will open a wider field.

Majors Agree To Duals for K.C. Houses

KANSAS CITY, March 28.—With the single exception of Paramount, all distributors have agreed to permit double billing unreservedly in Kansas City, it is reported by the I. T. O., which has a committee interviewing exchanges on the subject. In selling this season's contracts major companies adopted a stand sharply restricting the practice.

Whether the present restrictions will be lifted depends, it is said, on whether all exhibitors are willing to agree not to play duals on the singles spot, but to delay them 28 days. The latter proviso was offered in return for dualing privileges.

Fox Midwest has opposed indiscriminate double billing, but is reported willing to go along with the independents in this instance, since the clearance penalty is provided.

Paramount, the sole holdout among the distributors, gives as its reason

Clearance Now Live Topic in London Area

By BRUCE ALLAN

LONDON, March 18.—Meeting recently, a joint committee of London exhibitors and representatives of distributors thrashed out problems arising from the fact that the London release is at present not uniform—theatres south of the Thames getting their prints a week after those on the north bank.

Originally made necessary by demands of print economy, the north-south split of releases is regarded as bearing hardly on big neighborhood houses on the south side, which are in competition with West End houses on the other bank.

An easy solution is not foreseen, many exhibitors dissenting from a policy, believed in favor with some distributors, by which there would be a definite classification of first or later runs, enabling prints to be economised without territorial classification.

Fox Wavering On Tri-Ergon Court Appeal

Supreme Court's Time Limit Is Midnight

The possibility that William Fox will ask for a rehearing by the U.S. Supreme Court of the American Tri-Ergon patent litigation will continue up to the stroke of midnight tonight, when the time in which the rehearing may be petitioned expires, it appeared yesterday.

Fox was reliably reported to be wavering between asking a rehearing of both the double print and flywheel patents or the flywheel patent alone. Within the last few days, according to these reports, he has favored petitioning the rehearing of the flywheel patent only, but yesterday his attitude leaned toward the inclusion of both patents.

Inquiries at the offices of Ward, Crosby & Neal, Fox's attorneys, in whose hands the rehearing petition would be placed, were met with the statement that "no decision has been reached yet." The statement was in response to inquiries as to whether any rehearing petition at all would be sought.

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

REPUTED circuit opposition to the first of two shorts made by Pathe for the Federal Housing Administration on the ground of unnecessarily included advertising plugs carries little genuine merit. This opinion is ventured on the strength of a personal investigation of the subject matter itself. These are the first two of three shorts, you will remember, which are to be supplied exhibitors without charge all for the sake of familiarizing the public with what can be done under the provisions of the FHA. . . .

The films are extremely interesting, running the field as they do from why and how to modernize kitchens, living rooms, attics, plumbing and kindred matters snuggling closely to the hearts and hearths of millions of the citizenry throughout the United States. There is an occasional boost by way of direct mention of contributing sources, it is true, but such mention at no point is blatant or, in this opinion, is it apt to project the exhibition end of the industry into an armed camp. . . .

One episode gives credit to the Home Institute maintained by the New York Herald-Tribune, but "The March of Time," it is the fair thing to point out, threw its Hauptmann verdict story to the New York Daily News. Another credits the decorating department at Macy's for suggestions on how to make 1930 living rooms look more like 1935. Yet, in its opening release, "The March of Time" indulged in a swell little ballyhoo for "21", that deluxe, one-time speakeasy now converted into a restaurant swank enough to attract many of your important film notables for lunch every day. . . .

This space believes the eyebrow raising indulged in by certain of the circuits is a bit strained in the case of the FHA. Were the facts to justify their reluctance to play the subjects as they stand, we believe a measure of tolerance might well temper their decision. But the facts do nothing of the sort. There is to consider also in a matter like this the public service which widespread screening time afforded these subjects will foster. This industry, with a comforting and comfortable record of such service behind it, certainly should not entertain defection by any of its important units at this time. . . .

FROM MOTION PICTURE DAILY, March 14:

WILMINGTON, March 13.—The Standard Capital Corp. has been formed here, with a capitalization of $1,500,000, to finance production. In the incorporation papers, J. Cheever Cowdin, New York financier, is listed as president; Lawrence W. Fox, Jr., vice-president, and Margaret Sullivan, secretary-treasurer. The board of directors is comprised of George Armsby, Garrettson Dulin, Daniel M. Sheaffer, Samuel W. Atkins and J. Russel Forgan.

A flock of high and fancy, as well as influential names, these. If you get a kick out of coming events, their shadows and the like, remember what appears immediately above. For Standard Capital, which is doing no talking, is involved in (1) a deal for the purchase of one of the major companies and (2) a general financing program which will run into millions. Number two plan would supplant a now active moneyed group which is changing its spots what with some of this and a lot of that brewing in Washington. . . .

Trouble on the wing along Euclid Avenue and its offshoots. The Cleveland boys, who consistently refuse to hang well together, are in a dither again over the duals situation. The original agreement ruling twins out was wet in the first instance in that it failed to plug the backdoor method by which new exhibitors, not bound by the covenant, might further gum the complex theatre situation which has a persistent habit of prevailing in that city. But now that Max Lefkowich, who signed the pact, has walked out on it, who knows where the mess will go or how far. If there is any lesson at all in what is currently taking place there, it is the emphasis anew which stamps itself on the obvious inability of groups in this industry to make a decision and then stand pat. . . .

More tragedians looming up out Hollywood way. The new California income tax program, when added to the Federal maximum of sixty-three per cent, would sock $1,000,000 incomes to the merry tune of $840,000. Who was it who said it was blessed to be poor or a tune to that effect? . . .

Parent Groups Aim an Attack Upon Theatres

for the bill, Ramsaye sent the following wire to Mrs. Klock:

"Would you be good enough to give us your opinion of the Pettengill bill and indicate if you think it is the proper keynote of approach on a program of progress in dealing with the motion picture?"

Mrs. Klock replied: "The passage of the Pettengill bill would be an opening wedge for a broader program which would put churches, schools and civic organizations on a business basis with motion picture theatres, giving them equal opportunity to rent and exhibit the better class of photoplay. In present circumstances the theatres have every advantage over many beautiful and well equipped school and civic auditoriums. There is no reason why school, church and civic organizations should be barred as customers for the many good films now being exhibited.

"We do not want block booking. The National Congress of Parents and Teachers has decided on a policy which would permit the selection of the better types of motion pictures for exhibition in church and school halls and civic auditoriums.

Sees Benefit to Welfare Work

"If the Pettengill bill becomes law, community organizations would have the same renting and selection privileges as motion picture theatre operators. Much splendid welfare work can be financed in every community from the proceeds of motion picture exhibition in church, school and civic auditoriums. Passage of the Pettengill bill would also bring about a wider distribution of the better photoplay."

Commenting editorially on the telegram, Ramsaye says in the current issue of Motion Picture Herald:

"The National Congress of Parents and Teachers is hereby declared to be contemplating forcible entry, entry by law, into the picture business to engage in exhibition in competition with the existing institution of the screen.

"The motion picture mechanisms necessary to the art are on the open market, available to all who desire to make motion pictures. The National Congress of Parents and Teachers and all friends and affiliates have an entirely free oportunity to engage in the production and distribution and exhibition of any and as many motion pictures of any sort, as they may desire.

"That opportunity is not sufficient. They prefer invasion, expropriation, a special license to take from the exhibitor's box-office the amusement merchandise on which the whole industry exists."

the state's tax program, as a protective measure against the possibility of detrimental legislation in the future.

The producer, who was accompanied by Al Lichtman, William Phillips and A. C. Blumenthal, stated the industry would locate wherever it would be assured that at no time in its existence would it be threatened by tax legislation.

Schenck, who asserted he had received invitations from Florida, New York, Connecticut, New Jersey, North Carolina and Delaware with assurances no tax burdens would be placed on studios, proposed an amendment to California's constitution guaranteeing studios an equitable taxation system.

He said that if the high tax program goes through, Hollywood and neighboring communities would lose thousands of film workers and a payroll of $100,000,000 yearly to some other state.

Campi Delays Action On Code Amendments

Campi yesterday noted receipt of a letter from Ed Kuykendall, president of the M.P.T.O.A., asking for a meeting between the M.P.T.O.A. committee on code amendments and Code Authority to discuss proposals adopted at the New Orleans convention.

Because of the heavy calendar, Campi tabled the matter for another meeting when a definite date for the conference will be set. Kuykendall appeared at the regular session yesterday, but did not bring up the matter.

Several matters which were taken up yesterday were put over until today when Campi reconvenes. The budget for last month was passed, but will be released later.

No appeals were heard.

Nathan Yamins presided in the absence of S. R. Kent. Felix Jenkins alternated for Kent. Others attending included Charles L. O'Reilly, Gordon C. Youngman, Harold S. Bareford, Sidney Justin, Felix F. Feist, E. T. Gomersall, Edward Golden and Deputy Administrator William P. Farnsworth. Phillip Maguire of the NRA legal department in Washington sat in on the meeting in an unofficial capacity.

Clarification Sought On Cameramen Hours

Clarification of working hours for newsreel cameramen under the code will be undertaken by a committee of four appointed by Deputy Administrator William P. Farnsworth following a meeting of newsreel companies and unions held in New York on Wednesday, it was learned yesterday.

The code now provides that newsreel cameramen may not work more than a total of 320 hours in eight weeks. The point at issue revolves around an interpretation of how those hours are spent.

Jack Connolly of Pathe News and Albert J. Richards of Paramount News are representing all five reels. Lou Krouse is representing the I. A. T. S. E.. and O. B. Johnson, the New York City cameramen's union.

ing their houses on premium nights and is resulting in increased revenue.

Most of the houses give premiums two nights a week, although several are giving away kitchenware on two nights, and dinnerware on two nights. One key spot is using premiums six nights a week, kitchenware on Mondays and Tuesdays, a boudoir set on Wednesdays and Thursdays and kitchenware on Fridays and Saturdays.

A year ago there was one premium distributor here. Now four have offices.

Weisman Denies an Offer of Met Stock

Milton C. Weisman, receiver of Fox Theatres, yesterday denied a report published in MOTION PICTURE DAILY to the effect that Fox Theatres stood ready to dispose of a part of the Fox Met stock interest to Skouras Theatres which it will receive in the event of adoption of the pending plan of reorganization for Fox Met.

Representatives of Skouras Theatres, when asked to comment on the Weisman denial, stated that "while no definite proposal has been made, and could not be until this reorganization plan has been confirmed, Joseph M. Schenck, who becomes president of Fox Met under the plan, has expressed a willingness to see Skouras Theatres have an interest in the new parent company as well as in the subsidiary operating companies. Whether or not Weisman shares the same views is immaterial. He is without authority to make such an offer except with the approval of the court with jurisdiction over Fox Theatres."

Coast Clearance Up Before Campi Group

William T. Powers, attorney, and Edward Alperson, film buyer for Fox West Coast, yesterday appeared before the Campi clearance and zoning committee to present additional data in connection with its petition on the Los Angeles schedule.

Charles L. O'Reilly, Paul Lazarus and Sidney Justin, the committee, had not completed reading of the 29-page report by the coast clearance and zoning board, but wanted to hear further arguments on the 13 situations protested by F. W. C. The committee is slated to report to Campi on both the circuit's petition and the board's analysis today.

Century Case Off; Eugene Picker Ill

Due to the illness of Eugene Picker, affiliated circuit member of the local clearance and zoning board, the second meeting scheduled for yesterday to decide on the Century protest against RKO for elimination of the present seven-day clearance the Strand and Columbia, Far Rockaway, and Alden, Jamaica, have over the Fantasy, Rockville Center, has been put over until next week.

who starts distributing kitchenware at his Oak Park in a few days. Means was the storm center of a dispute not long ago in which he fought the practice and conducted a vote banning premiums which later was declared illegal. He said he is forced to the measure because his theatre is "surrounded" by competitors running 10-cent nights and giving premiums.

Only a half dozen suburban theatres are still trying to resist the gift wave, and some of these may be compelled to adopt similar devices before long.

Ferguson Asks for Secrecy on Ticket

William R. Ferguson, president of the Ampa, yesterday advised both the official nominating committee and the opposing group to maintain strict secrecy on slates to be proposed. He also told the committee to check up on candidates for acceptance before proposing names. All slates must be in the hands of Mel Heymann, secretary, by April 4. Elections take place April 25, two days before the Naked Truth Dinner at the Astor.

Various committees reported progress on the big affair. Paul Benjamin stated there were only 300 tickets left. Next Thursday will be an open meeting, the last in Ferguson's regime.

Brandt Takes House In Jackson Heights

Branching into new competitive areas, Harry Brandt has taken over the Colony, Jackson Heights, L.I., a territory dominated by Skouras and Century. The I.T.O.A. head last week took over another Bronx theatre in a Springer & Cocalis neighborhood.

Brandt has a deal on for four additional theatres. According to reports, Springer & Cocalis has negotiations on for the same theatres. Brandt hopes to close within the next few days.

Limiting his circuit to the local area, Brandt has turned down a deal made by Fox Theatres to operate the Nelson, Springfield, Mass., the Fox, Detroit, and the Fox, St. Louis.

William Fadiman, eastern story editor for Samuel Goldwyn, yesterday was rushed to the Harbor Sanitorium for an appendicitis operation. His condition was reported "very satisfactory" last night.

Connecticut Lining Up Battle on Bills

NEW HAVEN, March 28.—J. B. Fishman, president of the M. P. T. O. of Connecticut, has called a special meeting of the organization for next Tuesday to discuss five bills pending in the legislature which are inimical to the industry.

On April 9 the Legislature will have on the calendar two bills, one for a five per cent tax on gross admissions and another seeking a 50 per cent increase in the seating tax. The seat tax now ranges from 25 cents to $8 a day.

On April 12 three bills will come up. They are: Two men in a booth, compulsory control projection device for each machine in a booth and a censorship bill.

Theatre men are worried over these five measures. Considerable attention is also being focused on the dog racing bill which comes up in the assembly on April 10.

Vetoes Connecticut Racing

HARTFORD, March 28.—Gov. Wilbur L. Cross vetoed the horse racing bill today on the ground that its gambling provisions would have made the state a "partner" in exploitation of its people. The veto was sustained in the House.

Consolidate Sunday Bills in Harrisburg

HARRISBURG, March 28. — Representing a consolidation of several open Sunday bills introduced earlier in the session, a new bill has been presented in the House by Assemblymen Louis Schwartz and Charles Melchiorre of Philadelphia and Thomas W. Barber of Erie.

It calls for a referendum in each municipality at the next municipal elections in November. If passed, Sunday shows will be permitted after 2 o'clock.

Another measure provides for 24 hours of rest each week for projectionists.

Independents File Schreiber Answers

DETROIT, March 28.—Attorney David Newman has filed briefs for the independent exchanges in the suit brought by Jacob Schreiber in Federal court, charging Co-Operative Theatres of Michigan, Inc., and the local exchanges with conspiracy to prevent him from getting product for his Colonial.

Briefs have been filed by the plaintiff and all others will be filed by April 1. The court has indicated that a decision will be given promptly after filing of these briefs.

Louis Paul to M-G-M

HOLLYWOOD, March 28.—Louis Paul, who won the O. Henry short story contest award last year, has been signed by M-G-M.

Edna May Oliver and Elizabeth Allan have been given new long term contracts, too.

Miss Sullavan Loaned

HOLLYWOOD, March 28.—Margaret Sullavan will do her first picture away from Universal on a loan to Paramount for "So Red the Rose" in exchange for Carole Lombard, who does "April in Paris" for Universal.

McCarthy Says New Films Top 'Em All

"Les Miserables," Darryl Zanuck's refinement of Victor Hugo, starring Fredric March and Charles Laughton.

"It is one of the greatest pictures I have ever seen," McCarthy pronounced with emphasis, placing both hands on his desk and showing no fingers crossed.

"I have made 15 trips to Hollywood," he continued, "and I saw more good pictures this trip than I have ever seen before."

Other new product that came in for praise from him included Fox's "Life Begins at 40" and "Doubting Thomas," with Will Rogers, the two forthcoming Janet Gaynor pictures, "The Farmer Takes a Wife" and "Dante's Inferno," 20th Century's "Richelieu," with George Arliss, and M-G-M's "Naughty Marietta."

McCarthy, who is head of the Advertising Advisory Council of M. P. P. D. A., said that Lupton Wilkinson will remain on the coast for a minimum of three months reorganizing studio publicity methods in conjunction with member company officials. If Wilkinson likes the post and prefers to remain in Hollywood permanently he may do so, it was said. A principal phase of the work will be the strengthening of control over the release of stills, giving closer supervision of the releases to the actual heads of studio publicity.

Astoria Studio for Para. News, Is Plan

Eastern Service Studios will terminate its tenancy of the Astoria studio immediately on confirmation of the plan of reorganization for Prudence Bonds, Inc., holder of the first mortgage of $930,000 on the property. The new plan provides for leasing of the studio by Paramount News.

Counsel for the Paramount trustees yesterday filed a petition with Special Master John E. Joyce for leave to join with Prudence in the latter's amended plan of reorganization, which calls for a $33,250 deposit by Paramount News as a guaranty of lease performance and embodies other minor amendments to the original plan. The Paramount News lease on the studio runs to July 1, 1941, at $133,000 per year. The Prudence reorganization plan, in addition to this, provides for the release of Paramount from all claims arising out of defaults on the mortgage, the discontinuance of litigation against Paramount News and of a foreclosure action on the studio mortgage begun by Prudence in 1933.

Olympia Theatres' Claim Order Signed

An order allowing the claim of Olympia Theatres' stockholders against Paramount Publix at $1,824,562 upon delivery to Paramount of 52,234 shares of Olympia common stock and 6,509 of preferred was signed yesterday by Federal Judge Alfred C. Coxe.

The order expedites the reorganization of Olympia by averting the possible opposition to a plan of reorganization for the circuit which would make no provision for the claims of stockholders.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"People Will Talk"

(Paramount)

HOLLYWOOD, March 28.—Depending alternately on dialogue and situations, this is an amusing farce with Charlie Ruggles and Mary Boland as an ideally married couple who find their daughter, Leila Hyams, quarreling with their son-in-law, Dean Jagger, over the latter's attention to Ruthelma Stevens on the young couple's first wedding aniversary.

When Miss Hyams leaves her husband and returns home, Miss Boland tells Ruggles they, too, must quarrel to show the youngsters how foolish fighting is. This staged fight starts innocently, but reaches serious proportions when Ruggles becomes involved with the vamp, Miss Stevens, and comes to a climax when the pair, during an innocent drinking bout, are later discovered asleep in the country club cloakroom.

Matters straighten out when Jagger arranges the fake kidnapping of Ruggles and Miss Boland. Ruggles, discovering the ruse first, puts on a grand fight with himself, while Miss Boland, sitting blindfolded, thinks he is beating up a large gang.

Director Alfred Santell has pointed up the dialogue in the scenes where the action lags and has made the lines secondary where the situations provide their own laughs. Herbert Fields has adapted from the Sophie Kerr stories, and F. Hugh Herbert introduces some old gags, but for the most part has done an excellent job.

The supporting cast, which includes Edward Brophy, as a wrestling promoter, and Stanley Andrews, as an irate husband, is convincing.

The picture is well suited to round out a bill with a more serious feature.

Production Code Seal No. 671. Running time, 73 minutes. "G."

"Mister Dynamite"

(Universal)

HOLLYWOOD, March 28.—Marked by sparkling dialogue and farcical situations, this good mystery comedy loaded with laughs and suspense does credit to Dashiell Hammett's original. Thoroughly entertaining all the way, it seems certain to click in most spots. Three murders and a suicide lift it out of the ordinary mystery category with the solution equally involved, however.

Edmund Lowe, who runs out of town regularly for shady activities with his companion, Jean Dixon, also slightly shady, annexes fat revenues for knowing lots and talking little. When Verna Hillie is suspected of murder, however, Lowe changes his tune and tries to solve a triple murder legitimately.

He finally finds himself in a tri-cornered romance with Miss Dixon, Miss Hillie and Esther Ralston, with the women doing most of the romancing, Lowe using them to solve the crimes. Miss Ralston finally is found guilty of murdering her husband, Victor Varconi, and the other victims.

Miss Hillie's heart is broken when Lowe gets shipped out of town again with Miss Dixon, which is all right with the latter duo.

Alan Crosland's direction is keyed well for suspense and laughs, with all performances good, as is George Robinson's photography.

Production Code Seal No. 692. Running time, 70 minutes. "G."

"Vagabond Lady"

(M-G-M)

HOLLYWOOD, March 28.—A brisk comedy romance, keynoted by sparkling fun, this runs the gamut of popular entertainment. Speed in witty situations and action together with surprise situations, give it a character usually appealing to family and select audiences.

Refreshingly taking liberal theatrical license, the yarn is built up on familiar but uniquely handled triangle premise. Reginald Denny, proud of his family traditions, entrusts the care of his secretary-sweetheart, Evelyn Venable, to his madcap, irresponsible brother, Robert Young, while he takes a business trip. The idea is that Young's wild antics will convince the girl that Denny is the only person possible for her marital consideration. Everything happens as expected. As he gradually falls in love, Young gives the girl a hectic time via a carnival night, boat ride route. The girl's amazement is heightened by the feeling that her janitor father, Frank Craven, is abetting Young's romantic ambitions. Rushing back to Denny for peace and safety, Young is hilariously hin-specials in the group of 40 features, exclusive of eight westerns. Next season's schedule will probably find the list of specials doubled with more money spent generally on the balance of the program.

Prior to the departure of Jack Cohn and Abe Montague for the coast Sunday, all home office executives held a special session to discuss the picture and star situation. From the results shown so far this season, the consensus was for a substantial increase in the "big" picture group and a need for additional stars.

It's understood that the star angle will be stressed in the new season's sales policy. Jack Cohn and Montague are due back from the coast early next week by plane. They are now conferring with Harry Cohn on the 1935-36 lineup and convention plans.

Color Pictures to Disburse $116,982

Color Pictures, Inc., which dissolved recently, has $116,982.86 available for distribution as a result of sale of 5,513 shares of Technicolor stock. This amounts to 52 cents per share on the shares outstanding at the time of the dissolution.

Stockholders have been instructed to surrender at the Bank of the Manhattan Co. the receipts which they received for their shares when dissolution occurred, so that checks can be mailed to them.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Vagabond Lady"

dered by his pal, Forrester Harvey, who arrives in time to talk brother Denny out of marrying the girl.

Under Sam Taylor's direction the laughs come fast, featuring the boy's father, Berton Churchill, and Frank Craven as well as Young, Miss Venable and Harvey. As usual, Young charms and pleases and Miss Venable is surprising. Denny does well with a hard-to-handle role. Ferdinand Gottschalk and Dan Crimmins are in for small character parts. Frank Butler's original screen play is a gem of wit and humor.

No code seal. Running time, 75 minutes. "G."

Looking 'Em Over

"Shot in the Dark"

(Chesterfield)

Three murders are committed in this one under far-fetched situations and audiences are apt to be more concerned with solving their own mystery of what is happening on the screen than they are with the picture itself. What little entertainment is present is overshadowed by excessive dialogue and a lot of dashing here and there by the principals.

Adapted from the College Humor serial, "The Dartmouth Murder Mysteries," the yarn has Charles Starrett assisting his father, Robert Warwick, in solving the murder of his college roommate. A fellow student is about to reveal some important evidence and falls dead, killed in the same manner as the first victim. Warwick and Starrett then dash back and forth between a college professor's home, a dormitory and the village inn and wind up at a deserted roadhouse. Here they solve the second crime and another man is murdered. The last death clears up all the crimes.

As fare for small towns and neighborhood houses this may be suitable.

Charles Lamont's direction starts out satisfactorily, but it appears he let things get away from him. M. A. Anderson's photography is good. Others in the cast include Edward Van Sloan, Marion Shilling, Doris Lloyd, Helen Jerome Eddy, James Bush, Julian Madison and Ralph Brooks.

Production Code Seal No. 602. Running time, 65 minutes. "G."

Re-Sign Hall, McCarey

HOLLYWOOD, March 28.—Al Hall and Leo McCarey, directors, have been given new tickets at Paramount. Hall is working on the new Mae West picture at present and McCarey is mentioned to direct "The Milky Way," though not definitely set as yet.

Majors Agree To Duals for K.C. Houses

that it wants to protect its first run here, the Newman. However, the committee was informed the company will release a limited number of pictures for twin bills.

According to Jay Means, I. T. O. president, legally and in accordance with Campi rulings duals cannot be prevented from playing on the spot designated for singles, but the exhibitors are willing for the balance of this year to set them back 28 days.

Recently Warners conceded its features might be dualled by subsequents when played with stage shows at the RKO Mainstreet and Tower, first runs, but not after they have been shown alone at a first run. Columbia and Universal, at first designating only certain pictures for dualling, later permitted the practice on all features with a 28-day delay in clearance. Other companies insist on single billing of all pictures that receive a first run, but otherwise they may be dualled at subsequents when available. Until this year the practice has been permitted on practically all product.

The I. T. O. committee, headed by C. H. Potter, and including Ed Hartman, Rube Finkelstein, J. F. Rigney and J. W. Cotter, is continuing its work in an effort to obtain agreement on all sides.

Milwaukee for Dual Ban, Price Boosts

MILWAUKEE, March 28.—A plan for a general increase of prices in Milwaukee and the elimination of premiums is being worked out by a committee of the I. T. P. A. of Wisconsin members, consisting of Charles Washicheck, chairman; B. K. Fischer, Ross Baldwin, E. Langemack and James Keefe.

The plan is contingent upon the downtown situation and it is hoped to secure the cooperation of Warners and Fox.

Canton on Duals 100%

CANTON, March 28.—All nine houses here are showing duals this week for the first time. Loew's went on a dual basis for the second time in five years. The Palace has been using the policy occasionally.

Talk Cleveland Ban Today

CLEVELAND, March 28.—At the request of local exhibitors a hearing will be held Friday morning on an injunction to stop duals at the University. Pending a meeting of the exhibitors' association in the afternoon other theatre men are holding in abeyance a threatened move to go dual.

Asther Hearing Monday

HOLLYWOOD, March 28.—The hearing scheduled for yesterday before the Academy Conciliations Committee on Nils Asther's Universal contract was postponed until next Monday. The studio held Asther in default on two picture deals while the actor was in Europe when he was wanted for work. It is understood it is now ready to compromise on one film.

Senate Bill In to Extend NRA 2 Years

Provides Monopoly Curb, But Is Only Tentative

By BERTRAM F. LINZ

WASHINGTON, March 29.—Extension of the Industrial Recovery Act for two years from June 16, so amended as to apply only to interstate industries and restricting the exemptions from the anti-trust laws, is provided for in a bill introduced in Congress today by Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi.

Harrison, who is chairman of the Finance Committee, emphasized that the measure is purely tentative and subject to amendment should this be found necessary as a result of the investigation of the operation of the law which his committee is now making.

Start of Coast Clearance Meets New Postponement

After three and a half hours of discussion on the Fox West Coast petition with its clearance and zoning committee, Code Authority yesterday unanimously ruled that the plan will not go into effect Sunday, as originally scheduled, and at the same time invited any and all coast exhibitors objecting to the schedule to be heard in New York at a future date.

The Los Angeles clearance and zoning board was notified by John C. Flinn to invite theatre owners affected by the plan to get together and agree on a date for the Campi hearing.

After the regular Code Authority session on Thursday, Charles L. O'Reilly, Paul Lazarus and Sidney Justin, the clearance and zoning group, met with William T. Fox Petitions For Rehearing On Tri-Ergon

Asserts Court Erred in Flywheel Ruling

By CLARENCE LINZ

WASHINGTON, March 29.—William Fox, in a last minute effort to establish the validity of one of his two litigated American Tri-Ergon patents, filed a petition here today for a rehearing by the U. S. Supreme Court of the Wilmer & Vincent and Altoona Publix case, involving the so-called flywheel patent.

Today was the final day on which Fox could make his application. No petition for a rehearing of the Paramount Publix case, involving the double print patent, was filed. Thus, Fox serves notice, by not contesting the Supreme Court ruling holding this patent to be invalid, that he has

Q—"What kind of an actor?"

A—"Probably the greatest actor in the world."

Upon returning to counsel's table, his lawyer asked why he had made such a jackass of himself by telling court and jury he was the greatest actor in the world.

"But, my dear fellow, I was under oath. I had to tell the truth," was the rejoinder.

JOE SEIDELMAN, also pen in hand, from Honolulu:

First Division List To Be Set Next Week

Conferences on production plans and sales of First Division Prod. start Monday when the board of directors will hold the first of a series of meetings which are expected to last a week. John A. Curtis, vice-president; George Jackson Hill, Jr., a partner, and Frank Look, secretary of the production unit, are in town for the session, and Nicholas M. Ludington, president, will arrive by plane Monday. Al Friedlander and William M. L. Fiske, representing the exchange division, are also in from Hollywood to attend. Henry Hobart,' in charge of production, may arrive next week.

No total of pictures has yet been definitely decided, Curtis stated yesterday. He said the company was negotiating with a number of producers and stars and would make an announcement of all details following the sessions. Curtis denied that the remaining two of four Hoot Gibson westerns are being turned over to another producer.

Fox Petitions For Rehearing On Tri-Ergon

abandoned thought of attempting to establish the patent as valuable.

In its application for a rehearing of the flywheel patent case, Tri-Ergon contends that the court erred in throwing out the disclaimer in the case and that the result of that action is to create confusion which makes it impossible for the lower courts to determine whether a disclaimer is valid or not when it adds a "new element," and that in deciding the flywheel claim invalid for want of invention, the court made statements not supported by, or in contradiction with, the record.

Cites Other Patent Cases

Discussing the rejection of the disclaimer, the petition cites a number of patent cases to support its contention that "the court recognized the validity of disclaimers in limitation of a claim to a species of a general class covered by the claim" which it holds is precisely the nature of the disclaimer in suit when properly applied. Even if the disclaimer added a new element, as held by the court, disclaimers in other patent litigation which were approved by the court also added new elements to those particular claims, it was declared.

"As a result," it was asserted, "it will be quite impossible for the lower courts to determine whether a disclaimer which adds 'a new element to a combination previously claimed' is valid or invalid," and "leaves the law in hopeless confusion and, consequently, there should be a reargument."

The petition emphasized the allegation that the court's opinion was contradictory to the record, particularly with the demand for the invention, which, it claims, existed as far back as 1913 when Edison attempted to use phonographs in theatres, and claimed that no system proved workable until the Tri-Ergon method was developed.

Question of Public Demand

"Certainly," the petition claimed, referring to other experimenters in sound, 'these people were not interesting themselves and spending their money for the fun of it. There was a great public demand ever since 1921, and yet this court states that there was no public demand until 1926 and that 'when the need arose for a mechanism suitable to move film records with such speed constancy as to produce sound successfully it was forthcoming.'

"It was forthcoming, but from these patentees—and as early as 1921—who were the first to give sound on film sound pictures to the world, and their work has now been appropriated by the great corporations of this country and with impunity under this court's treatment of what, we respectfully submit, was a pioneer invention."

While the court may announce its decision on the petition when it meets next Monday, it is considered unlikely that it will have an opportunity to study the matter before next week. In all probability a decision will be announced April 8.

Clark was in town yesterday and is due again on Tuesday.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Four Hours to Kill"

(Paramount)

HOLLYWOOD, March 29.—Constructed a la "Grand Hotel" with the major setting the theatre lounge and smoking room. While the show goes on and during intermissions, this melodrama intertwines for unique and vivid interest Richard Barthelmess, killer on his way to jail; Gertrude Michael, a trusting wife; Ray Milland, a faithless lover; Roscoe Karns, an expectant father; Joe Morrison, an usher studying law; Helen Mack, his sweetheart; Dorothy Tree, an usherette teamed with Noel Madison as a pair of blackmailers; Henry Travers, house manager; Charles Wilson, a detective, and varied personalities of the audience.

Skillful and agile, is this production. It is done with surgical precision emphasizing realistic, cynical qualities rather than romance and heart, which are present, however. The action builds toward a finely suspended, dramatic denouement.

Barthelmess' role, while rich and splendidly portrayed, strives for appeal. Karns nearly steals the show. Others in the cast contribute neat vignettes.

Arthur Hornblow, as usual, produced with dextrous expertness. Mitchell Leisen directed well from Norman Krasna's play, "Small Miracle," and screen play, getting all possible from the same. Music and the photography add to the good production values. Sold as a novel thrill melodrama it should register nicely.

own screens to stir propaganda against taxation inimical to the industry.

"Politicians," says the bulletin, "always regard movie theatres as a lucrative 'soft spot' from which to exact levies for every purpose. Newspapers and the radio broadcasting business escape entirely, because the political bigwigs fear their influence with public opinion, but exhibitors, on the other hand, either overlook or fear to take advantage of their powerful weapon with which to overcome an unfair legislative attack on their incomes.

"If politicians believe that theatre men have a just complaint against a proposed tax and that they will present that complaint to the public, you may rest assured that the bill will die in committee or be defeated by vote."

Allied Owners Vote Fixed for April 19

Creditors of Allied Owners Corp. will vote April 19 on confirmation of the company's plan of reorganization which provides for theatre purchase agreements with Loew's and Paramount, it was decided yesterday at a hearing before Federal Judge Robert Inch in Brooklyn.

Although a preponderance of the company's creditors represented at yesterday's hearing indicated sufficient strength for ultimate confirmation of the plan, the adjournment was taken to comply with agreements which permit dissenting creditors to withdraw from committees which favor the plan. Inasmuch as the plan received the tentative approval of the court only a week ago, it was felt that insufficient time had been afforded to dissenting out-of-town creditors for withdrawal. It is expected that a few creditors may withdraw, but not a sufficient number to affect confirmation of the plan on April 19.

$75,000; Eastman Kodak, $4,740, and minor claims totaling $1,113. Applications also were made and taken under advisement for the reduction of several other small claims, including the reduction of a Fox Film claim for $195.75 to $189, and one of Paramount Prod. against Paramount Publix for $25,000 on which a reduction to $1,500 is asked.

Also taken under advisement was a proposal for allowance of a $25,142 claim filed by Cravath, de Gersdorff, Swaine & Wood, law firm, for services rendered Paramount early in 1933 "in anticipation of bankruptcy."

A scheduled hearing yesterday of a proposal for discontinuance of a contract under which Skouras operates Atlantic States Circuit for Paramount and several St. Louis houses, and one covering a $90,000 payment to Paramount by Skouras during a six-year period, were postponed to April 8.

Para. Scouts After Acts, Specialists

Novelty acts and specialty performers are being sought by Paramount for three new picture. Ben Piazza, talent scout for the company, is in town with Benjamin Glazer, producer, on a two-week search for talent. into operation. He stressed the fact that there was no immediate necessity for putting the schedule into effect Sunday, since F.W.C. has been co-operating with other exhibitors for the past year and a half waiving protection when the emergency arose.

Alperson offered to devote all of his time for the next three weeks to co-operating with the clearance and zoning committee on the schedule and pointed out that before Campi puts into operation a plan that will be the pattern for the rest of the country it must be workable, fair and equitable to all parties concerned. He also asked that no favoritism be shown.

It is understood F.W.C.'s petition protested 13 clearance situations and that there are about 40 complaints from independent exhibitors which have not yet been heard.

In holding up the schedule, Campi feels that it wants to satisfy all concerned as far as possible, so that there will be no boomerangs later. It is said that the report of the Los Angeles board was insufficient to guide the clearance body and that every exhibitor in the territory should have been given a chance to have his say.

Court Move to Stop "Fury" Cuts Looms threatens to seek an injunction if eliminations are ordered.

According to reports, the New York censors regard some of the scenes as inflammatory.

"The board, I presume," says the judge, who is the author of the story, "is particularly concerned about my treatment on the screen of the story of the murder of John Barcosky, a coal miner, sadistically done to death by coal and iron police. This is fact, not fiction, and I cannot understand upon what basis the New York censors can cut this from the story."

Judge Musmano wired the New York board asking its attitude on the story.

When asked about the matter, Irwin Esmond, director of the board, yesterday said that no action had been taken on the picture.

"It was submitted and then withdrawn," he said. "It has just been returned and will be viewed as soon as possible."

Judge Delays Action On Cleveland Duals

the decisions upheld the validity of signatures to the general agreement. In the present case the court questions whether it has the right to grant a stay.

Attorneys for the University said today they intend to attack the validity of the agreement for the first time. Previous cases have covered only the validity of signatures. The new tack makes the University the complainant rather than the defendant.

Throttle Pushing

By H. E. N.

ATLANTA, GA.

We have often heard, during many years of throttle pushing to the tune of some 350,000 miles, that shop-worn expression: No exhibitor can make a profit by showing one company's product exclusively. William T. Murray, owner of the Rialto which seats 1,000 and is a downtown first-run here, knocks this theory sky high and is doing so well with an exclusive feature policy that he is not afraid to tell the world about it. He neither uses money, gifts, premiums nor double features, but operates and sells with intelligent exploitation campaigns the features that merit them. In addition to the feature, his program consists of a two-reel comedy, "Screen Snapshots," news and cartoon. This set-up was inaugurated in August of 1934 and has continued without interruption ever since. Bill has consistently sold his feature trademark to the public of Atlanta. Oh yeah! we almost forgot to tell you the name of the distributor, Columbia. Murray states "Broadway Bill" ran five weeks; "Night of Love," three; "It Happened One Night," three with a repeat of one. The above set-up has no tricks tied to it and is a flat rental proposition, and Murray takes them all.

"Prints in the Theatre and Money in the Bank" was the slogan inaugurated last June by the Arthur Bromberg sales force, distributors of Monogram for Charlotte, Atlanta, Tampa and New Orleans territories. In appreciation of the good work done by his sales staff, Bromberg is giving his boys two weeks' salary, a trip to the coast, a $10-a-day incidental account, and all expenses paid. A side trip to the Grand Canyon, a boat trip from Los Angeles to San Francisco and a detour to Tia Juana are included. The following sales specialists will make the trip with Bromberg: Charlotte, H. H. Everett, Cy Dillon, Jack London; Atlanta, John Mangham, P. H. Savin, Henry Glover; Tampa, Carl Floyd; New Orleans, Leo Seicshnaydre, Ed. Ortte and H. Y. Harrell. Bromberg, who has just returned from a trip through Florida, states that the outlook for business in that state is bad for the coming summer.

KEY WEST, FLA.

The F. E. R. A. has cleaned up this city and beaches and is now operating the palatial Flagler Hotel. The influx of tourists this winter, under a publicity campaign by the government, has drawn numerous visitors. Senors Juan Carbonell of the Monroe and Bezanilla of the Palace have done very well indeed. Carbonell has opened a swanky night club in the downtown section with atmospheric "Carmens" and husky turtle harpooners in attendance.

EUSTIS, FLA.

Herbert Wales, who has been operating the Eustis for the past five years, has lost his lease. This popular showman plans to go elsewhere.

MORE FROM ATLANTA

Oscar Oldknow, general manager of National Theatre Supply, will let contracts in two weeks for a 1,400-seat suburban house at North Ave. and Techwood Drive. This theatre will be in the center of the new government housing project which is building 3,000 unit apartments here. Triple A construction with balcony, costing $100,000, is planned. The theatre will be known as the Techwood and will open some time this September. Oldknow will leave soon for the coast and will spend the summer at Malibu.

"A Film Clearing House," in which the family of John Ezell and Uncle Claude spring into the limelight with an innovation on forwarding of film that could be well adopted in the Rocky Mountain section and the Northwest. Clinton, Marcia Clyde and John, Jr., have been operating for the past two years, a "Film Forwarding Depot" that is annually saving the exhibitors of this territory thousands of dollars in transportation costs. Daily, this organization picks up all film collected at its depot and ships it via American Railway and Southeastern in lot shipments to all points, thereby cutting express rates 50 per cent. In cities where there are more than one account, shipment is made to one theatre and the lot is then broken up. On the return shipment of film, a saving of 25 per cent of the original forwarding charges is made by theatre. Some 200 accounts are being handled daily by this organization which has never had a missout.

"Dusty" Rhodes, booker for the Roy Martin circuit, tells us about the new theatre this circuit will open some time in May at Sylacauga, Ala. This house will be known as the Ritz and seat 1,000. The Martin circuit now comprises 25 houses.

Love B. Harrell, a well-known figure and attorney in southeastern film circles, has gone back to his first love, the ministry. Rev. Harrell is now associate pastor of the Wesley Memorial Church, this city. Mrs. Harrell is operating a tea-room in conjunction with the church, where well-known figures of the industry may be seen every noon dining. Mrs. Wellingham Wood and Mrs. Violet Edwards, Georgia exhibitors, entertained friends here the other day.

Pickets at Mayfair

Sign Writers' Local No. 230 yesterday began picketing the Mayfair and Astor following a recent switch to non-union sign shops said to have been made by the two houses.

Metropolitan circuit houses recently extended their agreement with the union shops to Oct. 1.

Stephen Albu Passes

DETROIT, March 29.—Stephen Albu, veteran exhibitor, died unexpectedly after an operation for stomach trouble. He had been operator of the Priscilla for the last four years.

Senate Bill In to Extend NRA 2 Years

It was introduced, he indicated, to quell the threatened flight from the codes which has been reported.

The bill provides that all existing codes shall be extended 90 days within which period they are to be thoroughly surveyed to determine what changes must be made to have them conform to the anti-monopoly and other provisions of the new law.

While the legislation provides that only interstate industries shall be codified, observers in Washington believe that exhibitors will continue under the film code as a result of an interpretation in the bill applying codes to industries which "substantially affect" interstate commerce.

Codes under the proposed law must not promote or sanction the creation or maintenance of monopoly, or of practices destructive of fair competition, eliminate or oppress small industries, or discriminate against them, nor promote or sanction devices for fixing prices or controlling production or distribution which are restrictive of fair competition.

Violations of code provisions would be punishable only by fine.

Charles Skouras on Coast to End Drive also confer with Reeves Espy, who leaves F.W.C. tomorrow to join Samuel Goldwyn.

Skouras did not plan to return until the 10-year operating pact with National Theatres had been signed in the east. It's still hanging fire, but Leo Spitz, personal attorney for the Skourases, is handling the washup of the confabs for F.W.C. operating heads. The contract, retroactive to Jan. 1, 1935, will expire Jan. 1, 1945. It calls for a flat salary to both Skouras brothers with a graduating percentage of the profits.

Spyros, vice-president of National and president of Fox West Coast Theatre Corp., is due next week via the air lane. S. R. Kent flew in Thursday and Edward Zabel, Charles' secretary, left New York Wednesday by train, stopping over at Milwaukee to see his parents for a few days before continuing west.

On April 1, F.W.C. will start another 13-week drive.

Conferences on the Skouras Brothers 10-year contract with National Theatres for operation of Fox West Coast and other National subsidiaries are not expected to finish up for another three weeks. Signatures in all probability, will not be affixed until the end of April or the beginning of May. Principal details are set, but variation in the language of some of the clauses is holding up the signatures.
